PARDON FOR "VALJEAN" OF KANSAS CITY AFTER THREE MONTHS IN CELL

Attorney General Recommends Commuting of January's Sentence.

President Approves and Freedom Will Come July 19 Next.

Had Lived for Nine Years in Missouri and Done Well.

Washington, May 8.—Attorney General Bonaparte today recommended that the sentence of John William January, alias Charles W. Anderson, the Kansas City "Jean Valjean," be fixed at three months from the date of his rearrest and that he be pardoned at the end of that time—July 19, 1907. The president has approved the attorney general's recommendation.

Kansas City, Mo., May 8.—William January, alias Charles W. Anderson, whose application for pardon has been approved by Attorney General Bonaparte, was convicted in 1895 of robbery at Stillwater, Okla. He was sentenced to five years in the federal penitentiary at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., from which he escaped after serving three years. He came to Kansas City nine years ago, changed his name to Anderson, and married. He engaged in several kinds of business and was well respected. Anderson was rearrested in Kansas City April 20 last, through information furnished by a former convict, who had known him in prison.

RIVALRY IN LOVE ENDS IN MURDER

Missourian Kills Friend in Quarrel Over Young Woman.

Independence, Mo., May 8.—Clyde St. Clair, aged 22, son of George St. Clair, a prominent citizen, was shot and killed on the public square early today by Van Tappan, aged 23 years, his intimate friend. The two young men had attended a party together at the home of a young woman with whom both were in love, and were returning home when they quarreled over her, which resulted in the tragedy. Tappan went to the police station and voluntarily surrendered. He said he shot St. Clair in self defense, when the latter threatened him with a revolver.

CHINESE SEND THEIR THANKS

America's Famine Relief Wins Gratitude of High Officials.

Washington, May 8.—In a dispatch received today by the state department, Consul Gen. James L. Rodgers, at Shanghai, China, who has been acting as special representative of the American National Red Cross in the famine relief work, states:

"His excellency, Tuan Fang, viceroy of the Liang Kiang provinces, requests me to offer his sincere thanks to the American people and the government for the magnificent gifts sent to relieve the suffering Chinese of the Kingpoh famine district. In addition to this telegraphic request of the viceroy, I have received similar expressions from all the ranking Chinese officials of this section of China."

HAYWOOD LOSES DEFENSE MOVE

Judge Wood Denies Motion for Bill of Particulars.

Boise, Idaho, May 8.—The motion for a bill of particulars, filed by the defense in the case of William D. Haywood, secretary and treasurer of the Western Federation of Miners, charged with the murder of Former Governor Steunenberg, was denied this morning by Judge Fremont Wood.

This, it is generally believed here, will result in the case—the first of the famous ones against the miners' leaders—going to trial tomorrow.

TRIAL OFF UNTIL FALL

Mrs. Annie M. Bradley Secures Continuance for Cause.

Defense of Slayer of Ex-Senator Brown to be Insanity.

Washington, May 8.—At the request of Attorney Hoover, representing Mrs. Annie M. Bradley, who is under indictment for the murder of Former United States Senator Arthur Brown of Utah, the trial of Mrs. Bradley's case was today postponed by Judge Stafford until Oct. 7.

The request for postponement was based on the illness of Judge O. W. Powers of Salt Lake, upon whom, as one of Mrs. Bradley's counsel, has devolved the duty of securing evidence in Utah in her behalf.

During the brief presentation of the case to the court today, Mr. Hoover of the counsel for that defense made the definite statement that Mrs. Bradley's defense would be that of insanity. It was announced that about twenty-five witnesses in the West will be asked to testify in the case, but that of these only about five will be brought to Washington.

DENMARK NOT ANTI-ENGLISH

Foreign Minister Denies Positively Recent German Reports.

London, May 8.—Count Raben-Levetzau, foreign minister of Denmark, who is now in London, has had several interviews with Sir Charles Hardinge, prime undersecretary of the foreign office. He will also confer with Foreign Secretary Grey, and the latter will have an audience with King Edward. In an interview today he said he was taking advantage of a pleasure trip to see some of the British officials, and assure them that there was no foundation for the recent report that Denmark had entered into an agreement with Germany to close the Baltic in case of war. He even went further and said Denmark would not make any agreement in any way unfriendly to Great Britain. The count is making arrangements for the king and queen of Denmark to visit England, June 8.

MUSICAL CLUB WOMEN IN NATIONAL CONVENTION.

Memphis, Tenn., May 8.—The biennial convention of the National Federation of Musical Clubs of Women met here today with seventy-five delegates from all sections of the country. Mrs. J. E. HUNDRED PEOPLE PERISH IN WRECK OF STEAMSHIP ON THE COAST OF URUGUAY

Poitou of French Line Hopelessly Grounds at Bad Spot.

Panic Follows Among Passengers and Many Leap Into Sea.

No Chance for Saving Vessel or Any Part of Cargo.

Buenos Ayres, May 8.—A dispatch from Montevideo, published here today, announced that the French transport Maritimes steamer Poitou, from Marseilles April 6 for this port, had been wrecked off the coast of Uruguary. One hundred of her passengers and crew are said to have perished.

Montevideo, May 8.—The French steamer Poitou from Algiers is ashore off Son Jose Ingacio. It is feared that there has been serious loss of life. It it understood there were 300 passengers on board the vessel and that her cargo will prove a total loss. No further particulars are obtainable at present.

San Jose Ignacio, or Punta Piedras Point, is a rocky promontaory, two-thirds of a mile in extent, and surrounded by reefs. It is situated twenty-one miles west of Cape Maria, on the southeastern coast of Uruguay, and about 150 miles from Montevideo.

The Poitou struck thirty yards from the shore, at a spot called Rincon de Herrero. Panic broke out on board the vessel when she grounded and a great number of terror-stricken people jumped overboard. Some of them swam ashore, but many were drowned. Customs officers at Rincon de Herrero saved fifty out of the 300 passengers who are said to have been on board. How many others have been saved is not known.

Several steamers have left here to the scene of the wreck, and the government is doing everything possible to succor the shipwrecked people.

New York Italian Butchers His Wife and Her Mother.

Three Barber's Razors Used to Perpetrate Terrible Crime.

New York, May 8.—Mrs. Marie Vito and her mother, Mrs. Carle Brignoli, were literally slashed to pieces with razors in their East side home early today, and Giovanni Vito, husband of the younger woman, is under arrest charged with the crime. It is alleged that he killed the women after a quarrel which followed their refusal to give him money.

Vito denies that he is guilty, and stoutly maintains that his wife and mother-in-law were killed by two men who broke into the house, and with whom he himself had a fierce struggle in defense of his life. In support of his story he showed the police a cut on one of his hands, which, he declares, was inflicted by one of the murders. His story is substantiated by his 3-year-old son.

BONAPARTE'S IRE STIRRED

Attorney General Denounces Story as "Bold Falsehood."

Declares Work of Department Increasing and Well Kept Up.

Washington, May 8.—Attorney General Bonaparte today gave out a statement referring to the publication in a number of newspapers this morning to the effect that he might retire from office by reason of ill health. It was also published in substance that the department was at a low state of efficiency in consequence of the attorney general's inattention to public business. Mr. Bonaparte's statement is as follows:

"In so far as the publications in question reflect on me personally, I do not care to say anything at all about them; but they reflect by implication upon my subordinates as well, since they allege in substance that the work of the entire department is languid and ineffective, and it is my duty, as its head, to pronounce this statement a bald falsehood, originating either in malice or else in willful ignorance of the facts.

"The work of the department increases every day, and I do not believe it has ever received more zealous and faithful attention than it receives now from the officers and employes of the department, with the exception, of course, of the attorney general himself. I do not, indeed, consider it any part of the department's duty to furnish a liberal daily supply of headlines for newspapers, and the department is not administered with that laudable end in view; but for this opinion and its practical application no one is responsible or should be blamed but my unworthy self."

Trans-Atlantic Steamers Not Able to Get in Full Cargoes.

New York, May 8.—Conditions on the water front brought about by the strike of the longshoremen were more serious today than ever. The strikers number fully 10,000, and both sides are apparently strong in their determination to stand firm. Thus far only two companies, the Mallory line and the Southern Pacific, have made terms with the men, and work has been resumed at the freight piers of these companies.

In other quarters a few hundred strike-breakers have been engaged, but even with the assistance of the crews of various ships, these men have made but small inroads in the mountains of freight that are accumulating at all the important shipping points.

The big trans-Atlantic companies are sending out their ships nearly on

IMPEACHING HIGH OFFICERS

New President of Chinese Ministry Attacks Foes.

Pekin, May 8.—Tsen Chun-Suan, the new president of the ministry of communications, one of the most prominent reactionaries, and at present a power behind the throne, is using his influence to turn out recent appointees and install his own friends.

Prince Ching, president of the foreign board, has been impeached on the charge of accepting bribes from Tuan Chih Kwei, the recently appointed temporary governor of Hai Lung Kiang, who was simultaneously dismissed.

Tsai Chen, president of the ministry of commerce; Yuan Shi Kai, viceroy of Chi-Li and commander of the Chinese forces, and Tang Sha Oyi, the new governor of Mukden, have also been impeached on various charges.

AMERICA NOT AIMED AT IN NEW JAPANESE DEALS.

Paris, May 8.—M. Kurino, the Japanese minister, in an interview today, is quoted as making the important statement that the series of treaties between Great Britain, France, Russia and Japan, guaranteeing the territorial status quo in the Far East, implied an engagement to prevent other countries from acquiring territory there. He denied that the Franco-Japanese entente was in any way aimed at the United States, adding: "Japan, in spite of the San Francisco incident, has always been most sympathetic to the United States, because she was the first to treat the Japanese people on a footing of equality. If Japan could obtain advantages from an understanding with the United States, it is entirely probable that the government at Tokio would not hesitate to negotiate with Washington."

Attempt to Run Cars Results in Hot Street Battle.

San Francisco, May 8.—With one man dead, six in the hospitals with wounds that may be mortal and nineteen others badly injured—all as the result of a riot following the first attempt to run street cars after the declaration of the strike Sunday night—both sides, as well as the police, were bitterly prepared for even more serious trouble today.

"If he (Calhoun) keeps up his present methods he will get his fill before the strike is over," said Cornelius, the representative of the car men.

"My company will spare no effort to resume lawfully the operation of its cars, but will fearlessly defend its rights," said President Calhoun of the street railway company.

The chief of police threatens to arm his men with rifles today and shoot down strikebreakers on the company's cars, while the railroad officials announce that their men will protect themselves if attacked with bricks and missiles.

TRAIN ROBBERS NOT YET CAUGHT

One Man Arrested on Suspicion—Dead Engineer's Coolness.

Butte, Mont., May 8.—Inquiry at the Great Northern offices last night elicited denial of the report from Helena of the capture of the train robbers at Basin, north of here.

William Powers, aged 34, who says he came here last week from Sand Point, Idaho, was arrested near Woodville by a sheriff's posse yesterday afternoon, suspected of being one of the men who held up the North Coast Limited. He denied all knowledge of the murder and hold-up, but was sent to Butte by the sheriff.

Engineer Clow's last heroic act in turning on the airbrakes probably saved hundreds of lives. The grade at Welch's is on the top of the divide, is very steep and the curve incessant. Had both men in the cab fallen before the brakes were put on, the express train undoubtedly would have added a rate of speed sufficient to jump the track and plunge into the canyon.

Wife of Cleveland City Employe Receives Bullet on Street.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 8.—Mrs. Concetta Mondella, 36 years old, wife of a city employe, was leaving her home on Cherry street to visit neighbors with her child in her arms when a man stole up behind her and shot her through the head. The husband declares he knows of no possible motive for the act.

NURSES GO ON STRIKE; SOCIETY WOMEN IN CAPS.

Zanesville, Ohio, May 8.—Owing to a clash of authority between the matron, Mrs. Mary Jamison and Dr. J. G. Helston at the City hospital and the consequent resignation of the matron, the entire force of nurses went on strike today. Eight society women of the city, who constitute the board of lady managers, donned the caps of the nurses and went to work waiting upon the sick.

DEADLOCK IN BUILDERS STRIKE STILL UNBROKEN

The members of the five unions involved in the building strike have not yet been able to come to any sort of an agreement, and the deadlock remains unbroken. Both sides are holding out today and each is as determined as ever not give in to the other.

Another meeting has been called for this afternoon at the rooms of the Builders' exchange, and representatives of the unions and of the contractors will hold another conference in the hopes of coming to some kind of an agreement. Bishop McGolrick will be present at the meeting to use his influence to bring about an understanding between the two factions.

Yesterday four meetings were held and conferences between the union representatives and the contractors at each one failed completely to bring about a settlement. One meeting was held at the Real Estate exchange, another with the Bricklayers' union, still another with the builders' laborers, and the fourth was a joint meeting of the contractors and a large number of hardwaremen, lumbermen, and others directly concerned in the strike.

The general sentiment seemed to be that the only way in which the strike can be settled is by arbitration.

Members of the unions still maintain that they have not yet refused to arbitrate the matter, but are holding off. It a settlement can not be reached in any other way they will probably agree to leave the dispute to an arbitration board. At present it is the claim of the unions that they have nothing whatever to arbitrate as yet. They claim that no proposition has been made to them by the contractors. At the beginning of the strike the unions presented their demands, but so far no proposition has been made to them.

At the meeting being held this afternoon there are five representatives of the union and a like number to represent the contractors. The matter will all be thrashed over again, but it is hardly expected that a settlement will be reached.

Secretary Cobb of the Builders' exchange had nothing to say regarding the strike situation this afternoon. He did not seem very optimistic over the conference being held today and did not expect that the trouble would be adjusted

THINKS CHANGE BADLY NEEDED

Real Estate Man Says Improvement Methods Are Wrong.

"Duluth needs a change in the methods of handling public improvements," says a prominent local real estate dealer, and he has sent to The Herald a statement of his reasons for thinking that the city is at present hampered by the methods of applying for and assessing for public improvements within the city. It is as follows:

"The cost of grading and paving intersections of the streets and avenues should be paid out of the general fund. Give everyone a chance to pay part, and the street car company should pay for grading and paving the strip of street occupied with their tracks and one foot on each side thereof.

"The amount chargeable to any lots for public improvements should be limited to 25 per cent of the assessed value as listed for general taxation in any five-year period. Hundreds of wage earners have had their lots confiscated by excessive public improvements being charged to them. The state of Ohio has this limit on its public improvements and has 65+ building and loan associations with assets of over $121,000,000, while Minnesota, without any limit protecting its wage earners' properties, has only about $4,000,000 of assets. In the cities of over 10,000 in Minnesota there are eighty-one dead associations and sixteen live ones.

"The system bears too hard on the wage earner and favors the rich owner of business property, who is usually a non-resident. Under this system the business lots are favored and they are valuable assets, while the wage earners' lots are a liability and the constant threat of confiscation hangs over them. In Ohio the associations do not hesitate to loan 66 per cent of the valuation of the property, while in Duluth we have found that it is conservative to loan only about 40 per cent of the valuation. The ten associations that loaned over 60 per cent in Duluth are dead."

TWO WRECKS; NONE INJURED

Winnipeg Limited on Great Northern Has Bad Experience.

St. Paul, May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Winnipeg limited on the Great Northern railroad, due to arrive in St. Paul at 7:30 o'clock this morning, was wrecked near Robinsdale, seventeen miles out from Minneapolis, the engine, tender, three baggage cars and smoker being derailed. Spreading rails are believed to have caused the accident.

None of the passengers or train crew were injured. Traffic was delayed for several hours before the tracks could be repaired, and passengers en route to St. Paul and Minneapolis were compelled to finish their journey by street car.

According to W. H. Bonnell of Duluth, a passenger on the train, the wreck at Robinsdale was the second that delayed the Winnipeg limited within a few minutes. He says that about a mile west of Robinsdale the locomotive left the rails. The train had not got under full headway after this accident when the second one occurred.

JUDGE RULES FOR MARGINS

Chicago Stock Brokers Win Decision as to Closing of Deals.

Chicago, May 8.—Judge Dupuy of the superior court today upheld the custom of brokers on the board of trade and the stock exchange in closing out trades when additional margins are demanded and refused.

The decision was given in a suit brought by Waldo P. Johnson, to recover stocks from the firm of Milmine, Bodman & Co., which had been held by the firm. Restitution was claimed, on the ground that the defendant was entirely in the right in closing up transactions when the customer refused to respond to the call for margins.

DEMOCRATS WIN EASILY IN BALTIMORE ELECTION.

Baltimore, May 8.—The Democrats swept the city in yesterday's municipal election. The plurality of J. Barry Mahool, Democrat, for mayor, over Timanus, Republican, is 4,940. The Democratic candidates for comptroller and president of the second branch of the city council were elected by good pluralities. The new city council will stand as follows: First branch, Democrats, 17. Republicans, 7; a Republican gain of 1. Second branch, with old members, Democrats, 7; Republicans, 2, a Democratic gain of 1.

ENGLISH BEAUTY IDEAS.

Lady Pole-Carew Said to be Handsomest English Woman.

The most beautiful woman in all England is Lady Beatrice Pole-Carew, says a London letter. This distinction is awarded as the result of a vote taken by a London newspaper, and it seems to be an honest vote, for in the poll all classes of Englishmen cast ballots—the beggar as well as the aristocrat.

The five other English women who followed Lady Pole-Carew, in the order of their popularity, are Lady Helen Vincent, Princess Henry of Pless, the duchess of Sutherland, Julia Neilson and Evelyn Millard. The two last named are on the stage.

Lady Pole-Carew is the wife of Maj. Gen. Pole-Carew, one of the heroes of the Boer war. She is the daughter of the marquis of Ormonde, and her wedding in 1901 was a most elaborate one.

Lady Beatrice was declared by King Edward to be one of the most beautiful women he had ever met. She has a wonderful complexion, and this she says came from the Irish winds which fanned her cheeks as a child. Lady Helen Vincent is the wife of Sir Edgar Vincent, a prominent figure in English politics. She is a daughter of the first earl of Feversham.

Lady Beatrice is the daughter of the marquis of Ormonde, twenty-first earl in his line and also twenty-seventh hereditary Chief Butler of Ireland. Aside from his titles, Lady Beatrice's father's name is James Edward William Theobald Butler. Beatrice Frances Elizabeth Butler was married in 1901 to Gen. Reginald Pole-Carew, nicknamed "Polly Carey" by his brother officers in the Indian and South African services.

Gen. "Polly Carey" was over 50 and in command of the Coldstream Guards when he wedded the daughter of the marquis of Ormonde. He was considered one of the dandy officers in London society; his wife was the most beautiful girl in society. It was distinctly a match.

The place winner in the great beauty contest, Lady Helen Vincent, is the wife of Sir Edgar Vincent, K. C. M. G. She is the daughter of Lord Duncombe, first earl of Feversham. Like Lady Beatrice Pole-Carew, she has always been high in London's social circles.

Princess Henry of Pless, wife of Prince John Henry XV, of Pless, also Graf von Hochberger and Freiherr Zu Furstenstein, is a daughter of Mrs. Cornwallis-West. Her mother was a reigning beauty in the drawing rooms in the early '80s, and still retains much of her charms. A sister of the princess, Miss Sheila Cornwallis-West, became the bride of the duke of Westminster a few years ago. Her brother married the widow of Lord Randolph Churchill who was Miss Jennie Jerome of New York.

Princess Henry of Pless is fair-haired, violet-eyed and quite tall. She is a sister of the duchess of Westminster and a daughter of Mrs. Cornwallis-West, one of the famous Irish beauties of a quarter of a century ago. Her grandmother, Lady Olivia Fitzpatrick, was equally famous for her good looks in the early days of the Victoria reign.

The duchess of Sutherland is extremely wealthy as well as pretty. Several years ago she had an ambition to become a dramatist, but her play, "The Conqueror," was not a success.

At the time when gossip had it that Emperor William intended to appoint the prince of Pless ambassador at Washington there was much talk among the legation people there of the revolution the princess of Pless would make in Washington society. She was known to be smartest of the smart in London, Berlin and Wiesbaden. It was whispered over legation tea tables that the princess of Pless would give to Washington society the much-needed tone of European courts. But she did not go to Washington.

The duchess of Sutherland, the fourth noblewoman to win in the beauty contest, is famed as much for her wisdom as her good looks. She was Lady Millicent St. Clair Erskine when the duke of Sutherland took her from the schoolroom and married her on her seventeenth birthday.

Lady Millicent has never been an entertainer, though Stafford House, her husband's London home, is such a house that Queen Victoria is said to have remarked once when she visited it: "I have come from my house (Buckingham) to your palace." Travel and sport occupy most of Lady Millicent's time.

Julia Neilson, one of the actresses to receive the honor of election at the hands of the London critics of beauty, is Mrs. Fred Terry in private life, having married in 1891. Her first appearance on the stage was in a company of amateurs playing the "Yellow Dwarf," under the management of Lady Bancroft. Miss Neilson's success was immediate, and for the last fifteen years she has been playing leading parts in many of the new London productions. In 1895 she played Mrs. Bob-smith with Hare in New York. Paul Kester's version of "Sweet Nell of Old Drury," produced at the Haymarket, London, in 1900, gave her one of her best opportunities.

Evelyn Millard, the wife of Robert Porter Coulter, a London merchant, made her first professional appearance on the stage in 1891. Her first years were confined to vaudeville. In 1894 she appeared at the Comedy theater with Cyril Maude and Winifred Emery in "Sowing the Wind," later played Princess Flavia in "The Prisoner of Zenda," and made her first great success in "The Adventures of Lady Ursula." Glory Quayle she created when Caine's "The Christian" was produced in 1899. Her most notable achievement was in the part of Cho-Cho-San, which she created in the first London production of "Mme. Butterfly." She temporarily withdrew from the stage after her marriage, but returned two years later and has been playing steadily since.

There is no immediate likelihood that there will be an international beauty contest between Great Britain and the United States, much as the international sports competitions may grow in favor. Probably the chief deterent in such a scheme would be the wholly differing types of beauty and the clash of standards for gauging blue ribbon material.

The English favor the lean and stately, the willowy and frail. A beauty of Albion must be a tender thing. Her face must be purely classic, her eyes must have a Burne-Jones detached look, a haunting tenderness. There must not be too much of the earthly in the English Rosamond's face; rather should the spirit look shyly out of cold eyes and draw to a Juno-like firmness the over-red lips.

Piquancy and dash, which have been said by foreign ciritics to constitute the reigning charm of American beauties, are not favored by English-men off the stage. The faces of most of the prize winners in the contest show calm severity, at least detachment from anything approaching rollicking or the unbred. An English beauty may be a lily, but never a sunflower.

LIGHT WHITE HOUSE DAY.

The President and Loeb Dispose of a Number of Important Questions.

New York Sun: Having run five miles, walked seventeen, ridden twenty-three, put up the 100-pound dumbbells 101 times, knocked the stuffing out of the punching bag, had thirteen bouts with Prof. Stub Clumps, the middle-weight champion; taken four ice-cold baths, and eaten half a Smithfield ham, two dozen of eggs, and a gallon of milk for breakfast, during which he discoursed on the "duty to be decent," the president was in high good humor and form; and when he came into the office Loeb saw a busy day before him. Work began at once.

"Mr. President," said the secretary, "the Woman's Christian Temperance Union appeals to you for help to restrain the growing tendency of youth to irreverence and cigarettes; also for legislation to prohibit the collection of cigar bands by children under twenty-one; also to abolish alcohol, by executive proclomation or otherwise."

"Fill in the blank message, Loeb, protection to youth and citizenship, form 13."

"Mr. President, the amalgamated entertainment committee want you to tell congress to forbid the use of firearms by the militia and of billies by the police in the case of labor debates; also for the disfranchisement of scabs."

"Use dignity of labor blank; add hot and heavy on enforcement of law; avoidance of violence and tights and duties of the decent employer and employed."

"Anthracite coal is $7 a ton in New York, Mr. President."

"Instruct the secretary of war to seize the mines at once."

"Owners of mines request you to leave them in possession of their property, temporarily at least."

"Order them to come to the White House at 11 sharp Sunday. They need a talking to, Loeb, they need a talking to."

"The Ministers' association of Toad Hill, Mass., reports marked decline in attendance at Friday evening prayer meetings. Will you do something to increase it?"

"Tell the governor of Massachusetts to order the young ladies of Toad Hill to go to the prayer meetings. Also have the sharpshooters' classes in the schools transferred from the evening to the afternoon."

"The Woman's Congress appeals to you to put an end to polygamy in Mohammedan countries."

"Write them that monogamy is the foundation of the home, and that I shall at once send an ultimatum to all the pluralist sultans on the list, except those in our colonial possessions. We must be tender with existing ties, Loeb. Dilate on that, and differentiate insular from colonial polygamy."

"The Bryan and Anti-Injunction Club of the Ozark Mountains views with alarm the increasing tendency of the supreme court of the United States—"

"Write them that there is only one supreme court, and that it sits right in the White House. Increasing tendency! Is there a Democratic gibe there, Loeb? Am I getting fat again?"

"Oh, no sir. The American Eudcational association asks your aid for the development of educational facilities."

"Send them my complete works."

"The Toulumne and Seattle railroad directors respectfully remonstrate against your action in reducing their rates to half a cent a mile."

"Stop their infernal trains altogether until these people come to their senses. Telegraph. Or, stay. We must be just, Loeb. Justice and not passion is the thing—justice to all interests. Write them that until further orders they are to pay at the rate of a cent a mile for all freight and passengers carried by them. We must conserve the great conservative interests, while never losing sight of the demands of the people."

"The College and Preparatory School Athletic association asks if you will favor compulsory baseball in all public and private schools."

"If I favor it? Loeb, am I so misfudged? Am I a mollycoddle? Five hours required athletics in every school, Loeb. The physique of a nation is the indispensable basis of its morale, the source of its strength in war and prosperity in peace."

"The Alton B. Parker Constitution Preservation respectfully submits that respect for the Constitution is being undermined and that the encroachments—"

"Write them a sharp letter; combine Wallace form and Dear Bellamy. Alton B. Parker! Humph! These gentlemen may find out in the course of two or three thousand years that I'm the constitution, and pretty well preserved. Ha! Ha! I think anybody that tries to encroach upon me will get into rather serious trouble."

"The New England Historic-Geneological society requests a copy of your pedigree."

"Well, you know how to make it out. Give the exact facts. Tell 'em I'm of Dutch - Irish - German - English - Scandinavian - French - Italian - Russian - Jewish - Swiss - Quaker - Southern - Northern - Western - Eastern-Cavalier-Roundhead stock—and that each element in my ancestry is more important and dearer than the other."

"Cable from Emperor William. Says he fears he shall have to fight Great Britain at once."

"Tell him and Edward not to dare to lay a hand upon each other. Let them wait till they near from me. I will scalp them both if they refuse to arbitrate."

"Only sixty-three letters from Senator Beveridge today."

"He has the grip. Give them to the cook for fire lighters."

"Sixty-eight petitions from the Third Term clubs."

"Write them that they are causing the president great pain. It's time for lunch. Come over. There won't be more than 306 people today."

PRIZE FOR LOPPED EARS.

New York American: Declaring that Olga de Bojnauska's "Portrait of a Woman," which was awarded third prize at the annual exhibition at the Carnegie Art galleries, should be known as the "Lop-Eared Woman," Frederick L. Kahle, a prominent attorney and art connoissour, has sent an open letter to Director John W. Beatty of the gallery, demanding an explanation for the awarding of the medal.

Mr. Kahle points out that the woman's ears are more than an inch out of line and that the poor drawing of the picture makes it ugly.

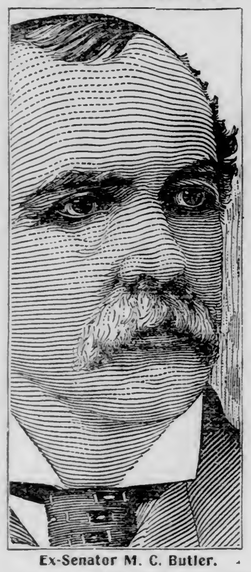
UNITED STATES SENATOR FROM SOUTH CAROLINA PRAISES PE-RU-NA.



Ex-Senator M. C. Butler.

Dyspepsia Is Often Caused By Catarrh of the Stomach—Peruna Relieves Catarrh of the Stomach and Is Therefore a Remedy for Dyspepsia.

Hon. M. C. Butler, Ex-U. S. Senator from South Carolina for two terms, in a letter from Washington, D. C, writes to the Peruna Medicine Co., as follows:

"I can recommend Peruna for dyspepsia and stomach trouble. I have been using your medicine for a short period and I feel very much relieved. It is indeed a wonderful medicine, besides a good tonic."

CATARRH of the stomach is the correct name for most cases of dyspepsia. In order to relieve catarrh of the stomach the catarrh must be eradicated.

Only an internal catarrh remedy, such as Peruna, is available.

Peruna exactly meets the indications.

WOMEN CUT TO PIECES

The police give the story little credence, however, as Vito and the child were the only persons in the apartment when the officers forced an entrance, after finding all of the doors locked.

Inside the police found Vito fully dressed, standing in the center of the room. Blood was everywhere, and on the floor, midway between the bed and a window, lay the lifeless body of Mrs. Vito, her head nearly severed. The body was frightfully slashed, and a broken razor was found still sticking in one of the wounds. On the fire escape, just outside the window, was found the body of Mrs. Brignoli, practically covered with wounds.

Martin Cosano, who occupied the apartment adjoining that of the Vitos, was aroused early this morning by some one tapping on the window of his room. He sprang out of bed and ran to the window. There on the fire escape stood Mrs. Brignoli, in her night dress, with blood flowing from wounds in her neck and throat. She tried to speak but could not, and as Cosano threw up the window she fell back and died. Cosano had recognized her as his neighbor and his cries brought the police to the scene.

Under a bed in the Vito apartments the police found a second blood stained razor and on a dressing case a razor which bore the imprints of four blood-stained fingers.

Vito is a barber, but has not worked at his trade for several years, and his father-in-law declares that in all that time he has lived from the earnings of his wife, who was employed in a shirtwaist factory.

COAL LANDS COMBINE TO BE PROBED IN DENVER.

St. Louis, May 8.—Twenty-nine St. Louisans have been subpoenaed to appear before the federal grand jury at Denver, Colo., to tell what they knew of a supposed scheme to combine a large number of coal land claims under the control of some syndicate whose identity has not been publicly established. The names of those subpoenaed have not been revealed. The Denver grand jury will meet May 23.

MARINE NEWS

NOT READY FOR MONTHS

New Cross Channel at Ore Docks But Half Completed.

Will be of Great Benefit to All Lake Vesselmen.

Several months of the navigation season of 1907 will have elapsed before the big freighters going to and from the Missabe ore docks at West Duluth can use the new cross channel connecting the channel at the Wisconsin side to that passing in front of the ore docks. No work has been done on the improvement at all this season.

The contract for the new channel was awarded to the Great Lakes Dredge & Dock company by the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railway nearly two years ago and the new channel was expected to be completed last summer. Owing to a rush of orders during 1905 the dredge company did not start on the work until late in the fall of that year and during last season were unable to complete the job.

At present the channel is about half completed and will not be ready for the passage of boats for at least two months. The contracts calls for a depth of twenty-two feet and it is now not more than seventeen feet in depth. The channel will extend straight out from the ore docks over to the Wisconsin channel to the outer end of the Philadelphia & Reading coal dock.

H. L. Dresser, chief engineer of the Missabe road, said yesterday that the dredge company would probably begin work upon the dredging of the channel in about two weeks and would push the improvement to completion as soon as possible. The dredge company has one or two other improvements to make for the Missabe people and are now fitting out several of its dredges and docks for the season.

The channel when completed will be of great benefit to the vesselmen at the Head of the Lakes as several dangerous turns will be done away with. Heretofore the channel directly in front of the ore docks has been to narrow and the boats could not easily get into the slips.

Another dangerous turn will be avoided also, a short distance west of the interstate bridge.

MUST HAVE CABLE.

Deckhouse on Vessels Must be Well Connected.

The United States Steamship inspectors for the Duluth district are now paying close attention in their investigations when they inspect a boat to see whether or not one of the new rules regarding the necessity of a wire cable stretched between the deckhouses at the stern and the pilot is strictly obeyed.

This rule is a new one only recently adopted, and requires that a cable not less than five feet from the deck shall be stretched to connect the deckhouses and that there shall be attached to it at all times a traveller with a line of sufficient length to insure its operation, in order that communication between both ends of the vessel may be facilitated at all times.

Only a few of the boats have been found to be without the required connection. Orders are immediately given that the boats be equipped with the cable before the inspection certificate is issued.

At Detroit it has been reported that some vessel masters are wilfully violating both the steamboat and pilot rules and C. H. Westcott has announced that the infractions of the rule must cease. The steamboat rule to which is referred, is that concerning the wire cable between the deckhouses, while the pilot rule reported to be violated is that relating to exchanging, passing or meeting signals. Capt. Westcott warns the captains that if any failure to observe either of these rules in the future is reported to his office, the guilty masters will be summarily dealt with.

ICE BLOCKS PASSAGE.

Navigation Into Fort William is Still Very Uncertain.

Fort William, May 8.—Ice in the bay is still making navigation difficult. The steamer Turret Court, which left here Sunday, was pinned in for twenty-four hours by the floes, which piled high around the vessel. She was released by the ice breaker Whalen with little damage. The steamer Pellatt, which was several days overdue from the Soo, came into port yesterday. It took the steamer twenty-four hours to break her way in through the ice from the cape.

A small blaze on the steamer Arabian last night damaged the pilot house and the forward part of the boat.

New Scow Is Registered.

Duluth is now the home of the wooden scow Bob Cook. The boat was registered yesterday at the marine customs office. She was built last winter for England & Chandler, by the Superior Shipbuilding company, and is 108 feet long, 28 feet beam, and draws 75 feet of water. A modern hoisting apparatus has been installed on the scow and there are comfortable quarters for the crew. She has a tonnage of 300.

Slow Work Unloading.

Cleveland, May 8.—With the tracks and sidings at Ohio ports filled with loaded coal cars, there is a shortage of cars at the ore unloading docks. As most of the ore now arriving is for direct shipment to the furnaces, this makes the work of unloading slow. Railroads have refused to bring any more lake coal forward until the cars that are tied up have been unloaded. Coal boats have been very scarce for the past week and the movement is light. Grain shippers at Fort William bid 2 cents on wheat to Buffalo yesterday, and a little tonnage may be placed at that figure. The supply of ore tonnage is about equal to the demand.

Master of Tug.

Capt. Fred Benson, well known in marine circles at the Head of the Lakes, has been appointed master of the tug Kate Williams of Escanaba, Mich. Capt. Pecord has been appointed mate for the tug. The vessel is now at Duluth and will be used in the towing business on Lake Superior. She is owned by the Escanaba Dredge company.

Line of Buoys Established.

In the Notice to Mariners for this week issued by the United States hydrographic office, is contained the information that a line of buoys has been placed by the Canadian government 200 feet eastward of the eastern end of the western breakwater at Port Colborne, Lake Erie, to mark a ridge thrown up by dredging and mariners are warned to keep to the eastward of these buoys. There is a channel over 300 feet wide between the buoys and the end of the breakwater.

PASSENGERS MUST WAIT

Booth Boats Not Yet Going Into Port Arthur.

Waiting Passengers Anxious for News of Ice Conditions.

The ice conditions outside the harbor at Port Arthur are still delaying the operation of pasenger boats into that port and the Booth line has made no attempt to send the America there. The America is making regular trips up the north shore and to Isle Royale, but has not yet tried to buck the ice into Thunder bay.

On account of the long delay a large number of passengers are compelled to wait in Duluth and inquiries concerning the conditions at Port Arthur are constantly being received. Not only in Duluth are passengers awaiting the news that passenger boats can get into Port Arthur, but also at outside points and the Booth company receives letters and telegrams from all over the Northwest every day.

Some of these passengers have been waiting in Duluth ever since the early part of April and it may be a week or more yet before the America can get to Port Arthur. The officials at the Booth headquarters at the foot of Lake avenue have now established a bulletin in their ticket office giving the information of the ice conditions in Thunder bay as it is received daily.

The steamer America of the Booth line left this morning for points along the north shore and Washington Harbor, Isle Royale. She carried a large list of passengers and fishermen to Isle Royale.

The reports from Port Arthur received today are not very encouraging as it is said that some of the big freighters are hardly able to get through the ice floes. One steamer the Turret Court was pinned in the ice for twenty-four hours Sunday and it took the steamer Pellatt twenty-four hours to get through the ice and into the harbor.

The tug Laura Grace arrived at Duluth this morning from Port Arthur and it is said had a hard time getting through.

Canostoga Due Soon.

The steamer Canostoga of the new Duluth & Chicago Transportation company is expected to arrive in the Duluth harbor tomorrow night. She was chartered by this company last week. The steamer Gratwick of the same company left Chicago today for the Head of the Lakes. Both vessels are bringing package freight cargos to Duluth.

Juniata on the Way.

The steamer Juniata is on the way to Duluth from Buffalo on her first trip up the lakes. She has a full cargo of package freight but is bringing no passengers. After unloading her cargo here she will make another trip down the lakes with freight after which the next trip will be made on schedule. Her first departure on schedule from this port will be on May 24.

Is at Houghton.

W. H. Northmore, superintendent of the Booth Transportation company, is in Houghton this week attending to business matters. He is expected to return in a day or two.

Return From Bayfield.

Capt. John Monahan and M. F. Chalk, United States steamboat inspectors for the Duluth district, returned yesterday from Ashland and Bayfield. At Ashland the steam ferry Mary Scott was inspected and at Bayfield the fishing tugs W. G. Harrow, F. B. Anderson and Arthur were inspected. Yesterday afternoon the inspectors looked over the steamer Sioux City in the local harbor. She is owned by the Indiana Transportation company and will be used in the excursion business out of Chicago this season.

Represents Marine Review.

Oliver Abel, a representative of the Marine Review, Iron Trade Review, and Boating, came up from Cleveland this week and is making his office headquarters at 411 Providence building. He will attend to the correspondence at the Head of the Lakes for all three of these great trade magazines.

EJECTOR COMMENDED.

Sewerage Expert Praises Duluth's Ejector In Professional Paper.

J. W. Folwell, one of the most noted sewerage experts in the United States, has given prominent place to the Duluth sewage ejector, invented by Axel E. Wilson, assistant city engineer, in an article which he has contributed to the Municipal Journal and Engineer on sewage disposal.

The article is accompanied by cuts and section drawings of the ejector, which is now installed on Lake avenue, and speaks very highly of its work.

Mr. Folwell also wrote a letter to Mr. Wilson, highly commending the ejector, and telling him that he had been considering the plan of using water pressure for the elevation of sewage, instead of the electric and compressed air ejectors now in use, for some time, but had not been able to develop a machine of a nature practical enough to warrant its construction.

ON THE IRON RANGES

COMMITTEE OF EVELETH MEN

Will Endeavor to Obtain Right of Way for Railroad.

Eveleth, Minn., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the meeting of the Eveleth Business Men's association, held last evening the question of getting the Duluth, Rainy Lake & Winnipeg road to enter the city, instead of passing about three miles west of the city limits, as is the present plan, came up for discussion. It is understood that the officials of the road are more than willing to run their line through Eveleth, but the difficulty lies in getting an entrance to the city over mining ground.

The sentiment of the business men seemed unanimous in favor of making every effort to get the road, and a committee consisting of G. A. Perham, J. A. Robb and Mayor Charles Jesmore, was appointed to consult with the mine officials in regard to giving the road right of way into the city.

The question of a city baseball team also came up and the association voted $10 from the general fund to assist in boosting the project.

FAREWELL RECEPTION

Tendered Superintendent J. S. Meunch of the Chisholm Schools.

Chisholm, Minn., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—A reception by the local Knights of Pythias lodge was tendered Prof. J. F. Meunch Monday night in Castle hall, which was of more than passing interest. Mr. Meunch has been superintendent of the public schools of Chisholm for nearly five years, and has been largely instrumental in raising the standard of the schools to the present high attainment. Recently a position has been tendered him by the government as superintendent of a number of schools in the Philippine islands. Mr. Meunch has proven himself eminently fitted for the work, and while he regretted leaving his work here, yet the greater opportunities in a broader field appealed to him.

A large number of both ladies and gentlemen were present, and a beautiful and valuable fob chain and K. P. charm were presented by the lodge to the professor as a token of their good will and appreciation for his work as a brother knight. The address of presentation was made by J. D. Manly, to which Mr. Meunch replied very touchingly. The lunch was an elaborate affair, and the evening was spent with the usual social festivities.

MINE EMPLOYE BADLY BURNED BY POWDER.

Eveleth, Minn., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—James Hokman, an employe at the Adams mine, was quite badly burned about the face and hands a few days ago. Wishing to open a can of powder quickly, he took an iron bar and began to pry the top off, when the powder flashed up in his face with the result stated.

Hokman was taken to the hospital where an examination showed that his eyes had not been injured, although his face may be somewhat powder marked.

ELY HAS ELECTRICIAN.

Ely, Minn., May 8.—At the meeting of the city council last night it was unanimously voted to enter into a contract with P. W. Peal, city electrician, to do the necessary electrical work for the city for the coming year. The expected squabble over the matter did not materialize and everything passed off very smoothly.

RANGES IN BRIEF

Hibbing.—George W. Cooley of the state highway commission has accepted an invitation to attend a good roads meeting at this city on Thursday of this week.

Ely.—Twenty-one members of the Knights of Pythias lodge of this city will leave for Duluth Saturday morning, where on Saturday evening the rank of Knights of Khorassan will be conferred upon them.

RAILROADS

DO LARGER BUSINESS

Commercial Shipments 15 Per Cent Greater Than a Year Ago.

Car Situation Better Now Than for Several Months.

According to the reports of different railroads for April, the commercial freight business in Duluth shows an increase of about 15 per cent as compared with the same month a year ago. There has been an increase in all kinds of shipments, and particularly in the amount of coal sent to interior points. Probably 50,000 tons more of coal was moved from the local docks last month than in April, 1906.

The car situation is better now than it has been at any time for the last six or seven months, but there is still hardly enough equipment to supply the wants of the shippers. All the roads have all the business they can randle in the freight line, profiting by the lesson taught by the famine of last winter, both the roads and the dealers at interior points are already laying in their supply of coal for next winter, and when the fall rush begins the biggest part of the fuel will have been moved.

The railroads themselves use a tremendous amount of coal, and the other material for every mile of road is a big tax upon the equipment. The different lines are moving their fuel and other necessary material a good deal earlier this year than usual, and, in anticipation of another car shortage next fall and winter, will get all they possibly can of this class of freight moved during the summer, so that they will be better situated to look after the wants of the general public during the busy season.

Fewer complaints are being received on service given than for some time past, and shipments are being moved with reasonable speed, everything considered. The season for pulpwood shipments is practically at an end, and this puts a good many additional cars into the service. The total shipments of pulpwood out of Minnesota this year were hardly as anticipated, but the movement was larger than last year. It is said to have been something under 4,000 cars.

Reports of the railroads show that there was an increase in the amount of freight both received and shipped. This increase is general all along the line. Coal and building material are in the lead. The local wholesale and commission houses have been enjoying an unusually heavy business this spring, and their receipts and shipments are much larger than the ordinary.

ROAD OBJECTS.

Minneapolis & Red Lake Says Commodity Rates Are Confiscatory.

The requirements of the new commodity rate law passed by the last legislature amounts to confiscation as far as the property of the Minneapolis, Red Lake & Manitoba railway is concerned, according to a complaint filed with the railroad and warehouse commission. A hearing has been arranged for May 27.

Under the terms of the bill the commission may relieve any road, if good and sufficient cause for such action can be given. The Minneapolis & Red Lake was originally a logging road, built by C. A. Smith and others, and runs between Bemidji and Red Lake. Part of the line is in the Indian reservation. The company says it has not paid operating expenses in three months, and if the new rate law is insisted on it will be further embarrassed.

NEW EXTENSION.

Milwaukee Has Surveyors at Work Near Iron Mountain, Mich.

Vulcan, Mich., May 8.—A corps of Milwaukee road men is at work east of Iron Mountain, under the direction of Assistant Chief Engineer Drummond. As usual, the work is being done with secrecy, but it is generally believed it means an extension from Quinnesec to Norway and Vulcan.

It is also believed that, before the work is finished, a survey will be made for an extension to Escanaba. Evidently the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul intends to make a bid for a portion of the ore traffic of the Steel corporation and Cambria Steel company mines at Norway and Vulcan, a business which the Chicago & Northwestern has had for years.

Final surveys are being made by Soo line employes for a railway which will be constructed this season from Cook's Mill to Garden, in Delta county, thus opening a territory which has had no railroad facilities. The line will be twenty-eight miles in length and will tap a heavily timbered hardwood district and the rich farm and fruit country about Garden and the east portion of Delta county.

FIRE IN HAMBURG HARBOR.

Hamburg, May 8.—Fire broke out at noon today in the suburb of Steinwaerder, in the territory of the Free harbor, on the left bank of the Northern Elbe, but it was held in check by the firemen and the loss was not large.

schedule time, but the strikers claim that these vessels are going away "light"—that is, with only a small part of their usual cargoes.

Last night forty strike-breakers were attacked near the Cunard docks. These men were badly mauled before they could be rescued by the police.

Representatives of the trans-Atlantic steamship comanies have decided to refuse the advance asked, and stand together in the fight with their former employes.

Following a conference last night, one of those who had taken part in it said: "We have affirmed our previous understanding not to increase the present rate of wages. The action of the men in striking without giving more than thirty minutes' notice, was unfair, as was their failure to see the officials of the lines today and lay their demands before them before quitting work. The steamship lines as a result of tonight's meeting, will stand together in the fight."

The strikers express themselves as confident that they will be able eventually to tie up all the trans-Atlantic traffic. If the men succeed in no more than upsetting the sailing schedules by causing frequent delays in sailings, the situation at this season of the year, when the travel is especially heavy, will be serious.

Officials of the affected lines were bending every effort today to load freight, which was piling up on the piers. On the Holland-American and Scandinavian-American lines, stewards were impressed into service to load freight and coal. John Lee, general manager of the White Star line, said that the freight situation was in bad shape, but the Baltic would sail on schedule time this afternoon, carrying beef and perishable stuff and such other freight as the hands available may be able to load.

"Within a few days," added Lee, "we shall have more men at work, and I hope that normal conditions may soon obtain. This much is certain, the steamship companies will not give in to the demands of the men."

The Noordam of the Holland-American line will sail this afternoon with only two-thirds of her normal cargo. The crew was busy today aiding in coaling the ship.

Capt. Moeller, superintendent of docks of the North German Lloyd line, said today that the company had 228 men loading the Grosser Kuerfuerst, which, he added, will sail tomorrow with three-quarters of her ordinary cargo.

PETITION IS SUBMITTED

Park Point Property Owners Want Sewer System This Year.

Hearing for Jefferson Street Owners to Decide on Paving.

The petition for the big sewer on Minnesota avenue has been submitted to the board of public works for their examination and from present indications there is but little doubt that the system will be installed this year.

The petition, as submitted, is somewhat faulty, because of one or two signatures not being exactly as required by law, and the margin is so small as to make the ommission of the questionable signatures a veto to the petition. It is thought that this can be arranged, however, so as to be satisfactory and make the petition equal to the requirements of the charter.

A hearing will be held by the board of public works tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 for the benefit of the property owners on Jefferson street in order that the kind of pavement which is to be used may be decided. When the improvement was at first proposed it was thought that no other paving would be considered except the tar macadam, but since the bids were opened last week some sentiment for asphalt is said to have developed because of its being an extension of Greysolon road, where asphalt is the paving. The members of the board of public works say, however, that they have no doubt that the $9,000 margin in favor of tar macadam will have sufficient weight to influence the owners to decide upon this form of paving.

P. McDonnell was the lowest bidder on both styles of pavement and also upon concrete blocks, which will not be considered.

A delegation from the Superior board of public works and the Superior engineering department are expected here this afternoon to look over Duluth methods, especially in regard to the rock crushing plants.

* * * *

Work on the petition for the paving of Fourth street west of Lake avenue is progressing very satisfactorily with the understanding that the work is not to be done until next year. The board of public works is urging those property owners along East Fourth street who wish, to have that portion of the street improved next year to circulate a similar petition.

SHOVED HIS FOOT THROUGH WINDOW

Celt Resents Being Throw Into Street and Retaliates.

Hurled unceremoniously into the street by an irrate Bowery bartender yesterday afternoon, Jerry Callihan's hot Celtic blood refused to meekly endure the insult, and, seeing the burly thirst dispenser safely esconced behind the bar again, Jerry retaliated promptly by shoving a big No. 10 lumberjack's boot through the window in the front of the saloon.

An officer appeared on the scene at this juncture and gathered the irate Irishman under his arm and headed for the nearest patrol box. When arraigned before Judge Cutting this morning Callihan pleaded guilty and said that he was so drunk he was not responsible. He was fined $5 and costs with the alternative of spending seven days with the chain gang.

John Hoglund was arraigned as a plain drunk with the grist this morning.

"Have you got a family, John?" asked the court.

"Yes, Ay got it," replied the accused in broken English, "six children."

"My, you have got it bad, haven't you?" said the court, as sentence was suspended in order that "it" might derive the benefit of the labors of "it's" head.

WERE OUT ALL NIGHT

Jury Spends Twenty-two Hours Discussing Petty Case.

Report Disagreement at Opening of Court This Morning.

Twenty-two long, dreary hours in the special court room without reaching a verdict is the record established by the jury in the case of the state against William Larson, which was tried in municipal court yesterday. The jury retired about 11 o'clock yesterday morning after hearing the evidence in the case, and they came into court, a weary and saddened bunch, at 9 a. m. today, without having been able to reach an agreement. The unfortunate citizens who spent last night in the jury room were Herman Oppel, J. B. Flack, J. L. Prosser, John Smith, C. S. Raymond, Herman Olson, L. A. Gunderson, L. J. Brotherton, H. A. Kilchil, J. C. McDougall, Ralph Evans and Christian Mickelson.

The case itself was of a petty criminal nature. Clara Davidson of Rice Lake township had sworn out a warrant for William Larson, a neighbor, charging him with entering her house during her absence and breaking articles of furniture, crockery, eight windows and a dozen eggs, the aggregate value of which she estimated at not to exceed $5.

The taking of evidence occupied only about an hour from the time the case was called at 10 o'clock until it went to the jury shortly after 11 a. m. The stories told by the different witnesses were somewhat conflicting.

The case will be taken up for the second time tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. After the report Judge Windom excused the jury until 2 o'clock this afternoon to recuperate.

TELLS ABOUT REPTILES.

Most persons have an inborn aversion to snakes of any sort. Possibly this is because they are not aware what interesting and intelligent creatures snakes and other reptiles can be. Raymond Lee Ditmars, curator of reptiles in the New York Zoological park, has just published a volume which he calls "The Reptile Book," treating of all the different sorts and species of the snake family to be encountered in the United States and Northern Mexico, says the New York Sun.

Of American sea-turtles the best known and most highly prized is the green turtle, individual specimens of which sometimes attain a weight of 500 pounds.

Next comes the snapping turtle. This is a fresh water turtle. Its members are born fighters. They are possessed of jaws of great power. They live on fish and water fowl. One of the snapping turtle's chief peculiarities is that it can feed only under water. Unless its head is completely submerged it seems unable to swallow.

Another distinguished member of the turtle family is the diamond-backed terrapin, whose home is in the salt marshes of the Atlantic coast and the Gulf of Mexico. It cannot live in water that is entirely fresh, although it is found sometimes in the brackish Hudson.

In captivity some of the species of tortoise become very tame, and in not a few cases appear to show real affection for their owners.

For the future of the North American alligator, Ditmars expresses a profound concern. He prophesies that the day of its complete extinction is not far distant.

The alligator alone among reptiles has the habit of bellowing. The noise it makes resembles somewhat the plaintive mooing of a cow when milking time draws near. The sound will carry for a mile or more.

The crocodile is a much more vicious animal than the alligator, and more agile. It was not known that it was indigenous to North America until 1875, when a pair of crocodiles were discovered in Biscayne bay, in Florida. Except in Florida, the species does not exist north of Mexico.

The two most deadly classes of snakes are the elapine family, but few of whose branches are to be found in this country, belong the dreaded hooded cobra, the Australian tiger snake, and the death adder. The viperine family comprises among its offspring the copperhead, the moccasin, the fer-de-lance and the rattlesnake.

Of the viperine family, the most common in America are the water moccasin or "cotton mouth" snake, the highland moccasin or copperhead snake, and the rattlesnake.

The moccasin is an extremely venomous reptile. The water moccasin is met with in the Atlantic coast region, as far north as North Carolina. In a wild state these water moccasins are inclined to be pugnacious, but after a few months in captivity they become docile and lazy. They derive their nickname of "cotton mouth" from the habit they have of opening their jaws wide when startled, and showing their mouth's white interior.

There is quite an assortment of rattlesnakes in America. But the king of them all is the diamond-back rattlesnake, which is second to none of the poisonous snakes of the world. It reaches sometimes a length of eight feet, and its fangs are nearly an inch long. The venom stored in each tooth's tip acts with great rapidity on the nerve centers of the human being or animal into whose system it has been injected.

The favorite food of the diamond-back rattler is a cotton-tail rabbit.

The diamond-back will never flee from danger. It is always on the alert, and at the slightest hint of approaching trouble the whir of its rattle will sound instantly.

The diamond-back is olive or grayish green in color. The markings on its back are diamond-shaped and darker than the rest of its skin. These diamond-shaped figures extend in a chain down its back and are bordered with yellow.

Ditmars declares it is impossible, as popularly asserted, to tell the age of a rattlesnake by the number of its rattles. A rattlesnake, he says, does not acquire a new ring in its rattle every year, and after a rattle attains a length of ten or eleven rings any subsequent additional segments soon break off.

Teach the Children to Save

The reason so many men and women have shiftless money habits is because, while children, father and mother never taught them to save. They were furnished good clothing and supplied with spending money. It always came easy to the children. They didn't realize the planning and effort it took to provide these things. They reached manhood and womanhood ignorant of the true value of a dollar and just as ignorant of its earning power.

ITS DEFEAT IS CERTAIN

Ballot Inspector W. F. M'Kay Says Tax Amendment is Doomed.

Recount Thus Far Shows That 10,500 Votes Were Miscounted.

"There is no question but that the recount of the ballots on the tax and the good roads amendment, cast at the last general election, will defeat the tax amendment," said W. F. McKay, of this city, who is one of the ballot inspectors appointed by the court on the recount, and who returned from the southern part of the state yesterday.

"It requires about 14,000 votes against the tax amendment to defeat it and we have already about 10,500 votes against it on the recount. This means that only 3,500 votes against the amendment are required and we have yet to recount the ballots cast in the southwestern part of the state and the whole of the northern part of the state, with the exception of the city of Duluth.

"The state canvassing board declared the tax amendment carried by a majority of about 13,800 and, on the recount, thus far made, 10,500 of the votes in that majority are shown to have been miscounted.

"I am ceratin in my own mind that it will not require a recount of all the remaining precincts to find the 3,500 votes necessary to defeat the tax amendment. The recount in the city of Duluth alone showed that the good roads amendment carried.

"The ballot inspectors have been relieved from duty for a period of three weeks, as E. L. Thornton, one of the three inspectors, has a lawsuit to try in his home county. At the end of three weeks we will resume the recount and prosecute it until all the precincts have been covered, or until we are ordered to stop.

"The inspectors are rather glad of the rest, as a matter of fact, as recounting work is very trying."

LIMOGES CHINA RATE REDUCED

General Appraisers Decide in Favor of French Importers.

New York, May 8.—By a decision of Judge Byron S. Waite of the United States general appraisers, just handed down, $100,000 worth of Limoges china, imported by Haviland & Co. from their factory at Limoges, was admitted at a valuation which will sustain the present prices on French china all through this country. The decision is an important one. Claims have been made that Limoges china was undervalued at the custom house, and the appraisers, for the purpose of making a test, increased the valuation 720 per cent. The result was that importations ceased and, as this country was the chief customer for the product, the factories at Limoges, France, had to close. The decision now rendered, puts the valuation back practically on the old basis, so that importations will continue and work at Limoges can be resumed.

London, May 8.—The ban of the lord chancellor on "The Mikado," Gilbert & Sullivan's comic opera, which has been the cause of such adverse comment, has not been raised and Mrs. D'Oyler Carter has decided to take off the opera. COREY IS TO RESIGN

As Head of Steel Corporation in the Near Future.

Said to Have Been Understanding When He Was Re-Elected.

New York, May 8.—Though W. Ellis Corey has reconciled his parents and sisters to his marriage to Mabelle Gilman, the actress, which is scheduled to take place May 13, it is not believed that he has obtained the approval of his business associates.

Corey's tenure of the presidency of the United States Steel corporation is not considered in the financial district to be as secure as might be inferred from the fact that he was re-elected no longer ago than last week, presumably for another year. It was reported yesterday that Mr. Corey's re-election was arranged with the understanding that he would resign in the near future.

A man who is active in the management of the Steel corporation and who is known to reflect the views of at least some of the most influential of the directors of that company, made this comment last evening on what is expected of the head of the Steel corporation:

"When a man occupies a position as prominent as that of president of a great corporation like the Steel corporation or the Pennsylvania or any similar semi-public position, he is expected to observe the ordinary forms of propriety.

"Mr. Schwab acted very much as if he thought the affairs of the Steel corporation were his own affairs, with the result that he left the service of the company. Any man who fills such a position and disregards the ordinary standards of propriety is sure, sooner or later, to find his position too uncomfortable to stay in."

It is not known how many of the directors of the Steel corporation are inclined to take this view of Mr. Corey's relations to the company. Mr. Corey's salary as president is said to be $100,000 a year.

Bishop Burges of Long Island yesterday put his veto on the plan to have the marriage ceremony of William Ellis Corey and Mabelle Gilman performed at the Protestant Episcopal cathedral at Garden City. In regard to the statement made by Mrs. Gilman at the Hotel Gotham that she expected her daughter would be married at the Garden City cathedral next Monday, the bishop said:

"The wedding of such a couple would never take place in the cathedral at Garden City and no clergyman in the Episcopal diocese would perform such a ceremony, where either of the parties had been divorced.

"I doubt very much whether any self-respecting minister could be found on Long Island to marry such a couple."

There was excitement in the apartments of Miss Gilman in the Hotel Gotham Monday over the receipt of a mysterious package. Miss Gilman received it personally and was in the act of opening it, when she became frightened at the suspicious nature of its wrappings. She fainted. Mr. Corey was at once summoned by telephone and the management of the hotel notified. The package was quickly removed from the room and taken to the parcel room in the basement. It contained nothing but sawdust.

Richard Carle's tuneful, witty operatic comedy, "The Tenderfoot" was given at the Lyceum theater last evening by Oscar L. Figman, Ruth White and an adequate supporting company.

Time has not lessened the charms of "The Tenderfoot." H. L. Heartz's score is as pretty and the fun as pervasive as on the first season of its tour, with Richard Carle at the head of the organization. The chances are that a majority of those persons who were present at the Lyceum last evening had seen "The Tenderfoot" before, at one time or another, but it was thoroughly enjoyed and the favorite numbers were loudly applauded.

The plot concerns a visit of a "tenderfoot" educator and some of his fair pupils to the Southwest and to the ranch belonging to the educator's niece. This latter is a young woman with plenty of money and ideas of her own, who, to spite the Texas Rangers, marries a stranger, whom she thinks is the poorest man in the territory but who is in reality the colonel of the rangers, a man whom she despises and later loves.

The fair ranch owner and the colonel furnish the light romantic side and the professor, Sergeant Barker, noisy braggart, and others contribute the comedy of which there is plenty.

It is something of a tribute to Mr. Figman's cleverness when it is said that his Prof. Zachary Pettibone does not suffer in comparison with that of the creator, Mr. Carle. In fact Mr. Figman has followed directly in Mr. Carle's footsteps, all of which is most pleasant to those who remembered the latter's enactment of the role.

Fred Bailey also achieves a distinct success as Sergeant Bill Barker, the noisy trooper. Harry B. Williams has the interesting bit, Hop Lee, the Chinese servant, and dances very well. His specialty with Grace Sloan in the second act was very well received last evening.

Lawrence Coever has a splendid voice and fits well into the role of Paul Winthrop.

Ruth White sings as well and wears as impossible wigs as ever. Her Marion Worthington would be the best ever if she would get a substitute coiffure for the long curls which she now wears.

The background of soldiers, cow boys, Mexicans, seminary girls, cow girls and Indians—all of which are introduced by virtue of the librettist's license—does a great deal to make the show enjoyable.

All of the familiar musical numbers were greeted as old friends last evening. If one has never seen "The Tenderfoot," it is something to look forward to, and if one has already seen it, it will be enjoyed again. It will be given again at the Lyceum this evening.

CHINESE KILLED IN RACE FIGHT

Deadly Conflict Between Coolies and Russians on Ship.

San Diego, Cal., May 8.—It was reported late last night that two sailors, who escaped from the British steamer Maori King, which arrived here yesterday from Shanghai, make sensational sensational charges of brutality against the captain and officers of the ship. Rumors are in circulation that fifteen Chinese were killed during the riot on board and their bodies cast into the sea. International complications are likely to result.

The vessel, with 921 Chinese steerage passengers at war with 212 Russian steerage passengers, all on their way from Vladivostok and Shanghai to Mazatlan and Guaymas, put in here yesterday with a state of mutiny on board. The ship is now at quarantine under guard of immigration custom officials, while awaiting settlement of the matter.

Trouble began soon after the steamer left Shanghai, between the Chinese and Le Sun La, an immigration contractor, and the steerage passengers threatened to run the ship back to China. The dispute was quieted, but trouble broke out again when a boxer stabbed a coolie. Last Friday, one of the Russians struck a Chinaman and laid his head open. The Chinese then attacked the Russians and before they could be separated fourteen persons were wounded.

MRS. MARY McGRATH, 110 YEARS OLD.

Mrs. Mary McGrath of Brandon, Wis., who is 110 years of age and the oldest woman in the world, says that when she takes Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey she feels so well she can walk a mile.

Mrs. McGrath says she tried several other medicines, which did her harm and finally used Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey as prescribed solely, which restored her to health and prolonged her life.

"I take pleasure in writing to you what a wonderful medicine your Malt Whiskey is. I am never tired of praising it, for it has done me so much good. While I was taking it I could go out and walk a mile. I have taken so many other kinds of medicines since I have been sick, and instead of improving me they did me harm. I know what Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey does for me, and I want no other medicine." Yours, MRS. MARY McGRATH, Brandon, Wis., December 18th, 1906.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is recognized as the best tonic stimulant in the world for both young and old.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

is distilled wholly from malted grain by a most expensive method which has never been made public and this private process gives it great medicinal value and insures quality and flavor. Its age, softness, palatability and freedom from those injurious substances found in other whiskies make it acceptable to the most sensitive stomach.

It is an absolutely pure, gentle and invigorating stimulant and tonic. It acts as an antitoxin which destroys and drives out all disease germs, creates new nerve tissues, tones and strengthens the heart, gives power to the brain and elasticity to the muscles, enriches the blood and soothes and heals the mucous membranes. It brings into action all the vital forces. It makes digestion perfect, and enables you to get from the food you eat the nourishment it contains. It is invaluable for overworked men, delicate women and sickly children. It strengthens the system, is a promotor of health and longevity, makes the old young and keeps the young strong. Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is a form of food already digested and is recognized as a medicine everywhere.

IRISH BILL DEBATE ON

Chief Secretary Birrell Explains Features of Measure.

Balfour and John Redmond Give Their Views Freely.

London, May 8.—When Augustine Birrell, chief secretary for Ireland, arose in the house of commons yesterday to present the Irish council bill, the entire ministry occupied seats on the front benches. Mr. Balfour lounged in his characteristic languid attitude opposite with George Wyndham, former chief secretary for Ireland, beside him. The floor of the house was packed, and the galleries held a notable assemblage, including a number of peers, the visiting colonial premiers, notably Alfred Deakin, premier of Australia, and several bishops. W. Bourke Cockran of New York was an interested spectator. Members of the Irish clergy were conspicuous in the galleries.

Mr. Birrell has the mannerisms of a college professor rather than the graces of a popular orator. Most of his speech was dry explanation of details of the plan, although in the beginning he eloquently contrasted his position with that of Mr. Gladstone in presenting home rule, calling his task a more humble one and more commensurate with his position and powers. He rose to an oratorical height when he described the present system of administration. He called Dublin Castle a failure, saying: "There it stands, remote, without a friend and melancholy while the current of Irish life sweeps past. No governor has entered the gloomy portals of Dublin Castle without a sinking of the heart almost equivalent to abandoning hope."

Parnell, Mr. Birrell went on had said that one way to govern Ireland was to send a man there to hold the balance of all parties and administer the country in a spirit of courage and independence, but the government had no such man in its eye. "I would rather write the biography of a deceased autocrat," he added, "than live under his rule. Such men do not make good history."

Nobody, said Mr. Birrell, believed that the present system of the administration of Ireland was sound in principle or economical. It had been switched off from the great current of the national life of the people. Under the proposed new scheme the Irish members of parliament would continue to sit at Westminster in undiminished numbers, but he hoped hereafter to find a more profitable channel for their inquisitiveness in matters local affairs at home. It was the intention of the bill to establish a representative administrative council consisting of eight-two elected and twenty-four nominated members, the latter to be nominated the first year by the king and thereafter by the lord lieutenant of Ireland. Elected members would be elected on the local government board franchise. The under secretary to the lord lieutenant would be ex-officio member of the council, which would have complete control of the powers vested in the departments to be handed over to its care. The president of the council would be appointed by the council itself and the chief secretary would have the right to attend the meetings. If the existing officers of the departments were elected by the councils they must be given full pensions. The supremacy of the imperial parliament would be safeguarded by the power given to the lord lieutenant to reserve his consent to any results of the council and eight departments which would be made subject to the new council. The departments coming under the control of the proposed Irish council would be the local government board, department of agriculture, congested districts abroad, commissioners of public works, national education and intermediate education, inspectors of the reformatory and industrial schools and the registrar general. The supreme court judicature, royal Irish constabulary, Dublin metropolitan police, the land commission and the prisons board would remain under the control of the imperial authorities.

For the financial purposes of the eight departments a certain anual sum, to be fixed by parliament every five years, would be charged to the consolidated fund and paid into a separate Irish fund. The present cost of the eight departments was estimated at a little over $10,000,000 yearly. The government proposed to hand over in addition the sum of $3,250,000 yearly of which $1,500,000 must be devoted to public works and the general development of the country including other statutory payments. An Irish fund, therefore, to the amount of a little over $20,000,000 annually would be created. The Irish fund would be paid into a special Irish treasury, to be created by an order in council and having an Irish treasurer at its head.

In conclusion Mr. Birrell said: "The government has been told that the bill paved the way for home rule. If the bill is passed and the new council is a success then I dare say it might pave the way. If, on the other hand, it is a failure it might present considerable obstacles, but surely the Unionists will not refuse Ireland an opportunity for training her people to acquire any right they ought to possess because if the measure proves successful one of the difficulties in the way of home rule will have been removed."

Mr. Balfour, the opposition leader, characterized the bill as grossly unfair, as the Irish members of parliament were still able to interfere in English and Scotch affairs while the house of commons would be unable to say a word in the analigous business about to be transferred to the new council. The measure would not legitimately relieve the aspirations of the Irish and would only cause confusion in the administration and entail read grievances on Scotland and England.

John Redmond, the Irish leader, said that until he and his colleagues had time that until he and his colleagues had time to consider every feature of the bill and elicit Irish public opinion in regard to it no one could expect him to give either a deliberate or a final judgment. The Irish still demanded home rule and rested their claim on their historic right and the admitted failure of a century of British government of Ireland.

A Nationalist convention will be held in Dublin, May 21, to decide upon the policy of the Irish party. The laborites will support the measure because they are all home rulers.

Chance to Make Money

So many persons whom I know to be readers of this paper have written me asking about Mexico and how I made my money here, that, instead of answering each letter personally, which I have not time to do, I have decided to make known the information they want in this public manner.

I have been here in Mexico for the past six years. At first it was very hard, for I could not speak the language, and had not enough money to even pay my board. But my experience as a mining engineer in the United States, and my early investigations here convinced me that Cecil Rhodes was right when he said Mexico was the richest mineral country on the globe; so I persevered, even though it meant sleeping out in the mountains, and often without food. I have opened up two of the biggest mines in the state or Sonoro, and just a few weeks ago sold a small block of stock in one of them for $40,000 cash.

I am now superintendent of what I believe to be the biggest proposition in Sonoro, and that means the biggest in Mexico, for Sonoro produced over $33,000,000 in gold, silver and copper last year. The property I have charge of now is one of the oldest mines in the state. Ancient Mexicans took over $100,000 worth of silver from one small hole in a few weeks. I am working a force of miners day and night at the place where the Mexicans were compelled to stop work when the Indians raided the camp and killed fourteen men. At one time 2,000 miners worked here. We are now taking out rich silver ore, which is being concentrated at a neighboring mine. A ton of concentrated ore nets us $110.00, American money.

All work is now being done by hand. Machinery will enable us to do in one day what it now requires a month to accomplish. The company owns the sole mineral rights of a property ten miles wide by twelve miles long—76,800 acres—and there are four distinct veins paralleling each other for a distance of over a mile and a quarter.

I honestly believe these to be the greatest mines in the country, and am confident all who join in the enterprise will soon make big money. I am fifteen miles from the post-office, and your letter, should you write, might not reach me for a couple of weeks, so if you are interested in knowing all about the big money that surely will be made by all the stockholders in this company, I suggest that you write Wm. E. Jones, 914 Fort Dearborn Building, Chicago, who will send complete details about mining in Mexico and other important information necessary for you to have in order to fully understand the great wealth of this country.

BELGIAN SOCIALISTS BREAK UP HOUSE SITTING.

Brussells, May 8.—At the reopening of parliament yesterday the Socialists shouted that Belgium had become a laughing stock in the eyes of the world. They pounded their desks and created such a disturbance that they prevented the new premier, M. Detross, from presenting the ministerial declaration of policy. Finally the president of the house was forced to suspend the sitting. Owing to the uproar the premier was compelled to proceed to the senate and make the ministrial declaration there.

RIVER ATTACKS A TOWN.

One Farm of Eighty Acres Has Been Reduced to Two.

Sioux City, Iowa, May 8.—Dakota City, a small town across the river in Nebraska, is in danger of being damaged by the Missouri, which has already cut away nearly a mile of the townsite and has damaged the farms of several residents. Committeemen have asked Col. John Quinn, engineer in charge of the Missouri here, to assist them, but the appropriation is insufficient. The residents accordingly secured permission to rip-rap the bank at their own expense. One farmer who owned a farm of eighty acres, now has only two, and these are disappearing.

Kenora and Keewatin Offer Bonuses to Washburn-Crosby Company.

Winnipeg, Man., May 8.—Two tempting offers have been made to the Washburn-Crosby people of Minneapolis this week, one by the town of Keewatin and the other by the city of Kenora, to establish an 8,000-barrel mill. Each place is on the Winnipeg river, and owns a valuable power plant, with special inducements for manufacturers. Kenora offers a free site of ten acres along the main line of the Canadian Pacific railway, exemption from taxation, and electric power at cost. Keewatin offers a free site and power directly under a mill. It is understood the experts favor Kenora, and that a site will be cleared this summer.

LETTER CARRIED MEASLES.

Epidemic in Iowa Town Traced to Point on Atlantic Coast.

Littleton, Iowa, May 8.—A germ-laden letter, sent from a person in Long Island who was suffering from measles, is believed to have caused an epidemic of the disease which is now raging here, and which may result in the closing of the schools.

Owing to the prevalence of measles and mumps, the attendance at school is constantly lessening. The letter which is believed to have started the epidemic was received by Helen Merrill, and was written by her brother when he was ill with the disease. Miss Merrill was the first person stricken with the disease in Littleton.

HOSTS OF GOOD PEOPLE

All Over This Blessed Land Rise Up and Praise Dr. Pierce's Family Medicines.

Common Gratitude Prompts This Sentiment in Favor of Dr. Pierce's Medicines.

These people, so ready and anxious to recommend Dr. Pierce's Medicines, have themselves been cured, or some friend or loved one has been cured, by these medicines. Naturally, a sense of gratitude prompts such persons to recommend Dr. Pierce's medicines to other afflicted ones. Notwithstanding that these medicines have been on general sale, in drug and medicine stores, for more than two decades, their sale continues to grow as it could not were they not medicines of more than ordinary merit.

Although base attacks have sometimes been made upon Dr. Pierce's medicines which temporarily injured their sale, as in the case of the maliciously false, clandestine and libelous article published in 1904 in the Ladies' Home Journal of Philadelphia, yet their sale is greater to-day than ever. The publishers of this paper were brought to account and judgment obtained against them in consequence of their malicious article concerning Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. The falsity of its statements were proven in open court and judgment was obtained against the publishers for a substantial amount.

Thereupon Dr. Pierce decided to take a bold step and publish to the whole world a full list of the ingredients entering into his medicines, and this completely confounded his malicious traducers and vindicated both the Doctor and his medicines. In consequence, his medicines have enjoyed a popularity and increase in sale of late, amounting almost to a boom, and it is believed that this greatly increased demand is due largely to the fact of Dr. Pierce's open, honest way of treating his patrons and patients by reposing confidence in those who trust in him and his medicines. He has no secrets to withhold from them. He publishes the composition of his medicines openly and above board, so that all who use them may know exactly what they are taking. Thus they are placed in a class all by themselves and cannot be considered as either secret or patent medicines, for they are in fact neither.

WHAT THEY CURE. People often ask "What do Dr. Pierce's two leading medicines—'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Favorite Prescription' cure?"

Briefly, the answer is that "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most potent alterative or blood-purifier and tonic of invigorative and solvent efficacy favorably influencing when taken all the mucous lining surfaces as of the nasal passages, throat, bronchial tubes, stomach, bowels and bladder curing a large percentage of catarrhal cases whether the disease affects the nasal passages, the throat, larynx, bronchia, stomach (as catarrhal dyspepsia), bowels (as mucous diarrhea), bladder, uterus or other pelvic organs. Even in the chronic or ulcerative stages of these affections, it is generally successful in affecting cures. In fact the "Golden Medical Discovery" is without doubt, the most successful constitutional remedy for all forms of catarrhal diseases known to modern medical science. In chronic Nasal Catarrh Dr. Sages Catarrh Remedy fluid should be used for washing and cleansing out the nasal passages while taking the "Discovery" for its blood cleansing and specific healing effects upon the mucous lining membranes. This combined local and general treatment will cure a very large percentage of the worst cases of chronic nasal catarrh, no matter of how many years' standing they may be.

As to the "Favorite Prescription" it is advised for the cure of one class of diseases only—those weaknesses, derangements and irregularities peculiar to women. It is a powerful, yet gently acting, invigorating tonic and nervine. For weak, worn-out, over-worked women—no matter what has caused the break-down, "Favorite Prescription" will be found most effective in building up the strength, regulating the womanly functions, subduing pain and bringing about a healthy, strong, vigorous condition of the whole system.

Dr. Pierce believes that our American forests abound in most valuable medicinal roots for the cure of most of our obstinate and most fatal diseases, if we would properly investigate them; and, in confirmation of this firm conviction, he points with pride to the almost marvelous cures effected by his "Golden Medical Discovery," which has proven itself to be the most efficient stomach tonic, liver invigorator, heart tonic and regulator, and blood cleanser known to medical science. Not less marvelous, in the unparalleled cures it is constantly making of woman's many peculiar affections, weaknesses and distressing derangements, is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, as is amply attested by thousands of unsolicited testimonials contributed by grateful patients who have been cured by it of leucorrhea, painful periods, irregularities, prolapsus and other displacements, ulceration of uterus and kindred affections, often after many other advertised medicines had failed.

Both these world-famed medicines are wholly made up from the glyceric extracts of native, medicinal roots, found in our American forests. The processes employed in their manufacture were original with Dr. Pierce, and they are carried on by skilled chemists and pharmacists with the aid of apparatus and appliances specially designed and built for this purpose. Both medicines are entirely free from alcohol and all other harmful, habit-forming drugs. A full list of their ingredients is printed on each of their wrappers. They are both made of such native medicinal roots as have received the strongest endorsement and praise for their curative virtues from the most prominent writers on Modern Medica in this country. What is said of their power to cure the several diseases for which they are advised may be easily learned by sending your name and address to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for a little booklet which he has compiled, containing copious extracts from numerous standard medical books which are consulted as authorities by physicians of the several schools of practice for their guidance in prescribing. It is sent TO ALL. A postal card request will bring it.

You don't have to rely solely upon the manufacturer's say-so as to the power of Dr. Pierce's medicines to cure, as with other medicines sold through druggists. You have the disinterested testimony of a host of the leading medical writers and teachers. Send for this copious testimony. It can be relied upon to be truthful because it is entirely disinterested.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. Constipation is the cause of many diseases. Cure the cause and you cure the disease. One "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. Druggists sell them, and nothing is "just as good." They are the original Little Liver Pills first put up by old Dr. Pierce over 40 years ago. Much imitated, but never equaled. They are tiny sugar-coated granules—easy to take as candy.

NEWS FROM WEST DULUTH

WEST DULUTH

BEGINNING THE DRIVES

Late Spring Has Greatly Delayed the Lumbering Contractors.

Streams Are Still High and Fishing is Poor.

People coming into West Duluth from the woods report a most unsatisfactory state of affairs, both for the loggers, with whom a late spring means a financial loss, and for the fishermen, who are vexed at the continued cold weather through no business consideration. In common with other parts of the country, the spring is very late, and the streams are now about in a state in which they would ordinarily be in the early part of April.

The drive on the Cloquet river from the camps near Burnett and other points has just begun, and the other lumber companies are in the same predicament. The streams are high now, but will be higher when the weather warms up more, for there is still considerable snow in the woods, which will furnish volume to the streams when it begins to melt.

Fishermen going out to the streams for trout and other species which they furnish, find that they have come too early. Ordinarily the streams are high when the season opens, and by this time of the year they have gone down sufficiently to furnish good fishing. Not so this year, however. The conditions existing now are just about what they would be in the middle of April had the spring been normal.

The lumber contractors who maintained camps in the woods during the winter just closed have lost considerable money by the delayed spring. The logs have all been cut and skidded for some weeks, and they have been waiting for the streams to rise in order to start the drives. The holding of the crews is expensive, but it is expected now that the drives are on, all lumbering operations will be at an end in a short time.

DIES VERY SUDDENLY.

Julius Reinke Passed Away at His Home Yesterday Morning.

Julius Reinke, a wagon-maker employed by the McMartin company, died very suddenly shortly before noon yesterday at his home, 215 South Fifty-seventh avenue west. Mr. Reinke had gone to work yesterday morning, as usual, and was apparently well at the time. During the morning, however, he complained of pains in his chest and decided to return home. He had just entered the house when he pitched forward on the floor, expiring immediately. The remains were removed to Filiatrault's morgue, where an autopsy was performed last evening by Dr. C. R. Keyes and the coroner. Heart trouble was pronounced the cause of death.

Mr. Reinke was 47 years of age, and is survived by a wife and five sons. His aged mother, who made her home with him, also survives. The funeral will be held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the German Lutheran church, Sixty-sixth avenue west and Raleigh street, Rev. Hines officiating. Interment will be in Oneota cemetery.

SMALL FIRE IN RESIDENCE.

Damage of About $150 to Andrew Dunleavy's Home.

The West Duluth fire department was called out at 6:35 this morning by an alarm from the home of Andrew Dunleavy, 117 North Fifty-eighth avenue west. A defect in a stovepipe passing from a heating stove in the dining room through the ceiling to the attic had resulted in the ceiling taking fire and it was burning briskly when the firemen arrived. The flames were quickly extinkuished.

The flames had begun at the aperture through which the chimney passed and spread along the beams to the wall of the house. The ceiling was badly burned and there was a small hole through the roof. About $150 will cover the entire damage, including that to carpets and furniture by water. The house was owned and occupied by Mr. Dunleavy, and the loss is covered by insurance.

CALL IT SUPERIOR STREET.

May Change Names of Streets on Which Cars Run.

On account of the great confusion caused strangers coming into West Duluth by the different names of the streets on which the West Duluth cars run there is a movement on foot to have them all changed and call the whole thoroughfare West Superior street.

The cars on the West Duluth and East End line run on Superior street as far as Thirty-fourth avenue west and then on Jenswold street for two blocks. From there the cars run on Oneota street until Ramsey street is reached and then on Ramsey to Central avenue.

It is very difficult and confusing for outsiders to distinguish between these streets and on this account it has been suggested that the whole thoroughfare be called West Superior street.

Alderman M. J. Filiatrault may bring the matter up in the city council as soon as he ascertains the general wish of the people of this section in regard to the matter.

SAYS STRIKERS BEGAN SHOOTING

Frisco Stores and Restaurants Badly Affected by Trouble.

San Francisco, May 8.—Thronwell, Mullaley, assistant to President Calhoun of the United Railroads, stated today that the company had a number of affidavits showing that the shooting yesterday was begun by persons in the crowd trying to obstruct the movement of street cars, and not by the men operating them.

The strike already has seriously injured business. Several restaurants have closed and many of the big retail stores have decided to open late and close early, and most of them have laid off a number of their employes. The absence of adequate transportation facilities through the burned district makes that section of the city almost deserted by pedestrians, and almost impassable at night.

THE GOVERNOR'S APPOINTMENTS.

Northern Minnesota was recognized freely in the list of appointments handed down yesterday by Governor Johnson. No less than four representatives of this end of the state were appointed upon the several boards and delegations to conventions that were named, three from St. Louis county and one from Polk county.

Perhaps the most important appointment made yesterday was that of the state board of visitors for state institutions, which has a Duluth member in the person of Dr. David Graham of West Duluth. This board is to be required to make frequent visits to all of the public institutions of the state, with a view to determining whether the best interests of the public are being conserved.

From time to time there have been rumors that the patients at some of the insane asylums, for instance, have not been treated with the degree of humanity to which these unfortunates are entitled, and it will be the duty of this board to investigate such reports, and to make recommendations to the governor if any are found necessary. These recommendations may be referred either to the state board of control or to the legislature, depending upon their importance and upon the action they contemplate.

The appointment of Dr. Graham could not easily have been bettered. He will be the physician of the board, and his presence will be necessary in the investigations made by the board of the conditions prevailing at public institutions. He is popular in Duluth, and is well known throughout the state by virtue of a successful term in the legislature.

Two St. Louis county men are named among the delegates appointed to attend the national conference of the National Civic Federation, which takes place in Chicago at the end of this month. Charles d'Autremont of Duluth and Martin Hughes of Hibbing, two able and public-spirited citizens, help to form an unusually strong delegation, one that should make Minnesota felt in the important deliberations of the Civic federation, which takes up for discussion many of the vital problems of society, politics and government, and which includes in its membership some of the strongest men in the nation.

Last but not least, two delegates were named by the governor to attend the Central Drainage conference, which will be held at Memphis, Tenn., May 15, one of whom, George A. Rolph of Crookston, is a Northern Minnesota man and a highly qualified expert on drainage, being the engineer for the state drainage commission.

These appointments are all strong, and highly gratifying to Northern Minnesota. If the others are as good, and they seem likely to be, the newest batch of appointments by Governor Johnson will be in keeping with the particularly happy and fitting selections he has always made during his incumbency of the governorship.

"FINANCIAL INSANITY."

There is a new brand of insanity, just out, which is proving useful as a defense against punishment for crime. At least it has proved useful in one case, and if in one, why not in many?

Boston brought out the new form of brainstorm, and the lucky object of the experiment was one Harry Eidane, a bankrupt, who was brought into United States court charged with concealing assets, contrary to law. He was once a man of wealth, but three years ago he went into bankruptcy with heavy liabilities and total assets of one whole dollar.

Creditors busied themselves, and charged that he had transferred a large amount of property to a sister, and had otherwise concealed property from the assignee that the creditors thought should have gone to their relief.

There wasn't much hope of a defense against the facts, apparently, for his attorneys set up the novel defense that he did not know the use or value of money, and let it go from him freely without "value received." Expert alienists supported the claim, and testified that he was suffering from a disease which they called "financial insanity." The jury took it in, and acquitted him of the charge.

Financial insanity is clearly the true "dementia Americana." The use of it as a defense from criminal prosecution is new, but having been successfully tried and not denied, it will certainly be tried again.

It need not be confined to those that go into bankruptcy and cunningly conceal a portion of their assets from the view of creditors. For an insane man, Eidane certainly showed that his madness was possessed of much method, if he did all he is credited with doing in the way of fooling his creditors. If the plea of insanity can avail against such evidence of guile and craft, it surely ought to be efficacious in the case of a man who has more money than he can possibly use, and who continues to make more by criminal methods. People have often wondered why Mr. Rockefeller, for instance, who has certainly enough money now to keep him comfortably in his declining years, should continue to let his great financial machine manufacture a lot more money by squeezing the public and crushing its competitors. Now we know. It is financial insanity.

People have wondered, too, why some men should preserve an atmosphere of piety while at the same time they were gaining wealth by means that were more than questionable, and that certainly bore no relation whatever to the teachings of Him who said: "It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God." Now we know all about these men, too. They are troubled with "financial insanity."

But if they ever start building financial lunatic asylums, the public treasuries will surely go bankrupt before they house them all.

Newspaper poets are trying to cheer us up during the cold weather by informing us that June is coming. Here's hoping it will bring spring with it.

UNWRITTEN LAWLESSNESS.

It wouldn't be at all surprising to discover, presently, that there has been growing of late in the public mind an uneasy feeling that there is entirely too much "unwritten law" in this country, and that it is high time that some of those that have been taking advantage of it to wreak their private vengeances should have some of the nonsense knocked out of their heads.

During the recent session of the Minnesota legislature some practical joker worked an innocent and unsophisticated statesman up to the point where he consented to introduce a bill repealing the "unwritten law." He didn't introduce it, because somebody took him in hand and taught him the way to see the point of the joke, which was, of course, that a law repealing a law that didn't exist would be rather foolish and ineffectual.

However, there was more than a joke in the story, and unwise as he was to the ways of the legislative machine, the statesman was right when he said: "By ginger, there's too blamed much of this 'unwritten law' business, and it ought to be stopped."

The offhand slaughter of a human being because he is suspected of an offense against the sanctity of the home cannot be condoned by the gravity of the crime with which he is charged. Popular sympathy is often with the man that does the killing in such cases, but popular sympathy is treading on dangerous ground when it flocks to the man that constitutes himself judge, jury, supreme court and executioner and plunges a human being into eternity with all his sins upon his soul.

Even in cases where the guilt of the victim of "unwritten law" vengeance is unquestionable, the policy of permitting an individual to impose capital punishment for the offense and to inflict it himself is more than dubious.

But in many cases the killing is done on suspicion based on circumstantial evidence, and without proof enough to convince the most willing jury. In several recent cases where husbands and fathers have taken the law into their own hands there has been far more than a "reasonable doubt" of the guilt of the victims. The deed has been done in the fiery heat of passion, and when the judgment and reason of the executioner were unseated by blinding rage.

That is no way for justice to be imposed, under either written or unwritten laws. The unwritten law cannot be maintained without the sacrifice of the written law, which is ample to cover most ordinary offenses.

There can be no defense of the wretch that despoils a home. His deed is the vilest in the category of crime, and he deserves punishment, swift, certain, terrible. Perhaps he deserves capital punishment more than do criminals who are content with taking only the lives of their victims.

But it is full of danger to society to permit men to take the law into their own hands, and to suffer them to escape punishment for their presumption by reliance upon any "unwritten law."

OIL TRUST SHORTSIGHTEDNESS.

The report from St. Paul that the Standard Oil company, in retaliation for the passage of the anti-discrimination law, has brought about a general increase of prices in the state, if it is correct, shows very poor judgment on the part of the oil trust.

It is two years before another legislature meets, but that will give ample time for working public sentiment up to the point where the oil trust will get what it really needs, and what it would have had long ago had public sentiment been active enough: a gravity test that will require it to furnish oil of good quality. Furthermore, if it puts the prices up too high, there is very likely some way in which the legislature can meet that difficulty, by cutting them down by law, as it has cut railroad rates.

It is a curious thing that though nobody has ever questioned the need of a gravity test for petroleum products in this state, it has always been impossible to pass a law providing it. Bills have been introduced at each of the last half dozen sessions, and uniformly they have fallen by the wayside, apparently because the oil trust opened up its coffers and put out a little money, and because public sentiment was not strong enough to force the bills through against this quiet but potent influence.

The only reason the legislature passed the anti-discrimination bill was that the independent oil dealers laid down hard upon the members, and so persistently advocated it for their own protection and for the protection of the public that the pecuniary efforts of the oil trust were unavailing. There was the usual opposition to it. Learned attorneys, members of the house, arose and gravely argued that the bill was clearly unconstitutional. Efforts to juggle it in committee were repeatedly made. The usual log-rolling tactics were exerted against it, but without avail. It passed, and now it is said the oil trust is going to get square by raising rates.

This policy will in the end prove of benefit to the people in a manner that will show it to have been very shortsighted on the part of the trust. It will arouse public opinion in the matter so that bills levelled at the oil trust will have a much better show of passage at the next session than ever before, because the legislature will not dare take up the defense of such methods when the public is looking on. At the recent session the public was occupied with other matters, and was not paying particular attention to the case of the oil trust, so it was easy to beat all the anti-oil trust measures except the one that had the persistent and insistent backing of the independent oil concerns.

In the meantime, since the independents have been given the relief they asked for, and which they were clearly entitled to because they showed that the trust was crushing them by unfair methods, it would seem only fair that they protect the public against unfair prices by keeping their own charges down to a just basis. With competition free, it is the fault of the independents if prices go too high.

Is there really such a thing as spring, or is it merely an idle dream?

Duluth is moving ahead rapidly, but nobody need stop pushing on that account.

A New York publishing house is advertising for some "good ragtime music." Yet musicians tell us there can't be any such thing.

A movement is on in Chicago to make it "the city beautiful." More formidable tasks than this have been performed, but not very many.

The Missouri house of representatives has passed a bill limiting telegraph bills to 25 cents for ten words. Minnesota's house did the same thing, but that was as far as it got.

TALKING ABOUT THE HERALD

Brimming With Optimism.

New York Tribune: An industrial edition of The Duluth Evening Herald comes to hand, ninety-two pages strong and brimming over with optimism for the hustling lake city and the prosperous Northwest in general. "The most favored portion of America" is the way The Herald expresses its opinion of the territory which it covers.

Worthy Exponent of Duluth.

Brooklyn Standard Union: The Duluth Evening Herald celebrates "the Zenith City of the Unsalted Seas" in a ninety-two page industrial three-quarters of a pound edition, most of which exploits the extraordinary growth and still more extraordinary advantages of the city in which the Steel trust has lately decided to erect a $6,000,000 plant, and destined, its local prophets assert, to become the great iron and steel manufacturing center of the world. Duluth shipped last year 26,000,000 tons of ore, which within ten years it expects to double; produced $54,500,000 of manufactures, not including 6,500,000 cigars; is the largest wheat and flaxseed market in the world, and has bank deposits of $237.50, or about five times the average per capita of the money in the country for every man, woman and child of its 80,000,000 population. Duluth claims also the greatest harbor in the continent, if not in the entire world, a fleet of the largest lake carriers, to which the 15,000-ton J. Pierpont Morgan was last year added, and announces that the 30,000 electric horse power of the St. Louis river has been harnessed and is now ready for business. The Herald, in its twenty-fifth year, is a worthy exponent of the hustling city of the Northwest.

Meaty and Concise.

Galveston, Tex., News: The Duluth, Minn., Evening Herald came out April 25 with a mammoth industrial edition of ninety-two pages. The matter in this edition is meaty and concise, and covers the details of the colossal steel works of Duluth, the Great Northern power plant, and dry dock and shipyard, the record of the port, the agricultural certainties of Northern Minnesota. This Herald special should do much toward enlightened the people of Minnesota and elsewhere as to the great present and greater future of Duluth and the section surrounding that city, and The Herald may well be proud of its work.

An Elaborate Presentation.

Saginaw, Mich., News: The city at the Head of the Lakes is given a most elaborate presentation in The Duluth Evening Herald of April 25, which published an industrial edition of ninety-two pages on that date. It is told that Duluth of today has a population of over 81,000, also that in 1850 the entire county in which it is located, St. Louis, could marshal but 406 souls. In 1880 the census gave it but few over 5,000, so the growth of this city where Iron is King has been rapid and most substantial, as is plainly demonstrated by the magnificent structures shown in the numerous pages of this edition. This special edition is lavishly illustrated with scenes from the city and locality, ore docks, mines, lumbering activities, public buildings, schools, churches and manufacturing institutions, while much descriptive material is found in its numerous columns.

Both to Be Congratulated.

Portsmouth, N. H., Chronicle: The Duluth, Minn., Evening Herald has issued a mammoth industrial edition of ninety-two pages, setting forth the commercial and industrial greatness of the city it represents. Both Duluth and The Herald are to be congratulated, the former no less because of its prosperity than because of its possession of so enterprising a newspaper.

One of the Finest.

Princeton Union: The Duluth Herald's industrial edition is one of the finest newspaper productions of modern times. It contains ninety-two pages profusely illustrated with half-tone engravings. It sets forth in comprehensive manner the advantages and possibilities of Duluth as a commercial center, and boosts the Northwest generally. This edition alone will do more to stimulate progress in the Northwest than all the immigration boards extant.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

"I made my first trip abroad this year," said L. T. McLaren of Pittsburg, Pa., at the Lenox. "We left home about the middle of January, going first to Egypt and sailing from there to Joppa, intending to go from Joppa to Jerusalem, as visitors usually do. When we got to Joppa the sea was so rough that we were carried to Beirut and from there we went south through the country.

"The Lebanon mountains were snowed up and we could not get to Damascus by train. So we took another ship and came half way back. Joppa is a bad place to land. There is no harbor and no breakwater except the remains of an old Phoenician breakwater, which has strewn a lot of dangerous rocks. The oarsmen are skilled in handling their boats, rowing among these rocks, but, as I said, in a heavy sea it is impossible to land.

"I broke my arm on the trip. I was riding an Arab horse, one that I had ridden up and down the mountains and over the rockiest roads for three days. This accident happened on a level road. The horse stepped into a hole and threw me. I had to ride that animal seven hours before I came to a doctor. I found the man a Syrian, educated at the American college at Beirut. He was located at a mud village, the name of which I have forgotten. The Syrian was a skillful man, but it took hours for him to reduce the inflammation so he could set the bone.

"It is a great thing to view Palestine from the summits of its mountains. It is better than a closer view, as it leaves room for a reverent imagination. We got along fairly well with the Turkish government, except that three of us went to jail at Shechem, the most irresponsible and turbulent community in Palestine. The officials there wanted not simply an American passport, but wanted to see our Turkish passport and we had none, so the police took three of us in. The others in the party were walking about elsewhere, and escaped.

"When we got before the chief of police I made a speech which I suppose was accurately translated by the fellow we had with us who was acting in the capacity of guide, threatening to have the United States army and navy come up that valley within twenty-four hours. This seemed to impress the chief. He sent our American passports to the governor of the district and asked what should be done. The governor was pleased to release us. He evidently did not want the serenity of the Holy Land disturbed. Everything there is graft from beginning to end, and I suppose the officials wanted money to release us."

"It is urgently necessary that the United States take steps to meet changed foreign trade conditions by changes in the United States tariff system," said C. O. Kinship of Chicago at the St. Louis. "Since the adoption of the new Canadian tariff, several years ago, American manufacturers have been forced, by tariff conditions, to establish mills and factories in Canada, assembling the raw material on the Canadian soil and manufacturing there for sale in the Canadian markets and for export through Canadian ports, articles which, under normal conditions, would be manufactured in this country as a surplus and sold hence into Canada or exported through our own ports.

"These mills and factories are all financed by American capital. It is figured that there are more than 125 of these factories in Canada, employing something like 40,000 skilled laborers, who should find employment in similar work in this country. Then, too, in Europe many of our large manufacturing concerns have been forced, also by tariff conditions, to establish factories, where the output is sold in continental markets."

THE WEATHER.

Early this morning the sun was shining merrily, the sky was cloudless, and it looked from the window like an ideal spring day. But by the time most people got about the sky was overcast with clouds, a chill wind was blowing from the lake, and it was generally unspringlike and unpleasant, though there is always the satisfaction of knowing that it might be very much worse. Last night's lowest temperature was 26 degs., and yesterday's highest was 32 degs. The weather man expects tonight's lowest to be 30 to 32 degs., and he also expects light rain or snow.

A year ago today it was cool, with a northeast wind.

The sun rose at 4:40 this morning and sets at 7:27 tonight, leaving 14 hours and 47 minutes of sunshine—somewhere.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "Temperatures have risen somewhat during the past twenty-four hours due to a low pressure area central over Western Canada. This disturbance together with the one in the Southwest caused snow or rain in Western Canada, the Mississippi and Ohio valleys, lake region, Gulf states Nevada and Utah. The barometer is high in the lake region and Pacific coast districts. The Western Canada low pressure area as it moves eastward will probably cause rain or snow in this section during tonight and Thursday."

Cause for Complaint.

Washington Star: Rear Admiral Mead, at a dinner at the Portsmouth navy yard, illuminated with a story an interesting discourse on food inspection.

"A sailor," he said, "brought a tin cup to an inspecting officer and exclaimed:

"'Taste this, sir. That is all I ask. Just taste it.'

"The officer took a sip.

"'Well, really, my man,' he said, 'this is not bad soup at all.'

"'Yes,' said the sailor bitterly; 'and yet they want to persuade us, sir, that it's tea.'"

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Red Wing Republican: Women who search their husband's pockets at night should be careful. An Ohio woman who engaged in this nocturnal pastime stepped on a tack and now is afflicted with lockjaw.

Roseau Region: If the hens, who are still laying like mad, would get together and tell off a squad to go slow now and to get busy next December it would be of great public benefit.

Ely Miner: Some criticisms are thrown out in the country press regarding the inaction of the late legislature, while in truth the same are uncalled for and clearly out of place. It must be said that the last session was one of the best ever held in the state, and while it did cost a little more than some of the others, the state tax rate increase will amount to barely nothing. One of the best and richest states in the Union should have the best there is. A few pennies a year on additional taxes hurts no one.

Hibbing Tribune: Nobody would be better pleased to see Governor Johnson a candidate for the presidency than the Republicans of Minnesota.

Carlton Vidette: It is gratifying to see the swamp lands of this state coming to the front. Thousands of settlers have passed over these lands to seek poorer homes in the West, thinking that the swamp lands of Minnesota were valueless. Today snug little homes may be found high and dry upon the rich black loam that a few years ago was covered with water. All that is necessary is a ditch here and there and the land is soon ready for the plow.

Floodwood Broadaxe: There is a great deal of difference between a smart man and a wise man. The former has a cunning, the latter a philosophy. One views mankind as God would have had him, the other as the devil would have made him.

Walker Pilot: An inch of advertising properly applied will remove a yard of cob webs from any store. Ten inches used regularly will knock a feather duster out of business.

Pillager Leader: The legislators refused to reapportion the state and do justice to the Northern part of the state. It is hard to shake worsome men off from an idea, no matter how wrong it may be, and is harder to cause them to do justice to their fellow men, especially if it compells them to sacrifice a little of their power.

Eveleth Star: Railroad men are beginning to preach the square deal to the public. It's high time, but better had they started earlier.

LAUGHING GAS.

Philadelphia Press: "Ah!" exclaimed the good old soul, observing how cheerfully the laborer whistled as he toiled, "you're contented at least. I am glad to see your work is not beneath you."

"Quit yer kiddin', lady," replied the laborer, "I'm diggin' a trench."

Chicago Tribune: Percy had asked the rich banker for the hand of Miss Gladys.

"Young man," said the banker, "can you provide my daughter with the style of touring car to which she has been accustomed?"

Percy—alas!—had thought up an answer to every possible question but that.

Philadelphia Ledger: Foraker had touched off his fireworks.

There was a faint sizzle, a little smoke and silence.

"Ha. I see," he exclaimed, after a brief investigation. "The powder was stuff condemned to the war department."

Somerville Journal: Watkyns—Dr. Bolus is very successful in his profession, isn't he?

Wylkyns—I guess so. He has three automobiles.

Philadelphia Press: "What sort of breakfast food do you like, Mr. Newcome?" asked Mrs. Starvem on his first morning in her house.

"Well," replied the new boarder, "I wouldn't mind some grape-fruit, lamb chops, a couple of poached eggs on toast, hot muffins and coffee."

Chicago Tribune: "They say," observed the professor, "that 10,000 camels in Egypt have been named 'Roosevelt.' Well, that isn't so shockingly inappropriate. A camel is a terribly rough rider, is always humping itself, has to bear a great many burdens and seldom takes water."

Gilbert Wanted More Facts.

London Tatler: W. S. Gilbert is well known for his punctiliousness in the matter of good English. The other day he was standing in the entrance hall of his club when a new member went up to him and asked: "I beg your pardon, sir, but do you happen to have seen a gentleman, one of the members of this club, with a glass eye called Matthew?"

"Can't say I have," replied Gilbert. "What's the name of the other eye?"

THE LATE LEGISLATURE.

Anoka Union: Surely the legislature which went out of existence last week was a headless body. If there was a great head, I have been unable to discover it. About all the body accomplished, save the 2-cent fare bill, was a reckless distribution of appropriations, and it certainly squandered the people's money with a lavish hand. A leader in either the house or senate failed to appear and hardly a member made an attempt to be at the head. The record made is one of little moment, and one which may bring home some chickens to roost, for the Republican party.

Thief River Falls: By passing an antipass law that will not go into effect until their term of office expires, the members of the house of representatives who supported this measure placed themselves in rather a ridiculous position. In fact they virtually said that it would be advisable for the railroads to bribe the present members of the legislature with passes, but that they must not do it in the future.

Little Falls Herald: The records of some of the members of the recent legislature are best expressed by the remark of the Irishman who said: "I started with nothing and held my own."

St. Peter Herald: A number of our exchanges are deploring the fact that the Republican members of the legislature increased their own salaries and thereby made themselves ineligible as gubernatorial candidates. Useless regrets. The session did not produce any Republican gubernatorial timber worth considering.

Paynesville Press: What is the amount of the net gain to the state of all those legislative investigating committees? Will some authority please answer?

Buffalo Journal: The legislature adjourned without selecting a candidate for governor, or if one was chosen the fact has not been made public. Possibly the politicians have learned some wisdom after two jolts in the jaw.

Brainerd Tribune: The railroads seem to be pretty well satisfied with the work of the legislature, after all. They should be.

Pine Tree Blaze: The legislature made no mistake when they abolished passes. As long as the rate is only 2 cents per mile there ought not to be any whining for passes. Those who can't afford to pay that can stay at home or walk.

Stillwater Gazette: One bright thing performed by the last legislature is to compel the home manufacturing corporations to pay a fee while the outsiders escape paying the same. That is not protecting the home boys, much.

Roseau Region: Sjoblom of Minneapolis, says: "Forgive us our legislature" would seem to be one of the coming prayers of the Republican party." He's right. If ever a legislature gave hope and comfort to the enemy, the one just deceased did so good and plenty.

Says Satan Pushed Her.

Chicago Tribune: A minister's daughter, Katharine, had formed the habit of going to a neighbor's just about dinner time. Finally, her mother said to her, "Katharine, if you ever feel like going there again at the wrong time, you must say, 'Get thee behind me, Satan.'"

The next day Katharine was missing as usual. On her return her mother asked her: "Why didn't you say, 'Get thee behind me, Satan?'"

"I did, mamma, but he pushed me all the way."

FROM ROME TO THE SEA.

Plus X No Longer to be Prisoner of the Vatican.

New York, May 8.—There is a far bigger news story than appears on the surface back of the short cablegram received from Rome that R. C. Kerens of St. Louis and Martin Maloney, the well known Easterner, are arranging for the purchase of a narrow strip of land extending from the Vatican to the seacoast, in order to give Pope Pius X. a villa on the seashore.

Back of the statement in the cablegram that options have been secured on this strip of land is the understanding that the Italian government has been won over to the plan to restore the pontiff's temporal power on this strip.

There is interwoven in this a plan for the enhancement of the Catholic church in the United States and the addition of at least three American prelates to the list of members of the sacred college of cardinals.

It is one of the biggest schemes under way in the world today. The original suggestion came from Archbishop John I. Glennon of St. Louis, whom a well known English ecclesiastic, attached to the Vatican diplomatic service asserted in confidence, shortly after the pope made his declaration during the last allocution, was the one his holiness had in mind when he said:

"The United States will soon be given an additional cardinal; one whose name will be a complete surprise."

American money exclusively will be used. The $10,000,000 needed to close the deal has been assured. An appeal for subscriptions to American Catholics generally is likely. When the plan becomes a reality Mr. Kerens would naturally ask for Glennon and Maloney for Ryan. They would not be refused. Either Chicago or St. Paul and the Pacific coast would also be included in the list of new cardinals.

HE BUCKED THE TRUST

Frenchman Would Not Pay 50 Cents to Hibbing Barber.

Loses $40 in Duluth But Does Not Regret It.

They are charging fifty cents for a hair cut in the town of Hibbing and this fact caused the downfall of one Francois Lemaitre, for in attempting to buck the barbers' trust Francois lost about $40, spent the night in the Duluth lockup, and endured various other hardships.

Francois was just in from the woods with a roll of $40 and he went into a Hibbing barber shop yesterday to get cleaned up. He found that the price of hair cuts had been raised to fifty cents.

"Pay feefty cents. Nevaire!" said Francois.

"You can't get it for less," said the barber.

"Sacre. I shall go to Dulut' sooner than pay you ze feefty cents."

And Francois kept his word, coming in on yesterday afternoon's train to get his 35-cent hair cut.

He got the hair cut, saved his 15 cents, and then started out for a time. He met a friend and the "time" took on brilliant hues. The innocent little glasses of "vin" that Francois and his friend absorbed, were sufficient to put the little Frenchman thoroughly to the bad during the afternoon, and he was gathered in about 6 o'clock last evening joyously drunk.

This morning, in spite of the traditional morning-after feeling, Francois showed considerable spirit when arraigned. He told of his troubles loquaciously, and excitedly breaking into French every now and then when the poor facilities of English failed him utterly.

"Mol, j'av' forty dol' whe I come to Dulut'," he said. "I come to not pay les barbaires in Hibbing feefty cent whesch they charge for a hair cut. I get drunk, ver', ver', drunk, an' at ze time when I know where I am I haf no mon'. Zat hair-cut cost me ver' near forty dol' but zat am bettaire, mooch bettaire, zan pay ze barbaires of Hibbing zo feefty cent."

The judge decided that Francois had been punished enough and was simply the victim of a lost cause, so he suspended sentence on condition that the Frenchman take the next train for the range.

TAMS BIXBY HAS RESIGNED

From Dawes Commission to Attend to Private Business.

Washington, May 8.—Secretary of the Interior Garfield has accepted the resignation of Tams Bixby of Minnesota, commissioner of the civilized tribes of Indians, with headquarters at Muskogee, I. T. The resignation takes effect on June 30.

This is the fourth time Mr. Bixby has tendered his resignation. The other three times it was not accepted. A few weeks ago Bixby notified Secretary Garfield that he was extremely anxious to quit the government service and engage in private business. He said the work of allotting the lands to the Indians was well advanced and that he could drop out without injury to the public service.

Just about that time some charges were filed against Bixby by Marshall Mott, attorney for the Creek Indians. This delayed his resignation. He was determined not to go out under fire. So he held on. Secretary Garfield investigated the charges and gave Bixby a clean bill of health. Now Bixby will retire of his own motion and with the regret of the interior department.

Secretary Garfield said there were several standing applicants for the place, but he would take his time about the selection of a successor. He admitted, however, that he had under consideration a plan to consolidate the commission and inspector's office and place J. George Wright, the present inspector, in charge.

BROUGHT IT ON THEMSELVES

City Officials Say Job Printers Were Too Aggressive.

According to a statement made to The Herald yesterday by one of the city officials, the bringing of information of an alleged combination of the job printers before the grand jury, was caused by what he termed the "bull dozing" tactics of the printers.

It is claimed that after City Clerk Cheadle had arranged to have the work done for the city at a moderate reduction from their first bids, some of the printers took it upon themselves to call on the bookbinders who were to do some of the work, and persuaded them to refuse to carry out their part of the contract. "In these days of combinations and organizations," said the official in question, "it is almost essential that an understanding shall exist among printers as to prices, but these prices should be reasonable and no bulldozing tactics should be pursued."

IOWA WOMAN A SUICIDE.

Phones to Her Neighbors, But is Dead When Found.

Guthrie Center, Iowa, May 8.—Mrs. George Betts went to the telephone at her home, shortly after her husband left for town yesterday and asked central to connect her with all the patrons on the rural lines. Many receivers were lifted, and Mrs. Betts shouted in the 'phone:

"Now, all you neighbors listen. This is Mrs. George Betts. You know I have been very sick a long time. George has had bad luck financially and I am a burden to him.

"Our doctor bills are awful; we can scarcely pay the rent. George has gone to town. I have here beside me a can of concentrated lye. As soon as I hang up the receiver I am going to drink it down. That's all. Good bye!"

Frantic efforts were made by neighbors to get the woman to answer the 'phone again, but she would not. Half a dozen farmers mounted horses and rushed at once to save the woman. They found her dead. She was 35.

The Handy Doctor in Your Vest Pocket

IT'S a thin, round-cornered little Enamel Box—

When carried in your vest pocket it means Health-Insurance.

It contains Six Candy Tablets of pleasant taste, almost as pleasant as Chocolate.

Each tablet is a working dose of Cascarets, which acts like Exercise on the Bowels and Liver.

It will not purge, sicken, nor upset the stomach.

Because it is not a "Bile-driver," like Salts, Sodium, Calomel, Jalap, Senna, nor Aperient Waters.

Neither is it like Castor Oil, Glycerine, or other Oily Laxatives that simply lubricate the Intestines for transit of the food stopped up in them at that particular time.

The chief cause of Constipation and Indigestion is a weakness of the Muscles that contract the Intestines and Bowels.

Cascarets are practically to the Bowel Muscles what a Massage and Cold Bath are to the Athletic Muscles.

They stimulate the Bowel Muscles to contract, expand, and squeeze the Digestive Juices out of food eaten.

They don't help the Bowels and Liver in such a way as to make them lean upon similar assistance for the future.

This is why, with Cascarets, the dose may be lessened each succeeding time instead of increased, as it must be with all other Cathartics and Laxatives.

Cascarets act like exercise.

If carried in your vest pocket, (or carried in My Lady's Purse,) and eaten just when you suspect you need one, you will never know a sick day from the ordinary ills of life.

Because these ills begin in the Bowels, and pave the way for all other diseases.

"Vest Pocket" box 10 cents. 737

Be sure you get the genuine, made only by the Sterling Remedy Company, and never sold in bulk. Every tablet stamped "CCC."

MORTGAGED BY THAW'S MOTHER

"Lyndhurst" Made Security Secretly for Loan of $100,000.

Pittsburg, May 8.—"Lyndhurst," the pretentious home of Mrs. William Thaw in the east end section of this city, was mortgaged for $100,000 some time ago, but the book containing the record was hidden. The interest is 5½ per cent and the mortgage is held by the Fidelity Title & Trust company. It will mature in three years.

The paper was drawn in New York city, March 7, last, and was witnessed by Attorney Clifford W. Hartridge of Harry Thaw's counsel and John P. Meagher, a notary. Extraordinary efforts were made to keep the mortgage secret. It is the only one recorded in mortgage book No. 1358 and, the book, instead of being in its proper place in the county recorder's office, is still in the transcribing room on the third floor of the Allegheny county courthouse.

The incident following so closely on the suppression of the recording of a marriage license to Miss Ellen Terry, the actress, March 22, and which was not known until this week, has caused adverse comment on the conduct of the record officer in the Allegheny courthouse and a movement is afoot among the legal fraternity for an investigation.

Four trustees accounts under the will of William Thaw were filed for audit in the office of the register of wills yesterday. The account of Harry Thaw shows there is due him, under the direct legacy allowed by his father, the sum of $439,534.46. The increase from this as invested by the trustees during the three years covered by the account is $83,903.20. Of this sum, expenditures have been made covering the necessary expenses of the estate, bringing the amount actually paid him down to something less than $60,000.

ODD CASE

Of Two Women Taking Poison Because of Love Unrequited.

Anaconda, Mont., May 8.—The odd case of two women of the under world loving the same man and both determining to commit suicide because of love unrequited, was revealed in Anaconda yesterday, when Eva Gordon was found dead in bed, having swallowed half the contents of a bottle of morphine. Ella Black, the Gordon woman's would-be companion, swallowed the other half of the morphine, but lives. The name of the man in the case is withheld by the officers, but he is understood to be a respectable saloon man who would have nothing to do with the women.

OBJECT TO NEW RATES

Duluth and Twin City Jobbers Will Appeal to Courts.

Say State Commission "Slopped Over" in Recent Action.

Jobbers of Duluth, St. Paul and Minneapolis have strong objections to offer against the action of the state railway and warehouse commission in reducing the commodity rates from the Head of the Lakes and the Twin Cities to a few of the towns in Western Minnesota, classed as distributing centers.

It is claimed these points are not distributing centers, and that the reduced rates will benefit towns in North Dakota to the serious detriment of Duluth and the Twin Cities. The three leading Minnesota cities are together working to overcome this injustice. C. R. Rust of Duluth has written the following letter to the commission, setting forth the facts in the case, and voicing the protest of the Duluth jobbers as a whole:

"State Railway and Warehouse Commission, St. Paul, Minn.: Gentlemen, We are in receipt of a copy of your order referring to commodity rates to distributing points so-called by you in the state of Minnesota. You have certainly slopped over to a serious extent in the promulgation of this order. There is absolutely no sense or justice in this action on your part. The idea of a Minnesota public officer favoring a reduction of commodity rates to towns such as East Grand Forks, Moorhead and Breckenridge where there is not a dollar's worth of jobbing business done, for the purpose of favoring jobbing institutions across the line in another state in Grand Forks, Wahpeton and Fargo is indeed preposterous and wholly inexcusable. We cannot imagine what you are thinking of and we have not the language strong enough to protest against this action on your part. We beg to say, however, that we shall join with other jobbing interests in petitioning the court for an injunction against putting this order into effect, with reasonable assurance that such an injunction will be granted, at first temporary and afterwards permanently.

"The figures upon which you have based your decision presented to you on Jan. 23, last were on the part of the interior jobbers largely, if not altogether fictitious. They were based upon the interior jobbers securing their source of supplies from Minnesota terminals, Twin Cities and Duluth. It was pointed out to you that their source of supplies for the majority of goods was outside of the state, and this was a fact well known to everybody. Under your ruling it is possible that these interior jobbers shall not only receive the benefits enjoyed by the jobbing interests of the Twin Cities and Duluth on low commodity rates from outside points, but shall also enjoy the benefits of low commodity rates from Minnesota terminals to their distributing point. This is unfair and unjust and will not be tolerated. Just why you should take it upon yourself to favor North Dakota institutions in this instance seems to be a question that cannot be answered.

"Speaking to you individually you have by the acceptance of your office and assuming the obligations of a public servant sworn to defend and uphold the interests of the state of Minnesota, and in our opinion you have by this recent action on your part rendered yourself open for the most severe criticism. It is to be honed that public officers of this state would have better sense than to play into the hands of interests outside of the state to the detriment of those interested within his own state.

"Yours respectfully,

"C. R. RUST."

Dated Duluth, May 6, 1907.

LOOKING FOR RUNAWAY SON

West End Woman Broken-Hearted Over Disappearance of Boy.

Had Frank Banach of 2621 West Ninth street realized the amount of worry and misgiving which his running away from home last Monday evening would cause his mother, the 17-year-old youth would probably never have left home so unceremoniously. Mrs. Banach, yesterday afternoon, sought aid at the police station, and from Mrs. Forgy of the Humane society, in her search for her son.

Monday evening, she said, the boy left home without telling her anything about where he was going, and has not been home since. She and her friends have been searching frantically for him, but have found no clue to his whereabouts, except that he was seen with two boys of questionable reputation on the night of his disappearance. The fact that he was in such company did not lessen Mrs. Banach's fears as to his safety, as she is afraid that the boys may lead him into trouble.

He had no money when he left the house, and did not even make an effort to smuggle any extra clothes when he departed, but his mother is of the opinion that he is beating his way to Seattle. Mrs. Banach was shaken with sobs as she told her story to Mrs. Forgy, and she expressed a willingness to follow her runaway son anywhere if she only knew where to go.

FATAL SHOOTING.

Wealthy Young Man In Jail for Killing a Negro.

Ottumwa, Iowa, May 8.—Miles Morrow, a wealthy young man from Mount Pleasant, shot and instantly killed Ben Farrell, colored, 24 years of age. After firing the shot, Morrow walked to the police station and gave himself up, saying his action had been done in self-defense.

Morrow had spent the morning at the home of a woman neighbor of Farrell. According to her story, Morrow has at various times beaten her, and Farrell had told her that if he mistreated her again to send for him and he would take her part. Morrow is alleged to have been insulting in his actions, and finally the woman sent for Farrell. Morrow left the house at his approach and met him in the street.

A short altercation ensued, followed by Morrow producing a gun and shooting Farrell through the heart. When Farrell was picked up a gun was found under him. The coroner's jury returned a verdict of death by gunshot wound feloniously inflicted.

SHOCKING ACCIDENT

Occurs in Mill of the Rainy River Lumber Company.

Fred Capon, Caught on Shaft, is Whirled to Horrible Death.

Spooner, Minn., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—A shocking accident occurred at the mill of the Rainy River Lumber company, at Rainy River, yesterday, when Fred Capon, a new employe, was horribly mutilated by being caught in the machinery. It was Capon's first day at the mill, and he was unfamiliar with his surroundings and did not realize the danger to which he exposed himself. By some unaccountable means his clothing was caught in the shafting, and before help could reach him he was carried round and round the rapidly running shaft. When the machinery was stopped a horrible sight met the eyes of the employes. Capon's head had been thrown in one direction and his limbs in another, while his trunk was still attached to the shafting. His remains were gathered up and tenderly taken to his home. The unfortunate man leaves a widow and a babe a few days' old.

ST. CLOUD RECTOR PASSES AWAY

Rev. Father George F. Arenth Dies in Pittsburg Hospital.

Pittsburg, May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. Father George F. Arenth, 32 years old, rector of Holy Angels' Cathedral of St. Cloud, Minn., died at the St. Francis hospital here this morning. Death was caused by a complication of diseases following nervous prostration.

Father Arenth was visiting relatives here when he was taken to the hospital. He was state chaplain of the Knights of Columbus in Minnesota.

CARS ARE TOO LIGHT.

Big Engines Wreck the Little Old Box Cars on Railroads.

Brainerd, Minn., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The old-fashioned, small, light box cars built fifteen or twenty years ago are not only practically useless today, but are proving a source of much danger and delay. Extra 1419 East Monday night had plenty of experience with them. Two draw bars were pulled out at Pillager and one car derailed because the cars were too light to stand the strain. When the train started to pull out of Brainerd two more cars gave way, being literally pulled in two. One of them was piled on the main track, blocking it so as to delay No. 14 half an hour. Both cars were jackknifed by the force of the jerk in starting, though only about twenty cars from the rear of the train.

HIT BY BIG MACHINE.

John Paulson of Crookston Has a Narrow Escape From Death.

Crookston, Minn., May 8.—John Paulson, an employe at the Espe foundry, came as near to death's door and escaped as seldom falls to the lot of man to go. He was changing the dies in the big stamping machine which with one blow cuts out the famous Osmundson square from a piece of the hardest steel, when the catch which holds the power from the machine slipped, and an iron bar with which he was turning the wheel in the die flew around and struck him a blow on the head. He owes his life to the fact that the blow was a glancing one and just grazed his skull. Had it hit him squarely, his brains would have been dashed out, and as it is, he will be laid up for several days with a gashed head.

SCALDED BY STEAM.

Wiper at Roundhouse Seriously Hurt by Plug Blowing Out.

Crookston, Minn., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Alfred Clausen, a wiper at the roundhouse, was severely scalded by escaping steam Monday while working on an engine. He is now at St. Vincent's hospital, where he is receiving treatment, and it is hoped that he will not be permanently injured, although his injuries are exceedingly painful. In wiping the engine a steam plug blew out and the hot steam blew into his face, scalding it terribly. He was removed at once to St. Vincent's hospital, where he received treatment, and he is now resting quite easy.

AIR SHUT OFF.

Diver at Rainy River Has a Narrow Escape From Death.

International Falls, Minn., May 8.—Pete Gallant, a diver, met with an accident yesterday that came near causing his death. While down in the water about forty feet helping remove rock from the coffer dam below the Canadian powerhouse foundation, an 800 pound stone slipped out of the chain of a hoisting derrick and dropped in such a manner as to shut of his air supply and hold the life line. The unfortunate man signalled for help, whereupon Richard Finnigan, the other diver, was summoned from his work on the American shore to the aid of his suffocating companion. Gallant was soon brought to the surface but was unconscious when his helmet was removed. He was able to be around again after dinner and treated the incident as of no inmportance.

WEDDINGS AT BEMIDJI

Two Couples United in Marriage on Tuesday Forenoon.

Bemidji, Minn., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Dollie Bailey and E. R. Dunham were married at 11 o'clock yesterday forenoon at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bailey, Rev. Isaac Peart, pastor of the local M. E. church, performing the ceremony. J. W. Bailey, brother of the bride, acted as best man, and Mrs. J. W. Bailey was bridesmaid. Mr. and Mrs. Dunham left in the afternoon for Grand Forks, N. D., where they will probably hereafter make their home. The bride is the daughter of Sheriff and Mrs. Bailey of this city and has resided in this city for the past eight years. The groom was a resident of Bemidji for several years, although he is now in the employ of the Great Northern railway as express messenger between Grand Forks and Gretna.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Anthony's chapel yesterday morning, when Miss Hattie Chamberlain, and Urbin Reide were married. Rev. Father O'Dwyer officiated at the solemnization of nuptial mass and performed the marriage ceremony. Arthur Gould acted as groomsman and Miss Mabel Bisiar was bridesmaid. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Chamberlain, and the groom is a young man who has lived in this city for several months. Mr. and Mrs. Reide will make their home in this city.

BRAINERD MAN ACCEPTS POSITION IN NOME BANK.

Brainerd, Minn., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Jay Batchelder of this city has accepted a position in one of the banks at Nome, Alaska. O. C. Foster, well known here, who spent a portion of the winter in this city, is heavily interested in the bank, and he wired Mr. Batchelder from Seattle offering him a fine position in the bank at Nome, if he would go by the first boat, which is scheduled to leave Seattle the first of June. Mr. Batchelder wired his acceptance and expects to leave here in time to catch that boat. His family will remain here for the present, but will ultimately join him if he likes it in Alaska.

MINNESOTA IN BRIEF

Albert Lea.—Judge Lovely, who was stricken by paralysis not long ago, continues to improve and is now able to attend to his personal affairs. It is expected that he will soon be able to attend to his legal business.

Crookston.—The topographical survey of the country northeast of here, which was begun last fall, will soon be continued under the direction of A. P. Mead.

Mankato.—Several fires at Wood Lake and obvious tamperings with the fire apparatus causes the belief that a deliberate attempt was made to burn the town.

Moorhead.—There is no dry wood in the hands of Moorhead dealers today. While each yard may have a cord or so, yet the above statement is almost literally true—there is no wood in Moorhead. A wood famine also exists in points nearer the wood centers, such as Barnesville, Fergus Falls and other places, which points to the fact that there was no wood cut a year ago.

St. Cloud.—Deputy Game Warden Osgood arrested F. J. Baker at Little Rock lake on Sunday afternoon. It is alleged that Mr. Baker had six ducks with him at the time the arrest was made.

Crookston.—Company I of Crookston has started in a membership campaign, and, to make the affair of supreme interest, the members will be divided into two squads, and the winners will be banqueted by the losers on the evening of May 21.

Mankato—William Jones of Worthington, a merchant tailor, Tuesday filed a petition in bankruptcy with Deputy Clerk A. O. Eberhart of the United States court, placing his liabilities at $2,599.15 and his assets at $1,000 of stock, and $460 of machinery and tools, the latter being exempt.

BOYS STOLE LIQUOR FROM SALOONKEEPER.

Menominee, Mich., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The three small boys, Clarence Labouf, Joseph King and Harry O'Connor, who were picked up in a drunken stupor by the police, have confessed to stealing several quarts of liquor from a local saloonkeeper. The boys will recover from the effects of their spree.

NORTH DAKOTA BUILDING AT JAMESTOWN

The North Dakota state building at Jamestown was the first state building to be opened with the exposition. It was erected las fall by Commissioner Everhart and contains a reception room 18x36 feet, which is nicely furnished, and has a porch in front of the same size. All visitors from the Northwest are warmly welcomed there.

UPPER MICHIGAN

Eloping Couple Arrested at Munising After a Long Search.

George Kelly and Mrs. May Drake in Alger County Jail.

Munising, Mich., May 8.—A strapping, good-looking fellow of 23 and a rather attractive woman of about the same age are confined in the Alger county jail. The man is George Kelly, a woodsman. The woman is Mrs. Lilly May Drake, wife of Howard F. Drake. They are alleged to have eloped from Superior, Wis., a year ago last March, taking with them the woman's 8-year-old child, a half-brother to which was born recently. Kelly was arrested at a cedar camp near McMillan, and Mrs. Drake at Smith's Creek St. Clair county, whither she had gone to visit relatives.

OBELISK COMPLETE.

Monument to Commemorate Opening of the Soo Now Ready.

Sault Ste. Marie, May 8.—A special dispatch from Branford, Conn., says the obelisk which will be set up to commemorate the opening of the Sault Ste. Marie canal has been completed at one of the local quarries nd is now ready for shipment.

The shaft is of hammered Stony Creek red granite, is 45 feet long, 5 feet 5 inches square at the foot tapering to a dimension of 1 foot square and then finished to a point, and weighs about sixty tons.

The longest car available for its transportation is 36 feet and it will be necessary to mount a bed on swivels to carry the shaft and to allow for the sway of the shaft as the train rounds the curves. When the question of routing the shaft was figured out several traffic men had to give up the task as they were not certain that all the bridges on their respective lines were capable of sustaining the enormous weight of the car and its load.

NEW STEEL INDUSTRY

For Menominee Will be in Readiness for Work Soon.

Menominee, Mich., May 8.—It is thought that preparations will be completed at the Prescott Steel plant in Menominee to draw a heat of steel soon. The workmen have been rushing the construction and equipment of the plant and the steel-making machinery will all be in place and tested in time for the start. The drawing of the first heat of steel in Menominee will mark the opening of a new industry in Menominee and Marinette. The first steel castings ever turned out in either of the two cities will be made at that time. Steel castings which heretofore have had to be brought to the two cities from Milwaukee, and cities south will now be turned out in the twin cities. The starting of the steel plant will mean the employing of a great additional force of men by the Prescott company. The employing of a larger crew will mean the bringing into the two cities of a large number of outside men, as it is impossible to get iron or steel workers in the two cities at present.

BRAVE WOMAN

Walks Twelve Miles With Her Fingers Crushed to a Pulp.

Escanaba, Mich., May 8.—Clasping her 3-months-old babe in her arms and with the fingers of her left hand crushed to a pulp, Mrs. James McDonald arrived in Escanaba early yesterday morning after a twelve-mile walk through the country and a forty-mile ride in an ore train. During the illness of her husband, who is a railroad pumpman, and who is confined in a hospital here, Mrs. McDonald has been attending to his duties. While operating the steam pump Monday night her left hand was caught and the fingers were crushed. Taking her 3-months-old babe, and leaving four other children at home alone, the woman walked twelve miles to the main track and caught an ore train coming to this city. She was taken at once to a hospital, where the injured hand was dressed and where her husband is already confined.

DAKOTAS

THINKS HE IS A SHEEP

Young Shepherd Driven Insane by His Lonely Life.

Tramps Sixty Miles in a Frenzy of Fear.

Pierre, S. D., May 8.—Only 14 years old and insane from sheep herding, believing that he is a sheep and is being chased and hunted, is the plight of a son of Joseph Jupiter, a sheep owner, whose ranch is about sixty miles northwest of Fort Pierre.

The boy left home with the terror of pursuit and walked or ran all the way into Fort Pierre, where he was taken in charge. His father missed him a short time after he left and started to hunt him, finally tracing him to Fort Pierre. A hearing of the county insanity board will be held, with the chances in favor of the child being sent to the insane asylum.

USED HIS RED FLAG.

Bad Wreck Averted But the Train Crew Was Mad.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—A serious wreck was narrowly averted on the Great Northern near Driscoll, the other day.

The agent at Driscoll got busy with his red flag and signalled the train, No. 3, to stop. The conductor was out of patience when he found that he was not stopped for orders and signalled the engineer to pull ahead, which was done with such a jerk as to break the train in two.

Here comes the fortunate part of the matter. A few moments later and after the break, No. 6 came bowling along all unconscious that No. 3 was west of Genera, where the two trains were scheduled to pass. A blunder had been made. The Driscoll agent heard the orders pass over the wire and took the responsibility of stopping No. 3, thus avoiding a serious wreck. When the truth was known there was a general feeling of relief all around.

HELP COMING IN.

Farm Laborers Respond to the Appeal Sent Out From Devils Lake.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The appeal from President Kelly of the Devils Lake Commercial club seems to have accomplished the desired results, for laborers are getting into North Dakota and if the present tide keeps up, there will be sufficient help to handle the farm work. Every day President Kelly is receiving offers of labor from Eastern points. The great obstacle seems to be in the matter of transportation. The railroads under the new laws now in force are prohibited from carrying labor free except for railroad work, and as there is no call for railroad labor on the main line there is no opportunity to "work" the roads as heretofore. If farmers needing help will advance car fare to laborers they can get all the help they want.

FAILED TO PAY ALIMONY.

Peddler Says He Didn't Know His Wife Had Secured Divorce.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 8.—Several odd and rather startling perplexities have arisen in the case of the state vs. John Goldstein, the Jewish peddler who is up in the district court on a charge of contempt. Goldstein was arrested on complaint of his wife who alleges that he had failed to pay her the $8 per week alimony which her divorce decreed provided.

One of the discrepencies in the case against Goldstein, at least according to his contentions, is that he never even knew his wife had secured a divorce.

"Sure I was in court when they signed some papers and called some people to testify, but I didn't know she got a divorce or that I was supposed to give her money," said Mr. Goldstein.

"Well, didn't you read what was on the paper you signed?" he was asked.

"No, I can't read English."

Against this testimony the state will bring forward several witnesses to swear they have seen the defendant sit down and calmly peruse the daily papers, at the same time boastfully remark as to his intellectual advancement.

DAKOTAS IN BRIEF

Grand Forks, N. D—Hans Jacobson, one of the pioneer farmers of Polk county and a resident of Sullivan township, aged 51 years, passed away Monday afternoon at his farm home. Mr. Jacobson came to that section in 1870 and has been one of the prominent farmers of Polk county for years.

Grand Forks, N. D—Roscoe Fawcett, who was appointed to the West Point military academy, has declined the appointment and will remain in Grand Forks.

Langdon, N. D.—Farmers in the vicinity of Langdon are planning to use the old-fashioned hopper broadcast seeder which whirls the grain for a distance of about two rods on each side of the wagon, on which it is operated. There is still quite a little snow on the ground between Park river and Hannah and the farmers are planning on how they will get the seeding accomplished by the quickest method after the ground gets in shape.

Sioux Falls, S. D—Senator Kittredge, who has returned from his trip with Secretary Taft to Panama, announces that the secretary will come to South Dakota in June and remain in the state a week.

WISCONSIN

LENROOT IS OUT OF RACE

Suddenly Withdraws From Wisconsin Senatorial Contest.

Makes No Request as to Future Course of Followers.

Madison, Wis., May 8.—Irvine T. Lenroot of Superior withdrew from the senatorial race last night without making any request as to the future course of his followers.

Mr. Lenroot's retirement from the senatorial race was unexpected by his supporters, and as no opportunity had been given to discuss plans for future action, his supporters prior to the caucus last night agreed that for last night, at least, they would continue to support him.

IRVINE L. LENROOT.

Four ballots were taken, the last one resulting: Stephenson 18, Esch 10, Lenroot 14, Cooper 13, Hatten 12, scattered 7.

The change in the situation came as an entire surprise. Just before the caucus was called to order, Mr. Lenroot called his supporters together and announced his intentions. This was the first intimation that any of them had that he was to drop out of the fight. His ground for leaving the race was that he thought his personal ambition should not be allowed to check the progress of legislative work, and that if he left the race it might help some other candidate to do likewise, and thus end the long, fruitless fight.

ELOPED WITH DAUGHTER.

Serious Allegation Made Against Phillip Shoneau by Divorced Wife.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 8.—When Philip Schoneau deserted Elizabeth Schoneau in South Milwaukee on Aug. 25, 1905, he took his 20-year-old daughter, Celia, the issue of a former marriage, with him, said Mrs. Schoneau who was granted a divorce Monday by Judge Tarrant. Schoneau and his daughter are said to be living as man and wife in an Ohio town. Mrs. Schoneau said she had shadowed her husband when he left and was informed as to his doings, although he had not written to her.

TO GET MAIL BY TEAM.

City of Menomonie May be Submitted to a Singular Humiliation.

Menomonie, Wis., May 8.—Menomonie is to receive its mail by team. The contract for carrying the mail between this city and Menomonie Junction, a distance of three miles, held by the Omaha railway, expires May 20 and the company refuses to renew it. Postal Inspector George Bradford of St. Paul was here this week to advertise for bids to have the mail carried by team, a return to the practice of pioneer days. There probably is no city of 6,000 inhabitants in the United States receiving its mail by team, but Menomonie is in line to experience this humiliation.

POLICEMAN DEPOSED.

Charges Against Officer Harrington Sustained by Eau Claire Commtssion.

Eau Claire, Wis., May 8.—Frank Harrington, the suspended patrolman, was tried Monday evening before the board of police and fire commissioners on six charges preferred by Chief of Police Edward J. O'Brien. The trial was replete with sensational incidents, and as Harrington acted as his own lawyer and used every opportunity which presented itself to denounce both the chief and the commission, the crowd which thronged police headquarters seemed to enjoy the performance as much as a 10-20-30 melodrama. At an executive session held to deliberate on the testimony, the commission sustained the charges and Officer Harrington was dismissed from the police force.

TWO PROHIBITIONISTS ON MARINETTE BOARD.

Marinette, Wis., May 8.—Mayor Davis has appointed on the police and fire commission Dr. F. G. Colter, Republican, and Alfred Tennyson, Prohibitionist. The board now consists of Colter, John Corry and Patrick, Republicans, and W. B. Stanton and Tennyson, Prohibitionists. Stanton is bookkeeper for the Hamilton & Merryman company. Tennyson is employed in the Marinette Lumber company's planing mill and was a Prohibtion candidate for alderman this spring.

FEARS FOUL PLAY.

Kewaunee Man Starts in Search of His Missing Sister.

Green Bay, Wis., May 8.—Julius Gallando, an Itallan of Kewaunee, arrived in Green Bay yesterday morning and asked the police department to aid him in the search for his sister, Mary, who disappeared from her home Monday. The brother fears foul play.

WISCONSIN IN BRIEF

Ashland—An unsuccessful attempt was made about 2 o'clock Monday morning to rob the State bank at Mason. The rear of the bank was broken into and the robbers were busily engaged in preparing to blow open the safe when they were frightened away by two employes of the bank who sleep overhead and heard the racket.

Fred Ramsdell, who was badly injured at Abbotsford last Saturday by being crushed between two cars, died at a local hospital Monday night. His remains were taken to his home in Barron this morning.

Gus Carlson and Gus Benson of Bayfield have not been heard of for three days and in all probability their bodies have been claimed by Lake Superior.

Madison—President F. W. Montgomery of the Madison Interurban & Traction company aamitted Tuesday that he had been making a survey between Madison and Janesville and that he says he is not fecling the survey, but he says he is not sure that he will build this year on account of the high price of material.

Chippewa Falls—Because farmers in Chippewa and Eau Claire counties demand $5 per ton for sweet corn, the canneries have decided to quit canning corn this season. The companies claim that at the price of $5 to $5.50 paid last year they were not making any money.

Eau Claire—The state barbers' examining board, consisting of Henry Heine of Reedsburg, T. M. McDonough of Superior and M. H. Whitaker of Milwaukee, is in session in this city. Nearly a hundred applicants took the examination.

SUIT CLUB MANAGER GONE.

W. T. Collins of East Grand Forks Has Mysteriously Disappeared.

East Grand Forks, Minn., May 8.—William T. Collins, tailor, suit club manager and ex-resident of St. Paul Minneapolis, Chicago and St. Louis, has departed for parts unknown and leaves a sorrowing wake of creditors behind him. The disappearance was discovered when a patron of the tailor shop went to call on Mr. Collins and discovered that nobody was at home. After continual efforts to trace the whereabouts or arouse somebody, the building was opened and it was discovered that the bird had flown. The decamper left many debts unpaid behind him. George Downham is minus two months' rent from the building occupied as a shop. Editor Stoughton of the Valley View is shy a few dollars for advertising, although he secured part of what was coming to him by procuring a suit before it was too late. The Arneson Mercantile has a bill for buttons, clothing and other tailoring accessories which still remains unpaid.

OUTSIDE ATTORNEY

Will be Employed to Try the Charges Against W. N. Mills.

Menominee, Mich., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Owing to the estranged relationship existing between Attorney W. N. Mills and Prosecuting Attorney M. J. Doyle, Judge Steele in the circuit court released Mr. Doyle of the prosecution of the case against Mr. Mills for criminal assault upon Miss Jennie Nelson, a domestic, and resisting an officer.

The case will be placed in the hands of an outside attorney, and will be tried at a special jury term in August.

Calumet—Co. A, Michigan Engineers of Calumet, are preparing for a very active summer season this year. A large portion of the work which the company will undertake will be out of doors and the recently appointed troop will do its utmost to learn the mysteries of their engineering duties.

Menominee—The Chicago & Northwestern road is preparing to rebuild some twenty-four miles of track on its Menominee iron range division. One hundred-pound rails will be employed in the work. Twelve miles will be laid on the Schlesinger branch, east from Siding No. 5; eight miles from Saunders to Iron River, and four miles from Hermansville to Cedar.

Iron Mountain—To date the Iron Mountain council has approved the bonds of fifty-three saloonkeepers, the same number as conducted business last year. It is probable that several additional bonds will be approved this week. The bonds of five wholesale agents and three druggists have also been accepted. The income of the city from this source will be in the neighborhood of $27,000.

START EXCAVATING FOR TOWNER COURTHOUSE.

Towner, N. D., May 8.—Excavation for the new McHenry county courthouse has been started. Contractor Nelson of Perham, Minn., is pushing the work as fast as the weather will permit and expects to start laying the foundation the first of next week. The building is to be a two-story structure of brick located on the site of the old courthouse. The contract calls for the completion of the building by January next.

WIDOW GETS $5,000 FOR LIFE OF HUSBAND.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 8.—Mrs. Arne Rossland was paid $5,000 Monday by the Great Northern railway for the death of her husband in the wreck of the Oriental Limited at Bartlett. She was married two years ago and has a child nearly a year old to support. The claim was settled without litigation, Rossland was identified by means of an old silver watch which he carried. It was found in the wreckage of the smoking car. The body was so badly burned it could not be identified.

FOUR-YEAR-OLD BOY RUNS AWAY ON FREIGHT TRAIN.

Clark, S. D., May 8.—Probably the youngest runaway in the history of the state is the 4-year-old son of Mrs. Stutenroth of this city, who fled from home and, boarding a freight train, traveled upon it to Redfield his former home, where he found his way to the home of his grandmother, without assistance.

Mrs. Stutenroth was greatly alarmed but was finally informed that the missing boy was at his grandmother's.

Press Dispatch: Four sons at once. St. Paul, Oct. 6th, 1906. A special from Mondovi says. "Mrs. Jno. Silverson gave birth to four boys." She's evidently a great friend of Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea. 35 cents, Tea or Tablets. Ask your druggist.

ADVICE TO RHEUMATICS

Noted Physician Tells How to Prevent and Cure Rheumatism, Kidney and Bladder Troubles.

(By George Edmund Flood, M. D.)

If you would avoid Rheumatism and Kidney and Bladder Troubles be moderate in the consumption of heavy, rich foods, substitute as far as possible soups, broths, fresh milk, and drink water—lots of water. Take plenty of time to eat, and don't eat after you have had enough, even if it does taste good. If your work is confining take a moderate amount of exercise each day in the open air.

Of course, neither diet, water, rest, nor exercise will cure these afflictions. I advise them as preventives only. For the benefit of the readers of this article who are now afflicted with Rheumatism, Kidney, Bladder or Urinary trouble, and desire to be cured quickly, I give below, complete in every detail, the famous prescription which has made me so successful in the treatment of these diseases. It is the most certain cure for these diseases that I have ever used. It is pleasant to take, it is not expensive, it can be filled by any druggist, and I believe it is the greatest prescription for Rheumatism, Kidney and Bladder Trouble ever written. It is also a valuable spring tonic and blood purifier. If you are a sufferer, save this, take it to your druggist and have it filled, or get the ingredients and mix them at home. Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic, ½ ounce; Concentrated Barkola Compound, 1 ounce; Fluid Extract Prickly Ash Bark, ½ drachm; Aromatic Elixir, 4 ounces.

Adult dose, take one teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime; children, one-fourth to one-half teaspoonful after meals.

After you are cured follow the advice I have given you in regard to diet, exercise and water, and you will not need the services of a physician again for these ailments.

WHITEMAN IS HEARD FROM

Says He Does Not Expect to Leave Prison Alive.

The Dansville, N. Y., Advertiser of recent date contained the following: We have received a letter from Alonzo J. Whiteman, dated at Auburn, March 25, in which Mr. Whiteman says some true things about himself as a citizen of Dansville which ought to be generally known. As the letter is not marked private we take the liberty of copying this part of it:

Shakespeare said: "The evil men do lives after them, the good is oft interred with their bones." In reading some of the unkind things which have been said of me, I have thought it is necessary for a man to die to make the saying applicable. I was bitterly disappointed at the decision in the court of appeals, for and other good lawyers were confident the judgment would be reversed. In my present state of health it is not at all likely I will ever come home except in a box. Then when my name is recalled, "to point a moral or adorn a tale," let it be remembered that Dansville never had a more generous, public-spirited, enterprising citizen than I was, until I lost my fortune. No man in Dansville can say I ever cheated or defrauded him, and I have given away thousands of dollars and assisted many people who were in trouble or in want.

At the public request I built the electric lighting plant when no one else would do it, and I rebuilt the paper mills at a cost of over $100,000, and paid out tens of thousands of dollars in wages. . . . I am feeling pretty tough as you may imagine, but there is no yellow streak in me and I will take my medicine like a man.

BLAZE IN BASEMENT.

Fire in Golden Rule Store Does Extensive Damage.

A fire starting about 2 o'clock this morning in the basement of the Golden Rule store on East Superior street, probably from defective wiring, caused a rather serious blaze, nearly all the stock in the basement being burned and extensive damage done by smoke and water to stock and fixtures on the second story.

Dense volumes of smoke poured from the building during the blaze and the whole structure was threatened at one time. The proprietors estimate the loss at between [illegible] and [illegible] about 50 per cent covered by insurance. [illegible] and [illegible] are the proprietors of the establishment. Several families living above the store were warned by Officer Roberg and escaped from the building. The stock and furniture on the upper floors of the biulding was damaged but little, however.

DAUGHTER OF WOODMEN FOUNDER WILL FIGHT.

Denver, May 8.—The controversy between Mrs. Jessie Falkenburg Fallis of Los Angeles, only daughter of F. A. Falkenburg, deceased, who founded the Woodmen of the World, and L. L. Beak, present head counsel of the Pacific jurisdiction, over the question of ownership of the plot of ground on which the Falkenburg monument will be erected and the remains of the dead founder interred, has resulted in the incorporation of the Falkenburg Monument association by Mrs. Fallis and several of her adherents. Mrs. Fallis has secured the exclusive right through copyright to the use of her father's name, bust, figure and inscriptions for the monument and will institute injunction proceedings, if necessary, to carry out her plans.

SUNLIGHT CHECKS FIRES.

New York Press: "Did you ever know that fires don't burn as well in sunlight as they do in the shade or at night?" asked my friend, the man much given to hunting and fishing, "of course they don't seem to because of the greater light from the sun, but I mean as an actual fact they don't. I noticed this thing when on a hunting trip up in Maine first, and how it happened to attract my attention was that the fire went out, totally, out, before the sticks were entirely consumed. The wood was dry and resinous, and there was no reason why every particle of it shouldn't have burned. The guide told me he had noticed the same sort of thing innumerable times when fires were burning in the sunlight, and this started me on an investigation which proved in actual practice that open fires not only don't burn so well when the sun's rays are shining on them and fail to throw out as much heat by thermometric tests, but often are actually extinguished by the sun if the rays are bright and strong enough. Coal fires are affected just the same as wood. Strange to say, several scientists to whom I have appealed asserted that the sun's rays could have no effect whatever on a fire. They do, however; I know this beyond all shadow of doubt, and I wonder what the reason is. Other scientists say it's because the heat of the sun adds to the consumption of oxygen of the atmosphere which is necessarily to a blaze, and also produces carbon, which helps to extinguish the fire."

ONLY 73 COCKTAILS.

Who would have thought that there are 73 different kinds of cocktails! That is the number of distinct recipes for that sort of drink given in the volume de luxe of the "American Mixed Beverage," just put on the market. And one kind is generally quite enough if repeated a sufficient number of times. The list comprises all sorts of startling and humorous mixtures, like the "Spider," the Farmers' cocktail, the Dudes' cocktail, the "New York Ruiser," the Zaza cocktail, the Barnyard cocktail and so on. It includes the Depew cocktail (very dry) and the H. P. Whitney cocktail. But the scarcity of cocktails named after individuals indicates that the rosy and spicy drink in the little glass is not for a moment to be compared with the cigar as a means of attaining fame.

PLUGS AND MONGRELS.

The Princess de Montglyon, whose collies were a feature of the winter's Kennel shows, was explaining to a young woman journalist her method of breeding dogs.

"But you," the princess said, "are somewhat ignorant of dog breeding, are you not?"

"I am, the interviewer confessed.

"You are like," said the princess, "that amusing Mark Twain, who bought in the West a 'genuine Mexican pinto,' thinking the phrase meant 'thoroughbred Arabian,' or something of that sort. You are like a young friend of mine who said one evening to her husband:

"'Oh, Jack, I have such a surprise for you! Look at this perfectly sweet little dog I bought this mornign. Only $25, and the man guaranteed him to be a pure mongrelli.'"

NO NEW BOAT FOR MILITIA

Congressman Bede Fails to Secure Dorothea for Use.

Chicago Concludes to Keep Vessel and Fern Will Stay.

FROM THE HERALD WASHINGTON BUREAU.

Washington, May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Congressman J. Adam Bede is in Washington today "running errands," as he expressed it, preparatory to returning home next Monday. He called at the navy department today with regard to the assignment of a new United States ship to replace the Fern, for the use of the Minnesota naval reserve.

It had been supposed that Chicago would be glad to relinquish the Dorothea, and that ship would be turned over to Duluth, but the Illinois people, after casting about, have reached the conclusion that there is no vessel now available which would suit their needs better than the Dorothea.

Governor Deneen, accompanied by Congressman Foss of Chicago, and chairman of the house committee on naval affairs, were in consultation with Assistant Secretary of the Navy Newberry, and finding they could not at present secure a larger vessel for their naval reserve, concluded of necessity to stand pat on the Dorothea. Therefore, for the present at least the Minnesota naval militiamen will be obliged to content themselves with their present ship, the Fern.

Long Drawn Out Litigation Over Stinson Lands Concluded.

The long drawn out litigation between the city of Superior and Douglas county regarding the possession of the so-called "Stinson lands," located in the southerly portion of the city, was brought to an end this morning when the city clerk received the deed transferring the land from the county to the city.

The litigation has been in progress for years, the county having secured the land through non-payment of taxes. A large acreage is involved.

SUPERIOR COUNCIL

Neatly Sidesteps Hendricks License Question for Another Week.

Although Rev. U. S. Villars, president of the Superior Civic league, and a number of his most ardent supporters occupied front seats in the gallery last evening and anxiously waited while the Superior aldermen disposed of a bunch of routine business, in order to take a hand in the discussion of the revocation of the Hendricks license, when the matter finally did come up, the city fathers neatly sidestepped the issue for another week. Alderman Hallam pleaded the lateness of the hour in making his motion for postponement, and the matter was laid over to the next meeting.

The mayor was authorized to appoint a committee of three aldermen to investigate the lease of the Grand opera house to the Bijou Theater company, and Aldermen Crumpton, McGinnis and Nelson were named as the committee.

The appointment of Robert Kelley to the park board for a three years' term by Mayor Linley was confirmed by the council and the bids for annual printing of the proceedings came up for consideration. The license of John Andre at 1715 Third street was transferred after a lively discussion to Sherman & Haas.

ESTABLISHES PRECEDENT.

Lake Avenue Viaduct Decision Affects Superior Viaducts.

Taking the supreme court decisions in the cases of the City of Duluth against the Northern Pacific Railway company and the City of Minneapolis against the St. P., M. & M. company, City Comptroller Wentzell has recommended to the council at Superior that the city take no steps toward repairing the viaducts over the railroads in Superior without securing an opinion from the legal department.

A committee of the Commercial club in Superior has been investigating the matter, and it is the belief that the maintenance of the viaducts comes within the province of the railway companies. The contemplated repairs will cost a considerable amount, and the recommendations by the committee and comptroller are considered important from the taxpayers' standpoint.

WAGE INCREASE GIVEN BARBERS

Master Barbers Meet and Grant Demands of Journeymen.

It was decided last evening at a meeting of the master barbers of Duluth that the new scale of wages demanded by the journeymen barbers be granted. The employes will in the future received 60 per cent of the receipts with a guarantee of $16 a week.

It has been understood for the last month that the barbers would ask for the new scale of wages soon, but the matter did not come to a head until this week. Yesterday, however, the barbers put it up to the shop proprietors to either make the wage increase or have a strike on their hands and the meeting last night was called to settle the matter.

In the three shops where the white uniforms have been required, the employes have put in a strenuous complaint and have asked that the rule be done away with. The shops in the McKay, the Spalding and the Palladio building are the only ones where the white trousers have been required.

The journeymen barbers in these shops object to wearing the white trousers and have now discarded them.

AN ICONOCLAST.

Canadian Courier: A story comes from England about a certain colonel in the Royal Horse Artillery who had the reputation of lacking imagination, with a care for nothing but his beloved guns. He happened to be visiting Egypt with some friends and naturally went to see the pyramids.

"So these are the pyramids, eh?" he said, as he gazed stolidly at them.

"Yes," said an enthusiastic friend, "are they not wonderful—stupendous?"

"Oh, yes," grunted the colonel. "I suppose they're all right in their way."

"I should say they are," returned his friend. "Think of their standing for all these thousands of years!"

"Humph!" said the unimpressed soldier. "Give me a couple of batteries and I'll guarantee to knock them to pieces inside of a week."

MRS. CHASES CURE

By Mary L. Cummins.

(Copyright, 1907, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

"Are you in, Mrs. Chase? I thought I'd just run over and sit awhile."

A bright, motherly face showed itself inside the door, followed by an ample figure. Eleanor Chase rose from her rocking-chair, the worried, almost fretful look, which of late had become her habitual expression and marred an otherwise pretty face, dispelled for the moment by a smile of welcome.

"Come right in, Mrs. Lincoln," she said cordially. "I am glad you came over."

The elderly woman seated herself.

"Excuse my fancy-work," she smiled, drawing a well-worn stocking from a bag of ample dimensions. "I could not have come unless I had brought it."

Her hostess sighed.

Mrs. Lincoln was holding her head on one side contemplating a hole, with a look of comical despair.

Eleanor Chase glanced at her.

"You take everything so cheerful," she said somewhat wistfully. "Little things don't seem to wear upon you and make you nervous, as they do me. I think you must have been intended for motherhood. I sometimes doubt whether I am."

"My dear—" Mrs. Lincoln laid down her stocking and looked fixedly at her companion—"every woman was intended for motherhood; make no mistake about that. People may advance all the newfangled theories they like about 'higher vocations.' There is no higher vocation than that for which the Lord himself formed us."

The two women sewed for some time in silence. They had been near neighbors for ten years, ever since Mrs. Chase as a pretty bride had come to live in Pineville, and had reached that stage of pleasant intimacy where speech is not always necessary.

"I had a letter from my sister, Mrs. Van Dusen, this morning," Mrs. Chase remarked after awhile—she was fond of quoting her sister Mrs. Van Dusen, who had married a wealthy banker, many years her senior, and was now a widow, moving in the most exclusive circles of a conservative New England city—"she wants me to go and spend a week with her, but of course, that is out of the question."

"Why?" Mrs. Lincoln asked.

"Oh, I couldn't take the children, and what would they do without their 'Mummy Dee,' as Eveline calls me?"

Eveline was four, and the baby of the family.

"Now, look here, Mrs. Chase—" the neighbor laid down her work and spoke emphatically—"a vacation is just exactly what you need. You are tired, and matters seem all awry to you. A week with your sister will be an entire change and you will look at things with widely different eyes when you return. Mr. Chase can get his meals down town, and I will take Eveline right over to my house, see that Elsie and Alan have enough to eat and keep an eye on them out of school hours. I can run over here at bed-time, too, and see that they are all right."

"Oh, I couldn't think of allowing you to do all that!" Mrs. Chase had dropped her sewing also. A faint pink flush came into her cheeks and her eyes shone.

"Don't you worry," the neighbor said comfortably, "a child or two more or less never fazed me."

Twenty-four hours later Eveline's "Mummy Dee" stood arrayed in a smart traveling suit, hastily purchased for the occasion, her prettiest clothes packed and already on their way to the railway station.

Once on the train her mind reached out toward the alluring prospect ahead. A week, a whole week of freedom from petty household cares, with no concern about meals except to sit down to an exquisitely appointed table and the privileges of mingling with her sister's cultured friends.

Mrs. Van Dusen met her at the depot. She was a tall, distinguished looking woman, whose whole appearance spoke of good taste and the power to indulge it. Eleanor leaned back against the luxurious cushions of the carriage, a sense of pleasurable excitement growing upon her, as they were driving home.

The round table was exquisite with its rare china, cut glass and damask. There was no small, irresponsible hand here to reach out with aimless grasp and upset the cream. Mrs. Van Dusen had no children. A soft-booted maid waited upon them, anticipating every want.

Afterwards they retired to the own particular sanctum of the hostess, but once ensconced there Eleanor did not find that the ball of conversation rolled as easily as she had expected. The sisters' paths in life had run in such different directions, they had developed along such widely different lines in the last few years, that the only common ground upon which it seemed possible for them to meet was the time when they were girls together. This subject they dwelt upon, living old scenes over and over again, and Eleanor retired feeling that she had had a delightful evening. There was no hint by which she could have discovered that Mrs. Van Dusen found it somewhat of a strain.

The latter was waiting when she ran down to breakfast next morning.

"I have been consulting my engagement book," she began, "and I find that this is a pretty full day, though—" with a deprecating movement of the hands—"I really have a day that is not."

Eleanor nodded brightly.

"Our class on economics meets at 11," her sister went on. "Then I have an appointment at my dressmaker's, and luncheon with Mrs. Cosgrove, a particular friend of mine. The regular meeting of our literary club comes at 3, and at 4:30 there is a little tea in the Renaissance suite of the woman's club—you have not seen our new club house, by the way—and, oh, yes, I have invited a few friends to dinner tonight, to meet you, my dear."

All this sounded very attractive. It was what she had been hungering for, Eleanor told herself. But when at night she dragged her tired feet up to her room, the day, looking back upon it, seemed one unending whril of strange places and shifting scenes, of rushing from place to place, never staying in any one long enough to enjoy it.

Utterly weary, she flung herself 'into a deep chair and then—perhaps because she was so physically worn out—a terrible feeling seemed to grip her heart. She felt as though she must cry. A mad impulse to bundle her things together and start for home seized her. It was Eleanor Chase's first experience of homesickness. Sickness! Yes, that was the word. She was ill with sudden longing for her children. A vision of Mrs. Lincoln putting Eveline to bed rose before her, bringing with it a swift pang of jealousy. Never before had any hand but her own undressed her baby.

The next day proved to be a repetition of what she had already been through, ending with a reception, from which she returned near midnight, too weary for any emotion, but the longing for sleep. Unfortunately, Morpheus was not to be wooed so lightly and sleep refused to come until long after the first ray of morning sunlight flickered into the darkened room. Then the sleep was a restless, unrefreshing one that left her face drawn and weary.

By morning her mind was made up, but breakfast was almost over before she found courage to speak. It would have been far easier to have addressed the woman's club of the Progressive Thought league at home than to face her sister, but she finally closed her square cut jaw firmly and began:

"Lillian," she said hesitatingly, "I hope you will not misunderstand—you have been very kind to me—but—I'm afraid I must go home today."

Mrs. Van Dusen's finely arched eyebrows raised themselves interrogatively.

"You are not enjoying your visit?" she said, with polite regret.

"Indeed, it is not that! But—I don't know whether I can make you understand—it was a mistake, my coming without the children. They are so much a part of me now while they are young. It—it is like trying to be happy with the very heart out of my body somewhere else! Oh, can't you understand how you would feel if you had a baby—three of them who wanted you every minute of the day, and in whom you lived and moved and had your being? And then there is Alan—why, we have never been separated before since we were married, and things don't seem the same without him. But it is the children that I simply must see."

The sisterly eyes regarded her with mild speculation. But behind the look was there a suppressed wistfulness which told involuntarily that Lillian Van Dusen found the social treadmill of her life barren, that she had missed—or forfeited—the fullest joy life could have offered?

"Whatever brought you home so soon?" Mrs. Lincoln cried.

Eleanor threw back her head and dashed the tears from her eyes. In that moment the scales dropped from her eyes and she looked ten years younger as she faced the other woman.

"I couldn't stand the hard work!" she said, with a tremulous laugh. "I simply could not endure it any longer, so here I am."

Mrs. Lincoln smiled happily, and marveled at what had been wrought in so short a time. The vacation cure had certainly worked like a charm in every way.

POLITICAL COCK FIGHTS.

Preliminary Contests Among Republicans Likened to Aesop's Fable.

Washington Star: Mr. Aesop, a celebrated raconteur of former days, tells a story of two likely looking roosters in a barnyard, upon which the farmer was casting covetous eyes, but which eyed the outstretched hand of the farmer suspiciously and held aloof from capture. Becoming embroiled in a fight with each other, however, their attention was diverted and the foxy farmer let them battle until both were so exhausted that they fell his easy prey.

Many politicians are drawing a parallel between Mr. Aesop's fable and the Republican presidential situation. Looking ahead to what may occur a year from next June in the Republican national convention, these politicians are wondering if it may not fall out that a number of pairs of political game cocks, clawing at each other's gizzards, many not produce a situation where it will be necessary for the master of the barnyard to step in and find a golden opportunity.

Some lively cocking mains will have been held in the meantime in several states. The two gamesters are set in Ohio, for sure, Foraker against Taft, and they both equipped with gaffs. There will be bloody combs and feathers a-flying before long. There is Indiana with Fairbanks on one side and the Roosevelt-Beveridge forces watching a chance to mix it up. In Illinois, a movement is afoot to build up an "administration party," which would probably be inimical to Speaker Cannon. In Wisconsin, defiant crows from the La Follett and the "Stalwart" factions are already echoeing loudly. If New York, Hughes is strutting some, and the friends of Secretary Root and Secretary Cortelyou are looking on suspiciously, while the shadow of a spectacled personnage in Washington falls over all of them. In Pennsylvania, a mighty game and capable bantam of the Knox breed is pluming himself, looking for a scrap.

And in all of these states and in the great stretch of country from the Mississippi to the Rockies, and beyond, which presents no particular candidate, there is a constantly growing feeling among the rank and file of people favorable to another game chicken that may not be entered in the main unless circumstances appear to force it.

One of the interesting features of the prospect of Mr. Aesop's incident finding a parallel in modern politics is the supposed attitude of President Roosevelt toward these combatants. After all, now, which one, if any, is he backing? Some of the politicians know of their own knowledge that about a year ago he told Speaker Cannon that he thought he (the speaker) would be the next president. He may only have been "joshing Uncle Joe," as one man put it.

It is also known that at one time the president had a hankering for Secretary Root to succeed him. The objection was raised that perhaps the recollection of Mr. Root's employment by the corporations might be too fresh to make him the candidate of a party pledged to carry out the Roosevelt policies of reform.

It is also known that the president has at times in the past expressed the query whether Secretary Taft would measure up to presidential timber, and whether, in fact, he could not best serve his country on the supreme bench. Other politicians have entertained the opinion that the president has a very soft spot in his heart for that wary, astute and conservative gentleman who now holds the treasury portfolio and thinks him well fitted to carry out the Roosevelt policies.

Well, anyhow, here are all these conflicting political interests, some of which are almost sure to kill off each other. Outside of Roosevelt himself, there is no man in the political field who gives promise of being able to go to the next national Republican convention with any considerable number of states at his back. More important still, each of the most prominent and promising of these candidates will have to make the fight of his life to hold his own state and insure a harmonious delegation.

That brings the prosotion back to consideration of what will have to be faced when the convention meets It is conceded that President Roosevelt is sincere in his declaration that he does not want the nomination this time. No one looks for a reconsideration of that assertion, nor a change of front on his part.

But when the great political cocking main comes off at Chicago or St. Louis, or wherever else the convention is held, and the battling game cocks have gaffed each other to death, what will the delegates find for alternative? Every delegate who comes to the convention will be aware of the sentiment throughout his own state favorable to one man, a man who had held aloof from the fight.

Let's imagine it is the wee sma' hours of some stilling July night; the convention has been deadlocked for twenty-four hours; the feuds, enmities, bitterness and acrimony engendered by the conflicting ambitions have wrought the delegates to desperation; the opposing candidates have fought till exhausted; way off in a corner of the hall some fellow gets up and shouts, "Oh, pshaw, let's make it Roosevelt."

Well, you can let your own imagination paint the rest of the picture. This is what the politicians mean when they recall that incident related by Mr. Aesop, and apply it to the present situation, particularly as shown in the opening of the series of political cocking mains, with Sentor Foraker and Secretary Taft in the pit.

IMPROVING DIAMOND

Black Earth Is Being Mixed With Clay and Rolled.

The Bleacher Capacity Will Also Probably be Increased.

When the fans, who go to see the White Sox in action with the Kelley Hardware team next Friday, arrive at Athletic park, they will scarcely recognize the place. Work on the fence has already been completed and the preparation of the diamond for the season is progressing nicely. The repairing of the fence is a big improvement. The unsightly gaps in it last year were the boon of the small boy and the management had no end of trouble protecting the field from the intrusion of those, who were averse to handing over two bits, when they could view the game without separating themselves from the necessary. The fence has been repaired thoroughly and this season, those who would see the game must contribute to the club's treasury.

The local management expects to have one of the best diamonds on the circuit this year and they are working with that end in view. The diamond was plowed up and black earth has been secured to mix with the clay, before it is rolled. The earth acts in a way to prevent the encrusting of the diamond in very warm weather and the mixture isn't as sticky after a shower as the clay alone. The steam roller is already on the grounds and the workmen have been prevented from putting it in use on account of a delay in securing the black earth. Now that is secured and the rolling of the diamond will begin today, probably, so that it will be in shape for Friday.

Beyond the securing of the lumber for the proposed improvements, nothing has yet been done to increase the seating capacity at the park. The lumber is on the ground, however, and it is probable that in a few days a force of men will be put at work erecting another set of bleachers, or extending those already on the grounds. The seating capacity of the stand and the bleachers is now about 2,500 people and it is proposed to increase it about 500. The Sunday and holiday crowds can then be taken care of more comfortably, although if good ball is furnished, the overflow space will undoubtedly be drawn on nearly every Sunday and holiday on which the team plays at home.

The Sox had a workout yesterday morning, but did not get out in the afternoon on account of the cold wind. They are out again today and Smith is putting them through their paces briskly. Fred Goldsmith, the heavy-hitting outfielder secured from Eau Claire reported Monday evening and he was out with the team yesterday. C. E. McLaughlin, the local boy, who tried out with the Dubuque team of the Three-I league this spring, but who failed to make a place on the team, is working out with the Sox. He played short yesterday morning and showed up well. If he doesn't land an infield position, he may be played in the outfield, providing he can deliver the goods with the bat.

The game with the Kelley team will give the fans the first opportunity to get a line on the team in action. The Kelley boys will be able to give the leaguers a good contest, as Manager Zeigler has gathered together some of the best amateurs and former professionals in the city. They will play to win and they predict that if the Sox don't show real league form, the big end of the score will go on the Kelley side of the board.

CONVENTION AT OKLAHOMA

American Sportsmen Will Gather in Lawton Next Year.

Norfolk, Va., May 8.—After a hard fight yesterday, Lawton, Okla., captured the next convention of the League of American Sportsmen. Three cities bid for the honor. They were St. Louis, Los Angeles and Lawton. Lawton was finally selected by a vote of 47 to the other cities' 19. The delegates to the convention will be entertained in Richmond tomorrow and in Norfolk Thursday by the sportsmen of Virginia.

Wonderful Eczema Cure.

"Our little boy had eczema for five years' writes N. A. Adams, Henrietta, Pa. "Two of our home doctors said the case was hopeless, his lungs being affected. We then employed other doctors, but no benefit resulted. By chance we read about Eclectric Bitters; bought a bottle and soon noticed improvement. We continued this medicine until several bottles were used, when our boy was completely cured." Best of all blood medicines and body building health tonics. Guaranteed at all drug stores. 50c.

After the experience of this year, if the big league managers don't set the opening of the season at May 1 or later, there is something wrong with their thinking apparatus. Nearly a month has passed and some of the clubs have played but few more than one-half of their scheduled games. And the games have been in cold, rain, and snow, which makes for anything but good ball and heavy gate receipts. The early opening of the season this year has been a flat failure, financially and in every other way and it will doubtless bring the magnates around to a realization of the fact that "rushing the season" doesn't pay.

The eyes of the pugilistic world are turned toward Los Angeles, where Tommy Burns and Jack O'Brien will battle for the right to claim the championship of the world. It should be a grand battle. Before the winner is continued glory, with a big fat purse in sight for a match with Bill Squires. The loser will go into oblivion, or be compelled to hook up with third-raters, if he continues to fight. There is more than the money at stake and the men will wade in to take everything in sight.

O'Brien is the favorite in the betting, but just why is not clear. On the occasion of their last fight in which O'Brien was given a draw, it was conceded that Burns had the better of the argument, Jack showing his ability principally in springing around the ring. Since that time Burns has been loud in his claims that he had the better of O'Brien and if Jack can wallop the near champion to a standstill, he will do it without hesitation. At any rate, it will be a good fight and will serve to clear the pugilistic atmosphere considerably, if a satisfactory decision is reached.

THE YACHT CLUB PLANS

Enjoyable Smoker Is Scheduled for Next Friday Evening.

Formal Opening of Club Season on Decoration Day.

It is expected that the smoker to be held next Friday evening at Steinway hall will be the most successful affair of its kind in the history of the Duluth Yacht club. Interest in the club and it sdoings has reached such a pitch in Duluth that it takes a pretty good sized hall to accommodate the crowd when members are authorized to invite friends, as is the case with the coming smoker.

The banquet held recently was by far the most succesful in the club's history, and resulted in an additional list of new members. The gathering Friday evening will be very informal in character, with a fine musical program and probably a few brief talks by officers and members.

The new ballroom to be built by the club will be completed by the first of July and the ten new stalls for motor boats will be finished a little before that. The new breakwaters on the north and south sides of the property will be finished by the first of next month and will afford ample protection for small boats. A feature of the season will be the open air concerts and smokers to afford a means of bringing the members together. The club launches, Uno and Skibo, are now equipped and ready for the water. A moderate rental per day or hour will be charged members, and, if sufficiently patronized, a third boat will be equipped during the season. The club equipment of canoes and rowboats has been increased, and will be further increased as occasion demands. Decoration day will see the formal opening of the club season.

East End, Jr., Won.

Yesterday afternoon the East End Juniors defeated the Fifteenth avenue team for the second time this season. The score was 11 to 5. The East End Juniors lined up as follows: Catcher, Twohy; pitchers, Hare and Nelson; first base, Hare and Nelson; second base, O'Donnell; third base, Lindeberg; short stop, Paul Twohy; left field, Gumbery; right field, Winship; center field, Sawyer.

OPEN OFFICES IN DULUTH

New Air Line to Twin Cities Represented Here.

Offices have been opened in Duluth at 621 and 622 Lyceum building, by the Twin City & Lake Superior Railway company, the new corporation which is planning the air line from Duluth to the Twin Cities.

No one has yet been selected to take charge of the local office, but some official of the company will be sent here within two or three days.

The company is a $7,000,000 corporation organized under the laws of the State of Maine. E. W. Farnham of Chicago is the president, and will shortly devote all of the time to the work of constructing the new road, which will be operated under the Farnham protected third rail system, of which he is the inventor.

The right-of-way has been practically all surveyed and grading will be begun within a month.

SPORTING BREVITIES

A New York dispatch says that our old friend Bob Fitzimmons has agreed to fight Mike Schreck at Tonopah on May 30. Bob is now with his show in Baltimore, but he says he will leave the stage as soon as the articles are signed and go West. He says his hands are in good condition, and he will be able to take care of the German. The match is to go to a finish.

Newt Randall is certainly making a hit with President Murphy of the Chicago Cubs. George Dovey, the Boston National manager, thought of making a deal for the recruit, and asked Murphy his price. "Only $10,000," said Charles, and Dovey didn't come out of the daze for a week.

Minneapolis was the rendezvous for ball players this week. The Minneapolis and Toledo teams were quartered at the hotels of the Flour City, in addition to the Calumet and Winnipeg of the Northern Copper Country league and the Lethbridge team of the Western Canada league.

Judging from the quality of baseball being played by the Minneapolis and St. Paul teams of the American association, one is led to infer that the talk of taking the Twin Cities into the Northern Copper Country league was no idle gossip. They'd even have to play better ball than they are playing now to break into the "Grasshopper" circuit.

Odd things come up with the progress of the game. How is a scorer to score a spit ball that is not a wild pitch, yet fools both batsmen and catcher—the latter so much that he fails to get the ball in his hands at all. It is not fair to call it a passed ball. Often it happens that the catcher is hit on the wrist, the arm or other part of his person by a ball of this description, and it certainly would be rank injustice to credit him with an error.

Again, why should not a batsman who succeeds in bringing in the run on a squeeze play be credited with a sacrifice hit? If he goes out he throws away his chances for a hit for the express purpose of bringing in a run, and that is a sight more valuable to a team than a sacrifice that simply places a man on second and may or may not result in the scoring of a run. It would seem that the powers that be could get together on this point and say a thing or two.

WILL FIGHT TO FINISH

Burns and O'Brien Will Fight Extra Rounds If Necessary.

Odds Remain Unchanged at 10 to 8, O'Brien Favorite.

Los Angeles, May 8.—If the light, heavyweight championship of the world is not decided at the end of the twentieth round tonight, when "Philadelphia Jack" O'Brien and Tommy Burns meet, before the Pacific Athletic club, it is probable that the men will fight several additional rounds by mutual agreement. No official understanding to this effect has been arranged, but O'Brien and Burns have both declared themselves willing to continue the bout for at least five rounds in addition to the twenty prescribed by the articles of agreement. The advance sale of seats for the fight promises to break every record heretofore established by a pugilistic contest in this city. It now seems likely that the odds will remain unchanged up to the time of the gong, and that O'Brien will remain favorite at 10 to 8.

Both men rested yesterday from their weeks of strenuous training, and will do no more work until the tap of the gong calls them to the center of the ring for their fistic fray.

Both boxers are seemingly in perfect physical condition. Burns has trained principally for speed and wind, for he says he intends to force the fighting, and if O'Brien intends to make this fight a runaway one, he will have to run some to keep away from him.

O'Brien is not disturbed in the least as to the probable outcome. He is equally as confident as Burns, and asks his friends to back him in the betting. O'Brien expects to use his cleverness to defeat Burns. The betting still stands with O'Brien the favorite, 10 to 8. Battling Nelson, Nolan and Jack Sullivan are expected to be in O'Brien's corner, while Burns will have Prof. Lewis, his trainer; George Memsic and Billy McDonald.

Bill Squires, the Australian heavyweight, will not witness the battle. He thinks his training in San Francisco is of more account to him. Jack Reynolds, his manager, however, will be on hand. Jack Johnson, the colored pugilist, is expected to arrive from Australia in time to be on hand and challenge the winner. Jim Jeffries and Abe Attell will also be present.

RACE BOARDS IN SESSION

American Trotting Association Cases Are Being Heard.

Chicago, May 8.—The board of appeals of the American Trotting association commenced a two-days' session here today. About fifty cases in which violation of the rules of the association is charged will be heard.

The board of review of the National Trotting association opened its spring meeting yesterday and before night had disposed of several important matters. The day was occupied with hearings on expulsions, suspensions, fines and appeals. At the conclusion of the session the board announced the following decisions:

Reinstated, Al Thomas of Benson, Neb.; J. Hooker Wilson of Woodbury, N. J.; P. P. Wingart of St. Croix Falls, Wis.

Temporarily reinstated, Frank Shank, Litchfield, Ohio.

Expelled, S. C. Burpee and George Burpee of Roanoke, Ala.

Thomas was reinstated without qualification. Wilson got into trouble over the false entry of a mare, named Ruby Electrite, who was entered in a trot at Bath, N. Y., Sept. 15, 1905, under the name of Blanche K. The mare was owned by Dr. McComas of Frederick, Md., for whom Wilson drove that season. Wilson claimed that the false entry was unwitting work of himself and the physician.

S. C. Burpee was involved in charges last fall when his case was continued. Subsequent investigations resulted in the expulsion yesterday of both Burpees. It was charged that the Burpees in the season of 1906 raced in the Mohawk Valley, New York, two horses under the names of Belle of Roanoke and Joan de Reszke, when in reality the first animal was the bay mare Ellen, with a record of 2:19¼, and the other bay gelding Cyclone, who had a mark of 2:15¼.

DELEGATES APPOINTED BY GOVERNOR JOHNSON.

St. Paul, May 8.—Following is a full list of the delegates appointed by Governor Johnson to the National Civic Federation at Chicago on May 28: John W. Willis, Frank B. Kellogg, St. Paul; A. T. Ankeny, W. D. Washburn, Jr., Minneapolis; Karl Mathie, St. Cloud; Martin Hughes, Hibbing; Timothy O'Conor, Renville; H. S. Lewis, Mapleton; C. d'Autremont, Jr., Duluth; H. H. Dunn, Albert Lea.

To the Central Drainage conference at Memphis, Tenn., on May 15, M. J. Costello of St. Paul and George A. Ralph of Crookston were appointed.

MANY BOUTS ARE IN SIGHT

Talk Among Fighters at the Head of the Lakes.

Jack Redmond May Hook Up With Jimmy Kelly.

The confusion which marks the fight situation in San Francisco couldn't begin to compare with the chaos, which exists in the ranks of pugilism at the Head of the Lakes. Challenges and counter-challenges, and the time-worn expression: "I'll fight the winner" and "I'll fight anybody" have been flying around so promiscuously that the followers of the game are wondering just where they stand. While the pugs have been shouting out their challenges and acceptances, there has been very little action and it is almost time some of the loud-mouthed ones got together and made a few matches.

In the lightweight division, Kid Martin and Joe Clements, both of Superior, are possibilities for a match. Both have been fighting around the Head of the Lakes for some time past and, for local boys, they have shown surprising form. Martin is a stocky little fellow, whose principal claim to honors is his ability to absorb wallops. He isn't a powerful hitter, but he can hold his own in a pure exhibition of science. Clements is the rangier of the two and he could doubtless keep the kid busy assimilating the jabs he can hand out.

Walter Griffin, the colored boy, who had a forfeit of $50 posted for some time in an effort to get a match with some lightweight, has now come out flat-footed and declares that he wants to fight Mike O'Keefe of Superior. O'Keefe recently gained a decision over the colored boy at Ashland, but Griffin thinks he can make the Superior lad go some to win and he has $50 as a side bet to say so.

Among the middleweights, the principal match in pickle is, of course, that between Tom McCune and Tony Caponi or Vernon Austin. The definite arrangements for the match have not yet been made, but they doubtless will be in a few days, when one of the two men will be brought to Duluth. Jack Redmond, who came here from Milwaukee, looking for a match with some of the men fighting around 145 pounds, has hooked on to his man in Jimmy Kelly of Superior. Kelly is a rangy lad, who was to have gone against Otto Sieloff at Superior recently. Redmond has a reputation, gained fighting before the clubs of the Beer City, and he is anxious to show the fight fans at the Head of the Lakes just what he can do.

Curley Ulirich also bids fair to get another match. Otto Sieloff, who got a draw from Curley recently at Eveleth, is still here and is spoiling for a match. Curley is willing to accommodate the Chicago German, and they may be an attraction at the next match scheduled for the Head of the Lakes.

ACTRESS ENDS LIFE WITH SHOT

Divorce Troubles Cause Muriel Nelson to Commit Suicide.

New York, May 8.—Worry over divorce troubles is believed to have been responsible for the suicide of Muriel Nelson, an actress, violinist and music writer, who shot and killed herself at her apartments in the Hotel Bennington.

Miss Nelson, as she was called, was well known among stage folk, both in this country and England, of which she was a native. She was at one time the wife of James Stewart Laeid, well known throughout Europe as an educator. She appeared in many plays in this country, the most recent of which was the "Squaw Man."

For Wallace Widdicombe, whom Miss Nelson married and who lives at the Long Acre hotel, she left a note in which she complained of severe headaches, brought on by her divorce troubles. In a note she asked that many of her musical works be published. A physician said there were divorce proceedings between Miss Nelson and Mr. Widdicombe.

BARBARA KRUPP WEDDED TO BARON WILMOWSKI.

Essen, Germany, May 8.—Barbara Krupp, second daughter of the late Herr Krupp, the Steel magnate, was married yesterday at the Villa Huegel, near here, to Baron Tile von Wilmowski. The couple will live at Benn where the baron is a government official.

S.S.S. OLDEST AND BEST BLOOD PURIFIER

GREATEST OF ALL TONICS

For nearly fifty years S. S. S. has been before the people, and in that time thousands upon thousands have tested its virtues and know that no other medicine so satisfactorily cleanses the blood of all impurities, humors or poisons, or is so well adapted to the entire system as a general tonic.

The majority of human ailments are caused by impure or impoverished blood. Every part of the body is dependent on this vital fluid for nourishment and strength. The muscles, nerves, bones, sinews, skin and other portions of the system are sustained and enabled to perform their different duties because they are supplied with nutriment and healthful properties through the circulation. When, however, the body is supplied with weak or impure blood the system is deprived of this strength, disease germs collect, and a general impaired condition of health is the result.

Coming in contact with contagious diseases is a frequent cause for the polluting of the blood; we also breathe the germs and microbes of Malaria, and like diseases into our systems, and when these get into the blood in sufficient quantity it becomes a carrier of disease instead of health. Then follow such symptoms as anaemia, boils, sores and ulcers, and often chills and fever and a badly weakened and disordered condition of health. Often a sluggish, inactive condition of the system and torpid state of the avenues of bodily waste leaves the waste and refuse matter to sour and form acids and humors which are absorbed into the blood, and some serious blood disorder or itching, annoying skin disease is the result.

About a year ago I was troubled with bad blood. Whenever I scratched myself or in any way made an abrasion of the skin an ugly sore or raw ulcer would come and give me no end of trouble. Knowing of the reputation of S. S. S. I decided to use it, which I did with most gratifying results. It purified my blood and I have not been troubled since. Ever since taking S. S. S. my health has been good and I recommend it as a fine blood purifier and tonic.
Victoria, Texas. CHAS. A. LEUSCHNER.

There is no better index to the character of the blood than the skin. Muddy, sallow complexions, eruptions, pimples, etc., show that the blood is infected with unhealthy humors which have changed it from a pure, fresh stream to a sour, acrid fluid which forces out its impurities through the pores and glands of the skin.

Spring is the season at which a blood purifier and tonic is most needed. The accumulations in the system, caused by the inactive, shut-in Winter life, must be removed, for when warmer weather comes the blood is aroused, and in trying to rid itself of these impurities calls upon every part of the system for assistance, and few constitutions can withstand these demands without some manifestation of disorder. The physical weakness, a tired, worn-out feeling, changeable appetite, poor digestion, and general run-down condition of the system, together with skin affections and diseases in different forms, so common at this season, show that a blood purifier and tonic is needed.

S. S. S. is Nature's blood purifier and tonic. It is made entirely of healing, cleansing roots, herbs and barks, and has long been recognized as THE KING OF BLOOD PURIFIERS and the GREATEST OF ALL TONICS. It goes down into the circulation and removes gently but thoroughly, every particle of impurity, humor or poison that may be there, restores lost energy, builds up the appetite, and steadily tones up the entire system by its fine tonic effects. S. S. S. neutralizes any excess of acid or humor in the blood, making it fresh and pure, and cures Eczema, Acne, Tetter and all skin diseases and eruptions permanently and promptly. It adds to the blood the rich, healthful properties it is in need of, and in every way prepares the system for the change from Winter to Spring. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Sores and Ulcers, and all other diseases arising from an impure or poisoned blood supply. If you have any evidences of a weak, impoverished condition of the blood, or feel the need of a tonic, begin the use of S. S. S., which is for sale at all first class drug stores, and prepare your system for the depressing Summer months which are to follow. Book on the blood and any medical advice desired will be sent free to all who write.

THE INLAND WATERWAYS

Important Problems That Are Being Considered by Commission.

Preparing to Outline a Broad Policy to the President.

FROM THE HERALD WASHINGTON BUREAU.

Washington, May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The general discussions of the inland waterways commission, held in Washington last week, served to bring out prominently a number of the important problems which must be carefully considered before any broad policy can be outlined to the president.

The full attendance of the commission at each meeting, and the wide range of topics considered, evidence a keen interest on the part of the members in formulating plans which shall be practical and comprehensive. It is recognized that our inland waterways and the subsidiary streams which flow into them constitute potential resources which can not be measured by present utilization. The commission is giving consideration at this time to all the co-related questions which belong to the waterway problem, such as navigation, clarification, management, power, development, reclamation by irrigation and drainage, sewage control, land improvement and fisheries. Under the first of these heads come canals, ship canals, boat canals and streams, including consideration of bridges and other works affecting the navigability of the waterways. The clarification of waters is already receiving attention, chiefly by municipalities which provide for clearing water in settling basins or reservoirs for drinking and manufacturing purposes. It is suggested to the commission, however, that clarification might be effected more economically if the operations were conducted in a wholesale way. The subject is of very great importance, as its solution will provide a means of eliminating sediment, thus reducing the capacity of the rivers to erode their channels, to cut their banks, build bars, and otherwise act destructively. Clear water does not corrode and the question of river control is largely one of keeping mud out and preventing building of bars.

In the management of streams the floods must be controlled and at the same time low water must be prevented. The control of floods is of vital importance throughout the Lower Mississippi region, and the prevention of excessively low water is necessary in connection with navigation and with water supply for municipal and other purposes. It is necessary also to provide for the protection of levees and the prevention of bars. The importance of this question alone will be better understood when it is remembered that if the waters of the Missouri could be so controlled as to protect its banks and prevent the formation of bars, the stream would be navigable today. Power development is a question of great and immediate importance. Recent investigations show that the government dams already in existence are capable of developing a million and a half horsepower. This is but a small fraction of the total available power in the Mississippi and its tributaries. The aggregate amount has never been computed accurately. Undoubtedly it would suffice to furnish electric lights and power to drive street railways, and in other ways materially reduce the cost of consumption of coal and other fuel.

Of no less importance is the reclamation by irrigation and drainage of lands which, either by reason of too much or to little water, are valueless in their present condition. The work of the reclamation service is typical of some of the most important problems which must be considered by the commission. Beginning with the conservation at the head of the stream; the first work of magnitude is to determine the question as to how much water can be held in reservoirs, and to what extent the stream can be artificialized by the construction of dams. The reclamation service is now constructing many of these large storage reservoirs and the investigations made show that others can be built to the extent of ultimately controlling a considerable part of the flood waters tributary to the Missouri river and of other confluents of the Mississippi. In the Far West the streams flowing into the interior basin and tributary to the Sacramento, and other rivers entering the Pacific, have been studied, and structures have been planned for restraining the flood waters of many of them. The works which have already been outlined in this connection and which are well under way will involve the expenditure of $40,000,000 up to the calendar year of 1909.

The striking feature about the reclamation work is that the money expended in these improvements is invested in such a way as to be returned again to the treasury. The cost of the dams, canals and other works is assessed to the lands benefited, and the owners thereof are required to repay the government's investment. It is a matter of more than general interest to note that it has been found practicable to put into operation a law which thus serves not merely to develop the country and to utilize its resources, but that this work can be done in such a way that the original investment will ultimately come back to be used over again.

The reclamation service not only stores water for the irrigation of the arid lands, but controls the distribution and regulates the supply to considerable areas which at the present time are swamp or overflow. In the Mississippi valley are many millions of acres of lands which in their present state are practically worthless, but which, reclaimed by a comprehensive system of drainage patterned after the plans of the reclamation service for the reclamation of the arid lands, would become of immense value for agricultural purposes, and would afford homes for hundreds of thousands of our citizens. The reclaimable area of swamp lands is known to be greater than the areas which will be reclaimed by irrigation. The cost of reclaiming the overflowed lands would not prove an excessive burden upon the land owners.

Of vital importance is the preservation of the forest cover at the headwaters of our streams. Forests may or may not influence the amount of rain which falls, but there is no question whatever concerning the influence of forests on rain that has once fallen, or, in other words, controlling the flow of the streams. Forest preservation, therefore, is stream preservation as well. In fact, it is the most important part of stream preservation. In addition to the forests which are already growing over the mountains in the East and in the West alike, there are great stretches of mountain lands which once grew forests, which are better adapted to the growth of forests than to any other use, but which have been denuded, either by fire or by the axe.

The commission will meet at Kansas City Monday, May 10, and will proceed by boat to St. Louis, arriving Monday, May 13; thence by steamer to Memphis and probably to New Orleans. Daily conferences will be held throughout the trip. No invitations for receptions or entertainments have been accepted, although many have been extended. The trip is in no sense a junket, the purpose being to make a personal study of conditions and secure reliable and accurate information.

FORMER RESIDENT

Of Duluth Passes Away in the Canadian Northwest.

Winnipeg, Man., May 8.—John McKeand Watson, a veteran of the rebellion of 1885, when he served as sergeant with Company A of the Nintieth regiment, died at Regina on Saturday after a brief illness. Mr. Watson was among the old timers of Winnipeg, and was well known in military circles, having held the rank of sergeant-major of the Ninetieth regiment for many years. Leaving Winnipeg for Duluth some nine years ago, he retired from the regiment, and was succeeded by Sergeant Maj. Grey. Three years ago he moved to Regina where he entered into the real estate business. He leaves in Winnipeg one son and five daughters. These are Robert D. Watson of 367 Kennedy street, Mrs. T. H. Hooper, Mrs. F. Young and the Misses Margaret, Elizabeth and Florence Watson. He was through the thick of the fighting during the rebellion, and was wounded in the engagement at Fish Creek. He was an enthusiastic soldier, and prided himself on the esprit de corps of the regiment of which he was premier non-commissioned officer. He had one of the best drilled regiments in the country under him, and never allowed a man to don the uniform until he had mastered all the intricacies of the drill book.

CALLS FOR ROAD BIDS

County Board Authorizes New Road Work by Contract.

Road Apportionment is Made in Commissioner Kauppi's District.

The county board took its first step toward doing its new road work by contract this year, when it authorized the county auditor, at the meeting yesterday afternoon, to call for sealed bids for the construction of five miles of extension of the Sturgeon Lake road from the present northern terminus. The action was taken on the resolution of Commissioner P. J. Ryan, in whose district the road is located. The board will employ a civil engineer to survey the road and lay out 100-foot stations as a basis for the bids. It is figured that the entire cost of the five miles of extension will be in the neighborhood of $3,000, or $600 per mile. The road extension in question will be into a territory that is fast settling up and is one of the most important new farming sections of the country tributary to Hibbing.

The sum of $10,300 was appropriated from the special road fund to be spent on the following roads in Commissioner Kauppi's district: Prairie Lake road, $700; Halden road, $600; Laurie road, $300; Schussler road, $500; Swan Lake road, city limits toward Cloquet river, $900; Swan Lake road from Alborn, $700; Kelsey road, $800; Schultz road, $500; Culver road, $300; Martz road, $500; Cloquet river road, $500; Canosia road, $600; McArthur and extension road, $600. Grand Lake Station road, $400; Cotton road, $600; Hermantown extension road, $200; McArthur road, $200; St. Louis river road, $500; Hermantown, Midway and Pike Lake road, $900.

By a resolution introduced by Commissioner McInnis, the board voted that the expenditure of the appropriaion for the Miller road be made under the supervision of A. J. Shea, except for that portion of the road at or near Hollwig's creek, in the town of Independence. L. T. Hawkinson will have supervision of the latter work. The stream has sometimes been called Nelson's creek.

After a hearing on a petition for a six-mile extension of the Payne-Whiteface road, from the east bank of the St. Louis river to the west town line of 53-20, the board authorized the work.

Elmer Briggs was granted a license to sell liquor at Ash Lake, in township 66-20.

Chairman Patterson and Commissioners Kauppi and Sundeen were elected a committee to arrange for the repair of the east wall of the courthouse, by plastering the outside with Portland cement.

CONCERNING WOMEN.

The door bell rang.

As a general thing that is not one of the greatest of the day's adventures, but the woman who was doomed to answer the ring, had a towel around her head. Anybody who has ever seen a woman with her head tied up that way knows how hopeless it is for one to look impressive. The only person who can do that is a very young girl with a lovely complexion and little ringlets of naturally curling hair peeking out from underneath the towel. This woman was not so. She was cleaning house and she put the towel on to protect her hair and therefore with no eye to the beauty and effect had not arranged for peeking curls. She was half dead from the siege of housecleaning anyhow, and she looked tired, and a smudge of black darkened her nose. With all the reaching and lifting that was part of the morning work, her waist had pulled up from the skirt band and hung over the outside. Her skirt was torn and one shoe lace had come untied and she was so hurried she had no time to stop to tie it up again.

The door bell rang again.

The woman said, "Great heavens," and went to answer it after trying ineffectually to tuck in her waist and rub the black off her nose.

A dapper young man stood at the door.

"Good morning," said the young man very graciously, that nobody but the most boorish sort of person could have refused him greeting. "I would like just a moment of your time. I have a little article here that you will find invaluable during the spring house cleaning and after that arduous labor has been finished. In fact so invaluable is it that after you have once tried it you will wonder that you ever could keep house without it. You—"

"Excuse me," said the lady with the towel wrapped head, "but—"

"Will—" continued the young man.

"I don't want—" said the lady.

"Find it—" urged the young man.

"Anything that—" she said oblivious of his desire to talk.

"More useful—" said he who knew its merits.

"Anybody ever made or—" she insisted.

"Than any other six—" he continued.

"Ever will make. I—" bravely continued the queen of the household.

"Household utensils that you—" said the young man who never had kept house.

"Have all the kitchen—" urged the lady.

"Have ever used. The lady next—" continued the young man.

"Utensils I want and I don't propose to stand here the rest of the—"

"Door bought one of—" he went on insisting.

"Morning telling you that I—" she continued evenly.

"Me, and she says that it is—" he courteously related.

"Am delighted—" she said.

"To take one?" he queried deftly.

"Not at all. But delighted that—"

"I came around this morning?" he gracefully supplied.

"Not in the least. But delighted that—"

"Our firm has arranged to make such early delivery?" he finished.

"Not quite," she said. "I don't think the delivery will be so very quick if you stay here until I order one," she said maliciously. If you can give me two seconds of your time I can let you know exactly—"

"In the preparation of salads, that thing which keeps woman so long and takes such time, you will see that this little device—" argued the young man.

"My opinions of the subject. I don't propose

"Is a wonderful help. The slicing and preparing of fruits and vegetables is the one thing that occupies so much valuable time with the careful and clever house—"

"To buy one. I don't care if—" kept on the woman.

"Wife, and she instantly recognizes—" said the young man, who was quite a good talker.

"Mrs. Roosevelt and Queen Alexander and Evelyn Nesbit Thaw all—" argued the lady who knew her own mind.

"That in order to live up to the highest ideals of wifehood and—"

"Bought one. I won't," decided the woman.

"Motherhood," kept on the dapper youth, "she must be able to avail herself of—"

"Oh, Jawn," said the woman, in a relieved tone to a quiet, forceful-looking man, who arrived just at that moment. "Do tell this individual that I don't want whatever it is he's got. He's been talking for two hours but hasn't mentioned it yet. I don't want it, I don't care what it is. Send him away."

Now most stories of this sort would relate how a simple word or two from John did the business, but this is a true story, or pretty near true, so the denouement is that John got interested and listened to the young man say his little speech from beginning to end. He carefully examined the utensil that would slice vegetables for salads and grate nutmegs without marring your fingers, and open beer bottles, and could be converted into a can opener and several other little things, and it so appealed to his sense of ingenuity that he ordered three.

His wife was disgusted after she had the agent almost squelched. "I haven't had time to get a bite of lunch," she said, "between trying to clean this house and shut the door on that man, so you just get what you can off the pantry shelf. Mary is doing up the lace curtains, and she can't stop, and the woman in helping is too busy to cook. You will find some doughnuts in the stone crock back of the bread box on the left hand side of the cupboard. And I might just as well say that we haven't the slightest use for those contrivances you bought. We have—"

"Where did you say the doughnuts were?" inquired John.

Knapp - Deighton.

The wedding of Miss Jessie F. Knapp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Knapp of 4544 London Road, to John Denis Deighton, will take place tomorrow at St. John's Episcopal church. The service will be read at 12 o'clock by Rev. A. W. Ryan. Mr. Deighton and his bride will leave for a wedding trip and after June 1 they will be at home in this city.

May Festival.

The May festival is attracting the attention of a large part of musical Duluth and the only festival to be held in the Northwest this year will doubtless be a brilliant and noteworthy event. The Minneapolis Symphony orchestra will play and the soloists will be Shanna Cummings of New York, Arthur Beresford of Chicago, and Holmes Cowper, all noted in oratoro and concert work. Prof. H. W. Reynler, who will direct the oratorios, has been associated with these soloists in previous years in presenting oratorios in the East, and he is greatly pleased that the local society was able to secure them for the Duluth engagement.

The concerts will be given Tuesday and Wednesday evening and Wednesday afternoon of next week at the First Methodist church. The oratorios of Coleridge Taylor, "Hiawatha's Wedding Feast" and "The Death of Minnehaha" will be sung and the subjects of the oratorios are of especial interest in this part of the country, the land of the Indian story so wonderfully told by Longfellow. At the afternoon performance an orchestral matinee will be given with an assisting soloist and Grace Senior Brearley of this city will play a Beethoven sonata with orchestral accompaniment.

REPRESENTS DULUTH

Mrs. Grace S. Brearley to Play Before National Meeting.

The members of the matinee Musicale and the musical people of Duluth will be interested in knowing that Mrs. Grace Senior Brearley of this city will represent the local musical organization at the biennial meeting of the National Federation of Musical clubs, which is being held this week at Memphis, Tenn. Mrs. Brearley left today for the Southern city. She will appear in a program on Saturday afternoon of this week, playing Schumann's "Carnival," a number which Mrs. Brearley has played before the local society. Mrs. Brearley will return Monday and will play with the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra Tuesday evening.

"ART APPRECIATION."

Subject of Talk By Mrs. Robert M. Seymour.

"Art Appreciation," was the subject of a talk this morning at the club room of the library, by Mrs. Robert Morris Seymour, who spoke to a large number of the club women of the city. The lecture was delivered before the last annual meeting of the Minnesota Federation of Women's clubs, and was arranged for by a number of the local women who were unable to hear it at that time, and the lecture was planned as supplementary to the work of Mrs. Seymour's classes in this city during the winter.

Mrs. Seymour said in part: "I am often asked what is the relation between art and life and what is the value of art in life. We often hear it said that an appreciation of art is an appreciation of life. And that brings us to the question of what life is. We speak of a much traveled man as one who has seen life, or we call the presentation of great soul stirring drama, life. We say again that to live as a good daughter or wife or mother, playing the part we find to play, is to feel life in its best sense. But in the last analysis we find that life must be growth. The continuous unfoldment is necessary to a higher, broader and more perfect plane. There is no place to stop or stay, for at that crisis we sink into a life that ceases to be vital. We are no longer useful to nature and in the study of natural science we find that the life that is not useful to nature has ceased to grow and is out of harmony.

"We naturally come to the question of how to grow, and we will find that many of us are suffering, fairly, from a wrong psychology. Most Americans are descendants of Puritans, or have been moulded by Puritan thought, which brings everything to one standard of judgment. It is a false psychology, and with the many minds of the world which we daily encounter, we are unjust, and do not understand if we insist upon this one standard of judgment. In the study of ancient and modern philosophy we find that we are many things; that no one man is entirely influenced by one course of action his life through, and as we grow in experience we realize this more and more that the finest vision of life may be found in a mind in the depths of slum life, and where we often would least look for it. Art reveals the fuller revelation of life to us. We experience the part of life the artist would present without going through all the facts."

Mrs. Seymour continued with a lucid and effective informal talk on the value of the arts of poetry, the study of design, color and painting, of music and the study of architecture and drama. Examples of simple designs and work from the classes of the high school art department were shown, and the practical value of the training was pointed out. The lecture was well attended.

What Retail Markets Offer.

Green, unripe strawberries, 20 cents a box.
Tomatoes, 75 cents a box.
Beets, 8 cents a bunch.
Carrots, 8 cents a bunch.
Lake Superior trout, 15 cents a lb.
Pig hocks, 10 cents a lb.
Crown lamb roast, 30 cents a lb.

A stew with carrots in it might supply the needs of the table needing a change of viand. A stew is the only cheap thing you can get in the market, and any stew ever concocted would be dear at half the price. But in all fairmindedness it might be said that there are stews and stews and it is usually the luck of the person against whom the fates seem to conspire to face stew when the unexpected guest at a family dinner. New carrots in a stew might redeem it, and a bay leaf allowed to flutter its spicy flavor into the midst of the broth, also might help. People have also tried to put dough in a stew and then if the thing is at the right temperature and you don't peck in once while the dough is cooking, when you dish the combination on to a parsley decorated platter you have dumplings. If you look in even once then they're spoiled. There are several mysterious rites to be observed in making a stew, that is a meat and vegetable stew, if you have it come out right, and these dun colored days are as good as any upon which to try your soul with this hardship of the flesh, especially if you would rather be eat crown roasts of lamb decorated with paper frills.

SAN FRANCISCO'S CAR STRIKE RIOTS

on Turk street, near Eddy, is dead, and among the wounded in Central Emergency hospital are: Thomas White, lacerated scalp; Police Officer Harry Sauer, shot through shoulder; F. Joy, laceration of cheek; J. Krohner, shot in shoulder; William Slattery, contusion of foot and head; J. Arena, contusion of knee; A. C. Jahn, shot in throat; N. Leish, shot through chest; N. Granville, lacerated face; H. M. McNaughton, shot in forehead; Tom Buchanan, shot in abdomen, will die; C. W. Forrester, contusion of face; Detective Sergeant Bill, shot in chest; Alta Palm, shot in back, may die.

So far the police alone have occupied the field, but the militia are under orders to move at a moment's notice, while the federal army authorities are keeping in close touch with the situation, ready for action if it be deemed necessary to invoke their aid.

Today promises to be even more eventful than yesterday, for, in spite of the bloodshed which followed their action, another attempt will be made to run the cars with still greater precautions to insure success.

It is hoped that the action of the labor council taken at the general meeting last night may serve to quiet the combined labor troubles which are now bearing so heavily upon business men and the peace of the city. A peace committee of eleven appointed from the different industries will meet a committee of the Civic League this afternoon to outline some plan to meet the gravity of the present situation. This committee will labor in the interests of peace and bring whatever information it can to bear for the purpose of the different labor unions.

In the meantime, the council has issued an appeal to all members of the several unions urging peace.

The situation remains unchanged in the other industries in which a strike has been declared. The telephone company is still handicapped by a lack of operators, but it is believed that the action of the women in voting against a strike, will lead to a speedy settlement. The latest strike reported is that of the Sandstone Cuters' union, which went into force yesterday. The men struck for $6 per day, an increase from $5, the present rate. No question of hours or conditions is involved. This strike will delay work on many of the new class A buildings, now in course of erection. The union declines all offers to arbitrate.

The first riot and bloodshed of the street car strike occurred shortly before noon yesterday when an attempt was made to run a big car manned by four inspectors out of the barn at Turk and Fillmore streets. Three thousand men and boys packed themselves in front of the car and jeered at Inspector A. F. Drohman, who was at the controller. The car, however, moved slowly forward and then a shower of stones and brickbats were thrown at it. The boarded-up windows were smashed. Drohman was struck on the chest by the stones, but he stuck to his post. The policemen made no serious attempt to protect the car or clear the street. It proceeded half a block when the missiles became so thick that Drohman had to take refuge inside. His place was taken by Inspector J. B. C. Cummins. A stone struck Cummins in the jaw but, though blood dripped from his face, he stayed by the controller, but made no effort to run the car. Union pickets went among the mob imploring them not to throw stones. They were jeered. Finally Superintendent Jones took the controller and started the car back to the barns. This move was greeted with tremendous cheers and the throwing up of hats.

At 2:30 o'clock the company sent out seven passenger cars manned by between thirty and forty strike breakers wearing the uniform of car inspectors and each carrying a .38-caliber revolver. Twenty-seven policemen, five mounted officers and several sergeants under the command of Capt. Moon, were on patrol guard. Before the cars had gone a block they were made the targets of stones and bricks. In a few moments every pane of glass had been smashed and several of the armed operatives had been struck, cut and bruised.

At Turk and Buchanan streets an especially fierce attack was made on the foremost car. A guard on the rear platform answered the flying stones with a pistol shot. The bullet struck one of the union sympathizers in the arm. This transformed the crowd into a wild mob and for twelve blocks the strikers and their friends, aided by hundreds of youthful hoodlums, kept up a running shower of missiles. The guards on board the cars responded with fusillade after fusillade of pistol shots. Eight men received bullet wounds, some of which will prove fatal. Among those thus injured are a detective sergeant and a patrolman.

Finally a dozen or more of the guards were arrested by reserves from the central police station, and a union crowd boarded the rearmost car and started it back to the barns. Arriving there, the strikers charged that revolver fire was opened upon them from the barns. In this encounter several more men were shot. A non-union man threw the switch at the corner of Turk and Fillmore streets, and the derailed car shot into the sidewalk, maiming two men whose names have not been learned. In the stampede that followed here a score of women and children on the outskirts of the mob in Fillmore street were hurled to the pavement and trampled upon.

A union man, who was loudest in denunciation of the strike-breakers, created a dramatic scene. While the smoke from the emptied pistols of the guards still hung with the shattered cars, he threw off his coat, raised his arms and wildly offered himself as a sacrifice to their bullets.

Capt. Scott was the first officer observed to use a club in order to disperse the crazed mob. Leaping from his buggy, he drew his club and struck right and left. After he had knocked down four or five of the strikers and their sympathizers, the salutary effect of his manner of treatment became apparent; the mob broke and began to run. As Scott pursued them with raised club he tripped over a paving stone and fell headlong in the street. At this the mob met up a shout of delight, and missiles of all sorts were hurled at the prostrate man. He picked himself up and gave chase. Capt. Duke, arriving a few minutes later followed Capt. Scott's tactics, and with half a dozen burly patrolmen, beat back and scattered the crowd, which retreated, jeering, toward the car barns at Turk and Fillmore streets.

Last night the city was peaceful, and the downtown districts showed no indication of the bloody fray. The crowds which during the day packed the streets in the vicinity of the United railroad car barns, gradually grew thinner as darkness set in, and later in the night only a few pickets of the car men's union on watch and a few scattered police on guard against any impending trouble, marked the locality as a storm center.

Chief of Police Dinan said last night: "There will be no more indiscriminate shooting should an attempt be made to run cars tomorrow. Orders have been issued to all company commanders to instruct their men to arrest all persons carrying weapons, whether or not the weapons are concealed. If an attempt is made to run cars tomorrow, we will have guards along the entire line. We will not put any men on the cars, but we will protect the men sent out to operate the cars."

Sixty additional reserves have been called in from outside stations and placed at the disposal of Police Capts. Mooney and Gleason at the Turk street car barn. In addition to the regular force at that barn, an extra detail of thirty men was sent there. All detectives and policemen doing miscellaneous duty have been notified to be in readiness for emergency work.

Los Angeles, May 8—"I will not call out the state militia to quell the riots in San Francisco until the civil authorities have asked me to do so or I am satisfied from my own investigation that there is no other way to handle the situation," said Governor James N. Gillette tonight. "I am watching the situation closely and will act the moment I believe it necessary. I am now awaiting advices from Adjt. Gen. Loulck, and I am depending upon him to advise me as to the exact situation. If the riots go on and they continue to kill the men there and the police are unable to stop it, I will call out the militia. There will be no child's play about it either if I take that action. I will see that the riots are stopped and stopped at once."

Asked what he would do in the event the riots continued and the civil authorities of San Francisco did not see fit to call upon him for troops, the governor replied: "I would order the militia out, anyway. Whenever I become satisfied that the situation is beyond their control, I will send in a request for federal troops. Representations from the best element of San Francisco that troops were desired there would be sufficient for me to act without waiting for the word from the officials."

GLOBE HAS BIG BULGE

Stock is Feature of Market, Jumping Several Points.

Other Stocks Are Firm and Close Slightly Higher.

The local copper stock curb was not without its sensations today, and this after a listless two weeks or so.

At the opening this morning, there was not a bid in sight for Globe Consolidated and it was quoted at $11.75 asked. It closed at $15 bid and $15.50 asked, after selling at $15.

For several days, the market on Globe has been dead and at the beginning of today's business, the stock showed unmistakable signs of weakness, but an hour or so afterwards, it sudenly began to sit up and take notice. It was traded in early in the day at $11.50 and advanced steadily as the session progressed to $15.

All of a sudden, everyone seemed anxious to buy. Much of the stock was bought today by local people, and the Arizona copper camps were buying it in large blocks.

The rest of the stock had a firm tone at the close. North Butte opened at $92, went off to $91.75, rallied to $92.75 and closed at $92.37½ bid and $92.75 asked. Amalgamated opened at $65.12½, went up to $65.37½, off to $94.50 and closed at $65 bid. Anaconda opened at $63.50, went up to $63.75, off to $62.87½ and closed at $63.25 bid. Butte Coalition opened at $27.75, advanced to $28 and closed at $27.50 bid and $28 asked.

Calumet & Arizona opened at $177 and closed at $176 bid and $177 asked, after a quiet session.

Greene-Cananea was traded in at $16 and $16.12½ and closed at $15.87½ bid and $16.12½ asked.

Superior & Pittsburg sold at $19, went off to $18.62½ and closed at $18.50 bid and $18.75 asked. Denn-Arizona sold at $10.50, advanced to $10.62½ and closed at $10.50 bid and $10.75 asked. Warren sold at $8.75 and $9 and closed at $8.50 bid and $8.75 asked. Butte & Superior sold at $3.25 and closed at $3 bid and $3.25 asked. Cliff at $4 and closed at $3.87½ bid and $4.12½ asked. Calumet & Montana at 95 cents and closed at 90 cents bid and $1 asked, and Carman at $3 and closed at $3 bid and $3.50 asked.

Keweenaw was inactive and closed at $9.87½ bid and $10.12½ asked. Hancock at $9 bid and $9.25 asked. Calumet & Sonora at $20 asked and Copper Queen of Idaho at $1.37½ bid and $1.50 asked.

Black Mountain sold at $6 and $5.75 and closed at $5.62½ bid and $5.87½ asked.

HIGH BETS AT BRIDGE.

"Playing the stock market isn't exciting enough for most of the boys in the street these days," said a gray-haired broker, who was sipping something from a long glass in one of the up-town hotels the other night, according to the New York Sun. "It's somewhat different from the days when I was much younger.

"Then a game of poker for fairly modest stakes or a turn at the roulette wheel was diverting enough to take your mind away from the cares of the stock market and its vagaries. But now! Its bridge whist and the stakes they play for would make some of the old timers who thought they were pretty sporty sit up and take notice.

"Here is an accurate account of a game that was played a few weeks ago:

"A well known house, the head of which comes from the neighborhood of Chicago, has a branch office in a hotel not far from Thirty-fourth street and Fifth avenue. A bridge whist game is played there every afternoon. The plungers of Wall street know it and gather there whenever they have nothing to do.

"One afternoon it happed that they were shy of a player. A man who has a comfortable income strolled in. I know the chap, and his income is between $12,000 and $15,000 a year.

"He is not a spendthrift, and he is careful not to exceed his income. In fact, he always makes it a point to keep inside of it.

"He was asked to take a hand in the game and he did. 'No money is ever passed in the game.' The manager of the office keeps track of the winnings and losings and the following day a check is sent to a player for what is coming to him or he gets a bill for what he owes.

"'What will we play for, 25 or 50 a point?' asked one of the players when this young fellow took his seat.

"'I make it a rule never to play for more than 25, said the stranger, who had never played there before.

"That was satisfactory to everybody and the game started. Well, when they got through in about two hours my friend figured out that he had won about $300 and he was pretty well pleased with himself.

"The next morning when he opened his mail he found a check for $35,000. It was from the brokerage office and there was a brief statement from the manager that the check represented his bridge winnings the day before.

"He was astounded, but he saw in a flash what had happened. Instead of playing for 25 cents a point the stakes were $25 a point.

"It didn't take him long to decide what to do. He has his own notions of things in life and there is nothing dishonest about him. He put on his hat and coat, called a cab and drove to the broker's office.

"'This is all a mistake,' he said, taking out the check and showing it to the manager. 'When I played in that game yesterday I understood it was for 25 cents a point. I see now it was for $25 a point. It is not fair to the other players and I cannot take this check.'

"The manager looked at him. He wasn't used to seeing that kind of bird around his shop.

"'Can't help it,' he said, brusquely. 'I don't know anything about it. All I know is what my books show. I've got to go by the books. I'm sorry, but I can't do anything for you.'

"There was no use talking to the manager. It was all business transaction with him and he wasn't referee. Somebody else would have to settle it.

"So the young fellow hopped into his cab and drove to the main office of the firm in Wall street. He had no trouble in seeing the principal partner in the firm, whom he knows. I'm not sure that the principal partner didn't play in the same game.

"My young friend explained his troubles. The broker listened to him and told him to stand pat.

"'Why,' said my friend, 'this is out of the question. If I had lost $35,000 I would have been broke for three years. I couldn't have stood such a loss.'

"'Can't help it,' said the broker, who is a plunger. 'If you had lost you would have been hounded until you settled. There is nothing to it. You won it, although you didn't know what you were doing. It's your luck, old boy. Go home and be good. There is no way of straightening it out, although I appreciate how you feel.'

"The young man decided that he couldn't do anything more and kept the money. The other fellows who were in the game were told about it and thought it was a good joke on them.

"I inquired about the story and picked up some information. I find that bridge for $25 and $50 a point is not an uncommon thing in this office. There have been games at $200 a point, which is mighty tall gambling. I understand, too, that this is not the only office where the stakes are high."

THE 'HUBBY-SHAVER' TALKS.

When the new carpet is laid in Grace Baptist church on State street, about four yards of it will be consigned to the fortitude of Timmy Lonsdale of 125 Boudinot street. Every thread of the four yards represents a whisker which Lonsdale submitted to a razor wielded by his wife, says a Trenton dispatch to the New York World.

But it's all over now and Lonsdale lives to share with his tonsorial helpmeet in the mutual satisfaction of having been instrumental in providing a carpet for the church. A difference of opinion exists among the neighbors as whether the greatest credit lies. The husbands rise up to acclaim Lonsdale a martyr while the wives are congratulating Mrs. Lonsdale.

It is established that she took the initiative in the matter. She is a member of the ladies' aid society of the church which set out to raise the money on the self-denial plan. Some of the women baked and others sewed or did something to contribute each her share. In an inspired moment Mrs. Lonsdale hit on the idea of shaving her husband to earn her mite. She would charge Lonsdale 15 cents per shave, the same as he paid to the barber.

It is not recorded with what feelings Lonsdale received the proposal, and neighbors have forborne to pry into this phase of the situation. But children will hear tales and Lonsdale's daughter is no exception.

Credence is given to the gossip that when Mrs. Lonsdale asked her husband how he was enjoying the self-denial business, he choked back a sigh and replied that shaving was an art which was not acquired in a minute. It requires a fine sense of direction to apply the lather generously over the face without including the mouth, and the number of angles at which a man's head may be twisted during the process of shaving are limited.

Lonsdale's friends say there is much significance in a remark which escaped him that he is the true and only brother of the ostrich which can twist its neck with incredible dexterity. Lonsdale also says that knowledge of the reason why a skilled barber administers a downward stroke on the cheeks, and gently draws the razor upward on the throat and chin, was never meant for womankind. It is no secret that he discovered in his wife an exemplar of hitherto untried tonsorial methods.

Lonsdale's season of self-denial terminated two days ago when an "experience social" was held in the church parlors. It was arranged that the members of the Ladies' Aid society would reveal for the first time the means employed by each to earn her contribution to the carpet fund. They were requested to tell their story in verse. Diligent sisters told in jingles of baking ginger snaps, bread and pound cake and of sewing broom covers and knitting foot warmers.

When it came to Mrs. Lonsdale's turn the Rev. J. C. Killian, pastor of the church, gave his undivided attention. Mrs. B. R. Bennett, chairman of the social, was prepared at any moment to request less noise, such was the commotion. None of those present can repeat the verses, and among the Lonsdale household the poem is as a closed book. Lonsdale can see no reason why his four months' ordeal should be perpetuated by an epic, although his wife was enabled to contribute about $7 to the carpet fund.

From various source, however, it was learned that the verses read something like this:

WIFE'S RHYME OF THE RAZOR.

"When it comes to a matter of saving,
Best results are accomplished by shaving.
Those expenditures small
Which, in domiciles all,
Sap the bank with persistence that scathing.

"We were bidden to try self-denial—
I opined that industrious trial
With razor and lather
Would fit me, well rather,
To eke out a profit the while.

"I elected my husband the means;
And if to you ladies it seems
An Herculean task
To dewhisker his mask
It's because you were not on the scenes.

"As a barberess, tender yet bold,
I have corralled the coveted gold
To contribute my share
To the fund over there.
Thanking hubby, my story is told."

Mrs. Lonsdale has the satisfaction of knowing that in addition to her contribution to the church, she has accomplished a tangible saving in household expenses. Her husband formerly believed that a shave once a day was a necessity. Under the manipulations of her hand, he discovered that he could get along with a maximum of three shaves a week. Now that the four months of self-denial are over, Lonsdale is figuring how he can return to the daily shave without arousing any unkind suspicions in his household.

DOG MASTER TO MAN.

New York Press: Late every afternoon on an upper West side street, a lonely, forlorn-looking little man may be seen to issue forth from a large apartment with a small, fat poodle in tow. Or, rather, the dog has the man in tow, for the dog does all the leading. The line by which the man is attached to the dog is a heavy woven cord of blue silk. A gold-plated collar, tied with blue and yellow ribbon, ornaments the dog's neck. Wherever the dog's whim leads the man follows patiently. Patiently the little man follows his master while the latter pursues his royal way along the street. Patiently the little man waits while the dog pauses to smell at a garbage can and tries to sniff at a stranger's heels.

"Yep, it's a sad sight, ain't it?" agreed the corner policeman the other day. "Pore devil comes out and lets that dog drag him around about this time ever day, and hes been doing it now for near to a year. Ain't it a shame? They tell me he's jest about a valet to that dog. Course, it's his wife's. One time, they tells me, she give him orders to bathe the dog. He socks the dog into a tub, turns the cold water on him and commences scrubbing the dog with laundry soap. His wife hears the dog's howl. She runs in, yells bloody murder and grabs the dog away from him. She calls him a brute and carries the dog away in her arms, calling the beast 'lovely pet' nd all them sort of names.

"Well, they tells me she's got all the money, and I've always heard that them as marries money earns it!"

Duluth Board of Trade, May 8.—The wheat market took on a bearish tone today for the first time in quite a little while. THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Opens Easier But Becomes Firm on Covering by Shorts.

Chicago, May 8.—The wheat market opened easier today because of lower cables and wet weather in Kansas and Nebraska. Later prices became firm on covering by shorts. The volume of trade was fairly large although smaller than for the last few days. July wheat opened unchanged to ⅛c lower at 85c to 85¼c, sold at 84¾c and then advanced to 85¾c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 427 cars against 535 cars last week and 89 cars a year ago.

The market became more steady in the last half of the session, but just before the close eased off somewhat. The high point for July was 85¾@85¾c. The close was easy with July off ⅝ at 84½c.

The corn market was quiet and prices were steady. July corn opened unchanged to a shade higher at 49¾@49½c to 49⅝c and sold at 49½@49⅝c. Local receipts were 178 cars with 200 of contract grade.

Prices were more firm in the latter part of the session. July sold up to 49¾c. The close was firm with July up ⅛@¼c at 49⅝c.

The oats market was dull. Prices were easier at the opening because of improved weather conditions of the growing crop, but later the market became firm along with wheat. July oats opened a shade to ⅛@¼c lower at 42⅝c to 43c and sold at 43⅛c. Local receipts were 160 cars.

The provisions market opened firm on a good demand for pork and lard. Later prices eased off on a fair amount of selling. July pork opened 12½c to 17½c higher at $16.25 to $16.30 and sold at $16.20. Lard was up 5c at $9. Ribs were 2½c higher at $8.85.

Liverpool, May 8.—Broomhall on wheat: "There was a quiet opening in wheat, with values unchanged to ¼d lower. The late weakness in America yesterday was offset by the bullish private cables received here from Bartlett Frazier. Later, however, the continued fine weather in Germany and the United Kingdom, together with a small inquiry for cargoes, prompted realizing by small holders, and as a result prices at midday were ½d lower."

Logan & Bryan, Chicago, to Paine, Webber & Co.: If it were not for the serious features connected with it, the Northwest news might be considered quite amusing. Most of the dispatches today report more new phases in farming operations, for example, seeding in the afternoon while it is warm and frost out of the ground. Another is the fact that the Northwestern wheat prophets seem to be a little surprised that anything like spring weather should strike that section of the country in the second week of May. It is a fact that much of the heaviness in wheat for the session was the result of improved temperatures over the spring wheat country. An excellent Northwest authority says that the south half of North Dakota is 50 per cent seeded, very little doing in the north half, and acreage is sure to be reduced.

Minnesota points also wire that delayed seeding will decrease the acreage. A big milling company of Great Bend, Kans., now says bugs are very thick and damage is certain. King of Toledo reports a large wheat country in Ohio where two-thirds of the acreage is plowed up. Continental markets are all strong and higher. Foreign and home conditions considered, see no reason for not buying wheat on any forced break on local sentiment.

Corn—There was a firmer tone in corn all day. More than this, it was independent strength, as that market showed a fair gain at the close in the face of a decline in wheat. The liquidation by a leading house which has been going on for some time, appears to be at an end.

Oats—Cash houses reported only a moderate shipping business in progress. The advices from the West indicate that the oats plant is considerably injured in sections.

LOST HIS CHANCE.

New York Sun: "Ever meet a man who was absent when opportunity called the roll?" asked the man who was wearing his last year's clothes. "I know a man who ran away from his opportunity.

"Just what would have happened to him if he had lingered I don't know; and he doesn't; but he ran away and the man who stayed profited. He probably wouldn't have opened his mouth about the story if he hadn't read in a newspaper of the death of that man.

"The obituary contained the information that when the man landed where he built up a fortune he had 50 cents in his pocket. The man who read the death notice simply remarked that he gave the fellow the half dollar, or he wouldn't have had that.

"The two men hit the town on the same day. They had been travelling together for weeks. The man who was asked was penniless when he and his acquaintance landed. The acquaintance had a little money.

"He offered more to his fellow traveller, but the latter declined. He accepted just what he had asked for. Then the two men started to seek work.

"The first place to which they applied was a retail dry goods store. The merchant said he wanted a young man to make fires, sweep the floor and dust the counters. The pay was $2.50 a week.

"The applicant who had the small sum of money had the first option. He refused it. The other, who had sorrowed the half dollar, got the place. When he drew his first week's wages he tendered the loan to his fellow traveller. The latter declined. He told the young man to wait until he was better able.

"The transaction remained open for a year. At the expiration of that time the $2.50 men had his pay advanced 100 per cent. He sent his friend the amount of the loan with interest.

"The benefactor was still looking around. The man with the job offered him a place in the store, but it was refused. There wasn't enough ready money in the job to suit him.

"Several years later the $2.50 man was advanced to the place of head salesman. He sent again for his benefactor and offered him a place, but this was also declined. A few years after this the $2.50 man was admitted to partnership in the house, which by this time was the great retail house of the young city.

"He made his quondam friend another offer, but the latter was not ready. The pay was not sufficient. A little while afterward the retail house established a wholesale business. It was a great success.

"The young man who had borrowed the half dollar was placed at the head of the wholesale concern. Once more he offered his old benefactor an opportunity, but the benefactor declined again, and for the same reason.

"The business kept expanding. The concern is today one of the biggest in the Middle West. When the $2.50 man died the other day he was quoted at a million and a half. He had made it in twenty-two years.

"The man who told me the story, who ran away from opportunity, as he expressed it, is looking for a job in New York—anything that will give him a living, and keep his body out of potter's field when he is through."

BIRD'S NEST OF GREENBACKS.

New York World: William McGrath of Belleville, N. J., walked into his bedroom several days ago and saw a sparrow fly from the top of a clothes closet out through the open window. There was a green piece of paper in the bird's bill, and McGrath at once thought of a roll of money he had left in the closet. He found that many of the bills had been stripped from the roll.

He decided to watch and see if the bird came back. The window was left open, and yesterday McGrath saw a sparrow fly into the room. He waited a few minutes and it came out again and went to a house about a block away, flying in the eaves.

McGrath obtained a ladder, got permission from the occupant of the house to climb up to the eaves, and was rewarded by finding a nest made of greenbacks and straw. There were $5, $2 and $1 bills there, agregating about $15, but in pieces. McGrath is now trying to put the bills together.

STOCKS ARE UNCHANGED

Close Was Steady and Very Dull After Irregular Session.

Market Generally at Standstill at About Tuesday's Levels.

New York, May 8.—First prices of stocks were higher generally than last night. The changes were narrow as a rule and the volume of business was small. Canadian Pacific and Cleveland, C. C. & St. Louis rose a point each and St. Paul, Reading and Pennsylvania large fractions. Interborough-Metropolitan preferred fell 1⅛.

Some yielding of prices followed the opening rise, but the market soon advanced again. Most of the purchasing orders were in a half dozen stocks, the rest showing but little sympathy with the leaders. Interborough-Metropolitan preferred was supported on the breaks and lifted to almost a point above yesterday's closing. Federal Sugar preferred also made a gain of 6. Delaware & Hudson 3, and St. Paul, Union Pacific, Great Northern preferred, Canada Southern, Smelting, Brooklyn Transit and United States Rubber 1 each. Sales of Pittsburg, C. C. & St. Louis, preferred, were made at a decline of 3½.

Prices turned downwards when new pressure developed on New York Central, which stock lost 1½. The average level fell below last night, and gains in the leaders were cancelled. The market became practically lifeless at a slight recovery. Bonds were heavy.

Steady offerings of small amounts of New York Central drove it down to 112⅝, a loss of 2¼. No other stock varied more than a small fraction during the hour. The general tone was steady. United States Rubber first preferred fell a point.

There were isolated points of pronounced weakness, but the market in general was at a standstill, at yesterday's final prices or below. Atlantic Coast line, Baltimore and Ohio preferred, Republic Steel and Great Northern ore certificates gave 1 and Pressed Steel Car preferred 2. But the last named recovered half of its loss. Pittsburg Coal preferred rose 1.

The market closed steady and dull. New York Central recovered all but a fraction of its decline, and this relieved the mbarket from some depression. Prices of speculative leaders swung back to above last night's level on very light dealings. Brooklyn Rapid Transit and Denver & Rio Grande preferred fell 1.

Copper Gossip.

Boston to Paine, Webber & Co.: The market seems to have relapsed into dullness again and transactions today were few and far between. Globe was the feature on the curb rallying from 12 to 15 on good buying. The local coppers are practically at a standstill. There are very few stocks offered and buying orders often result in advances of a point with no sales between. On the other hand, small offerings of stock will cause a point or two recession. We advise holding on to the good dividend payers and some day patience will be rewarded by higher prices.

Bisbee wire to Paine, Webber & Co: Globe Consolidated struck vein in north crosscut this morning. Good iron and small copper value. It looks well.

Boston to Gay Sturgis: The Franklin Mining company has sold a carload of copper, 30,000 pounds, for immediate delivery, at 25½ cents a pound in New York. The last sale made by the company was in December at 24 cents a pound, mostly for January and February delivery. The company now has on hand about 200,000 pounds of copper.

Boston to Gay & Sturgis: The market has been very dull all day and inclined to be weak. One would think that stocks were off, but as a matter of fact, with but every few exceptions they were up for the day. New York Central was especially weak in the early dealings, and tips were freely circulated that it was going to par. It looks to us as though the principal selling has been by shorts. There was little or no interest taken in the Boston market, but on the whole it acted remarkably well.

Refined Sugar Raised.

New York, May 8.—All grades of refined sugar were advanced 10 cents a hundred pounds today.

The Cotton Market.

New York, May 8.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 1 point to a decline of 2 points which was better than due on the disappointing cables owing to bull support of the near months and covering by new crop shorts who were probably influenced by unfavorable crop reports from the South and the continued wet weather. Trading was quite active during the early session and the market ruled steady to firm with prices generally up to a net gain of about 2@6 points, led by the old crop months. The advance was in the face of considerable realizing and selling for a turn, and prices were a shade off from the best in the middle of the morning.

Futures closed very steady. Closing bids: May, 10.72; June, 10.70; July, 10.70; August, 10.55; September, 10.53; October, 10.68; November, 10.70; December, 10.72; January, 10.87; February, 10.88; March, 10.95. Spot closed steady 15 points higher. Middling, 11.30; middling 12.25. Sales 200 bales.

HUSTLE FOR SUCCESS.

It was Marshall O. Roberts who, according to Spare Moments, originated the idea of giving his store an air of prosperity by filling his counters with the appearance of goods, when he could not afford the actual stock.

In 1835 young Roberts had managed to scrape together a few hundred dollars, the result of many years close saving, though he was only 21 at the time. He had decided to try his hand at the hardware and shipping supply business.

The first thing was to find a suitable building in a suitable location. But the two requirements could not be found together, so he was finally compelled to take a large building, in which his small stock of goods seemed completely lost.

After arranging his shelves in every possible way to make them appear to good advantage, he gave up in disgust.

"They look like so many pimples," he complained and, it is said, immediately went out and ordered a load of bricks sent to the store.

These he took one by one and neatly wrapped, tying a sample of a nail or a screw or a rivet to the end that would be visible. The bricks were about the size of many of his boxes, and when the shelves were filled with them, his store appeared to be exceedingly well stocked. Naturally customers were drawn to the firm that kept the largest stock.

According to the same authority Leland Stanford's first earnings were the result of digging horse radish, washing it, and carrying it to the nearest town. He received, as his share of the enterprise, 25 cents. He was then 6 years old. In his eighth year he worked hard gathering chestnuts, which he sold for $25.

During successive years he toiled on the farm in the summer and attended school in the winter, all the time dreaming of a college education and later of becoming a lawyer. When he was 18 there was no money in sight for the carrying out of his cherished plans and the outlook, to say the least, was not encouraging. Consequently he hailed with delight his father's offer to allow him the profits from clearing a tract of woodland recently purchased. He was to have all he could make selling cordwood.

He went at it with zest, hiring other woodchoppers to help him, and before a year of the hardest kind of toil had ended he had chopped and shipped more than 2,000 cords of wood and had in the bank $2,000. He did not lose sight of his purpose, but used the money to finish his common school education and then at a law school.

When Charles Tiffany, on $1,000 capital borrowed from his father, established a store dealing in ornaments and fine work in gold and silver, right on the heels of the great panic of 1837, he showed an understanding of human nature that indicated an original mind as well as an independent one. His success was almost instantaneous. He appealed to a side of human desire that had been ignored and the response was heavy and continuous.

His use of the first great Atlantic cable illustrates his shrewd business sense. Hardly had the attempt to lay the cable proved a failure before he bought all the unused wire, had it cut up into different shapes and sizes, attractively mounted and offered for sale as souvenirs. They sold like hot cakes and netted him a handsome sum.

DIDN'T 'MEMBER.

Chicago Tribune: "Mamma says for you to please tell when it is 4 o'clock, for she says I must come home then," said our neighbor's wee daughter, when she came over to play with our children one afternoon. When the time came, I reminded her of what her mother had said. "Oh, mamma said if I 'membered, but I don't 'member," said the child, and kept on playing.

TRIAL HAS COMMENCED

Jury Hears Testimony in Charles Baum Damage Case.

Two Other Actions Are Still on Trial by Juries.

In the district court routine this morning there was but little change from the situation yesterday. The trial of one damage case was finished by a jury in Judge Ensign's room, and the personal injury case of J. G. Ross, administrator of the estate of Charles W. Baum, deceased, against the City of Duluth and the Street Railway company, was called for trial. Baum, who was about 12 years old, is said to have been driving a delivery wagon at the intersection of Ramsey street and Fifty-second avenue west, last fall, when the horse stumbled over a ridge in the street, caused by the covering of some pipes, and fell, hurling Baum under the car and causing his death. The statutory limit of damages, $5,000, is asked.

In Judge Dibell's room the personal injury case of Frank Sundvall against the Interstate Iron company is still progressing, as is the adverse possession case of Mrs. LaPanta against Sjosellus, in Judge Cant's room.

The criminal trials have not yet begun, and it is thought possible that the trials on the indictments returned by the grand jury will not begin until next week.

WOMAN AUTOIST RACES TO DEATH

Feminine Chauffeur Loses Control in Speed Contest With Train.

Asbury Park, N. J., May 8.—While racing with a Jersey Central railroad train between Point Pleasant and Asbury Park today, an automobile, in which Mrs. G. W. Boyce and Miss Awilda Mass of Point Pleasant were riding, was overturned, and Miss Mass was instantly killed, while Mrs. Boyce, wife of an automobile dealer in New York city, was rendered unconscious and was taken to her home in Point Pleasant.

Mrs. Boyce was operating the machine. The train had just left Point Pleasant bound for Asbury Park when the automobile, going at a terrific pace, came along the roadway, which parallels the railroad track, and attempted to pass the train. Passengers witnessed the attempt and crowded to the platforms and windows, cheering the two women as their machine steadily forged by the train.

Just as the automobile was abreast of the locomotive and when both were going at the rate of fifty miles an hour, Mrs. Boyce lost control and the machine swerved from the roadway, went over an embankment into a swamp and overturned, crushing Miss Mass.

You Will Enjoy It.

FEW IN COURT TO HEAR FIRST HAYWOOD RULING.

Boise, Idaho, May 8.—Other than the lawyers and newspaper writers less than a score of persons were in the court room this morning when Judge Wood announced his decision denying the motion for a bill of particulars from the state in the case of Haywood, the first of the officials of the Western Federation of Miners to be called for trial. Haywood, clean shaven and alert, was brought into the court room by a jailer and took his place beside his counsel, Messrs. Richardson of Denver, and Clarence S. Darrow of Chicago. Counsel for the state were all present for the first time. There were H. Hawley of Boise, senior counsel, and one of the most prominent criminal lawyers in the West, United States Senator W. E. Borah, and Public Prosecutor Van Dyn.

LADY TENNIE COOK'S DOG STORY.

Lady Cook, who was Miss Tennessee Claflin before marriage, at a dinner during her recent visit to Washington, argued the question of woman suffrage with a senator.

"Ah, senator," said Lady Cook, at the argument's end, "you don't consider the question as a whole. You consider only a part of it. You are like the man who weighed the dog. A lady owned a huge St. Bernard dog that she was very proud of. She told her gardener one day to take the dog and weigh him. The man departed with the animal, and half an hour later he returned.

"'Powser, ma'am,' he said, 'weighs just 100 pounds.'

"'A hundred pounds?' exclaimed the lady. 'He must weigh more than that. Are you sure you weighed him right?'

"'Oh, yes, ma'am,' said the gardener. 'I'm sure I weighed him right, only I couldn't get him all on the scales.'"

A LIBELOUS YARN.

Alfred G. Vanderbilt was talking about the train wreck in which he was last month involved at Mount Murray. "However," said Mr. Vanderbilt, "I have no fault to find with our railroads. In most respects they are the best in the world."

He smiled.

"Some people like to attack the railroads. They like to gather statistics to prove that the railroads are extortionate, reckless of life, and so on. In these attacks there is usually about as much truth as there is in that story about the railroad in the West.

"A man from the East said that on a Western trip he rode across the prairies on a train that hardly went faster than a walk. Cattle, dogs, and tramps passed him. Finally in a desolate place, the train stopped.

"The passengers began to fume and fuss. Why this stoppage? What could be the matter?

"In the midst of the angry turmoil, the conductor came slinking through the car. He bent over the Easterner, and, with a shamefaced air whispered:

"'Say, have you got a piece of string about you? We want to fix the engine.'"

DRUG TRUST BROKEN UP BY FEDERAL GOVERNMENT UNDER DECREE OF COURT

Combination Perpetually Enjoined From Illegal Operations.

Fixing of Prices and Blacklist of Retailers Forbidden.

Injunction Sweeping in Terms and Covering Every Point.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 9.—Under a final decree filed in the United States circuit court today following prolonged litigation by the United States government, the so-called "drug trust" is perpetually enjoined from continuing its operations. The defendants, ninety-two in number, who are the members, officers, directors, agents and attorneys of the National Association of Retail Druggists, the National Wholesale Druggists' association, tri-partite proprietors, "black list manufacturers," "direct contract proprietors," "wholesale contract proprietors" and Charles C. Bombaugh are enjoined from conspiring to restrain trade in drugs, fix prices by agreement, blacklist retailers who cut prices, or refusing to sell to any retailer on equal terms. All publication of blacklists is forbidden and all contracts and agreements covered by the charges are declared void.

Charles C. Bombaugh was charged in the bill of complaint with being engaged in printing and circulating lists called blacklists which contained the

THORNWALL MULLALY
Of San Francisco, in Charge of the Street Car Strike for the United Railways.

SEEK PEACE FOR FRISCO

Leading Men in Committee Work to Settle all Strikes.

Police Control Streets and Two Cars Make Long Runs.

San Francisco, May 9.—With the police showing determination to preserve order, and with the Citizens' committee of fifty and Mayor Schmitz working hard to bring about settlements of the street railway and other strikes, the situation looks much brighter, and there are hopes for an early conclusion of all troubles.

The police have showed that they are fully competent to cope with the strikers and their sympathizers, and it does not appear at all likely that the aid of the militia will have to be invoked. The success which attended the efforts of the United Railroads to run cars yesterday will result in an endeavor to operate cars over the principal lines of the system today and, if there is no recurrence of the rioting which attended the previous efforts of the company, an attempt will be made to re-establish

PANAMA ISLAND WILL BE TAKEN BY GOVERNMENT.

Washington, May 9.—The isthmian canal commission has ordered the appointment of a board of appraisers to ascertain the value of improvements made by the Pacific Mail Steamship company on the island of Naos, bay of Panama, and the question of the government purchasing these improvements will be taken up later by Secretary Taft. The secretary has discussed with Manager Scherwin of the steamship company the controversy over the title to the islands, and there appears no difficulty in reaching a settlement. The island is not needed by the government until the canal is completed.

DOG STANDS BY CORPSE

Body of Missing Minneapolis Man Found on River Bank.

Faithful Animal Covers Face of Dead Master With Leaves.

St. Paul, May 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—With his faithful dog standing guard over it, the body of Frank Kablec was found early today on the river bank, near the west end of the Belt Line bridge, Minneapolis.

The man had been missing since Sunday, when he went hunting, saying he would seek game in the Minnehaha valley.

The dog had scratched leaves and covered the face of his master, and was standing over it when the corpse was discovered.

It is not known how Kablec met his death.

WIN LONG RACE AGAINST DEATH

Ohio Couple Come From France to Father's Death Bed.

Willoughby, Ohio, May 9.—Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Singer won their race against death and reached here last evening from Cannes, France, to find J. D. Palmer, Mrs. Singer's father, still alive.

Mrs. Singer succeeded in obtaining a suspension of the customs rules in New York and the couple were brought ashore from the steamer Kaiser Wilhelm in a special tug. The New York Central limited was held for them a short time, but they missed it and took a later train.

Mr. Palmer's condition is very critical.

HOPES FOR PROSPERITY

Congressman Burton Thinks No Serious Depression Will Come.

Reasons Given for Belief In Continued Good Times.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 9.—Congressman Theodore E. Burton in addressing the retail merchants board of the Cleveland chamber of commerce, last night upon "The Outlook for Prosperity," ventured the opinion that retail business during the industrial and commercial revolution of recent years, has been less affected by tendencies to consolidation. This was due to the necessarily close association between the merchant and the customer and the prominence of the personal element.

In treating of business depressions, Mr. Burton ascribed the main cause to a wrench in the relations between supply and demand, the manifestation of which, in a rapidly developing country like this, was the over equipment for production in numerous commodities, resulting in slow sales, glutted warehouses, idle factories and armies of men out of employment. He believed that the prosperity of the present could not continue without some abatement. It was to be hoped, however, that no serious depression would occur. There were grounds for this hope, he said, because the great demand for betterment in the agencies of transportation and in almost all forms of industrial and commercial undertakings. Closer communications between nations and increasing consumption of the varied products of all countries were constantly increasing the outlets of trade.

Another factor, which could not be left out of consideration, Mr. Burton said, was the phenomenal increase in the quantity of gold which, by increasing the monetary supply of the world, was stimulating commercial progress, and, while tending to raise prices, also made the meeting of obligations much easier.

Promoted to Be a Major General Over Gen. Funston, the Senior Brigadier.

Losses of the Trans-Atlantic Companies Already $600,000.

Business Badly Disarranged Because of Freight Tie-Up.

Strike-Breakers in Brooklyn Suburb Have Lively Fight.

New York, May 9.—The gravity of the longshoremen's strike grows with the hours, because the congestion of freight is becoming rapidly greater, the total monetary loss being reckoned thus far at about $600,000 involving business in many parts of the country and also because an element of the strikers seem to be ready to resort to violence, as was manifest last night, when 300 Italian and Polish strike-breakers were surprised and attacked by several hundred strikers and sympathizers in Williamsburg and a savage fight ensued in which stones, knives and clubs were used and

"Concerning the recent promotion of Gen. McCaskey notwithstanding the seniority of Gen. Funston, Gen. Bell, the chief of staff, said at the war department today that prior to Gen. McCaskey's promotion, he had personally received a letter from Gen. Funston in which he stated that he had no objec-

GIRL MISSING IN FATAL FIRE

Chicago Young Woman Third Victim of Kansas City Blaze.

Kansas City, May 9.—Miss Mollie Lucas, whose mother lives at Chicago, is among the missing in the Pepper building fire yesterday afternoon, making the third dead. When the fire broke out, she was in the studio of Mrs. H. L. Scott, on the fourth floor. Mrs. Scott was carried down a ladder and escaped injury, but she was unable to account for Miss Lucas.

Miss Aurora Wittebort, one of the known victims, was a heroine of a train incident in Indiana, when she was a young girl twelve years ago, and her bravery, which resulted in saving a fast passenger train which bore a number of French and Belgian officials en route to Chicago, she was decorated by the French government. She is believed to be buried under tons of debris that is piled twenty-five feet high, and it is doubtful if her body can be found for several days.

W. D. HAYWOOD PUT ON TRIAL AT LAST FOR COMPLICITY IN THE MURDER OF EX-GOVERNOR STEUNENBURG OF IDAHO

Of Denver, Chief Counsel for Western Federation of Miners in Steunenburg Murder Trials.

First of Famous Miners' Cases Finally Reaches Hearing.

10:15—Both sides announce "ready."
10:27—Examination of jurors begins. A. L. Ewing first called.
12:00—Court takes recess until 2 p. m.

Boise, Idaho, May 9.—William D. Haywood, secretary and treasurer of the Western Federation of Miners, was placed on trial in the district court here this morning for complicity in the murder at Caldwell, Idaho, Dec. 30, 1905, of Former Governor Frank Steunenberg.

Haywood is one of four defendants charged with the murder, the others being Charles H. Moyer, president of the federation; George A. Pettibone, a former member of the executive committee of the federation, and Harry Orchard.

Orchard is expected to be the most important witness for the state against Haywood, Moyer and Pettibone. He is said to have made a confession, and it has been the task of the prosecution to endeavor to corroborate this confession wherever possible.

The fact that Haywood's case is the first called for trial is regarded as indicating that the prosecuting attorneys believe their strongest evidence is against the secretary of the federation. The outcome of his case will determine the action to be taken with regard to Moyer and Pettibone. Should Haywood be convicted, Moyer and Pettibone will be called for trial in the order named, whereas

TYRANNY IN GUATEMALA

President Cabrera Arrests Men, Women and Children Mercilessly.

Revolution in Republic Predicted in Next Thirty Days.

City of Mexico, May 9.—Refugees from Guatemala who have arrived here in terror, report that just after the attempt to kill President Cabrera with a mine in the street, officers indiscriminately arrested men, women and children. Most of these were from the best families of the republic, and many were accounted former friends of the president. The jails are filled and temporary jails are being utilized. In some cases prisoners enter their place of incarceration and are never seen or heard from again.

The whole family of Juan Viteri, including the servants, were recently thrown into prison. Viteri is a banker and one of the wealthiest men in the republic. He had received word of his impending arrest and escaped, but Cabrera ordered his wife, children and servants to prison until the man was apprehended.

TWO KILLED IN WRECKS

Burlington Chicago Suburban Ditched and Woman Meets Death.

Engineer Crushed in Collision on Railroad in Ohio.

Chicago, May 9.—Mrs. Mary Miller of this city, was killed and ten persons were badly injured in the wrecking of a suburban passenger train on the Burlington railroad running between Aurora and Chicago, near Lawndale, about six miles from the city this morning.

The train was running at a high rate of speed when the engine struck a broken rail, and leaped from the track. It dragged the baggage car, and one passenger coach with it, and all three rolled down small embankment. The other five passenger cars remained on the track. The injured include: A. M. Hinckley, Hinsdale, Ill.; Mrs. C. H. Thayer, Hinsdale, Ill.; Mrs. F. S. Newell, Hinsdale, Ill.; Elizabeth Miller, Chicago, right leg broken and shoulder cut; Sarah Miller, Chicago, leg broken and body burned; Assistant United States District Attorney Robert Childs, Chicago, badly bruised; Mrs. Robert Shilds, badly bruised; Louise

SHOT DOWN BY ASSASSIN

Michigan Woman Killed and Man Now Beyond Help.

Jealousy Believed to Have Been Cause of the Tragedy.

Au Sable, Mich., May 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joseph Turcott and a woman, known as Mrs. Laplonte, were ambuscaded last night, near Oscoda, and shot by an unknown person. The woman died almost instantly, and the man is dying.

The assassin, who was secreted in the vicinity, fired a charge of buckshot into the body of each of them.

Jealousy, is suspected to be at the bottom of the shooting. Eugene Munday, a teamster, has been arrested on suspicion. He is alleged to have threatened the woman if she continued her friendship with Turcott.

TIMBER FRAUDS ARE CHARGED

Colorado Companies and Entrymen Accused of Bold Games.

Denver, May 9.—That a conspiracy was fostered, with the object of willfully obtaining several thousand acres of valuable timber land from the government, that titles were acquired through false filings by ineligible entrymen and that persons were induced to settle on the claims and make mock attempts at cultivation and other improvements—all violations of the provisions of the homestead act—are the chief allegations which form the basis of two bills of equity filed in the federal court here yesterday, asking to have set aside the patents to land titles held by the New Mexico Lumber company and the Pagosa Lumber company. An injunction also is asked to restrain the defendant companies from further destruction of the forests which cover most of the lands. The timber properties claimed by the lumber companies are situated in Archuleta county, Colo., and their value is placed at $54,000.

DEATH ENDS HIS BOAST

Witness in Iowa Case Stricken in Midst of Hearing.

"Good for at Least 85" Disproved in Just One Moment.

Des Moines, Iowa, May 9.—"I am 65, but sound as a dollar and good for at least 85."

With the sound of his own voice still lingering on his lips, James Hadfield, a pioneer of Polk county, testifying as a witness in a civil action, gave a sudden gasp, slipped forward on the chair and dropped to the floor dead.

Heart disease was the cause of his death. Apparently, Hadfield was in the best of health. He was answering the usual question as to age put to a witness when he jocularly boasted of the future. The death created a scene in the courtroom.

MUCH ROCK IN RESERVOIR SITE

May Cause Change in Plans for Location of Tank.

So far the work in test pitting on the proposed site for the new reservoir for the hillside water system between First and Second avenues east, above Thirteenth street, has not been very encouraging. Rock has been struck in all of the pits so far dug and from present indications there will be so much of the rock on the site as to make the location of the big tank there an expensive proposition. The work has not gone far enough yet, however, to make a final decision possible, especially as a certain quantity of rock is regarded as a help as it can be used very effectively in making the lining of the reservoir.

The difference in the cost of excavation between rock and earth amounts to between $3 and $4 per square yard and the excavation which will be necessary for a 5,000,000 gallon reservoir is estimated at about 800,000 cubic feet.

The water and light board have a number of other possible sites for the big water holder in view, should this one prove impractical, the elevation which is sought being about 550 feet. The big tank will measure 283 by 193 feet and will be twenty-five feet in depth.

Relief from Rheumatic Pains.

"I suffered with rheumatism for over two years," says Mr. Rolland Curry, a patrolman, of Key West, Fla. "Sometimes it settled in my knees and lamed me so I could hardly walk, at other times it would be in my feet and hands so I was incapacitated for duty. One night when I was in severe pain, and lame from it, my wife went to the drug store here and came back with a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. I was rubbed with it and found the pain had nearly gone during the night. I kept on using it for a little more than two weeks and found that it drove the rheumatism away. I have not had any trouble from that disease for over three months." For sale by all druggists.

New York, May 9.—"My old heart still holds love for Russell Sage, and I'm after followin' in the way he went," said old Delia Keegan in the big almshouse in Blackwell's Island, just before she died, a desolate pauper Tuesday night.

"He's gone, poor man, an' I forgive him."

LABOR AGITATORS HIT BY FRENCH STATESMAN.

Paris, May 9.—During the general debate in the chamber of deputies on the government policy in labor matters, yesterday, Paul Deschanel, a former president of the chamber, and now president of the committee of foreign affairs, declared that the democracy had allowed itself to be led by the Federation of Labor, "a noisy and revolutionary organization, composed of only 200,000 of the 12,000,000 workers in France." The struggle, he said, was between legal and revolutionary unionism, the object of the latter being the paralysis of trade by means of a general strike in conjunction with anti-militiarism.

CARMEN ARE PLEASED

Increase of Wages Unexpected, But Gratifying to Them.

Employes Express Their Appreciation of the Company's Action.

Since the Duluth Street Railway company announced, a few days ago, a voluntary increase in the wages of its trainmen, to become effective June 1, 1907, there have been many expressions from Duluth citizens of a commendatory nature concerning the action of the company. From the employes themselves, however, have come the most sincere expressions of appreciation and satisfaction, and a number have asked that publicity be given to their views, because the increase in wages was unsolicited, and the announcement of the new schedule came as a great surprise.

Although only a few of the employes were interviewed by a Herald representatives, these men have been in the company's service for terms running from two or three to sixteen years, and they claim to voice the sentiments of their fellows concerning the new schedule.

"While I would be opposed to any gush in the matter, I think it shows the proper spirit for the carmen to express their appreciation of the increase of wages that has been announced by the company," said Charles Sheridan, who has been with the company for sixteen years, and is the second oldest man in the company's employe. "I can say that we did not know the increase was to be made, but now that it is announced we are very thankful for it and to the officials of the company who had a part in getting the increase for us. Speaking for myself, the increase means $10 to $11 more a month, and that is very satisfactory."

"The increase in wages, which was a surprise to us, came at a very opportune time," said Albert A. Frickman, who has been with the company for eight years, and who is well-known operator on the incline car.

"I am pretty well up on the list and the increase means a great deal to me. Without any intent to 'jolly' the company, I wish to say that I never worked for employers any more fair in their dealings with their employes. If an employe deals squarely with the company the company will deal squarely with him and he can go home at night with never a fear o ftrouble ahead. Speaking for myself and some of the older employes, I can say that we are certainly well pleased with the action the company has taken."

James Monoghan, one of the oldest motormen on the Duluth lines, and who is at present on one of the Hunter's Park cars, said:

"I have been with the company for twelve years, and would like to say that the announcement of the increased wages, which came unexpectedly, was in keeping with the policy of fair dealing that the company has always shown toward its employes. You can't make it too strong when you say that the men are well pleased and satisfied with the increase, particularly those of us who have seen so long service.

Swan Nelson, another well known car man, who has been with the company in capacities of conductor and motorman for the past fifteen years, said:

"So far as I have learned, the men are very much gratified with the increase of wages, which was not expected, but which is appreciated just the same. I believe that it will have a tendency to keep in the service some of the older employes who might be figuring on entering some other form of employment. Under the new schedule the street railway employes can earn wages that compare most favorably with wages paid along other lines of employment. The increase comes at a good time, as it certainly costs more to live in Duluth than it did formerly."

"The increase in wages is a fine thing," said Martin Erickson, a conductor in the employ of the company for about five years. "We are much pleased over the voluntary action of the company in granting it and believe that it will go a long way toward keeping in the company's employ efficient men. Taking everything into consideration our work compares most favorably in wages paid with other forms of employment. We have no lost time, no tools to buy, no street car fares to pay and are not exposed to bad weather. The increase means, of course, the most to the men who have been longest in the service, but those who have been on the line for a year or less now have something better to look forward to, to work up to, and that means a great deal. The work requires men of good judgment, quick to think and act, and who are honest. A higher education is not a necessity for such work and, as a matter of fact, those who have not the education required for some kinds of employment can make higher wages in street car work, and that is a thing we who have families have to look out for."

Sander Westerdahl, who has been a conductor on the local street railway line for about a year said:

"The increase in wages is a nice thing and we appreciate it. Car work is hard in many ways and is wearing on the men who follow it. It is gratifying to us to know that the company appreciates the conditions, and increases the wages without our asking for such action."

"The boys are pleased and thankful to the company for its action in raising the wages," said Joseph Burdash, another conductor who has been with the street railway company over five years. "The increase means something like $11 more a month for me and 'every little bit helps.'"

"The increase is a pretty good thing for us and comes at the right time," said Martin Hanson, another well known conductor who has been with the company six or seven years. "I can say that the increase was unexpected, and that the boys are well pleased and satisfied with the company's action."

The wide blue stripe on the arm of street railway employe means a service of five years in the company's employ. Some of the men have two or three of such stripes indicating ten or fifteen years' service. The narrow blue stripe indicates six months service for the company.

MEETING OF BOYS' CABINET

Many Plans for the Summer's Activities Are Discussed.

The boys' department cabinet of the Y. M. C. A. held its regular monthly meeting at the building last evening, the following members being present: David Duncan, Sargent McGonagle, Max Pulford, Philip Heimbach, Arthur Dunning, Walter Newcombe, William Eklund, Lyman Taylor, Harvard Rockwell, Laurence Jaques and N. D. McLeod.

The Sunday club will continue its Sunday afternoon meetings until the end of May, and during June, July and August they will hold one meeting each month. The Knights of Sir Galahad will continue their meetings until the end of June.

The athletic committee reported that the regular classes in the gymnasium will continue until the close of school, after which the regular classes will discontinue and each section will have one regular class a week. The gymnasium and baths will be open every day for individual work. Outdoor work will be a feature during the summer, including baseball, field meets, hare and hounds, etc.

The social committee will have the building open every day and will plan to make Friday a special social occasion. They will sell ice cream at cost every Friday during the summer.

The Bible class committee will organize a teachers' class to meet one hour each week during the summer.

A new feature that will be added to the club this year will be the older boys' conference to be held at Deerwood, Aug. 25, and 28, following the summer camp. The cabinet and the older committeemen will meet to discuss plans of work for the winter. The six boys who will attend the conference at Lake Geneva will be present and give their reports. Papers on different phases of the work will be presented by members of the cabinet and some Duluth men will be invited to address the boys. The afternoon of each day will be given over to recreation. The cabinet is very enthusiastic over the plan and hope to make it an annual affair. The June meeting of the cabinet will mark the close of a very successful year's work. The last meeting is largely a social one and takes the form of a farewell to boys whose term of office expires this year, there will be five vacancies, two of them being William Barris, president, and Sargent McGonagle, vice president, who leave for college next fall. They are the only remaining members who were on the original cabinet formed four years ago.

FRISCO POLICE FEAR CONFLICT

Arrival of More Strike-Breakers Makes Situation Serious.

San Francisco, May 9.—The outlook for trouble in the street car strike today was more serious, according to the police, than it was yesterday. Seventy more strike-breakers arrived in the city during the night and were conveyed quietly to the United Railroads' barricaded yards and power plant at Turk and Fillmore streets, where more than 100 cots have been established for the accommodation of the non-union men.

The company will run cars from the barns at Oak and Broderick streets this afternoon and the understanding is, that the operatives will be armed. The police will furnish an escort of twenty or more officers, mounted and in automobiles, as was done yesterday. The route for the run has not been announced.

The arrival of President Mahon of the International Street Car Men's union is awaited with great interest.

DECISION IN LAND CASE

Register Engle is Sustained by General Land Commissioner.

Case of Raab Against Shea Will Probably be Appealed.

In the well-known land contest case of Elwood L. Raab against William H. Shea, which was tried over a year ago at the Duluth land office, and was afterwards appealed to the commissioner of the general land office at Washington, the decision of Register Engle has been sustained, and the land in question has been awarded to William H. Shea.

The case involves lots 4 and 6, section 3, and lots 9 and 16, section 4, town 57, range 17, which property is land, each claiming a settlement, and the case was tried at the local land office during February, 1906.

It was bitterly contested, and some of the best legal talent in the city were opposed to each other in the case. J. L. Washburn and C. S. Wilson represented Shea, while P. H. Seymour of this city and Richard Slaight conducted the case for Raab.

The local land office filed dissenting opinions, Register Engle finding in favor of Shea, and Receiver Smith in favor of Raab. Both applicants appealed to the commissioner of the general land office, and the case has been in his hands since that time.

A letter received at the local land office today states that the commissioner of the general land office has filed his decision, sustaining the findings of Register Engle, and the land is awarded to Shea.

Raab has the right of making a further appeal to the secretary of the interior, however, and this will probably be done, and the case may go even higher. This is the case in which the Murphy & Dorr interests figure very largely, and it is the general supposition that they will appeal to the secretary of the interior, and if they do not win by his decision, will probably appeal further to the supreme court.

The case which has just been settled is only one of several of the same character brought by settlers in the same vicinity.

STREET CAR RUNS INTO TRAIN; MOTORMAN DEAD.

Lexington, Ky., May 9.—William Wells, a motorman, was killed and ten other persons injured, one probably fatally, in a collision this morning, between a street car and a Chesapeake & Ohio passenger train from Louisville. The motorman, it is said, lost control of his car and it struck the mail and baggage cars of the train, knocking them from the track. The street car was demolished.

WOMAN OF 103 SMOKES.

Venerable Bay State Lady Who Prefers Pipe to Food.

The jolliest woman in Brockton was 103 years old recently. The neighbors have long agreed that no one in the city was quite as good company as Mrs. Mary Baraby, who lives at 43 Franklin street with her daughter.

Just to hear her laugh, as she lays aside her pipe to illustrate a joke, is enough to drive real indigo blue away.

A reporter for the Boston Post went to Brockton to see the old lady last week. She was sitting in bed, propped up with pillows, and her bright eyes just danced, as catching sight of the newspaper woman, she exclaimed:

"Well, if it ain't the same geall that came to see me my last birthday! Yes, I remember you, for you are the one that laughed so when I said I had rather smoke my pipe than eat, but just between you and me that's gospel truth," and the little woman threw her head back and chuckled to herself.

Mrs. Baraby has failed a little since her last birthday, and for several months has been confined to her bed, which does not prevent her receiving many callers during the week, and her room, which is a very dainty one, is generally filled with various little gifts and remembrances from her friends. Scattered about the bed were several of her birthday presents and in the place of honor was a large tin box filled with tobacco.

"Do I smoke? Do I? Well, I just guess I do, and have for years. A cigarette? Not much! Nor a cigar, either, but a pipe. See, here it is, and here is my pipe cleaner, but I ain't got no matches, my dear.

"My daughters are afraid I will set fire to the bed, and so when I want a nice quiet smoke I have to call them. Do they light it? Well, I just bet they don't. They'd just be awful sick. But it sure rests me. I know when I used to be out anywhere doing my work and I came home very tired and also hungry, I'd far rather have a good smoke than a good meal.

"Did I ever go to dances when I was young? Yes, once." And as the memory of it came over her face she scowled fiercely. "I'm going to tell you about it, but it was years before I got over being mad at myself for going.

"You know in those days the young beaux didn't single out one girl and say: 'Here, you, come with me to that dance, but we all met at a certain house and went in a party together.

"Well, this dance I'm telling you about was in the winter time, and it wasn't far from our house. My husband was to be the fiddler for the evening, and we decided that I had better take the baby, the first of the twenty which I was to be blessed with, to the party, too.

"When we got to the house, I carefully wrapped up the little tot, and then, laying him gently down upon the bed, sang him to sleep. I was so happy in watching his little eyes close that I did not hear the music for the first waltz start up, so when it was half over I started for the room where they were dancing."

"Say, I was so mad, you bet, when I saw I was the only one left, that I almost cried. I'd a gone home right then and there, but there was the baby, and there wa'n't no one to go home with me, so I just had to stay, but you bet it was the last dance anyone caught me going to."

Mrs. Baraby has a great habit of saying "You bet," which she utters in such a gleeful tone that one finds one's self watching for it, for she always follows it up with one of her merry chuckles.

"No, sir-ee, you young people don't have the fun we used to have. Where are the good old corn husking bees which we looked forward to weeks ahead? Say, maybe we didn't have good times at those huskings and the young dandies, didn't they just pull the great piles of corn all over hundreds of times trying to pick out the red ears? Because, you know, they would kiss their favorite lass when they found one. Now if we gells came across one we hid it under our skirts as quick as wink, and sometimes when the husking bee was over and the gells got up you'd find one or two red ears under each stool.

"Did you ask me if the gells smoked in those days? I should say not." And Mrs. Baraby became so excited that she raised herself up in the end of the bed and shook her head vigorously, but if the reporter thought she was going to surprise Mrs. Baraby by telling her that young women smoked cigarettes nowadays she was greatly mistaken, for in the most disgusted voice she said:

"I know they do, and I think it is horrid! Ain't a pipe good enough for anyone, I should like to know? I can't smoke only two or three minutes at a time now, for I'm not so very hearty, and I haven't had much of an appetite for over a week.

"You see, I haven't even been able to take a bite out of that pretty lavender birthday cake over there on the table," and she beamed with pleasure when her daughter, who is always attentive to her smallest wish, offered to show it to the reporter. On it in dainty white frosting were the words:

Best Wishes
MRS. MARY E. BARABY,
103 Years Old.

It was presented to her by Mrs. Paul Corteau of Brockton.

Mrs. Baraby has lived in Brockton twenty-five years, and there is no one who has not at least heard of her, for she loves to have young people about her, and it is a real pleasure for them, too.

Before she was obliged to remain in bed she passed the evenings playing checkers or cards.

She has been the mother of twenty children, has forty-two grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren. There are at the present time but six of her own children living, and she tells of the last visit she received from her son, who is 55 years old.

One day a stranger called upon her and said he wanted to rent a room. She became very businesslike at once, and said he could have a room, but would be obliged to pay for it in advance.

What was her surprise when the stranger leaned over and planted a sounding smack upon her cheek.

At first it was hard to convince her that it was her son whom she had not seen for twenty-three years, but when she found it was her boy Frankie tears of joy filled her eyes and ran unheeded down her face.

Mrs. Baraby was born near Three Rivers Junction, in Canada, in 1803, and lived there until she was 25, when she moved to Burlington, Vt. She was but 16 years old when she was married. Her husband has been dead these fifty years.

As the reporter arose to leave the little woman held out her hand as she said good-by and, with a grip which would have done credit to Fitzsimmons, wished her visitor great success. While shaking her head sadly she murmured to herself:

"Yes, I guess I've been here long enough. I'm going somewhere else soon if the good Lord calls me home; but if He does not you'll come and see me again next year, won't you?" And with a happy smile her head sank peacefully back on the pillows.

LARGEST OF SALARIES.

New York Commercial: John Hays Hammond, the mining engineer of New York, receives a salary aggregating $800,000 a year, which is more money than any other man ever received for his personal services. Men make millions on investments or by manipulations, or speculation, but Hammond is the only man in the world who is paid so nearly a million a year for professional advice.

Hammond is the greatest soldier of fortune of modern times—perhaps of all times—and was the model from which Richard Harding Davis drew his hero in "Soldiers of Fortune." He was born in San Francisco 52 years ago, and graduated from the Sheffield Scientific school at Yale. During his boyhood in California he heard and dreamed of nothing but gold, for the Western coast was gold mad during this period.

In his quest for the precious yellow metal Hammond has traveled all over the world, from Siberia to South Africa. He followed the course of prospecting in Australia during the boom days, and he was in the Transvaal at the time of the Jameson raid. With Phillips, Frank Rhodes and George Farrar, he was captured by the Boers and sentenced to death, to the great excitement of the whole civilized world. "Oom Paul" Kruger, under threats from Joseph Chamberlain, released the four men upon payment of an enormous fine and sentence of punishment.

Hammond came to New York and opened an office as a consulting engineer. He may be found now in a little room in the Empire building, and so great is his knowledge of gold-bearing ore from all the great gold-fields of the world that he is able to pass unerring judgment upon mines without visiting them.

His word is law to investors. If Hammond says: "Yes" financial kings will spend millions for purchase or development of gold mines. If Hammond says "No" investors will not spend a cent, no matter how tempting the offers may be. He has a corps of assistants who visit mines under question and make their reports to him.

TRY THIS TRICK.

Los Angeles Times: Two drummers were chatting in a trolley car.

"I bet you a good 5-cent cigar," said the first drummer, "that, without saying a word, I can make the old boy opposite take out his watch and see what time it is."

"I'll take that bet," the other answered.

Then the first drummer watched the veteran across the aisle until he caught his eye, when he drew forth his watch and looked at it.

The old man, with a thoughtful air, slowly unbuttoned his coat and consulted his own timepiece.

"Give me my cigar," said the drummer. "It's the third I've won today on this trick. It never fails."

NO JUROR YET FOR HAYWOOD

Seven of Panel Excused and State Tests Seven So Far.

Boise, Idaho, May 9.—No juror has yet been chosen for the trial of William D. Haywood. Of the original panel, four were excused by the court, two because of material interests that would suffer, one because of the severe illness of his wife, and the fourth because he had been appointed a city patrolman since drawn.

The examination of the seventh talesman by the prosecution only was in progress at noon recess. Of the other six, three were excused on challenges for bias by the prosecution and three were temporarily passed. The latter have not as yet been examined by the defense. The examination of the prospective jurors by the prosecution included an extended inquiry as to life and occupation, affiliation with labor unions, acquaintance with Governor Steunenburg, attitude toward circumstantial evidence, the manner by which the prisoner was brought to Idaho from Colorado and capital punishment.

The first disclosure of the names of witnesses for the state, other than those known through the grand jury inquiry, was made voluntarily by counsel for the state before the examination of talesmen began. The list contains 151 names, including Harry Orchard, Former Governor Peabody; Miss Cora Peabody, daughter of the governor; W. E. Carlton, president, and C. C. Hamlin, secretary of the Mine Owners' association of Cripple Creek, Colo.; Gen. Sherman Bell of Colorado; Buckley Wells, adjutant general of Colorado; Julien Steunenburg, brother of the dead governor; Steve Adams, Mrs. Adams, Frank A. Gross of the United States interior department, in charge of the forest reserves in Idaho; James McPartland, and other detectives.

BOOK BORROWER'S ALBUM.

New York Press: A book borrower's album is the device which a woman who has a fine library has employed in order that she may keep track of her books and that her friends may not be delinquent in returning them. She delighted in lending her books, but was far from pleased in punching her friends up for their return. Now when a friend asks the loan of a book she acquiesces readily enough, but requests the borrower to write in the album his or her name and the date on which the books is borrowed. On returning it the borrower is asked to comment on the book and initial it.

This album always is kept in a conspicuous place in the drawing-room, where visitors are likely to pick it up and glance it through, learning who is not prompt in returning books. The result is that this woman now has her books returned promptly, as the borrowers know they will be convicted in the album if they are delinquent. They take kindly to the plan, the lender does not have to prod them for the return of the books and she has an album which is valuable to her as containing the comments of her friends on the treasures in her library.

Copper Market is Weaker in Sympathy With New York.

Globe Falls Back to $13 and Then Rallies Again.

The copper stocks market maintained a fairly steady tone throughout the session today, but broke at the close in sympathy with the New York market, which weakened on the announcements concerning the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific roads. The closing prices were weaker.

North Butte opened at $92.12½, went as high as $92.50, broke to $90.50 and closed at $90.50 bid and $90.75 asked. Amalgamated opened at $94.62½, went up to $95.12½, off to $93 and closed at $94 bid. Anaconda opened at $63.37½, went off to $62.12½ and closed at $62.87½ bid. Butte Coalition opened $28, declined to $27.25 and closed at $27.25 bid and $27.75 asked. Calumet & Arizona opened at $177, declined to $175.50 and closed at $176 bid and $176 asked.

Greene-Cananea sold at $16.12½ and $16 during the day, went off to $15.87½ at the close and closed at $15.87½ bid and $16 asked.

Globe Consolidated, the sensational feature of the market yesterday, advanced from $15.75 to $16 during the early part of the session. After selling freely at $16, prices went off on heavy selling orders. The price declined to $13.50 here and sales were reported in Boston as low as $13. There was something of a rally, however, the price recovering to $14.12½. The close was $13.50 bid and $14 asked.

Superior & Pittsburg sold at $18.75, declined to $18.50 and closed at $18.87½ bid and $18.50 asked. Warren sold at $8.50 and $8.75 and closed at $8.50 bid and $8.75 asked, Keweenaw at $10 and $10.25 and closed at $9.75 bid and $10.25 asked, Carman at $3 and closed at $3 bid and $3.50 asked, and Butte & &Superior at $2.75 and closed at $3.25 asked.

STRIKE STOPS WORK ON ARKANSAS BUILDINGS

Little Rock, Ark., May 9.—A disagreement between the Stone Cutters' and Bricklayers' unions today resulted in a suspension of construction work on many public buildings and improvements. Work on the new $1,000,000 state capitol, the new city hall, a ten-story office building and the Union depot is at a standstill.

SYMPATHY THAT WENT WRONG.

Los Angeles Times: Not long ago a Los Angeles millionaire, whose kindly sympathy and generous impulses so predominate in his nature that he gets his greatest pleasure from helping others, learned of the death of the wife of his favorite barber. Instinctively his first thought was to extend his sympathy, and do it in a practical way. So he promptly wrote a letter of condolence to the afflicted husband, and inclosed with it a check for $100, "to help meet the burden of expense brought by the sad bereavement."

A day or two later he received the check back, accompanied by a letter from the barber, which ran about as follows:

"Dear ——: I have received your kind letter of condolence, accompanied by your check for $100. I assure you that I appreciate your sympathy, but I must return your generous gift. The fact is that the deceased was divorced from me several years ago. Since that time I have been paying her alimony at the rate of $50 per month. I feel, therefore, that I can bear the financial burden brought by this act of Providence.

"Gratefully yours,

"BARBER."

Japan's Naval Progress.

An event, which cannot be overestimated, occurred in Japan a short time ago, and that was the launching of a new warship which is claimed is superior to the British warship Dreadnaught. The wonderful record of cures made by the celebrated Hostetter's Stomach Bitters during the past 53 years proves conclusively that it is a medicine of superior value, and the best of its class for curing ailments of the stomach, liver, kidneys or bowels. Every sick man or woman should therefore resolve to try it at once. It always cures dyspepsia, indigestion, costiveness, biliousness, headache, sleeplessness, female ills or malarial fever. Don't experiment any longer when you know the Bitters will cure you.

AMERICAN LABOR FINDS FAULT

McKinley Monument Contractors Hire Cheap Italian Workmen.

Canton, Ohio, May 9.—There is trouble among the workmen at the McKinley monument. A New York firm of landscape gardeners, which got the contract for beautifying the grounds at the memorial, brought in a gang of Italians from Cleveland to take the places of American laborers, who have been receiving $2 a day for nine hours' work, while the Italians work twelve hours a day for $1.75.

Representatives of the American Federation of Labor point out that American labor contributed a large amount to the monument, and American labor should have the preference in the work.

DISARMAMENT SCHEME MAY BE QUIETLY SHELVED.

St. Petersburg, May 9.—The negotiations between the powers on the subject of the program for the peace conference at The Hague are again in an interesting stage. It is believed in diplomatic circles that a definite change of attitude on the part of Great Britain towards the question of discussion of the limitation of armaments is in contemplation. It is not expected that Great Britain will withdraw entirely her proposal to discuss the limitation of armaments, but that by a modification of both the substance and the manner of the presentation of the subject, she will enable it to be gracefully shelved by the conference without placing any of the powers in the embarrassing position of opposing the proposal or abstaining from its discussion. The ambassador of a leading continental power, in expressing the hope that such action may be taken, said that otherwise most serious difficulties were scarcely avoidable.

FUTURE SKYSCRAPERS.

Architects Think They May Ultimately Reach 250 Stories.

St. Louis Times: The apparent tendency of the new downtown office buildings, which seem to spring up over night at almost every corner, to climb higher and higher into the paths of the future zirships, suggests the question "How high is it possible and practical to build an office building which can stand alone without being a menace to the community."

For many years the Missouri Trust building, fifteen stories high at Olive and Seventh streets, was the city's chief curiosity to the rural visitor, and who can still be seen, quite frequently, standing on the sidewalks, craning his neck whilst counting the stories as far as he can distinguish them, and wondering the while "what the times are comin' too."

The new Wright building, Eighth and Pine streets, will top the Missouri Trust building three stories, and the prospects are that other buildings will soon spring up in the city whose eighteenth story will only be a part of the way to the top floor. New York will soon boast of a new Metropolitan Life Insurance building, which will stand forty-six stories above the ground. Several local architects are hopeful of the time when St. Louis will produce a structure going this at least four stories better.

A New York architect, who has superintended the building of a large number of Gotham skyscrapers, states that there is practically no limit to the height to which an office building can be run. They can be built higher and higher, he says, until the imagination runs out.

Twenty years ago a ten-story building was a wonder, and is erection a news event in every city in the country.

Today almost any ambitious architect will undertake to build an office building that will run up 150 stories and more, and guarantee the staying qualities of his work. A consulting engineer who has supervised the construction of the tallest skyscrapers in the country, says there is nothing in the world to prevent the erection of a massive skyscraper to the height of 250 stories—a building that would reach higher into the clouds than the famous Eifel tower of Paris, the inspiration of the modern skyscraper.

Speaking on this subject, N. O. Vegely, local representative of Cope & Stewartson, a Philadelphia firm of architects and structural engineers, who have been interested in the erection of notable buildings in all parts of the United States, says while there is no doubt that a building can be run up to an almost unlimited height, given the proper area of base, it is not probable that the world will ever see a building over 100 stories high, even if this altitude is ever reached. In considering the 150-story skyscraper, says Mr. Vegely, it is a question not of architectural skill, but of economy. A building of this kind would not be built as a monument, but as a commercial venture. The cost of each additional story above the fifteenth story will be double the cost of the addition of the story next below. It is a question of weight.

Every story will increase the weight that must be provided for in the size of the iron columns which hold them up at their very base. The area needed for the foundation of a building must be judged from the prospective size of these columns. Iron is a costly material and the handling of it an expensive labor. The higher up in the air it is handled the greater the expense. All these things considered, according to Mr. Vegely, it is hardly probable that one hundred stories will ever be exceeded in St. Louis.

The building of skyscrapers these days is a matter of mathematics. There is has created a new specialty in engineering. The first thing the modern architect does after planning a high building is to turn his plans over to a structural engineer and find out if it is possible to construct from them. If the engineers decide that the plans are practical, the architect learns from the report how much space he has to divide up into offices and hallways, for it is from the engineer that he learns how thick the walls are to be, how heavy the supports, where the great pillars are to be placed, and what must be the area of the foundation or base.

Were a St. Louis architect given an order for a 100-story building, his first step would be the consideration of three things—the weight of the building, the power of the wind against the upper stories, and the elevator problem. Mathematics take the most prominent part in these first steps.

It would take a plot of ground at least 200 by 200 feet to hold a building 100 stories high. Such a building would make a structure at least a quarter of a mile in height; it would mean that the roof would be up in the neighborhood where the wind blows a gale for every zephyr on the street. It would mean, too, that a area of several thousand tons must rest upon a small spot of earth. It will be up to the engineer to say what would be too great a height, under what conditions it would rest too heavily upon one side or the other, and at what height the wind would push it over.

"Were it not for the wind, there would be no reason why a skyscraper could not be run up 200 or more stories with perfect safety," said George Barnett of Barnett, Haynes & Barnett, local architects and consulting engineers. "Without the wind, such a building would be just as safe as are the 15-story buildings now. The wind pressure increases in severity upon a building the higher up it goes, and, consequently, the strength of the frame work and size of the base must correspondingly be increased. And it might be remarked that the base is the only limit to height. If the base could be made indefinite, so also might the building be indefinite in height."

When the structural engineer has figured out the wind pressure on the upper stories of his building, he determines upon the strength and consequent size of the steel frame. When he has estimated the dead weight—that is, the weight of the frame, the casings and decorations—he adds a figure for the probable weight of the furnishings of the offices—live weight, it is called—desks, typewriters, books, safes, etc., and the tenants. He can arrive at a marvelously close estimate of the weight of the prospective skyscraper before its location is decided upon.

It is upon the verdict of the structural engineer that the realization of a contemplated skyscraper depends. If he passes favorably upon the proposed plans, the architect takes his figures in hand and begins to manipulate the weights. He must spread the steel columns which are to be his supports so that they will not occupy more than 10 per cent at most of his total floor area, and each column must bear no more than its just proportion of the total weight of the building. It is, indeed, no easy task to make the 15,000 or 20,000 tons that the building will weigh rest upon the ground as evenly as it must to be out of danger of toppling over.

The practicability of the 100-story building and the probability of its being a commercial success are the subject of some discussion among local architects. Granted the proper foundation area, such a building can easily and safely be built. Pumps strong enough to force water to its highest story can be constructed, but the elevator question is till to be solved.

It is the elevators that promise to prove embarrassing to the tenants of a building a quarter of a mile high. The steel cable rope with which most elevators are operated now is prone to stretch. To overcome this tendency and still use the cable elevator, relays of elevators would have to be used, making three or four changes between the extreme floors of the 100-story building. Architects are of the opinion, however, that the new plunger elevators can be adapted to the necessity.

Such an elevator is pushed up from the bottom by a steel rod, which is operated by hydraulic power. The depth in the ground to which this rod must be run is the same as the height of the building. For a building 500 feet in the air a shaft 500 feet deep would have to be sunk in the ground for each elevator in operation. Elevators operated in this way can be made to carry a man from the first to the 100th floor in an incredibly short space of time. They probably will be used if the first 100-story skyscraper built in St. Louis.

INVENTIONS BY ACCIDENT.

Kansas City Star: "Invention is not a science. The business of inventing is not a profession like law or medicine, but the ideas for many of the more prominent discoveries were matters of accident," said a patent attorney recently. "A Kansas City physician noticed one day that it was difficult to secure window shades to fit more than one window frame. He conceived the idea of an adjustable shade roller. The model was patented, and may bring him a small fortune in royalties.

"The same doctor is now working on an electrical appliance to regulate the heat in hot-water bottles. Now, this is more in his line than window shades, but very few men ever invent things of use in their own profession.

"A man, an attorney, perfected a clock-work machine to rock a cradle. His model worked all right, and it probably saved him many sleepless nights during his heir to sleep, but as a paying invention it was a failure.

"The public is not quick in coming to the rescue of the poor inventor unless his contrivance is a great labor saver or a scientific discovery.

"The average inventor does not lead an easy life, and very few of them make a fortune from their work. Every country town has its inventor. You have seen him standing on the street corner exhibiting a patent hog trough or a new-fangled cattle gate. He is the fellow who thinks his life work is just as useful as many hundred electrical discoveries of Edison. But cattle will continue to go to the creek for water, even though they have to pass through a gate made of bars, and the average hog will fatten just as quickly on corn eaten from the ground as from the individual service trough.

"It is the invention that saves labor that can be reduced to hard cash, and not the fanciful things that any farmer can make on rainy days.

"The man who invented the machine to make the little wood berry boxes and butter dishes is a rich man today, while the original inventor of the telephone is supposed to have lost his idea through the failure to obtain a caveat right to perfect his model."

In Kansas City there are several pattern and model makers who make a specialty of inventors' models for the patent office in Washington. Draughtsmen prepare the blue prints ready for the machinists and casters. The cost of obtaining patent right is about $75. Of this amount, $35 goes to the patent office and the remainder to the attorney as a fee for preparing the papers. The pattern makers are very reserved when asked to discuss the work of their patrons. Confidence is a part of their stock in trade, and to betray the ideas of an inventor would be the loss of their professional standing.

HOW SHE EXPLAINED IT.

London Tribune: Her name was Marjorie and she was the sweetest child in the world, with all a child's wonderful thirst for the most out-of-the-way information.

She had asked her mother to explain to her what wireless telegraphy was. Marjorie had often heard her father talking of wireless telegraphy, and she wanted to know all about it. So her mother tried to make it clear, and explained how there were two long sticks standing high up in the air a very long way from each other, and how a message was sent from the one stick and—

"Oh, I know," broke in Marjorie, "then God hears and tells the other people."

As charged, he would send a list each month to every retail and wholesale druggist in the United States who belonged to the association of those accused of cutting prices and, as a result, these "aggressive cutters," as they were called, could not buy goods. It was further charged that those accused of cutting prices on proprietary medicines were unable to purchase any kind of drugs from the members of the several associations. tion to Gen. McCaskey's promotion ahead of himself, because of Gen. McCaskey's character as a soldier and his Civil war record and that he would gladly have made the statement officially were it not for the fact that this would be assuming that the war department intended to promote him because he was the senior brigadier general, an assumption he did not care to make; but he desired the chief of staff to know his true sentiments on the subject, and for that reason wrote personally about the matter."

PRAISE FOR TUG WHALEN

Ice-Breaker Did Wonderful Work at Port Arthur.

Vessel Masters Tell About Conditions in Thunder Bay.

Nothing but praise is heard among the vesselmen concerning the great work which the ice-breaking tug Whalen has done in opening up a passage into the harbors at Port Arthur and Port William, and many vessel owners from all ports on the lakes are sending letters of thanks to James Whalen of Port Arthur, the owner of the tug.

Vessel masters who have recently come in to Duluth from Port Arthur say that the work of the Whalen was wonderful, and they maintain that in many respects the tug is the greatest ice-breaker on the lakes. The credit for the great ice-breaking work is not due wholly to the tug alone, however, as the man in charge has had much to do with whether or not the opening of a passage could be accomplished.

Capt. James Whalen, the owner of the tug, although not actively in command of the boat, was aboard a good share of the time while the passage was being broken, and it was due to his directions that the work was kept up until a small channel was opened. For miles and miles inside the bay the tug was compelled to buck the ice, 25 inches thick, proceeding only a short distance at a time.

Outside Thunder Cape the ice was found to be just as thick, and was packed more closely by the winds. Since the channel was opened the winds have several times blown the ice back into it and blocked it up, but the Whalen is always on hand to make another opening.

Captains coming from Port Arthur and Fort William say that the ice outside Thunder Cape and between Isle Royale and the north shore is badly wedged, although the winds frequently blow it back and forth, so that if the boats take their chances they can get back and forth.

"What is needed up there," said one of the captains who just came in from Port Arthur, "is a good strong northwest wind and a few days of warm weather. It wouldn't take long then for the ice conditions to be such that the passenger boats could get up to Port Arthur."

ANOTHER FERRY BOAT.

Captain Majo Adds Another to His Fleet of Vessels.

The steam passenger ferry Crescent is due to arrive in the Duluth harbor this afternoon from Grand Haven, Mich. She has been purchased by Capt. A. C. Majo, proprietor of the independent ferry line between Duluth and Superior and will be used to transport passengers between the two cities.

The Crescent is about the same size boat as the Swansea also owned by Capt. Majo and measures 97 feet in length, 16 feet beam, and 6 feet in depth. Her gross tonnage is 71. The new ferry boat will be registered at the local customs office as soon as she arrives. She passed the Sault several days ago and should reach Duluth today.

Capt. Majo is looking forward to a busy season for his ferry line and is getting his boats in shape. The Swansea has been practically rebuilt and painted up so that she looks like a new boat and the others have been greatly improved. Besides the Swansea the other boats in the fleet are the Ideal, Bell and the Hattie Lloyd.

ARE FINE SCOWS.

Measurements on Two Recently Brought to Duluth Are Made.

The officials at the customs office yesterday finished taking the measurements of the new steel scows which were brought up from Manitowoc, Wis., this week for the Duluth-Superior Dredge company. Each of the scows measures 150 feet in length, 36 feet beam and 12 5-10 feet deep. Their gross tonnage amounts to 917 and each one cost between $25,000 and $30,000.

They have been named and registered at the customs office as No. 3 and No. 4. These scows are the only ones which are built of steel that are located in the Duluth-Superior harbor and there are only a few of them on the lakes.

Juniata Arrives.

The Anchor Line passenger steamship Juniata arrived in the Duluth harbor last night after having made her first trip up the lakes from Buffalo. She carried a cargo of package freight and is not yet on the passenger schedule. She will make another trip to Buffalo and return before the regular passenger schedule is taken up for this season. Her first trip on schedule will be begun on May 24, from the Duluth harbor.

Has Broken Leg.

Capt. George W. Pierce, master of the steamer George B. Leonard, is laid up at his home in Michigan with a broken leg and Capt. Rinn is sailing the Leonard temporarily. The vessel was in Duluth harbor this week and left for the lower lakes with a cargo of ore.

Rappahannock Runs Aground.

While entering the slip at Pittsburg coal dock No. 3, in Superior, yesterday, the steamer Rappahannock, loaded with coal, ran aground. After about an hour's work the tug Inman succeeded in getting her off and no damage was done.

Work on Ashland Breakwater.

The work on the Ashland breakwater will be started next week by the Weirland Contracting company under supervision of the government engineers. The breakwater will be greatly improved and strengthened this spring.

Grain Boats Scarce.

Cleveland, May 9.—Grain shippers at Fort William yesterday paid 2¼ cents on wheat to Buffalo. Although that rate is equal to 8¼ cents on ore, there is not much tonnage on the market at the advance. The steamer Frank Gilchrist was the only boat placed. Coal shippers are getting a little more tonnage, but stocks are heavy and it will take another week for them to get cleaned up. Rates hold steady and the feeling is firm. There is no change in the ore trade.

Venezuela Is Libeled.

Buffalo May 9.—The steamer Venezuela of the Davidson fleet, which was seized here yesterday on a libel of which Lachenberg of Buffalo for the alleged non-payment of a bill for boiler repairs amounting to $3,243, was released today on a bond of $6,756. Frank J. Smith of Port Huron, owner of Wolverine Drydock company, today libeled the schooner Blaine for $300, which is due him, he claims, for repairs.

numbers of persons were hurt, including some policemen.

Both sides show a fixity of purpose which does not presage an early end of the trouble. The strikers, who now number about 12,000, declare that they will not yield unless their demands for a higher scale of wages are granted, and the steamship companies are equally insistent that no concessions will be made by them and that they will stand together to resist the men's actions.

Meantime Police Commissioner Bingham has taken the precaution to keep in reserve at the stations, all policemen except those on patrol, which, is in one sense, a mobilization of the 8,000 police in the city.

Today may see another effort towards conciliation between the longshoremen and the shipping companies, but the one attempt in that direction made by a committee of the Civic Federation, was an utter failure.

J. H. Thomas, operating manager of the International Mercantile Marine company, speaking for the trans-Atlantic lines involved in the strike, said that the heads of all those lines had discussed the situation. They were unanimous in the position that the demands of the strikers were exorbitant, that the companies could not afford to meet them and that the strikers' places would be filled with other men at the present scale. The companies will bend their energies to getting their vessels away on schedule time, even if this be with partial cargoes.

The strikers are divided into two classes, those opposed to the trans-Atlantic lines and those opposed to the coastwise lines. The former claim allegiance to the Longshoremen's Protective association, and the latter say that they constitute Longshoremen's union No. 14. To emphasize their contention that higher wages are needed because living is higher, the strikers talk of having a parade of their wives and others dependent upon them.

Under cover of darkness last night, an attempt was made by the steamship lines to run new men through the striking longshoremens' pickets. A covered lighter, with more than 300 Italian strikebreakers from the Manhattan piers docked at Metropolitan avenue. All was quiet as the lines were passed ashore, but every tree, every door and every roof concealed a striking longshoreman or sympathizer. The strikers from the Havemeyer sugar refinery, who had been paid off during the day, had reinforced the longshoremen, until nearly 300 were lurking about the pier. A riot was soon in progress. Eight blocks away, at the sugar house, were four mounted patrolmen. Whistling for help, they charged down Kent to Wythe avenue and at Metropolitan avenue ran into the thick of the riot. With the height of their mounts in their favor, their long sticks were swung on the heads of everybody in sight, and the rioters stopped wherever the clubs fell. But the officers were so hard pressed by numbers that only the arrival of help saved them from injury.

When the strikebreakers were clear of the pier every dark lurking place gave up two or three men armed with clubs, pistols, paving stones and guns. From the roofs there came a volley of stones and all sorts of junk. Fully a score of assailants were armed and at such close range every time they fired they hit somebody. The Italians scurried to doorways or backed up against trees or buildings, where they had a chance to defend themselves with knives and dirks.

The only persons receiving immediate benefit from the situation are the crews of the vessels, who, having been pressed into double service, are receiving the wages of stevedores in addition to their regular pay. But, with the services of the crews and such other help as could be picked up, the work progressed slowly, and much freight was necessarily refused. Merchants throughout the country are feeling the delay. It is said that contracts are maturing and orders are piling in with no immediate prospect of being filled. It is in this last phase of the situation that the strikers find their greatest satisfaction. A general protest of merchants, they are sure, will impel the steamship men to agree to the demands.

the service over the entire system. A strong force of police escorted the two cars run out yesterday on the Nineteenth avenue line, and any opposition encountered was speedily suppressed by a vigorous use of clubs. Immediate arrests followed all attempts at violence by hurling bricks and other missiles, and the police plainly showed themselves masters of the situation.

Last night the town was quieter than ever before in its history, and most of the principal streets were absolutely deserted. In the vicinity of the car barns a police patrol was maintained all night, but no attempts of any kind to disturb the peace were reported.

The railroad officials now have every confidence in the intentions of the municipal authorities to maintain their promise to keep peace and order, and have disarmed the non-union men engaged in running the cars. This understanding will be maintained from this time forward, so long as the police continue to afford protection for their lives and the company's property.

In the meantime the conciliatory committee, appointed yesterday, an outgrowth of the Civic league and the labor council, is strenuously at work trying to settle the various strikes and to prevent further disturbances caused by industrial differences. The committee of fifty, which took charge of affairs during the recent disaster, is again actively engaged in an attempt to bring about peace.

It is thought that the telephone strike is now in a fair way to be settled without much further delay, and this will go far toward clearing up the general situation. The other industrial strikes will be considered today by the conciliatory committee, and there is a hope expressed that their efforts will be attended with good results.

A number of casualties were reported last night, the result of trouble along the route of the cars yesterday, but none of them was serious. Supt. Barnum of the McAllister street car barns was assaulted by strikers last night and his nose broken. No further fatalities are reported as a result of the riot Tuesday. Including John Buchanan, who died last night, the death record has been limited so far, to two, with three others in a precarious condition.

A proposition presented to the officials of the railroad and the Car Men's union to leave the matters in dispute between them to an arbitration committee to be composed of leading citizens, will be considered today. Neither side has yet expressed its willingness to accede to this request of the Committee of Fifty, and President Calhoun has said that he will not consider any compromise which involves recognition or dealings with the Car Men's union.

Strike breakers continue to arrive from the East and a number of additional cars carrying men for the company are reported on the way. The men are from the leading cities of the East, and those who handled the cars in service yesterday are Kentuckians.

Yesterday the police for the first time since the commencement of the car strike enjoyed actual protection for two of the United railroad's cars manned by twenty-one strike breakers, and as a result, these cars were run over six miles of track without the firing of a shot. Four men, one of them a strike breaker, the other three members of the Electrical Workers' union, were injured. There was intermittent hurling of missiles by union crowds at two or three miles, a mob of at least 1,000 men and boys ran with the cars, yelling, calling epithets and cheering vociferously whenever for any cause the cars were brought temporarily to a standstill. About twenty police officers and patrolmen led by Chief Dinan, some of them in automobiles, a number mounted on horses and others afoot, accompanied the cars. Assistant President Thornwall Mullally, Supt. Chapman and other officers of the United railroads kept pace in automobiles with the cars.

The route selected was through the better class business and residence streets of the western addition and the Richmond districts. The start was made at 3 o'clock and the run was completed two hours later. From its commencement to its finish the police displayed decision, energy and determination in dealing with the shouting, howling crowds. When necessity arose they did not hesitate to draw their clubs and use them, and a number of heads were bruised.

The two cars finished their trips at 4:40 p. m. and were then run into the car barn at Oak and Broderick streets. The trip was made without much difficulty. At one point a man in a buggy pulled a pistol, but a dozen policemen were after him before he had time to shoot. The man dropped the gun and ran, but was soon captured. At another place a carpenter working on a building threw a hatchet. He was a prisoner in less than a minute. A telephone lineman driving a wagon, blocked the cars and tried to hit a mounted policeman with a pair of heavy pliers. He was clubbed into submission and arrested. The temper of the policemen was radically different from that of Tuesday. Each car was manned by half a dozen men, none of whom was arrested.

Chief of Police Dinan asked about the report that he had threatened to arm the police with rifles and order them to shoot strike breakers, if the latter opened fire from the cars, said: "I did not say exactly that. I told the attorneys of the company that if the strike breakers were going to shoot down my men, we had a few rifles at headquarters ourselves and we would use them. This was after I heard of the shooting of Detective Sergeant Bell and Officer Sauers."

PERFECT WAY

Scores of Duluth Citizens Have Learned It.

If you suffer from backache,
There is only one way to cure it.
The perfect way is to cure the kidneys.
A bad back means sick kidneys.
Neglect it, urinary troubles follow.
Doan's Kidney Pills are made for kidneys only.
Are endorsed by Duluth people.

L. P. Schneider, butcher at McAuley's Washington Market, and living at 210 West Fourteenth avenue, Duluth, Minn., says: "A statement I made in 1898, recommending Doan's Kidney Pills and which has been published in the local papers very mildly expresses my opinion of that remedy. After suffering for a long time with pain through the back and loins, which made it almost impossible for me to stoop and lift anything without torture, and after using various medicines and treatments without effect, Doan's Kidney Pills cured me and the lapse of six years has proved that the cure has been permanent. I am sure that I suffered the worst tortures of kidney trouble. Often the pain felt as if a sharp knife was piercing me. At night, although I tired out, I could not rest or lie in one position without getting sore all over. The kidney secretions were irregular and contained a heavy sediment. Since I found this cure I have time after time advised others to use Doan's Kidney Pills, and I never miss an opportunity to speak well of them."

It is claimed that the women in jail have been subjected to numerous indignities.

That a revolution will break out in Guatemala within thirty days is the statement of an official who has every point of the present embroglio well in hand. Gen. Toledo, who will be commander of the movement, it is stated, is now at Managua, conferring with President Zelaya of Nicaragua. The signal for the advance will come when Mexico severs diplomatic relations with Guatemala. Gen. Toledo will cross Honduras with about 16,000 men. Arms and ammunition are already assured.

At the same time a force which this same authority says will probably be led by Col. Orla will penetrate Guatemala from the Mexican border in Chiapas. It is declared that this movement will be the first step toward the federation of the Central American republics.

Mexico will not go to war with Guatemala over the extradition of Gen. Jose Maria Lizardo, charged with complicity in the assassination here of Gen. Manuel Lisandrio Barrillas, former president of Guatemala. This fact was officially announced by Minister of Foreign Relations Mariscal. Any overt act or direct insult by the Cabrera government will, however, completely change the attitude of Mexico.

Cabrera played his last card yesterday when he sent a note to the Mexican government demanding the extradition of Dr. Emilio Leon, Col. Francisco Orla and Dr. Luis Felipe Obregon. He charged in his communication that he had positive proof that these men were implicated in the recent attempt to assassinate him. Dr. Leon was formerly minister to Mexico from Guatemala. He was ordered back home and given a position in the cabinet. He awoke one morning to learn that President Cabrera had ordered his arrest. He sought refuge in the Mexican legation and was later conveyed to San Jose De Guatemala by legation guards and left for Mexico. Some time after his arrival here he received word from Guatemala that his large estates had been embargoed on the ground that he owed the Guatemalan government $99,000. This left him practically penniless. One of his largest plantations adjoins that of President Cabrera. Col. Francisco Orla was minister to Mexico from Guatemala up to a few weeks ago. One day Senor Giron arrived in the capital with credentials authorizing him to represent Guatemala in Mexico. This was the first intimation that Col. Orla had that he was superseded. Dr. Obregon, who was at the head of the College of Physicians, was compelled to leave Guatemala because he gained the enmity of President Cabrera.

All three men declare that they had nothing to do with the attempt on the life of Cabrera. They claim they first heard of the incident through the Associated Press dispatches. Mexico will not give up these men, as the officials consider this last move of Cabrera as an undignified political trick.

TWO KILLED

Hayes, employed in the home of Robert Childs, cut and bruised; Mrs. George Morton, Riverside, Ill., bruised; H. R. Morgan, Hinsdale, Ill., bruised.

After leaving the rails, the engine slid along the track for fifty feet and then overturned and rolled down the bank, dragging with it the first passenger coach and baggage car. The coaches in the rear left the rails but remained on the embankment. The roof of the first coach was smashed in and all of the passengers were injured more or less severely. The wreckage caught fire, but the flames were extinguished in a few moments by an engine company which reached the scene within a few minutes. The steam from the engine burned some of the passengers, but the injuries from this cause were not severe.

Cincinnati, May 9.—One man was killed and one fatally and two others seriously injured in a rear-end collision at Jones station, seven miles south of Hamilton, today. An engine was following No. 1 passenger train on the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton railroad and heavy smoke prevented the engineer seeing the train into the rear of which the engine crashed. Frank King of Ivorydale, engineer, was instantly killed. John Sullivan of Hamilton, superintendent of tracks on the line, probably fatally and Jacob Reister, station agent at Ivorydale and Thomas Kirk, of Jones station, seriously injured. The passengers were shaken up but uninjured.

"UNCLE SAM" CASE DELAYED.

Fort Scot, Kas., May 9.—The federal court here today adjourned without hearing the motion for discharge of a receiver in the Uncle Sam oil case which had been set for tomorrow. Judge Pollock will, it is announced, hear the motion in Topeka.

NEWS FROM WEST DULUTH

SECURING THE NAMES

Many Signatures to the Ramsey Street Paving Petition.

Commercial Club Committee Will Report Friday Evening.

It is believed that by tomorrow night, when the West Duluth Commercial club will meet, the committee of the club, which has in hand the project of paving Ramsey street, will be able to report the successful termination of its work. The committee has been busy for some time past interviewing the property owners along the thoroughfare, for which the improvement is projected, but now all have been seen and little more delay is expected in securing the necessary number of signatures to the petition to be presented to the council.

In order that favorable action may be expected, it is necessary that twenty-seven property holders along the street which is to be benefited by the improvement petition for it, and now the petition lacks but one or two signatures. Few have flatly refused to sign, but in some cases unavoidable delays came up. Those who are still holding out are expected to come into the fold today or tomorrow, and tomorrow night the committee expects to report the securing of more than the necessary number of signatures.

It is promised to pave Ramsey street, from Forty-sixth avenue west to Central avenue, a distance of seven blocks. The question of material will be decided upon by the property holders later, should the improvement be definitely decided upon.

SNOW IN THE WOODS.

Wintry Weather Still Exists on the Canadian Border.

Capt. J. W. Mann returned this morning from a ten-days' cruising trip with a party in the woods in the northern part of the state. The party approached within ten miles of the Canadian border, and Capt. Mann reports anything but satisfactory spring conditions existing in the woods in that vicinity.

"One would hardly believe that they are still hauling logs across the ice on skids up in that country, but it's the truth," said Capt. Mann. "The snow is fully two feet deep in the woods, and it is three feet in some places. On our trip North, when we saw men carrying snowshoes, we thought they were crazy, but we soon found they knew their business. In places we had considerable trouble making our way on account of the snow, as we sank through it without snowshoes. On the whole though the weather was so cold that the crust on the top of the snow held firmly, and we traveled over that without trouble.

"Yes, sir, they are still hauling logs on sleighs up there, and the lakes are frozen over. I thought it was pretty cold here, but there's no comparison between the weather here and in that country, at the present time, at least. If the ground is clear up there by the first of July they will be lucky.

"Outside of the weather it's all booming up around International Falls and those other settlements on the border. They are working on the new roads with big forces, and putting them through. Once the border towns are in direct touch with Duluth by railroad, watch them boom, for they have the right qualities for booming locations."

SUCCESSFUL CONCERT.

First of Series at Third Swedish Baptist Church.

Before the largest audience which the edifice has ever accommodated, the first concert of a series planned by the choir, was given at the Third Swedish Baptist church, Ramsay street and Fifty-ninth avenue west, last evening. The choir and male quartette, under the direction of W. A. Anderson, were at their best, and their choruses were well rendered. The solo efforts of M. N. Sandell, cornetist of the University of Minnesota band, were well received, and the vocal solos of Ethel Larson, Jennie Olson, Mae Winness, Minnie Nelson and A. R. Sabin were pleasing. The instrumental music by Miss Olga Olson and Ragnar Larson was given in a masterly manner and was well received.

Arrangements have been completed for the twelfth annual banquet of the Irving School Alumni association, which will be given in Wade's hall, Central avenue and Ramsey street, the evening of Friday, May 31. RAILROAD NEWS

THE RAILROADS ANTICIPATE GROWTH OF CITY BY ENLARGING TERMINALS

Northern Pacific Will Add Fifteen Miles of Trackage.

Reports That Work Will be Postponed Are Untrue.

Omaha Road is Also Planning Additional Yard Facilities.

"Duluth terminals of the Northern Pacific road will be enlarged this year as originally planned; there is absolutely no truth to any of the statements to the contrary," said E. C. Blanchard, superintendent of the Northern Pacific, this morning, when asked concerning the report which appeared in the morning paper to the effect that the Northern Pacific would not enlarge its terminal facilities and yards at the Head of the Lakes this year, owing to a shortage of labor and a lack of rails.

"I am sure there is no foundation for the report," continued Mr. Blanchard, "for local officials of the road have heard nothing concerning the matter from headquarters, aside from orders received some time ago to go ahead with the work. The original plans for improvement are now being carried out, and the work will be completed as soon as possible. Crews of men are now at work on both the bridge across the bay, and on the additions to the yard facilities. It will require a year to complete the bridge, but the yard improvements will be finished before the fall rush begins."

It was announced in The Herald several weeks ago that the Northern Pacific was planning extensive improvements for Duluth, but up to the present time it has been known only in a very indefinite way of just what these improvements would consist. Superintendent Blanchard asserts that he is hardly in a position to say how much money the road expects to expend in this direction the present season, but announced today that the plans included the construction of fifteen miles of additional trackage in the Duluth yards this summer, besides rebuilding the bridge to Superior and double tracking it.

This work will call for a tremendous outlay of money, and from the standpoint of labor alone, will mean a vast amount of good to the city. Business interests will readily recognize that fifteen miles of additional trackage at so important a terminal as Duluth will be a very great improvement, making it possible to take care of the increased amount of business at this point without the annoying delays that have been felt during the past winter, guarding against a congestion of traffic in the city, such as was experienced here last winter, during the rush, and greatly facilitating traffic all around with every road entering the city, for the business of all is handled through Northern Pacific yards.

The work is being carried on principally on Rice's Point, where practically all the Northern Pacific yards are located. The fact that the fifteen miles of track will be completed before the heavy fall rush begins will be welcome news, not only to Duluth, but to shippers at all interior points who have occasion to send freight to the Head of the Lakes. The double tracking of the bridge will greatly facilitate traffic. This piece of work alone, with the reconstruction of the bridge, calls for the expenditure of a very large amount of money, and is a big undertaking. In addition to double tracking the structure, the two draws, on the Minnesota and Wisconsin side, will be made wider.

L. M. Perkins of St. Paul, division engineer of the Northern Pacific, is in the city today, and it is presumed that his visit here is in connection with the improvements now in progress.

Plans for important improvements in the way of additions to the terminals in Duluth are also being considered by the Omaha road. Details of the work have not yet been announced, or entirely arranged for, but it is known that the plans include the construction of a considerable amount of new track, and the building of a yard for passenger coaches.

General Manager Ashton of the Northwestern road was in the city yesterday, but his visit is said to have been on personal business. The general manager of the Omaha was here a short time ago, and looked over the situation very carefully, with the result that T. W. Kennedy, superintendent of the road, and H. J. Welch, assistant superintendent, were in the city yesterday investigating the matter and putting themselves in readiness to make a report to officials higher up regards the prospective improvements.

The new tracks will be laid on Rice's Point, and will call for the expenditure of a large amount of money. It is expected that plans for the work will be completed within a week, and that work on the improvements will be started in the immediate future. The Omaha has found itself cramped for room, and additional trackage facilities in Duluth are found to be urgently necessary.

COMMERCIAL CENTER.

L. G. Lucia's Visit Shows Result of Duluth's Effective Advertising.

A further demonstration of the fact that Duluth is coming to be more and more recognized as a commercial point of importance was shown yesterday by the visit of L. G. Lucia of Milwaukee, traveling freight agent of the St. Louis & San Francisco railroad, and the Chicago & Eastern Illinois railroad.

This is the first time these lines have sent a man into the Duluth territory, although the Rock Island, closely associated with them, has had agents making this territory right along. Reports of the coming of the steel plant and other manufacturing concerns, spread broadcast through the country, has been turning the attention of the world this way, and the leading railroad systems which do not already have agents making this territory, are awakening to the importance of coming here after business. Mr. Lucia will make Duluth regularly hereafter.

CHEAP RATES.

Several to be In Effect to Eastern Points This Summer.

Aside from the cheap rates put in effect because of the Jamestown exposition, other low rates will be in force out of Duluth this summer. These will include one to Columbus, Ohio, on account of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church. The round-trip rate from Duluth will be $20.70, tickets selling May 9 to 20, and good returning until June 3.

The round-trip rate for the American Medical association meeting, at Atlantic City, N. J., June 4 to 7, will be $32.75 and $33.50, according to the route used. Tickets will be sold May 30 to June 2, good returning until June 10. The rates that will be in effect out of Duluth over the South Shore and other lines to different points in the East already have been announced by The Herald.

BIG STEAMSHIP STUCK IN MUD

White Star Liner Baltic Fast Ashore in New York Bay.

New York, May 9.—Passengers who departed for Europe on the White Star line Baltic, yesterday afternoon, were doomed to spend a dismal day in the rain and fog off the tip of Sandy Hook today, with the steamer's bow buried in the mud.

The Baltic went around almost at high water mark yesterday afternoon after she sailed for Liverpool, and the task of getting her afloat again is a difficult one.

Four tugs strained for an hour at high tide this forenoon to pull her off. Although they managed to move her a few feet, it was not sufficient to put water under her keel, and the receeding tide left her still stranded.

Officials of the White Star line said the Baltic went aground when taken from her course to avoid a collision with an inward bound steamer, when the two ships came close together in the fog.

The Baltic is resting easily and officials of the line expect she will be floated late today.

The sea is smooth and there is no danger for the large number of passengers aboard the vessel. Included in the list are Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Carnegie, Mr. H. H. Rogers, the countess of Yarmouth, sister of Harry K. Thaw, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Biddel, Jr., and Dr. Henry Barten Jacobs.

NO DEAL MADE IN TAFT'S CAUSE

Brother of Secretary Declares Ohio Action Will Clear Politics.

Cincinnati, May 9.—That last night's announcement by Geo. B. Cox, former Republican leader, in favor of Secretary Taft for president was not a part of any compromise or deal was declared in a statement published today by Charles P. Taft, editor of the Times-Star, a brother of the secretary of war, and active head of the movement in support of his brother as Ohio's candidate for the Republican nomination.

After reviewing briefly the settlement of the recent troubled political situation in Ohio, the statement concludes: "The action next week will remove the presidential question from local politics this fall, so that the Republican party may proceed to its work with the full responsibility of putting up the best men to secure victory at the polls. This situation has been brought about without any compromise or deal of any nature whatever. The people have lead the party leaders and have secured this result."

TRUST COMPANY'S CHIEF IN INSURANCE PROBING.

New York, May 9.—Silas B. Dutcher, president of the Hamilton Trust Company of Brooklyn, appeared before the grand jury yesterday as a witness in the investigation of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company. He was a member of the finance committee of the company, and the grand jury is trying to find out about certain loans at each year's end for several years past to John Hogeman, president of the insurance company and regarding certain syndicate operations that Vermilye & Co., brokers to the Metropolitan Life, carried out.

TAFT SEES ROOSEVELT, BUT NOT ABOUT OHIO CASE

Washington, May 9.—Secretary Taft spent more than half an hour with the president today. As he was returning to the war department he was asked whether he had discussed with the president the latest developments in the Ohio political situation as revealed in the dispatches to the morning newspapers.

"That was not considered," replied the secretary laughingly, and he explained that he had been conferring with the president about the entertainments for the distinguished foreign military visitors.

ON THE IRON RANGES

ORDINANCE GOES OVER

The Eveleth Council Tables Matter Until Next Week.

Eveleth, Minn., May 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city council, at their meeting Tuesday night, spent most of the time discussing the traction franchise ordinance, which was to come up for its second reading. The point at issue was the time limit within which the road must be built. The promoters want five years to build the road, while the Business Men's association has recommended, and there is strong sentiment in the council, that three years is long enough. It is also desired that the road be completed between Eveleth and Biwabik as soon as between Eveleth and Virginia. After much discussion the ordinance was tabled until the meeting next Tuesday night.

The contract for furnishing the city coal was awarded to Nelson & Lindgren, the price being $4.95 per ton delivered. Mike Maxwell was given the contract for cleaning up the alleys, and Nelson & Lindgren will take care of the city garbage this summer.

STOLE ONE SHOE.

One Legged John Reilly Must Serve Sixty Days in County Jail.

Eveleth, Minn., May 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Reilly was before the municipal court and sentenced to sixty days in the county jail for petty thieving, he having stolen a boot from Stein & Scheirman. Reilly has only one leg, which probably accounts for his not taking a pair.

Mary Umpty was fined $11.75 on the charge of having stolen coal from the cars belonging to the Eveleth Electric company.

PLACED UNDER BONDS.

Disturbers of Peace of Spruce Location Must Appear in Court.

Eveleth, Minn., May 9.—(Special to The Herald.—As the result of a row which occurred on the Spruce location Charles Sinta, Louis Blatnick and John Mimach have been arrested and are under $200 bonds to appear in municipal court for trial next Tuesday. The complaining witness is Matt Rozan, who claims to have been badly injured by the men arrested. Others, however, state that his injuries are not of a serious nature, and the trial was delayed to await possible developments.

NEW STEAMER

Expected at Tower Soon, to Run on Lake Vermilion.

Tower, Minn., May 9.—The steamboat "Mary Bell" is expected to arrive by freight from Two Harbors the latter part of this week or the first of next. She is a passenger steamer, stern wheel, and is owned by Capt. E. Osterberg, who will place her on Lake Vermilio nas soon as the ice is broken up. The steamer will accommdate 100 passengers. The boat is new and was built for the owner. The hull is steel. The beam is eleven feet and the lentgh fifty-eight feet. The Mary Bell will take the place of the Olive, which was in commission last summer.

After operating almost continuously for twenty years, the Tower Lumber company will discontinue its big saw and planing mills on Vermilion lake at the end of the present season for lack of raw material.

Employes of the state fish commission are at Pike River falls, nine miles west of Tower, waiting for the ice to break, so they can begin their work of taking spawn from the pike, which are numerous there. The fish commission annually takes pike spawn from Pike river, but their operations have been delayed this year by the late spring.

VIRGINIA COWS MUST "SKIDOO"

Council Passes an Ordinance Keeping Them Off Streets.

Virginia, Minn., May 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city fathers at their last meeting bid the cows "skidoo." The pound ordinance came up for its final reading, and was passed by a vote of 5 to 1. The ordinance as introduced provided that cows might run at large in the daytime. As amended and passed it provides that no animal can be allowed to run at large anywhere within the city limits. Alderman Priganovich was the only member to vote against it. A number of citizens, who were interested in having the ordinance passed, attended the meeting.

Plans and specifications for the proposed new fire hall, and also for a sanitary sewer in the alley, between Poplar and Cedar streets, were accepted, and the city attorney was instructed to prepare resolutions providing for advertising for bids for construction of both.

The committee appointed by the Commercial club to investigate the matter of securing free mail delivery for Virginia, sent in a communication requesting the council to take action in the matter of numbering the houses. The matter was referred to the street and alley committee.

BUSINESS CHANGES.

One Virginia Firm Sells Out, Another Extends to Hibbing.

Virginia, Minn., May 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—George McEwen & Co., who have been conducting a grocery store here for a little over a year past, have disposed of their business to Swanson Bros. & Co. of Moose Lake, who also own a grocery store at that point. The new firm will be in a position to handle much farm produce, purchased direct from the farmers.

George McEwen has returned to his former home in Duluth. He intends to take a trip to Northwestern Canada, where he owns some farm land, and may engage in the land business.

Duncan, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Matheson, died on Monday of pneumonia, following an attack of measles and whooping cough. He was 22 months old. The funeral took place yesterday afternoon.

Canalake Bros., proprietors of the Virginia candy kitchen, will establish a branch of their business at Hibbing. They have rented a store in the Miles hotel block, adjoining the new Vaudeville theater, and will begin business as soon as the interior decorations are completed.

RANGES IN BRIEF

Virginia—A freight engine on the Rainy Lake road, running north from this city, pulling a string of empty cars went through a temporary bridge spanning a small stream a few miles from here tonight. The locomotive fell but a few feet, and no one was hurt.

Mountain Iron—Architect Anthony W. Puck of Duluth is designing a brick store room and flat building, two stories high, 26x100 feet, to be erected here by John Ferguson. The cost of the structure will be about $10,000.

Eveleth—Rev. Father Floyd of St. Patrick's church announces that on the 17th day of May there will be given under the church auspices the annual concert, which usually is given on St. Patrick's day.

HAYWOOD ON TRIAL

acquittal of Haywood undoubtedly would mean an abandonment of the cases against the others.

Orchard will not be tried until all of the other cases are disposed of. It is said that the evidence against him is so strong that he cannot hope for other than a conviction of murder in the first degree, regardless of the verdicts upon the indictments against Haywood, Moyer and Pettibone. He has, it is said, been promised no degree of clemency whatsoever in giving evidence for the state.

Speculation as to the length of the Haywood trial has resulted in guesses, ranging from two weeks to five months. Some believe that the task of selecting a jury alone will require at least three weeks. In the jury panel reporting today were only twenty-seven names, two of these having indicated that their excuse was certain. Each side has ten peremptory challenges, and there are likely to be many disqualifications.

A formidable array of counsel has been engaged by both the state and the defense. In charge of the prosecution are James H. Hawley of this city, United States Senator W. E. Borah, County Attorney O. M. Van Duyn and George Stone of Caldwell, especially employed to represent Canyon county, where the murder was committed. Representing the defendants are E. F. Richardson of Denver, Clarence S. Darrow of Chicago, Edgar L. Wilson of Boise, a former law partner of Judge Wood; John F. Nugent of Boise and Fred Miller of Spokane.

There is as yet no indication of the scope of the case which the state will seek to prove against Haywood. It is naturally assumed, however, that Messrs. Hawley and Borah will seek to make the showing as to the alleged oonspiracy as broad as possible, without endangering it upon appeal, assuming that there is a conviction. Discussing this phase of the case, one of the counsel for the prisoners said: "The broader the scope of the case the better we will be satisfied."

Nearly forty correspondents for press associations and newspapers have come here to report on the case, and special wire arrangements have been made for transmission of the dispatches.

A number of Socialist leaders, including editors and speakers, planned to hold an informal meeting, last night, but one of the speakers who arrived during the day from Seattle was requested to appear before Mayor Haynes where he was told that public agitation would not be allowed during the trials. He agreed to make no speeches. This same speaker was here eight months ago and was active in a street corner campaign in the interests of Socialism.

Caldwell, where the murder was committed, is the county seat of Canyon county. A change of venue to Boise, the capital city of Idaho, and county seat of Ada county, was granted on the motion of the defense, and the case set for trial in the district court of the third judicial district. The presiding judge is Freemont Wood, a native of Maine, a former practioner at the bar in this city, and presiding now over his first important criminal cases. He is regarded as a careful, deliberate man, and the prosecution and defense alike believe he will see that justice is done.

Boise, at the outset of the famous trials, is, on the surface, almost the least interested community of any in the United States. The case of the miners is never discussed on the streets and the authorities of the city, county and state have taken careful steps to prevent any sort of disturbance. While the people have determined that the cases shall be tried in the courts, not upon the street corners. There seems to be no question but that a fair trial will be had and the best of feeling apparently prevails among those most prominently connected with the case.

The streets are being patrolled only by the regular police. The people are occupied by their business and social pleasures and there is absolutely nothing to indicate that the trial which has created such widespread interest, has begun. A striking illustration of the unruffled atmosphere was the fact that yesterday afternoon Mrs. Gooding, wife of Governor Gooding, was hostess at a reception and luncheon at the Idanha hotel, where she and the chief executive are making their home. The defense sprang a surprise last night by announcing the retention of Edgar L. Wilson of Boise as assistant counsel. Mr. Wilson is a former law partner of Judge Fremont Wood, who is to preside at the trials. He served two terms in congress and is known to be an able lawyer. He is thoroughly conversant with practice in the local courts, and is regarded by both sides as adding strongly to the array of legal talent.

The court room was only half filled at 10 o'clock when Judge Wood took the bench and Sheriff "Shad" Hodgin called the session to order. Court bailiffs stood in the aisles ready to preserve order, but had little to do. The opposing counsel were arranged at long tables on either side of the witness chair, which is set in the center of the space within the space at the counsel rail.

At the defendant's table John Murphy, general counsel of the Western Federation of Labor, sat with the other attorneys entered for Haywood. Just back of the defendant's counsel table sat Mrs. Haywood, wife of the prisoner, in her invalid chair, accompanied by her two daughters and a nurse.

Judge Wood made several announcements in civil proceedings before he finally turned to the array of counsel before him and asked: "Is the defendant Haywood in court?"

"He is waiting to be called," said Mr. Darrow.

The next instant Haywood appeared in custody of Deputy Sheriff Beamer, employed by Canyon county to guard the accused miners. A stockily built man, just short of six feet in height and weighing perhaps 180 pounds, he appeared, clean shaven. Apparently his long confinement, broken as it has been by daily exercise on the lawn surrounding the courthouse, has had little effect on his health. He sat at the end of the line of seats occupied by his family. His chair was within a few feet of the first of the jury chairs, which are arranged directly in front of the judge's bench.

Mr. Hawley, of the state counsel, informed Judge Wood that, in accordance with the statutes, he would indorse on the Haywood indictments the names of all the witnesses for the prosecution, so far as they are known at the present time. This was agreeable to the defense.

"Are you ready, gentlemen?" queried Judge Wood.

"We are," counsel for both sides voiced in unison.

Next followed the excuse of four members of the regular jury panel of twenty-seven names, leaving but twenty-three to be examined at this time. One of men to be excused had a sick wife. The others had business which they convinced the court would suffer irreparably if they were forced to serve in this trial.

Twelve names were then called and A. L. Ewing, a gray-bearded carpenter, who sat in the foreman's chair, was the first of the panel questioned by Mr. Hawley for the state. He said he had lived here a number of years, having come from Oregon. He was a native, however, of Indiana.

"Are you a member of the carpenters' union?" asked Mr. Hawley.

"No, sir."

"Are you a member of any union anywhere?"

"No, sir."

"Have you heard this case discussed by anyone who pretended to know the facts?"

"No, sir."

"Were you acquainted with Governor Steunenberg?"

"Yes, sir."

"How long had you known him?"

"About four years."

"Ever had any business relations with him?"

"Yes, I held an appointment at the Soldiers' home for a while, but for political reasons my term of office ceased."

"You were discharged?"

"Yes."

"Then I take it you and Gov. Steunenberg had a difference?"

"I differed with him politically at that time."

Ewing said he had read of the case pretty thoroughly in all the newspapers. He is married. He knows none of the defendants. He had talked with his grown son regarding the case and the procedure.

"What do you mean by that?" asked Mr. Hawley, quickly.

"I mean," said the proposed juror, "that we talked about the length of time it would take to try the case."

"Have you formed or expressed an opinion as to the guilt or innocence of the accused?"

"I don't think I ever have."

"Have you any opinion now?"

"Well, I don't think I have, although it sounds like a wooden man to say so."

Ewing said he had served as a juror but once in a capital case and that was the present term of court.

"Have you any prejudice against circumstantial evidence?"

"No, not exactly, but I would be very careful in approving a decision on such a case."

"Would the fact that the defendant was not in the state at the time of the killing, but was shown to have advised, encouraged and aided in the killing—would that influence your verdict provided the court instructed you that such a person was equally responsible with the man who actually did the killing?"

"I would take the instruction of the court."

The examination of Ewing was here dropped temporarily and Mr. Hawley passed on to the second man. It became apparent that he would go to through the panel of twelve men before the defense undertook its examination of the proposed jurors.

How Pabst Grows Malt

Malt is the body of beer. It is what makes beer a food, rich in health-giving qualities.

Malt is barley-grain, sprouted and partially grown. Most malsters force this process in three or four days time.

Pabst takes the full eight days as required by Nature, with the result that Pabst gets a nutritious, strength-building malt.

It takes Pabst longer and it costs Pabst more to make this perfect malt, but this Eight-Day Malting Process retains in the fullest amount of tissue-building nourishment of the barley—the grain richest in food values.

Pabst Blue Ribbon

The Pabst Eight-Day Malting Process is much the same in its action as the process of digestion. Pabst Malt is practically pre-digested. Pabst Blue Ribbon Beer is actually ready for the system to assimilate without the necessity of first taxing the stomach to digest it.

When ordering beer, ask for Pabst Blue Ribbon.

THE IDEAL DRINK

For warm weather is the one that thoroughly quenches the thirst and at the same time produces a beneficial effect upon the system.

Most summer drinks are a burden upon the stomach, sweet, sickening and manifestly unfit for use. In

Moose Beer

You have a beverage that satisfies the thirst better than any other, for it is about 90 per cent pure water. Instead of overtaxing the digestive apparatus, it is itself an important digestive agent, a liquid food that is readily assimilated and that at once lends its valuable assistance in building up the body.

Increased thirst comes with the return of warm weather. In satisfying your thirst, be careful to use a beverage that will be a benefit and not a detriment to your health.

SUPERIOR NEWS

SHOOTING IN SUPERIOR

Strike Breaker Accused of Putting Bullet Through Striker's Lung.

Nesbit, Wounded Man, Badly Hurt But Will Recover.

As a result of a shooting affair which arose from the strike troubles in the shipyard at Superior last evening, Dan Nesbit, one of the strikers, is lying seriously wounded in St. Mary's hospital with a bullet through his left lung, and Olaf Aalen, one of the men who had returned to work, is in the Superior jail charged with first degree assault.

Aalen is said to have been going home from work accompanied by two watchmen from the yard, when the shooting occurred. When the deserter from the strikers' ranks was about to enter his boarding house at 316 Hughitt avenue a few minutes after 6 o'clock, he encountered a crowd of strikers. Fearing trouble, Aalen says he warned the crowd that he would fill the first man who came forward, full of lead. At this juncture he says some one rushed out from behind and struck him on the back of the head, felling him to the ground. While still dazed and just as he was endeavoring to get to his feet again Aalen admits firing his revolver, but says he did not fire at anybody, but simply meant to frighten his assailants away. The crowd dispersed after the shot was fired and the accused man says he did not know he hit any one.

After the crowd dispersed, Aalen entered his boardinghouse, and Nesbit, the wounded man, managed to make his way to the house of a friend nearby, where Dr. Adams was summoned, and from where he was taken to the hospital. He was reported as resting very well by the hospital authorities today, and the prospect for his recovery is bright.

Following the shooting, some one reported to the police that there had been a little gun play on Hughitt avenue, near Third street, and Detective McGowan was sent out to investigate. When he arrived on the scene he was told that the man who did the shooting was in the boardinghouse at 316 Hughitt avenue. When he attempted to enter that place the detective found the door locked.

He then went around to the rear, raised one of the windows, and started to crawl through when to his surprise he saw the strike breaker sitting on a trunk on the opposite side of the room with a big revolver levelled at the detective's head.

"Drop that gun!" said McGowan with as much force as he could command under the circumstances, and Aalen complied promptly. His arrest following.

Even then, however, the police did not know that any one had been shot, so Aalen was arraigned on a disorderly conduct charge and released on $25 bail. Word came in about an hour later that Nesbit had been shot in the Hughitt affair, and again the strike breaker was taken into custody.

Aalen quit the ranks of the strikers and returned to work yesterday morning, and he and his bodyguard were accosted at several points on their way home from the yards last night by strikers who wished to remonstrate with Aalen for deserting. On one occasion John Kunefe, one of his guards, assaulted James Blackadder, one of the strikers, and was arrested as a result.

Nesbit, the injured man, is 34 years of age and has resided with his family, a wife and two children, at Seventh street and Cumming avenue for a number of years. Aalen is 24 years old and unmarried.

Aalen was arraigned before Judge Parker this morning, charged with assault with a dangerous weapon with intent to kill. He demanded an examination and it was set for May 16, in order to determine the outcome of Nesbit's injuries. The bullet has not yet been located and the doctors in charge expressed considerable anxiety over the wounded man's condition this afternoon.

Aalen was released after the hearing, on $5,000 bail, which was put up by Superintendent Williams of the shipyard.

DIES FROM BURNS.

Ruth Walstead, Thought to be Out of Danger, Passes Away.

Ruth Walstead, the little girl who was seriously burned about a week ago, while preparing supper for her father, died this morning as a result of her injuries.

The girl was starting a fire in the stove, when the accident occurred and used kerosene to facilitate matters. It exploded and her clothing was soon a mass of flames. A man, who happened to be passing, rushed in and smothered the flames, and it was thought that the burns would not prove fatal. Her death this morning will be a surprise and shock to the many friends of the family, who thought that she was out of danger.

Ruth was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Walstead of 921 Cedar avenue.

RAILROAD MAN'S WIDOW MEETS DEATH IN WRECK.

Chicago, May 9.—Mrs. Mary Miller, who was killed in the suburban train wreck on the Burlington road this morning, was the widow of Thomas Miller, formerly freight traffic manager of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad, who died eighteen months ago. She was with her daughters, Mrs. George Morton and the Misses Elizabeth and Sarah Miller. When the car overturned she was thrown between two seats and the wreckage piled on her. She was conscious when taken from the car, and insisted that she was not badly hurt. She died, however, just as she was being carried into the hospital. The Misses Miller each sustained a broken leg, while Mrs. Morton escaped with a few severe bruises.

HEARING IS POSTPONED

Court Awaits the Arrival of Papers in Grande's Case.

Wholesale Fruit Concern Sues Him for $1,000 on Account.

J. H. Grande and his troubles came into public notice again last evening and this morning, in hearings before the district court in the habeas corpus proceedings which he has instituted to secure his release from the custody of the sheriff.

The first hearing was held at 5 o'clock last evening. Nothing was accomplished, however, and an adjournment was taken until this morning, although Mr. Grande made a vigorous protest against any further delay. Nothing more was done at the hearing this morning and the case was postponed until 5 o'clock this afternoon.

The delay in the matter has been occasioned by the fact that the original papers concerning the warrant held by Deputy Sheriff C. C. Case of San Joaquin county, Cal., are on the way to Duluth but had not arrived up to this noon. The papers are said to be necessary in the habeas corpus proceedings and the court directed the postponement of the hearing until they arrive. It was expected that the papers would reach Duluth before this evening.

Acting through their attorney, H. B. Fryberger of this city, Graham, Riggs & Co., wholesale dealers in fruit and produce, have started suit in the district court against Joseph H. Grande, doing business as the Independent Fruit company, and Carlo Manilla, to recover judgment for $1,000 and costs and disbursements. The amount named is alleged to be due for apples and other fruits furnished Grande, April 15, last, with the understanding that he was to pay for the same within fifteen days from the date of delivery. It is claimed that Grande gave the wholesale company a bond to protect the payment, with himself as principal and Carlo Manilla as surety. It is alleged that the fifteen days have more than passed, but that Grande has never made a payment on account, although such has been demanded.

LODGE NOTES

TO INSTALL NEW TEMPLE

Knights of Khorassan Will Have Big Time Saturday.

Delegations From Twin Cities and Ranges Will be Here.

Preparations have been practically completed for the big affair at the Armory Saturday night, when the new temple of the D. O. K. K., or the Knights of Khorassan, will be formally installed. The temple will have over 300 members to start out with and at the meeting Saturday representatives will be present from all over the Northwest.

The temple is the first one of this order to be organized in Northern Minnesota and the fact that a large membership has already been made up demonstrates that it is proving a popular lodge. The formation of the temple was perfected at a meeting a couple of weeks ago and since that time the committees have been at work arranging for the big installation, which will take place Saturday evening.

At the first meeting two weeks ago a list of names was decided upon and sent to the national officials of the order and they will choose one out of the list for the Duluth temple. No two temples can have the same names and, therefore, it was necessary for the new society to select a list and give their preference while the national officers will make the selection.

Probably the installation ceremonies at the Armory Saturday night will be one of the biggest events in fraternal circles in Duluth for many months. Prominent members of the St. Paul and Minneapolis temples will be present and there will also be delegations from all of the range towns and points in Western Minnesota and Northern Wisconsin and the Copper country.

Duluthians who have become members of the new temple are taking much interest in the preparations for the installation and are looking forward to a big time.

WATERWAY COMMISSION

Expected to Visit Minnesota About Middle of July.

Washington, May 9.—The inland waterway commission has started West on its trip of investigation, and after visiting the Southern cities on the Mississippi river, they will proceed north to the sources of the great "Father of Waters."

The commission will make at least three trips during their investigations, and it is expected that they will visit Minnesota about July 15. Meanwhile there will be several little side trips, made by individual members of the commission. It is quite probable that one of the matters to which especial attention is directed will be that of uniting the great bodies of navigable waters by canal.

TO SUBSCRIBERS:

It is important when desiring the address of your paper changed to give both old and new addresses.

AN APOLOGY.

The Herald never mentions the word "forestry" without a shiver of fear at its audacity in presuming to discuss a subject that the St. Paul Pioncer-Press esteems its own peculiar property, and regarding which it claims the possession of all the knowledge there is.

It was in an unguarded moment, therefore, that this newspaper dared mention the topic the other day, for the purpose of giving approval to all reasonable plans of reforestration that do not involve the segregation of valuable agricultural lands for that purpose. It would never have been done, probably, had the thought of what the effect would be upon the old lady of Robert street occurred. It did not occur, however, and if it had The Herald would probably have dared to hope that its approval of sensible forestry would counteract the effect of its presumption in mentioning the subject.

However, it has happened, and it is too late to remedy the evil that has been done. The venerable relic of Robert street has developed a fit of senile rage, in which it undertakes to rebuke The Herald for its hardihood in having an opinion on this subject, and in which it more or less coherently blusters through a column of editorial matter in scolding this newspaper therefor.

In the course of its remarks The Herald used the term "forestry fanatics" as applicable to those who would set aside the northern half of the state for forestry purposes, regardless of whether the land is good for agriculture or not, and to prove that this is what aroused the ire of the Pioneer-Press, and that the appellation fits that decrepit form, that paper proceeds to state that the profit from forestry would be greater than on wheat land yielding the Minnesota average.

What if it would, 150 years from now? Is this generation willing to stand aside and give up the lands it needs for its present support that those living a century and a half hence may gain from forestry as much profit as there is now on wheat land yielding thirteen bushels to the acre? This generation in St. Paul, apparently, is quite willing to do this, providing the lands thus closed to progress are tributary to Duluth and not to St. Paul. Duluth may be pardoned by sane people, if not by the Pioneer-Press, for having a different view of it, and for resenting the attempts of hostile outside interests to bar the progress of Northern Minnesota by condemning to the solitude of a vast forest reserve acres that should be the home of busy and productive thousands.

Northern Minnesota will lend a willing hand to all sensible forestry projects, but it cannot be scolded into complacent acceptance of plans designed to stop its progress, to turn its fertile acres back into wild forests, and to leave the field clear that the Twin Cities may profit without wholesome competition from the coming metropolis of the state—Duluth.

MODEST REVISIONISTS.

A Washington dispatch says that tariff revision Republicans are giving attention to the formation of the national party ticket in 1908, and that they want to have a hand in naming the man for second place. So they will, according to this dispatch, use all their influence to force the nomination for vice president of a straightout revisionist.

Well, that's rather cunning of them, to begin giving attention to the formation of a party ticket, but their modesty is overwhelming.

Why center their efforts on second place, when it is the first place that is really important?

Why bend all their energies toward securing the nomination of a candidate for vice president that is a "straightout revisionist," when his capacity for carrying out the revision program will be so small?

Why, in the name of common sense, don't they insist upon the nomination of a candidate for the first place that is a revisionist and isn't afraid to say so?

A president can do something for tariff revision. A vice president is a good deal of a figurehead, and can't accomplish much of anything, unless the president is removed by the hand of death and the vice president thereby promoted to his place and power.

Unless the tariff revision Republicans have changed their tune and had their enthusiasm adulterated by devotion to policy and cautious expediency, they will hardly be made contented by the declaration of the candidate for vice president that he favors tariff revision. The declaration of a vice presidential candidate, no matter how strong he makes it, will yield the people small relief from the oppressions of tariff schedules framed to enable the rich bandits of commerce to take toll from the unprotected people.

The tariff is pretty certain to be a large factor in the next presidential campaign. Indeed, there is little else to base a real campaign issue upon. The parties, theoretically at least, are pretty well agreed upon the need of holding swollen wealth in check and of protecting the people from the unholy toll of the trusts.

But if the revision element in the Republican party contents itself with having a vice presidential candidate that talks revision, accompanied by a meaningless plank in the platform and by a presidential candidate who either opposes revision or is silent upon the subject, the Democratic party, which will be pretty outspoken in this respect, is likely to find that it has suddenly gained a lot of friends it did not know it had.

DEALING IN "FUTURES."

Grain dealers of the Northwest will recognize the spirit that is prompting the Southern Cotton Exchange in its demand, in the interests of the cotton-growers, that dealing in cotton "futures" be prohibited on the ground that it is merely gambling and is hurtful to trade and prices.

The same demand often comes from the grain-growers of the Northwest, and it is based upon the same misunderstanding of the real effects of "future" trading. The impression of this sort of transaction held by the growers is based upon margin speculations, when men buy grain they do not want and never expect to get, merely in the expectation that it will increase in price, and that by putting up a few cents a bushel they will be able to close out at a profit. This, of course, is gambling pure and simple, just as much as a transaction where a man stakes his money upon the outcome of a horse race, in doing which he believes he is actuated by some sort of knowledge of the probabilities.

But this is the abuse, not the real thing. Actually, future trades tend to stability and certainty of the market, and benefit the producers far more than they know. What is called "hedging," where a man protects his actual trade by a deal in futures, is a guaranty against loss, and in the recent investigation of board of trade matters by the Minnesota legislature bankers testified that they could not lend money to dealers who did not thus protect themselves.

The grower is enabled by the existence of "futures" to dispose at any time of his prospective crop at a price fairly fixed by the laws of trade. Were it not for future dealings there would be a disastrous slump of prices at harvesting time, when the crops are pressing into the market, and a corresponding pressure of deplorably high prices when the markets are fairly clean of grain or cotton.

There are many commodities in which there is no possibility of future trading, and those who imagine that futures hurt the producers need only look at some of them to realize that it is actually a benefit. There is no board of trade or chamber of commerce for trading in apples, for instance, and no future dealings in them. Hence, when there is a bountiful crop, the market is glutted, thousands of barrels are allowed to rot upon the ground because there is no sale for them, and the producer loses all the benefit that should result from the bounty of nature.

The same conditions would exist in the grain and cotton markets if it were not for future trading, which maintains the equilibrium of the market, and is the balance wheel of the grain and cotton trade.

LINNAEUS.

Some pleasant afternoon during the summer months, beginning when June is in its glory, go out into the woods around Duluth, and search in the cooler depths for the twin flower. You will find it trailing over mossy logs, a modest, shy and dainty little blossom, drooping its twin bells of white and purple from a tiny stalk above its little round leaves. It sheds a fragrance more delicate and delightful than that of any other plant in this latitude, either wild or domestic.

This is the flower, of all the thousands of plants that he knew and loved, that the great botanist Linnaeus, the anniversary of whose birth will be celebrated tonight by the young people's society of Bethany Lutheran church, chose to bear his name. Hence botanists know it as Linnaea borealis, and they never seek its quiet retreat without thinking of this great and good man, whose devoted nature was such that it has always been held most fitting that this dainty plant should be his monument.

Linnaeus was a Swede, and it is the Swedes, to a large degree, that are celebrating the anniversary of his birth, which occurred May 13, 1707, but he was one of those great men that belong to no time and no country, but to all time and to the world. He was a naturalist from birth. At the age of 4 years he questioned his father about the weeds and flowers around the parental home, and though his teachers deemed him backward in his studies, it was because they did not understand his nature, which was devoted wholly and absolutely to a loving regard for and interest in plant life.

His work in botany was of vast importance, and though others have taken it up since his death, and have accomplished great things, none have been able to do so vast a work as did Linnaeus. It has been said of him that "he found botany a chaos and left it a cosmos." He first enunciated the true principles for defining genera and species, and by his force of character and his accomplishments he shifted the center of gravity during his life to the little Swedish town of Upsala, where he lived during his years of activity.

Those who live in this section can verify what John Muir, another naturalist, has said of him and of the flower named for him: "Wherever Linnaea dwells you will find enchanting woods and the dearest of the small plant people. No breath of malaria comes near Linnaea. The air and scenery are always good enough for gods or men, and a divine charm pervades it that no mortal can escape. In Linnaean woods I always feel willing to camp forever. Never was memory more blessedly embalmed than is the memory of immortal Linnaeus in this little flower. All around the cool woods of the world, while wild beauty endures, the devout pilgrims will see "'— beneath dim aisles in odorous beds,

The slight Linnaea hang its twin-born heads,
And bless the monument of the man of flowers,
Which breathes his sweet fame through the northern bowers.'"

HOTEL GOSSIP.

"My first feeling when I saw Niagara falls for the first time was one of disappointment," said C. R. Hawkins of Minneapolis at the McKay. "I think it is usually that way when we see some of the great wonders we hear so much about. On approaching the falls you see them from a slight elevation. When I saw the great body of water tumbling over the rocky ledge it seemed entirely too small to fit in with the descriptions I had read and heard concerning the sight, and I was distinctly disappointed. To begin with I thought my eyes had fallen on only a small part of the falls, but a little farther on I saw that this was not the case.

"It was fully ten or fifteen minutes before I began to realize the grandeur of the sight. Standing at the side of the rushing water, I began to comprehend that it really was a wonderful thing, and the longer I stood there the greater was my appreciation. After a while a feeling of awe and reverent admiration took possession of me, and I sat down upon a bench and scarcely moved for an hour. The next day I visited the spot again, and got even more pleasure out of the visit than I had the day before. If I lived near there I would be at the falls every day. The more I saw of them the more I wanted to see. It is a feeling that is slow in taking hold of many, I suppose, but it is bound to come to every one who has an appreciation in his soul at all for the grand and awe-inspiring."

"Most of the western towns are very strongly unionized, even more strongly so than the cities of the East," said G. O. Phelps of Seattle, Wash., at the Lenox. "Everybody that does any work of the common class is in a union, and all the skilled laborers are similarly situated. The men stick together even better than they do back here, and sympathetic strikes are more liable to occur than anywhere else in the country.

"The feeling of independence among the Western workmen was even more pronounced a few years ago than it is at the present time. Most of the men were adventurous spirits who had left their homes in the East to go in search of fortune and interesting experiences, and they did not seem to care whether they held any one job for any length of time or not. They were just as apt to tell the boss to go chase himself around the block as they were to say good morning to him, if he did not happen to be on the most friendly terms with them.

"You will scarcely find a Chinaman in Tacoma, and there are very few in Seattle. The Tacoma union-men made it so very hot for them that they found it to their advantage to move. I have heard it said that not a single Chinaman makes his home in Tacoma, and am willing to believe the statement true. I am sure I never saw one there, anyway. There are a good many Japs in the town. The white men do not seem to mind them so much. Their attention is confined chiefly to restaurants. Tacoma is full of Jap restaurants, and restaurants of various other kinds. It is one of the greatest towns for restaurants I ever saw."

"National expositions are getting to be an old story now, but whenever one is held it seems to attract pretty good crowds," said Charles Penn of Philadelphia at the Spalding. "The one at Jamestown will be no exception to the rule. It is not the exposition itself so much as the cheap rates that are in effect that attract the people. You folks up here, for example, will have an opportunity to see an interesting portion of the East and South at a smaller expense than you will again for many years to come, and this fact will appeal to a good many.

"The American people are great travelers. They like to get on a train and go somewhere. The Southeast is a place that isn't visited so extensively as some other parts of the country, except for Florida, which, of course, is always thronged with winter tourists. The Southeast is very interesting, particularly to people from the North, for there are many things there that are entirely new to people from the North. And then there are the various spots of historic interest to attract the attention of the visitor.

"I understand that the hotel accommodations at Jamestown were not so good at the opening as they might have been, and there were a good many kicks because of this fact. I guess it was the slowness of the South that caused this. The North, now, would have been in readiness for the rush, and would have taken care of the crowds in good shape. This evil is probably remedied by this time, however, and the later visitors will have no ground for objections on this point."

THE WEATHER.

It gets just a little nearer spring every day. This morning, when people were going to work, the air was soft and mild and had the smell of spring in it, but the wind that came down over the hills was still cool, rather cool for comfort, until the sun rose higher and tempered its coolness. The lowest temperature last night was 30 degs, and yesterday's highest was 42 degs. The weather man expects it to be a little colder tonight.

A year ago today it was clear, fine and warm.

The sun rose this morning at 4:39 and sets tonight at 7:28, making 14 hours and 49 minutes of sunshine.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "Low pressure areas central over Mexico, Lake Superior, Washington and off the Virginia coast caused light to heavy rains in Atlantic and Gulf states, the Ohio and Lower Mississippi valleys during Wednesday or last night and rain or snow fell over scattered portions of the Northwest. It is somewhat warmer over the Lower Missouri and Upper Mississippi valleys, but a high pressure area over Saskatchewan is causing colder weather throughout Western Canada, North Dakota, Western South Dakota and Eastern Montana with temperatures from 12 degs, to 20 degs above in Saskatchewan. Fair and chilly weather may be expected in this locality tonight and Friday."

Following were last night's lowest temperatures as recorded by the weather bureau:

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: Providence doesn't seem to work overtime lowering our rent for us.

One nice thing about real modesty is the way it doesn't feel called upon to blush when there is no occasion for it.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: Much so-called love is only lip deep.

After turning to rubber, Lot's wife turned to salt.

You may have noticed that foolish people are always happy.

Don't get into the habit of going around with your bristles up.

A lot of unnecessary sympathy is wasted on old bachelors and spinsters.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Minneota Mascot: Timberlake's nursling bill failed to pass. It should have become a law. It was so much in keeping with the general legislation of the session that it really deserved a place with the rest. The very idea of letting a person advising a mother not to nurse her infant child go unpunished!

Frazee Free Press: There is an aesthetic side to the good roads movement that is of no little importance. What is drearier, what more depressing than to drive along a country road deep with mud and furrowed by ruts, the water standing in pools in the road and where ditches ought to be.

Virginia Virginian: The practice of shooting ducks on the St. Louis river near Duluth continues, notwithstanding that it is against the laws of the state. The Duluth sportsmen ought to make an example of the guilty ones and give them a touch of law. Spring shooting is being abolished in all states as it should be. During the spring the game is not good and if allowed to go unmolested the fall shooting is far better.

Biwabik Times: J. Adam Bede and his friends are now ready for the Culkin hosts, and the latter had as well come out from under cover and let the fight begin. As between the two men we are decidedly in favor of Bede, and believe the range will support him in preference to the man who will be urged by Duluth.

Sleepy Eye Dispatch: It is not likely that the railroads of Minnesota will permanently discontinue homeseekers' and settlers' reduced rates. Increased prosperity for the roads depends upon the settlement and development of unsettled Minnesota.

Austin Register: The boy who is continually waiting for some one to appreciate him, will find himself among the uncalled for baggage when the train departs.

Crookston Journal: There is a saying that the big packing companies use every portion of the hog but the squeal. They have now the best of the modern saw mill which sells everything but the smoke from the engines. The saw dust, shavings, edgings, slabs, bark and everything else is disposed of at good prices and ere long the smoke will be sold at so much per sniff.

Minneota Mascot: The Clearwater Herald speaks in exclamation points about calling a certain soft drink "Roosevelt lemonade!" Bro. Sjoblom of the Minneapolis Telegram, suggests that this particular brand of "lemo" "may have a big stick in it." That ought to set the Clearwater man at ease.

Marshall News-Messenger: Taken as a whole, the official appointments by Governor Johnson will at least rank as high as those made by any other governor in the history of the state. And if there are any emphatically bad appointments, they have not as yet been charged up to the present administration. From a political standpoint his appointments have been less partisan than made under any previous administration.

Minneapolis Telegram: It will gradually dawn upon the average law maker that the people are becoming more and more inclined to scrutinize the work of the legislature and more and more particularly about real results.

SMILING LINES.

Washington Star: "I suppose you feel safer since the pure food laws have been passed."

"No. The only difference is that in order to enjoy my dinner I have to be careful to avoid reading the labels."

Washington Herald: "Sweet Molly O!" warbled the tenor.

"What was her last name?" wondered the soprano.

"Coddle," growled the basso.

Puck: Doctor (to his patient, who is ill with typhoid fever)—This is probably caused by some water you have drunk. When did you last take some?

Patient—About three years ago, I think.

Philadelphia Press: "You're not so strict with that youngster of yours as you used to be," said Popley's friend.

"No; for economy's sake I'm not," replied Popley. "Every month I used to have to buy myself a new pair of slippers and him a new pair of pants."

Detroit Free Press: "That young doctor hasn't been located in our town very long, but he's very friendly."

"Yes, he believes in reciprocity. He makes acquaintances in the hope that his acquaintances will make him."

Baltimore American: Stern Employer—Come here, boy. How many grandmothers have you got?

Surprised Office Boy—Two, sir, just like other folks.

S. E.—All right. Now, remember, I have you on record, and two are your limit for the season.

Philadelphia Ledger: "Are you getting acquainted in your new neighborhood?"

"Well, some. The postman and the iceman seem to be quite cordial, but I haven't met the ashman yet."

A Result of Big Families.

Springfield Republican: The workers in charity today have some knowledge of the physical and moral stamina and of the value to the state of large families reared nowadays under the stress of our unequal civilization. If there be one evil that they constantly encounter, it is that of a family of children going down to lower levels because of the inability of their parents to bring them up decently. The question whether a man and woman who can maintain two or three children in comfort and bring them up creditably should, by fulfilling the "laws of nature," go on to produce seven or eight or more, with the result of increasing poverty and ultimate pauperism, is not so easy to dispose of.

The Knock Courteous.

Louisville Courier-Journal: William T. Stead says the Americans have cars for nothing but the clink of the dollar. If they would only listen to the clinking of the dollar half of the time and to W. T. Stead the other half that great reformer might get the peevishness out of his system.

Boon to the State.

Minneapolis Tribune: The Duluth Evening Herald's industrial edition of ninety-two well compiled and handsomely printed pages certainly adds to the prestige of the Head of the Lakes and the publishers alike. It forms a complete compendium of the wealth and enterprise of the northern section of Minnesota and makes the stimulating influences of the steel trust appear like a great boon to the whole state.

Extremely Interesting.

Moorhead News: The Duluth Evening Herald put out an industrial edition on Thursday, consisting of ninety-two pages. It is an extremely interesting effort, covering a wide range of topics, and is a credit to The Herald and to the remarkable city it exploits.

Covers the Field.

Fairmont Sentinel: The Duluth Evening Herald has issued a special industrial edition that completely and thoroughly covers the field in the north half of the state. It is a complete industrial encyclopedia of the great mining, shipping and lumber region of the North Star state.

A Notable Achievement.

Warren Register: The industrial edition of the Duluth Herald issued last Thursday was a mammoth number containing ninety-two pages and was a notable achievement, both in appearance and in contents.

Was a Wonder.

Sauk Center Herald: The Duluth Evening Herald's special business edition of ninety-two pages of well selected and written reading matter with column after column of live advertising was a wonder, also a great feather in the cap of the management.

Duluth Forging Ahead.

Hawley Herald: The Duluth Evening Herald came out with a ninety-two page industrial edition last week Thursday, showing the wonderful growth of mining, smelting, shipping and other great industries of that city and vicinity in recent years. Duluth is forging ahead very fast in these lines and bids fair to become one of the greatest manufacturing and shipping centers of the world.

Will Attract Attention.

International Falls Budget: The Duluth Herald has thrown a shadow over its competitors in this state with a boom edition that will certainly attract attention wherever it happens to be picked up. Duluth and its papers love to flaunt the advantages of the Zenith City before the public, and the only criticism that can be made is that they convey the impression that the balance of the state is on the outskirts of Duluth.

A Monument.

Blackduck Enterprise: The Duluth Herald last week issued a mammoth edition of ninety-two pages, that is a monument for itself and the coming great city it represents.

A Live Newspaper.

Sunbeam Sunbeam: We received a copy of the "Industrial edition" of The Duluth Evening Herald last week and it certainly shows that Duluth is a live city and has a live newspaper to let people know it.

Certainly a Hummer.

Erie Eleven Towns: The industrial edition of The Duluth Evening Herald on Thursday, April 25, containing ninety-two pages, was certainly a hummer and a big advertisement for the city of Duluth and the northern part of Minnesota, and with such a first-class daily paper as The Herald Duluth cannot help but boom all the time.

A Work of Triumph.

Ada Herald: The Duluth Herald last Thursday issued a special industrial edition of ninety pages which surpassed anything ever attempted in this line by any paper in the Northwest. The Duluth Herald is one of the best dailies published in the Northwestern states and its special edition of last week was a work of triumph, not only for The Herald, but the people of Duluth as well.

Duluth to Be Congratulated.

Rochester Bulletin: A mammoth industrial edition of The Duluth Evening Herald was issued last Thursday of last week. It is a stroke of newspaper enterprise in keeping with the spirit and progress of that young and growing city at the Head of the Lakes. The citizens of Duluth are to be congratulated upon The Herald's enterprise and its wonderful showing of the industries, resources, developed and undeveloped, of the Zenith City.

Ranks With the Best.

Wadena Pioneer-Journal: The Duluth Evening Herald issued an industrial edition one day last week containing ninety-two pages of special and interesting matter regarding that section. Every day in the year The Herald ranks with the best evening publications in the Northwest, and occasionally, as in this matter, it out-trots them for a mile or so, just for exercise. An old friend of the writer has charge of the mechanical end of The Herald, and in Duluth at the late lamented Republican convention, he told us that he did not believe there was an office in the Northwest which had as good facilities as The Herald. We are convinced that the claims of our old friend are correct, for no ordinary equipped printing plant could handle so artistically and smoothly such a big edition as the one now under consideration.

ONE SUBMARINE DOES GOOD WORK

Octopus Makes Six Mile Runs Under Water—Lake Crippled.

Newport, R. I., May 9.—Yesterday's trials of the submarine torpedo boats Octopus and Lake, under the auspices of the naval trial board, in Narragansett bay, were for the purpose of determining the speed and managibility of the boats when submerged. Storage batteries were used as motive power.

The Octopus went over the measured mile course six times. The first three runs were to test her speed, and the average rate of these runs was 10.004 knots an hour. The other three runs, on which the time was not taken, were for the purpose of determining the time required to put the boat through various maneuvres, and the method of recovering the maneuvers. The submarine then took two porpoise dives in thirty feet of water, coming to the surface for five minutes' exposure for observation. The time under water for each dive was 40 seconds.

Later the Lake was taken out, but before the tests of this boat were fairly under way, it was found necessary to postpone them because of a leak in her starboard torpedo tube.

ARMED MEN GUARD BOAT.

Steamer With Laborers of Two Races Aboard, Continues Voyage.

San Diego, Cal., May 9.—With a guard of twenty armed men, the British steamer Maori King, sailed yesterday afternoon on her voyage to Guaymas, with 1,000 Chinese coolies and 200 Russians, whose rioting caused the vessel to put into this port.

When the vessel arrives at Guaymas the next chapter in the affair is likely to be an international one. From the Chinese consul general at San Francisco yesterday a telegram, indicating that this may be the outcome, was received by Lum King, secretary of the Chinese chamber of commerce here. The consul general says that Commissioner North has ordered an investigation. The consul general also asks particulars with a view to laying the matter before the Chinese minister at Washington.

GREAT NEW STEAMSHIP ON ITS MAIDEN VOYAGE.

Liverpool, May 9.—The new White Star liner Adriatic left yesterday for New York on its maiden voyage. The Adriatic was launched at Belfast last September. She has an over all length of 725 feet and a gross tonnage of 25,000 tons. She has accommodations for about 3,000 passengers, besides quarters for a crew of about 350 men. The builders claim that the boat is unsivalled in its class. The cost was $3,750,000.

COMPROMISE PUTS AN END TO BUILDERS' STRIKE

Contractors Settle Differences With All But Two Unions.

Builders' Laborers Are Given Half Increase Asked for.

Building operations, which have been almost completely paralyzed for more than a week on account of the building strike, will be in full swing again tomorrow. The strike has been practically settled, and before 12 o'clock tonight all of the vexed questions will have been agreed upon by the representatives of the unions and the contractors.

Some of the men, the carpenters, building laborers and a few others will probably go back to work again this afternoon, and in all probability all those who have been out during the past week will resume work tomorrow morning. The demands of the builders' laborers and the sheet metal workers have been compromised, while those of the carpenters will be granted in full.

All yesterday afternoon the delegates from the unions and from the contractors, chosen to make an attempt to settle the controversy, were in session, and one by one the differences between the labor interests and the master builders were brought to a settlement.

The unions had chosen Edward Lowe of the Carpenters' union, Arthur Moore of the sheet metal workers, William Harbour of the builders' laborers, W. N. Jodan of the roofers, and J. F. Noonan of the electricians, to represent them at the conference. The contractors were represented by a like number, as follows: George Lounsberry of the general contractors, Frank Carlson of the master masons, John P. Holihan of the roofers, M. J. Marin of the sheet metal workers, and H. C. Ayres of the master electricians. H. A. Hall acted as secretary.

These men deliberated on the strike situation for several hours, and every phase of the trouble was considered fully. Bishop McGolrick, who has done much during the week to bring the two factions to an understanding, presided at the meeting.

As a result of the conference, the demands of the carpenters will be granted in full by the contractors, which means that they will receive a wage increase to 45 cents from June 3. The builders' laborers, around whose demands the great struggle has centered, will receive only half the increase which they demanded. They asked for a raise from 30 to 35 cents and the agreement reached will make their pay 32½ cents, the scale to go into effect immediately. The sheet metal workers' demands were also compromised, and they will receive 47½ cents an hour, while they had asked for an increase from 45 to 50 cents.

The two unions, with which no settlement has yet been agreed upon, are the electricians and the roofers, but there is hardly a doubt but what this will be done today. The satisfactory progress which was made last night has made both sides very optimistic. The electricians are asking for a raise from $3.25 to $4.00 and they may put up a hard fight unless this is granted. They are well represented in the conference by the grand vice president of the international electricians' union, J. P. Noonan. The roofers are asking for a raise of 5 cents an hour from 42½ cents, but a compromise will probably be agreed upon this afternoon.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon, the same committees were to meet at the rooms of the Builders' Exchange and the rest of the differences will be adjusted. The strike was begun May 1, and although yesterday was the seventh day of the conflict, there has been no violence whatever. No strikebreakers have been employed by the contractors. The report of the delegates for the union concerning the settlement must first be ratified by the board of governors of the structural alliance, while the builders' exchange will pass upon the report of its committee.

Secretary Cobb of the builders' exchange said this morning that there was hardly any doubt but what the members of the exchange would ratify the actions of its committee, and a representative of the unions said that his committee would undoubtedly be backed up by the board of governors.

The settlement of the strike without resorting to arbitration has all along been the wish of the unions, and the labor leaders feel that they have won a victory, although they agreed to compromise in a number of cases.

TWO KILLED IN FIRE TRAP

Art Instructor and Piano Teacher, Kansas City Victims.

Exiled Russian Countess With Romantic Record Injured.

Kansas City, Mo., May 9.—Fire yesterday afternoon destroyed the five story Pepper building at Locust and Ninth street, causing the loss of two lives and the injuring of fifteen people and a property loss estimated at $250,000. The building was occupied by Montgomery Ward & Co., and by numerous artists and musicians.

The dead are George Demar, aged 32, an art instructor, and Miss Aurora Wittebort, a piano teacher.

The injured include: Miss Alexandria Blumberg, a Russian countess, skull fractured, may die; Maud Speyer, fell from ladder; Mrs. Eva S. Boyle, Sheridan, Mo., fell from ladder; M. J. Kranichfield, fireman, leg broken; William Van Duzen, fireman, serious; Peter Karagaard, violin teacher, fell from fire escape; eight others.

It is believed that all of the injured will recover. The most seriously hurt is Countess Alexandra Anderevna Blumberg, the Russian artist, whose skull was fractured in a fall from a ladder, but Dr. Eugine Metzger, her physician, with whom she made her home, in her studio on the third floor of the burned building, expressed the belief that the countess would recover.

Countess Blumberg is the daughter of a Russian nobleman, Count Andrev Blumberg, once a member of the private council of the czar, who fell under the displeasure of the crown and was exiled after his immense estates had been confiscated. His daughter went to Paris soon after the death of her parents and studied art for several years, being a pupil of Bouguereau, Courtois and James McNeil Whistler. She has traveled in many countries and speaks fluently several languages. Her father was the victim of a friend who had charge of his affairs, but who absconded after spending his fortune in Nihilist schemes, thus compromising Blumberg so seriously that he was accused rujustly of aiding the Nihilists, and lost his estates. The countess is a painter of exquisite portraits. She has been in this country a little more than a year, coming from Paris with Dr. Metzger. A great many of her relics, jewels and valuable miniatures, were destroyed in the fire.

George Demare, who lost his life by jumping from his studio on the fifth floor, came of a family noted in the art world. His maternal grandfather was G. P. A. Healey, one of the greatest of American painters, who had painted portraits of Clay, Lincoln and other notables. His father, who was a noted painter in Paris, died in that city a few years ago. The professor himself was born in this country, but was educated and lived in Paris until a few years ago. He held various responsible positions in leading art institutions of the country, especially in Chicago. His mother and two sisters live in Denver, another sister is in Paris and two aunts, Mrs. Hill and Mrs. Besley, live in Chicago.

Miss Aurora Wittebort had a studio on the fifth floor. She is believed to have been suffocated in her room. She was the daughter of Leopold Wittebort, a glass blower of Coffeyville.

The building was erected by the Pepper estate of Philadelphia for the Y. M. C. A. and the cornerstone was laid by President Grover Cleveland during his first administration. The building was of brick, five stories high, and extended 100 feet north on Locust street and half a block west on Ninth street. Because of its unsafe condition it was abandoned by the Y. M. C. A. ten years ago. Since then the first and second floors had been occupied by Montgomery Ward & Co., who employed 500 clerks, mostly girls. It contained two small auditoriums, one of which, that on the third floor, was used by the Kansas City Atheneum which was holding a session when the fire started, half a hundred prominent women being in attendance. The third, fourth and fifth floors were occupied by artists and musicians and some of the upper rooms were used as living apartments. There was but one elevator in the building, adjoining a stairway, the only means of exit.

The fire started at a few minutes before 3 o'clock in the basement, in a quantity of twine in the Montgomery Ward storeroom, close to the elevator. Ten minutes after the fire broke out the flames began shooting up the elevator shaft, and all escape save by the fire escape was shut off.

Carl Busch, a noted composer and violinist, and his wife, who is a pianist well known in Europe, escaped after excited experiences. Both lost all their musical possessions, which included two Stradivarius violins and several manuscripts of operas. Mr. Busch helped to rescue several girls.

"THE FREE LANCE."

John Philip Sousa's new military comic opera, "The Free Lance," with Joseph Cawthorn as the star of the same big organization of singers and comedians which originally presented the opera at the New Amsterdam theater, New York, last season, and with the same lavish production which Klaw & Erlanger gave it at that time, will return to the Lyceum May 13.

"The Free Lance" is heralded as a genuine comic opera and a truly magnificent and colorful production written in the march king's vigorous and melodious style with book and lyrics by Harry B. Smith of "Robin Hood" fame, telling a consistent story in a bright, sparkling manner, and constantly brimming over with brisk, humorous dialogue, laughable situations, and genuine mirthful quips and jests. There are three rousing marches, one entitled "On to Victory," which, given with the added martial effect of a stage band in addition to the big orchestra which the company carries, creates a genuine furore. But the score is by no means all of the stirring type of musical effects. There are many dainty numbers, some charming ballads, and many capital comic ditties. The opera is brilliantly orchestrated and the striking choruses are rendered by a numerous and well trained chorus full of sonorous voices.

"OLE OLSON" COMING.

COREY NOT TO RESIGN

But Must Attend More Closely to His Business Duties.

New York, May 9.—While it was denied at the offices of the steel trust that William Ellis Corey will have to give up his $100,000-a-year presidency as the result of the talk attending his marriage to Miss Mabelle Gilman, it became known that Mr. Corey's associates have given him to understand that he must attend more closely to business.

Since the actress arrived, President Corey has spent only two or three hours at the offices of the steel trust. Men who have called to see him personally have been gravely informed by confidential secretaries that "Mr. Corey is attending an important committee meeting." Meantime he could be seen by anyone on an automobile ride with Miss Gilman, or going out with her on a shopping tour.

This is all changed now. Mr. Corey was really at his office yesterday, it was said, and he was expected to be there every day this week.

Chairman Elbert H. Gary said Tuesday evening that Mr. Corey was too valuable a man in the steel business to be dispensed with, and that his private affairs would not be allowed to interfere with his keeping his position.

CONCERNING WOMEN.

Solomon who knew quite a few things, thought that the way of a man with a maid was one of the things in life about which there was great mystery. Maybe! But the thing that passeth that in wonder is the way of a man with a clock. Of course, Solomon had no way of knowing that, but if he lived today how he would marvel in his exclusive ponderings on the way a modern man will tinker with a clock. The clock has stopped to rest. Without speaking about it before hand or mentioning its intentions, or getting somebody to do its work while it is gone, or anything of that sort, it just quits. No loud words, no inefficient going, no threatenings or other disagreeable encounter, but when you look at the clock at 10:30 it turns out to be 12:45. That is one disagreeable thing about clocks. When they stop it is always later than they say it is. It never by an chance happens to be earlier. It is quite annoying, as many a young woman has discovered, when the clock on the parlor mantle says it is only a quarter after ten and she really knows that the clock stopped some time last week and that it really is about 11:30, and the evening caller insists upon regulating his call according to the clock on the shelf. It sounds crude to say "That clock is wrong." And then waiting for him to say, "Well, I guess I got to go now," and so she wearily sits it out until some time along in the very early morning he awakes to the fact that the clock isn't going and has not been for some time. Away with parlor clocks!

The clock has stopped.

Woman regards it as rather a calamity. Not so with man. The magic words "the clock has stopped" upsets all other preconceived plans for the day. If it is a small clock, he tenderly takes it in his hands and first shakes it in a rather rotary way and holds it to his ear. After several years of experience on would think that he would discontinue that preliminary, but he never does. The clock is still not going. He removes its insides carefully and lays them gingerly down, all the screws in one place and all the spiral wires alongside, and all the little wheels further off, and discovers the trouble. Then he lays the face of the clock down and remembers an engagement down town. The wife of his bosom carefully scrapes everything belonging to the clock in a box and lays it all carefully away and the episode is closed.

But if the clock happens to be on an office wall, then it is fun for the beholder. The first man wanders by, "Why the clock has stopped going," he says and takes out his own watch. His tone is much as Columbus' must have been when he said, "Why, there's America," to the first mate. He gets a chair and stands upon it and winds the clock, and gently tries to persuade the pendulum to resume its work. The pendulum is always willing for ten swings and the man closes the door and replaces the chair and goes on about his business with an air of having really accomplished something.

The clock resumes its resting. Another man happens by. "The clock has stopped," he says as he pulls out his watch and get a chair and winds the clock and gently persuades the pendulum. It is really wonderful the amount of winding that stopped clock will stand. He closes the door and watches with fascinated eyes the work he has accomplished and when he turns his back the pendulum wearily sinks into rest. The office boy wanders in. "The clock's stopped," he says longingly and because he hasn't a position of enough authority to meddle with the clock, he contents himself with just waiting around a while. Soon another man enters and glances at the clock. "Why," he says with marked and momenteus cadences in his voice, "the clock has stopped." He looks injured and personally grieved over the remissness of the clock, and gets a chair and wonders if the pendulum has dropped down a peg or two. Wishing, however, to do his share toward helping things along, he winds the clock and starts the pendulum going, closes the door and watches operations for a moment or two and then goes off.

The clock, however, that has made up its mind to rest, does rest until that time when the energy of the universe or the intermittent assistance from every passing man stirring its works, starts it energetically going again.

TO HOLD BANQUET

In Celebration of Founding of Local Church.

At the meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of the Unitarian church held yesterday afternoon plans for the banquet to be held May 17 were discussed. The banquet has been planned in celebration of the twentieth anniversary of the founding of the local church. Following the banquet a program of toasts will be given with F. H. Barnard, presiding as toastmaster. Letters will be read from former members and pastors of the church, among whom are Rev. Carruthers of Cambridge, a prominent Unitarian clergyman, who filled the local pulpit temporarily some years ago. A letter of greeting from Rev. Southworth, pastor of the church for a number of years, will also be read. Mr. Southworth is now president of Meadsville Theological seminary of Pennsylvania. The list of local speakers has not yet been completed. The members of the church and of the Women's Auxiliary are planning for a most delightful evening.

Pupils' Recital.

An interesting piano recital was given last evening by a number of pupils from the classes of the Flaaten Conservatory of Music, in the auditorium of the schoool, and a large number of friends of the pupils were present for the well-arranged program. Violin and piano numbers and vocal solos and readings were given, and the work and progress of the pupils was observed with much interest. The violin solos by Miss Helen Jenswold, who played "Norwegian Air," by G. F. Lange, and the number played by John Moody, an arrangement of the Verdi opera, "It Trovatore," were especially well received. Those who took part were: Misses Mabel Selpel, Ida Popkin, Alma Gross, Eva Dauplaise, Enid Bacon, Helen Jenswold, Erna Oesterreich, Margaret McGuire, Fay Hobbs and Ora Daniels, and Masters Ferdinand Collatz, Archie Nelson, Roy F. Flaaten and John Moody and Charles Taplin.

What Retail Markets Offer.

Hot house tomatoes, 25 cents a lb.
Just tomatoes, 18 cents a lb.
Cucumbers, 20 cents each.
Rhubarb, 10 cents a lb.
Celery, 10 cents a bunch.
Pork tenderloin, 28 cents a lb.
Jellied tongue, 30 cents a lb.
Pot roast, 12½ cents a lb.
Grape fruit, 15 cents each.

Any body who is endeavoring to keep down a household account for the benefit of a new spring hat, is up against a difficult proposition. Prunes and pot roast sound about as cheap as anything that one can imagine, and yet, feeding a growing family on prunes and that other thing wouldn't be so awfully cheap. They would eat more. Cucumbers and tomatoes and such like delicacies are still at a price from which most people refrain, but there looms ahead like the promise of the Fourth of July or Dec. 25, a time when garden truck is of such a lowness of price that almost anybody can have a plate of salad whenever the spirit moves them.

Jellied tongue and boiled ham ready waiting to be sliced, also hold out some suggestions of a picnic season to come. Otherwise the market is rather uninteresting.

BEGINNING ALL OVER AGAIN

By Nellie Cravey Gillmore.

(Copyright, 1907, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

Kitty came back to herself with a little shiver. The sky that an hour ago had glowed crimson, with all the dazzling gold lights of an Indian summer afternoon in Florida, reflected only the palest violet shadows, deepening gradually to a dull drab. As she looked, the gray merged swiftly into black, and one by one the stars blinked out, shedding a ghastly light over the rippless surface of the bay.

How long she had been drifting, Kitty could never have told, but when she reached for her oars one was missing, and strain her eyes as she would, only the shining, speckless water laughed back in the starlight.

A sudden panic seized her. What should she do? Three full miles at least from the place she had started, with only the barren shore of Santa Rosa behind her—even supposing she could be lucky enough to reach that!

There was no landing anywhere in sight, and fifteen feet from the beach she ran aground in the soft white sand. Mooring her skiff to the solitary post that stood relic of half a decade ago, she removed her shoes, and lifting her skirts from contact with the water, plunged in.

The moon broke suddenly round and clear and full, hanging suspended from the sky like a globe of liquid gold. Kitty sat down weakly on a heaped-up bank of sand and looked out to sea. Her lips were trembling helplessly now, and the color was quite gone from her face.

Would they come or send for her? It was very likely not. She had left word at home not to expect her before morning, as she had intended staying the night at a friend's house. Somehow the thought of spending alone this, of all nights—the one that was to have been her wedding eve—was intolerable.

And now! She should not only spend it alone, but in utter terror and desolation. For hours she lay there with wide-open eyes, her heart throbbing almost to suffocation, a thousand emotions making tumult in her weary brain.

But by-and-by the salient breath of sea wind stole insidiously into her nostrils, the moon sank gracefully behind a bank of clouds; her eyes closed—her lips parted slightly and she slept.

"Billy,"

"Lord!" he exclaimed. "I've trudged the length, breadth, and, I was about to say, thickness of this island, since midnight!"

Kitty had lifted herself on one elbow and now sat upright, staring stupidly into the sun-bronzed face above her. It was broad day, and the yellow sunlight, falling on her tangled hair, discovered a whole nest of opals in it.

"How did you know?" she asked wonderingly, brushing her hand across her eyes as though to clear away a mist.

Rochester laughed heartily, but more as an outlet to the pent-up strain of the past few hours than from any special feeling of amusement.

"Did—did anyone send you?" She looked at him with a dawning challenge in her eyes.

Rochester dropped down on the sand beside her before he answered.

"Not anybody—except myself," he said, as matter-of-fact as possible; "the fact is, I happened to see you leave the wharf, and—several hours later—learned, first by accident, that your boat was still out. The storm signals were up, and I was afraid—well, you know," he blundered on awkwardly, "I couldn't just sit by and see you—shipwrecked, could I? I couldn't let anyone be that, do you think?" he added, half in apology, half in explanation. Had he told the truth, he might have said: "I am watching every move you make; I haunt the places you frequent; you are never out of my thoughts or my sight a minute longer than I can help." But prudence forbade.

For some time after he had spoken, Kitty sat silent, staring with wide, somewhat angry eyes at the tiny white caps in the distance.

"You are very humane," she remarked shortly, after a bit.

Rochester frowned, digging his tanned fingers clumsily in the sand. "I hope I am," he returned, without looking up. The quarrel had been very bitter; neither could forget that—bitter as only a quarrel can be between two people who love each other foolishly and absolutely.

"You might just as well have stayed at home and let me alone," snapped Kitty, reddening.

"I'm sorry I didn't—now," was the curt response.

Kitty tossed her yellow curls expressively, and said nothing. After that, an awkward period of constraint ensued between them. Rochester was the first to make a move.

"It being the case," he remarked politely, getting to his feet, "that I might just as well have stayed away, presumably, the only thing left to do is to go back?"

Kitty stared, paled despite the rein she had put upon herself.

"Y-yes," she said, fingering her tie-end without looking up.

"If there is anything I can—"

"Nothing whatever!" she jerked out, turning her back.

Rochester moved away a few paces. "I really think," he ventured, somewhat timidly, "that the sun over here is going to be uncomfortably warm after a while."

Kitty laughed—but with almost too much enthusiasm for it to be genuine. "I don't mind that," she returned, with her head in the air. "In fact, I—I like it!" She gave her minutest attention to the rearrangement of a refractory lock, as Rochester walked off in the direction of the beach.

Several minutes passed in dead silence. When she trusted herself to look up again, he was coming toward her rapidly. "There's an awful storm brewing," he said, gravely; "we'd better try to hunt up a place of refuge at once."

Kitty rose quickly, and together they plowed through the heavy white sand in what seemed a hopeless quest for shelter. But finally they came in sight of a dilapidated old structure—the property of quondam campers—and were soon established under its rickety but friendly roof.

They had not reached it a minute too soon, for the storm broke suddenly, with all the fury of an ocean hurricane, and for an hour neither spoke, but sat motionless—waiting for the violence of it to abate.

"I hope this delay is not going to cause you too much inconvenience," observed Kitty, the first to speak.

"It will probably interfere with an important engagement," answered Rochester, with a little inward smile.

Kitty turned inquiring eyes upon him.

She felt her heart start painfully. Marie Kensington! Surely that was the name of the girl with whom gossip had tried to connect his—Billy's—name since—since—well, since she no longer had a right to think of him!

"Was it so very important?" she asked in a colorless tone that tried vainly to be casual.

"All engagements are more or less, are they not?" He gave her a pointed glance. But Kitty did not see it. Her eyes were down now, to hide the pain and shadow that she could no longer conceal, and her cheeks were whiter than he had ever seen them.

For half an hour they sat in silence. It was now past 3 o'clock. The storm had at last worn itself out, and desultory patches of blue showed through the hurrying clouds.

Rochester rose and walked out into the open. "I guess we can start now," he observed, taking a sweeping inventory of the outlook.

Kitty rose quickly and made ready for the walk. The air outside was crisp and stimulating after the rainfall, and they walked half a mile without fatigue. But presently Kitty began to feel her feet grow heavy, and a pitiful little droop showed itself about the corners of her mouth. But she held her head stubbornly averted, resolved that Billy should not detect her weakness.

Another fifteen minutes, and the skiff loomed gratefully into view. Kitty took her seat demurely, and Rochester sprang into the one opposite.

An hour passed.

Again the stars blinked out, one by one, and the moon rose round and clear and golden. The mellow dip of the oars was the only sound that broke the stillness. After awhile, Rochester spoke.

"Kitty," he began, abruptly, "don't you think we've had enough of—of this sort of thing? God knows, I have. Is it worth while? Couldn't we both acknowledge ourselves just a bit in the wrong, and—and begin all over again?" His voice trembled strongly under its veneer of calmness.

Kitty did not reply at once. Her gaze was fixed, distantly, on the gleaming blue sheet of water, across which the lights were beginning to flicker dimly.

"Do you remember what day this is—what day it was to have been, dear?" He bent toward her till his warm breath brought the crimson into her cheeks.

Kitty glanced up and met his eyes. Her own bore a look he could not altogether fathom.

"Of what were you thinking then?" he asked, almost sharply, a shadow deepening suddenly in his eyes.

Kitty gave a soft little laugh that mingled musically with the delicious rush of water against the sides of the skiff. "I was giving thanks," she said in a low voice, "for you, Billy."

WOULD REPLACE THE WOLVERINE

With a Modern Little Gunboat on the Great Lakes.

Washington, May 9.—Our old friend, the sloop-of-war, Wolverine, formerly known as the Michigan, will disappear from the Great Lakes in case one phase of the negotiations which Secretary Root is carrying on with Canada bears fruit. There is in the United States treasury the sum of $250,000 to be used to build a trim little gunboat for the lakes to replace the Wolverine, but the money has never been expended because to do so might be translated as a breach of the Rush-Bagot treaty limiting the war equipment of Britain and the United States on the unsalted seas.

To be sure the Wolverine has been a violation of that treaty ever since she has been there, but she has been overlooked for so long that her right to remain there has come to be conceded. But to do away with her and to place there a modern vessel of war, even though a rather modest one, is regarded by this government as something which this country, as a good neighbor, ought not to undertake without the full and free consent of the Canadians.

Hence the quarter of a million designed for a gunboat remains unexpended, and will so remain until Mr. Root gets through with his present campaign for the settlement of all the matters in dispute between the United States and Canada. If, in the consummation of those negotiations, it shall come to pass that the Canadians have no objection to a little Yankee cruiser on fresh water, the gunboat will be built, and as soon as she is in commission it is the intention of the government to send the Wolverine down to the Atlantic to serve out the remainder of her career as a training ship.

FIRES AND DROUTH PLAY HAVOC WITH CUBAN STOCK.

Havana, May 9.—Reports from all parts of the island show an increase in the devastation by forest fires, a result of the long continued drouth. Cattle are dying by the thousand, the local rains in various sections being insufficient to afford relief. Cattlemen say the mortality of the animals will be vastly augumented after the rains begin, owing to the cattle gorging on rank fresh herbage.

MINNESOTA

AN AWFUL TRAGEDY

Man Murders Young Friend and Then Shoots Himself.

Refusal to Go Fishing Brought on the Terrible Deed.

Arlington, Minn., May 9.—At New Auburn, a small inland town six miles north of here, on Tuesday, Harry Dresser, 33 years old, shot and instantly killed Arch Riemer, 12 years old, and then placed the barrel of his revolver in his own mouth and fired, dying from the effects of the shot in thirty minutes.

The two had been intimate friends, and Dresser wanted young Riemer to accompany him on a fishing trip. The boy declined, saying he had to attend school, whereupon Dresser began to shoot. It is thought Dresser was demented.

WINONA MAN LOSES $2,600.

Aged Farmer Buncoed Out of His Wealth by Two Sharpers.

Winona, Minn., May 9.—One of the most clever swindles ever worked in this section was pulled off Tuesday afternoon and as a result Charles Ruppert, aged 64, a wealthy retired Wisconsin farmer, who resides at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Peter Barth in this city, was buncoed out of $2,640.

The two confidence men who secured Mr. Ruppert's money have left the city and the authorities are doing everything in their power to locate them.

The old three-card game was worked on Mr. Ruppert, after he had been taken to a point near the Johnson farm in West Burns valley, and so confident was Mr. Ruppert that he could tell which card of three (which one of the strangers had), was the ace, that he came to Winona and secured $2,640 from a bank and returned to the spot where the man with the cards was waiting, made the bet, and won and then received a tin box in which he supposed the money had ben placed, but found to his great surprise that it contained nothing but some scraps of paper and part of a common brick.

TIME OF EXPIRATION

Of Insurance Policy Will Enter Into Decision on Loss by Hailstorm.

Crookston, Minn., May 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Will Curry is the plaintiff in a peculiar insurance suit, peculiar in the fact that a question of three hours as to the time of a hailstorm may determine whether Mr. Curry can recover $200 due him or not.

Last year Mr. Curry suffered a loss by hail in a storm that took place about 3 o'clock in the afternoon of Sept. 15. He carried a five-year policy covering the land in question, in the Minnesota Mutual Hail Insurance company, and the policy reads that the crop year shall be from May 15 at noon to Sept 15. It does not specify at what time of the day on Sept. 15 the crop year shall expire, and therefore Mr. Currie contends that the entire day is covered.

The only reference made to noon is on the year ending the five year policy, which expires on Sept. 15 at noon. It the words "at noon" had been inserted in describing the crop year, there is no question but what Mr. Currie would be out of his crop and out of luck as well, as he could not recover, but as the words are not there, there is a question. The words are being inserted in all the contracts being made this year by the same company.

BIG LUMBER DEAL.

Leech Lumber Company Purchases 50,000,000 Feet From C. F. Ruggles.

Bemidji, Minn., May 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—A deal was closed Wednesday whereby the Leech Lumber company, owners of the new sawmill at Walker become the owner of much valuable pine timber in Beltrami county which has been held for many years by C. F. Ruggles, the Michigan millionaire lumberman, who has vast timber interests in Northern Minnesota.

The pine purchased is in town 145, ranges 32, 33, 34, and town 147, ranges 32, 33,34, and is so situated that it is considered as being among the most desirable logging pine to be found in the north half of the state. It is estimated that there is fully 50,000,000 feet in the whole amount bought, and a large portion thereof lies east of Lake Bemidji, less than three miles from the center of this city.

WILLMAR WANTS NEW INEBRIATE FARM.

St. Paul, May 9.—Through Senator L. O. Thorpe, Willmar has made a request to the state board of control for location of the new state "anti-booze" farm, authorized by the recent legislature. The law on the subject creates a supporting 2 per cent tax on liquor licenses throughout the state. Members of the board of control estimate this will bring in a fund of $70,000 to $80,000 a year.

MRS. W. A. GOULD OF BEMIDJI DIES AT HOT SPRINGS, ARK.

Bemidji, Minn., May 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—A telegram was received in this city yesterday, announcing that Mrs. W. A. Gould, wife of the superintendent of logging for the Crookston Lumber company, had died at Hot Springs, Arkansas, at 10 o'clock Wednesday forenoon. Mrs. Gould has been ill for several years, being almost an invalid, and this winter her condition has been growing steadily worse. The trip to Hot Springs was taken as a benefit, but was of no avail.

Mrs. Gould, whose maiden name was Elsie Grinols, was born at Oak Grove, Minn., forty years ago. She moved with her parents to Fairhaven, Minn., (near St. Cloud) when but a few years old and grew to womanhood at that place. Mrs. Gould was a graduate of the St. Cloud Normal school, and was considered a teacher of more than average ability. Sixteen years ago, Mrs. Gould was married to W. A. Gould. Two daughters (Jessamine and Etta) were born to them, both of whom are living and reside with the family in this city.

George Schiller, the well known shoe man, will erect a one-story, high front brick and stone building on the site of his present store. The building will be 25 by 80 feet and will have an imposing and beautiful front when completed. Mr. Schiller will also erect three or four cottages on East Third street, near Rinehart's hospital. CHILDREN TAUGHT TO ROLL OUT FIRE.

Menominee, Wis., May 9.—Since little Agatha Wagner, aged 9 years, was burned to death here, about ten days ago, teachers in the primary grades are drilling the children to quench fire about their clothing by lying down and rolling over on the ground. The Wagner girl was playing around burning grass on the lawn, when her dress caught fire, and before she reached home, half a block away, she was fatally burned. With the training now being given the children, they can quench a similar fire in an instant.

Congressman Hopes to Break the Deadlock by His Action.

Hatten Gains Until He is Now Well to the Front.

Madison, Wis., May 9.—The withdrawal of Mr. Lenroot Tuesday night as a senatorial candidate was followed last night by the withdrawal of Congressman H. A. Cooper. HENRY A. COOPER.

The developments at last night's caucus was the gain of Hatten, who increased his vote over the noonday joint session from 16 to 22. With the votes of two members who were absent, the Hatten vote would have been a close second to Stephenson.

The result of the fifty-eighth caucus ballot was: Esch 22, Hatten 22, Stephenson 27, Sanborn 5, Hudnall 7, McGregor 7, scattering 12.

Of the Lenroot strength, which distributed itself around, Stephenson received the votes of six.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., May 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Martin Holberg, a farmer, who recently settled in the town of Cleveland, was in the city yesterday to consult an attorney on the question of an estate to which he had apparently fallen heir. He received a letter a few days ago from Germany stating that an uncle had died and that he had been mentioned in the will as heir of $125,000. Mr. Holberg is quite skeptical. PENINSULA BRIEFS

Negaunee—Steven Jobe, Jr., who was born and raised in Negaunee and was well known and popular here, died suddenly Saturday morning at his home on East Clark street.

Calumet—Two weddings were celebrated at the Sacred Heart church Tuesday morning. The contracting parties were Peter Pinten of Houghton and Miss Ida Edwards of the Red Jacket shaft location, and John Jones of Milwaukee and Miss Mary Greumowald of Cheboygan, this state.

Houghton—Special elections were held yesterday in Houghton and South Range Monday. The first was on the question of bonding for $50,000 to construct a sewer system in West Houghton, the other proposed a $25,000 issue for a similar purpose. Neither election was attended by any great excitement, and the vote brought out was small. Both questions carried.

Ishpeming—Patrick Harrington was found dead in his bed Monday morning, pneumonia being the cause of his demise. Mr. Harrington was taken ill last Wednesday. He felt unusually well Sunday, and he retired feeling better than at any time during the previous four days.

Red Jacket—So favorable an impression did Rev. Fisher make upon the members of the Red Jacket Congregational church Sunday when he spoke by invitation, that he has been asked to take the pastorate of the church to succeed Rev. Harry Appleton, recently resigned.

Escanaba—A runaway accident resulted in the injury of Rev. Leonard Peters of the German Lutheran church and delayed a funeral for two hours, while an effort was being made to find another minister to conduct the service. Rev. Peters was severely injured.

Negaunee—The lid is on at Schaffer, town in Delta county. The saloons must now remain closed on Sundays, window screens must now be abolished, and the law in respect to selling liquor to minors must be strictly observed. The cause of this sudden and unexpected upheaval is to be found in a purity league recently organized.

St. Ignace—Lttigation is in prospect between the city of Manistique and a voting machine company. The automatic system was tried at the April election, and it appears to have given much satisfaction, yet the common council has now by majority vote decided not to take the machines. However the contract appears to be an iron-clad document.

Vulcan—A corps of surveyors of the Milwaukee road is at work east of Iron Mountains under the direction of Assistant Chief Engineer Drummond. As usual the work is being conducted with secrecy, but it is generally believed it means an extension in the near future from Quinnesec to Norway and Vulcan.

DAKOTAS

CONDITIONS NOT SO BAD

Agricultural Reports From North Dakota Greatly Exaggerated.

Wheat Seeding Well Advanced Except in Northeastern Part.

Fargo, N. D., May 9.—Agricultural conditions in North Dakota have been largely exaggerated. Reports have been sent out that the state was under a sheet of ice and seeding so greatly delayed that the farmers might as well go out of business.

As a matter of fact the temperature has been lower than usual and seeding has been delayed in that manner and for lack of farm help, but the work is far advanced. The southern counties have completed seeding and the central half of the state will be through this week. Work is well advanced in the western and northwestern counties, and the only place that is handicapped is the extreme northeastern part of the state.

The Red river valley is in better shape than for five years. The northern half is no worse and the three southern counties, Richland, Cass and Traill, are in fine condition. Wheat seeding can continue as late as May 20, and oats, barley and flax ten days or more later. The decrease in wheat acreage because of the late season will be light.

Fargo, N. D., May 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The mystery surrounding the disappearance of William Lovelace of Fort Ransom has been solved by the finding of his body in a ravine within half a mile of his place of business. He disappeared some two months ago, and in spite of a most diligent search no trace could be found of him. Whether he met a violent death, committed suicide or became ill and perished for want of assistance is yet a mystery.

The leg that is missing, or rather the one that is dwarfed, is the right fore leg. A diminutive leg, about eight inches in length and with a perfect hoof, dangles from the shoulder joint, the leg being turned in towards the animal's body.

The unfortunate man was engaged in sawing logs with a companion, in close proximity to two fellow employes who were engaged in grubbing out a tree located along the route of a proposed road. Practically no warning was given Moaringh and his associate and they were unable to get away in time owing to the brush and two feet of snow that covered the ground.

The ceremony was conducted by Past Exalted Ruler William S. McCormick. Rev. J. W. Robinson, pastor of the Grace Methodist church, and Rev. Roderick J. Mooney rendered short and impressive addresses, and a fine tribute was paid to the decedent's worth as a man and a citizen. The ceremony included special music by Mr. Applelagen.

The floral tributes were numerous and very beautiful.

The remains were taken to the vault at Forest Hill cemetery.

RAMSAY LAUGHS AT THE COPPER STORY.

New York, May 9.—A London cable to the Times says: "All a hoax," said Sir William Ramsay, when asked today for particulars of his alleged discovery of a great synthetical process of making copper. "Yes, a silly hoax," Sir William went on to say, "but the joke is on me.

"The only possible way I can account for the origin of the hoax about a synthetical process of copper-making is that somebody gave a tremendous twist to something I said in a lecture two days ago before the Chemical society, in which I discussed the effect of radium emenations on copper. The whole lecture was dry and unintelligible to the lay mind, and I never at any stage reached a point where I even said it was possible to manufacture copper synthetically.

"How the news of the great discovery came to be privately communicated to Johns Hopkins university nonplusses me, but I have a faint suspicion of the American newspaper man."

RYAN IS AMBITIOUS.

Open Secret That He Aspires to the Presidency.

Richmond, Va., May 9.—For several days dispatches from this city have been filled with announcements that Thomas F. Ryan was about to enter the field for election to the United States senate. He has kept his residence in Nelson county, this state, the place of his birth. He comes here to vote and has taken a deep interest in the affairs of his party. He was active in the last Democratic national convention at St. Louis, and proved himself one of the most influential of the delegates. But he has limited his activities to national politics, and so has never taken part in the purely state work of his party.

It is an open secret that nothing below the presidency will ever satisfy him. Whatever he may have thought about politics or whatever interest he may have in it, he has never been accused of looking for small things or of indulging in aspirations below the highest. As a result, there are many signs that the busy presidential bee has been buzzing not far from his bonnet.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

BURNS WINS FOOT RACE

"Philadelphia Jack" O'Brien Loses to the Canadian Fighter.

O'Brien Races Around Ring for Entire Twenty Rounds.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 9.—Tommy Burns of Los Angeles, defeated "Philadelphia Jack" O'Brien before the Pacific Athletic club here last night, after twenty rounds of fighting, that was for the most part a foot race. O'Brien ran away from Burns from the first round to the finish and only occasionally was the latter able to overtake him. Then O'Brien invariably clinched until the referee pried them apart. The crowd hooted and jeered O'Brien as he raced about the ring. Few blows of vigor were landed by either man. Both of O'Brien's eyes were damaged and his lips were cut, but Burns had scarcely a scratch. Burns showed his disgust with the tactics of his opponent and called to him repeatedly in a loud voice to "come on and fight."

Now and then Burns would overtake him and beat him on the back. O'Brien attempting wildly to duck away, until Burns, weary of the foot race, would stand in the center of the ring with his hands to his sides and wait for O'Brien to come to a halt. O'Brien landed many light blows at long range on Burns' head and face during his capers, but they were without effect. Clinches were frequent. The referee had the greatest difficulty in prying O'Brien loose from Burns. The referee cautioned O'Brien repeatedly about his holding and finally told him that he must stop it.

Burns had all the better of the infighting and laced his opponent terrifically about the face with short lefts. O'Brien's holding of Burns' glove prevented him using it in the clinches. In the second round the men wrestled in the center of the ring and both fell flat to the floor. In the ninth round, Burns, weary of O'Brien's constant retreating, rushed after him and cornered him twice in different angles of the arena, and inflicted severe punishment. The latter made no effort to fight.

Each round was largely a repitition of the preceding one. Burns had the better of most of them whenever he was able to corner his man and get at him. The twelfth round was strongly in Burns' favor. During this round Burns landed on O'Brien's left eye with a terrific overhand right, the blood streaming down O'Brien's face. The latter called to his seconds something about his injury and showed his head. Again in the fifteenth round Burns caught his man going away and laid open the same eye again, which had been patched up with court plaster. O'Brien occasionally attempted holding Burns' head under his arm and trying to use his elbow.

Probably 2,000 persons were in the pavilion. It has a seating capacity of 5,800. The betting was all in O'Brien's favor. It started at 10 to 8 and, at the hour of commencement, was down to 10 to 6½. But few large bets were made. Burns bet $2,000 in his favor. Burns weighed in at 175 pounds and O'Brien was eight pounds lighter.

Before beginning the fight, Referee Eyton declared all bets off under instructions from Manager A. C. McCarey of the Pacific Athletic club. Eyton said he was unable to give the reasons for this action.

DECISION OF RACE BOARD

Number of Reinstatements by the Board of Review.

New York, May 9.—The board of review of the National Trotting association, which has been in session here since Tuesday, adjourned yesterday after announcing several decisions.

W. E. Patchen of Burnside, Pa., and the bay gelding Carl Brown, 2:12¾, which bore an alias of Lyne Patchen, were both expelled. They drove out of class and under a false name at Elmira, N. Y., in 1905, it is charged. F. C. Barlow of Kenton, Ohio, was suspended for controlling and driving horses upon the track at Montgomery while under penalty. The application for full reinstatement of Charles Castle and I. E. Savacool, both of Titusville, Pa., and Frank Henratty of Pleasantville, Pa., who were expelled two years ago, were granted. They acted as timers at a race in Titsuville, Pa., in 1904, in which it was claimed time was suppressed.

The board reinstated temporarily, until its next meeting, James Fogarty of St. Thomas, Ont., and George H. Smith of Steubenville, Ohio, the latter having been under expulsion since 1898. Permanent reinstatement was granted to W. S. Steele of Rossville, Md., who was expelled for abusive talk to the secretary, at the meeting in Richmond, Va., last year.

Sanford W. Walker of Rochester was also permanently reinstated. The board also decided to change the record of 2:24 of the mare Fleety J., made at Buchanan, Va., on Sept. 21, 1905, to 2:24¼, and fined L. B. Murphy of Columbus, Ohio, $50 for driving at the Lexington, Ky., club grounds under suspension.

WHITE SOX WORK OUT.

KELLEY TEAM IS STRONG

To Play Exhibition Game With White Sox Tomorrow.

Ernie Larson Will Pitch for the Hardware Nine.

Tomorrow afternoon, Duluth fans will have their first opportunity of seeing the White Sox in actual play, when they will meet the Kelley Hardware team on the diamond at Athletic park. The game tomorrow is the first of a series of five exhibition games, Lethbridge and Medicine Hat following the Kelley team for two games each. Since the Sox arrived home Monday, they haven't been able to do much work. Smith was counting on taking his men out every morning and afternoon this week, but a few hours each afternoon was the best he could do. The mornings have been too cold and the afternoons are by no means comfortable either.

The resurfacing of the diamond prevents any fast fielding practice thus far. The boys, during the hours they spent at the park, have been throwing the ball around and batting, however, so that they keep their arms in shape at least. There are fourteen men working out at present and from the showing they are making, it is expected a good team can be placed in the field for the opening game.

The Kelley boys are counting on giving the Sox a good argument tomorrow. Manager Ziegler has not been slow in signing men and he has gathered into the fold about as good a crowd of ballplayers as can be collected from the amateur ranks in Duluth. The boys have all played ball on Duluth's corner lots for years and they are by no means slow. Ernie Larson will be in the box for the Kelley team and the Sox will find good practice for their eyes in efforts to locate his hoots as they come across the plate. He made a fine record with the Universal Millers last year and is counted upon to be the mainstay of the Kelley nine in the box this year.

Tommy Robinson, the stocky little backstop from West Duluth, will handle Larson's curves. Tommy knows the game and can play it behind the bat, so in the battery department, the Kelley outfit is by no means weak. In the other positions, Ziegler also has tried men they expect to make a showing, both in the field and at bat.

The Sox will appear tomorrow in their new uniforms, which are similar to those they have been wearing for several years past, blue, with white socks and a white letter "D" on the left side of the shirt. The Kelley team will appear on the field resplendent in a uniform, which will make the other teams at the Head of the Lakes turn all the colors of the rainbow in envy. As in selecting the team, Manager Ziegler has gone the limit in choosing uniforms and the men who hold a place on the team will be well equipped. The uniforms are a Yale gray, the shirts with a monogram of the letters "K. H. Co." in blue and red letters. The trousers have seems piped in blue and the cap is Yale gray, with a blue visor and a letter "K" in blue on the front.

Two of the Sox pitchers will probably be used tomorrow and all of the other men given a try-out. The Kelley team will line up as follows: Catcher, Robinson; pitcher, Larson; first base, Menelee; second base, Doetz or Irwin; third base, Salvoy; shortstop, Olson; left field, Fenton; center field, Schaefer; right field, Beckman. The game will be called at 2:30.

Arrangements were made yesterday for a game between the Kelley Hardware team and the Hibbing team at Hibbing on Sunday, May 19.

MYSTERIOUS.

No Explanation for Calling Off Bets on Fight.

Los Angeles, May 9.—After the Burns-O'Brien fight last night, no explanation could be secured for the calling off of bets on the fight. The fight was advertised to be for a $30,000 purse but this was disputed in some quarters. It is rumored that there was a wrangle over the size of the purse which did not come up to expectations, and the dispute arising from this resulted in the bets being declared off.

A CORNER IN SPORTS

The fight at Los Angeles last night clarifies the pugilistic situation somewhat as predicted, but it failed to prove that anybody besides James J. Jeffries has a right to claim the heavyweight championship of the world. Tommy Burns won from O'Brien, but he didn't have to prove that he is a fighter to do it, and fight fans were counting on O'Brien forcing Burns to show himself in his true light. Instead of doing this, however, O'Brien made Burns prove that the practice he acquired in running when he was playing lacrosse on his own native heath was not lost, for Burns was forced to maintain a good gait around the ring to keep up with the valiant Philadelphian.

No more the pugilistic world will be forced to listen to the boasts and pomposity of Jawn O'Brien and his exaggerated ego. It will be back to the peaceful scenes of the Quaker City and the seclusion of the real estate office for Joseph F. Hagen. The American fight promoters cannot stand for any more luscious species of the genus limonum such as that served to them by Jawn last night, and he must drop from the pugilistic game, whether he will or no.

In the meantime, the fight last night establishes the fact that Tommy Burns has the best right to a fight with Bill Squires. If the match comes off Decoration day, fight fans will probably then discover what they had hoped to learn last night, whether or not Tommy Burns was a real fighter. He has had easy sailing thus far, but if Bosher Bill is any kind of a scrapper, he should be able to bring out the Canadian. Then for Jim Jeffries, for he will have to fight the winner of the Decoration day bout or retire permanently from all connection with the fight game.

SPORTING BREVITIES

Tomorrow evening, at the Metropolitan opera house, W. H. Beaulieu and Ernest Thibeideau, two local middleweights, will wrestle. They will weight in at about 155 pounds. Both men know something of the wrestling game and they should put up a good match.

Scores in the Interscholastic league yesterday were as follows: Longfellow 11, Lester Park 9; Washington 9, Madison 1; St. Thomas 7, Endion 6; Lincoln 12, Jefferson 10. The Longfellow team is at the top of the heap, with six games won and no defeats.

GIANTS ARE IN HOUGHTON

Kid Taylor and His Team to Meet Medicine Hat.

Canadians Are From the East and Should be Strong.

Houghton, Mich., May 9.—(Special to The Evening Herald.)—The Houghton Giants arrived home yesterday from their training trip and are in excellent shape for the opening of the season here on Sunday afternoon, when the Medicine Hat team of the new Western Canada league will visit the Copper country and cross bats with the Giants at Ripley park. Taylor's bunch of Giants look like a strong team, from the list of men he has and the work they have been doing, but they will have to go some more to beat the Canadians, who come from the East and many of whom are old leaguers, having played in the fastest teams through Eastern Canada and New York state. The Medicine Hats were recruited at Montreal and look formidable to Copper country fans, who hope, however, to see the Giants put up a good article against them.

The Giants played three games this week at Green Bay with Ira Hastings' team of the Wisconsin state league, and it must be said that what they did to the Green Bay team was nothing to their credit, or that of the Green Bays, either. Houghton, however, was playing in a crippled condition, Bittings, the find of the team and the best hitter in the bunch, being out of the game with a case of grip, Taylor being laid up, G. Neubrauer of the pitching staff and Gilmour, the new shortstop, on whom the team has been depending so much, also being kept in their hotel. The first game resulted in a victory for the Bays by the score of 8 to 0, and the second was theirs by 2 to 1. Both were played Monday.

Saturday, however, the Houghton team trimmed the Wisconsin leaguers, 8 to 6, Kaiser allowing only one hit in six innings and G. Neubrauer giving only one in the remainder of the game. The fielding was rather ragged, though, allowing the Wisconsin men their half dozen runs. Ryan, behind the bat, is said to be a good man and a lot of attention is paid to Soloraa of the old Lake Linden team, at first. Sundheim arrived this week from Chicago to take his old place at third and he is doing well. The outfield is not worked up yet.

The fast Oneida Indian team of Green Bay, Wis., is expected in the Copper country this week or next to meet the Houghton Giants, the Calumet Aristocrats, Hurontown semi-professionals and the Lake Linden semi-pro's. The Oneidas are a fast aggregation, according to all the advance coloring. The fans are eagerly awaiting their arrival. They may not reach the Copper country in time to play the Giants, who go to Duluth early next week for games at Hibbing.

The Indians, however, will be taken care of by the other teams of the county. Hurontown, with Bill Mutter on first, Cy Wedge behind the bat, Bill Brand at second, Nick Kaiser at short and "Doc" Roche of the old Calumet champions of 1903 in line, will show something pretty formidable. Pete Wagner, the giant who started out last year with the Houghton team of the "Grasshopper" league, is on the pitching staff, as is Bill Smith, who also opened last year with the Giants. Wagner is rather wild at times, but he held Duluth down in two games at Ripley park last year, after other pitchers had given out. Afterwards he played with Hibbing.

The line-up of the Aristocrats and their plans for early work is rather dark, beyond the list of men given out last week and published in The Herald at the time. They will be on hand, however, with all the goods to defend their right to the pennant.

FIGHT CARD IS SUGGESTED

Caponi vs. McCune and Kerry Kid vs. Wille or Barry.

The sporting editor of The Herald has received the following letter from "Judge" Hayes, who is handling the Kerry Kid's affairs, and is endeavoring to arrange a match with John Wille or Dave Barry to be pulled off in the vicinity of Duluth. He writes:

"While looking through your paper today, I saw enough challenges to keep the fight fans looking for fights for a long time. But don't you think the fans would rather see one good go? Look at the challenges hurled back and forth, and let me know if a man would be satisfied to pay his money to see a lot of those fellows fight. Here is Kid Martin who wants to fight Joe Clements, Walter Griffin wants Mike O'Keefe. Tom McCune wants Tony Caponi, which is all right and would be worth seeing. Vernon Austin wants Tom McCune, Jack Redmond wants Jimmy Kelly, Curley Ulrich wants Otto Sieloff.

"Let us have a couple of good ones, such as McCune and Caponi and the Kerry Kid and either John Willie or Dave Barry. The Kerry Kid would put up a good battle with either Willie or Barry, and the lovers of a good match would see a fight worth witnessing and get a run for their money."

Joe Clements and Walter Griffin are the latest possibilities for a match. Clements had recently agreed to go on with Kid Martin, but Griffin came to the fore with a $50 forfeit for a match with any of the lightweights at the Head of the Lakes, and Clements took him up. The colored boy was after Young O'Keefe but now that Clements has stopped in and bid for the match, he will probably take the Superior man on. Griffin recently fought O'Keefe at Ashland and lost, but he claimed he was fouled by O'Keefe and wanted another match.

Tom McCune, who was matched to fight Tony Caponi of Chicago next Tuesday night, has been forced to postpone the match on account of illness in his family. He left yesterday for Detroit, Mich.

MUDDY TRACK FOR BIG RACE

Roseben Still the Favorite for Metropolitan Handicap Today.

New York, May 9.—Showery weather threatens, in a measure, to spoil the opening of racing at Belmont Park, where the rich Metropolitan handicap is to be decided today. Rain fell early today, and the overcast sky indicates that the weather man was right when he forecasted a showery day. However, a goodly-sized crowd will journey to the track in any event, even though disappointment will be felt at the fact that the race will probably have to be run in the mud, thus spoiling the chances to break the mile record which, it was expected, was likely to occur because of the many high-class horses in the Metropolitan, and the splendid condition.

Roseben, no matter what the conditions of the track may be, is almost certain to be the favorite. The big horse is in grand shape, has worked well, and his owner has made no secret of the fact that he expects to win. Sewell, Tanya, Tokalon, winner of last year's Brooklyn handicap; Superman, Dandelion, Glorifier and other fast horses are, however, carded to go, and shrewd horsemen say it will not be the one-horse race that Rosseben's owners seem to expect.

The Metropolitan is one of the rich turf prizes of the year, its gross value being in the neighborhood of $18,000.

Seasoning a Ball Player.

"It takes practically two years for the average ball player to become a fixture in major league company," remarks Bill Coughlin of the Detroits. "There is, of course, the usual exception, the brilliant star, who makes good from the start, but it's mighty rare.

"The colt comes into the league. He looks fast in practice, he bats well and has a grand throwing arm. In fact, he often shows up the regulars in all the practice. He can bat, field and run bases better, perhaps.

"But, when the season opens and the race starts to tighten, it's different. He isn't the star he was picked out to be. He gets on the bases and doesn't know what to do. It's only a fraction of a second, probably, but he is lost. He fields all right, but he gets the ball and, for a fraction of a second, doesn't know where to throw it. He's lost as soon as he hesitates, for, while he stops to think, the base runner in streaking homeward.

"If he sticks through the first year, he gets over that fairly well, but the whole second year is spent in seasoning him more.

"It takes two years on the firing line to temper the average ball player before he is fit for major league company."

Lucky for Curly—Which?

Duluth papers keep up talk of victories of Curley Ulrich over the bush champions of the northern part of the state.

There is much genuine regret locally that the governor saw fit to stop boxing in Minneapolis before Curley Supples got a chance at the Head of the Lakes Curley kid. Supples was to have weighed in at 132 pounds and the trimming he would have given this Duluth combatant would have caused more enjoyment than we have had since the hired girl set fire to the Christmas tree.

There is a feeling in Minneapolis that his excellency, Governor John A. Johnson, saved Ulrich from about the worst beating on record since they cleaned the rug in the mayor's reception hall. And there were quite a few folks willing to dispose of a couple of bucks, each, to see the performance.—"Dutch Uncle," in Minneapolis Journal.

IRON MARKET VERY STRONG

American Supply Expected to Fall Short of Demand.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 9.—The Iron Trade Review says: "Sharp advances on quotations of pig iron announced last week have been followed by much activity in nearly all buying centers. Although actual transactions in the Central West have probably not been so numerous as in the preceding week, there was heavy inquiry and the failure of buying was often due to inability of consumers to obtain the desired iron even at recent high quotations. In the East the market is decidedly stronger than it was a week ago. The buying of basic being a prominent feature.

Throughout the country it is becoming more clearly apparent that American products for the last half of the year will fall considerably short of the demand, and many consumers are looking to foreign iron for relief. The only available stock of any size in the world is in England, and that is being reduced rapidly. Prices of Middlesboro iron have passed 60 shillings and further advances are expected. The prices of foreign iron at tidewater is $22.50 and $23 for small lots and $21 for large tonnages. For delivery at Cleveland the price has advanced from $25.50 last week to $26. Our monthly statistics of pig iron production show an output of 2,191,335 tons for April, an increase of about 5,000 tons over March."

THREE ARRESTS FOR TRAIN CRIME

Montana Officers Still Searching Hills for Bandits.

Butte Mont., May 9.—With three suspects and a witness in the custody of the sheriff, the posse on the trial of the masked men who held up the North Coast limited at Welch's spur Monday and murdered Engineer Clow and wounded Fireman Sullivan are still in the hills. More than fifty men are patrolling the ridge east of Butte, where the dogs lost the trail. Robert McDonald, who was arrested at Woodville denies any connection with the Clow murder. He is a marine engineer and worked recently in Seattle. William Rowers, also arrested in Woodville, and William Crawford, who says he met the robbers on top of the express car just before they opened fire, are still in custody.

While searching the hills to the east yesterday the posse came upon two men, who jumped in the bushes and ran down the track until they came upon a light engine slowly running into Butte. The men leaped aboard, and despite the signals of the posse the engine forged ahead. The police are now trying to locate the occupants of the locomotive.

"BOSS" COX GIVES HIS OHIO VIEWS

Taft for President, Foraker for Senator and Harmony.

Cincinnati, May 9.—Party harmony, victory in the municipal elections, next fall and next year, W. H. Taft for president, J. B. Foraker for United States senator, and A. L. Harris for governor, is the program advised by George B. Cox, former Republican leader in Hamilton county, in an interview. Reports from Columbus and Washington had named him as engaged in negotiations looking toward a compromise between the Taft and Foraker forces but he entered sweeping denial to such suggestions.

"What about your personal differences with Secretary Taft?" was asked.

"I know of no personal differences. There may have been some political differences, but they are things of the past."

When the attention of Senator Foraker was called to the statement he said: "If I understand Mr. Cox correctly he makes a specific recommendation addressed to the Republicans of Ohio, as to what their action shall be in the convention next year. I am not sure it calls for any response from me, but inasmuch as you seem to think it does, I will repeat that I don't want any political honors at the hands of the Republicans of Ohio, except with their hearty endorsement. Therefore, if what Mr. Cox suggests and recommends should meet with their approval, no one will support Secretary Taft more cordially than I shall."

Jobbing Interests Intend to Prosecute Alleged Fake Bankrupts.

F. A. Patrick & Company Take Lead in Shapiro Case.

The wholesale interests of Duluth and of the Northwest are making a determined effort to put an effectual stop to the alleged practice of merchants to "successfully fail" when business is dull. It is claimed that the legal action against David Shapiro of Cloquet, who was arrested in Duluth recently at the instance of F. A. Patrick & Co., on a warrant charging him with obtaining money under false pretenses, come under this class. The local wholesale concern mentioned is one of three creditors of Shapiro.

The Shapiro case, by reason of the wide publication that it is receiving in the daily and the trade papers, is attracting a great deal of attention among the jobbing and retailing circles, and the outcome will be watched with interest.

The Shapiro Case.

David Shapiro, it is alleged by representatives of F. A. Patrick & Co., formerly resided in the East, coming to Cloquet about a year ago. He purchased a gentlemen's furnishing and dry goods business in that town from a Duluth owner, and proceeded to open accounts with local jobbing houses.

It is alleged that, by last winter, he had three principal Duluth creditors—F. A. Patrick & Co., to whom he was indebted in the sum of $1,000, one other concern which had sold him goods and loaned him money to the amount of $800, and the former owner of the Cloquet business establishment, whom Shapiro is said to have owed a balance on the purchase price, and for money loaned, the total being approximately $1,650.

The F. A. Patrick & Co.'s account is said to have been reduced by a payment to $809, when the concern sent a credit man to take inventory of Shapiro's stock. The results showed, it is alleged, that Shapiro had, last winter, a stock of about $6,000, while his seeming liability was only $4,000.

F. A. Patrick & Co. claim that the payments became so few and far between that a proposition was made to Shapiro that Mr. Cross of the wholesale company mentioned, be made trustee for the creditors, and that the business be assigned to him. Shapiro, it is alleged, demurred, but when another of the Duluth creditors threatened to foreclose on a chattel mortgage which he held, and then make an assignment to the trustee, Shapiro is claimed to have weakened and pleaded that he would be left without any money to support his family or to get back East.

The creditors are said to have relented and, finally, in the consideration of $300 cash, Shapiro is said to have agreed to assign his business and lease to the trustee for the creditors, the $300 to be paid pro rata by the creditors.

A representative of F. A. Patrick & Co. accompanied Shapiro to Cloquet with the money which was to be paid over if everything was found as represented. Shapiro is alleged to have represented that all his winter stock and the new goods, of which he had been buying a large amount, were stored in packing cases in the rear of the store, and that the stock would inventory $9,000. The wholesale company's representative made a cursory examination of the stock the same night he and Shapiro reached Cloquet and thought that things seemed all right. He paid the $300 to Shapiro who is claimed to have taken the early train for Duluth the next morning.

Cases Filled With Rubbish.

The same morning, it is alleged, that the Duluth representative in charge of the store started more thorough investigation to assure himself that everything was all right, when he found that the cases supposed to contain thousands of dollars' worth of goods contained nothing but rubbish. He immediately communicated with F. A. Patrick & Co., and the concern attempted to stop payment, but were a few minutes too late. Shapiro was located here in Duluth, but before the necessary steps were taken to secure his arrest he left the city, being caught and placed under arrest at Minneapolis on a warrant sworn out here charging him with obtaining money under false pretenses.

When Shapiro was brought back here it was found that he could not be legally held on a warrant issued in this county, so another warrant charging the same offense was sworn out in Carlton county and he was rearrested when the first case was dismissed in the local municipal court. Shapiro was taken back to Cloquet and was held for his preliminary hearing, under $500 bail, which was furnished by his attorney, Porter J. Neff.

Hunting Up the Goods.

Since Shapiro's arrest F. A. Patrick & Co. and the other creditors have been active in the matter of regaining the goods. They found, it is alleged, that Shapiro had been shipping goods away from Cloquet previous to his arrest. The services of detectives were procured and with the assistance of the officers and others, about $2,500 worth of goods were recovered in Minneapolis. It is claimed that there are several hundreds of dollars' worth of goods not yet recovered and which Shapiro and his attorney say the creditors will never be able to find. The creditors, however, intend to leave no stone unturned in the matter and it is declared that from now on, the wholesale and jobbing interests of this part of the country will prosecute to the bitter end the first attempt on the part of the customers to defraud them through fake bankruptcy deals or alleged fraudulent deals similar to some said to have been practiced in the past.

President Raps Preachers of Violence and Bad Capitalists.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 9.—John D. Pringle, editor of the Labor World of Pittsburg, received last night a letter from President Roosevelt in acknowledgment of an editorial recently published in connection with the Moyer-Haywood controversy. The president says in part:

"In my letter I wished to drive a wedge between the honest, law-abiding man—with whom I feel such a hearty sympathy—and those worst foes of the movement who preach anarchy and lawless violence, just as I wish to see a wedge driven between the capitalist who is an oppressor or swindler, and the capitalist who strives to do right by all his fellows.

"Above all I want to express my absolute agreement with your final paragraph, running as follows: "The Labor World has not a word to utter regarding the guilt or innocence of Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone in their present terrible position. We hope they are innocent and will be proved to be so, but what we want to point is that their innocence will not, in our estimation, exonerate them from the charge of preaching an industrial and social policy that is damning to the best interests of the wage workers of the country.'"

CONSTIPATION

THE OWL CAR QUESTION

Doubtful If Council Can Require Installation Under Franchise.

Northern Power Co. May Make Them Paying Proposition.

The proposition brought up by Alderman F of West Duluth in the council meeting Monday evening regarding the council's powers in enforcing the street car company to put owl cars on its lines where needed, after 12 o'clock at night, has aroused quite a lively discussion about town.

The city attorney has made no extended investigation as yet and does not care to make public his opinion on the subject before submitting the report asked for, to the council.

There is no provision in the Duluth franchise of the company under which it is thought the council could force the issue upon the company, but there is a stipulation in the franchise granted the traction company by the village of West Duluth which might be so construed. It reads:

"The cars to be used on said railway shall be drawn at a speed not exceeding eight miles per hour, except at such places as the village council may from time to time permit, and shall be run as often, and at such hours as public convenience shall require."

The more ardent supporters of the owl car movement feel assured that a court would judge them to be required by public convenience, and, while this might hold in the western end of the city, it would be of but small benefit in other portions of the city.

Those who have been working for the all night service, however, are hoping that a request from the council will be sufficient. Up to this time it has been necessary for the street car company to keep their whole electric plant in operation all night whenever it has been necessary to run cars for special reasons during the hours between the discontinuance of service after midnight and its resumption in the morning. They have claimed that any small patronage which they might receive on the owl cars would not pay this.

With power coming from the Great Northern Power company, however, it is thought that the expense of running will not be so great as to make the owl cars impracticable as a paying proposition, and it is hoped that the street car company will see fit to put them on even if they cannot be forced to do so.

THE WHEAT IS UP AGAIN

The Market Very Strong on Unfavorable Weather Predictions.

Flax Has a Good Bulge in the Duluth Market.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 9.—The bulls had a short reign in the American markets for today, wheat bulged almost everywhere and the closing prices were considerably over yesterday's. Predictions of killing frosts and freezing temperatures all over the Northwest and continued bullish news from the winter wheat belt put prices up. The Duluth market demand was good all day. Liverpool closed ½d to ⅝d higher. There were no market sessions in Berlin and Budapest today.

The Argentine shipments of wheat are estimated for this week at 3,200,000 bus.

Car receipts at Duluth were 124 against 12 last year, and at Minneapolis 273 against 75 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 397 against 87 last year. Chicago received 29 against 3 last year.

The May option closed 1⅞c higher in Duluth, 1⅝c in Chicago and New York, 1c in Minneapolis, 1¾c in St. Louis and ⅞c in Winnipeg. Comparisons are impossible on the Kansas City close, but the market there was up. The July option closed 1⅝c higher in Duluth, 1¼c in Chicago, 1⅝-⅞c in Minneapolis, 1⅜-⅝c in St. Louis and 1c in Winnipeg and 1¾c in New York.

July corn closed ⅝c higher in Chicago and was ⅝d higher in Liverpool. July oats closed ⅛-¼c higher in Chicago.

Wheat trading was light in the Duluth market, with prices firm. May wheat went over 90c for the first time. May opened ⅝c higher at 89¾c, advanced to 90¾c, went off to 89¾c, rallied to 90¾c and closed at that price, a gain of 1⅞c over yesterday. July wheat opened ⅜c higher at 89¼c, advanced to 90⅝c by 11:30, went off to 90⅜c by 11:55, rallied to 90⅝c by 12:42 and closed at that price, a gain of 1¾c over yesterday. September wheat opened 1c higher at 89⅝c and closed at 90¼c, a gain of 2c over yesterday.

Durum wheat closed ¼c higher and cash spring wheat was selling on a basis of ⅝c over May for No. 1 northern.

Flax was quiet and prices up. May flax opened ¼c lower at $1.22 and advanced by the close to $1.23½, a gain of 1¾c over yesterday. July flax opened ½c lower at $1.24, advanced to $1.25¼ and closed at that price, a gain of ⅝c over yesterday. October flax opened ¼c higher at $1.21¾, went off to $1.21¼ and rallied by the close to $1.25, a gain of ⅝c over yesterday.

The coarse grains were unchanged.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Opens Active and Strong on Cold Weather in Northwest.

Chicago, May 9.—The wheat market today opened active and streng on an urgent demand by commission houses. The bullish factors were cold weather in the Northwest and slightly firmer prices at Liverpool in the face of yesterday's decline on the local exchange. July wheat opened ¼c to ½c higher at 88c to 88¼c and sold at 88⅝@88¾c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 426 cars against 432 cars last week and 168 cars one year ago.

The market gained in strength all day, July sold up to 89¾c. Numerous damage reports were received, it being claimed that the army worm is adding to the devastation said to be created by the green bug. The close was strong with July 1½c higher at 89c.

Continued small local receipts and the strength of wheat combined to make a firm opening in the corn pit. Commission houses were the best buyers. July corn opened unchanged to ⅛c higher at 49⅝c to 49¾c and sold at 49⅞c. Local receipts were 262 cars with 23 of contract grade.

A good demand from commission houses and cash interests held prices firm until the close. The high point for July was 56c and the close with July up ⅝c at the high mark.

Cold weather in the Northwest which is expected to delay seeding operations made a firm oats market. Trading was quiet. July oats opened unchanged to a shade higher at 43c to 43⅛@43¼c and sold at 43¼@43⅜c. Local receipts were 221 cars.

The provisions market was strong on a good general demand and light offerings. July pork opened 15c nigher at $16.40. Lard was up 5c at $9.02½. Ribs were 2½c higher at $8.92½.

Close: Wheat, May, 88¾c; July, 89c. Corn, May, 49⅝c; July, 50c. Oats, May, 43¼@43¼c. Pork, May, $16.35; July, $16.60. Lard, May, $9.02½; July, $9.15@9.17½. Ribs, May $8.95; July, $9.07½. Broomhall — Liverpool on wheat: Steady at opening with values showing declines of ¼d to ⅜d. The weakness in America yesterday, together with more favorable reports regarding the American weather, and the bearish world's visible supply, statement, prompted larger offerings which resulted in some selling by small holders. Later the market advanced, prices gaining ⅛ to ¼ with shorts the principal buyers. This strength was due to rumors of private American crop reports which were very bullish. The undertone at mid-day was firm.

Corn—Corn was steady at the start with values unchanged, gaining ⅛ during the morning in sympathy with wheat and on the strength of American cables yesterday. The market on the whole was neglected.

San Francisco wire to Pringle, Fitch & Rankin: "There is a very bullish flour situation here on the coast. Have sold to two different men who have interest in the Orient trade. Two cargoes have been salpped this week to China. These gentlemen tell me that every stock of flour on the Pacific coast is contracted for, with orders running ahead of supply."

Logan & Bryan, Chicago, to Paine, Webber & Co.: There was no chance to buy any July wheat at 85 cents or under this morning as many in the local trade expected. There was a large business in this later in the day around 86c. The foreign news for the day was very bullish. The foreign news was not improved. The army worm appears to have joined the green bug in trying to annihilate the winter wheat in the Southwest. Certain Indiana counties reporting half crop prospects. Conditions at home and abroad are as serious as they have been for weeks and expect to watch for natural reactions. There is nothing to do but buy wheat for the 90's.

Corn—The cold weather is still delaying corn planting and making it look like a late season generally. Local receipts continue light. Cash houses were buyers of futures. There is enough shipping demand to prevent accumulation of stocks. The market should now move up materially.

Oats—Good buying of July and September oats this morning. Iowa points report no rain and freeze every night, stand of new crop poor. Absence of warm weather still a bull feature with oats trade. Would buy the new crop months.

The Cotton Market.

New York, May 9.—The cotton market opened barely steady at an advance of six points to a decline of two points, the gains being on the near positions which were influenced by continued covering and firmer cables, while the new crop months were generally lower owing to prospects for better weather and realizing. The weather map showed continued rains in the eastern belt, but clearing weather in the Central and Western sections and the early forecast was for generally clear weather Friday, while temperatures are ranging near the seasonable average. Trading was quite active during the early session and after some little irregularity the market sold off to a net decline of about five to eight points with the tone feverish and unsettled during the middle of the morning.

Futures closed steady. Closing bids: May and June, 10.67; July, 10.68; August, 10.48; September, 10.51; October and November, 10.68; December, 10.69; January and February, 10.83; March, 10.91. Spot closed quiet. Middling uplands, 11.90; middling gulf, 12.15. Sales, 9,455.

Union Pacific Dividend.

New York, May 9.—Union Pacific railroad dividends were today placed on a quarterly instead of a semi-annual basis, and a quarterly dividend of 2½ per cent was declared.

STOCKS ARE UNSETTLED

And Irregular at Close With Declines Firm Wednesday.

Terms of Union Pacific Financial Plan Caused Disappointment.

New York, May 9.—Prices of stocks moved downward in the opening trading today on a small volume of business. United States Steel was an exception with a small fractional gain. The New York public utilities stocks were notably depressed on account of the agreement at Albany to support the public utilities bill. Brooklyn Rapid Transit declined 1¼. Interborough-Metropolitan preferred 1⅛ and the common ¾. New York Central also fell nearly a point.

Temporary support was extended to the list whereby New York Central and other railroads made up their losses and the tractions partially. After this had been accomplished the demand dangled and prices began to ease off again. The Interborough-Metropolitan stocks got down to 1¾ and 2¼ below last night on this decline. International Paper and United States Realty were depressed 1, while Delaware & Hudson gained as much.

Interborough-Metropolitan fell an extreme 2½, Third Avenue 2⅜, and Consolidated Gas 1. Later there was some improvement, American Smelting rallying 1¾ and Union Pacific ⅜ above last night. Delaware & Hudson rose 2 and United States Reduction preferred 1½. The general movement was extremely narrow and the transactions were small. Bonds were steady.

Traders took quick profits in Smelting and it went back to yesterday's closing. Other stocks were not seriously affected and the tone became better when Smelting and Union Pacific were again lifted to a point above last night.

After the board of directors of the Union Pacific had assembled the stock began to rise rapidly and touched 149¾, a gain of 2¾, before 2 o'clock. Northern Pacific participated to the extent of a point, the remainder of the list remaining sluggish. The market reacted and Union Pacific fell back more than 2 points.

The market closed unsettled and irregular. The publication of the terms of the Union Pacific financial plan seemed to cause acute speculative disappointment. That stock ran off nearly 8 points from the high level to 5 points under last night, and this carried the whole list to a substantially lower level. St. Paul dropped to 4 below last night, Reading 3⅝, Southern Pacific preferred 2¾, Southern Pacific, Atchison, Northern Pacific, Amalgamated Copper and American Smelting 2 to 2½. Great Northern preferred, New York Central, Canadian Pacific, Anaconda and Consolidated Gas 1½ each, and Erie, Delaware & Hudson, Colorado Fuel and National Lead 1 each. There were brisk rallies when the shorts covered to take profits. Union Pacific rallied 3, St. Paul 2 and some others a point.

Stock Gossip.

New York to Gay & Sturgis: Southern Pacific will issue $36,000,000 new preferred stock.

Boston to Paine, Webber & Co.: The market was doing very well today although very dull until about 2 p. m. when Union Pacific announced that they intended to issue $75,000,000 convertible 4's and $37,000,000 preferred stock. This indication of the serious need for money from the railroad caused a flood of liquidation and stocks broke sharply all through the list. There was a little rally toward the close, but we do not think the talk is encouraging for higher prices at present.

Logan & Bryan, New York, to Paine, Webber & Co.: The list opened somewhat lower with trading of a very dull nature. Near the close, after the announcement of the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific dividend, the market broke sharply, but rallied somewhat on the close. Prices, however, showed substantial declines from final figures yesterday. Considering the fact that the market at this time is almost entirely professional and the latter being bearishly inclined, prices will, no doubt, seek lower levels.

THE PRODUCE MARKET.

The following prices, with the exception of those on hay, feed and meats, are the official quotations of the Duluth Produce exchange and shippers can rely upon them as being correct. The list is corrected daily by the secretary, and it shows accurately the market conditions up to 12 o'clock on the date of issue. The weekly market letter, published on Fridays, is not an official statement of the exchange, but the information is gathered personally from the different dealers:

QUEER FREAKS OF ACTORS.

What "The Artistic Temperament" is Often Responsible for.

San Francisco Call: The artistic temperament as an essential ingredient of success on the stage is more marked this season than it has been for some time, and in its operations it presents queerer features than have been connected with it for quite a while. The artistic temperament is that peculiar quality that urges prime donnas not to sing when there is an overflowing house and the manager is almost wild. It is responsible for the fact that most actors think more of themselves than they do of anybody else. It has ramifications and entanglements, activities and devices entirely apart from anything else with which the stage has to do.

It was the artistic temperament, for instance, that cost Arnold Daly a lot of money this year. He stood out against the Schuberts, his managers, because they wanted to charge $1.50, instead of $2 a seat in the theater in Philadelphia, where he was booked to appear.

"I am a $2 attraction," was the edict of the temperamental Daly.

The result? He went into bankruptcy and vaudeville almost simultaneously, and lately he has had a series of histic encounters with antagonists ranging from English actors up or down to cabmen.

Wilton Lackaye has the artistic temperament. He believes in saying what he thinks or what he thinks people would like to have him think. The result? His witticisms are quoted from one end of the country to another, and every time a friend stands up to defend him three enemies who have been hurt by Lackaye's tongue stand forth to oppose the friend. Sometimes the percentage of enemies to friends is ever greater.

Henry Lee, who does imitations of great men in vaudeville, has the artistic temperament. He has a pet dog to whom he talks as a person would talk to a human being, and he maintains off the stage a pose as dignified and impressive as if he were playing a part.

Richard Mansfield has the artistic temperament, and while he pays the best salaries in the theatrical business and offers longer seasons than most stars, many of the people that work for him dislike him. While he is on the stage in any scene in which there is a mob one of his orders is that every eye shall be riveted upon him. In "Peer Gynt," which he lately performed at the Grand Opera house, he noticed one of the young women in the mob looking away from

THE POLICE COURT GRIST

Dock Worker Convicted of Assault Committed Last Fall.

Woodsman Climbs Fire Escape to Avoid Imaginary Pursuers.

James Sculley was tried before Judge Cutting this morning for an offense alleged to have been committed last September. He is charged, on a warrant sworn out by James Knuckey, with an unprovoked assault upon the complainant and Judge Cutting this morning found him guilty and assessed him $10 and costs, with the option of spending ten days in jail.

"Shure, an' I couldn't buy a toothpick," said the prisoner and took his sentence.

Sculley alleged that Knuckey, who was at the time the president of the local freighthandlers' union, was patronizing non-union shops, and that he remonstrated with him for so doing, whereupon the union magnate attacked him. Knuckey declared, however, that Sculley attacked him and the judge decided this was nearer the facts in the case.

Sculley got very excited at several times during the trial and he and Knuckey indulged in several spirited discussions, in which each accused the other of stealing freight, of being a scab, a traitor to his own union, and several other unprintable epithets.

The police last evening commenced their campaign against the reckless chauffeurs of the city, by the arrest of L. B. Munto, chauffeur for May Gaines, who, it is claimed, was driving a big touring car up and down Superior street at a reckless rate. Officer Hannot saw the car go by at what he alleges was a rate far beyond the limit of the speed ordinance on one trip, and when he saw the same outfit returning at the same careless speed, he managed to make them stop and drive to the station with him.

There the young man put up $25 bail for his release. He pleaded not guilty in municipal court this morning and his hearing was set for this afternoon.

The police are going after this class of offenders vigorously from now on and it will go hard with the motorist who allows his enthusiasm to overstep the bounds of the law and speeds his car at a dangerous rate in the main part of the city.

Squirrel whiskey has absolutely no limitations. At least that is the opinion of Officer Connors who pulled Charles Peterson from a fire escape in front of the Nicollet hotel last evening.

Peterson had been on a spree for about a week.

He came tearing down the Bowery with a wild look in his eye, and when he spied the fire escape just above his head on the hotel he gave one wild yell and hurled himself into the air, grabbed the lowest round of the step and pulled himself up.

He then commenced a set of the wildest antics ever seen outside of a monkey cage at a circus. He concluded them by a wild slide down the stand pipe into the arms of Office Connors who transferred him to the patrol wagon. He was fined $5 and costs this morning.

The police last night received a telephone call from Dr. W. C. Goffe on Park Point requesting that someone be sent down there immediately as Mrs. James Sullivan had just come to his home seeking refuge and saying that her husband had driven her from the house with a knife.

Two officers were sent to the scene of the trouble at once and found Mrs. Sullivan at home with a cut on her finger which she claimed her husband inflicted. They found no evidence of a serious nature to warrant an arrest and returned, after one of them had remained for some time to assure himself that the quarrel was over. The Sullivan divorce proceedings are now pending in the district court and Judge Dibbell yesterday ordered Sullivan to pay his wife $7 a week alimony and $25 attorney's fees during the progress of the action. It was expected that Mrs. Sullivan would swear out a warrant for her husband's arrest this afternoon.

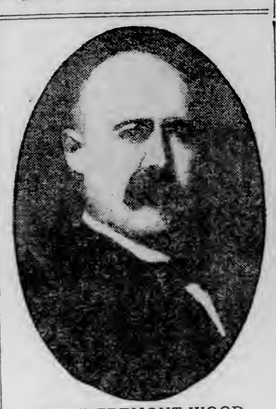
HAYWOOD'S TRIAL HALTS WHILE SHERIFF IS AFTER NEW MEN FOR THE JURY

Court Takes Recess to Monday, Pending Special Venire.

Both Sides Expect to Have Box Filled in a Week.

Vast Array of Witnesses for State and Defense.



JUDGE FREMONT WOOD.
Who Is Presiding Over the Trial of W. D. Haywood for Complicity in the Steunenberg Murder.

JAMES H. HAWLEY,
Chief Counsel for the State in the Trial of Miners' Secretary Haywood at Boise.

Boise, Idaho, May 10.—Sheriff Hodgin began today in the task of summoning the special venire of 100 men ordered by Judge Wood of the district court, when the regular panel was exhausted, in the effort to secure a jury to try William D. Haywood, first of the officers of the Western Federation of Miners called to the bar to answer the charge of conspiracy and complicity in the murder of Former Governor Steunenberg. To permit the gathering of the new panel the court has taken a recess until 2 o'clock next Monday afternoon.

The sheriff expects to be busy to the last moment, so scattered are the citizens.

Counsel on both sides of the case were confident that a jury would be secured by next Thursday or Friday at the latest and they believe that the taking of testimony may begin before the week ends.

The laws of Idaho require that there shall be twelve talesmen in the jury box at all times during the selection of a trial panel and this provision of the status called the halt yesterday afternoon after three men had been

MAY SUSPEND COAST WORK

St. Paul Railroad's Pacific Extension Likely to be Stopped.

New York, May 10.—At a meeting of the executive committee of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway yesterday, the question of discontinuing work on the roadway on the coastwise extension was discussed, but, after the meeting, one of the officers said that no decision had been reached.

President Earling's attitude in regard to postponing the work on this new line, for which $100,000,000 of new stock was issued in last December, is understood to be that it would be well to do so if it can be done without embarrassment and without incurring too much loss due to interrupting work of so great magnitude. It will be left to the directors, however, to decide whether the work shall be suspended. The next regular meeting of the full board will be held on the last Thursday of this month, and it is probable that the question will be decided then.

ASSAULTS WIFE'S LOVER.

Kenosha Man Makes Savage Attempt to Beat Prisoner.

Kenosha, Wis., May 10.—Henry Gerling, a well-known saloon man, caused a sensation here when he made an attempt to assault Edward Gerling, who in the custody of an officer was being taken to the county jail after having been bound over to the circuit court, on a charge of having improper relations with Mrs. Henry Gerling. The husband of the woman had been in court during the hearing, and when Gerling, the accused man, was being taken from the courtroom, he leaped on him and attempted to beat him.

Assistant Police Chief Newhouse, who had charge of the prisoner, leaped at the frantic man and turned the prisoner over to another officer. Gerling was finally subdued by the police officer and sent to his home. A few minutes later he ran down the street and made another attempt to assault the other Gerling. This time he was taken and searched, but was found to be unarmed.

The Gerling who had been charged with improper relations with Mrs. Gerling, while bearing the same name, is no relation to the saloon man. He had formerly worked as a bartender with Gerling, and it was while working in this capacity that he stole the love of his employer's wife, Mrs. Gerling was the principal witness for the state at the hearing, and her admissions were of a most sensational nature, and it is alleged that the story of the wife stirred her husband to a frenzy.

ARMED BRIGANDS BUSY IN PROVINCE OF CUBA.

Havana, May 10.—Armed bands are reported to be committing depredations in the Songo district of Santiago, and in the vicinity of Manacas Santa Clara. The brigands are exacting money from farmers, and stealing horses. The members of the bands, it is believed, are negroes who have been thrown out of work by the ending of the sugar season.

FIGHT OVER TERMINALS

Efforts to Settle Chicago Road Contest Are Given Up.

Hill-Morgan Interests Against Harriman and Gould Set.

Chicago, May 10.—The Record Herald today says: "All efforts to settle the contest for possession of the Chicago Terminal Transfer Railroad company have been abandoned and the questions involved are to be fought out in the courts. The Baltimore & Ohio road, which has bought and retired the bonds of the terminal company, is preparing a petition asking the United States court to modify its order for the sale of the property so that it will be sold subject to the lease of the petitioner.

This action will be taken before Judge Kohlsaat within a few days and objection will be offered by the majority and by the minority stockholders. The former are said to be the Morgan interests, which are trying to secure the property free of the Balti-

AMERICANS HIT BY FISH RULING

Newfoundland's New Order Hampers the Herring Trade.

St. Johns, N. F., May 10.—Under the recent supreme court decision that American vessel owners cannot employ Newfoundland fishermen in colonial waters (within three miles from land), the Gloucester schooners will be seriously handicapped when they arrive at Bay of Islands next season to load frozen herring, in the opinion of the local press and government officials. It is not considered probable that the appeal to the privy counsel, the highest court in the British empire, will be heard before next year, so that, should that body decide against the colonial government, the decision will not affect next season's operations.

According to the government statistics there were sixty-five Gloucester vessels in Newfoundland waters last season. These schooners brought 750 men from Gloucester, hired 800 colonial fishermen outside the three mile limit, and maintained them in their employ within colonial waters. Under the decision by the supreme court the Americans cannot use colonial fishermen in colonial waters, and it is said that the herring fishery will be unprofitable, should the Gloucester vessel owners be obliged to dispense with the services of Newfoundlanders, who set the nets when the ice forms and make all other arrangements at the beginning of the season.

SHOOTS AT HIS WIFE AND THEN ENDS HIS OWN LIFE.

St. Louis, May 10.—Following a quarrel in their bedroom, early today, Christian Miller, a butcher, shot at his wife and missed her as she ran screaming from the room. As a policeman, attracted by the shot, entered the room, Miller committed suicide with a revolver, apparently having believed he had killed his wife.

Losses to Trans-Atlantic Companies Near Million Mark.

Passengers to and From Europe Greatly Inconvenienced.

Trouble Threatens to Spread Soon in Various Directions.

New York, May 10.—With the losses on freight mounting toward the $1,000,000 mark, importing and exporting merchants suffering because of serious delays, and passengers to and from Europe seriously inconvenienced, neither the trans-Atlantic steamship lines nor the striking longshoremen give the slightest signs of yielding, and a disastrous fight to a finish is expected.

The congestion of freight is becoming enormous, and the commerce of the port of New York is being endangered. Instances of the crippling effect of the strike are becoming numerous. One steamer, which got away yesterday, carried insufficient coal in her bunkers, it is said, to carry her to Naples, and she will

HEAVY SNOW IN MADISON, WIS.

Twenty-Four Days of Steady Storm in Wyoming Mountains.

Madison, Wis., May 10.—A heavy snowstorm prevails here today.

Laramie, Wyo., May 10.—For twenty-four days a snowstorm has raged in the Southern Wyoming mountains, and snow is seven feet deep on a level. Since April 15 the sun has not shone and the storm has not ceased a moment. The temperature has been between zero and 10 degs. below. It is the most remarkable storm ever visiting the Wyoming mountains.

ROYAL STORK BRINGS SON AND HEIR TO KING AND QUEEN OF SPAIN WHILE PEOPLE OF REALM REJOICE IN EVENT

KING AND QUEEN OF SPAIN,
To Whom the Royal Stork Has Brought a Son and Heir to the Throne Amid Rejoicings of the People.

Dignitaries of Monarchy Assemble in Impressive State.

Vast Crowds of Royal Subjects Gathered About Palace.

Edward of England Well Pleased Over Happy Outcome.

Madrid, May 10.—Queen Victoria gave birth to a son at 12:45 o'clock this afternoon, and all Spain is wildly rejoicing this evening at the event of an heir to the throne.

The news from the palace early this morning that the visit of the royal stork was imminent spread like wildfire, and crowds flocked to the great plaza fronting the royal palace. The event had taken the capital somewhat by surprise, for only yesterday afternoon the queen had enjoyed her customary drive, and the court physicians had intimated that another two weeks would pass before confinement.

It was learned from the palace authorities that the queen had been taken with the first pains of childbirth during the night. Messengers were hastily dispatched to the prime minister and other chief court dignitaries, as the advent of an heir to the throne of Spain is an event of the deepest political significance. Through the early morning ministers and high functionaries arrived at the court of the palace.

Meantime word reached the waiting throng that the queen was prog-

HEAVY RAIL IMPERATIVE

Chairman Gary of Steel Corporation Replies to Harriman.

Breakages Due to Added Weight of Cars and Engines.

New York, May 10.—E. H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel corporation, the largest maker of steel rails in the country, has answered the criticism made by E. H. Harriman yesterday regarding the quality of steel rails. Harriman read to the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific boards a letter from Operating Officer Krutchnitt, which stated that 449 rails had broken during February, of which 179 were ninety pound rails which had been used only five or six months. This was an indication, it was stated, of what the railroads had to contend with.

Mr. Gary declares that rails are manufactured according to the express

CAR STRIKE ALONE UGLY

San Francisco Committee May Settle All General Troubles.

Flowers, Cakes, Salutes, Jeers Greet Strike-Breakers' Sally.

San Francisco, May 10.—Despite the efforts of the citizens' committee, the settlement of the street railway strike seems as far off as ever, but there are strong evidences that all other trouble will be settled and there will be no building trouble.

The United railroad officials decline positively to recognize the Carmen's union on the ground that it went out of existence when the company discharged its members for disobeying the order to appear for work at the car barns Tuesday morning. This position of the company acts as a handicap in any efforts to bring about a settlement, the only answer received from the officials being that they have nothing to arbitrate and that they propose to run their cars.

Two cars were run yesterday with more success, under protection of the police. Hostile crowds were in evidence all along the route, but outside of howls and jeering, there was no disorder and attempts to block the road

ONE DAY IN CHORUS ENOUGH.

Sisters Wear Tinsel of Fairy for Single Night From Home.

Janesville, Wis., May 10.—One day as a "trooper" with the Gingerbread Man theatrical company, one rehearsal and one night away from home, dressed in the tinsels of a fairy in the chorus with twenty other girls, was enough for the Misses Harriet and Nellie Decker of Janesville, and they telephoned their mother from Aurora they would return home by the first train. Both are popular society girls and daughters of a wealthy Janesville man. Miss Harriet, the elder, studied for some time at the Columbia School of Oratory in Chicago, and for a short time, a year ago, gave entertainments. Both she and her younger sister have been desirous of going upon the stage, and when an opportunity to secure places in the chorus of the "Gingerbread Man" was offered, they accepted and left with the company Monday morning.

RIFLE ON PLOW KILLS MAN.

Accidental Discharge of Firearm Carried to Shoot Crows.

Monroe, Wis., May 10.—Gottfred Burkhalter was killed in a field east of the city by the accidental discharge of a rifle he carried on a plow beam while plowing, for use in shooting crows. A hook held the trigger guard and the end of the barrel rested on a rung of the handle, the gun pointing toward him. The jarring of the plow discharged the gun and the bullet took effect in the groin, severing an artery. He was 35 years old and leaves a wife and two small children.

Two Harbors Promoted and Duluth Building Progressing.

FROM THE HERALD WASHINGTON BUREAU.

Washington, May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Congressman J. Adam Bede this morning called upon the first assistant postmaster general relative to a various number of postal matters in the Eighth district. He was advised that the postoffice at Two Harbors would be raised to the second class, July 1, as receipts during the present fiscal year warranted such a step.

Free delivery will be established at Cloquet and Virginia, the receipts in these cities having reached the $10,000 mark, as soon as the preliminary steps are taken as to numbering the houses and placing prominent marking of street names, etc., as required by regulations.

Mr. Bede also called on Fourth Assistant Postmaster General De Graff regarding a number of new rural free delivery routes he desires and these applications will be listed and investigated.

At the supervising architect's office, Mr. Bede was informed that everything was moving along smoothly and satisfactorily with regard to the enlargement of the Duluth postoffice. He will leave Washington for home Monday.

THE CASE IS DISMISSED

State Drops Prosecution of the Johnson Forgery Case.

Testimony Shows Defendant Had No Intent to Defraud.

The trial of Hemming Johnson, indicted for forgery in the second degree, came to a sudden close in Judge Cant's room this morning, when County Attorney Norton, after some of the evidence was in for the defense moved that the case be dismissed for want of evidence on the part of the state. The motion was granted, the jury was discharged and Johnson was released.

Johnson was accused of having offered Lewis Hendrickson's time check in payment for some goods at the Oak Hall Clothing company's store; that he indorsed Hendrickson's name on the back of it, and received the change, amounting to about $40.

Johnson claimed, and produced witnesses to substantiate his story, that he had been given the check for safe keeping by his friend, Hendrickson, that when he cashed it in the store he did so with the intention of turning the money over to Hendrickson. He produced evidence to show that he hunted the same afternoon and evening, and the next morning, for Hendrickson; that he had given the money to another party with the instructions that it was to be kept safely for Hendrickson. The testimony ended strongly to show there was no intent on Johnson's part to defraud Hendrickson of his money, and the state decided to drop the case.

Following the dismissal of the action, the jurors not engaged were excused until 9:30 o'clock next Monday morning.

Johnson was defended by A. J. McKnight.

SPORTS TO BE RESTRICTED

Act of Legislature Regulates Games on Memorial Day.

With the approach of Memorial day, sacred to the old soldier as a day of memories, but known to the small boy and the younger generation generally as a day of freedom from school restrictions in the best part of spring time and "the first real good day fer ball playin' this year," it is perhaps apropos to remind the same small boy of a recent law passed by the legislature for the purpose of restricting the sportive aspects of the day, and keeping alive some of the purposes for which it was first set aside.

The law states that no sports shall be indulged in on May 30 between the hours of 10 a. m. and 3 p. m., within half a mile of any meeting sacred to the celebration of Memorial day, and all saloons wherever located, are to be closed on that date between the same hours. An infringement of any of the provisions of the act is rated as a misdemeanor with a maxium penalty provision of ninety days or a fine of $100.

The sportively inclined youth must therefore adjourn to the outskirts of the city in order to indulge his desires and even there he must dodge the cemeteries with religious care between 10 in the morning and 3 in the afternoon.

The afternoon ball game will not be interfered with as the 3 o'clock limit leaves plenty of time for this session, but in some places the morning game might be blocked.

COMPANY PAYS FOR FUNERAL

Baum's Administrator Gets a Verdict of Only $135.

A verdict of $135 damages, just about enough to cover the funeral expenses of Charles Raum, who was accidentally killed at Fifty-fourth avenue and Ramsey street, under a street car some time ago, was returned against the street railway company this morning. The action was brought against both the city of Duluth and the street car company, but the jury did not fix any damages on the city.

The amount of the verdict is understood to be about the same or less than the company offered to settle the matter for, after Baum was thrown from his wagon under the car. The action was brought in the name of John G. Ross, administrator for the estate of Charles Baum, deceased. The original action was for $5,000 damages.

CABINET GIVEN FIRST DAY OFF

President Dispenses With Regular Meeting and Goes for Ride.

Washington, May 10.—The regular Friday cabinet meeting was not held today, it being explained at the White House that there was no important business demanding immediate attention. A special meeting of the cabinet will, it is said, be held tomorrow.

Taking advantage of the fine weather and the omission of the cabinet meeting, the president went for a long ride in the country accompanied by Capt. Fitzhugh Lee, one of his militar yaides. The destination was Rock Creek park and vicinity where there are some excellent jumps which the president is fond of taking. A photographer it is understood, went out to the park to try to get some good snapshots of the president while taking the hurdles.

It is said that never before has a regular cabinet meeting been postponed when a majority or nearly all of the members were in the city. Exceptions have been made only when the regular scheduled meetings fell on a public holiday.

GERMAN STRIKERS RIOT.

Fertilizer Works Attacked and Damaged and Police Set at Defiance.

Berlin, May 10.—Three thousand strikers attacked the Zimmer fertilizer works at Ludwingshafen, Bavaria, last evening and forced an entrance into the court yards. They hurled stones for hours breaking windows and doors and damaging the wall. The police forces of Ludwigshafen were hurried to the scene, but were powerless to prevent the excesses and only succeeded in arresting 2 rioters. Four policemen were severely wounded by pistol shots and stones. The owner of the works only saved his life by a precipitable flight. During the early hours today the works were still surrounded by a thousand strikers.

RULINGS BY HIGH COURT

Decisions Rendered in Seven Cases by Supreme Tribunal.

Slander Case Modified on Appeal Because of Slang.

St. Paul, May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Of seven decisions handed down by the supreme court today, three are reversals and one a modification of the lower court's order, directed at a case from Wilkin county in which Miss Schaefer sued Lucy Schoenborn for slander. The slanderous words were largely of slangy character and to this the defendant demurred and was sustained by the lower court. From this the plaintiff appealed, and the supreme court in answer finds for the defendant. It holds inasmuch as the slang uttered was not intelligible that those counts on which it is based do not constitute a cause of action. The opinions were:

Araminth H. Taylor, respondent, against Grand Lodge of the Ancient Order of the United Workmen of Minnesota, appellant; Hennepin county; reversed.

Peter Kearney, respondent vs. Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha Railway company, appellant; Scott county; appeal dismissed.

Dewagiae Manufacturing company, appellant, vs. J. F. Benson and B. B. Sontag, respondents; Jackson county; reversed.

Martin J. Hahn, appellant, vs. the Plymouth Elevator company, respondent; Blue Earth county; reversed.

Edward Yanish and A. A. Harper, respondents vs. J. Nelis Lumber company, appellant; Ramsey county; reversed.

The Superior Knights of Columbus are organizing a baseball team with the intention of cleaning up their brethern from across the bay at the annual game which was instituted last year. Edward M. Conley is captain of the team this year and has signified his intention of officiating as backstop, while Herman La Bree has been secured to officiate as pitcher. They have eight or ten other candidates of more or less baseball renown.

Their first appearance will probably be in a game with the Superior Elks, who walloped the Tenderfoot company last Saturday, but their principal efforts will de directed against the Duluth order, in the game at the annual picnic which is held by the two lodges at Fond du Lac. Superior won last year.

MAY GO TO MADISON.

Blaine May Send Track Team to State Interscholastic Meet.

An invitation has been received by the management of the Blaine track team to send members to the state interscholastic meet, to be held under the auspices of the Wisconsin university authorities at Madison, on May 25, and from present prospects the Superior school will be well represented at that time.

Principal Lynch is boosting the project, both because of the fact that it will bring the Blaine school into closer contact with the university, where the majority of the students will attend, and because, since the meet is to be held under the auspices of the 'varsity athletic management, it will have a greater signinicance than if it were held by any other city school.

Ripon and Lawrence universities have also sent invitations to Blaine to hold meets with them, but both of these have been turned down, and it is possible that the meet with Duluth may be postponed, should a team be sent to Madison.

ROONEY WILL EDIT.

Staff of Blaine Echo Chosen at School Eicction.

Frank Rooney will edit the Blaine Echo during the coming school year, and Leo Johnson is scheduled to officiate as businesss manager during the same period, as the result of an election participated in by all the students of the high school department yesterday afternoon. The faculty acted as a nominating convention, and selected the candidates, but the students were left to decide upon their own favorites.

Miss Dorothy Sheehan, the retiring editor-in-chief, deserves great credit for the management of the Echo during the past year, the first of its publication, and Joseph Rooney has handled the business end of the paper with great ability. The paper has been a conspicuous success from the start, and has accomplished a great deal of good in the school. The election of yesterday was very close, Myra Saxby, who was second for the editorship, and Thomas Joyce, who was defeated for the position of business manager, running very close seconds.

Superior Briefs.

The G. A. R. met this morning and chose Hazel Roberts daughter of the post. They commenced the arrangements for Memorial day.

Word was received in Superior today of the resignation of George P. Bergen, instructor in reading and literature at the Superior normal, who has been absent on account of sickness for some time. No arrangements have been made as to filling his place as yet.

HIGH SCHOOL BOYS GET "DS."

Members of Football Team Are Presented With Sweaters.

A big celebration was held at the high school this morning when the members of last fall's football team were presented with sweaters ornamented with "Ds." It is customary to give these to the players each year at Christmas time, but, owing to the fact that the Athletic association was short of funds, they could not be procured until the present. The source of the money was not made public, but it is understood it came from some of the business men of the city who are interested in the athletics of the boys.

Principal Smith made the presentation speech complimenting the boys on the fact that they were not defeated in a single game and at the same time were keeping up a good record in their studies. He thanked them for the glory which they had brought upon the school.

The sweaters went to the following boys: Capt. Elmer McDevitt, Llewellyn McKinley, Dean Coventry, Earl Cummings, Lauren Paine, Phillip Poirier, George Ostergren, Fren Ryan, Edward Cole, George Clausen, Ralph Caulkins and Henry Anderson.

The boys will have their pictures taken, and the photographs will be mounted in the hall of the high school as the champion team of the state for the season of 1906.

HAD TOO MANY TRICKS.

Dublin Freeman: The Irishman wanted to sell the dog, but the prospective buyer was suspicious and finally decided not to buyy. The man then told him why he was so anxious to sell.

"You see," he said, "I bought the dog and trained him myself. I got him so he'd bark all the time if a person stepped inside the gate, and I thought I was safe from burglars. Then my wife wanted me to train him to carry bundles, and I did. If I put a packet in his mouth the dog would keep it there till some one took it away. Well, one night I woke up and heard some one in the next room. I got up and grabbed my gun. They were there—three of the scoundrels and the dog."

"Didn't he bark?" interrupted the man.

"Narry a bark; he was too busy."

"Busy? What doing?"

"Carrying a lantern for the burglars."

SORRY SHE SPOKE.

The Tatler: Miss Cinny Sommers: By the by, you are not the boy I have always had before?

Caddie: No'm, you see we tossed to see who'd caddie for you.

Miss Minny Sommers (awfuly pleased) Oh, tut, tut, you bad boys—and you won!

Caddie: No; I lost!

APPEALS HIS CASE.

Frank Erickson Appeals From Disallowance of Claim.

Frank Erickson, a resident of Eveleth, whose claim against the estate of Mary Erickson, deceased, the probate court, disallowed, has appealed to the district court.

The case attracted considerable interest in the probate court, as the ruling of Judge Middlecoff was based on the fact that Erickson, although he had been living with Mary Erickson as his wife for many years had no legal claim, as she was at that time married to another man in the old country, by whom she had several children, who were held to be her legal heirs.

In his appeal to the district court, Erickson bases his claim on work performed and for material furnished Mary Erickson, between April 1, 1896, and July 27, 1902. His claim amounts to $1,881.63.

AND PRIDE HAD A FALL.

Detroit News: They were merely the daintiest possible tint, black satiny pumps, and spelt "latest," "smartest," "New Yorkiest," and a dozen other superlatives in every curve. But the wonder to all who saw the lady enter the car was how in the world the things held on to the slender, silk-stockinged feet. There wasn't the least sign of a strap or lacing or buckle, nothing at all for support. But adhesive problems weren't troubling their owner.

With a sudden stare she noted the distressing footwear around her, and drawing her skirts closer with an aristocratic rustle, she actually gasped for breath at the sight of such great, ugly, ungainly monstrosities. Even the little pumps themselves seemed to wither away into two black shiny question marks of disdain.

In a civilized country! Such shoes! The idea of every one not wearing pumps, and the latest, too! It was an odium! A crime! Simply unpardonable!

With the merest suspicion of a gloved finger tip touching the balance strap, she resolved to give such shocking ignorance a lesson. Their "shininesses" were accordingly well thrust into view, silk stockings and all, when suddenly—

Oh! Oh! Oh!

With a start the car lurched forward! The lady gave a gasp and picked herself up in the nearest seat available, only to find one of the little question marks had slipped off a few paces behind, while, alas! Through the dainty silk stocking the lady's toes met the public gaze through a number of great big, gaping, undarned holes.

LADY-KILLER CRUSHED.

Detroit News: She was a peach, there was no doubt of that; she wore a hat of the space filling variety, and that dress—it was enough to make any man do the gallant stunt on a crowded street car.

He saw her coming and was half into the aisle before she had stepped on the car, and when he resigned his seat with a deep courtesy, those eyes—they were enough to make any man join the strap-hangers' union.

She was smiling at him—or was it someone behind him. If somebody would only get up and give him a seat beside her then all would be fine. He tried to remember what tie he had put on, or if he would make a bigger hit if he put his hands in his pockets, assuming a careless attitude. Girls always seemed to prefer the careless one.

At last his fond wishes were realized, someone did finally get up and he sat down. Surely he could start a conversation if he could only get her eye. There was an old lady standing up, but—ah, the girl was looking at him, she was saying something to her companion—was she talking about him?—he always had been told that he was a lady-killer.

"I wonder why that big mouthed fellow don't get up and give that old woman a seat?" she was saying. Who did she mean? Oh, yes, it must be that funny looking fellow in front, that is just what he thought, why didn't he get up and give the old lady a seat?

Too sad, the truth dawned upon him in the next words by the fair one: "If that fellow that is sitting next to me had as much manners as he has mouth, he would get up and give the old lady a seat."

"No," he was saying later on the back platform, "I never can understand why a man wants to get married."

RULINGS BY HIGH COURT

Decisions Rendered in Seven Cases by Supreme Tribunal.

Slander Case Modified on Appeal Because of Slang.

St. Paul, May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Of seven decisions handed down by the supreme court today, three are reversals and one a modification of the lower court's order, directed at a case from Wilkin county in which Miss Schaefer sued Lucy Schoenborn for slander. The slanderous words were largely of slangy character and to this the defendant demurred and was sustained by the lower court. From this the plaintiff appealed, and the supreme court in answer finds for the defendant. It holds inasmuch as the slang uttered was not intelligible that those counts on which it is based do not constitute a cause of action. The opinions were:

Aramintu H. Taylor, respondent, against Grand Lodge of the Ancient Order of the United Workmen of Minnesota, appellant; Hennepin county; reversed.

Peter Kearney, respondent vs. Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha Railway company, appellant; Scott county; appeal dismissed.

Dowagiac Manufacturing company, appellant, vs. J. F. Benson and B. B. Sonter, respondents; Jackson county; reversed.

Martin J. Hahn, appellant, vs. the Plymouth Elevator company, respondent; Blue Earth county; reversed.

Edward Yanish and A. A. Harper, respondents vs. J. Nells Lumber company, appellant; Ramsey county; reversed.

Richardson, vs. Rogers, 37 Minnesota, 461, distinguished; appeal dismissed; from Scott county.

Detroit News: She was a peach, there was no doubt of that; she wore a hat of the space filling variety, and that dress—it was enough to make any man do the gallant stunt on a crowded street car.

He saw her coming and was half into the aisle before she had stepped on the car, and when he resigned his seat with a deep courtesy, those eyes—they were enough to make any man join the strap-hangers' union.

She was smiling at him—or was it someone behind him. If somebody would only get up and give him a seat beside her then all would be fine. He tried to remember what tie he had put on, or if he would make a bigger hit if he put his hands in his pockets, assuming a careless attitude. Girls always seemed to prefer the carciess one.

At last his fond wishes were realized, someone did finally get up and he sat down. Surely he could start a conversation if he could only get her eye. There was an old lady standing up, but—ah, the girl was looking at him, she was saying something to her companion—was she talking about him?—he always had been told that he was a lady-killer.

"I wonder why that big mouthed fellow don't get up and give that old woman a seat?" she was saying. Who did she mean? Oh, yes, it must be that funny looking fellow in front, that is just what he thought, why didn't he get up and give the old lady a seat?

Too sad, the truth dawned upon him in the next words by the fair one: "If that fellow that is sitting next to me had as much manners as he has mouth, he would get up and give the old lady a seat."

"No," he was saying later on the back platform, "I never can understand why a man wants to get married."

RULINGS BY HIGH COURT

Decisions Rendered in Seven Cases by Supreme Tribunal.

Slander Case Modified on Appeal Because of Slang.

St. Paul, May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Of seven decisions handed down by the supreme court today, three are reversals and one a modification of the lower court's order, directed at a case from Wilkin county in which Miss Schaefer sued Lucy Schoenborn for slander. The slanderous words were largely of slangy character and to this the defendant demurred and was sustained by the lower court. From this the plaintiff appealed, and the supreme court in answer finds for the defendant. It holds inasmuch as the slang uttered was not intelligible that those counts on which it is based do not constitute a cause of action. The opinions were:

Aramintu H. Taylor, respondent, against Grand Lodge of the Ancient Order of the United Workmen of Minnesota, appellant; Hennepin county; reversed.

Peter Kearney, respondent vs. Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha Railway company, appellant; Scott county; appeal dismissed.

Dowaglac Manufacturing company, appellant, vs. J. F. Benson and B. B. Sontag, respondents; Jackson county; reversed.

Martin J. Hahn, appellant, vs. the Plymouth Elevator company, respondent; Blue Earth county; reversed.

Edward Yanish and A. A. Harper, respondents vs. J. Neils Lumber company, appellant; Ramsey county; reversed.

Richardson, vs. Rogers, 37 Minnesota, 461, distinguished; appeal dismissed; from Scott county.

MORE POLICEMEN.

Extra Men Needed to Keep Order During Strike.

The police and fire commission met today and decided to put on three extra policemen during the progress of the strike. The three new men will be placed on beats and three of the regulars will be detailed for duty in the neighborhood of the shipyards.

The charge of carrying concealed weapons which had been entered against Aalen, the strike breaker who is said to have shot Dan Nesbit before the state was aware of the shooting, was withdrawn by the state today. Nesbit's condition was practically unchanged today.

KNIGHTS PLAY BALL.

Superior Knights of Columbus Would Defeat Duluth Order.

The Superior Knights of Columbus are organizing a baseball team with the intention of cleaning up their brethern from across the bay at the annual game which was instituted last year. Edward M. Conley is captain of the team this year and has signified his intention of officiating as backstop, while Herman La Bree has been secured to officiate as pitcher. They have eight or ten other candidates of more or less baseball renown.

Their first appearance will probably be in a game with the Superior Elks, who walloped the Tenderfoot company last Saturday, but their principal efforts will de directed against the Duluth order, in the game at the annual picnic which is held by the two lodges at Fond du Lac. Superior won last year.

MAY GO TO MADISON.

Blaine May Send Track Team to State Interscholastic Meet.

An invitation has been received by the management of the Blaine track team to send members to the state interscholastic meet, to be held under the auspices of the Wisconsin university authorities at Madison, on May 25, and from present prospects the Superior school will be well represented at that time.

Principal Lynch is boosting the project, both because of the fact that it will bring the Blaine school into closer contact with the university, where the majority of the students will attend, and because, since the meet is to be held under the auspices of the 'varsity athletic management, it will have a greater signiicance than if it were held by any other city school.

Ripon and Lawrence universities have also sent invitations to Blaine to hold meets with them, but both of these have been turned down, and it is possible that the meet with Duluth may be postponed, should a team be sent to Madison.

ROONEY WILL EDIT.

Staff of Blaine Echo Chosen at School Eicction.

Frank Rooney will cdit the Blaine Echo during the coming school year, and Leo Johnson is scheduled to officiate as businesss manager during the same period, as the result of an election participated in by all the students of the high school department yesterday afternoon. The faculty acted as a nominating convention, and selected the candidates, but the students were left to decide upon their own favorites.

Miss Dorothy Sheehan, the retiring editor-in-chief, deserves great credit for the management of the Echo during the past year, the first of its publication, and Joseph Rooney has handled the business end of the paper with great ability. The paper has been a conspicuous success from the start, and has accomplished a great deal of good in the school. The election of yesterday was very close, Myra Saxby, who was second for the editorship, and Thomas Joyce, who was defeated for the position of business manager, running very close seconds.

Members of Football Team Are Presented With Sweaters.

A big celebration was held at the high school this morning when the members of last fall's football team were presented with sweaters ornamented with "Ds." It is customary to give these to the players each year at Christmas time, but, owing to the fact that the Athletic association was short of funds, they could not be procured until the present. The source of the money was not made public, but it is understood it came from some of the business men of the city who are interested in the athletics of the boys.

Principal Smith made the presentation speech complimenting the boys on the fact that they were not defeated in a single game and at the same time were keeping up a good record in their studies. He thanked them for the glory which they had brought upon the school.

The sweaters went to the following boys: Capt. Elmer McDevitt, Llewellyn McKinley, Dean Coventry, Earl Cummings, Lauren Paine, Phillip Poirier, George Ostergren, Fren Ryan, Edward Cole, George Clausen, Ralph Caulkins and Henry Anderson.

The boys will have their pictures taken, and the photographs will be mounted in the hall of the high school as the champion team of the state for the season of 1906.

HAD TOO MANY TRICKS.

Dublin Freeman: The Irishman wanted to sell the dog, but the prospective buyer was suspicious and finally decided not to buyy. The man then told him why he was so anxious to sell.

"You see," he said, "I bought the dog and trained him myself. I got him so he'd bark all the time if a person stepped inside the gate, and I thought I was safe from burglars. Then my wife wanted me to train him to carry bundles, and I did. If I put a packet in his mouth the dog would keep it there till some one took it away. Well, one night I woke up and heard some one in the next room. I got up and grabbed my gun. They were there—three of the scoundrels and the dog."

"Didn't he bark?" interrupted the man.

"Narry a bark; he was too busy."

"Busy? What doing?"

"Carrying a lantern for the burglars."

SOCCER GAME WILL FLOURISH

Members of Thistle Team Will be Out Next Sunday.

The members of the Thistle association football team, which represented Duluth on the field in former years, are preparing to go into the game again this year, and they will be out next Sunday afternoon on the grounds at Tenth avenue east and Tenth street for the first practice. All former members of the team and others who have played the soccer game and wish to try for the team, are requested to be out.

Soccer football is growing in popularity throughout the United States, and the Duluth enthusiasts are counting on putting the Zenith City right in the running. There are a number of former stars in Duluth, and it is expected that a strong team can be developed. As soon as possible negotiations will be opened for games with St. Paul, Minneapolis and teams in other cities, where the soccer game is in vogue.

APPEALS HIS CASE.

Frank Erickson Appeals From Disallowance of Claim.

Frank Erickson, a resident of Eveleth, whose claim against the estate of Mary Erickson, deceased, the probate court, disallowed, has appealed to the district court.

The case attracted considerable interest in the probate court, as the ruling of Judge Middlecoff was based on the fact that Erickson, although he had been living with Mary Erickson as his wife for many years had no legal claim, as she was at that time married to another man in the old country, by whom she had several children, who were held to be her legal heirs.

In his appeal to the district court, Erickson bases his claim on work performed and for material furnished Mary Erickson, between April 1, 1896, and July 27, 1902. His claim amounts to $1,881.63.

AND PRIDE HAD A FALL.

Detroit News: They were merely the daintiest possible tint black satiny pumps and spelt "latest," "smartest," "New Yorkiest," and a dozen other superlatives in every curve. But the wonder to all who saw the lady enter the car was how in the world the things held on to the slender, silk-stockinged feet. There wasn't the least sign of a strap or lacing or buckle, nothing at all for support. But adhesive problems weren't troubling their owner.

With a sudden stare she noted the distressing footwear around her, and drawing her skirts closer with an aristocratic rustle, she actually gasped for breath at the sight of such great, ugly, ungainly monstrosities. Even the little pumps themselves seemed to wither away into two black shiny question marks of disdain.

In a civilized country! Such shoes! The idea of every one not wearing pumps, and the latest, too! It was an odium! A crime! Simply unpardonable!

With the merest suspicion of a gloved finger tip touching the balance strap, she resolved to give such shocking ignorance a lesson. Their "shininesses" were accordingly well turned into view, silk stockings and all, when suddenly—

Oh! Oh! Oh!

With a start the car lurched forward! The lady gave a gasp and picked herself up in the nearest seat available, only to find one of the little question marks had slipped off a few paces behind, while, alas! Through the dainty silk stocking the lady's toes met the public gaze through a number of great big, gaping, undarned holes.

ROYAL STORK BRINGS SON

ressing well. The doctors pronounced her condition normal and satisfactory. King Alfonso remained at the queen's bedside, and at 8 o'clock cancelled the meeting of the council of ministers, which was to have considered current state affairs. By 10 o'clock the high functionaries of the state and capital, with many ambassadors and ministers, in their court costumes, had reached the palace.

At noon this assemblage of the nobility and power of Spain was grouped in the royal apartments set aside for official ceremonies, awaiting with feelings of profound emotion the announcement of the birth of an heir. The birth of the babe occurred at 12:45 p. m. The announcement was immediately conveyed to the waiting officials and crowds outside the palace, who received the tidings with mingled feelings of enthusiasm and emotion. That the queen had been blessed with a son—a male heir to the throne—was no less welcome than the happy event itself.

The formal announcement of the birth of the infant was made known by the Camarara mayor, or mistress of the robes, to Premier Maura, who formally communicated the fact to the distinguished company in the words: "Gentlemen, it is a prince."

The news was greeted with the greatest enthusiasm, which swelled into a cheer as King Alfonso himself entered, accompanying the camarara mayor who carried a huge silver tray upon which was lying the newly-born royal baby, covered with delicate lace garments. The infant Eulalie, was at the king's side as he entered with his new-born son.

Premier Maura at once advanced and, with some hesitation, relieved the mistress of the robes of her precious load. Then, bearing the tray, the premier proceeded slowly to the center of the room where all present crowded around, anxious to obtain a glimpse of the child, which was presented to one after the other in their order of court precedence.

When the curiosity of all those present was satisfied, the babe was handed back to the mistress of the robes and by the latter was given to the royal nurse, who immediately returned to the side of the queen. It was announced that the babe would be named Alfonso.

As the nurse appeared in the royal apartments a roar of cheering could be heard from outside of the palace. In the meantime the scenes in the streets outside were almost beyond description. Business had been suspended for hours previous to the announcement of the child's birth. An immense multitude gathered in the vicinity of the palace and when the royal standard of red and gold fluttered up to the peak of the flagstaff, on the Punta Dediamente, making known that a prince of the Asturias was born, a great shout of joy went up from the assembled masses.

Immediately afterward a salute of twenty-one guns carried the news to the most remote confines of the city and the inhabitants of the surrounding country. As the sixteenth report resounded, (fifteen guns only would have been fired to announce the birth of a girl), the men, women and children waiting in the streets and on the balconies and roofs gave voice to their satisfaction, and soon the whole city was ringing with cries of "long live the prince!" "long live the queen," and "long live the king." Simultaneously the public buildings blossomed out, as if by magic, with the Spanish colors and, singing, dancing and otherwise rejoicing, almost the entire population of the city began streaming in the direction of the palace.

In no monarchical country in the world is the ceremonial observed at the birth of the first offspring of the king and queen so rigidly stately and formal as in Spain, and on this occasion, so significant for the Bourbon dynasty, nothing was omitted from the etiquette. From the moment when Queen Victoria was officially announced to be approaching the period of maternity the most careful surveillance was exercised over her, in order that the hopes of the country should not run any risk of being blighted.

Several months before the time for the stork, according to Spanish royal custom, the queen took up her residence at the palace in Madrid to await the anxious moment. There, accompanied by the king, she undertook from time to time pilgrimages to various holy shrines to pray for a safe deliverance, in the same way as the humblest Spanish woman. For quite a month preceding the auspicious event members of the proud Spanish nobility have been in constant attendance at the palace as a precaution against the unwelcome surprise of a premature birth, while the members of the royal family have taken up their residence either in the palace itself or near at hand in the capital.

When at length Dr. Glendenning, the young English doctor who attended the queen announced that the birth was a matter of only a few hours, urgent messages were despatched to the prime minister, Senor Muatral, and his colleagues of the cabinet, the military governor of Madrid, the members of the diplomatic corps, the Grandees, the Knights of the Principal Orders of Chivalry, the leading military and civil authorities, and all the ladies and gentlemen attached to the court. Soon all the officials were gathered, in full uniform and wearing the glittering insignia of their decorations, in the grand reception room gorgeously draped with tapestry, adjoining the royal private apartments, among those present being the American minister, Mr. Collier.

The son born today to King Alfonso and Queen Victoria will according to a decree of the Spanish government bear the title of prince of the Asturias. The principality of the Asturias was formerly the mountain refuge of the aboriginal inhabitants of Spain, who remained the resistant alike of Roman and Moor. In many respects the Asturias is regarded as the cradle of the Spanish monarchy, hence the pride taken in the title of prince of the Asturias.

Queen Victoria, the mother of the royal infant, was married to King Alfonso at Madrid on May 31, 1906, amid scenes of the greatest splendor, followed by the horror of a bomb explosion which killed scores of people and narrowly missed the royal coach in which their majesties were returning from church.

King Alfonso, April 3, signed a decree ordering the necessary preparations for the presentation of the child to the high officials of Spain and the diplomatic representatives accredited at Madrid immediately after the birth. The decree after naming the various officials and others to be present at the birth, said:

"As soon as the accouchment is announced as imminent all the persons designated by the king in the decree shall be notified to come to the palace in full uniform. Immediately after the child is born the mistress of the robes shall inform the prime minister, who shall then announce to the persons present the sex of the child, at the same time informing the captain general of Madrid, and the commander of the royal Halberdiers so that they may as promptly as possible give the orders for the proper signals and salutes.

"In order that the inhabitants of our glorious city of Madrid may know whether the newly-born child is a prince or a princess, the Spanish royal standard shall be hoisted over the palace and a salute of 21 guns fired in case it should be a prince of the Asturias and in the event of the queen giving birth to a princess, a salute of 15 guns fired and a white flag hoisted. Should the event occur during the night either a colored lantern or a white light shall be hoisted as the case may be.

"As soon as this has been carried out the child shall be presented to the diplomatic corps and the old personages present by the prime minister accompanied by the mistress of the robes and the chief court chamberlains. The minister of justice, as king's notary, will then draw up the certificate of birth and record of the presentation, thus terminating the ceremony."

London, May 10.—The birth of an heir to the Spanish throne was received with unfeigned satisfaction by King Edward and all the royal family here, who received the first news through a newspaper agency. The general public, with whom "Princess Ena," the name by which Queen Victoria was known previous to her conversion to Catholicism, was always a prime favorite, were equally pleased. The Spanish embassy was besieged with callers soon after the announcement of the birth of the royal child.

DEADLY FIGHT OF WOMEN.

St. Louis, May 10.—In a fight between Sadie Speicht and Artie Thomas, in a resort on Lucas avenue, the Speicht woman was stabbed in the neck and died within an hour. Jealousy was the cause.

OCEAN SERVICE CRIPPLED

have to run down to Philadelphia to have her bunkers filled. Another, a freighter, which plies between here and the Mediterranean ports, that had brought over tons of cases of Italian wines, sailed back to Italy yesterday carrying more than half of her cargo back again. The importers will be forced to wait until she returns before they can get their goods.

In the harbor, as seen from the Bush terminal in Brooklyn, where the strike began, is a fleet of half a dozen steamers and a dozen sailing vessels, all waiting a chance to dock and take on cargoes. The number of men working at the terminal is but 200, all told, according to the police.

When the White Star liner Majestic, from Liverpool, docked yesterday, there were only a few longshoremen on the pier to handle the baggage, and the ships' stewards had to be pressed into service. It was impossible for them to handle all of it, the result being that many second class passengers, whose belongings were not gotten out of the holds, will have to go to the pier today to have the customs officers pass on their baggage.

A report is current today which, if it proves true, will further handicap the companies. This is, that the tugboat crews do not relish the task of transporting strike-breakers to and from the piers, and will soon refuse to do so.

Tomorrow a number of the greatest of the trans-Atlantic vessels are due and the custom officials are dubious over the headway they will be able to make in the examination of the huge amount of baggage which will be brought over. These vessels include the Kaiserine Auguste Victoria and the Cedric, both of which will carry many passengers.

Evidence of the present temper of the trans-Atlantic managements is found in an interview given by Emil Boas, agent of the Hamburg-American line, and in a report at the American and Red Star line offices that cots were being put into the second story of the American line shed for the accommodation of strikebreakers. Boas was quoted as saying of the situation with regard to his company: "The action of the strikers has been outrageous. They walked out without saying a word, although some of them were making from $25 to $30 a week by working overtime and we think they are being well paid for the character of the work that they were doing."

In reply, President Patrick Connors, of the Longshoremen's union in Manhattan said: "It is not true that we struck without asking any demands. Before we struck, a circular with demands was in possession of every pier superintendent, and we struck because the demands were refused. At the wages we were receiving the longshoremen, who have often to wait days for work, did not average more than $11 a week."

The strikers gained a victory yesterday, when the Savannah line compromised with its 600 employes. The new terms are 35 cents an hour for week day work and 50 cents for Sunday and night work. For Sunday work, occupying less than half a day, a full day is to be credited.

There was an occasional clash yesterday between strikers and new men, when moral suasion failed, but no very serious damage was done, and nothing like organized interference with the steamship people's new employes was attempted.

This morning the men on the docks of the Fall River line steamers quit work. A week ago the company granted an advance of 5 cents an hour. Today 200 of its men struck, insisting on payment of their full demands—an increase in wages from 20 to 30 cents an hour.

Possibility of an extension of the strike, to include the teamsters engaged in carting freight from the docks, became evident today, when officers of the Longshoremen's union declared that they would endeavor to bring about such a strike in sympathy with their own men. The officers also asserted that they would ask the coal trimmers to join in the strike.

HAYWOOD'S TRIAL HALTS

passed without challenges by either side. Although there were eight others in the box, waiting cross-examination b ythe attorneys for the defense, seat No. 4 was vacant and until that place is filled the examination of the others cannot proceed. Under the system of jury examination in vogue here, it is impossible to tell at any time just what real progress is being made.

All of those connected with the case were somewhat surprised yesterday at the absence of an eagerness on the part of the venlremen to avoid jury service. Only a small percentage of the twenty-one men examined had expressed or formed an opinion sufficient to disqualify them, and the others declared their belief that they could render an absolutely fair and impartial verdict from the evidence adduced and allowed by the court.

The desire of all parties immediately concerned with the trial to prevent any untoward incident of any nature whatsoever is ample illustrated by the action of the leaders of the Western Federation of Miners in defeating the plan of the more radical members of the organization to hold the annual congress set for June 10 in Boise rather than in Denver, the headquarters. The radical element was insistent upon coming to Boise. Counsel for the prisoners, when they heard of this move, counselled with the more conservative and were assured by them that the proposition to hold the meeting in Boise would not be countenanced.

It was said by a man active in the management of the affairs of the federation today that the rank and file of the federation were at last convinced that there was to be no secret hearing or "railroading" of Haywood, Moyer and Pettibone to the scaffold, and there was now a disposition to let the matter be thoroughly threshed out in the courts, everything possible being done legitimately to and the imprisoned men in their fight for freedom. The prisoners seem to have every confidence as to their future and believe their counsel will be able to clear them.

A vast array of witness is promised by both sides in the Haywood case and, if all whose names are announced are called to the stand, the duration of the trial cannot even be approximated. Appearing on the indictment of Haywood, Moyer and Pettibone are fourteen names. State's counsel yesterday filed a supplemental list of 151 witnesses, making 165 in all. The defense, it is announced, will call perhaps 50 witnesses in all, making 215 to be heard, according to present plans. It is considered as doubtful, however, that any such number will be placed on the stand.

The federation officials were interested today to discover the names of several former officials and members of their organization included in the list of the state's prospective witnesses. One of these is Edward Boyce, formerly president of the Western federation, now a mine owner living in Colorado. A large number of persons from Caldwell, who arrived on the scene immediately following the tragedy, the coroner adn other county officials are expected to be the first to take the stand.

HAS TERRIBLE EXPERIENCE

Decayed Serum Nearly Ended Life of Horace J. Stevens.

New Orleans, May 10.—Horace J. Stevens of Houghton, Mich., author of "The Copper Handbook," and an authority on copper and its production, is in New Orleans recovering from an experience probably more painful and unique than falls to the lot of most men. It was caused by the injection of infected serum from the brain of a rabbit into his abdomen as a cure for hydrophobia. Mr. Stevens was bitten by a house cat on Dec. 26, 1906, while trying to rescue his young daughter, who was attacked by the animal. He was given the Pasteur treatment in Chicago three weeks later, and while convalescent had come to New Orleans with his wife and daughter to see the Mardi Gras.

While passing through Southern Indiana a case of blood poisoning developed and became so far advanced by the time he reached New Orleans that Mr. Stevens had to be taken to the Hotel Dieu. There he received most careful treatment for about eight weeks, and won in the battle for life when the chances were about 1,000 to 1 against him.

Mr. Stevens says that the last injection he received of the rabbit's brain serum must have been decayed, and the tablespoonful of that poisonous matter injected into his abdomen produced septic anemia.

It will require four weeks more for the wounds to heal entirely, after which medical authorities say Mr. Stevens will be immune from hydrophobia for about four years.

To feel strong, have good appetite and digestion, sleep soundly and enjoy life, use Burdock Blood Bitters, the great system tonic and builder.

FORTY EGGS IN FIFTEEN MINUTES

Pottery Worker Wins Dollar by Swallowing Raw Hen Fruit.

East Liverpool, Ohio, May 10.—Swallowing forty raw eggs in fifteen minutes and receiving a crisp one dollar bill for his feat is the record of Alfred Martin who is employed in one of the local potteries. After the forty eggs were finished, Martin declared that he could easily make it fifty. He believes that with a little practice he can eat 100 raw eggs in less than an hour.

Some time ago Martin read in the newspapers of a man at McKeesport, Pa., who swallowed twenty-five raw eggs in twenty minutes. He asserted that he could beat this record and since then there have been many arguments between Martin and other employes of the pottery. August Sewickley offered Martin a dollar if he could eat twenty-five eggs in twenty-five minutes. They went to a nearby saloon where the hen fruit was procured. Sewickley broke the eggs and Martin swallowed them down two and three at a gulp, until the forty had disappeared and the egg supply exhausted. After performing the feat Martin went back to his regular work.

SAN FRANCISCO DISASTER COSTLY IN INSURANCE.

New York, May 10.—The San Francisco conflagration of April, 1906, swept away not only every dollar of profit previously made by the insurance companies out of underwriting since 1860, but cost them $79,708,174 besides, according to a statement by President George W. Burchell of the National Board of Underwriters at the annual meeting of that organization here yesterday. He said that carefully compiled figures showed the total loss by the catastrophe to have been in round numbers $350,000,000. The loss to 243 insurance companies was $175,508,530, and in addition to this there was a large amount of reinsurance in foreign companies which would make the total loss to insurance companies throughout the world between $220,000,000 and $225,000,000, yet only twenty companies had gone into liquidation.

Once in a year you may find a good tenant by chance—through "happenstance." But a Herald want ad. will find him for you at the time you want him.

A LAZY LIVER

May be only a tired liver, or a starved liver. It would be a stupid as well as savage thing to beat a weary or starved man because he lagged in his work. So in treating the lagging, torpid liver it is a great mistake to lash it with strong drastic drugs. A torpid liver is but an indication of an ill-nourished, enfeebled body whose organs are weary with over-work. Start with the stomach and allied organs of digestion and nutrition. Put them in working order and see how quickly your liver will become active. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has made many marvelous cures of "liver complaint," or torpid liver, by its wonderful control over the organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores the normal activity of the stomach, increases the secretions of the blood-making glands, cleanses the system of poisonous accumulations, and so relieves the liver of the burdens imposed upon it by the defection of other organs.

Symptoms. If you have bitter or bad taste in the morning, poor or variable appetite, coated tongue, foul breath, constipated or irregular bowels, feel weak, easily tired, despondent, frequent headaches, pain or distress in "small of back," gnawing or distressed feeling in stomach, perhaps nausea, bitter or sour "risings" in throat after eating, and kindred symptoms of weak stomach and torpid liver, or biliousness, no medicine will relieve you more promptly or cure you more permanently than Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

Perhaps only a part of the above symptoms will be present at one time and yet point to torpid liver, or biliousness and weak stomach. Avoid all hot bread and biscuits, griddle cakes and other indigestible food and take the "Golden Medical Discovery" regularly and stick to its use until you are vigorous and strong.

Of Golden Seal root, which is one of the prominent ingredients of "Golden Medical Discovery," Dr. Roberts Bartholow, of Jefferson Medical College, says: "Very useful as a stomachic (stomach) tonic and in atonic dyspepsia. Cures gastric (stomach) catarrh and headaches accompanying same."

Dr. Grover Coe, of New York, says: "Hydrastis (Golden Seal root) exercises an especial influence over mucous surfaces. Upon the liver it acts with equal certainty and efficacy. As a cholagogue (liver invigorator) it has few equals." Dr. Coe also advises it for affections of the spleen and other abdominal viscera generally, and for scrofulous and glandular diseases, cutaneous eruptions, indigestion, debility, chronic diarrhea, constipation, also in several affections peculiar to women, and in all chronic derangements of the liver, also for chronic inflammation of bladder, for which Dr. Coe says "it is one of the most reliable agents of cure."

Prof. John King, M. D., late of Cincinnati, author of the AMERICAN DISPENSATORY, gives it a prominent place among medicinal agents, reiterates all the foregoing writers have said about it, as does also Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., late of Cincinnati. Dr. Scudder says: "It stimulates the digestive processes and increases the assimilation of food. By these means the blood is enriched. * * * * the consequent improvement on the glandular and nervous systems are natural results." Dr. Scudder further says, "in relation to its general effect upon the system, there is no medicine in use about which there is such general unanimity of opinion. It is universally regarded as the tonic, useful in all debilitated states * * *."

Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Medical College, Chicago, says of Golden Seal root: "It is a most superior remedy in catarrhal gastritis (inflammation of the stomach), chronic constipation, general debility, in convalescence from protracted fevers, in prostrating night-sweats. It is an important remedy in disorders of the womb." (This agent, Golden Seal root, is an important ingredient of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for woman's weaknesses, as well as of the "Golden Medical Discovery.") Dr. Ellingwood continues, "in all catarrhal conditions it is useful."

Much more, did space permit, could be quoted from prominent authorities as to the wonderful curative properties possessed by Golden Seal root.

We want to assure the reader that "Golden Medical Discovery" can be relied upon to do all that is claimed for Golden Seal root in the cure of all the various diseases as set forth in the above brief extracts, for its most prominent and important ingredient is Golden Seal root. This agent is, however, strongly reinforced, and its curative action greatly enhanced by the addition, in just the right proportion of Queen's root, Stone root, Black Cherrybark, Bloodroot, Mandrake root and chemically pure glycerine. All of these are happily and harmoniously blended into a most perfect pharmaceutical compound, now favorably known throughout most of the civilized countries of the world. Bear in mind that each and every ingredient entering into the "Discovery" has received the endorsement of the leading medical men of our land, who extol each article named above in the highest terms. What other medicine put up for sale through druggists can show any such professional endorsement? For dyspepsia, liver troubles, all chronic catarrhal affections of whatever name or nature, lingering coughs, bronchial, throat and lung affections, the "Discovery" can be relied upon as a sovereign remedy.

A little book of extracts treating of all the several ingredients entering into Dr. Pierce's medicines, being extracts from standard medical works, of the different schools of practice will be mailed free to any one asking (by postal card or letter), for the same, addressed to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and giving the writer's full post-office address plainly written.

ARE DOING BUSINESS UNDER DIFFICULTIES

Commission Men Find It Hard to Get Green Stuff.

Bananas Are Now Being Sold by the Pound.

Michigan street jobbers do not have to strain their memories to any great extent to remember times when matters were easier for them in a business way than they are at present. At best the job of the man dealing in perishable goods is no snap. It is not like dealing in hardware or staple lines of groceries. Stock arriving today must be sold by tomorrow, or, in many cases, spoil on the hands of the dealer. The produce market is more easily affected than almost any other, and prices are always liable to sudden changes. When they are high the chances are that the jobber is not making so much profit as when they are low, and yet the consumer blames everything on to him, and he has to stand for all kinds of abuse, when the probabilities are that the weather alone is responsible for the change.

This spring it is the weather that is causing all of the trouble, except in some cases where a certain railroad may be slow in handling shipments. The conditions in all parts of the country this season have been such as to retard the growth of fruits and vegetables. The consumer is naturally looking for green vegetables at a low figure just now, and seems inclined to think that he should have them at prices which have prevailed during good seasons in the past, not seeming to realize that there should be any difference in the prices because the supply is short. And so, while the jobber may be racking his brains to make money enough to cover running expenses until the situation in this line is relieved, the public at large is liable to be pointing him out as a hold-up man and robber, with evil designs against the community at large.

Take, for example, such ordinary things as pie plant and green onions. They are usually regarded as being among the necessities, and yet, just now, they are as hard to get as a vegetable that is only to be secured at times, and which is looked upon by many as a luxury.

And then, to add to the troubles, the consumers this week had a kick coming because he had to buy his bananas by the pound, when, it is claimed, both the retailer and the consumer get a squarer deal this way than when buying by the bunch or by the dozen. The jobbers themselves have been buying by the pound for the past six years, but have continued to sell to the retailer by the bunch, and the latter has handed the fruit out by the dozen. Under this system, one man would get more than he paid for and another man less, for the simple reason that some bunches are twice as large as others, although all have been costing the same. The jobbers never knew exactly where they were at under this system, and the retailers were even more at sea, for, when they paid the full price for a small bunch they had to sell them without making any profit, where, on a large bunch, they would make a better profit than they should under ordinary circumstances. As one dealer put it, there is no reason why bananas should be bought by the pound and sold by the handful. Under the new system everybody is treated alike, and the consumer does not have to pay any more for the fruit than he did before the new rule became effective.

Bananas are bought at the seaboard, and the prices are fixed there. The dealers here say they have nothing to do with fixing the prices. There is said to be an excellent chance that various other things, such as watermelons, pumpkins, etc., may be placed on the pound basis before very long.

Oranges are about the same in price as they have been for several weeks past. Navels are still running very large in size, and the quality was never better. Considering the demand and the supply, they are cheap at the prices asked. The cold weather has naturally curtailed the consumption of lemons, but it will take very little warm weather to create more of a demand, and this might be expected to result in an advance in price, for the reason that the new supply would not come ahead fast enough to supply the demand.

Cold weather has been general in the strawberry-growin sections, and the rains earlier in the season in the same districts, combined with this fact, results in a quality of berry that is very ordinary. At the price the jobbers have been obliged to sell them at they have been quite a luxury, although the dealers claim, at the same time, that handling them has really been a losing proposition. The quality is such that the berries will not last long, and they have to be closed out at any price if the demand is not sufficient to get them off the market very shortly after they arrive.

The potatoe market has been very firm, with quite an advance during the last few weeks. Everything tends to keep the prices up. The Florida and Texas crop of new potatoes should be coming forward at this time, but they have been delayed by the backwardness of the spring, which helps to keep a strong feeling in the potatoe market.

Butter has had the expected decline in price. There will be a further decline as soon as the supply is more ample. Cheese has not as yet had any decline in sympathy with butter. This will come in time, however, but just now the supply is a little short. There has been no change in egg prices. Prices are as low as they will be this season.

Fish are still rather slow in coming in, but there has been a good supply of poultry during the past week, with practically no change in price of either poultry or fish.

HER NERVE SAVED HER

While Threatened by Burglar, a Woman Played and Sang.

Telephoned in French to Friend, Telling of Her Plight.

Warsaw, Poland, May 10.—By the exercise of courage and presence of mind such as probably few women have possessed, Mme. Stresky, the wife of a Warsaw physician, has just saved herself from murder and robbery under circumstances as thrilling as ever were put into a novel. With a desperate criminal in the same room with her the plucky woman managed to summon assistance by telephone and afterward sat and sang at a piano during the twenty-five minutes which elapsed before help reached her—just in the nick of time.

Mme. Strsky lives with her husband in a small villa on the outskirts of Warsaw. Last night she was alone in the house but for an old deaf cook, who dozed in the basement after her day's work. Mme. Stresky sat with her needlework upstairs in the drawing room. Suddenly, on looking up, she saw in a mirror, the reflection of a ruffianly looking man, crouching behind a screen which stood back of her chair. For a moment, a petrified her as she thought that this man, knowing she was alone, had crept into the house and was waiting an opportune moment to murder her and strip the house of valuables. Outside the street was as quiet as the grave. Her husband would not be back for hours. To attempt to rush from the room and cry for help meant hastening death.

Then a thought struck her. There was a telephone in the room. She went to it and quietly rang up a family she knew. The servant answered at the other end. "I want your mistress" she said. After two interminable minutes her friend's voice was to be heard.

"My dear Sophy," began the doctor's wife "be so good as to send me round that 4,000 roubles this evening. I must pay it into the bank tomorrow morning. I'm very sleepy and want to go to bed."

The friend at the other end of the phone was mystified. They had never had any financial dealings together nor had she heard of the sum in question. But before she could say anything the doctor's wife began again—this time in French.

"Some wretch has got into the house—I'm alone. Come at once with a patrol or the first man you can get hold of."

Then she added in Polish: "Send the money as soon as possible. I'll wait up for it."

This done, she sat down at the piano and with shaking hands and voice, began to play and sing. She calculated that ten minutes at the most would see her out of her terrible dilemma. She could not leave the room without passing by the screen. All she could do was to appear as if she did not know what stood behind it. Her voice grew weaker and shakier every minute, though she hoped the ruffian would wait for the fictitious 4,000 roubles.

Fifteen, twenty, twenty-five minutes passed and there was no sign of help. She feared the wretch would suspect her. She determined to ring up the police annd ask for help in French, trusting to the chance that one of the inspectors might understand her. Again she went to the 'phone, rang up and gave the necessary number. But the ruffian behind the screen knew the number, too; pushing down the screen, he rushed forward, knife in hand, upon the defenseless woman. She tried to wrench the weapon from him, but in vain. He pointed the knife at her and struck. Happily it clashed against a large metal buckle she wore on her belt. With an oath he raised it again, when the sound of breaking glass arrested the murderer's hand. He looked round—a soldier's head appeared in the broken window. Flinging down his knife, he made for the door, only to fall into the arms of another soldier.

The doctor's wife was found on the floor, unconscious. The man who had all but murdered her was known to the police as one of the most desperate characters in the town, "wanted" for several crimes. Only the woman's presence of mind in ringing up her friend and asking for the money in Polish, and for help in French, saved her from a horrible death.

They act like Exercise.

BIG INFLUX OF PEOPLE

Record-Breaking Arrivals of Immigrants at New York.

Population of the Metropolis is Growing a Thousand Daily.

New York, May 10.—Two record-breaking days of arrival of immigrants were registered last week. The first with more than 15,000 persons and the second with nearly 21,000, or a grand total of 36,000 new comers from foreign lands inside of forty-eight hours. Before these words get into print the majority of these people will be settled in new homes and many of them at work, adding to the activities of our great volume of business. I watched with interest the crowds disembark, and was impressed by the fact that there were so many in the early flush of youth, vigorous, healthy, energetic people, seemingly eager to enter into the lifework of the republic. There is no doubt that the age record of the immigration bureau will show that the vast majority of those landed this present year are well under 35 years of age. This means much earlier and easier assimilation with the body of our population, and makes the new arrivals much more valuable as a working, producing force in this country.

As remarked above, all prior records of days of immigration were broken by two days of last week, but this new army of people has been distributed without lessening the demands for labor which come from all quarters of the Union and are pressing heavily and earnestly from homes, farms, shops, factories, mills, mines, public and private works for help to keep up current work. The months of May and June will probably witness 200,000 immigrants land at this port, and every one of them can be employed at the industries of their new home.

Even in this city, the greatest human hive of the continent, a daily influx of 2,000 persons would not be sufficient to supply the local demand for additional labor.

The resident population is increasing by more than 1,000 daily and the building up of the suburbs for homes and the shops that homes naturally bring with them is beyond all previous experience in growth of cities.

One instance will give some idea of the immensity of the development of this cosmopolis. The building permits for the single borough of Brooklyn, issued during the month of April, covered construction that will amount to more than $10,000,000. The greatest number and the greatest value was represented by buildings to be occupied as dwellings by the inhabitants. Hotels, apartment houses, tenement houses and private residences, great and small, were all included in the rush for permits.

The other boroughs of the city have their full share of construction work, and with the great tunnels, vast improvements by the railways and steamship lines, the shops and factories going up on every hand, there are certainly hundreds of millions of dollars being spent in New York city alone on construction work during the present year. From the Battery Point to the city's most northerly limit, from Brooklyn bridge to Montauk Point on Long Island, all over Staten Island, all through New Jersey, there is a continuous development in transportation and construction work; a continued demand for additional labor of all classes, skilled and unskilled.

The additional buildings can be measured in square miles on the surface of the earth, their foundations go down scores of feet in many instances below the surface, and the superstructures shoot up hundreds of feet in the air.

Downward, upward and out upon all sides men are here creating a larger and more magnificent city than the earth ever bore on its bosom, and within the next fifty years New York will eclipse in wealth, grandeur, power and population all cities of ancient or modern times.

Before eighteen months pass by the electric cars through the great tunnels under the Hudson river will complete the annexation of the entire state of New Jersey to the city of New York. These same tunnels will be a great factor even to making Philadelphia a suburb of New York, and the population of Philadelphia, over the electric traction lines, will become more and more tributary to the great department stores of the larger city. The steam roads will add many trains between the cities, and the electric roads will be as city thoroughfares for the convenience of the people of Eastern Pennsylvania and of entire New Jersey.

The states of Ohio and Indiana are seemingly well developed by the present systems of electric suburban and inter-city roads, but they are yet in the infancy of these systems of transportation. I have heard farmers compiain of the tendency of their employes and the near-by people to spend the evenings in the towns and the cities that could be reached in an hour or two from the farms, but they did not under-estimate the importance of the roads in bringing themselves and their families into closer touch with the comforts and conveniences of the cities.

One very enterprising farmer of Indiana said to me a few days ago: "Why, our electric road people offer to furnish me current to light my house and my roads, to pump the water for the house, stable and barn, to churn and even to do my plowing, and I am going to avail myself of all these also if their price is but reasonable."

Ohio and Indiana, with their evenly distributed populations, are excellent fields for profitable enterprises in these transportation lines, and with the years the earnings of the electric roads, like those of the steam roads, will continue to increase, and holders of stocks in roads that at first might seem to be of dubious earning power will finally become wealthy by holding on to their properties.

In a lesser degree the electric roads will repeat the history of the great steam roads, and from possibly early losers become mints to those who are fortunate enough and wise enough to stay with them to the end. In all portions of the United States these electric tramways are being built, but nocturally their speediest and fullest development will be in the thickly populated Eastern states. This concentration of electric suburban lines within five years will find its focus around New York city and within a radius of 10 miles from city hall, New York, the electric and steam transportation lines running through New Jersey, Eastern Pensylvania, Connecticut, Long Island and other portions of New York state will be to all intents ani purposes simply street-car lines for New York city.

Day and night they will run for the millions who have occasion to use them and the enormous traffic and the public demands will compel low fares, with great earnings. Lines will be paralleled, as streets and avenues are paralleled today, and five and ten-minute schedules will exist for scores of miles out of the city along all the important avenues. State lines will still exist and state laws will prevail, but New York and New York's influence and power will control public opinion and influence public action within the boundaries of the adjacent states.

Jersey City will become even greater than Brooklyn under the circumstances that make her the gateway to the West and South. There is no hesitation in business here save in Wall street, and that will not last long when the capitalists and the brokers realize the country moves along whether they do or not. They will be hurrying to catch up before the summer ends.

BABY WASTED TO MERE SKELETON

In Torments a Year and a Half with Terrible Sores on Face and Body—Hands Tied to Stop Scratching and Tearing at Flesh—But

"My little son, when about a year and a half old began to have sores come out on his face. I had a physician treat him, but the sores grew worse. Then they began to come on his arms, then on other parts of his body, and then one came on his chest, worse than the others. Then I called another physician. Still he grew worse. At the end of about a year and a half of suffering he grew so bad I had to tie his hands in cloths at night to keep him from scratching the sores and tearing the flesh. He got to be a mere skeleton, and was hardly able to walk. My aunt advised me to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment. So great was her faith in it that she gave me a small piece of Cuticura Soap to try and a little Cuticura Ointment. I took it home without any faith, but to please her I tried it, and it seemed to dry up the sores a little. I sent to the drug store and got a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment and followed the directions, and at the end of about two months the sores were all well. He has never had any sores of any kind since. He is now strong and healthy, and I can sincerely say that only for your most wonderful remedies my precious child would have died from those terrible sores. I used only one cake of Soap and about three boxes of Ointment. Mrs. Egbert Sheldon, R. F. D., No. 1, Woodville, Conn., April 22, 1905."

WOULD REUNITE FORMER LOVERS

Woman Hopes to Heal Quarrel of Forty Years Ago.

Atlantic City, N. J., May 10.—Mrs. Sarah Morrison, of this city, has started out on the difficult task of uniting a pair of lovers, who, she says, have been parted since a quarrel forty years ago.

As the first step she has started search for Michael Hargrave, the recalcitrant lover, by means of requests sent to postmasters of Philadelphia and other large cities for his present address.

She asks Hargrave to come back to Miss Katie Wilson, who, she says, is still awaiting his return to make up the quarrel of long ago.

"Miss Wilson, once a beautiful girl and still good looking in her middle age, was a very dear friend of mine," said Mrs. Morrison.

"I did not know how deeply the girl was wounded or how constant was her love for Hargrave, who was then a handsome young fellow with bright prospects, until a few weeks ago, when she made me her confidante, saying that she still loved Hargrave.

"'I have never entirely given him up,' she told me, 'although I have not seen him for years, and have no idea where he is at the present time. If I can find him I will make the first overtures for a reconciliation and willingly forgive him.'

"It was then I decided to try to find Hargrave and bring him back."

"Do you believe that Hargrave, if still living and single, will be willing to make up the quarrel and marry his old sweetheart?" Mrs. Morrison was asked.

"I believe that Kittie's great love will not only be rewarded by finding him, but I also believe that her constancy will revive all the old love," she replied.

"Just think—I have loved, been married and become a widow, while Kittie has grown to womanhood, and almost to old age, still remaining true to the love of her youth."

My Best Friend.

Alexander Benton, who lives on Rural Route 1, Fort Edward, N. Y., says: "Dr. King's New Discovery is my best earthly friend. It cured me of asthma six years ago. It has also performed a wonderful cure of incipient consumption for my son's wife. The first bottle ended the terrible cough, and this accomplished, the other symptoms left one by one, until she was perfectly well. Dr. King's New Discovery's power over coughs and colds is simply marvelous." No other remedy has ever equaled it. Fully guaranteed by all druggists. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

SOCIAL LEADER IS IN BUSINESS

Mathilde Van Rensselaer is Engaged in Real Estate Dealing.

New York, May 10.—Miss Mathilde Van Renselear, daughter of Mrs. Stephen Van Renselear, who is a member of one of the oldest Knickerbocker families, has buckled on her business armor, which consists of a dainty lingerie waist, a stunning Paris hat, and a winning smile, and has entered the lists to compete with the real estate brokers of New York.

Four years before the first John Jacob Astor became a landholder here, when the city was only the little Dutch colony of New Amsterdam, her forefathers owned acres and acres of real estate. For years also the old name has been connected with all that is most exclusive in New York's best set. In speaking of her venture she said:

"Yes, I'm sick of society—that is, I want something more serious than teas and calls to take up my mind. I believe I am really the first society real estate broker in this city.

"You see, I have a large acquaintance among society people and this will be a great help to me in renting the houses which I will handle. For instance, I was at a luncheon this noon. One of the young women present, a dainty little thing in baby blue, whispered to me: 'I am going to be married.' 'Well, then,' I said, 'you surely will have to live somewhere.' She admitted she would. 'Why not take one of my houses or apartments?' I suggested. She looked at me in perfect amazement.

"'Mathilde Van Rensselaer, what do you mean? I didn't know you owned any houses.'

"'Neither do I—yet,' I replied. Didn't you know I am a full fledged real estate "man" and have all kinds of houses?

"She readily consented to look over my list and, of course, I am sure I shall find her just the dear little place that all brides want. But brides will not be the only ones of my choice, you may be sure."

"But you drive to the various houses when you have prospective customers?"

"Indeed, I do not. I go on my good feet. And good and tired they get, too, just like any workingwoman's. Really you must not call me a society girl now. I'm not. I'm a real workingwoman. Yes, really, I have sold several houses and have rented some others, though I have only been in the business a few weeks."

A LAZY LIVER

May be only a tired liver, or a starved liver. It would be a stupid as well as savage thing to beat a weary or starved man because he lagged in his work. So in treating the lagging, torpid liver it is a great mistake to lash it with strong drastic drugs. A torpid liver is but an indication of an ill-nourished, enfeebled body whose organs are weary with over-work. Start with the stomach and allied organs of digestion and nutrition. Put them in working order and see how quickly your liver will become active. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has made many marvelous cures of "liver complaint," or torpid liver, by its wonderful control over the organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores the normal activity of the stomach, increases the secretions of the blood-making glands, cleanses the system of poisonous accumulations, and so relieves the liver of the burdens imposed upon it by the defection of other organs.

Symptoms. If you have bitter or bad taste in the morning, poor or variable appetite, coated tongue, foul breath, constipated or irregular bowels, feel weak, easily tired, despondent, frequent headaches, pain or distress in "small of back," gnawing or distressed feeling in stomach, perhaps nausea, bitter or sour "risings" in throat after eating, and kindred symptoms of weak stomach and torpid liver, or biliousness, no medicine will relieve you more promptly or cure you more permanently than Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

Perhaps only a part of the above symptoms will be present at one time and yet point to torpid liver, or biliousness and weak stomach. Avoid all hot bread and biscuits, griddle cakes and other indigestible food and take the "Golden Medical Discovery" regularly and stick to its use until you are vigorous and strong.

Of Golden Seal root, which is one of the prominent ingredients of "Golden Medical Discovery," Dr. Roberts Bartholow, of Jefferson Medical College, says: "Very useful as a stomachic (stomach) tonic and in atonic dyspepsia. Cures gastric (stomach) catarrh and headaches accompanying same."

Dr. Grover Coe, of New York, says: "Hydrastis (Golden Seal root) exercises an especial influence over mucous surfaces. Upon the liver it acts with equal certainty and efficacy. As a cholagogue (liver invigorator) it has few equals." Dr. Coe also advises it for affections of the spleen and other abdominal viscera generally, and for scrofulous and glandular diseases, cutaneous eruptions, indigestion, debility, chronic diarrhea, constipation, also in several affections peculiar to women. And in all chronic derangements of the liver, also for chronic inflammation of bladder, for which Dr. Coe says "it is one of the most reliable agents of cure."

Prof. John King, M. D., late of Cincinnati, author of the AMERICAN DISPENSATORY, gives it a prominent place among medicinal agents, reiterates all the foregoing writers have said about it, as does also Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., late of Cincinnati. Dr. Scudder says: "It stimulates the digestive processes and increases the assimilation of food. By these means the blood is enriched. * * * * the consequent improvement on the glandular and nervous systems are natural results." Dr. Scudder further says, "in relation to its general effect upon the system, there is no medicine in use about which there is such general unanimity of opinion. It is universally regarded as the tonic, useful in all debilitated states * * *."

Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Medical College, Chicago, says of Golden Seal root: "It is a most superior remedy in catarrhal gastritis (inflammation of the stomach), chronic constipation, general debility, in convalescence from protracted fevers, in prostrating night-sweats. It is an important remedy in disorders of the womb." (This agent, Golden Seal root, is an important ingredient of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for woman's weaknesses, as well as of the "Golden Medical Discovery.") Dr. Ellingwood continues, "in all catarrhal conditions it is useful."

Much more, did space permit, could be quoted from prominent authorities as to the wonderful curative properties possessed by Golden Seal root.

We want to assure the reader that "Golden Medical Discovery" can be relied upon to do all that is claimed for Golden Seal root in the cure of all the various diseases as set forth in the above brief extracts, for its most prominent and important ingredient is Golden Seal root. This agent is, however, strongly reinforced, and its curative action greatly enhanced by the addition, in just the right proportion of Queen's root, Stone root, Black Cherrybark, Bloodroot, Mandrake root and chemically pure glycerine. All of these are happily and harmoniously blended into a most perfect pharmaceutical compound, now favorably known throughout most of the civilized countries of the world. Bear in mind that each and every ingredient entering into the "Discovery" has received the endorsement of the leading medical men of our land, who extol each article named above in the highest terms. What other medicine put up for sale through druggists can show any such professional endorsement? For dyspepsia, liver troubles, all chronic catarrhal affections of whatever name or nature, lingering coughs, bronchial, throat and lung affections, the "Discovery" can be relied upon as a sovereign remedy.

A little book of extracts treating of all the several ingredients entering into Dr. Pierce's medicines, being extracts from standard medical works, of the different schools of practice will be mailed free, to any one asking (by postal card or letter), for the same, addressed to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and giving the writer's full post-office address plainly written.

ARE DOING BUSINESS UNDER DIFFICULTIES

Commission Men Find It Hard to Get Green Stuff.

Bananas Are Now Being Sold by the Pound.

Michigan street jobbers do not have to strain their memories to any great extent to remember times when matters were easier for them in a business way than they are at present. At best the job of the man dealing in perishable goods is no snap. It is not like dealing in hardware or staple lines of groceries. Stock arriving today must be sold by tomorrow, or, in many cases, spoil on the hands of the dealer. The produce market is more easily affected than almost any other, and prices are always liable to sudden changes. When they are high the chances are that the jobber is not making so much profit as when they are low, and yet the consumer blames everything on to him, and he has to stand for all kinds of abuse, when the probabilities are that the weather alone is responsible for the change.

This spring it is the weather that is causing all of the trouble, except in some cases where a certain railroad may be slow in handling shipments. The conditions in all parts of the country this season have been such as to retard the growth of fruits and vegetables. The consumer is naturally looking for green vegetables at a low figure just now, and seems inclined to think that he should have them at prices which have prevailed during good seasons in the past, not seeming to realize that there should be any difference in the prices because the supply is short. And so, while the jobber may be racking his brains to make money enough to cover running expenses until the situation in this line is relieved, the public at large is liable to be pointing him out as a hold-up man and robber, with evil designs against the community at large.

Take, for example, such ordinary things as pie plant and green onions. They are usually regarded as being among the necessities, and yet, just now, they are as hard to get as a vegetable that is only to be secured at times, and which is looked upon by many as a luxury.

And then, to add to the troubles, the consumers this week had a kick coming because he had to buy his bananas by the pound, when, it is claimed, both the retailer and the consumer get a squarer deal this way than when buying by the bunch or by the dozen. The jobbers themselves have been buying by the pound for the past six years, but have continued to sell to the retailer by the bunch, and the latter has handed the fruit out by the dozen. Under this system, one man would get more than he paid for and another man less, for the simple reason that some bunches are twice as large as others, although all have been costing the same. The jobbers never knew exactly where they were at under this system, and the retailers were even more at sea, for, when they paid the full price for a small bunch they had to sell them without making any profit, where, on a large bunch, they would make a better profit than they should under ordinary circumstances. As one dealer put it, there is no reason why bananas should be bought by the pound and sold by the handful. Under the new system everybody is treated alike, and the consumer does not have to pay any more for the fruit than he did before the new rule became effective.

Bananas are bought at the seaboard, and the prices are fixed there. The dealers here say they have nothing to do with fixing the prices. There is said to be an excellent chance that various other things, such as watermelons, pumpkins, etc., may be placed on the pound basis before very long.

Oranges are about the same in price as they have been for several weeks past. Navels are still running very large in size, and the quality was never better. Considering the demand and the supply, they are cheap at the prices asked. The cold weather has naturally curtailed the consumption of lemons, but it will take very little warm weather to create more of a demand, and this might be expected to result in an advance in price, for the reason that the new supply would not come ahead fast enough to supply the demand.

Cold weather has been general in the strawberry-growin sections, and the rains earlier in the season in the same districts, combined with this fact, results in a quality of berry that is very ordinary. At the price the jobbers have been obliged to sell them at they have been quite a luxury, although the dealers claim, at the same time, that handling them has really been a losing proposition. The quality is such that the berries will not last long, and they have to be closed out at any price if the demand is not sufficient to get them off the market very shortly after they arrive.

The potatoe market has been very firm, with quite an advance during the last few weeks. Everything tends to keep the prices up. The Florida and Texas crop of new potatoes should be coming forward at this time, but they have been delayed by the backwardness of the spring, which helps to keep a strong feeling in the potatoe market.

Butter has had the expected decline in price. There will be a further decline as soon as the supply is more ample. Cheese has not as yet had any decline in sympathy with butter. This will come in time, however, but just now the supply is a little short. There has been no change in egg prices. Prices are as low as they will be this season.

Fish are still rather slow in coming in, but there has been a good supply of poultry during the past week, with practically no change in price of either poultry or fish.

HER NERVE SAVED HER

While Threatened by Burglar, a Woman Played and Sang.

Telephoned in French to Friend, Telling of Her Plight.

Warsaw, Poland, May 10.—By the exercise of courage and presence of mind such as probably few women have possessed, Mme. Stresky, the wife of a Warsaw physician, has just saved herself from murder and robbery under circumstances as thrilling as ever were put into a novel. With a desperate criminal in the same room with her the plucky woman managed to summon assistance by telephone and afterward sat and sang at a piano during the twenty-five minutes which elapsed before help reached her—just in the nick of time.

Mme. Stresky lives with her husband in a small villa on the outskirts of Warsaw. Last night she was alone in the house but for an old deaf cook, who dozed in the basement after her day's work. Mme. Stresky sat with her needlework upstairs in the drawing room. Suddenly, on looking up, she saw in a mirror, the reflection of a ruffianly looking man, crouching behind a screen which stood back of her chair. For a moment a petrified her as she thought that this man, knowing she was alone, had crept into the house and was waiting an opportune moment to murder her and strip the house of valuables. Outside the street was as quiet as the grave. Her husband would not be back for hours. To attempt to rush from the room and cry for help meant hastening death.

Then a thought struck her. There was a telephone in the room. She went to it and quietly rang up a family she knew. The servant answered at the other end. "I want your mistress" she said. After two interminable minutes her friend's voice was to be heard.

"My dear Sophy," began the doctor's wife "be so good as to send me round that 4,000 roubles this evening. I must pay it into the bank tomorrow morning. I'm very sleepy and want to go to bed."

The friend at the other end of the phone was mystified. They had never had any financial dealings together nor had she heard of the sum in question. But before she could say anything the doctor's wife began again—this time in French.

"Some wretch has got into the house—I'm alone. Come at once with a patrol or the first man you can get hold of."

Then she added in Polish: "Send the money as soon as possible. I'll wait up for it."

This done, she sat down at the piano and with shaking hands and voice, began to play and sing. She calculated that ten minutes at the most would see her out of her terrible dilemma. She could not leave the room without passing by the screen. All she could do was to appear as if she did not know what stood behind it. Her voice grew weaker and shakier every minute, though she hoped the ruffian would wait for the fictitious 4,000 roubles.

Fifteen, twenty, twenty-five minutes passed and there was no sign of help. She feared the wretch would suspect her. She determined to ring up the police annd ask for help in French, trusting to the chance that one of the inspectors might understand her. Again she went to the 'phone, rang up and gave the necessary number. But the ruffian behind the screen knew the number, too; pushing down the screen, he rushed forward, knife in hand, upon the defenseless woman. She tried to wrench the weapon from him, but in vain. He pointed the knife at her and struck. Happily it clashed against a large metal buckle she wore on her belt. With an oath he raised it again, when the sound of breaking glass arrested the murderer's hand. He looked round—a soldier's head appeared in the broken window. Flinging down his knife, he made for the door, only to fall into the arms of another soldier.

The doctor's wife was found on the floor, unconscious. The man who had all but murdered her was known to the police as one of the most desperate characters in the town, "wanted" for several crimes. Only the woman's presence of mind in ringing up her friend and asking for the money in Polish, and for help in French, saved her from a horrible death.

BIG INFLUX OF PEOPLE

Record-Breaking Arrivals of Immigrants at New York.

Population of the Metropolis is Growing a Thousand Daily.

New York, May 10.—Two record-breaking days of arrival of immigrants were registered last week. The first with more than 15,000 persons and the second with nearly 21,000, or a grand total of 36,000 new comers from foreign lands inside of forty-eight hours. Before these words get into print the majority of these people will be settled in new homes and many of them at work, adding to the activities of our great volume of business. I watched with interest the crowds disembark, and was impressed by the fact that there were so many in the early flush of youth, vigorous, healthy, energetic people, seemingly eager to enter into the lifework of the republic. There is no doubt that the age record of the immigration bureau will show that the vast majority of those landed this present year are well under 35 years of age. This means much earlier and easier assimilation with the body of our population, and makes the new arrivals much more valuable as a working, producing force in this country.

As remarked above, all prior records of days of immigration were broken by two days of last week, but this new army of people has been distributed without lessening the demands for labor which come from all quarters of the Union and are pressing heavily and earnestly from homes, farms, shops, factories, mills, mines, public and private works for help to keep up current work. The months of May and June will probably witness 200,000 immigrants land at this port, and every one of them can be employed at the industries of their new home.

Even in this city, the greatest human hive of the continent, a daily influx of 2,000 persons would not be sufficient to supply the local demand for additional labor.

The resident population is increasing by more than 1,000 daily and the building up of the suburbs for homes and the shops that homes naturally bring with them is beyond all previous experience in growth of cities.

One instance will give some idea of the immensity of the development of this cosmopolis. The building permits for the single borough of Brooklyn, issued during the month of April, covered construction that will amount to more than $10,000,000. The greatest number and the greatest value was represented by buildings to be occupied as dwellings by the inhabitants. Hotels, apartment houses, tenement houses and private residences, great and small, were all included in the rush for permits.

The other boroughs of the city have their full share of construction work, and with the great tunnels, vast improvements by the railways and steamship lines, the shops and factories going up on every hand, there are certainly hundreds of millions of dollars being spent in New York city alone on construction work during the present year. From the Battery Point to the city's most northerly limit, from Brooklyn bridge to Montauk Point on Long Island, all over Staten Island, all through New Jersey, there is a continuous development in transportation and construction work; a continued demand for additional labor of all classes, skilled and unskilled.

The additional buildings can be measured in square miles on the surface of the earth, their foundations go down scores of feet in many instances below the surface, and the superstructures shoot up hundreds of feet in the air.

Downward, upward and out upon all sides men are here creating a larger and more magnificent city than the earth ever bore on its bosom, and within the next fifty years New York will eclipse in wealth, grandeur, power and population all cities of ancient or modern times.

Before eighteen months pass by the electric cars through the great tunnels under the Hudson river will complete the annexation of the entire state of New Jersey to the city of New York. These same tunnels will be a great factor even to making Philadelphia a suburb of New York, and the population of Philadelphia, over the electric traction lines, will become more and more tributary to the great department stores of the larger city. The steam roads will add many trains between the cities, and the electric roads will be as city thoroughfares for the convenience of the people of Eastern Pennsylvania and of entire New Jersey.

The states of Ohio and Indiana are seemingly well developed by the present systems of electric suburban and inter-city roads, but they are yet in the infancy of these systems of transportation. I have heard farmers complain of the tendency of their employes and the near-by people to spend the evenings in the towns and the cities that could be reached in an hour or two from the farms, but they did not under-estimate the importance of the roads in bringing themselves and their families into closer touch with the comforts and conveniences of the cities.

One very enterprising farmer of Indiana said to me a few days ago: "Why, our electric road people offer to furnish me current to light my house and my roads, to pump the water for the house, stable and barn, to churn and even to do my plowing, and I am going to avail myself of all these also if their price is but reasonable."

Ohio and Indiana, with their evenly distributed populations, are excellent fields for profitable enterprises in these transportation lines, and with the years the earnings of the electric roads, like those of the steam roads, will continue to increase, and holders of stocks in roads that at first might seem to be of dubious earning power will finally become wealthy by holding on to their properties.

In a lesser degree the electric roads will repeat the history of the great steam roads, and from possibly early losers become mints to those who are fortunate enough and wise enough to stay with them to the end. In all portions of the United States these electric tramways are being built, but nocturally their speediest and fullest development will be in the thickly populated Eastern states. This concentration of electric suburban lines within five years will find its focus around New York city and within a radius of 10 miles from city hall, New York, the electric and steam transportation lines running through New Jersey, Eastern Pensylvania, Connecticut, Long Island and other portions of New York state will be to all intents ani purposes simply street-car lines for New York city.

Day and night they will run for the millions who have occasion to use them and the enormous traffic and the public demands will compel low fares, with great earnings. Lines will be paralleled, as streets and avenues are paralleled today, and five and ten-minute schedules will exist for scores of miles out of the city along all the important avenues. State lines will still exist and state laws will prevail, but New York and New York's influence and power will control public opinion and influence public action within the boundaries of the adjacent states.

Jersey City will become even greater than Brooklyn under the circumstances that Brooklyn under the circumstances that make her the gateway to the West and South. There is no hesitation in business here save in Wall street, and that will not last long when the capitalists and the brokers realize the country moves along whether they do or not. They will be hurrying to catch up before the summer ends.

BABY WASTED TO MERE SKELETON

In Torments a Year and a Half with Terrible Sores on Face and Body—Hands Tied to Stop Scratching and Tearing at Flesh—But

"My little son, when about a year and a half old began to have sores come out on his face. I had a physician treat him, but the sores grew worse. Then they began to come on his arms, then on other parts of his body, and then one came on his chest, worse than the others. Then I called another physician. Still he grew worse. At the end of about a year and a half of suffering he grew so bad I had to tie his hands in cloths at night to keep him from scratching the sores and tearing the flesh. He got to be a mere skeleton, and was hardly able to walk. My aunt advised me to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment. So great was her faith in it that she gave me a small piece of Cuticura Soap to try and a little Cuticura Ointment. I took it home without any faith, but to please her I tried it, and it seemed to dry up the sores a little. I sent to the drug store and got a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment and followed the directions, and at the end of about two months the sores were all well. He has never had any sores of any kind since. He is now strong and healthy, and I can sincerely say that only for your most wonderful remedies my precious child would have died from those terrible sores. I used only one cake of Soap and about three boxes of Ointment. Mrs. Egbert Sheldon, R. F. D., No. 1, Woodville, Conn., April 22, 1905."

WOULD REUNITE FORMER LOVERS

Woman Hopes to Heal Quarrel of Forty Years Ago.

Atlantic City, N. J., May 10.—Mrs. Sarah Morrison, of this city, has started out on the difficult task of uniting a pair of lovers, who, she says, have been parted since a quarrel forty years ago.

As the first step she has started search for Michael Hargrave, the recalcitrant lover, by means of requests sent to postmasters of Philadelphia and other large cities for his present address.

She asks Hargrave to come back to Miss Katie Wilson, who, she says, is still awaiting his return to make up the quarrel of long ago.

"Miss Wilson, once a beautiful girl and still good looking in her middle age, was a very dear friend of mine," said Mrs. Morrison.

"I did not know how deeply the girl was wounded or how constant was her love for Hargrave, who was then a handsome young fellow with bright prospects, until a few weeks ago, when she made me her confidante, saying that she still loved Hargrave.

"'I have never entirely given him up,' she told me, 'although I have not seen him for years, and have no idea where he is at the present time. If I can find him I will make the first overtures for a reconciliation and willingly forgive him.'

"It was then I decided to try to find Hargrave and bring him back."

"Do you believe that Hargrave, if still living and single, will be willing to make up the quarrel and marry his old sweetheart?" Mrs. Morrison was asked.

"I believe that Kittie's great love will not only be rewarded by finding him, but I also believe that her constancy will revive all the old love," she replied.

"Just think—I have loved, been married and become a widow, while Kittie has grown to womanhood, and almost to old age, still remaining true to the love of her youth."

My Best Friend.

Alexander Benton, who lives on Rural Route 1, Port Edward, N. Y., says: "Dr. King's New Discovery is my best earthly friend. It cured me of asthma six years ago. It has also performed a wonderful cure of incipient consumption for my son's wife. The first bottle ended the terrible cough, and this accomplished, the other symptoms left one by one, until she was perfectly well. Dr. King's New Discovery's power over coughs and colds is simply marvelous." No other remedy has ever equaled it. Fully guaranteed by all druggists. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Mathilde Van Rensselaer is Engaged in Real Estate Dealing.

New York, May 10.—Miss Mathilde Van Renselear, daughter of Mrs. Stephen Van Renselear, who is a member of one of the oldest Knickerbocker families, has buckled on her business armor, which consists of a dainty lingerie waist, a stunning Paris hat, and a winning smile, and has entered the lists to compete with the real estate brokers of New York.

Four years before the first John Jacob Astor became a landholder here, when the city was only the little Dutch colony of New Amsterdam, her forefathers owned acres and acres of real estate. For years also the old name has been connected with all that is most exclusive in New York's best set. In speaking of her venture she said:

"Yes, I'm sick of society—that is, I want something more serious than teas and calls to take up my mind. I believe I am really the first society real estate broker in this city.

"You see, I have a large acquaintance among society people and this will be a great help to me in renting the houses which I will handle. For instance, I was at a luncheon this noon. One of the young women present, a dainty little thing in baby blue, whispered to me: 'I am going to be married.' 'Well, then,' I said, 'you surely will have to live somewhere.' She admitted she would. 'Why not take one of my houses or apartments?' I suggested. She looked at me in perfect amazement.

"'Mathilde Van Rensselaer, what do you mean? I didn't know you owned any houses.'

"'Neither do I—yet,' I replied. Didn't you know I am a full fledged real estate "man" and have all kinds of houses?

"She readily consented to look over my list and, of course, I am sure I shall find her just the dear little place that all brides want. But brides will not be the only ones of my choice, you may be sure."

"But you drive to the various houses when you have prospective customers?"

"Indeed, I do not. I go on my good feet. And good and tired they get, too, just like any workingwoman's. Really you must not call me a society girl now. I'm not. I'm a real workingwoman. Yes, really, I have sold several houses and have rented some others, though I have only been in the business a few weeks."

"THE GANG" SWEAR OFF

Cigarettes Upon the Death of One of Their Number.

Detroit, Mich., May 10.—Grouped about the coffin of the dead boy, a dozen companions of Herbert Secrest, the 16-year-old school boy, who died of excessive use of cigarettes, solemnly vowed to abandon for ever the use of the noxious "coffin nails" in response to a dead lad's dying request to members of the "gang."

Terror was written on the faces of the boys and they heard with sobs the statement by the 13-year-old brother of Herbert, who said: "Herbie says to me just before he died, 'Frank, I want you to promise me you will never smoke another cigarette and that you will ask other boys to quit, and I promised."

Eight frightened youthful Detroiters yesterday called on Dr. A. B. Wickham, who performed the post mortem and received assurances if they quit the habit, there is yet time to become good, strong men.

COREY TO DODGE MAY 13 HOODOO

Wedding to be Performed Shortly After Stroke of Midnight.

New York, May 10.—Mabel Gilman and W. E. Corey will be married just after midnight of May 13; that is to say, at 12:15 o'clock on the morning of May 14. Thus will the hoodoo of the 13th be avoided, a point which has been worrying the superstitious friends of the bride and groom-to-be ever since the 13th was first announced as the date of the wedding.

The guests will gather informally at the Gotham at 11 p. m. They will wait until fifteen minutes after the midnight hour and then the ceremony will be performed.

After the ceremony supper will be served and then Mr. and Mrs. Corey will take an automobile to the steamer Kaiser Wilhelm, which sails at 7.30 o'clock in the morning, thus beginning their honeymoon by a voyage to the chateau near Paris which Mr. Corey recently purchased and fitted up for his bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Corey will travel alone Mrs. Gilman having decided to remain here for a few months. As now planned, the Coreys will spend four months of the year in France and the remainder of the time in this country. It is probable, however, Mr. Corey will remain abroad this time only about two months, as business matters may prevent his being away longer.

MOTHER KILLS CHILD AND SELF WITH PISTOL.

Pittsburg, May 10.—Despondent because of ill health, Mrs. Alexander Sergsworth killed her eighteen months old child and then shot and killed herself early today at her home in Allegheny. The bodies were found by her husband when he returned from his night's work in a steel mill.

BACK TO THE WATER WAGON

Injunction Against Use of Liquors in Elks' Club Rooms.

Carthage, Mo., May 10.—A stockholder's injunctional suit has been filed against the Carthage lodge of Elks, No 529, asking for an injunction restraining the sale or use of intoxicating liquors in the club house. A temporary order was granted.

The Carthage lodge of Elks fell from the "water wagon" about two weeks ago, after having ridden that vehicle, as an organization, for nearly seven years. The action of the stockholders is a strenuous attempt to place the entire lodge back on the vehicle.

At a social session two weeks ago, it is related, even as the serpent entered Eden so did the cup that cheers not well but hilariously, institute its presence in the club house.

Certain members of the Carthage lodge of Elks heard about the revelry and the popping staccato in the posthude to the social session, and they resolved it should not be repeated. Accordingly they filed a petition for a temporary injunction to stop the sale or the use of intoxicating liquor in the club house.

MEMORIAL EXERCISES

Preparations for Decoration Day Now Practically Complete.

Exercises Will be Given in All Schools of Duluth.

Memorial day will be fittingly observed in Duluth this year, and the preparations for the exercises are already practically complete. For the first time since the G. A. R. has been organized in this city the active work of arranging for the celebration will be out of the hands of the old veterans, having been taken up by the members of the recenly organized Citizens' Auxiliary of the G. A. R.

Besides the main memorial exercises, which will be held at the Lyceum theater, exercises of a patriotic character will be held in each of the public schools in Duluth and vicinity on the Friday preceding Memorial day. These exercises will take place at the normal school at 9 a. m. and at the high school at the same hour, while at the other schools they will be given at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

A meeting of the members of the G. A. R., the Sons of Veterans and the Citizens' auxiliary was held last evening, and the plans for the Memorial day exercises were talked over and the work of the committees on arrangements endorsed. Everything is in readiness for the celebration except the choosing of the speaker of the day, which will be done within the week, in all probability.

The main exercises this year will be held at the Lyceum theater at 10 o'clock in the morning instead of during the afternoon. An excellent musical program, vocal and instrumental, is being prepared for the exercises and will be given, besides the addresses of the day. The exercises at the cemeteries and the decoration of the graves of the old soldiers will take place in the afternoon.

Details of veterans of the Civil war and comrades of the G. A. R. have been named to visit the public schools on the Friday when the school exercises are given. The schools in the range towns as well as those in Duluth are included. The veterans who will visit the different schools are as follows:

TOWN SUES OFFICIAL.

Claims Former Treasurer Appropriates Some of Its Funds.

Charging J. H. Pinkerton, former treasurer of the town of Schroeder, Cook county, with having paid out, lost and converted $3,000 of the town funds, the town has started a civil action against Pinkerton and the Title Guaranty & Surety company of Scranton, Pa., to recover the amount named.

It is alleged that Pinkerton did not perform faithfully the duties of his office and that he refused to turn the $3,000 of town funds over to his successor in office. The surety company is claimed to be liable on Schroeder's bonds for $2,000.

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

AT METROPOLITAN—Burlesque.
AT BIJOU—Vaudeville.

"THE FREE LANCE."

After making a tremendous hit on the coast, Sousa's latest and best opera, "The Free Lance," will return to Duluth Wednesday with the same company that proved so popular last fall.

Harry B. Smith, the librettist of "Robin Hood," is sponsor for the book and lyrics, which are said to be of a better quality than any he has evolved for a decade. A notable feature is made of a male chorus of fifty voices, which greatly aids in the rendering of Mr. Sousa's spirited martial music, especially his new march number, "On to Victory," the finale of the first act. This is considered a worthy successor to the "Washington Post" March and the "Stars and Stripes Forever."

The principal comic interest is carried by Joseph Cawthorn, who is the stellar feature of the organization. The character of Siegmund Lump furnishes this comedian with more opportunities to exploit his humorous personalities and effective methods than any he has ever heretofore appeared in, and this is saying much, when one remembers his clever work in "The Fortune Teller" and "Mother Goose." Twenty-three musical numbers are introduced throughout the action of the story, the majority of which have that swing and soul-stirring effect that ets one's fee going and fingers thrumming. These are sung by Mr. Cawthorn as Siegmund; Nella Bergen as Princess Yolande, Jeanette Lowrie as Griselda, Albert Hart as the Duke, George Schiller as the Emperor, and George Tallman as Prince Florian. Other principals are Sim Paulen, Stanley Murphy, Charles Santra, Monte Elmo, Estelle Thebaud and Dorothy Southwick.

"OLE OLSON."

"Ole Olson," that old favorite comedy drama, will return to Duluth for one night only, Saturday. Ben Hendricks is again in the title role. His quaint Swedish comedy makes him a perennal favorite in Duluth.

SATURDAY MATINEE.

The regular Saturday matinee for school children will be given tomorrow afternoon at the Bijou. This Saturday matinee is one of the most popular features of the vaudeville theater.

"BOSS" PLATT WILL RETIRE

New York Senator Plans "To See the World Go Round."

New York, May 10.—The World says: "Senator Thomas C. Platt said yesterday: 'I have no idea whatever of being a candidate to succeed myself. I shall serve out my term. Then I shall wait for the call to the other side. I have lived my life, and I have done what seemed to me to be the right thing to do. But I realize there is not much left for me to do. I would like to settle down and see the wrold go round.'

"Asked how he felt toward President Roosevelt, the senator said: 'Just as I always did. I was in a position to make him governor in 1898. Black has alienated a large and important section of the Republican voters and it was necessary to pick out a man who could win. I selected him and he was nominated. It was purely politics. I never was a "Roosevelt man" as the saying goes.'"

CLOWN'S HOBBY THEOLOGY.

A parson in puff, a chaplain in motley, "Rev." George Hazlitt, a clown in Ringling Bros.' circus, has the distinction of combining mimicry with practical theology. He is the father confessor of the big tent colony, and his dignity does not suffer in the least because of his ring work, says the Chicago Post.

The ordinary churchgoer would be shocked to see his pastor, made up as Pantaloon, come waddling into the great hippodrome, leading a merry rout. To the circus people, however, such conduct represents the mere commonplace in life. Mirth is serious, and pantomime is a profession. Nothing could be more conventional and routine.

Preaching with this circus chaplain is an avocation: theology is a hobby, and the exercise of his pious duties a pleasure. Hazlitt has his ideals and ambitions. He reads philosophy and studies Greek and Hebrew. Like the court fool of mediaeval days, he is a wise man in cap and bells. And no one throughout the whole show world is as highly respected and as much looked up to as this shepherd of odd sheep.

Hazlitt is a clown because he was to the motley born. His father was a clown before him. His brother is a famous ringmaster, while his two sons are eccentric acrobats. He is a grandfather—though no one of the thousands who have laughed at his antics would suspect it—and his little grandson, a curly-haired, blue-eyed boy of 9, promises to become a famous pantomimist when he grows up.

For two seasons he has appeared under canvas, and he made the hit of his life last year as the lower extremities of the truncated lady.

The "lady," as those who went to the circus will remember, breaks in two, that port of her from her waist line down scampering away, to the great consternation of the beholders.

Whenever a baby is born into the circus "Father" Hazlitt presides at the christening, and a rapidly increasing constituency claims him as its godfather. These christenings are festive occasions in the circus troop.

The "famous artists foregathered from the far quarters of the world"—and ordinary-looking folk they are, divested of their pink tights and gauze—stand in a reverent group while "Father" Hazlitt goes through the ceremony. Then there are presents and kisses and congratulations, and the day is marked with a red star on the calendar.

It is "Father" Hazlitt, too, who performs the marriage ceremonies. As many of his flock are people of peculiar customs, his wedding service repertory necessarily is cosmopolitan. He has spliced more than one couple with the rites of Japan, Russia and Arabia. His versatility is the marvel of the age.

And "Father" Hazlitt has comforted the mourners as they have bowed their heads in sorrow over a new grave. It is in these gray days that he gets nearest the hearts of his people. The circus folk follow a perilous career at best. One never knows when a rope will snap; then the performer, swinging high up in the air, will be whirled to the hard-packed ground.

Then there are long night rides in fog and rain. There are dangerous changes in the weather, tending to undermine even the most rugged constitution. The funeral ceremony is by no means the least of "Father" Hazlitt's duties.

Of his theology little need be said. In his home town, where he spends the winters with his family, he is qualified as a local preacher. He professes no one creed, however, except Christianity. There are no hair-splitting distinctions, no schisms for him.

"To do good wherever you can," is the rule he lives up to, and the golden rule is the only "article of faith" he knows. Regarding his clowning, he says it is as noble to make people laugh as to sell them dry goods or groceries. All work is dignified, he believes, or can be made so if the workman enters upon his task in the right spirit. And, anyway, he says, there is "too much sorrow in this world of ours."

Hazlitt is more than a clown. He is an originator. His wits constantly are busy contriving new acts and planning new sensations. He is not the mere "Heigh O, here we are again" kind of a Jack Pudding.

"When I retire from the circus business," said Hazlitt during a pause in the rehearsal today, "I shall build up a little church somewhere for superannuated circus people. I probably shall work up to the end, however. My father went into the ring one day, and at the close of the show, before he could remove the grease paint from his face, lay down in a corner of the dressing room and died."

PASSING THE RAPID.

McClure's Magazine: At Red Stone rapid he passed the paddle to me, and leaping to the bank, put his broad, massive shoulder to the tracking line.

How the canoe quivered like something that struggled for life, as the many thousand tons of water clutched at its tissue sides and reared an angry mane at its smiting prow! Demons of great strength grasped my paddle, twisting until tense muscles tore apart in many places.

Sometimes the mastery was with the flood, and the men on the bank, hanging in the leather collars, were pulled in their footing; then the tried craft, swept back from the greater velocity, would ease a little, and the trackers would regain the inches they had lost.

Three times we battled with the narrow gate that was the point of strength. The third time, inch by inch, we crept through the blue stream that was a wedge between the rock points. And when we had passed, the thin shelled craft floated in serene content in a band of quiescent water, as though there was nothing in all that land but peace.

ABEYANCE.

New York Sun: "Yes, I'm only his stenographer," she said, as she rapidly transcribed her voluminous notes, "but I know some things he doesn't. Suppose I should write this just as it was dictated—'We will hold the matter in obeisance'—he would never know the difference, of course, but what would the big rival firm to whom this letter is going think of us?"

NEWS FROM THE WEST END.

NEW PASTOR COMES SOON

Rev. J. L. McBride Will Preach in West End May 26.

Second Presbyterian Congregation is Meanwhile Without a Pastor.

Rev. James Lloyd McBride, the new pastor of the Second Presbyterian church in the West end, will begin his pastorate at that house of worship Sunday, May 26.

Since the resignation of Rev. S. F. Sharpless, who retired to become pastor at large for the Red River Valley Presbytery, the pulpit of the Second Presbyterian church has not been filled by a regular pastor.

However, some months ago, the congregation extended a call to Mr. McBride and it was accepted. Mr. McBride was here some time ago and preached to his new congregation, making a most favorable impression. He comes from McCormick seminary, Chicago, where he has been studying. His home is in Quincy, Ill. He is a young man, being but 24 years of age, and unmarried.

It is expected that under his charge, the church will take on new life and that the membership will be considerably increased.

With the morning services May 26, Mr. McBride will formally begin his work in the city.

LINNAEUS ANNIVERSARY

Observed by Appropriate Entertainment in Bethany Church.

In honor of the 200th anniversary of the birth of Dr. Carolus Linnaeus, the Swedish botanist, an appropriate entertainment was given at Bethany Swedish Lutheran church in the West end last evening, by the Young People's society of that house of worship.

The church was well filled and the program much enjoyed. The principal address of the evening was given by Rev. Dr. Oskerstrom of Port Wing, Wis., who reviewed the life and deeds of Dr. Linnaeus.

Several musical numbers were given by members of the Orpheus Singing society and the choir of Bethany church.

FACING THE WIND.

Popular Mechanics: A novel automobile storm front has been invented by Dr. Whiting, and is described as having several advantages over the glass of mica front. It consists of zinc mesh wire gauze attached to a wood frame which folds up when not in use. It can be removed or put on in five minutes, and when not in use is stowed away, taking up little room. The front can be set at an angle, and very greatly reduces the wind resistance caused by the solid front. It has been estimated that this resistance is not less than twenty pounds a square foot when running against a hard wind. The gauze does not obstruct the vision and allows an agreeable amount of fresh air to pass through. In fact, under some conditions, it is said, the vision is more accurate than through glass.

MABELLE GILMAN INJURED.

New York Times: Mabelle Gilman, the American actress who will soon wed W. E. Corey of the United States Steel corporation, met with an accident while riding in the grounds of her chateau at Massey-Verrieres, about fifteen miles from Paris. She was thrown from her horse and slightly injured her left knee. She came to Paris to see her doctor and is now undergoing treatment at a private hospital.

DECISION OF LOWER COURT.

Birmingham Age-Herald: A loud knocking was heard on the door of hades. "What is that?" cried Satan.

"Open, sire!" answered a voice. "It is an escort bringing in the conspirator against Roosevelt."

"Is Harriman there?"

"Yes, your majesty."

"Well, leave him outside. He'd steal every coal road in my kingdom!"

CHORUS IS TALKED OF

Members of Gopher Social Club to Enlarge Society's Scope.

Making Plans for Next Season—Past One Big Success.

Although the last formal affair of the season under the club's auspices was the reception held a week ago tonight at the home of Earl Tetu, a business meeting of the Gopher Social club was held this week by the members, when the past year was reviewed and plans for next season discussed.

Next fall, the scope of the club will be considerably enlarged. More members will be taken into the ranks and a male chorus will be organized, the membership of the club embracing some splendid voices. Some competent instructor will probably be engaged to help the boys along musical lines.

Pleasant social affairs of the kind that have made the club so popular during the past seven years of its existence will also be given. Since its organization, the club has given more than seventy social functions. Among the possibilities for fall and winter are cozy club rooms for the members.

The members present at the meeting held this week were: President, Al Swanstrom; vice president, Lo Marlow; secretary, Frank Glover; treasurer, Earl Tetu; Grover Klern, George Hawkins, Fred Hoffman, Arthur Sutherland and Walter Matheson.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Bemidji—The plant of the Bemidji Pressed Stone, Tile & Cement company has changed hands, J. A. Ludington having sold the business of the company, the good will and the cement and stone-making machines to John Goodman and Ben Erickson of this city.

Winona—The Winona Free Fair association has organized and decided to hold the customary Winona fair the second week in September. The following officers of the association have been chosen: President, Emil Leight; vice president, E. W. Foster; secretary, Thomas B. Hill; treasurer, S. S. Strouse.

St. Cloud—Word was received at the Merchants National bank Thursday morning that there will be a council of the Chippewa band of Mille Lacs Indians at Lawrence on May 16 for the purpose of determining on the division of the $5,600 which is on deposit to their credit in the Merchants National bank here.

Minneapolis—An unidentified laborer was buried from the Northern Pacific railroad bridge just above the Washington avenue bridge some time Wednesday night and his crushed body was found early Thursday by men who live on the flats under the bridge.

INDIA RIOTING SPREADS FAST

Dacoits Burn Bengalese Villages—Stern Measures at Lahore.

Calcutta, May 10.—Serious rioting has broken out in Eastern Bengal, a band of 2,000 Dacoits having looted the bavaar at Dewanganj, burned some adjacent villages and also set fire to the town of Tarakanda, ten miles from Nasirabad, capital of the Mymunsingh district. A large number of the rioters have been arrested.

At Lahore yesterday, bands of stalwart men armed with bludgeons, enlisted with the leaders of the sedition, crowded into the native city. Troops of all arms and bodies of police, mounted and simounted, were drafted into the city from all parts of the province. The fortifications of Lahore were subjected to a special inspection and the artillerymen were reinforced.

The lieutenant governor of the Punjab, Sir Denzil Ibbetson, issued a proclamation prohibiting meetings of every kind and warned the public not to attend any assemblages under pain of severe punishment. A prominent lawyer, Lajpatral, who practiced in the chief court of the Punjab and who was the leader, financier and organizer of most of the seditious demonstrations and revolutionary riots was arrested and sent to another province.

The swift display of military force, combined with the arrest of Lajpatral, appears to have paralyzed the seditious movement. The troops were out all night but Lahore, which hitherto had been the scene of nightly excitement—inflammatory and noisy processions—slept in unbroken stillness, while the streets were deserted.

WOMEN TURN SOLDIER.

Army and Navy Journal: There were thousands of women soldiers in the French revolution. After the fall of the Bastile a battalion of young women took up arms under the name of Amazons and rendered yeoman service. Jeanne Lacombe, commedienne, forsook the stage for the field. Theresa Figeur saw four horses die under her in battle. Other Amazons were pensioned by Napoleon, and one was decorated with the Legion of Honor.

The "Amazon of the Cossacks" is the daughter of a Vlodivostok merchant. A skilled horsewoman and rifle shot, she distinguished herself greatly in the Russo-Japanese war, and was made a ward of the czar.

There died in Florence last March an Italian woman, Signora Mario, who fought with Garibaldi, and "Mother Jarrethout," heroine of the Franco-German war, died last year. She fought in male uniform on the walls of Chateaudun, and at Ablis she took two prisoners.

Mother Jarrethout's end was pathetic. She had made a great name for herself as the Florence- Nightingale of the Franco- German war, had received the cross of the Legion of Honor and numbers of lesser medals. Yet she died forsaken and in poverty.

The American Civil war bred a whole corps of women soldiers. Many women served throughout the entire war without their sex being discovered by officers or comrades.

Pauline Cushman, an actress, was captured in male uniform by the Confederates and was rescued by her companions just as she was about to be hanged as a spy. Pauline was so successful in the field that for her faithful services there was conferred on her the rank of major.

Still more successful was Bridget Danvers, known as "Irish Biddy." Bridget performed wonders as nurse, hospital steward, surgeon, vivandiere and private soldier. In one battle she had three horses killed under her. The war did not give Bridget her fill of fighting, so she afterward crosed the Rockies and engaged in campaigns against the Indians.

The Civil war, of course, did not have a monopoly of women soldiers.

There was English Mol (Mary Ambree), who, in 1554, headed 1,000 men against the prince of Parma and sustained an unequal combat with 3,000 Spaniards for seven hours, challenging any three Spaniards to try their powers against her single arm.

There was valiant "James Gray" (Hannah Snell), a hosier's daughter, who fought in the war of the Spanish succession, received innumerable wounds, was pensioned by Queen Anne, and at her death was buried with military honors.

HOW TO USE REVOLVER.

Memphis Commercial-Appeal: Primitive man crawled from a cave with a club and hunted a snake for dinner. With the same weapon he wrought revenge upon his enemies and defended himself from attack. The club was his ally. But man has advanced, and so have his weapons. The Iron Age came, and with it more ideas and more evolution. Steel weapons and coats of mail, then gunpowder. Verily, nations and peoples have broadened and grown apace, until at the present time neither the snake nor the club is considered quite the thing among the civilized, except where nothing else is available in the case of the latter, for man's enemies still pursue him.

Whatever has been the effect gunpowder has worked in the evolution of man's weapons, certain characteristics of a people—its blood—are reflected in them.

The Spaniard swears by his polnard, the Italian still puts confidence in his stiletto, while the Latin-American clings to the machete. The Australian—yet primitive—relies upon his boomerang, and the Filipino is true to his bolo. Although continental Europe and the Far Eeast lean to the automatic pistol, the first one of which was produced ten years ago by a Belgian, the American trusts his life and pursuit of happiness to the revolver.

With steel and gunpowder, genius has built firearms. First, the "matchlock," with which Columbus frightened the aborigines, then the "flintlock," which "chased the Redcoats down the lane," and then the percussion cap. Lastly, metallic cartridges came. Repeating arms followed.

There are two types of repeating arms in hand weapons. One of them acts on the multi-shot principle by means of a revolving cylinder while the other repeats automatically, the force of the explosion affecting a spring in the handle which ejects the exploding cartridge and throws another into its place. Col. Samuel Colt, an American, invented the revolver along in the '30s; one Brochardt produced the latter.

Since the ordinance board of the United States army has given the various types of automatic pistols a thorough try-out but failed to secure the adoption of the arm in the service and the experience of soldiers who fought in Cuba and the Philippines disclosed that the side arm in use at the present time has failed to efficiently disable an enemy, placing their lives in acute danger by reason of the fact that there is not apparently sufficient power in the bullet, attention reverts to a dime-tried weapon which has proved its worth in the winning of the West, the calibre .45.

Military operations have so changed in their nature during the past few years that it is considered improbable that cavalry charges can successfully be made and hence there is small probability that the pistol will ever again be made a weapon of offense by large bodies of men. It has then come to be more of a defensive weapon. A sort of life preserver, as it were, used by individuals, and its greatest necessity in the future will probably be for short range, individual work and the main requisite for the arm is not so much long range as it is accuracy and reliability.

The revolver is essentially an American weapon. The automatic pistol with its small calibre, is a product of Europe which has never been able to produce either a reliable, accurate or durable revolver or a single person capable of doing moderately good work with a respectably heavy service charge.

CLEANING DAY IS NEAR

Mayor Will Issue Proclamation Saturday Through the Press.

Weather Has Been too Cold for Work as Yet.

Duluth's municipal cleaning day is near at hand.

Mayor Cullum has not yet announced the date, but it will probably be Monday or Tuesday. His proclamation, however, will be prepared this evening and will be published tomorrow evening in The Herald. Monday, May 13, will probably be the day selected, but there is no law to prevent citizens getting to work before that time.

The board of public works has been planning all spring to go after those owners who have not cleaned up their alleyways, and prosecute those who are negligent with all the severity possible. So far, the council has held up the board's requisition for printed notices ordering the owners to clean up, owing to the recent trouble with the city printers, and the weather has been so cold that the citizens had a right to kick on being forced to dig their refuse out from under cakes of ice, but the mayor's proclamation has officially recognized that the city is ready for cleaning and the trouble with the printers is over, so the disreputable alleyway is likely to bring trouble upon the owner of the property abutting thereon.

A Big Value.

RETURNS TO OLD LOVE.

Woman Remarries to First Husband After Death of Second Spouse.

Janesville, Wis., May 10.—Married as a young girl to the man of her choice, divorced a few years later and again married to a second husband whom she lived to bury after twenty years of wedded life, and then again marrying the husband of her younger days, is the tale that comes from Hanover, a few miles west of this city. Mrs. Wealthy Stockwell-Haight-Stockwell entered into her third matrimonial venture this week, with her first husband, whom she divorced twenty years ago. Stockwell married again after his divorce twenty years ago, and his wife recently died. He lived but twenty miles from his former wife and in their bereavement they turned to each other, became reconciled and were married in Rockford. Each owns a good farm, one in Hanover, the other near Rockford, Ill., and each have grown sons. They will divide their time between their farms with a son for manager on each during their absence.

AT THE WHITE HOUSE.

In the past year President Roosevelt has posed for three portraits by as many artists and for widely different purposes, says the Washington Star.

Irving Wiles painted three portraits for the Roosevelt room in the University of Berlin—one of James Speyer, who endowed the seat of "international exchange of professors;" another of President Roosevelt, who heartily co-operated with Kaiser Wilhelm and made the idea a possibility, and one of Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, who was the first American professor to lecture to the German boys on American politics.

Orlando Rouland openly says that he painted the president's portrait for no other reason than that of pleasure, not being commissioned by any committee, whatsoever.

Baron Robert de Dobhofff painted the newest portrait for the Peace Temple at The Hague, and was commissioned to do so by the Countess Bobinsky and other peace friends.

"My experience in painting the president's portrait?" asked Mr. Wiles. "Well, let me see!"

Mr. Wiles wiped the paint from some of his brushes and smiled in a manner indicating that something was shaping itself i his mid.

"I had a very amusig experience while painting the portrait and I now know that the president appreciates a good joke. These paint brushes remind me of it. I painted the portrait in the president's study, that being the room with the best light in it for my purpose. I always took my brushes away with me, carrying them in a japanned can. One morning when I went to the White House a new man was on duty. He did not know me, and there he stood, barring my way and looking me over from head to feet, first at the can, then at me. I tried my best to explain, but he was obdurate and could not be made to understand. Finally he sent in for another man, who identified me, and I passed in.

"I found Mr. Roosevelt waiting, and as I had only fifteen minutes' pose at a time this five minutes seemed pretty precious.

"'What happened, Mr. Wiles?' he said in his very characteristic, business-like manner. 'Why,' I explained, 'the new man on the door wouldn't let me in until I had been identified.'

"'Eh?' he said, looking rather puzzled. 'Wouldn't let you in! Why—why—' and then he laughed—laughed as heartily as a good big schoolboy in his appreciation of a joke.

"'I see it—I see it now, just as they saw it. Why, Wiles, the man on the door saw that can—took you to be a crank with an infernal machine in your hand, and—' he laughed again very heartily, and finished: 'I believe you have one, for in this wait we have exploded ten minutes' good time in a poor bomb, and I'll have to make is up to you, so put the infarnal ma—brushes, I mean, down, and let's get at the work.'"

"One morning Mr. Roosevelt came into the study just a trifle later than usual. 'I beg pardon,' he said; 'I was thinking of an important matter, and—' he had walked over to a window and looked out, stopping in the middle of his sentence. He stood there for some few minutes looking into the park. When he turned around he began where he had stopped: That is the reason I'm late. You see, I have made up my mind to give you as good a chance as I can and not mix business with this sitting; if you don't mind we'll change the train of thought and talk about—'

"'Did you ever hunt in Africa?' I asked, referring to a book on big game that lay on the desk.

"'No, but I should like to,' and from that on the full quarter of an hour was filled with big game conversation, and when he left the room he laughed and remarked:

"'Thanks, Wiles, that big game cleared out the cobwebs.'"

Baron Robert de Dobihoff, who painted the portrait for The Hague, raised his hands high in the air and exclaimed:

"Ah! He is a human whirlwind. He is like the rapids and the whirlpool; he is like the maelstrom, although he does not destroy those he carries with him, this president of yours. But he carries you along on the tide of his energy."

"Mr. Roosevelt laid aside business when he posed for you?" I inquired.

"Laid aside business? Oh, no! Not at all. I wonder if he ever does that. I wonder if such a thing would be possible. If his hands are not employed his brain is. I think he always works. But that is American, though he is more ploded ten minutes' good time in a poor bomb, and I'll have to make is up to you, so put the infarnal ma—brushes, I mean, down, and let's get at the work.'" ore else I have ever seen. I do not believe that there were thirty minutes in all during the sittings that he did not work.

"During the time I was making sketches he was talking business, first on this side, then on that. Suddenly he would leave his desk and walk over to the window and look out for a moment, but just for a moment. That seems a little peculiarity of his. Then he would come back and go right on where he stopped.

"In the very midst of talking with his secretary and business people he would glance over to where I was sitting, smile, nod and then proceed with business. I just had to catch the studies on the fly. It was like taking snap-shots, and I made many, many sketches first. On his first visit to my studio he came in and remarked that he would suspend business for a while. That sounded encouraging, but we had not been at work more than ten minutes when the telephone bell rang, and much to my dismay I detected a keen, alert expression in Mr. Roosevelt's eyes.

"'I think that is for me,' he said. I discovered that it was for him, and there, just as I had cherished hopes of a good sitting, I discovered that some very important business was on hand. However, the busy, busy man assured me that he would not leave the studio, but asked the people to come over, and there on the spot he engaged in business.

"I never worked so hard in all my life, Mr. Roosevelt makes you work hard—that is, his manner makes you realize that time is valuable, and you work as though your very life depended upon it. That's what I did in the weeke I was in Washington, and it is a wonder to me that I didn't get telephones, cablegrams, private secretaries and business men in the portraits. It all made my head swim."

Orlando Roulard went to Washington to paint the president's portrait quite free and unincumbered by a commission of people to please, and this seemed to please Mr. Roosevelt.

"The first three sittings that I had," said Mr. Rouland, "were in an improvised studio.

"During these first sittings he proceeded with business, but a more thoughtful man I never saw. Several times during the posing one of the gentlemen with whom the president was talking, and who was walking up and down the room, passed between the president and myself. Stopping in his conversation, he said: 'Mr. ——, please, please don't stand between our artist and myself. I assure you his work is just as important to him as ours is to us.' Then he continued his conversation. He was always thoughtful of my work, and would many times desire a quiet moment.

"One of the most interesting things that happened, I think, was his several interviews with his children. Miss Ethel Roosevelt came in one morning, and she and her father talked about her school. 'How are your classmates getting on, my dear?' he asked her. She replied that one of them, calling the young woman by name, was somewhat behind. Her father leaned forward and said most energetically: 'Why, my dear, she ought to be doing better than that. Help her. Go to work and help her. Get her up with the rest. One must not forget his fellow-creatures in the race. Help her up. I know you will.'

"This was the interest he exhibited constantly in the affairs of his children, and when one day I received a simple little note from my young nephew and handed it to the president, a smile came into his eyes as he read:

"'My Dear Uncle:

"'I hear you are painting the portrait of the president. Will you ask Mr. Roosevelt to save all his cigar bands for me? And will you save yours too? Please tell President Roosevelt that I have read his book, "Theodore Roosevelt, Citizen," and like it so very, very much that I would like his signature for it.

"'Your loving nephew.'

"'Well, bless the boy!' said Mr. Roosevelt. 'Why, he's just like my boys. Just like them. He shall have his "signature;" I'll send him a line. Now—and a tone of real misgiving came into the voice—now, isn't it too bad I don't smoke?'

"He did not forget to send the letter to the boy who cherishes that note above all his other youthful possessions."

THE EYES THAT MOVED.

New York Press: He was at that point where he thought a bracer was necessary to steady his nerves and drive away the pink elephants, so he dropped into a place in the West Seventies for a cocktail.

The man behind the bar went about his task with the elegant deliberation of a barkeep in the residential district and the other leaned against the counter and regarded the figure of a brownie that formed a break in the pyramid of glassware.

Suddenly the man at the bar jumped and with an unsteady "never mind!" started for the door. The mixer set down the glass with a smile.

"Come back a second," he called. The customer turned irresolutely. "Did you see those eyes move?" he asked. "They work by clockwork. It's all right."

The man came back to the bar and raised the cocktail glass with trembling hand. "How did you guess it," he demanded.

"That's where it's easy to be Sherlock Holmes," he confided. "It happens every day. I've asked the boss time and again to take the fool thing out of here, but some one gave it to him when he opened, and he thinks it's a mascot."

CUTTING STEEL WITH YARN.

What the drop of water does to the hardest stone is only a circumstance to what a thread of yarn can accomplish.

Maj. McClaughry, warden of the Federal prison at Fort Leavenworth, once found a prisoner who was supposed to be pounding stone working away at one of the bars to an outside window.

The man finally admitted what he was doing and was induced to give a demonstration. A grating of the same description was placed in his cell, says Popular Mechanics, and a guard stationed over him to exact the proof of the statement.

With the limestone dust and silicate from the stone pile, the yarn from his sock and a little water this man cut the bessemer steel bar in eighteen working hours. With some fine emery, a chalk line, and two wooden handholds to save his fingers he made the other clean cut of the bar in five hours, proving the matter to the guard's satisfaction.

UNASSAILABLE LOGIC.

The Superior Telegram, by way of gracefully seeking a change from its embittered assaults upon the Duluth board of trade in the interests of the bucketshop industry, has hit upon a real idea, one of positive value, and one that will profit both it and Superior and the entire Head of the Lakes country far more than any jealous detraction of an established Duluth industry.

Says the Telegram:

> If products can be raised at distant points for the Superior and Duluth market on land worth on an average more than $100 per acre, the products being handled through trusts and over railroads, what ought land equally as good be worth per acre where the producers can haul their commodities to this market by team?

This is something worth thinking about. It touches the heart of a condition that is more or less a problem, and it points the way to its solution.

There is hardly an article of food that comes from the soil, either directly or indirectly, that can be grown in the temperate zone, that cannot be raised upon lands near Duluth and Superior. There is a splendid market here for all that can be raised upon the available land for many miles around both cities.

Instead of paying interest on the investment in land worth $100 an acre, instead of paying tribute to trusts and combines that control the prices of food products to a greater or a less degree, instead of paying railroad freights a long distance, the consumers of the Head of the Lakes ought to be living upon the products of nearby soil.

Land that is just as productive as that costing $100 an acre can be bought for very much less, and its products can be hauled to this market by wagon over good roads. If they are sold at the going prices in the Duluth and Superior markets, the profit ought to be great, considering the saving in interest on investment, in freight haul, and in tributes to middle men controlling the markets.

If the consumers are given part of this saving, on the other hand, living at the Head of the Lakes would be very much cheaper. There is an ample margin for profit both to the producer and the consumer, providing the acres near Duluth and Superior are settled and tilled.

We can't raise bananas, oranges or cocoanuts, but there is no reason on earth why all the vegetables, milk, butter, eggs and small fruits used at the Head of the Lakes shouldn't be raised within 100 miles from the two cities.

In fact, there is every reason why all these things should be raised here, and beyond any question they will be. There is a splendid chance now to get in on the ground floor while land values are low, and to begin producing stuff for the Duluth market.

The same thing is true of the iron ranges, which are shipping in nearly all of their food products when they could just as well be raised near by, to the profit of the producers and of the consumers, too.

NO ARTIFICIAL COPPER.

If holders of copper shares feared a speedy disintegration of their value because of the story that Sir William Ramsay, a British scientist, had discovered a synthetical method of making copper by assembling its elements through the use of radium, they may be reassured. There is nothing to the story, and the authority is the alleged discoverer himself.

A couple of weeks ago the story came from London that Ramsay had discovered a method of making copper by synthesis that would revolutionize the copper market. The several elements which he found copper to be composed of could be assembled by the judicious use of a bit of radium, and there you had the copper metal, produced so cheaply that the copper mines of the world would soon be abandoned.

Copper shareholders had been used to ordinary market fluctuations of late, because the March panic had squeezed the values out of most of their holdings, sending them down in many cases far below their actual worth, not to speak of their speculative values. So the news found stockholders in copper mines in a rather discouraged mood, and ready to accept almost anything of a bearish turn.

However, somebody got to figuring on the story, and one result was the discovery that even if what the cables brought over was true, and Sir William had indeed found an artificial means of producing copper, the copper industry need have no fear, because the elements used to produce the result are so expensive that at the very best copper so made would cost $25 a pound, whereas it can be bought from the miners at about 25 cents a pound, and it is usually lower than that.

Then, when this reasoning had calmed the fears of the copper investors, somebody over in London happened to think that it would make a pretty good story to find out from the discoverer just how his feat was done, and what the results were going to be.

Then the discoverer pronounced the story a silly hoax. He said that the only possible way he could account for it was that somebody had given a tremendous twist to something he had said in a lecture before the Chemical society, in which he had discussed the effect of radium emanations upon copper.

"The lecture was dry and unintelligible to lay minds," said he, "and I never at any stage reached a point where I even said it was possible to manufacture copper synthetically. How the news of the great discovery came to be privately communicated to John Hopkins university, which appears to have been the method by which it circulated in the United States, nonplusses me, but I have a faint suspicion of the American newspaper men."

Which is another evidence that these stories of great discoveries should be received with more than a grain of salt until they are substantiated by proof.

"Doc" Bixby of the Lincoln State Journal thinks that if all the "undesirable citizens" were thrown into the sea, the sharks would have food supply enough for a thousand years, and he doesn't have to guess again, either.

RICHES OF THE SOIL.

Great riches have been dug from the mines of the world, but greater riches still are being wrested from the soil, and a report from a committee of the Nebraska legislature, framed as a joke in response to a joke, shows up the situation in this respect with admirable clarity.

Though Nebraska has no mines, its house of representatives has a committee on mines and mining, provided, no doubt, in the hope that some day somebody might discover a mine somewhere in the state.

By way of pleasantry, the speaker of the Nebraska house put on this committee his disappointed opponents for the speakership. The chairman, a farmer Populist, was the Democrat-Populist candidate for speaker. There was a laugh when the committee was announced, and another when it was announced that it was going to make a report, something that this particular committee had never been able to do before.

But the laugh was followed by thoughtful consideration of the facts presented in the report. Based on statistics of 1905, the report conveyed to the house the following facts:

From the wheat mines of Nebraska $28,940,629 was dug up, or $4,544,829 more than the gold mines of Colorado produced in the same year.

From the alfalfa mines of Nebraska $11,715,840 was dug up, or $2,555,440 more than the Alaska gold mines produced.

Nebraska hens scratched from the grass roots $4,650,736, or $1,306,836 more than the gold mines of Arizona produced.

By the concentration of grasses and grains into beef and pork Nebraska produced $81,792,311, or $35,196,052 more than Michigan produced from its iron and copper.

The total dug up from Nebraska's grain mines was $149,379,549, or $35,815,367 more than Pennsylvania's great coal mines produced.

The grand total dug up from Nebraska's agricultural mines was $247,898,482, or $125,608,385 more than all the gold and silver produced in the United States and Alaska in the same year.

This shows that the wealth of the world does not lie all in its mines. The soil is a greater wealth producer by far. For instance, while the total value of the mineral products of the United States in 1905 was $1,623,877,120, the value of the farm products of 1900, the latest year for which figures are obtainable, was $3,764,177,706.

The mineral wealth makes a greater showing, perhaps, and provides more spectacular returns, but it must not be forgotten that the real source of this nation's wealth is its soil.

SHOULD BE DIRECTED.

The demand that steps be taken to properly direct immigration that is seeking this country comes now from both North and South.

It comes from the North because its cities are crowded and congested, because its poor quarters are filled with paupers and dependents, because the great majority of the immigrants seek the cities and remain there, doing the best they can, and because the sections that need the immigrants are getting none while those that do not need them are getting more than they can handle.

It comes from the South because the South needs immigrants and connot get them. It needs laborers for its field and farms and factories. It has been almost unnoticed by immigrants, who have practically all gone to northern ports because their predecessors went there, and who have practically all gone to a few congested centers for the same reason.

With the demand so widespread, therefore, it seems impossible that something will not be done shortly to change the current of immigration. The North need not fear that the attempt to divert it to the South will deprive it of needed laborers. In spite of all efforts, a too large proportion will continue, for a time at least, to come to northern ports for distribution to northern states. Those immigrants that the South will get, for some time to come, will only be gained by strong positive efforts to send them there.

The flood of immigration is uninterrupted. The April report is not yet out, but the indications are that it will exceed 140,000, which is at the rate of 1,680,000 a year against a little over a million last year. In that flood of humanity there are plenty of laborers for the South, which needs them badly, and it is to be hoped that something positive will be done to send them where they are needed.

As a matter of fact, while some parts of the North have suffered of late for lack of labor, there are laborers enough in the North if they were properly distributed. It is pitiful that such a condition should exist as that in the fields and upon the constrcution work of the North and West progress should be impeded for lack of men, while in the great cities able-bodied men are forming bread lines and appealing to charity for shelter.

Even if these poor men in the cities knew that there was work for them elsewhere they have no means of getting to it. A man without the money for his next meal or a place to lay his head at night gains small encouragement from the knowledge that a job awaits him fifty or a thousand miles away, for the item of railroad fare stands as an unsurmountable wall in his way.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

"I believe the 1907 season, taken as a whole, will be the best in the history of the Duluth hotels," said the manager of one of the local hotels yesterday. "That is the way things look now. Last year was a good one, and so was 1905, but the indications for a big business are better now than they were in either of those cases.

"For one thing, the travel is setting this way much earlier than usual this spring. We have had a good business all winter. It has been surprisingly good, in fact, and much greater than we even hoped for. There is scarcely a night now that one or more of our leading hotels is not filled to capacity, and if it were not for the new accommodations provided during the winter, Duluth would be up against it in providing for her guests. So you see, business is about as heavy now as it was during much of the busy season last year, for then all these additional rooms were lacking, and the visitors had to be taken care of in the smaller space.

"Tourist travel was fairly started this way by the Lewis & Clark exposition at Portland. The people who went West via Duluth were so well pleased with trip that they told their friends at home about it, and the friends and their friends in turn made up their minds to follow the same path as soon as circumstances would permit. In this way Duluth got to be pretty well advertised. But aside from the tourist travel, there is a great increase in the number of people coming here for purely business reasons. More commercial travelers are making the town, and new faces are appearing right along as the result of business connections outsiders have in Duluth and the ranges. Duluth has good reason to boast of her hotel accommodations, for they are among the best in the West."

"The state's new free employment bureau in Duluth will probably be located on Fifth avenue west, between First and Superior streets, said State Labor Commissioner W. H. Williams at the Lenox. Mr. Williams returned yesterday afternoon from the range. His visit here at this time is largely of a personal nature, but he is also investigating the matter of a site for the bureau.

"We have a promise that one of the store rooms opposite the McKay hotel will be fixed up for us," he continued, "and if nothing happens that is where the office will be. My visit here has nothing to do with the deputy who will be in charge. The deputy will draw $1,160 a year, and will have a clerk at $800. I am unable to say just who the deputy will be. The matter rests largely in the hands of Duluth Democrats.

THE WEATHER.

Another near-spring day. This morning the sun shone brilliantly, the sky was nearly cloudless, and it looked very warm and comfortable out of doors. But a chill wind blew from over the lake, and people upon the streets found themselves seeking the sunny side, for in the shade it was noticeably cool. The weather man expects the northeast winds to become brisk tonight and tomorrow, and he says it will be partly cloudy and perhaps threatening. Last night's lowest temperature was 24 degs. and yesterday's highest was 44 degs. Tonight's lowest will be 25 to 30 degs.

A year ago today it was fine and clear. The sun rose this morning at 4:37, and sets tonight at 7:30, making fourteen hours and fifty-five minutes of sunshine. Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "The Saskatchewan high pressure has moved to Manitoba, the Lake Superior disturbance has advanced its center to Vermont, and the British Columbia depression has deepened somewhat. These conditions caused rain or snow during Thursday or last night over portions of the lake region, Atlantic and Gulf states, the Eastern slopes and North Pacific districts, and colder weather in the Missouri and upper Mississippi valleys. Freezing temperatures prevailed again in the Northwest last night. New Orleans reports the very heavy rainfall of 4.64 inches in twenty-four hours. Partly cloudy to threatening and cool weather is indicated for this locality tonight and Saturday."

Following were last night's lowest temperatures, as recorded by the weather bureau:

The Elimination Process.

When you go to the doctors they say the first thing,
"Cut it out."
And on this one subject the changes they ring,
Cut it out;
They see to result it will give a short cut,
And really we'd get quicker out of the rut,
If into more troubles this hint would just butt—
Cut it out.

If worry is tearing your being to rags,
Cut it out;
If temper or quarrel to peace threatens snags,
Cut it out;
If you feel on your forehead a cross frown has hung,
If you're like a wet blanket your comrades among,
If you know a sharp word is at the tip of your tongue,
Cut it out.

If you write for the press on both sides of the sheet,
Cut it out;
If you put in a phrase you think wittily neat,
CUT IT OUT!
If you fall in deep love with the dimple and curl
Of a fairy who makes your heart rapidly whirl,
And some other fellow find first with the girl,
Cut him out!

Liked Old Ways Best.

Kansas City Journal: A painfully bashful young man of Stotesbury, according to the Tribune, proposed to his girl by means of a phonograph, to the waxen cylinders of which he had previously told his love. The girl was greatly surprised and not displeased to hear her lover's declaration, but the idea of this betrothal did not appeal to her. Accordingly she sent her little brother with a note which read as follows: "Dear Sir—If you have courage enough you might come over and tell me what you have to say, but if you haven't, stay at home, for I'll be jiggered if I am going to be hugged and kissed by a phonograph if I never get a chance to say 'Yes!'"

A Fine Piece of Work.

Ely Miner: The special industrial edition of The Duluth Evening Herald of last week Thursday was certainly a fine piece of work. It comprised ninety-two pages and set forth the advantages of Duluth and St. Louis county in a manner convincing. The Herald is one of the best papers in the Northwest.

Has Public Confidence.

Akeley Tribune: The industrial edition of The Duluth Herald would indicate that it possesses the full confidence of the Duluth business men and the public at large. A new afternoon daily would have rocky sailing.

Replete With Information.

Pawtucket, R. I., Times: The Duluth Minn., Evening Herald has just issued an industrial edition of ninety-two pages. It is an excellent specimen of typographical neatness, handsomely illustrated, with a makeup that does it much credit, and every page of the large journal is replete with information of the utmost importance to the readers. It contains a complete history of the manufacturing and business interests of Duluth, as well as the mining industries of the country, with interesting chapters of information on the early history of the place, its churches, educational institutions, etc.

A Gigantic Effort.

Clearwater Crystal: The Duluth Evening Herald published, last Thursday, an industrial edition of ninety-two pages, setting forth the "facts on which Duluth's title to supremacy is based." It is a gigantic effort, well planned and excellently executed. The fact that Duluth is one of the most industrious and rapidly growing cities in the country was not forgotten, but the Herald gave all Northern Minnesota a lift as well.

Herald Delivers the Goods.

Little Falls Herald: The Duluth Herald's ninety-two page industrial edition was not a surprise, for great things are expected of The Herald. And it always delivers the goods. The industrial edition is worthy of The Herald and the future imperial city of the Northwest.

Well at the Top.

Park Rapids Clipper: The Duluth Evening Herald boasts unceasingly for its home town, and Northern Minnesota, and in doing so, incidentally keeps itself well at the top as a newspaper. That industrial edition of ninety-two pages, issued last Thursday was chuck full of valuable information and advertising regarding this section.

One of the Best.

Paynesville Press: The Duluth Evening Herald of last Thursday was a mammoth edition of ninety-two pages of exceptionally well gotten up matter in the interests of Duluth and its various commercial interests. The Herald is one of the best papers in the country, published in the most enterprising city in the Northwest.

Credit to Northern Minnesota.

Barnum Star-Gazette: The large industrial number of the Duluth Evening Herald, issued last Saturday, is a credit to the plant as well as to the whole of Northern Minnesota. It is such a healthy, progressive spirit as this that sends a country to the front rank by leaps and bounds and gets it before the eyes of the entire world. To Eastern people, such a presentation of the country's resources and industrial advancement is an eye-opener and The Herald is to be highly commended for its efforts in issuing so complete an edition.

JOHNSON OF MINNESOTA.

Louisville Courier-Journal: Lawyer Louis W. Cunningham of Colorado Springs, writes the editor of the Courier-Journal as follows:

"I have read with much interest your recent comment on Mr. Bryan and the presidential outlook from the Democratic standpoint. It seems strange to me that some of the great leaders of our party have not turned their attention to Gov. Johnson, of Minnesota. He impresses me as a man who possesses many qualifications which should be found in a candidate for the office of president.

"His two remarkable races for the governorship, in the first of which he was elected by a plurality of more than 6,000, notwithstanding that at the same election Mr. Roosevelt's plurality in Minnesota exceeded 161,000, attests his popularity. The fact that he was triumphantly re-elected tends to show that his first victory was not due to the weakness of his adversary, especially. His modest but successful career in office stamps him, it seems to me, as an executive of high character. I think I can see in him many traits which made Abraham Lincoln illustrious. Is it not about time the Democratic party was discovering a Lincoln? What can be said against Governor Johnson as a man, politician or statesman? Is there any reason why the different factions of our party cannot harmonize on the man from Minnesota?

"I put my argument in the form of questions for the reason that I recognize the infinite superiority of your advantages for information. I hope you may at least give my suggestion serious consideration."

Mr. Cunningham is obviously a gentleman of intelligence and discrimination. The Democratic party might easily go farther for a presidential nominee, and fare worse, than the governor of Minnesota. He is a coming man upon the national steeplechase, having long ago, arrived upon the field of the queen of the states of the Northwest. All that is said in the above of Governor Johnson, and a great deal more that might be said, is true. His forebears came from the Norseland of Sweden and Norway—now unhappily separate—and he grew up a typical New American. He has brains and enterprise, manhood and patriotism "to let," as it were, and would make a good president as surely as he has made a good governor. He would make a good candidate, too! He would run, as they used to say about the Forks of Elkhorn, "like a skeerd deer."

From Arizona, Too.

Bisbee, Ariz., Review: In considering the possibilities for the next Democratic nomination for president of the United States, it would not do to omit Governor Johnson of Minnesota from the list. It is idle for politicians to attempt to fix on the nominee one year in advance. We make political history fast in this country, and the man who may be strongest today might easily be a back number six months hence.

So it is interesting to consider the personality of Governor Johnson. It is said of him that among men who know him personally and have heard him speak, he is one of the strongest figures in national politics today. How he stands among his neighbors and friends is clearly shown by the fact that Minnesota, a state normally Republican by 80,000, was carried by him last fall by the magnificent majority of 72,000. He did this in spite of the bitterest opposition from corporation politicians, who were aided by all of the big daily newspapers in the state, except one.

The handicap under which Johnson labors just now is his lack of acquaintance with the millions outside of Minnesota and the neighboring states. A "swing around the circle," so popular with some aspirants for the presidency, might strengthen him wonderfully. But up to the present time he has not given the slightest indication that he hears the bee buzzing. He stated last fall, shortly after his re-election as governor, that his first duty and desire was to be a good governor of his state. He is "making good" at that duty, without doubt, and has the complete confidence of every man, woman and child in Minnesota.

That a man of his character and popularity may be called to larger duties, as the people come to know him more intimately, goes without saying. It would be well to keep an eye on Johnson of Minnesota.

The Legend of Evil.

This is the sorrowful story
Told when the twilight falls,
And the monkeys walk together,
Holding each other's tails.

"Our fathers lived in the forest;
Foolish people were they;
They went down to the cornland
To teach the farmers to play.

"Our fathers frisked in the millet,
Our fathers skipped in the wheat,
Our fathers hung in the branches,
Our fathers danced in the street.

"Then came the terrible farmers;
Nothing of play they knew,
Only they caught our fathers,
And set them to labor, too!

"Set them to work in the cornland
With plows and sickles and flails,
Put them in mud-walled prisons,
And cut off their beautiful tails.

"Now, we can watch our fathers,
Sullen and bowed and old,
Stooping over the millet,
Sharing the silly mould.

"Driving a foolish furrow,
Mending a muddy yoke,
Sleeping in mud-walled prisons,
Steeping their food in smoke.

"We may not speak to our fathers,
For if the farmers knew,
They would come up to the forest
And set us to labor, too."

This is the horrible story
Told as the twilight falls,
And the monkeys walk together,
Holding each other's tails.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

International Falls Border Budget: Lynn Haines, who vacated his position as legislative committee clerk by persuasion of Speaker Johnson, is out with a lurid colored circular promising to disclose all the inside and outside dickering and deals of the late session. He offers to peddle his frenzyism at so much per, and, of course, the publishers assume all responsibility. From a distance it appears as though Mr. Haines needs the money and is combining business with revenge.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: The price of every commodity, except newspapers and printing, has raised during the past year. This includes the paper and the type that the newspaper man uses in his business—two articles controlled by heartless and unscrupulous trusts, which are pushing the prices beyond all reason.

Crookston Times: Prominent Democrats of wide repute have been known recently to favor the nomination of Roosevelt in a sort of composite national convention by the peerless one, William Jennings Bryan. There might be less sensible things to ponder over. Why should not the Republicans of Minnesota put up John A. Johnson as their candidate to succeed himself in 1908? And why should the nomination not be made by Robert Dunn or Frank Eddy?

Le Sueur News: When a lawyer goes to the legislature from the country he is a farmer, by legislative courtesy.

Mankato Free Press: Judge B. B. Lindsey of the juvenile court of Denver declares "that nine-tenths of our young girls go wrong by reason of negligence of the parents." A strong accusation but it is in a measure true. Mothers and fathers cannot be too careful with their daughters. Given too much liberty, girls are likely to associate with company that cannot do them any good, but will eventually lead them into harm's way.

Austin Transcript: There will be an increase of the state tax rate on account of the extravagance of the recent legislature and it is probable that there will be a deficiency at the end of the biennial period. But the people know how to prevent all this if they would only make themselves heard at the polls.

New Ulm Review: It is said that though New York has voted $50,000,000 for good roads, and is spending some of the money, it has not yet settled the questions of proper construction and maintenance. Road improvement will make no headway with the cart before the horse.

Middle River Pioneer: That Governor Johnson has the respect and esteem of people generally without regard to party fealty, was characteristically evinced in the action of the legislature in turning down a proposition to make him share the responsibility of the appointment of the tax commissioners with the other state political heavy fast in this country, and the man who may be strongest today might easily be a back number six months hence.

So it is interesting to consider the personality of Governor Johnson. It is said of him that among men who know him personally and have heard him speak, he is one of the strongest figures in national politics today. How he stands among his neighbors and friends is clearly shown by the fact that Minnesota, a state normally Republican by 80,000, was carried by him last fall by the magnificent majority of 72,000. That a man of his character and popularity may be called to larger duties, as the people come to know him more intimately, goes without saying. It would be well to keep an eye on Johnson of Minnesota.

Brainerd Dispatch: In Nebraska the legislature has made it unlawful for brewers or wholesale liquor men to own saloons. The time is not far distant when a similar law will be made to apply generally throughout the country.

Red Wing Republican: Minnesota has passed a child labor law which takes a step in advance of all other state laws on the subject and reaches the ideal regulation urged by Senator Beveridge for a national measure.

HARRIMAN'S LATEST MOVE

Union and Central Pacific Stocks Increased $136,000,000.

Magnate Defends Scheme Against Wall Street Criticism.

New York, May 10.—New capital issues, aggregating $136,000,000, were announced yesterday by the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific Railway companies, and resulted in a sharp decline in prices on the stock exchange.

This latest move on the part of the great systems of which E. H. Harriman is the head, caused much comment in financial circles and drew a statement from Harriman. He said that the directors had decided that it would be better to offer stockholders preferred stock at par rather than to sell Southern Pacific bonds at a high rate of interest. He believes this would better maintain the credit of the company.

"Southern Pacific has a floating debt at the present time of about $32,300,000," said Harriman. "Of this sum $14,200,000 is payable to Union Pacific for advances. Under the arrangement announced today Union Pacific will take 45 per cent of the $58,000,000 stock offered by the Southern Pacific stock outstanding. Stockholders of Union Pacific will hold a meeting in June to authorize an issue of $100,000,000 of common stock. An issue of $75,000,000 debentures will have the first call on this to the extent of $40,000,000, so that when all debentures are converted there still remains a balance of $60,000,000 common stock authorized but not issued."

Harriman said that Union Pacific has $243,000,000 in unencumbered assets and 1,628 miles of unmortgaged track. Under the plan announced yesterday, the debenture bonds, which will bear interest at the rate of 4 per cent, will be sold to stockholders at $800 for each $1,000 bond and be converted into common stock of the Union Pacific at any time within three to five years at the rate of $175 per share of common stock. That is, 100 shares of common stock will be issued to bondholders in return for bonds of the par value of $17,500. The market value of the common stock at the close of the exchange yesterday was $143.25 per share.

The directors of the two companies also voted to place the stock of the respective companies on a quarterly dividend basis instead of a semi-annual basis as heretofore. The first quarterly dividends are at the same rate as in the recent past, 2½ per cent on Union Pacific common stock and 1¼ on Southern Pacific, thus continuing the interest distribution to stockholders at the rate of 10 per cent for the former and 5 per cent for Southern Pacific.

At the meeting of the directors of the Union Pacific the chairman submitted a statement showing that the estimated earnings over operating expenses for the year ending June 30, 1907 was $32,465,000. Deducting from this the interest on the funded debt, $8,654,000, sinking fund requirements, $12,000,000, interest on loans, $877,000 and other expenditures, $27,000, would leave a surplus of approximately $23,900,000. In addition to the above income, the company will receive interest and dividends other than from investment securities, $12,323,000, and rental of steamships, $244,000, which will bring the total up to say $36,324,000.

Coffee Topers as Bad as Others.

"A friend of our family who lived with us a short time was a great coffee drinker and a continued sufferer with dyspepsia. He admitted that coffee disagreed with him, but you know how the coffee drinker will hold on to his coffee, even if he knows it causes dyspepsia.

"One day he said to me that Postum Food Coffee had been recommended and suggested that he would like very much to try it. I secured a package and made it strictly according to directions. He was delighted with the new beverage, as was every one of our family. He became very fond of it and in a short time his dyspepsia disappeared. He continued using the Postum and in about three months gained twelve pounds.

"My husband is a practising physician and regards Postum as the healthiest of all beverages. He never drinks coffee, but is very fond of Postum. In fact, all of our family are, and we never think of drinking coffee any more." Read, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

INSURANCE WORK DARK

Former Policyholders' Committee Clerk Makes Ugly Statement.

Defective Ballots Fixed Up; Administration Tickets "Chloroformed."

New York, May 10.—C. F. Carington, a former employe of the International Policyholders committee, testified on the witness stand in police court yesterday that George R. Scrugham, manager for the committee, instructed him and other employes to alter defective ballots sent to them in connection with the election of directors of the New York Life Insurance company and that Scrugham had not forwarded to the New York Life tellers so called "administration ballots" which fell into the hands of the policyholders committee.

"Scrugham told me that when any of the administration ballots fell into my hand there was no need of sending them to the company," testified Carrington, "and he added jocularly that I might send them upstairs to him, as he had some chloroform for them."

Carrington said that when the first ballots began to come in they were examined by clipping off a very small strip of the end of the envelope after which the envelopes were carefully resealed. If defectives ballots were found they were "fixed up." He declared that this was done by Scrugham's order. When there was plenty of time the defective ballots and envelopes were returned to the policyholder with a request that he make the correction, but when only two or three days remained, he declared, the corrections were made by the officers' staff.

Carrington said that, acting on instructions from Scrupham, he told the clerks to make as close a copy of the policyholder's handwriting as possible. Later, when the time was growing short, he was told to instruct the girls not to take any great care in this respect. He said the reason the altered and correct ballots were kept separate was so that if correct envelopes and ballots came in from policyholders they could be substituted for the altered ones. Carrington said that when he went to the polls as a policyholders' committee watcher he had instructions from Scrugham to challenge all administration ballots and to let all committee ballots pass.

At the conclusion of Carrington's testimony the hearing was adjourned until next Tuesday.

NURSES WIN STRIKE DUE TO BALL GAMES.

Great Barrington, Mass., May 10.—The men nurses of the Berkshires will have one afternoon off each week throughout the summer to attend ball games, and by a compromise the most unique strike on record has come to an end.

For a week the women of the hill residences stood out against what they declared were the preposterous demands of the nurse men. Some of them even threatened to abolish the institution, which having been orignally intended to solve the servant girl problem, they declared was a rank failure.

President Wells Weaver of the Nurse Men's union who was responsible for the clause in the new scale asking for two days off to attend the games, and John K. Siggins, secretary of the organization, besought a number of prominent men to intercede with the women who employed them.

An arbitration board composed of C. I. Sabin, Glenn Willett and Charles P. Kellogg was sent to prepare the way for a lasting peace. They reported at strike headquarters that they would grant Saturday afternoons off to the men, and would split the salary increase asked by raising the pay $1.50 a week. This proposition was accepted and the strike was declared off.

MINERS BALK AT WORK.

Fernie, B. C., May 10.—The striking miners at Michel returned to work yesterday, thus marking the conclusion of the strike of the Crows Nest Pass fields.

SOCIETY GIRL'S SUICIDE.

Ottawa, Ont., May 10.—Mill Alleen Clemow, aged 26, granddaughter of the late Senator Clemow, and a society belle, committed suicide here yesterday by shooting through the head. She was in poor health, and was to have gone to a sanitarium.

CRITICISE NEW LAW

Mortgage Registration Act Claimed to Fail in Purpose.

Burden of Tax Falls on Borrowers Instead of Lenders.

The new mortgage registration law is being pretty freely criticised by people in St. Louis county. Since the law became operative May 1, there have been expressions of opinion from attorneys, property owners, county officials and olan agencies that were not favorable to the act.

It is claimed that the law fails entirely in the purpose for which it was intended, that of collecting a tax from the mortgage loan interests in lieu of personal property taxes on mortgages. The registration fee or tax is 50 cents on every $100 represented by the mortgage and, it is claimed, that this extra expense is being charged up to the person executing the mortgage and that it simply works as an additional hardship on the people who are borrowing the money and does not reach the mortgagee.

The law says that the registration tax shall be in lieu of a personal property tax on the mortgages. As a matter of fact, so far as it can be learned through inquiry of county officials, there have been no personal property taxes collected on mortgages in St. Louis county and, presumably, the same condition holds true of the other counties of the state.

The collection of personal property tax under the old law is said to have been impracticable, in which case the new registration tax law really gives the county a revenue that it never had before, but the burden of which falls on the persons borrowing the money on mortgage securities, not on those making the loan and receiving the interest. A prominent local attorney said the other day that the mortgages executed since the law became operative will simply charge the registration tax, along with the commissions and interest against the borrower.

There is also a hole in the new registry tax law wide enough to drive an omnibus through. Section 2 contains the woodchuck, which is the biggest one turned out by the late legislature. Section 3 of the registry tax law ends with the following sentence:

"Provided, that this act shall not apply to mortgages taken in good faith by persons or corporations whose personal property is expressly exempted from taxation by law, or is taxed upon the basis of gross earnings, or other methods of commutation in lieu of all other taxes."

The insurance companies pay a commutation tax of 2 per cent on premiums, in lieu of other taxes, and so are exempted by the last clause quoted. Mortgages made out to insurance companies will not pay the registry tax, and companies outside the state will therefore escape taxation entirely, as they have in the past.

The insurance companies were the most powerful interest opposed to the registry tax law, and no doubt their lobbyists know something about the "woodchuck." It was not in the original bill, and an effort will be made to trace its authorship and responsibility. The main object of the bill was to reach these large corporation holders of mortgages, and that object has been defeated.

IOWA MEN BUNCOED.

Robbed of $150 in Ohio by Fake Judge, Sheriff and Attorney.

Marietta, Ohio, May 10.—In a novel bunko game, Horace and Edward Napier of Burlington, Iowa, were beaten out of $150 here. The Napiers had come to Marietta to foreclose a small mortgage and were met by a man who introduced himself as an attorney and offered to manage their case. His services were accepted, and the young men were taken into a so-called courtroom where, in the presence of a fake judge and sheriff, judgment was given and execution issued. The attorney's fees and costs amounted to $150, which the Napiers paid only to find that the whole transaction was bogus.

NO JURORS YET CHOSEN

First Day of the Haywood Trial Passes Very Quietly.

Points Dwelt on by Each Side in Questioning Talesmen.

Boise, Idaho, May 10.—When the first day of the trial of William D. Haywood, secretary of the Western Federation of Miners, on the charge of complicity in the murder of Former Governor Frank Steunenburg, closed, the jury panel had been exhausted and court adjourned until Monday morning to give the sheriff time to summon a special venire of 100 men.

Counsel for state and prisoner entered yesterday in a businesslike way on the examination of prospective jurors, and kept steadily at the task for five hours. No juror was finally accepted, but substantial progress was made, and the indications at the close of the session were that a jury could be obtained by the end of next week.

The opening day of the trial went through to its conclusion in harmony, unmarked by unusual incident. It was earnest and business like. Its striking features was the entire absence of crowds, or of demonstrations in any form. At no time, morning or afternoon, was the court room more than half filled, and the streets forming the courthouse square contained not a single loiterer.

Throughout the day, Haywood took practically no part in the selection of jurors. Men in similar jeopardy, as a rule, make close study of their prospective jurors and frequently express their personal opinion, but he seems content to leave the matter entirely in the hands of his lawyers. He gave no sign of any feeling or emotion, but sat quietly throughout the day. Mrs. Haywood and the older daughter stood the ordeal apparently well, but the younger child cried after the examination of talesmen began. Mrs. Haywood and her children did not attend the afternoon session.

The question of the defense took a much wider range than that of the state, and its most striking feature dealt with the possible effect on the minds and attitudes of jurors of the letter of President Roosevelt in calling Haywood and his associates "undesirable citizens," the speeches in Idaho of Secretary Taft, the message of Governor Gooding to the legislature of Idaho, the speech in Boise of Senator Heyburn and the action of the Idaho legislature in passing a resolution appropriating money for the prosecution of the three prisoners.

Mr. Richardson, who conducted the examination of the talesmen, was also particular to ascertain their attitude toward Socialists and members of labor organizations and whether they could give them a fair trial. He was also anxious to know if they had any professional, personal, fraternal, religious or political affiliations with any of the counsel for the state, any connection with detective agencies, any experience in the pursuit or prosecution of criminals or were members of the Mine Owners' association. He also asked if they had contributed to any fund for the prosecution of the prisoners, if they were members of the Citizens' alliance, if they remembered the old labor troubles in Idaho and if they had taken sides in the labor troubles at any time.

A remarkable feature of this examination was that all of the talesmen questioned by the defense swore that they had not been influenced by the letter of President Roosevelt or the speeches of other officials of the national or state governments, and a majority of them said they were Republicans.

The chief concern of the counsel for the state in the examination of talesmen as indicated by their questions was their attitude toward circumstantial evidence, the absence of the accused from the state when the crime was committed, the effect of the manner in which prisoner and his companions were brought from Colorado, views of the talesmen on the death penalty for murder in the first degree, and union labor. They also questioned each talesman as to his acquaintance with the murdered governor with a view to disclosing friendship or enmity. Their examination brought the fact that certain labor and Socialistic papers are being distributed free of charge in parts of Ada county.

At the close of the day's session only three jurors had been passed by both sides. They have not been finally accepted and sworn and are still subject to peremptory challenge. They are A. L. Ewing, a carpenter and veteran of the Civil war; William Van Ornsdale, a grocer of Boise, and Samuel D. Gilman, a farmer, who lives in the country ten miles from Boise, and who served in the Philippines with the Idaho volunteers.

Judge Wood announced that he intended to give both sides a wide latitude in the examination of talesmen. He also showed a willingness to grant challenges were there seemed any reasonable objection to the attitude of the talesman, and in the one contest yesterday he ruled with the defense, which challenged the talesman and was resisted by the state.

FACING A SNAIL FAMINE.

Parisian Demand Too Great and Closed Season Demanded.

Paris, May 10.—Paris is menaced with a deprivation of edible snails. The department of Yonne, the principal source of the delicacy, is demanding protection from the snail hunters who have taken so many that the supply is falling.

Houses at Auxerre, which used to send millions of snails to Paris are now obliged to draw supplies from Switzerland and the department of Isere. Yonne demands that a closed season be established by prefectural decree and that the sale of foreign snails as Burgundian snails be stopped.

ONE UNION STILL OUT

Contractors and Electricians Fail to Reach an Agreement.

Compromises Have Been Effected With All the Others.

All the demands of the building trades unions have been settled except those of the electricians, but both the contractors and the striking electricians want to have their own way in regard to these demands and the end of the strike has not yet been reached.

The settlement committee composed of five delegates from the unions and five from the contractors compromised the demands of the roofers last night. The tar and gravel workers, who asked to be raised from 42½ cents an hour to 47½ cents will receive 45 cents, and the slate and tile workers will continue to get the former scale of 50 cents an hour.

At the end of the conference last night the contractors and the electricians were still far from reaching an agreement after many hours of argument. The whole situation now hinges upon the prospect of reaching a settlement with the electricians.

The workmen are indignant over the fact that the contractors imported a number of strike breakers and this has been the subject of considerable discussion. This is said to be one of the things which is making the unionists stick to their demands. The contractors are fighting the raise most obstinately, and the arguments last evening were warm and extended.

J. P. Noonan, grand vice president of the Electricians' International union is representing the local union of electricians and is an able and aggressive fighter. At the conference yesterday he contested every point made by the contractors, and when the unionists argued their side he was greatly in evidence.

It is the general opinion that a settlement will be reached today and the final end of the long conflict will be brought about. Several of the men returned to work yesterday and more will do so today unless the trouble of the electricians causes complications.

London Workhouse Fitted Up Better Than Many Palaces.

London, May 10.—During an inquiry, yesterday, at the instance of the Ratepayers' association into the cost of the new workhouse and infirmary in the London borough of Hammersmith, it developed that the place in many details was equal, if not superior, to any nobleman's mansion, and that it could vie with the most expensive hotel. The entrance is between handsome screens, fitted with pitch pine and plate glass; one of the floors is of tiled mosaic work, surrounded by a dado of most expensive type; every part of the building is brilliantly lighted with electricity, and a system of duplicate wiring has been installed. Counsel for the Ratepayers' association said this system had been suggested recently for Buckingham palace, but it was rejected on the ground of expense.

The dining hall is almost baronial in style, and equal to anything in any of the great colleges of the country. The light to this room is softly diffused by means of stained glass windows. The site and the building cost over $1,300,000, equivalent to the rate of $1,675 per bed. This, counsel said, was far greater than the cost of many houses occupied by hard working families. The cooking apparatus cost $15 per pauper, while the annual cost of electricity was also $15 per individual.

HOLD WOMEN SWINDLERS.

Conducted Matrimonial Bureau and Are Charged With Defrauding Farmers.

Evansville, Ind., May 10.—Postoffice Inspector R. M. C. Hosford of Louisville, Ky., has arrived to gather evidence against Mrs. Violet Williams and daughter, Garnet, known under the name of Lancaster, and the women will be arraigned before United States Commissioner J. W. Wartmann. They say they will enter a plea of guilty to the charge of using the mails to defraud.

They were arrested on suspicion that they had been conducting a matrimonial bureau and had become engaged to marry hundreds of men through correspondence. A search of their rooms on Fulton avenue revealed several hundred letters and numerous photographs of men from all parts of the United States and Canada, who were seeking wives.

Several letters were found from a wealthy farmer named August Mishnick, near Cortland, Neb., who sent the women $1,000. He was engaged to marry the daughter. He also sent railroad tickets to the mother and daughter.

HONORS TO CARDINALS CAUSE ITALIAN FEELING.

Rome, May 10.—During yesterday's session of the chamber of deputies, several members attacked the government for permitting military honors to be rendered to the recently created cardinals. Premier Gioletti explained that there was no law compelling the state to render military honors to cardinals, nor was there any forbidding it.

MORE HELP IS NEEDED

Postmaster Eaton Wants Some More Clerks and Carriers.

Has Taken Matter Up With Officials at Washington.

Several additional carriers and postal clerks are needed at the Duluth postoffice, but under the usual way of doing business it is not likely that the department at Washington could be persuaded to allow the appointment of any more until after July when the new appropriation will be ready for use.

The additional help is needed in the postoffice so badly, however, that Postmaster Guy Eaton is making an attempt to have several more carriers and clerks appointed at this time over two months before the usual date. He has taken the matter up before the officials at Washington and is doing all that is possible to persuade them to grant the additional help at this time.

For the last two or three years the Duluth postoffice has had more business than it could handle, and the clerks and carriers have been overworked. Every year a few more clerks and carriers have been appointed for service at Duluth, but the business has grown faster than the force has been increased, and at present the force is undersized in comparison to the amount of business done.

A couple of additional carriers are needed badly at West Duluth and in Duluth proper. Mr. Eaton is making an attempt to get one more carrier for the business district and two more for the residence sections. Besides the carriers, Postmaster Eaton and Mr. Grarbarkiewicz, superintendent of delivery, say at least half a dozen more inside clerks are needed at once. Several clerks and a few carriers were added last fall, but the work is now more than the present force can properly attend to.

"We need this additional help at once," said Mr. Eaton. "But those people down at Washington will put us off as long as possible and we will do well if we get any more carriers or clerks during the next few weeks. We must have them before the summer is over, however."

TAKEN FOR SMUGGLER.

Customs House Officer Stops Timothy L. Woodruff and Black Bag.

New York, May 10.—Former Lieutenant Governor Timothy L. Woodruff was taken for a smuggler at the Hoboken pier of the Hamburg-American liner Amerika and held up by a customs official, who wanted to know what Mr. Woodruff had in a black handbag he carried.

Mr. Woodruff had gone down the bay to quarantine to meet his wife on the Amerika, and came up the bay with her. When the vessel got to her pier the customs officer stopped Mr. Woodruff and said he would like to look into the bag to see that no smuggling was being done. Mr. Woodruff told the customs man who he was, and the two parted with a hearty laugh.

When the America reached her pier, Mr. Woodruff had a surprise for his wife in the shape of a large new automobile as a present for her.

FOX TERRIER WHISTLED,

But There Was "No Chune" to the Strange Music.

Trenton, N. J., May 10.—Policeman James C. Feenane of Trenton's finest has a whistling fox terrier.

The dog was found in the streets by a policeman, who took it to the First district station and tied it to a locker. Nobody thought again of the small dog.

Just before midnight, as the night squad was preparing to go out, a sonorous whistling was heard in the locker room.

"The lad has a light heart," observed Sergeant McGowan, thinking that one of his men was whistling.

The night squad marched out on patrol and McGowan was alone. The whistler began again, but didn't whistle a tune.

"Make it a chune," cried McGowan from his desk. "Have ye no imagination, lad?"

But the whistling kept on merrily, with never a suggestion of a tune.

"Too bad with his illgant gift the felleh hasn't a soul in him," said McGowan, and went to the locker room to investigate.

In there was only the little dog, wagging his stump tail and straining at his strap.

"It's an accomplished watch dog ye make," began McGowan, addressing him; "there was a whistler felleh in here an' ye niver—"

Just then the small dog opened his mouth and trilled like a bird. McGowan whistled too from astonishment.

In the morning Feenane took him home, no one having claimed him. Feenane says that his dog has been whistling ever since.

A ROMANCE OF DEPAUW; FOUR GRADUATES TO WED.

Greencastle, Ind., May 10.—As the outgrowth of "college cases," a double announcement of June weddings, in which four graduates of DePauw university are the principals, was made at a reception in "Rose Bower," the home of Dr. Andrew Stephenson, head of the department of history.

The courtships leading up to the formally announced engagements savor of romance and are of considerable importance as the daughters of two university officials are the brides. The announcements are those of Thomas Poindexter Woodson, '97 and Miss Alma W. John, '02, and Robert Brien Kimberland, '03, and Miss Elizabeth Town, '05. Miss John is the daughter of J. P. John, D. D., ex-president of DePauw university and a lecturer of national prominence. He is now assistant of Central Avenue Methodist Episcopal church of Indianapolis, and in this way he still retains his active relation to the Indiana conference. Miss Town is the daughter of Dr. Samuel B. Town, field secretary of DePauw university and is a social leader in this city. Both Miss Town and Miss John are members of Kappa Alpha Theta and when in college were intimate friends.

Mr. Woodson of Kansas City, is a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity and after studying law for two years was persuaded to enter the ministry by Dr. Matt Hughes, brother of President Edwin Holt Hughes of DePauw university. Mr. Kimberland is a member of the Phi Kappa Psi fraternity and was a student of unusual ability when in college here. Both Mr. Woodson and Mr. Kimberland are now studying for the ministry in the Boston School of Theology and both, when married in June, will make their homes in Boston.

PASTOR'S WAR ON TOY SOLDIERS

Would Stop the Manufacture of These "Horrible Menaces."

Pittsburg, May 10.—Rev. Dr. J. Leonard Levy, pastor of the Rodef Shalom congregation, one of the best-known ministers in Pittsburg, and president of the Pittsburg Peace society, will leave for Europe this month to visit the toy centers of Germany, in an effort to prevail upon the manufacturers to cease making toy soldiers, swords, guns, etc.

He contends that it stimulates in the youthful mind thoughts of war, and is inimical to peace. He will attend The Hague peace conference.

"With regard to peace possibilities, I feel very hopeful," said Dr. Levy. "Many have been induced to regard the movement with greater fervor, owing to the persistency of the peace party, and recently converts have been made owing to the example and influence of Mr. Carnegie.

"Men who gave the matter no attention whatever, or who refused to consider it, or who feared ridicule, have recently told me that they regard Mr. Carnegie's crusade in behalf of world peace, the climax of his life's work."

RULES FOR LONGEVITY

Are Given by Aged Exponent of the Simple Life.

Chicago, May 10.—An exponent of the simple life is John L. Retsin, just 90 years old, who has these rules for longevity and contentment evolved from his own experience, written out for guidance of friends:

Sleep seven hours.
Arise early, as the birds do.
Go to bed at the same hour every night.
For relaxation smoke a pipe after each meal.
Indulge yourself moderately. In the evening, a game of cribbage.
A glass of wine occasionally.
Cultivate strawberries and flowers. The outdoor exercise tends to prolong life.
Don't worry.
Don't get excited.
Know when you've had enough. Retire at middle age, though even on a modest income, and live quietly.
Keep your mind occupied by reading history.

PAUPER'S WILL IS A CLASSIC

Beautiful Prose Poem Which Man in an Asylum Bequeathed.

New York, May 10.—Justice Walter Lloyd Smith, who presides over the third department of the appellate division of the supreme court, brought with him to the dinner of the New York University Law School Alumni association, what he said was the most remarkable document that ever came into his possession. Others who read the document, the last will and testament of Charles Lounsbury, who died in the Cook county asylum at Dunning, Ill., were disposed to agree with him. Here it is:

"I, Charles Lounesbury, being of sound mind and disposing memory, do hereby make and publish this, my last will and testament, in order as justly as may be to distribute my interest in the world among succeeding men.

"That part of my interest which is known in law and recognized in the sheepbound volumes as my property, being inconsiderable and of no account, I make no disposal of this in my will.

"My right to live, being but a life estate, is not at my disposal, but these things excepted, all else in the world I now proceed to devise and bequeath—

"Item: I give to good fathers and mothers, in trust for their children, all good little words of praise and encouragement, and all quaint pet names and endearments, and I charge said parents to use them justly and generously, as the needs of their children may require.

"Item: I leave to children inclusively, but only for the term of their childhood, all and every, the flowers of the fields, and the blossoms of the woods, with the right to play among them freely according to the customs of children, warning them at the same time against thistles and thorns. And I devise to the children the banks of the brooks and the golden sands beneath the waters thereof, and the odors of the willows that dip therein, and the white clouds that float high over the giant trees. And I leave the children the long, long days to be merry in, in a thousand ways, and the night and the moon and the train of the Milky Way to wonder at, but subject nevertheless to the rights hereinafter given to lovers.

"Item: I devise to boys jointly all the useful idle fields and commons where ball may be played; all pleasant waters where one may swim; all snowclad hills where one may coast, and all streams and ponds where one may fish, or where, when grim winter comes, one may skate; to have and to hold the same for the period of their boyhood. And all meadows with the clover blossoms and butterflies thereof, the woods and their appurtenances, the squirrels and birds, and echoes and strange noises, and all distant places which may be visited, together with the adventures there found. And I give to said boys each his own place in the fireside at night, with all pictures at the fireside at night, with all pictures that may be seen in the burning wood, to enjoy without let or hindrance and without any incumbrance of care.

"Item: To lovers, I desire their imaginary world, with whatever they may need; as the stars of the sky; the red roses by the wall; the bloom of the hawthorn; the sweet strains of music, and aught else by which they may delsire to figure to each other the lastingness and beauty of their love.

"Item: To young men jointly, I devise and bequeath all boisterous, inspiring sports of rivalry, and I give to them the disdain of weakness and undaunted confidence in their own strength.

"Item: I give them the though they are rude; I give them the power to make lasting friendship, and of possessing companions, and to them exclusively I give all merry songs and brave choruses, to sing with lusty voices.

"Item: And to those who are no longer children or youths or lovers I leave memory, and bequeath to them the volumes of the poems of Burns and Shakespeare and of other poets, if there be others, to the end that they may live over the old days again, freely and fully without tithe or diminution.

"Item: To our loved ones with snowy crowns I bequeath the happiness of old age, the love and gratitude of their children until they fall asleep."

PARIAHS EQUIP A POLICE DEN

Luxurious Lounging Room Furnished by Women and Gamblers.

Joplin, Mo., May 10.—Through the discovery that a luxuriously fitted lounging room for the police department was donated by women of the town, gamblers and saloon men, there is possibility of a grand jury investigation.

The exposure of conditions in the police department came upon the heels of trouble in a wineroom, wherein Pat Hennessy, a newly-elected councilman, was beaten with a slungshot, and the raiding of gambling houses by County Prosecutor Compton.

When the city completed a new home for the police and fire departments, several months ago, a large room in the basement was vacant. The police requested the use of this as a lounging room when off duty. This was granted by the city council.

The police then asked that the council furnish the room. This was refused, on the ground of municipal poverty.

Then the police decided to secure the appointments for the room from their acquaintances. Leather couches, costing $40, were moved in, including leather and upholstered chairs, fine card tables, a book case, pictures, mirrors, racks, pillows, table covers, lazy-backs—everything, in fact which goes to make up a first-class clubroom. The police then engaged a signwriter to letter the furniture, representing in the aggregate several hundred dollars in value, with the names of the donors.

Inspection showed that with the exception of four or five of the less expensnve articles in the room, the entire furnishing had been supplied by the women, gamblers and saloonmen. Two costly leather chairs, upon which did not appear the names of the donor, were found to have been donated by Jeannette De Chaney. The bookcase was donated by Mose Miller, in whose business place a few years ago a murder was committed. Charles Buckhannon contributed a costly card table. The balance of the gifts, with a few exceptions, came from gamblers, saloon proprietors, wineroom operators, etc.

Public sentiment is aroused, and there is a strong demand that the luxurious lounging room be dismantled and the gifts be returned to the owners. Pressure may be brought on the city council to that end.

"I don't see why we shouldn't take these things from the people any more than we should from men in other lines of business," said Police Chief Joe Myers today. "There is no reason to think that they expected to gain any influence over the police in that way, and I am sure it hasn't affected the department."

Several policemen designated articles in the room, and boldly declared they had secured them from the donors, and were proud of it.

GATES RENTS $46,000 FLAT

The Most Expensive Living Rooms in New York City.

New York, May 10.—John W. Gates is to occupy the most expensive living rooms in the city, having rented the choice suite on the fourth floor of the new Plaza hotel. He will pay an annual rental of $46,000.

There was much excitement in realty circles a few years ago when it was announced that Charles M. Schwab had taken an apartment in a hotel at an annual rental of $10,000. It was thought then that the high-water mark had been reached.

A prominent real estate man said yesterday that apartment life appealed so strongly to rich New Yorkers that the demand for apartments was going to send rents up to colossal figures.

HETTY GREEN PAYS RENT.

New York World: Hetty Green will have to pay office rent in the future. No provision whatever has been made for her in the new banking home of the Chemical National bank, opened yesterday at 270 Broadway. For many years the "richest woman in the world," who is one of the largest stockholders of the bank, had a private office in the old bank building rent free. She will now have to content herself with sharing the handsome quarters provided for all women stockholders and depositors on the first floor.

ALL WOMEN SUFFER

from the same physical disturbances, and the nature of their duties, in many cases, quickly drift them into the horrors of all kinds of female complaints, organic troubles, ulceration, falling and displacements, or perhaps irregularity or suppression causing backache, nervousness, irritability, and sleeplessness.

Women everywhere should remember that the medicine that holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female ills is made from simple native roots and herbs. For more than thirty years it has been helping women to be strong, regulating the functions perfectly and overcoming pain. It has also proved itself invaluable in preparing for child birth and the Change of Life.

Mrs. A. M. Hagermann, of Bay Shore, L. I., writes:—Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—"I suffered from a displacement, excessive and painful functions so that I had to lie down or sit still most of the time. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has made me a well woman so that I am able to attend to my duties. I wish every suffering woman would try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and see what relief it will give them."

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation to Women

Women suffering from any form of female illness are invited to write Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., for advice. She is the Mrs. Pinkham who has been advising sick women free of charge for more than twenty years, and before that she assisted her mother-in-law Lydia E. Pinkham in advising. Therefore she is especially well qualified to guide sick women back to health.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

THE USUAL CEREMONY

Baseball Season Will Open Here Next Thursday.

Mayor Culium Will Throw First Ball Over Plate.

The management of the Duluth baseball club has completed the arrangements for next Thursday, when the season of the Northern Copper Country league will be opened with all the usual ceremony. The schedule calls for the appearance of the Houghton Giants here on that day and they will open the season with the White Sox at Athletic park.

There will be the usual parade of the city officers, two teams and a band; there will be speeches at the park; Mayor Culkum will pitch the first ball and then the season of 1907 of the Northern Copper Country league will be on. The parade will start from the city hall west on Superior street to Eighth avenue west, where special street cars will be waiting to take the players and fans to Athletic park.

Sir Thomas McGraw, he of the autocratic bearing, is slated to be master of ceremonies in Duluth next Thursday and for all games of the Houghton series, at least McGraw will arrive in Duluth Sunday, as expected, while Weiler, his confrere will journey to Winnipeg to officiate at the opening there between the Winnipeg and Calumet teams.

Despite the chilly wind, which swept over the diamond yesterday morning, "Smiley" Smith had his men out for a workout and again yesterday afternoon, they tossed the ball around and had batting practice. This afternoon, they are playing with the Kelly team, the first exhibition game of the season in Duluth. Tomorrow, Jack Morrison's Lethbridge, Alberta team, will be here for a series of two games. Monday and Tuesday, the Easterners who are to represent Medicine Hat in the Western Canada league, one that in the Northern Copper Country league, will play. Wednesday, the boys will rest and Thursday, they will take the scratch for the four months' race.

A good deal of interest is being taken among the students of the different grade schools in the games of the Interscholastic league, the season of which is now well on its way. The boys put up good exhibitions of ball and the motto of the league "Clean sport" results in well conducted games, attractive to the spectators. Large crowds of partisans of the contesting teams turn out to the games and the school spirit is being fostered as it could not be by any other means. The umpires have full sway and disputes are few, the boys having agreed to abide by the decisions of the umpires.

As shown by the table of standings, the Longfellow team has a commanding start in the race, with Lincoln and Washington close up. Jefferson and St. Thomas are well in the running, while the others are not far behind that they haven't a chance to pull up with the leaders. Jackson, which is on the bottom, has played but two games, while the leaders have played six, so its case is not hopeless.

The schedule of games in the league for tomorrow is as follows:

10 a. m.—Jackson vs. Madison, Madison field, William Eklund, umpire.

10 a. m.—Lester Park vs. St. Thomas, Lester Park field, Harvard Rockwell, umpire.

1:30 p. m.—Jackson vs. Washington, Jackson field.

2:30 p. m.—Longfellow vs. Endion, Endion field, Lyman Taylor, umpire.

3:00 p. m.—Lester Park vs. Lincoln, Lincoln field, Henry Swenson, umpire.

For Monday afternoon at 4:30, the following games are scheduled:

Emerson vs. Madison, Emerson field.

St. Thomas vs. Jefferson, Jefferson field.

Washington vs. Lincoln, Lincoln field.

This afternoon at 5 o'clock at the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A., an important meeting of the interscholastic field meet committee will be held, for the discussion of details of the meet, which is to be held June 1.

FIGHT HAD BEEN FIXED

Burns Says He Gave O'Brien the Double Cross.

Dirty Mess is Uncovered in Los Angeles Bout.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 10.—In a statement issued yesterday Tommy Burns, the winner of Wednesday night's fight, declared that he promised to lay down and let O'Brien win the battle. He said there was no chance otherwise to get O'Brien into the ring. He said he resolved as soon as the gong sounded for the first round to break his promise, and he determined to go in and win.

Burns said:

"Jack O'Brien was caught in one of his own traps. I could not get him to agree to enter the arena until after I had promised to lay down and let him win the fight. I pretended to be willing to do this, because I wanted to show the country that I was O'Brien's master. In the first round O'Brien was taken off his feet and was scared to death. He knew I had planned too cunningly for them all, and that he was due for a beating.

"As for the bets being called off, I was instrumental in having that done for the protection of the public. I intend to make this explanation afterwards, and I did not want to see the public tricked into losing of any of its money. The calling off of the bets cost me $3,800, for I stood to win that amount myself.

The disgust of the sporting world over the affair is great.

Referee Charles Eyton said:

"Burns' statement is the first intimation I had about any agreement between the men. I am not surprised, however, at the revelation, as there were plenty of suspicious circumstances. I called off bets last night after a conference with Manager McCarey. I am glad personally that the exposure has been made, for it will help to shut some of those out of the boxing game who are in it for dishonest purposes."

Late yesterday afternoon Manager McCarey consented to make a full statement of the fake fight arrangements.

"The statement of Tommy Burns regarding the method of getting Jack O'Brien into the ring last night is true in every particular. O'Brien came to Los Angeles declaring that he was ready to go on with the bout. Then he approached Burns and after he had gotten me in deeply on the expense he suggested that Burns enter into a fake fight with him and allow him to beat Burns in the ring and be declared the winner.

"O'Brien said that under no other circumstances would he enter the ring with Burns. Tommy consented to the fake. O'Brien was to bet on himself and he and Burns were to divide the proceeds.

"Burns came to me with the story, declaring that this was the only way by which O'Brien could be gotten into the ring, and suggesting that he pretend to carry out the agreement. This looked to be the best thing to do, and I agreed to the condition, taking the 'I O U's' of the two fighters for $15,000 each, in order to protect myself. It looked like to be the only way to get O'Brien to fight and, not wanting to disappoint the public, I went on with the arrangements.

"O'Brien all this time was according to his statement, was placing all the money at his command on himself to win and the odds went down to 10 to 6. O'Brien had no intimation that Burns was going to 'double-cross' him until the referee entered the ring.

"After I found out that O'Brien had made this agreement with Burns, I changed the conditions of the match, and the three of us met and agreed that Burns was to receive half of the purse and that O'Brien was to get 30 per cent of the gross receipts. This was fortunate for me, for the receipts fell down to $22,000, so I am not a very great loser on the event."

Nolan was seen at McCarey's. When informed that the story was out, he said he was glad of it, and hoped all the facts would be printed. He himself knew nothing about it, he said, and he had no part in any fake arrangement.

Late last night, after being secluded in his hotel all day, Jack O'Brien issued a statement in which he declared that all the arrangements for Wednesday night's fight were tinged with crookedness. He alleges that Burns and ManagerMcCarey of the Pacific Athletic club were parties to the unfair deal; that Nolan, O'Brien's manager, knew of the projositions, and forced a new agreement with Burns and McCarey; that on one occasion McCarey proposed that a coin be flipped to decide which man should pretend to be knocked out, and that there was never any intention of offering a $30,000 purse.

KAISER BARS FANCY DIET.

Note to Army Officers With Special Reference to Champagne.

Berlin, May 10.—The emperor's desire to promote temperance and simple living among the officers of the army and navy was recently manifested by an imperial note circulated among the regiments. The note, which emanates from the emperor direct, states that at a midday meal which the kaiser attended at one of the regimental messes he was extremely annoyed to see the luxuriousness and profuseness displayed in regard to the table delicacies, including French champagne.

In his not the emperor expresses a desire tantamount to a command, that when he is present at any regimental meal the menu should be restricted to the following items: Soup, fish, vegetables, roast cheese and butter.

The beverages should consist of simple red or white table wines or claret. A glass of German champagne might be handed around on occasions as an accompaniment, while "Braten" is being served. Liquors after meals are tabooed, also other beverages.

SEATTLE IS AFTER GAME

High School Team Wants to Play Duluth in June.

Students to Take Transcontinental Tour This Summer.

There is a possibility that the Seattle high school baseball team, which is to take a journey to the Jamestown exposition during the summer vacation, and which will try to win the interscholastic championship of the United States en route, will be seen in Duluth the latter part of June. The Seattle students have arranged games with high school teams in all the large cities on their route, their game with one of the Brooklyn high schools attracting considerable attention, on account of the necessity of a trip across the continent in order to play. Brooklyn claims the championship of the Atlantic coast and Seattle that of the Pacific coast, so the interscholastic championship of the United States will probably hinge on the game, or series.

The sporting editor of The Herald has received a letter from Harold H. Stewart, manager of the Seattle club, expressing the desire to arrange a game, or a series of games in Duluth. His letter follows:

"I am planning an Eastern trip for the Seattle high school baseball team during the summer holidays. We expect to reach Duluth some time between June 20 and 30, and I would like to arrange a game, or series of games, with some team in your city, preferably high school.

"We would require a guarantee of $100 for one game, or $250 for a series of three games, and 25 per cent of the gate receipts over the amount of the guarantee in either case.

"HAROLD H. STEWART, Manager."

The letter has been turned over to the manager of the Duluth Centrals, and the high school boys will reach some decision in the matter. The Northern-Copper Country league schedule provides for the White Sox beginning a two-weeks' series at Athletic park, June 20, so the time of the arrival of the Seattle is inopportune. It is possible, however, that they will be able to make it a few days earlier. The guarantee is a heavy one for the Duluth boys to shoulder, but the Seattle team, undertaking a transcontinental trip as it is, will be an attraction which should bring out a sufficient crowd to clear the boys should they decide to arrange the game.

BLAINE HIGHS VS. DULUTH

Important High School Game at Superior Saturday.

Tomorrow afternoon at Hammond Park, Superior, the third game in the interscholastic series between the Duluth and Superior high schools for possession of the Northern Hardware company trophy, will be played between the Duluth Centrals and Blaine high school of Superior. The game is the most important thus far in the series, as the Nelson Dewey school, the third participant in the series, has not shown form equal to that of the other two schools.

The game tomorrow will undoubtedly be a pitchers' battle between Earl Cummings, the Duluth youth, who let Nelson Dewey down without a run or a hit last Saturday, and J. Rooney, the crack Blaine pitcher. Duluth defeated Nelson Dewey by a score of 13 to 0 and Blaine also defeated the other Superior team by a score of 12 to 3. In both games the pitcher was the principal factor, and they promise to put up a great exhibition pitted against each other tomorrow. In the games with Nelson Dewey, both teams batted well and in the fielding department, also showed good form, with Duluth having a shade the better of the argument.

The teams will line up tomorrow as follows:

Duluth.	Position.	Blaine.
McDevitt	catcher	Peterson
Cummings	pitcher	J. Rooney
Anderson	first base	Young
Bowen	second base	Buchanan
Ostergren	third base	R. Rooney

GLORIFIER WINS "MET"

Roseben, Favorite, Finishes Third in Belmont Park Event.

Winner of Race Quoted at 20 to 1—Added Starter Second.

New York, May 10.—The Metropolitan handicap was run at the opening of Belmont park yesterday, and one more victory was marked up to the credit of J. H. McCormick's horse, Glorifier. Okenite, an added starter at the last hour, finished a close second, and Roseben, the public's choice, on whose chances vast sums were wagered, was third. The time was 1:40 4-5 over a mile course deep with mud. Jockey Gardner rode the winer and handled his mount with rare good judgment. In spite of the fact that Glorifier had won the Carter handicap at Aqueduct and ran second in the Excelsior at Jamaica two weeks later, he was almost a despised outsider in the betting, opening at 8 to 1 and closing at 20. Okenite held steadily around 10 to 1, while Roseben's price was forced down by sheer weight of wagers from 11 to 5 to 8 to 5 at post time. Every horse in the race was played, however, and great was the crowd's disappointment when the numbers were hung up.

A more disagreeable day for the unlocking of Belmont park's big gates, and the gathering of New York society, from the viewpoint of the turf world, could not be imagined. Rain fell from early morning until almost noon, and dull gray clouds, driven by a biting east wind made the big clubhouse almost as uninviting as the draughty grand stand and the wide sweep of moist lawns. In spite of these conditions, probably 25,000 persons saw the fifteen thoroughbreds splash through a mile of mud for the $10,000 Metropolitan prize.

The big race itself was not an exciting one. Starting on the opposite side of the broad green infield, with a drifting haze making a clear view almost impossible, the field of fifteen was a mere herd of struggling, splashing horses until the first turn was rounded. Here the crowd caught up the various colors as it strained to locate respective choices.

It saw Sewell, Bat Masterson, Galen, Superman, Roseben and J. C. Core running in the front positions with Glorifier, Okenite and Dishabille heading the others and improving their positions with every stride. As the field rounded into the long stretch Sewell ran to the outside of the track and lost all chance of winning.

Roseben crept into second position, and there was the old familiar shout "Roseben wins." For a brief moment the big bay flashed into the lead, but was forced to relinquish that position at the seven-eighths pole to Glorifier, which, brought up on the rail by Gardner, was running without effort and gradually widening the breach. Jockey Martin drew his whip on Roseben and for a few strides the big horse responded and regained some of his lost advantage. He was at the end of his best distance, however, and Glorifier, without the use of whip or spur, came under the judge's eyes a length and a half in the lead. Okenite, coming with a belated but resolute rush, passed the tiring Roseben in the last fifty yards and took second place by two lengths. Nealon ran into fourth place, four lengths behind Roseben, with the others strung out. It was a bad day for favorites, only one finishing in front.

Runs Made By Dozens.

The recent trip of the Nationals to Indianapolis and their defeat at the hands of the outfit of that place recalls the memorable trip of the old Nationals thirty years ago, when the venerable "grandfather" of the present organization invaded the west to show the people of that section what real baseball was like, says the Washington Star.

The elder "has-beens" remember this game with more than usual interest, and when the short end of the recent 3 to 1 score was announced they all chuckled with glee to think of the victory of 1867 that was won by the decisive score of 166 to 21. Ponder over that, all you enthusiasts of the national game of today, and imagine what would happen if such a scoring took place in one of the big National league games on the opening day.

The Nationals of those days, under the guidance of Col. Frank Jones, as president, and little "Jimmie" Patterson, quarter-master, were sweeping the western states with a clock-like precision of victory after victory. The sporting world of that time looked on with amazement at their wonderful record on the trip, and all watched for the final game with Indianapolis. It was thought that there the Washingtonians would meet a rival of their own mettle, as out of the capital of Hoosier land had come the marvelous tales of its ball team.

The contest took place July 23, 1867, at Camp Burnside, and the Indianapolis Sentinel of the time said of it:

"The interest in the game was intense, not less than 7,000 spectators were present, and for nearly four hours, though scorched by the extreme heat of the sun, men, women and children maintained their positions; and when any fine playing was made on either side, loud and continuous applause followed, the acclamations going so far on several occasions as to reward two or three of the Nationals with very handsome bouquets, which were acknowledged by the recipients in endeavoring to deserve another when they again went to the bat.

"The Westerns played pretty well, but in their first inning one of their best players was disabled in attempting to stop a 'fly,' and the large scoring of their opponents in that inning, seventeen tallies, seemed to have disheartened them. Yet the score shows that the Westerns caught more 'flies' than the Nationals, and had their batting been anything like equal to that of the Washington club the figures might have been somewhat different. In the eighth inning the Nationals were very handsomely 'skunked' by the catching of three 'fly' balls by the Westerns.

"The strength of the Nationals was in their batting. They are all well-made muscular men, and a ball comes remarkably 'hot' from their bats. Some most beautiful hits were made by Fox and Berthrong, one of the former traveling at least 200 yards before touching the ground, and upon which a 'handsome' home run was made. Berthrong exhibits a clean score, not out at all and thirteen runs, while Studley made fourteen runs and only one out.

Williams, the pitcher, is a real catapult. It is impossible to tell when or where he will throw the ball. He throws very 'wild' and awful 'peppery,' but when he comes to the bat his score falls below that of any of his associates. The dangerous' man of the Nationals is Fox, their captain, who covers third base. He certainly could stop a sixty-four pounder on the fly, and put a whole battery out before they passed the base. He is terrible on throwing and catching.

"The score of the wonderful game is as follows:

How and Where Boxing Started.

Professional prize fighters first saw the light of day in England. Writers on boxiana and fistiana are not agreed as to the date of its origin, but some of the older scribes believe it was in the seventeenth century. In one of Hogarth's pictures, "Longworth Fair," there is a representation of a bully offering to tackle anybody and howling forth a challenge to all strong men of muscle to enter the lists with him. That was during the reign of George II. The fellow pictured by Hogarth was a man well known in London in those days. He was called Fig, an ignorant, uneducated boor, but a fighter all the same, and many writers agree that he was the original professional prize fighter. He had a fight once with another of his class, a venitian gondolier known as Jawbreaker. There was much betting on the event, even at that early date. Fig licked the gondolier, and held on to his prestige until death.

Another of the ancient English pugilists who at one time enjoyed considerable fame, was Tom Pipes. Tom crooked his elbow too frequently, however, and was whipped by a slovenly, unscientific person called Hammersmith Jack. That ended the fame of Mr. Pipes, for every man with whom he fought afterwards got the best of him.

Among other noted pugilists of those days was a man named Bill Willis, the fighting Quaker, another mighty boxer named Tom Smallwood, and still another whose soubriquet was George the Baker. All stood high in the fistic amphitheaters of those days. They all fought for "the diversion or gentlemen" with, of course, a lot of money on the side.

After all these worthies retired there was a lapse of nearly half a century in the art pugilistic, and then there opened up a new era of prize fighting and a man of genius and talent made his appearance on the stage. His name was George Broughtin. An admirer, writing of him in one of the magazines of that period, declared him to be the "greatest man in England, universally beloved, feared, respected and admired." His fame ended, however, when he threatened to horsewhip a butcher named Slack, who insulted him at the Hunslow races. Slack challenged him to prize fight, and they met in regular fashion. The butcher mopped the earth with Mr. Broughton and gathered in shekels to the amount of £600. The favorite, who was also called the father of boxing, was deprived of his laurels, his friends declared, by a chance blow between the "peepers," which blinded him and he couldn't see how to fight. At any rate, he retired to private life, and, like Cardinal Wolsey, bid a long farewell to all his greatness. Slack, the butcher boy, then became the champion, and it is recorded in the annals of pugilistic history that he after a reign of ten years was obliged to yield the palm to a slaughterer known as Bill Steevens the Nailor. Then the championship was boosted around for about a quarter of a century—that is, from the year 1761 to 1783—but in all that time there was no great master genius among the pubilisto.

One of the most celebrated of the pugilists of those times was an Irishman named Peter Corcoran. He graduated from the honest occupation of a coal heaver to that of a sailor, but at last decided this mission on the globe was prize fighting. Peter whipped many of the best boxers of his era and was at last knocked out himself by an aged gentleman called John Barleycorn, who always wins in the end with those who tackle him too constantly.

Then there came loud cries from all over England for a champion and Tom Johnson stepped to the front. There had been so much cheating that the fistic art lost favor with the public, but Johnson restored its prestige. He won many hard fights, whipped several men of herculean strength. His quietus came from a rattling in the ribs administered by a fighter called Big Ben. He never fought again, although he outlived the man who took the championship from him. When Big Ben died Johnson was among the mourners who saw his body respectably interred in St. Sepulcher's churchyard.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Shiebeck and His Bats.

"Frank Shiebeck was rather finicky about the bats he used," says Pitcher Claude Elliott, referring to the old Washington player, "and when he was playing with the Brewers in the American association, he caused all sorts of trouble for the other players. He used a short bat, and one of his tricks was to saw off the ends of such bats as struck his fancy. Of course, there would be a big 'holler' from the other players when they saw their favorite sticks mutiliated. Shiebeck was hitting about .277, but made a noise like a .400 slugger.

"When he 'graduated into the Western league he hit only about .166 with Denver, and we decided to help him out, going on the theory that the slump was due to the lack of short bats.

"We bundled up a lot of the bats he had sawed off and sent them to him C. O. D. I don't know whether the bats did it or not, but his batting picked up remarkably soon after that.

"'Shieby' did the handsome and sent us a polite note, thanking us for the bats. He wound up his letter, however, by adding, 'You forgot to pay the expressage.'"

Quit Knocking, Boost.

Here's a line of talk handed out by an Eastern sporting writer, which may be taken to heart by the fans in any league in the country, including the Northern-Copper Country:

Don't knock; boost.

Again, don't knock, and

Don't knock the home team.

Don't fail to jolly up the youngsters.

Don't let one defeat sour your disposition.

"Don't quit the team because the opening game is lost.

Don't imagine for a minute that you know more about the game than the manager.

Don't tell your friends how you would have done in a certain emergency. His lip may be cracked.

Don't take verbal shots at the player who makes an error. Undoubtedly he's doing the best he can.

Don't tell your neighbor how Fenroerton, Kanosbery or Marmaduke O'Shaughnessy would have eaten up the fly that Smith could not have gotten under with an automobile. The chances are that you never saw any of them.

Don't bring your vocabulary of invective to the ball park to dump upon the players. Remember, you have children of your own.

Don't think that the free rain check that is given you as you pass into the park is a permit to abuse the players. A policeman may undeceive you.

Don't get the idea that because your team has lost a majority of its games during the first week of the season that it's sure to be tailender. The schedule calls for 154 games.

Don't take it for granted that because a player trips in fielding a ball that he was carousing the night before. He may have stepped on a lighted cigar during a walk to church that morning.

S.S.S. RIDS THE SYSTEM OF MALARIA

Malaria is an atmospheric poison which we unconsciously breathe into our system. The blood in its constant passage through the lungs absorbs the germs, and they destroy the rich, red corpuscles of this vital fluid and reduce it to such a weak, watery condition that it is unable to properly nourish the system, and disease gets a foothold. Then the symptoms of Malaria, such as pale, sallow complexions, weak vitality, poor appetite, deranged digestion, and perhaps chills and fever show that the trouble is affecting every part of the body. Malaria also affects the liver, producing a chronic state of biliousness, and often a long spell of fever follows when the blood becomes fully contaminated with the poison. Chronic Sores and Ulcers, boils, aches and pains, and skin affections of various kinds often result from this insidious disease if the poison is allowed to accumulate in the blood in sufficient quantities. Malaria must be removed from the system through the circulation, and for this purpose nothing equals S. S. S. This great remedy goes down into the blood and drives out all germs, microbes and poisons, and permanently cures Malaria, S. S. S. not only cleanses the blood of the cause, but furnishes it with the healthful properties it needs, so that instead of a weak, germ-infected stream, spreading disease throughout the system, it becomes a rich, red fluid, nourishing the body and enabling it to resist disease. S. S. S. is also the greatest of all tonics, and builds up and invigorates the entire system while ridding the blood of the germs of Malaria. Persons who are suffering from Malaria will be pleased with the prompt and pleasant results produced by the use of S. S. S., and can take it with confidence because it is an absolutely safe medicine, being free from harmful minerals of any kind. Book on the blood and any medical advice desired sent free to all who write.

ATTACKED BY MOOSE

Angus Lee Sage of Grand Marais Has a Close Call.

Pinioned by Snowshoes, Escapes Only by Efforts of Dogs.

Grand Marais, Minn., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Peter Kadonce and Angus Le Sage, who have just returned from a trip over the latter's trapping trail at the 24-mile post on the Gunflint road, tell of a hair-raising experience they had on Saturday last, when Mr. Le Sage narrowly escaped being stamped to death by an infuriated moose.

Mr. Le Sage, who has been trapping at the 24-mile post the past winted, started out that day with Mr. Kadonce to pick up his traps and close up the camp. Going along the trail near Clearwater lake, they heard Mr. Le Sage's two dogs making an awful fuss a short distance ahead, and soon they came upon a monster moose standing square on the trail and trying to fight the dogs away. With no thought of danger, and simply to take a hand in the fun, Mr. Le Sage, who was in the lead, stood his gun against a tree and started forward, clapping his hands and urging the dogs on. Mr. Moose, now thoroughly maddened, made a dash for the unwary trapper, who, in turning quickly to get back to his gun, tripped on his snowshoes and fell flat upon his back in the deep snow, held as if in a trap by the snowshoes. Like a flash the moose was upon him, striking blows that if well aimed meant instant death. The dogs, instinctively seeing the peril of their master, redoubled the ferocity of their work at the animal's heels, and drove him at the animal's heels, and inflicting serious injury on the prostrate man.

Mr. Kodonce, who was some distance in the rear being unarmed, was unable to give his companion any assistance and was forced to stand a terror-stricken witness of the fight. He hurried forward expecting, of course, that the worst had happened, but Mr. Le Sage was on his feet before he reached him. Quickly taking an inventory of the damage done to his anatomy Mr. Le Sage found a small bump on the back of his head, caused by falling on the frozen snow, and a slight bruise on the muscle of his left leg, where the moose's paw had grazed him. It was a close call, and he was very thankful.

Boy of Nine a Victim of Disease Peculiar to Old Age.

Every vital organ was worn out as if it had been doing service for eighty or ninety years. He has been practically bed-ridden for four years, and the past year never left his bed.

Up to four years ago the boy had been in excellent health, but he then began to show symptoms of rheumatism, weak lungs and stomach. Two years ago two of his fingers were amputated because of rheumatism, and since then he has afforded study for half a dozen specialists of various diseases.

The bullet missed him and struck Mrs. Nardi, who was also in the room. Officer Swanson ran toward the saloon, and as he approached the place he saw the lights go out. He entered and talked with Nardi and others. They denied that there had been a row or that any shooting was done.

Swanson did not know that Mrs. Nardi had been shot, as the place was dark and he did not recognize any one but Nardi. However, she appeared at the Ishpeming hospital a few minutes after the shooting. The surgeons tried to locate the bullet, but without success. She was in a stooping position when the shot was fired, the bullet entering her back below the shoulder, taking an upward course.

DAKOTAS

CONDUCTOR REINSTATED

M. Mayer of Great Northern Was Wrongfully Accused.

Crooked Railroad Detective Responsible for His Removal.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Martin Mayer, who for eleven years was a passenger conductor on the Great Northern railroad, and who was removed last September for alleged violations of the rules governing the collection of fares has been completely cleared and exonerated of all charges and ordered reinstated with full pay from the time of his discharge.

The perfidy of a detective named Ernest Peterson, in the employ of the road, was the cause of the discharge of Mr. Mayer. On a certain date he sent in a report to the effect that he had ridden with Conductor Mayer on the Walhalla train to Minto and that no fare was collected from him and that on the day following he rode back from Minto to Grand Forks without paying fare. Railroads as a matter of protection must needs employ detectives and of necessity they must accept the word of these men as gospel and govern themselves accordingly. It was upon the above evidence that Conductor Mayer was "let out." Immediately after his discharge that gentleman set to work hunting up proofs of his innocence. He knew well that the report of the detective was a lie and therefore the only possible way to assert his own innocence was to show up the true character of the detective.

It took Mr. Mayer but a short time to prove that on the dates which Detective Peterson claimed to have ridden up and back the Walhalla line, he was in truth, lying in a drunken condition in a house of ill fame on the Minnesota Point. After he had collected a sufficient amount of evidence to make his showing strong, Mr. Mayer went to St. Paul and laid his proof before General Manager Ward, and other Great Northern officials, who were only too glad to be able to doubt the truth of the detective's reports, and the general manager at once assigned two of his most trusted sleuths to work on the case. In a very short time they had been able to corroborate in every particular the evidence assembled by Mr. Mayer with the result above stated.

"Jim" as he is well known, was arrested and pleaded guilty to running a blind pig some time ago. He was sentenced to serve ninety days and had served several weeks of his term when Mrs. Kraft became ill. Judge Goss paroled Kraft in order that he might look after his sick wife and dogs will be brought to Brainerd, loaded on the cars and taken to Minneapolis to be sawed.

TO TRY SUPERIOR.

Divorced Man to See If He Can Remarry In That City.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 10.—Divorced from his second wife on Saturday in St. Paul, Minn., engaged to another young lady on Monday and in Grand Forks on Tuesday looking for a marriage license, is the astonishing record of James Canos of St. Paul who appeared before Judge Hassell accompanied by his prospective bride.

Canos wanted a license and wanted it bad. The divorce laws of Minnesota forbid remarrying before a period of six months has elapsed and thinking the North Dakota laws were lax, he boarded a train with his lady love for Grand Forks. All went well until Judge Hassell began his quizzing campaign. Negotiations stopped very suddenly when Canos informed the judge that he had been divorced on Saturday night. The North Dakota laws forbid remarrying until ninety days after divorce.

Canos and the young lady left for Superior, Wis., where the laws are not particular as to when or how soon an individual wishes to again don the yoke after having been divorced.

BISMARCK PEOPLE WANT ATTORNEY INVESTIGATED.

Bismarck, N. D., May 10.—An extensively signed petition asking that a grand jury be called for the May term of court has been filed with Judge Winchester. The petition for the grand jury is supposed to be due to the fact that the state's attorney is using the office for political purposes. The people demand a square deal. Burleigh county has had but one grand jury since statehood and is ripe for a general overhauling.

ESCAPED IN GUNNY SACK.

Patient Gets Away From Fergus Falls Asylum Scantily Clad.

Moorhead, Minn., May 10.—John Unger, the young man sent to Fergus Falls some time ago from this city, has distinguished himself again in performing a feat that places him in a class with the man who went over Niagara Falls in a flour barrel. Unger made his escape from the asylum Tuesday night clad only in strips of an old gunny sack and he rode the brake beams of Great Northern No. 6 all the way to Melrose. When he got there he flung the shreds of the gunny sack to the four winds and ran home pell mell, where he was received with open arms by his parents.

Sheriff Moritz has notified the officials at Fergus Falls and a couple of men will go to Melrose to take the man back to the asylum.

TO REMOVE DEADHEADS FROM THE MISSISSIPPI.

Brainerd, Minn., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Brown-Burt Logging company, which has the contract for taking the dead heads out of the Upper Mississippi, has the steamer Atlas at the dam at Brainerd ready to commence the work at once. The steamer which was purchased at Aitkin, has been equipped with the proper hoisting apparatus and will carry a crew of twelve men. The logs will be brought to Brainerd, loaded on the cars and taken to Minneapolis to be sawed.

BUILDINGS ARE FALLING.

Underground Workings at Norway Raising Havoc With the Houses.

Norway, Mich., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Because of the steady sinking of the ground as ore is removed in the underground workings of the Steel corporation's big Aragon mine at Norway, Menominee iron range, it will be necessary to remove many buildings in that city to new locations. One of these is the structure occupied by A. J. De Roeck's grocery store, which has tilted at such an angle that it is now close up against the postoffice block. It is doubtful if the building will hold together much longer. The trouble is similar to that experienced at Iron Mountain, a few miles west, where it is costing the C. & N. W. and C., M. & St. P. railroads a veritable mint of money to maintain their tracks across the Steel corporation's Chapin mine pit.

HUNTERS WIN SUIT.

Game Wardens Pay $200 in Settlement of Lake Linuen Deer Case.

Lake Linden, Mich., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The now famous Lake Linden deer case was settled in the circuit court at L'Anse Tuesday before the case for the prosecution was half through, the defendants stopping the case and offering to settle. An amicable agreement was reached, $200 being paid in settlement to cover the costs and other incidentals connected with the trial.

This is the case in which Chris Stark of Lake Linden sued Game Wardens Thompson and Massey for confiscation of deer at Arvon. It was contended by the officers that the deer after being slaughtered should have had tags attached to them; whereas the hunters claimed that the tags were only necessary at the shipping point.

MAN IS KILLED BY FALLING FROM CAR.

Escanaba, Mich., May 10.—Falling headlong from a swiftly moving street car yesterday, John Rodman, a jobber of Hermansville, Mich., visiting in this city, sustained a fractured skull which caused death within two hours. Rodman stepped from the car between crossings and in striking the pavement his skull was split open.

POLICE STOPPED GIRL FROM HUGGING DENTIST.

New York, May 10.—Under the influence of her dentist's laughing gas, Miss Agnes Loven of the Bronx hugged the dentist until the police interfered.

The girl, who is 22 and pretty, has been undergoing a series of dental operations at the office of Dr. John Taylor. Finally it was necessary to pull a tooth and the laughing gas was administered. The moment the gas took effect, Miss Loven leaped from the chair and clasped Dr. Taylor about the neck with a hug that would do credit to a polar bear.

The doctor tried to extricate himself from the embrace in vain. Then he called for help, and Mrs. Taylor came to pry the patient's arms from her husband's neck. She could not do it, and telephoned to the police. The girl, when finally torn from the dentist, was carried to a hospital.

MARINE NEWS

COAL BOATS ARE SCARCE

More Cargoes Than Vessels at the Lower Lake Ports.

Railroads Refuse to Bring Coal to the Docks at Present.

At most of the lower lake ports this week there has been a scarcity of coal carriers during the blockade at this end of the line and in consequence their have been more cargoes than there were vessels to take care of them. Some of the railroads have refused to bring any more coal to the docks until the cars that are now tied up in that trade are released.

This condition will probably be at an end by the last of this week, however, as the blockade in the Duluth harbor is now practically at an end and large numbers of boats have already returned to the Ohio ports. Many of these carriers will take on coal there and the congestion will be relieved in part at any rate.

The delay in the movement of coal at the lower lake ports has also had an effect in the ore trade and there has been a shortage of cars at the receiving points during the past week. Most of the ore going down is for direct shipment and a shortage of cars means delay to ore carriers. Ore is now moving in pretty good shape, but the summer swift dispatch has not yet been reached.

The car shortage in the lake trade is coming pretty early in the season and it will be necessary to move ore at a great rate this summer in order that the shipments come up to the expectations for the season. The start was made later than last season and if the record in ore shipments is to be broken this year there can be no delay on the part of the railroads at lower points. They must furnish plenty of cars.

The demand for tonnage in the grain trade is as good as ever although the ice at Fort William and Port Arthur is still causing delay and owners will be slow in sending their boats to the Canadian Head of the Lakes until everything is well opened up.

TO RESUME WORK.

Shipbuilding Company Will Have Strike-breakers at Globe Yards.

Cleveland, May 10.—Active steps were taken yesterday by the American Shipbuilding company to resume work at the Globe yards here the coming week. Oils were hauled into the building and preparations were made for a food supply according to good authority.

Since the inauguration of the strike in the company's yards along the Great Lakes only a few men have been employed here, the construction department having practically been abandoned. The officials of the company, it is declared, will apply the same methods here as were employed in re-opening the yards at Lorain and Wyandotte, where their yards are now in operation. Strike breakers may be imported Sunday.

MUCH GRAIN AT BUFFALO.

Enormous Quantities Have Been Received There This Week.

Reports from Buffalo state that grain has been coming into that port in enormous quantities this week. In forty-eight hours 2,790,000 bushels were received there, and the grain has become somewhat congested. It is said, however, that the elevators still have ample room, and the railroads are carrying the grain East as fast as possible.

There are larger amounts of grain yet to be loaded in the Duluth and Superior harbors, and also at Port Arthur and Fort William, and there will be a big fleet of boats in the grain business for some time to come.

BLEW OUT CYLINDER HEAD.

Steamer Ball Brothers Suffered Accident Coming Up Lake.

While coming up the lakes the other day the steamer Ball Brothers of the Tomlinson line suffered an accident to her machinery which caused considerable delay. She was bringing up a cargo of coal, and during the voyage the head of one of the high-pressure cylinders on the engine was blown out.

She was able to make her way to Duluth slowly, but when just outside the harbor she whistled for help, and two tugs went out and towed her into the bay. She is now unloading her coal cargo at the Pittsburg coal dock No. 1 on Rice's Point.

ARE NOW SPEEDY BOATS.

Old Anchor Line Vessels Are Now Very Fast.

From information received in this city, the steamers India and China, formerly Anchor line passenger boats, are so changed in appearance and speed that even the navigators of the vessels in the old days on the Lake Superior-Lake Erie route, can hardly recognize them.

Both steamers have been equipped with Scotch boilers and are capable of a speed of almost twenty miles an hour. They have been painted pure white, the green bottom of the Anchor liners having been painted out. Their antique-looking old pilothouses have been replaced by the solid-looking square kind such as the Tionesta carries, and many other changes have been made in the boats.

They are now considered as being the fleetest steamers plying on the Great Lakes, and, it is said, can easily outstrip the bigger passenger boats of the Anchor line. They have been placed on the route between Toronto and Port Arthur.

To Make Investigation.

An investigation will be made by Capt. Bernard Nelson and James McGrath, Cleveland inspectors of steamboats, into the loss of the tug L. B. Johnson of the Great Lakes Towing company, which was wrecked four miles west of Fairport last week. The Johnson was bound up from Cleveland to Ashtabula and it was said that she sprung a leak. The crew left the boat and reached shore in a life raft. The tug went on the beach and is now in bad shape. The tug was commanded by Capt. J. E. Wylie of Conneaut.

Knife River Lighthouse.

A lighthouse will be erected at the mouth of Knife river on a small hill southwest of where the river empties into the lake. A lighthouse is badly needed in that vicinity on account of numerous rocks which make it a most dangerous spot for vessels at night and in time of storm.

Business Agent Is Ill.

Armor Harvey, business agent of the Marine Engineers' Benevolent association, has been unable to be at his office in the Manhattan building for several days on account of illness. It is not thought to be serious, however, and Mr. Harvey will probably be out again in a couple of days.

Tonnage Still Scarce.

Cleveland, May 10.—Fort William grain shippers are bidding for tonnage at 2¼ cents on wheat to Buffalo, but there is no more tonnage on the local market at that figure. Coal is moving a little more freely and ore docks are getting more cars, but the supply is still short. Weather does not warm up in the Northwest and frozen ore is being handled at most of the docks. Many coal carriers are waiting at the head of Lake Superior. The steamer Rogers which sailed from Lorain, April 1, and reached Duluth, April 29, was not unloaded until today.

Several Minor Disasters.

Detroit, May 10.—In a fog early yesterday the steamer Rust, bound up, grounded on Peche island. The coal cargo is now being lightered on the Newman. The new being lightered on the steamer Ogdis, going into Wyandotte for salt, also grounded, but was released without apparent damage. The steamer Iron Age, towing the schooner Colby, was derailed by a broken rudder, and was towed to a dock. The steamer Joseph Gilchrist is at Buffalo with a badly twisted stem. The Gilchrist was in collision with the steamer Sherwin in the ice. It will take about a week to make repairs.

Gasoline Tug Arrives.

Yesterday the gasoline fishing tug Grace J., recently purchased by Martin Christianson from Sever Johnson for $2,600, was towed into the Duluth harbor by the Lizzie Madden from Chicago. The Grace J. will be enrolled at this port and will be used in the fishing business at Isle Royale. She is 52 feet long, 13 feet beam, and is 5 feet deep, with a tonnage of 24 gross and 17 net.

Ireland Leaves Shipyard.

The steamer R. L. Ireland, of the Gilchrist line was towed over to the ore docks yesterday from the Superior shipdocks yesterday from the Superior shipyard and will take on a load of ore and depart for Cleveland tomorrow. The Ireland was wrecked last fall on Gull island reef and has been undergoing repairs at the shipyard since the middle of January. It is estimated that the wrecking and repairing of the boat cost over $100,000, but she is now practically a new boat.

Two Monster Boats.

On May 18 the new 605-foot steel freight steamer the Le Grand S. De Graff will be launched and christened at the Lorain yards of the American Shipbuilding company. She is named after a North Tonawanda lumberman. She is a sister ship to the W. H. Kerr and in June a third steamer having the same dimensions will be launched at South Chicago. She will be named after William M. Mills, president and manager of the Western Transit company.

Delayed by Storm.

Capt. A. C. Majo, owner of the independent ferry line, received a telegram last night saying that the steam ferry Crescent, which he has just purchased and which is on her way up from Michigan, had been compelled to put in at Marquette on account of the heavy southwest wind. The little boat will probably arrive in Duluth on Saturday.

ON THE IRON RANGES

HIS COIN SPURIOUS

Finlander Under Arrest at Virginia for Passing Bad Money.

Officers Suspect the Counterfeits Were Made on the Range.

What is believed to be one of the boldest attempts on record to pass counterfeit money on the range was nipped in the bud at Virginia this week, by the officers of that city, and one of the several persons believed to be concerned in the making or passing of the "queer" is now in the city jail being held for the federal authorities.

The alleged counterfeiter is a Finlander, well dressed and claimed to have all the evidences of being a "smooth" one. His arrest has been kept rather quiet by the Virginia officials, and the name of the prisoner has not yet become known beyond the jail.

According to the story of the detection of the spurious coin, the man now in custody visited several places in Virginia last Wednesday, including a saloon and a Chinese restaurant, where he passed off several bogus 25-cent pieces, claimed to be well executed of some metal that gave the bogus quarters the appearance of having been freshly minted. The counterfeits were under weight, however, and that fact first aroused suspicions.

When the Finlander who passed the coins was arrested and searched a large number of counterfeit 25-cent and 50-cent pieces were found in his possession. The bogus coin all had the appearance of being new and the range officials strongly suspect that it was manufactured not far from Virginia.

The police officials and the second assistant county attorney, Otto Porrer of Virginia are said to have been conducting an investigation with a view of learning something of the antecedents of the prisoner and where he came from and that is said to be the reason that the arrest was kept quiet.

The federal government, it is claimed, pays a reward for the capture of counterfeiters, in case a conviction is secured, in which case the Virginia officials may come in for a share of the prize money.

RICHARD BAKER DEAD.

Pioneer Resident of Virginia Succumbs After a Lingering Illness.

Virginia, Minn., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Richard Baker, a pioneer resident of this city, died this morning after a lingering illness, of consumption, aged 41 years. He leaves a widow and two children. He was in the saloon business here for several years, but had recently sold his business. The funeral will occur Sunday, at 3 o'clock from the Catholic church. The deceased was a member of the Eagles and the Druids, who will attend the services in a body.

were promptly stopped by the police escort.

The appearance of the cars were greeted with manifestations of approval by the better element along the route taken and the motormen on the cars were showered with flowers and heartily cheered as they passed.

Today another attempt will be made to operate the system and, as many cars will be sent out as the police will guarantee to protect.

The newly appointed executive committee of fifty met this morning to make its report on the definite plan of action for the settlement of existing industrial trouble. The joint conciliation committee of the labor council reports having had satisfactory interviews with the employes and employers of the striking parties. There are indications that peace will be established before long by the telephone operators, and encouraging progress has also been made toward the settlement of the laundry strike. Influence is now being brought to bear on the metal trades association and iron trades council, with some prospect of a peaceful settlement of the strikes now in progress. So far the telephone linemen have taken no action in regard to a sympathetic strike in aid of the operators.

Last night the building trades council adopted a resolution denying as false the reports of a strike of June 1 and also urged the miscellaneous trades now engaged in the industrial struggle to get together and work for the peace of the city.

Yesterday two cars manned by twenty strike breakers were run from the car barns at Oakland and Boderick streets for a distance of three to four miles through the business and residence streets of the Western addition. Stirred to admiration by the courage of unarmed strike breakers in operating the two cars in the mob-crowded thoroughfares, women all along the route stood on door steps or leaned from windows and waved handkerchiefs, clapped their hands, cheered and threw kisses to the non-unionists as the police protected cars ran slowly by. On the return trip, a young girl ran out from a florist's shop and tossed a handfull of red, long stemmed carnations to the platform of one of the cars. Lifting their caps and smiling, several of the men leaned out and caught the flowers. Then the cars were halted while young women brought clusters of carnations and roses from the shop and offered them to the men. Soon every strike breaker had a flower in his coat. The extra ones they tossed to Assistant President Mullally, Supt. Chapman, Chief Surgeon Coffey, Assistant Purchasing Agent Finigan and other officials of the company who were keeping pace in an automobile with the cars.

From a bakery shop in the neighborhood a stout woman came hurrying breathlessly, her hands full of small cakes hot from the oven. They were devoured by the uniformed recipients.

A taunting, jeering, howling mob of more than 1,000 strikers and strike sympathizers jogged for blocks along the sidewalks, reviling the car men, yelling frenzied threats to "get them yet," crying "murderers, cowards and scabs." Now and then a stone or brick was thrown, but the guilty person hid in the recesses of the mob and escaped detection. Though no shooting was witnessed by the police or the company officials or newspaper men who accompanied the cars on their run, one of the motormen declared, after the return to the barn that a shot was fired from the sidewalk. In proof of his statement, he pointed to a clean cut hole in one of the ventilator windows of his car.

more & Ohio lease, so they can fulfill a contract to turn it over to James J. Hill and the Burlington road.

"The minority interests are preparing a cross petition in which it will be alleged that the Baltimore & Ohio lease was procured by fraud in connection with the old lease of the St. Louis, Peoria & Northern. The Baltimore & Ohio lease was substituted for this, thereby relieving E. H. Harriman and his friends from the payment of about $150,000 annual rental to the Terminal company. The minority stockholders will claim that this was an important factor in promoting the failure of the company, and the court will be asked to cancel the Baltimore & Ohio lease and authorize the receiver to bring suit against Harriman, George Gould and others for a large amount claimed to be due the terminal company. The fight will be bitter and undoubtedly will keep the terminal property in a receivership several years."

specifications of the railway companies, under direct supervision of inspectors of the railroad, who test them before delivery. He adds: "It is true that railmakers are receiving complaints from railroads regarding the breakages, with the result that steel manufacturers are consulting railroad experts for the purpose of determining what, if anything, can be done to prevent accidents. If rails were heavier, less would be broken.

"In my judgment, to meet the demands from the heavier equipment now employed by the leading railroads, a rail weighing 110 pounds to the yard, or a 110 pound rail, should be the standard heavy rail, instead of the eighty and ninety pound rail now in use. All of us recall that a few years ago the heaviest rail then made was a seventy or eighty pound rail. The heaviest now made is either a ninety or 100 pound rail. In the equipment of railroads, however, the cars carry three or four times their former capacity, and the engines are correspondingly heavy."

LOW MARKS FOR WHEAT

71.5; spring planting, 47 per cent actually done up to May 1, 1907.

Chicago, May 10.—The government crop report declaring that an area under winter wheat cultivation is 3,533,000 acres less than reported as sown last fall and 1,468,000 acres less than the area reported as harvested last year caused the price of wheat on the local exchange to advance ¾c. The market was strong all day and prices were up almost 1c above the close of yesterday until the report was given out. This was partly offset by reports from the Southwest declaring that moisture and warmer weather have during the last few days exerted a distinctly favorable influence upon the crop. It was declared in this report that no extensive damage had been proven, and the government report showing no remarkably heavy deterioration in any state was taken as showing that the reports of damage by "green bug" and the army worm have been in a measure overestimated. A report was received from Minneapolis at the same time of the government report to the effect that July wheat had been cornered in that market. This aided the upturn somewhat. Within thirty minutes after the publication of the government crop report on the board of trade, the price of July wheat advanced from 87¾c to 87¾c.

INCREASE IN THE RATES

New Freight Tariffs to All Points in the East.

Raise Made Necessary by Increase in Cost of Operation.

A substantial increase in freight rates to points east of Chicago will go into effect the first of July. Duluth railroad men are daily receiving tariffs announcing the changes, which will be quite numerous. Some of them will be in force before July 1, but most of them will not become effective until that date.

Almost all commodities are affected. The increase in the rate on lumber to Atlantic coast points was announced as being $1.55 per thousand feet, but the lumber interests have been working hard to prevent such a radical change, and it was learned this morning that a slight reduction from this might be secured. The average increase in freight rates will be about 15 per cent on 10 per cent of the tonnage. The Eastern trunk lines are making an effort to get away from the commodity rates and establish regular classification rates in their stead.

During the past few years the tendency of freight rates has been downward, but the railroads claim that an increase is now necessary to meet conditions as they exist at present. Expenses of operation have increased to such an extent that the profits have been cut into at an alarming rate. The cost of all materials for use on the roads has increased to a considerable extent. Lumber, for example, on which the freight rate is being raised, costs more than twice as much now as it did four or five years ago, and in some cases the cost is three times as much. Hemlock, much of which is used in the construction of cars, costs $24 per thousand feet, where four or five years ago it was $9.50 per thousand. It is much the same with all classes of material used by the roads.

Aside from this, the operating companies have been met with an increase in taxes, a decided reduction in passenger fares in different states of the Union, and a 10 per cent increase in the wages of employes. They feel that an increase in freight rates is necessary in order to equalize things. It is claimed that even with the increase in effect, the earnings of the different roads affected will not be as large as formerly, before the raise in the cost of materials, wages and taxation came.

While almost all classes of freight will be affected by the new tariff, the cost of shipment being raised, the new figure is really lower than the one which was in effect a few years ago.

A New Division.

J. E. Raver has been appointed superintendent of a new division on the Northern Pacific, with headquarters at Fargo. According to a circular just issued, a new division has been created, extending from the east end of the Red river bridge to the easterly switch at Jamestown and including, besides the main lines, the Casselton, Cooperstown and Fargo-Southwestern branches. This change splits in two the Dakota division, a change made necessary by the immense amount of business which the Northern Pacific is handling in the state.

HUSBAND WHIPS DENTIST.

Sensational Street Fight Follows Divorce Case at Monticello, Wis.

Monroe, Wis., May 10.—Because he suspected his wife of undue intimacy with Dr. A. J. Schindler, a dentist, Dane Richards, a rural mail carrier of Monticello, Green county, attacked Dr. Schindler on the main street of the village, and had it not been for the friendly assistance of others the dentist would, in all probability have been killed, as Richards is a large man of a decidedly athletic build, while Schindler is comparatively small.

The trouble started through the construction placed by others on the frequent visits paid by Mrs. Richards to Dr. Schindler's office, although both Mrs. Richards and the doctor claim that she went there only for necessary treatment for her teeth. The climax came when Richards was told that his wife had left a dance hall one evening to go with Schindler to his office close by. Mrs. Richards claiming that she had a toothache, and Schindler stoutly averring that he only treated the woman in a professional capacity. Certain persons who shadowed the couple, however assert that they remained in the office a considerable time and that no light was noticeable from the outside. At any rate it took four men to drag Richards away from Schindler when he encountered him in the street after having warned him to leave the village within two days.

After the assault, Schindler, who is 24 years old, concluded to go, and left the village protesting his innocence to the last. Mrs. Richards is 25 years old, and came to Monticello from Michigan as the wife of Richards.

Dr. Schindler graduated from college and began practice there about five years ago. Divorce proceedings will be instituted by the husband. The couple are the parents of a little daughter.

It is only a few weeks ago that a young man of the village was severely horsewhipped by a young lady for alleged indecent behavior toward her, and the town has been the scene of frequent occurrences of a similar nature.

SHANNA CUMMINGS

Highest Paid Church Soprano in America, to Sing Here.

Of Shanna Cumming, the soprano soloist engaged for the May festival to be given here Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, an Eastern critic has recently written:

"An artist by birth and training, Shanna Cumming stands today at the head of American singers. In the field of oratorio she has no serious rival. She is distinctly American. Her pretty given name, "Shanna" (wild rose), is an inheritance from her grandmother, who, as the wife of a sturdy young missionary among the Indians, was a pioneer of Illinois. Her work in festival and oratorio has made her known and admired by musicians everywhere and her beautiful voice and winning personality have endeared her to thousands. Her first church position was in Buffalo. Her next move was to Pittsburg, where she entered the concert field. She returned to church work, taking a position at the Central Congregational church of which Rev. Dr. Parker Cadman is pastor. She is paid the largest salary given to a church soprano in the country. During the past four years Shanna Cumming has had the distinction of introducing to the American public at their initial performance, all the new Edgar and Coleridge Taylor works. She sang the solo work in the "Death of Minnehaha" at the New Haven festival recently and the New Haven Evening Register said of her: 'Mrs. Shanna Cumming has a voice of exceptional purity, her method is perfect, and intelligent delivery, artistic shading and espression mark her singing. The solo "Hark! She Said" was given with rare refinement and delicacy, and later the chill of "Death's Icy Fingers" was dramatic and intense. The solo portraying Hiawatha's grief at the bedside could hardly be excelled in purity of style, pathos and artistic delicacy.'"

A wedding of much interest in Duluth took place Wednesday of this week at Minneapolis at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. The rooms were beautifully decorated in bride's roses and palms, and the service was read at 2 o'clock by Dr. S. P. Long, formerly pastor of the First Methodist church in this city. The bride was attended by Miss Millie McKee of Duluth, and the groomsman was Walter Thexton of Minneapolis. The ring bearer was Miss Adelaide Miller, also of this city.

The bride wore a dainty gown of white marquisette cloth and carried American beauty roses. After an informal reception Mr. and Mrs. Mirick left for an Eastern wedding trip. What Retail Markets Offer.

Pineapples, 40 cents each.
Strawberries, 20 cents a box.
Asparagus, 2 bunches for 25 cents.
Watercress, 5 cents a bunch.
Bananas, 8 cents a lb.
Veal roast, 15 cents a lb.
Chickens and roasts.

The pineapples and strawberries are among the most seasonable things in the market, and a strawberry shortcake would probably receive an enthusiastic greeting. A thing to more severely try your soul in the preparing would be to have fresh pineapple just simply cut up and sugar sprinkled over it. A pineapple, the most luscious and fragrant of fruits, is the hardest on one's temper. One may begin to prepare it in a happy frame of mind, but by the time it has been successfully grappled with, and it lies cut up, with all outward harshness removed, the cook is out of temper. Preparing a pineapple for the table is a sure way of getting out of patience with the world, but by the time the luscious thing sweetened and cold, appears at a Sunday evening teatable, the trouble of getting it ready is forgotten, and one thinks that there is nothing on earth quite so nice as fresh pineapple.

HER SACRIFICE

By Mary Clarke Huntington.

(Copyright, 1907, by Joseph B. Bowles).

It was a month since Deborah had said "yes" to Parson Farrell. Deborah never found the minister's wooing distasteful. His cultivated accents and unvarying courtliness impressed her as did his quotations from Holy Writ; she considered him a superior being, who yet felt it a privilege that she allowed herself to belong to him, and she knew that the neighborhood girls envied her the position she would hold as his wife. She felt no shrinking from a life-journey with this young ecclesiastic; the future looked all green pastures and still waters.

Deborah was humming a love tune as she sat spinning under the arbor as her betrothed came quietly and sat down beside her.

"Are you spinning because there is no more cooking to be done?"

"You wouldn't ask that if you could see the doughnuts that Aunt Lydia is frying, and Aunt Abigail is still making spice cakes. She began so early this morning that Aunt Lydia wondered she hadn't sat up all night." The girl's laugh rippled out delightfully—her lips, her eyes, even the soft curls on her forehead seemed blent in such a unison of pretty mirth that the minister smiled response. "My aunts said I had done enough in the kitchen, so I came out here. Oh, the pies we've made, sir, and the biscuits, and—but you'll be tasting them tomorrow evening."

"Tomorrow brings the full of the harvest moon," said Parson Farrell thoughtfully. "At last harvest moon I was packing for the start to this pastorate. And when I had finished I sat by the window of my lodgings, wondering what the future held for me. I didn't know that it held you for me."

Deborah responded to his mood:

"And I—what was I doing last harvest moon? Oh, yes—there was a frolice at Judge Percival's, and I went. We danced—"

She paused, coloring under his eyes.

"A minister's wife cannot dance, Deborah."

"I don't wish to dance. I never wish to dance again."

She spoke with the positiveness of youth that does not know itself, laying a convincing hand on his arm; and he looked at her with his face melting to such rare tenderness that it was like a caress. He seldom kissed her; he was more apt to take her, as it were, into the depths of his heart by one of those swift face softenings. Deborah wondered if he would ever kiss her when they were married. Or didn't married people kiss each other?

"I hear Judge Percival's son returns home soon. His ship is anchored in Boston harbor. What ill people here seem fond of telling about him—and never any good. Yet I remember him at college as being most kindly. We roomed together until some prank sent him away, and as he dreaded meeting his father he went to sea. He nursed me through a three weeks' illness—and as tenderly as a woman. I learned to love him like a brother, and shall not forget the debt I owe him—being as poor then in friends as in money." There was silence—Deborah looking into her lap, Parson Farrell looking out across the green meadows at the haze blue hills. "And at the husking tomorrow evening your father announces our bethrothal. Everybody will know then that we belong to each other."

When he had gone the spinning wheel turned again; but there was upon her face a shade not cast by flickering grape leaves.

"I've taken that sweet image everywhere," said some one close behind her. This time the voice startled Deborah. She rose up so hastily that she stepped upon the hem of her gown, and was kept from falling by arms which held her fast.

"You haven't altered a bit since we danced the Virginia Reel, except to grow lovelier. Won't you tell me that you're glad to see me. Won't you, sweetheart?"

She struggled to free herself.

"You mustn't! Oh, Ephraim, I've promised to marry the minister!"

He stepped back, his face falling under its tan.

"He came here since you left home. His name is Enoch Farrell. He says he knew you at college, and he spoke so kindly of you that I liked him more than ever."

She was tall for a woman, but as he stood opposite she felt dwarfed beside him—felt that she was pitifully weak and small, that the minister was pitifully weak and small; this sailor with the Apollo figure suddenly represented all strength and protection. Yet she shrank before the fierce saddening of his eyes the tumbling intensity of his words:

"I remember Enoch Farrell. He's a fine fellow. But I've been trying to make myself a good man for you, Deborah. I thought you knew I loved you. And you love me. You may marry the minister—but you love me! Deborah, you love me!"

Was this the Deborah who, with such unruffled calm, such sweet unreluctance had turned the clear pallor of her cheek to the bethrothal kiss of Parson Farrell? Nay—this was another Deborah, tremulous, blushing, who stood with half lifted lids—under which spoke her own heart suddenly revealed to herself; and with the admission of her face, her attitude he had her in his arms again—and the fate of temperament, the force of nature drew their lips together.

The crowd had begun to come for the husking bee, and as there was to be no dancing tables had been set in the long barn, and lanterns were upon a bountiful repast. The corn to be husked was piled in shocks outside the barn, and soon guests to the number of a hundred or more were stripping the yellow grains with laugh and jest and snatch of song—an occasional scramble or playful slap bearing testimony of the red ear.

Deborah, standing with Parson Farrell in the soft dark of an apple tree a little distance from the huskers, was conscious of weariness. She wished that she might be by herself for a moment's gathering of strength to meet the announcement that was to come at table. Yet one was not there to hear, as she had dreaded; and she felt relieved at his absence—although her eyes constantly searched the spaces about her in unwilling desire for a look for him.

"You are tired," the minister said, tenderly.

"Yes, I am tired," she confessed. "And I'm thirsty, too. A drink of Aunt Lydia's cold coffee would taste good—but it's nearly table hour, and I can wait."

"You shan't wait, except to wait here while I fetch a glass," he said. "Sit upon this wall until I come back."

He was gone before she could protest; and she sat as he had bidden—watching the merry crowd beside the barn with a curious sense of detachment. She was only 20. Would it go on like this until she was an old, old woman—the happy pulse of humanity and she so drearily aloof? Then her isolation filled into a frightened, delicious sense of nearness to what made life best, while, as a voice entreated softly from behind the wild grape vines that, reaching up to the maple branches, formed a screen at her back:

"Deborah—darling—"

"Go away!" she implored faintly—and turned sick at the thought of his going.

"I would rather die than live without you, sweetheart."

"Hush!" she said, with a choke in her voice that she could not control.

She heard a sigh—long, quivering, as from the depths of a man's heart—the rustle of vine leaves, a dragging step; she saw the minister returning through the moonlit space between the barn and the apple tree dark with a glass in his hand. Then there was the crash of breaking wood—it seemed all about her—some one leaped the wall—she was pushed aside with a violence that sent her staggering toward the group of huskers, who rushed in her direction. A glass lay empty at her feet; Parson Farrell's command rang above the confused hum of voices:

"Stand away, all of you—stand away! He needs air."

She knew now what it was. A heavy apple branch, which her father had said must soon be cut, had yielded to an ancient fissure, and had fallen where but an instant before she was sitting; and that prostrate figure—She pushed her way into the circle; she threw herself on her knees beside him. Green pastures and still waters were forgotten now—The Deborah who had girded herself for a placid life of duty was only an impetuous woman.

"Oh, Ephraim! Ephraim! You've given your life for mine!"

They had carried him into the moonlight, and the vivid rays fell upon his unconscious face and upon Deborah's bent head. As she weakly resisted her father's gentle force, he closed eyes opened and looked dazedly into her own. Then Ephraim raised himself on his elbow, with the slow gathering of full young strength suddenly, stunned.

"I'm not hurt, Deborah, dear. Were you frightened, sweetheart?" and the whole litany of love was in those two sentences.

She arose and held out her hand to him; his own tightened about it in such a clasp as only lovers give—and hand in hand they stood before the man to whom she was plighted, hand in hand they stood before all their little world. Through the minister's brain these words beat against warring impulses: "What greater love hath a man than this, that he lay down his life for his friends?" His face was white in the moonlight; but as the people watched, it grew in its high resolve like the face of a saint—and the two fronting him looked into it unafraid. His voice, sad, solemn, sweet, reached to the farthest listeners:

"Ephraim Percival, do you wish to take this woman to be your wedded wife?"

"I do," said Ephraim.

"Deborah Estes," he faltered, fixed upon her the farewell of such looks as could not be told in words, then went on steadily," do you wish to take this man to be your wedded husband?"

"I do," said Deborah.

"Then I pronounce you husband and wife. Whom God hath joined together let no man put asunder. Dearly beloved, peace abide with you both."

Through the hush following the benediction of this strange bridal, Simeon Estes spoke with a tremulousness which he could not hide:

"Enough husking for tonight, good friends. Cheer awaits us on yonder tables."

He led the way toward the glowing open barn, and if he felt disappointed at the night's outcome he showed nothing of it; the crowd trooped after him.

The minister stood where they had left him—his face upraised—and it seemed to her that the light of the harvest moon wove a halo about his head. She did ont know that its stretched rays, like heavenward ladders, down toward him through tears that made him none the less a man.

DON'TS FOR MARRIED MEN.

A little book, recently published under the thoroughly inclusive title, "Don'ts for Everybody," gives a number of valuable hints to all those earnest ones who make it their aspiration and daily business to become perfect ladies and gentlemen, says the Richmond Times-Dispatch. No one who dutifully followed its precepts could possibly fail to grow, in the shortest time, immensely refined. Interesting as it all is, that portion dealing with woman and matrimony is undoubtedly the most important. That is always true of everything. "Woman," in the words of prospectus of a new magazine —"woman, the underlying cause of every event, good or bad, great or small, has, without question, been discussed more than anytaing else in the world." Which great truth is as immutable as was ever any law of the Medes and Persians.

To return to "Don'ts for Everybody," those of our masculine readers who are contemplating a step into the better estate could not possibly do better than to cut out the appended list and paste it in their several hats:

"Don't marry the woman who expects to have a 'good, easy time.'

"Don't marry the woman who wants to refurnish her home every spring.

"Don't marry the woman who expects a declaration of love three times a day.

"Don't marry the woman who marries in order to have some one to pay her bills.

"Don't marry the woman who reads novels, and dreams of being a duchess or a countess, or the wife of a multimillionaire."

WOMEN IN PUBLIC OFFICE.

Miss Alice Hagan was elected city treasurer in Victor, and Mrs. Amanda S. McKee in Montrose. Mrs. McKee is the wife of a photographer. She had served one term so well that this year she was nominated by both Republicans and Democrats. Aspen elected Alice Pfiam city treasurer and Alice Herrick city clerk.

In Kansas Miss Edith Jackson was chosen city treasurer of Newton. Mrs. Ollie May was elected city treasurer of Hutchinson by a majority nearly five times that of the successful candidate for mayor.

As Watch Specialists!

When you hear people apologize for their watch having "run down" only believe one-third of it. When a man buys a watch and finds it a "dead one" he doesn't want to throw it away and the next best thing is to make the best of it, and apologize for not being able to give you the correct time.

The chance of finding "just run down" watches among our splendid stock is a rare thing. We give the public what they pay for, a correct time-piece. Boss, Crescent or Crown are the Cases to recommend.

We never had to apologize for being "just out" either. An unlimited supply of these makes always on hand.

NEWS FROM WEST DULUTH

MEETING NEXT WEEK

West Duluth Tennis Club Will be Reorganized.

New Grounds Will Probably be Secured This Year.

Harry W. Lanners, president of the West Duluth Tennis club, this morning called a meeting for the evening of Thursday, May 16, when the club will be reorganized for the coming season. The meeting will be held either in the offices of L. A. Barnes or in the Commercial club roms. Mr. Lanners wishes all who would be interested in the club or desire to join, to communicate with him, so that he may know about how many will attend the meeting and thus name a place which will accommodate the gathering.

The West Duluth Tennis club was organized several years ago and had a particularly good season in the summer of 1905. Last year, however, several matters intervened and very little was done by the club members. This year, it is proposed, however, to reorganize the club with a large membership and to stimulate activity in the game.

In former years, the club grounds were at the corner of Ramsey street and Fifty-first avenue west where two courts were maintained. It is not considered advisable to secure this lot again, however, as a lease can only be secured with the provision that the lot shall be vacated if a sale is effected. As the members of the club want to put in two or more good courts, they do not care to take a lease with that provision and be liable to ejection at any time, so they are now casting about for other grounds. There is one place in particular which would just about suit the club's needs, and negotiations are on for securing it on a two or three year lease. If this is done, two or more courts will be built as soon as possible.

Two years ago when the club was flourishing there were about twenty-five members, and it is expected that in the reorganization fully that number and probably more will be secured. It is proposed to secure as many as possible and to work for a most successful season. The present officers of the club are planning different features, such as club tournaments, and it is probable that some contests will be secured with the Duluth and Superior clubs.

Mr. Lanners urged all interested to be out next Thursday night and give the club a good start for the season.

COMMERCIAL CLUB.

Important Matters to Come Up for Discussion Tonight.

Several matters of interest to West Duluth will be discussed at the meeting of the West Duluth Commercial club this evening. The committee which has in charge the securing of signatures to the petition for the Ramsey street improvement, expects to report that it has secured the necessary numebr of names.

The securing of a mounted policeman for West Duluth, better measures for caring for the cow nuisance, and the enforcing of the dog tax ordinance, will probably be brought up. It is also proposed to start steps to have Ramsey street extended to Grand avenue and probably to Fifty-eighth avenue. The street is now closed at the alley west of Central avenue, and the property through which it is proposed to extend it is owned by the Northern Pacific Railroad company.

MADE FIRE OF GASOLINE

Small Boy Took Long Chances on a Bonfire.

Nearly Thirty Gallons of Oil Burned in Gutter.

The West Duluth fire department was called out about noon yesterday by a rather queer incident. It seems that the driver of an oil wagon had stopped at the corner of Raleigh street and Sixty-first avenue west, and had gone into a nearby house. While he was away, some mischievous youngster turned on the gasoline faucet, and by the time the driver returned, about thirty gallons of the combustible fluid had run into the gutter. The driver mounted his seat and drove away, and then to make a good job of it, the boy lit a match and touched it to the oil.

That flames shot up as high as the nearby houses, and for time there was some excitement in the vicinity. Somebody turned in an alarm, and the firemen made a quick run, to find two telephone poles and the sidewalk burning briskly. They quickly extinguished the flames, and the scorching of the sidewalk and the poles was the only result. Fortunately the wind was blowing so as to drive the flames away from the house and into the street, and to that fact alone may be attributed the slight damage which resulted from the fire.

Just how the boy touched the match to the gasoline and got away before the flames could get to him is not just clear, but he certainly did it. He can consider himself fortunate that he escaped with his life, for the possibilities of the prank were much more serious than the actual results.

Dies in Hospital.

Mrs. Mary Howell Smith, a resident of West Duluth for some years and known generally as Mrs. Howell, died this morning at the Duluth hospital where she was taken some time ago, suffering from a cancer. She is survived by several sons and daughters, none of them in West Duluth. The body was removed to Fillatrault's morgue, where it will be held pending instruction as to its disposition, Mrs. Herring, a daughter, who resides at Clare, Mich., has been notified of her mother's death. The funeral arrangements will probably not be made for several days yet.

FREAKS FOR SUMMER TIME.

Odd Forms of Entertainment Offered for the Out-door Resorts.

Brooklyn Eagle: New Yorkers are wont to consider themselves as possessed of about all the knowledge that is worth while. But there are scores of things advertised in the Billboard that would open the average New Yorker's eyes wide with amazement. Advertisements of things that the average citizen of the metropolis never hears of and never dreams of.

The Hindu "Aavtar," the Rollo attractions and "Joe, the Orangoutang," announce themselves ready for bookings, while the White City of Louisville wants photos, electric theater, arcade, striking machine, bowling alleys and fun factory to add to its attractions. Robert F. Brown wants to sell a half-interest in a merry-go-round, and F. S. Zimmerman wants to place new or second hand slot machines, while Dode Fisk's Dog and Pony Show wants clowns, concert people and "performers doing two or more turns, that can play in band," which is surely a small thing to ask.

The Dixie Carnival company "that Western show that troops out in the Dough country," can use a few more musicians in its band, and it also requests "H. E. Johnson (Snowball)" to "send address or come on." Miss Jessie Darling, "America's Finest," it is announced, will accept first-class rink engagements, while the virtues and moneygetting abilities of circle swings are extolled on the same page.

Speaking of family pets, S. A. Stephan, Hagenbeck's agent, announces that he has lots of wild animals on hand, including "two female elephants, well broke to handle; several good riding camels, gentle; lions, bears, antelopes, kangaroos, ostriches, llamas, monster snakes, etc." Harry Holle, whose place of business is at 368 Bedford avenue, right here in Brooklyn, will "arrive at the end of the month with a full line of elephants, camels, lions, tigers, leopards, kangaroos, monkeys, large and small snakes, iguanas, lizards, macaw birds, cockatoos, parrots, all kinds of small animals and birds." Think of it! He's going to bring 'em to Brooklyn the end of the month. Maybe they're here now.

Louis Ruhe of 318 Grand street, Manhattan, seems, however, to be the real thing in the elephant line. He announces in matter-of-fact language that "we will land a bunch of nice trained elephants in New York about May 1." He has, too, "1,000 small and monster snakes in stock," a mere trifle in these days.

The variety is endless. The Cornucopia Ice Cream Sandwich, Floating theaters, Penny arcades, tickets, opera chairs, incandescent lamps from the St. Louis World's fair; posters for skating rinks; ribbons, white stone gems, jewelry, glass cutter knives and a host of other things for street men, and almost everything else is offered, while one showman announces that he is looking for "a refined troupe of trained horses." "Zel-de-ka, the strangest little mite of womanhood on earth," would like to hear from responsible managers, and any number of summer resorts give notice of the sorts of attractions they want, to fill up their places of amusement. Incidentally, one is compelled to note the statement that "Kornikura cures corns" and that it is a "great seller."

"Prof. William D. Herrguth, America's most successful aeronaut," announces that he is "at liberty," and as a half-tone cut accompanying the advertisement pictures him floating through the air in leisure fashion, one must, perforce, believe his statement. "The Great Calvert, the Incomparable King of the High Wire," is but one of a host of other artists at liberty and seeking engagements. Bands, vaudeville and comic opera troupes, glass blowers, dancing skeletons and others are open for engagements, as are the "Three Bennett Sisters in their great boxing and fencing act," while "Flashy Song Books" may be had for $7.50 per 1,000 or $1 per 100.

A new "Negro Head Ball Game, complete for $50.00," is a big attraction, as is a real baseball game or two, with players and everything else supplied. Park managers and "others" are exhorted to remember the fact that the "Colonial Ladies' Band and Orchestra, composed of 30 Beautiful Young Ladies—30," is out for engagements. There are a few vacancies in the band for which performers are requested to apply. "The Striking Clock" slot machine and a new line of slot postcards are offered by one firm, while another page presents the attractions of Corner's Orangeade. "Observable" and the Original Richards, Al and Kitty.

"Broncho John," Walter De Oria, novelty and electric bag puncher; C. D. Sheppard, trick cyclist; Miss Harriet Stowe and a few other artists advertise their merits, while Annie Redline announces that she is the "Largest Lady Living." Annie, unfortunately, neglects to mention her exact avoirdupois, a matter by no means slight in itself. Nora and Fottle Martyne are still on the job; Enoch, the Man Fish, is open for business in his private tank, and Pawnee Bill has for sale "two airships that positively fly." Teddy Bears are not forgotten, nor are Dooley Shamrocks, canes for the ring-the-cane games, and a host of the other familiar friends, old and new.

As Watch Specialists!

When you hear people apologize for their watch having "run down" only believe one-third of it. When a man buys a watch and finds it a "dead one" he doesn't want to throw it away and the next best thing is to make the best of it, and apologize for not being able to give you the correct time.

The chance of finding "just run down" watches among our splendid stock is a rare thing. We give the public what they pay for, a correct time-piece. Boss, Crescent or Crown are the Cases to recommend.

We never had to apologize for being "just out" either. An unlimited supply of these makes always on hand.

NEWS FROM WEST DULUTH

MEETING NEXT WEEK

West Duluth Tennis Club Will be Reorganized.

New Grounds Will Probably be Secured This Year.

Harry W. Lanners, president of the West Duluth Tennis club, this morning called a meeting for the evening of Thursday, May 16, when the club will be reorganized for the coming season. The meeting will be held either in the offices of L. A. Barnes or in the Commercial club roms. Mr. Lanners wishes all who would be interested in the club or desire to join, to communicate with him, so that he may know about how many will attend the meeting and thus name a place which will accommodate the gathering.

The West Duluth Tennis club was organized several years ago and had a particularly good season in the summer of 1905. Last year, however, several matters intervened and very little was done by the club members. This year, it is proposed, however, to reorganize the club with a large membership and to stimulate activity in the game.

In former years, the club grounds were at the corner of Ramsey street and Fifty-first avenue west where two courts were maintained. It is not considered advisable to secure this lot again, however, as a lease can only be secured with the provision that the lot shall be vacated if a sale is effected. As the members of the club want to put in two or more good courts, they do not care to take a lease with that provision and be liable to ejection at any time, so they are now casting about for other grounds. There is one place in particular which would just about suit the club's needs, and negotiations are on for securing it on a two or three year lease. If this is done, two or more courts will be built as soon as possible.

Two years ago when the club was flourishing there were about twenty-five members, and it is expected that in the reorganization fully that number and probably more will be secured. It is proposed to secure as many as possible and to work for a most successful season. The present officers of the club are planning different features, such as club tournaments, and it is probable that some contests will be secured with the Duluth and Superior clubs.

Mr. Lanners urged all interested to be out next Thursday night and give the club a good start for the season.

COMMERCIAL CLUB.

Important Matters to Come Up for Discussion Tonight.

Several matters of interest to West Duluth will be discussed at the meeting of the West Duluth Commercial club this evening. The committee which has in charge the securing of signatures to the petition for the Ramsey street improvement, expects to report that it has secured the necessary numebr of names.

The securing of a mounted policeman for West Duluth, better measures for caring for the cow nuisance, and the enforcing of the dog tax ordinance, will probably be brought up. It is also proposed to start steps to have Ramsey street extended to Grand avenue and probably to Fifty-eighth avenue. The street is now closed at the alley west of Central avenue, and the property through which it is proposed to extend it is owned by the Northern Pacific Railroad company.

MADE FIRE OF GASOLINE

Small Boy Took Long Chances on a Bonfire.

Nearly Thirty Gallons of Oil Burned in Gutter.

The West Duluth fire department was called out about noon yesterday by a rather queer incident. It seems that the driver of an oil wagon had stopped at the corner of Raleigh street and Sixty-first avenue west, and had gone into a nearby house. While he was away, some mischievous youngster turned on the gasoline faucet, and by the time the driver returned, about thirty gallons of the combustible fluid had run into the gutter. The driver mounted his seat and drove away, and then to make a good job of it, the boy lit a match and touched it to the oil.

That flames shot up as high as the nearby houses, and for time there was some excitement in the vicinity. Somebody turned in an alarm, and the firemen made a quick run, to find two telephone poles and the sidewalk burning briskly. They quickly extinguished the flames, and the scorching of the sidewalk and the poles was the only result. Fortunately the wind was blowing so as to drive the flames away from the house and into the street, and to again, however, as a lease can only be secured with the provision that the lot shall be vacated if a sale is effected. As the members of the club want to put in two or more good courts, they do not care to take a lease with that provision and be liable to ejection at any time, so they are now casting about for other grounds. There is one place in particular which would just about suit the club's needs, and negotiations are on for securing it on a two or three year lease. If this is done, two or more courts will be built as soon as possible.

Two years ago when the club was flourishing there were about twenty-five members, and it is expected that in the reorganization fully that number and probably more will be secured. It is proposed to secure as many as possible and to work for a most successful season. The present officers of the club are planning different features, such as club tournaments, and it is probable that some contests will be secured with the Duluth and Superior clubs.

Mr. Lanners urged all interested to be out next Thursday night and give the club a good start for the season.

Just how the boy touched the match to the gasoline and got away before the flames could get to him is not just clear, but he certainly did it. He can consider himself fortunate that he escaped with his life, for the possibilities of the prank were much more serious than the actual results.

Dies In Hospital.

Mrs. Mary Howell Smith, a resident of West Duluth for some years and known generally as Mrs. Howell, died this morning at the Duluth hospital, where she was taken some time ago, suffering from a cancer. She is survived by several sons and daughters, none of them in West Duluth. The body was removed to Fliatrault's morgue, where it will be held pending instruction as to its disposition. Mrs. Herring, a daughter, who resides at Clare, Mich., has been notified of her mother's death. The funeral arrangements will probably not be made for several days yet.

FREAKS FOR SUMMER TIME.

Odd Forms of Entertainment Offered for the Out-door Resorts.

Brooklyn Eagle: New Yorkers are went to consider themselves as possessed of about all the knowledge that is worth while. But there are scores of things advertised in the Billboard that would open the average New Yorker's eyes wide with amazement. advertisements of things that the average citizen of the metropolis never hears of and never dreams of.

The Hindu "Aavtar," the Rollo attractions and "Joe, the Orangoutang," announce themselves ready for bookings, while the White City of Louisville wants photos, electric theater, arcade, striking machine, bowling alleys and fun factory to add to its attractions. Robert F. Brown wants to sell a half-interest in a merry-go-round, and F. S. Zimmerman wants to place new or second hand slot machines, while Dode Fisk's Dog and Pony Show wants clowns, concert people and "performers doing two or more turns, that can play in band," which is surely a small thing to ask.

The Dixie Carnival company "that Western show that troops out in the Dough country," can use a few more musicians in its band, and it also requests "H. E. Johnson (Snowball)" to "send address or come on." Miss Jessie Darling, "America's Finest," it is announced, will accept first-class rink engagements, while the virtues and moneygetting abilities of circle swings are extolled on the same page.

Speaking of family pets, S. A. Stephan, Hagenbeck's agent, announces that he has lots of wild animals on hand, including "two female elephants, well broke to handle; several good riding camels, gentle; lions, bears, antelopes, kangaroos, ostriches, llamas, monster snakes, etc." Harry Holle, whose place of business is at 368 Bedford avenue, right here in Brooklyn, will "arrive at the end of the month with a full line of elephants, camels, lions, tigers, leopards, kangaroos, monkeys, large and small snakes, iguanas, lizards, macaw birds, cockatoos, parrots, all kinds of small animals and birds." Think of it! He's going to bring 'em to Brooklyn the end of the month. Maybe they're here now.

Louis Ruhe of 218 Grand street, Manhattan, seems, however, to be the real thing in the elephant line. He announces in matter-of-fact language that "we will land a bunch of nice trained elephants in New York about May 1." He has, too, "1,000 small and monster snakes in stock," a mere trifle in these days.

The variety is endless. The Cornucopia Ice Cream Sandwich, Floating theaters, Penny arcades, tickets, opera chairs, incandescent lamps from the St. Louis World's fair; posters for skating rinks; ribbons, white stone gems, jewelry, glass cutter knives and a host of other things for street men, and almost everything else is offered, while one showman announces that he is looking for "a refined troupe of trained horses." "Zit-de-ka, the strangest little mite of womanhood on earth," would like to hear from responsible managers, and any number of summer resorts give notice of the sorts of attractions they want to fill up their places of amusement. Incidentally, one is compelled to note the statement that "Kormikura cures corns" and that it is a "great seller."

"Prof. William D. Herrguth, America's most successful aeronaut," announces that he is "at liberty," and as a half-tone cut accompanying the advertisement pictures him floating through the air in leisure fashion, one must, perforce, believe his statement. "The Great Calvert, the Incomparable King of the High Wire," is but one of a host of other artists at liberty and seeking engagements. Bands, vaudeville and comic opera troupes, glass blowers, dancing skeletons and others are open for engagements, as are the "Three Bennett Sisters in their great boxing and fencing act," while "Flashy Song Books" may be had for $7.50 per 1,000 or $1 per 100.

A new "Negro Head Ball Game, complete for $50.00," is a big attraction, as is a real baseball game on two, with players and everything else supplied. Park managers and "others" are exhorted to remember the fact that the "Colonial Ladies' Band and Orchestra, composed of 30 Beautiful Young Ladies—32," is out for engagements. There are a few vacancies in the band for which performers are requested to apply. "The Striking Clock" slot machine and a new line of slot postcards are offered by one firm, while another page presents the attractions of Corner's Orangeade. "Observable" and the Original Richards, Al and Kitty.

"Broncho John," Walter De Oria, novelty and electric bag puncher; C. D. Sheppard, trick cyclist; Miss Harriet Stowe and a few other artists advertise their merits, while Annie Redline announces that she is the "Largest Lady Living." Annie, unfortunately, neglects to mention her exact avoirdupois, a matter by no means slight in itself. Nora and Fottle Martyne are still on the job; Enoch, the Man Fish, is open for business in his private tank, and Pawnee Bill has for sale "two airships that positively fly." Teddy Bears are not forgotten, nor are Dooley Shamrocks, canes for the ring-the-cane games, and a host of the other familiar friends, old and new.

ABOUT FINGER NAILS.

Philadelphia Record: "Finger nails grow one-fifty-second of an inch a week on an average," said one of the attendants at a manicure establishment in Chestnut street the other day. "This figures out to a little more than one inch and a half a year. The nail on the middle finger, however, grows faster than the others; and all the nails grow faster in summer than in winter. It is also claimed that those on the right hand grow faster than those on the left, but the difference is so small I've never noticed it. It is said to be proved, however, by the nails of Chinamen of a certain class, who let them grow from six to eight inches in length. That would take from four to six years without cutting, or perhaps longer, because the oftener the nails are trimmed the faster they grow. The only long-nailed persons I know in my trade are one or two violinists, who let their nails grow while on their summer vacation to keep the touch of the finger tips sensitive."

"Fitwell" $15 suits hold their shape.

A STARTLING BIT OF NEWS.

Detroit Journal: A newly-rich woman, who was anxious to make a favorable impression in her neighborhood, decided to show her collection of antiques to the bishop when he called. The time came, and one by one she displayed the whole collection, giving him the history of each piece. Finally she pointed to the most prized article in the lot, "There," she said, pointing impressively to an old yellow teapot, "That teapot was used in the Boston tea party."

MILLIONS FOR RUSS RELIEF

Emperor Signs Big Appropriation Measure and Gives Freely.

St. Petersburg, May 10.—The emperor has signed the famine appropriation of $3,000,000, a large amount of which is needed for medical assistance in the scurvy stricken provinces.

M. Yermeloff, ex-minister of agriculture, who is now head of the central organization for famine relief, has left St. Petersburg for the famine provinces to distribute a large personal contribution of the emperor.

More favorable reports of the crop prospects have been received from a correspondent of the Associated Press, who has returned here from a trip to Saratov and South Samara. The present showing of the spring and winter grain is good. A few rain falls during the coming month would guarantee good crops.

LANDLORDS SEEK TO GET RAISES OF MILL HANDS.

Fall River, Mass., May 10.—With the recent advance in wages to 7,000 operatives in this city, amounting to practically 10 per cent in the present state of the market for cotton goods, the landlords have started a movement to increase rents. For several months, the population of the city has increased steadily with the mills calling for more operatives to kep pace with their business, and as a result the demand for tenements has become very great. Many of the operatives have been unable to secure houses here and have gone to New Bedford, Mass., going to and from their work on the electric cars.

TRACES OF SHORTAGE IN SYRACUSE TREASURY.

Syracuse, N. Y., May 10.—The city treasurer, it is alleged, has discovered a shortage in the accounts of the office during the term of E. E. Allen, as treasurer. It is impossible to tell, until experts report, how large the shortage is, but it is possible that it will exceed $100,000. Specific cases where shortage is said to have been proved already amount to about $2,500. Allen says he has no knowledge of any irregularity in his office. An investigation is being made of all the local improvement accounts.

He says a lot of little sharks amused themselves by biting pieces off his face. White is on his way to Fergus Falls.

He arrived here yesterday afternoon and the mother and son are happy in being together again.

Husband Arrested.

Mrs. James F. Sullivan of Park Point, yesterday swore out a warrant for her husband, James Sullivan, charging him with assault and threatening to "cut her heart out with a jack knife." He did not use the instrument, however, and when the police arrived they found no evidence which would warrant an arrest without a warrant.

Grand Larceny Charged.

Charged with having stolen nine $5 gold pieces from Walter Russel, Marie Moore, an inmate of Nellie Blaine's resort on St. Croix avenue, was arraigned in municipal court yesterday afternoon on a grand larceny charge. Spark Ignited Roof.

The fire department had a run this morning to the residence of A. H. Bloom at 25 West First street, where a spark had fallen on the roof setting it on fire. There was but little damage done before the fire was extinguished.

Arrested as Incorrigible.

Olga Frytz, a West end young lady of 15 summers, was arrested this morning by Detective Terry and booked up as an incorrigible. She was up before the juvenile court some time ago and was to have been committed, but was lost track of by the authorities. She was found later working at a local hotel and the court decided to let her remain there on good behavior. She is said to have been acting in a way which did not meet the approval of the court since and she was ordered taken in charge again last evening.

Sjoselius Wins Suit.

The jury in the case of Mrs. Louisa LaPanta against Adolph Sjoselius, to recover possession of a narrow strip of land near Eleventh avenue west and First street, returned a verdict in favor of Mr. Sjoselius, who will continue to hold the land under his claim of adverse possession. By reason of a mistake in the survey it is claimed that Sjoselius' building was erected, years ago, just a little over the correct lot line.

TOO MUCH OF A JOKE FOR HIM.

Chicago News: "I never knew a woman had a sense of humor," said Smithers.

"Never?" queried Mrs. Smithers.

"Never," repeated Smithers. "There never was one. Man is the only member of the human family with humor."

"Possibly you're right," said Mrs. Smithers. "By the way, do you remember the trip you made to New York two or three months before we were married?"

"The time I went there to buy some new machinery?"

"Yes."

"Yes, I remember that. What of it?"

"This morning I ran across one of the letters you wrote me while you were there. You said you had stood on Fifth avenue and looked at the beautiful carriages and horses and added: 'Sweetheart, some day you shall have a horse and cart—'"

"Oh, shut up that nonsense! I never wrote anything of the kind!"

"Yes, dear, you did. Wait till I get the letter."

"You bring that letter here and I'll tear it up! Don't worry me with idiotic stuff like that! I don't want to hear another word of it! Any more talk about it and I'll go down to the theater tonight—and I'll go alone!"

"Then you did write it, dear, didn't you?"

"Maybe I did. I don't know. I did a lot of fool things before I was married. But what's the use of bringing it up now?"

"Oh, none in particular," replied Mrs. Smithers. "But I thought it might give you an opportunity to exhibit your sense of—"

But Smithers had fled.

Those who have visited the new district state that the mineral showings in that section are immense."

FACE MANY DANGERS.

Some of Railroad Men's Escapes Little Short of Miraculous.

Perhaps no large body of men in any industry are exposed to so many dangers as are railroad men. Thousands of these faithful and heroic workers are killed every year, and other thousands are saved from death only by the narrowest margin. Some of these railroad escapes seem almost miraculous, and, seeing them, many railroad men comfort themselves with a fatalism, says the Chicago Tribune.

"We cannot die until our time comes," they say, "and so it's no use to worry."

This is the philosophy of most men who follow dangerous occupations. It is a false philosophy, if the men who compile the chances of life for the insurance companies have their statistics right, but so long as it sustains and encourages the men who work constantly under the shadow of danger little can be said against it.

E. S. Shepard, of Deadwood, S. D., used to be a track walker on the Colorado Midland. In his division at that time the track inspectors had no velocipedes, and Mr. Shepard was compelled to "foot it" every day over ten miles of mountain track. His invariable companion was a big St. Bernard dog named Bruno.

One day Shepard was inspecting the track as usual when he came to Trestle No. 4, a long structure across a gorge. He paused at the end of the trestle and looked at his watch. He had been told at the last station that the Midland express was an hour late, and this would give him plenty of time to cross the gorge on the single track.

Man and dog started across without thought of danger. They had reached a point near the center of the bridge when the sharp warning signal of a whistle was heard. Shepard looked up and saw the express coming around a curve, not more than 100 paces away.

"I was paralyzed by fear," he says. "I could not move forward or backward. Indeed, there was no use in moving, for the engine was bearing down upon me with frightful speed, trying to make up lost time. Below me, at least seventy-five feet from the track level, was the rock-strewn bottom of the gorge. It meant death to jump. It was death to stand still."

Bruno, the dog, trembled and whined at his master's feet. He understood the danger, and when the locomotive was not more than fifty feet away the dog turned and jumped off the bridge. Mr. Shepard instinctively followed Bruno's example. There was little strength left in his knees, but he stumbled to the edge of the track and half fell outward and downward, just as the heavy train went thundering by.

But some kindly fate was guarding Shepard that day. In the language of the railroad fatalist, "his time had not come." Instead of plunging down, down, to be mangled on the stones at the bottom of the gorge, he was surprised to find himself hanging head downward over the edge of the trestle.

His left foot had caught in some way between two ties just outside of the rail. The framework of the bridge shook under the impact of the heavy train, and every instant he expected to be shaken loose. In the terror of the moment he became unconscious and did not know what happened until he awoke and found himself being taken out of the train at the next station.

The engineer had seen him, of course, and had applied the brakes. When the train came to a standstill the crew and some of the passengers ran back and found Shepard still hanging, his left foot firmly wedged between the timbers. His only physical injury was a badly wrenched ankle, but the nervous breakdown unfitted him for duty for a long time.

The Mullin family of 208 South Wood street, Chicago, had a series of thrills one day last summer that they will not forget soon, but they are thankful that they all came out alive. Mr. and Mrs. A. Mullin and their two children took a trip to St. Joseph, Mich., one Sunday on an excursion boat.

It was a stormy day, but they made the voyage across the lake in safety. While Mrs. Mullin and the children stayed at the town, Mr. Mullin went out in a rowboat and was capsized and rescued by the life-savers. Not knowing whether her husband was dead or alive, Mrs. Mullin took her children and started to the life-saving station.

On the way she came to a high trestle, and started to walk across on the ties, holding a child by each hand. She was half across perhaps when a train whistled behind her. She started to run, dragging the children, but the little boy was only 4 years old and they made slow progress. The engineer applied the air, but the train could not be stopped, and it seemed as if the doom of the little family was sealed.

"We were about fifty yards from safety," says the woman, "and already I could hear the train rumbling on the trestle. I dared not look back, and gave myself and children up for lost, when help came from an unexpected quarter. A young man saw our danger and ran to meet us. He seized the little boy in his arms and ran, encouraging us to follow at full speed. Just as the engine reached us we were near enough the end of the trestle to risk a jump, landing without serious injury in the sand and cinders below. Later, at the life-saving station, I found that my husband was recovering from his experience in the lake. It was a hunted party that returned to Chicago that night."

When H. L. Farrell of No. 5733 Normal avenue, Chicago, is in a reminiscent mood, he is willing to tell his friends about his thrilling experience when he was driving a bakery wagon a number of years ago.

Mr. Farrell tried to cross the Panhandle tracks at Monroe street, but the 8:30 dummy train came along at the same time and disputed the right of way to the imminent peril of Farrell and his sister, who was in the wagon with him.

A freight train had just passed, and the flagman signaled that the crossing was clear. A house shut off the view from the north, and just as the wagon drove across the first track the dummy engine bore down upon them.

"I had presence of mind enough to pull the line of the 'high' horse," says Farrell, and this probably saved our lives. The engine struck the 'o:' horse in the neck, killing him instantly and throwing both horses about 75 feet. The other horse died in about five minutes.

"The wagon was thrown about 25 feet. My sister fell out on the curtained side, how, we never have been able to explain. I staid in the wagon, which turned in the air and fell bottom side up in a sewer. Aside from a lame hip and a few minor scratches I was not injured. My sister also escaped without serious injury.

"The odd part of the whole thing, perhaps, was that the wagon was not injured. The panes of glass in the closed front were not even broken, although the step was broken off the engine, and it showed other evidences of the collision."

Perhaps the narrowest escape of all was that experienced by H. E. Byerum, assistant cashier of the Second National Bank of Minot, N. D., who was a passenger in the disastrous Great Northern wreck near Newport, Wash., last July.

"Our train was going at a high rate of speed," says the banker, "and had just emerged from a tunnel when I felt a sudden jar and the car left the track and fell down an embankment. The impact was sufficient to smash our car and kill the two men in front of me, as well as the man who sat across the aisle. As soon as we left the rails the acetylene gas tank in the coach ahead exploded and the flames burst through the door of our car circling around me and adding to the horror of the situation.

"The train rolled down an embankment of some sixty feet and went on until it reached the bottom of the lake, from fifty to seventy-five feet deep at this point. I found myself in the water, near the top of the car. My mind was perfectly clear, and I realized that my slim chance of life depended on my holding my breath and keeping my wits.

"I dived to the bottom of the car, found the aisle, and by holding to the seats guided myself to the door. I still held my breath, though my lungs seemed bursting. As soon as I was clear of the car I shot up to the surface of the lake, where I came in contact with a bit of floating wood large enough to sustain me.

"I breather the fresh air gratefully, and thought that the danger was passed. But not yet was I through with this adventure. An acetylene gas tank floated by exploding almost in my face and rendering me unconscious. When my senses returned I was struggling in the water and almost drowned, but a rescuer was near and held out a rod to me, which I grasped and was pulled ashore, not seriously injured.

"I have been told that my escape was the most miraculous in the annals of railroad accidents."

THE CROWDED COUNTRIES.

World's Population Increases Nearly Six Millions During Each Year.

London Express: A birds-eye view of the social progress of the civilized world is given in a statistical abstract just issued in the form of a bluebook.

The first fact that stands out prominently is that in the past ten years there has been a total increase in the population of the principal countries of the world of over 63,000,000 persons. We find that the total population has grown from 606,000,000 in 1895 to 670,000,000 last year. The figures are as follows:

	1895.	1905.
Russia	125,000,000	141,200,000
United States	68,934,000	83,143,000
Germany	52,279,000	60,605,000
Japan	43,271,000	47,375,000
United Kingdom	39,321,000	43,221,000
France	38,459,000	39,300,000
Italy	31,296,000	33,604,000

Spain	18,157,000	18,999,000
Smaller nations	47,732,000	54,169,000

The most crowded civilized nation in the world is Belgium, while the nation which has the most room for expansion is the United States of America. This will be seen in the following series of figures:

United Kingdom	121,371	341.6
Holland	12,550	406.4
Belgium	11,370	568.7

If, however, a particular portion of a country be taken, Germany easily holds the record, for the Hanse towns can boast of a population which is crowded to the extent of 3,327 persons to the square mile.

The vital statistics of the various nations provide interesting reading. For instance, we find that Russia has the highest birthrate, the figures being 49 per 1,000 of the population. But against this it has also the highest death rate, which stands at 31 per 1,000 of the population.

The lowest birth rate is possessed by France, the births only averaging 21 per 1,000 of the population, and when the fact that its death rate is as high as 19.6 per 1,000 is considered, the small increase in the total population shown above is explained.

Spain, Italy, Austria, Hungary and Japan all have birth rates of over 32 per 1,000, but their death rates are equally high, the lowest of the group being Japan, with a rate of 20 per 1,000, and the highest Spain, with a rate of 25.8 per 1,000.

The lowest death rate is that possessed by Denmark, where it stands at 13.9 per 1,000, and as the Danes have a birth rate of 28.5 per 1,000, their position is an enviable one.

The United Kingdom is among the most favorable so far as death rate is concerned—16.5 per 1,000—but its birth rate has steadily fallen to 27.6. Generally speaking, it may be said that the greatest vitality may be found in the East of Europe.

London is still the only city in the world which can boast of a population of over 4,000,000. New York comes nearest, as the following table, giving a list of the great cities of the world with populations of over 1,000,000, shows:

	Population.
London	4,872,710
New York	3,437,000

Berlin	2,040,000

NOT MUCH PROGRESS.

Such an exchange of courtesy as was chronicled in a German paper not long ago would hardly suit the tastes of brisk Americans, says the Youth's Companion.

The exchange was in the form of two advertisements.

"The gentlemen who found a purse of with money in the Blumerstrasse is requested to forward it to the address of theloser, as he is recognized."

A day or two later appeared the response, which, although so courteous, had an elusive air, to say the least.

"The recognized gentleman who picked up a purse in the Blumenstrasse requests the loser to call at his house at a convenient day."

IMMIGRATION LAW WANTED.

Roseau Region: There is an effort being made to attract immigration to every part of this country and Canada, and our state is behind them all in effort. It is high time the legislators "got busy" looking to the interests of the state and quit fooling away so much of the state's time on bills of absolutely no importance to the state at large.

WHEAT SOARS ON BULLISH GOVERNMENT REPORT

The American Markets Bulge from Two to Three Cents.

Crop Conditions Poorer Than Last Year—Flax is Steady.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 10.—Wheat, already up on the news of unfavorable weather for the Northwestern wheat country and the green bug in the Southwest, for the past few weeks, was given another shove upward today by the government crop report, showing the condition of the crop on the 1st of May. The report was extremely bullish, showing the condition of wheat to be 82.9 against 89.9 on April 1 and 91.0 on May 1 a year ago. The market, upon the issuance of the report, simply soared, the advance being 3c in some of the American markets. Chicago and the Southwestern markets showed the biggest advance. More favorable weather prospects for the Northwest made the bullish market more conservative here. Liverpool closed ½d lower to ½d higher, Berlin 1½c higher than Wednesday, Budapest 1c higher than Wednesday, Antwerp ⅝c to 1¼c higher and Paris unchanged to ¼c higher.

The Modern Miller was rather bearish this week. It says:

"Plenty of moisture and warmer weather have had a favorable effect on the winter wheat. Improved conditions are reported in Kansas, Nebraska, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and the South. Field pests are reported in many sections but no extreme damages noted."

The May option closed 2c higher in Duluth and New York, 2⅞c higher in Chicago, 2⅝c in Minneapolis, 3c in St. Louis and 1⅜@1¾c in Winnipeg. The closing price on the May option was not received from Kansas City. The July option closed 2⅜c higher in Duluth, 2⅛@⅝c in Chicago and St. Louis, 2⅛@2⅜c in Minneapolis and New York, 3c in Kansas City and 1¾c in Winnipeg.

July corn closed ¼c higher in Chicago and was ½d higher in Liverpool. July oats closed ⅝c higher in Chicago.

Primary receipts of wheat were 615,000 bus, last year 164,000 bus. Shipments 887,000 bus, last year 251,000 bus. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 210,747 bus.

Primary receipts of corn were 656,000 bus, last year 272,000 bus. Shipments 632,000 bus, last year 291,000 bus. Clearances of corn were 448,552 bus.

Car receipts at Duluth were 179, against 50 last year, and at Minneapolis 239, against 99 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 455, against 119 last year. Chicago received 30, against 4 last year.

Argentine shipments of wheat were 3,688,000 bus., against 3,456,000 bus. last week and 3,104,000 bus. a year ago.

Argentine shipments of corn were 463,000 bus, against 317,000 bus. last year and 2,224,000 bus. a year ago.

Wheat was quiet during the early part of the session of the Duluth market, but became active on the slight advance toward the close. May wheat opened ¾c lower at 89½c, advanced to 92¾c and closed at that price, a gain of 2c over yesterday. July wheat opened ¾c lower at 90¾c, advanced to 91⅝c by 10:45, went off to 91⅛c by 11, rallied to 93c by 12:55 and closed at that price, a gain of 2¾c over yesterday. September wheat opened unchanged at 86c, advanced to 91⅝c, went off to 90¼c, rallied to 92⅝c and closed at that price, a gain of 2¾c over yesterday.

Durum wheat closed ¾c higher and cash spring wheat was selling no a basis of ¾c over May for No. 1 northern.

It is estimated that the stock of wheat in store at Duluth will decrease 1,000,000 bus. this week.

Flax trading was light but steady and the prices were higher at the close. May flax opened ¼c higher at $1.23¾, advanced to $1.24 and closed at that price, a gain of 1½c over yesterday. July flax opened ½c higher at $1.25¾, advanced to $1.26¾, went off to $1.25¾ and closed at $1.26 a gain of ¾c over yesterday. October flax opened ½c higher at $1.25½ and closed at that price, a gain of ½c over yesterday.

It is estimated that the stock of flax in store at Duluth will decrease 360,000 bus. this week.

Oats on track closed ½c higher, rye 1c higher and the other coarse grains unchanged.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Strong on Active Buying Due to Cold in the Northwest.

Chicago, May 10.—The wheat market today opened somewhat easier because of selling based on large receipts in the Northwest. In a short time, the market became strong on active buying by commission houses due to reports of cold weather and late seeding in the Northwest. Cables were firm. July wheat opened ⅛c lower at 85⅞c and sold at 85¾@86c and then advanced to 89¼c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 505 cars against 468 cars last week and 123 cars a year ago.

Trading was very active following the publication of the government crop report which was construed as being of a very bullish character. The high point for July was 88¾c. All deliveries advanced from 2 to 3 cents. The close was strong with July 2½@2⅝c higher at 88½@88⅝c.

The corn market was active and firm because of small local receipts and in sympathy with the strength of wheat. July corn opened unchanged to ⅛c higher at 50 to 50¼c and sold at 50¼@¾c. Local receipts were 177 cars with 33 of contract grade.

Influenced by wheat the price of July advanced to 50¾@50⅞c. The close was firm with July up 1¼c at 50¾c.

The oats market was active and strong on eager bidding by commission houses because of the cold weather in the Northwest. July oats opened a shade lower to a shade higher at 43¾ to 43¼c and sold up to 43⅝c.

The provisions market was very quiet, but prices were steady in sympathy with a stronger market for live hogs. July pork opened unchanged at $16.80. Lard was a shade higher at $9.17½. Ribs were up 2½c at $9.10.

Close: Wheat—May, 88¼c; July, 88⅛@88⅝c. Corn—May, 50@50¼c; July, 50¼c. Oats—May, 45¼c; July, 43¾c. Pork—May, $16.45; July, $16.70. Lard—May, $9.10; July, $9.22½@9.25. Ribs—May, $8.95; July, $9.10. Broomhall, Liverpool, May 10, on wheat —"Firm at opening with values showing an advance of ⅛ to ¾. Offering very light and shorts covered in an excited manner which caused another advance of ⅛ to ¼ during the morning. The principal strength was attributed to the belief here that the American government crop will be very bullish. Further strength was imparted to the market owing to the strong cash markets, the advance of a shilling per sack in flour values here and the fact that the United Kingdom were free buyers of cargoes both off coast and on passage."

Logan & Bryan, Chicago, to Paine, Webber & Co.: It is up to those who have been opposing this advance in wheat to explain how they got run over by the market. As for our selves, we have been consistently bullish on wheat ever since the green bug made its appearance weeks ago and later became even more bullish on the injury from frosts and the development of very doubtful conditions in the spring wheat country. The government report today partly confirms all that we have given out in the way of bull news. The Northwestern situation is not materially improved. The buying of wheat on the advance of nearly three cents today was enormous and the market shows great strength around top prices. Regardless of this, we feel that whatever merit there is in the bull campaign, prices cannot go on indefinitely one way, and we believe the points has been reached where those who have followed by the advance and have good profits to their credit should secure them. We feel sure that there will be such reactions as will enable long wheat to be easily replaced to advantage.

Plowing and Planting.

Washington, May 10.—Of the total acreage of spring plowing contemplated, 71.5 per cent is reported by the agricultural department as actually done up to May 1, as compared with 62.9 per cent at the corresponding date last year and a ten-year average on May 1 of 65. Of spring planting, 49 per cent is reported as having been completed on May 1, as compared with 53 per cent on May 1, 1906.

After the crop report was issued by the department, Acting Secretary Hays said that the figures were somewhat like what was expected. "Of course," he said, "the season is a little late, but on the other hand, there is plenty of moisture in the soil to take the crops out, and they are going to improve rapidly. Hay and pasture crops are going to grow rapidly. The conditions are generally good now for crops to do well."

The Cotton Market.

New York, May 10.—The cotton market opened steady at a decline of 1 to 4 points with the active months selling about 6 to 9 points net lower during the first few minutes under realizing and bear pressure encouraged by lower cables and a more favorable interpretation of early weather reports. There were numerous private crop damage reports, however, and an active demand for July development at the decline, and shortly after the opening prices advanced to practically the closing figures of yesterday or 10 to 14 points net lower with the late months relatively easy.

Futures closed steady. Closing bids: May, 10.08; June, 10.07; July, 10.70; August, 10.50; September, 10.50; October, 10.06; November, 10.06; December, 10.07; January, 10.78; February, 10.80; March, 10.85. Spot closed quiet; middling uplands, 11.50; middling gulf, 12.15. Sales, 900 bales.

TREATING A CUT.

Boston Herald: A dirty cut or a suppurating wound must be carefully bathed in carbolic solution (strength one dram to four ounces of water). If carbolic acid be kept in the medicine chest this lotion can be made up at any time with a measure glass.

After bathing cut a piece of white lint of size to overlap the cut, soak it in clean carbolic lotion and apply. Cover the lint with gutta-percha tissue cut so that will leave a margin of one inch all around the lint, which is just kept moist.

No ragged edge of the lint must show or the moisture will evaporate. Cover with cotton wool and apply a gauze bandage to keep the whole in place.

The dressing may be removed in twenty-four hours and the wound will be found clean. This treatment also removes pain and the only after treatment necessary is to cover with a piece of dry, clean lint. A little boracic ointment on the lint will prevent it sticking.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Renewed Selling of the Harriman Shares Forced Down Prices.

Reading Dropped Four Points and Close Generally Was Weak.

New York, May 10.—The opening dealings in stocks showed no trace of the excitement of the closing dealings last night. Union Pacific was heavily dealt in at an advance of ½, with subsequent fluctuations below that. Otherwise the changes were small and mixed and the transactions light.

Renewed selling of the Harriman stocks forced the market down with Southern Pacific, Canadian Pacific, Southern Railway preferred and Linseed preferred losing a point each. Covering by the shorts caused a subsequent overnight rise of 1⅜ in Union Pacific 1¼ in Sloss-Sheffield, and 1 each in St. Paul and United States Rubber first preferred and put the general list a fraction above yesterday's closing. The market was unsettled and uncertain.

Reading and New York Central weakened the former falling 1⅜ and the latter 1 below last night. When Union Pacific lost its rise it met support again and rallied. The general movement was sluggish and uncertain. Chicago Terminal preferred dropped 3⅜ and National Enamelling preferred 2½. United States Rubber gained 1. Bonds were heavy.

The market was very variable, but dropped decidedly after Union Pacific had risen to the best. The movement in this stock swayed the list, and when it fell to 133⅛ the general list weakened. Reading sold down to 160. Sloss-Sheffield Steel was unusually active and 3½ higher. Union Pacific preferred 1½.

Late selling orders were distributed, causing an extreme loss of 2⅜ in Reading and driving the rest to the lowest of the day. Delaware & Hudson declined 2¾ and Great Northern preferred 1.

The market closed gradually weak. Reading's weakness, which carried it 4 points below yesterday, was accompanied by unconfirmed rumors of a proposed note issue. The whole market declined on the government crop report. Canadian Pacific and Great Northern preferred fell 2 below last night, Union Pacific 1¾, Southern Pacific 1⅝, Atchison 1¼ and St. Paul, Northern Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio, Amalgamated Copper, American Smelting and Anaconda 1. The persistent weakness of Reading held prices back when a recovering tendency was manifested. Union Pacific alone showed some resiliency.

Stock Gossip.

New York to Paine, Webber & Co.: Recent developments in Union Pacific and crop reports have about extinguished the last spark of the bulls and see nothing ahead but a dull uninteresting market. Such markets generally have a sagging tendency, and for the immediate future would buy only on good breaks.

New York to Gay & Sturgis: The stock market opened feverish and unsettled but support in Union Pacific was evident. A good many floor members are feeling better over the new issue of securities than they were last night. In fact the feeling all over the floor is better.

New York, Logan & Bryan to Paine, Webber & Co.: Liquidation was general throughout the session today. Reading and Union Pacific were hammered with especial force. It is believed by some speculators that the Union Pacific financing will prove a bull card later on. Although the market seems to be entirely in the hands of traders, we believe that on any sharp recession standard issues will go to buy for a turn.

New York Money.

New York, May 10.—Money on call steady, 2½@3 per cent; ruling rate, 3; closing bid, 2; offered at 2¼. Time loans strong; sixty days, 4 per cent, ninety days, 4¼; six months, 6%; prime mercantile paper, 5½@6 per cent. Sterling exchange firmer, with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.86.20@4.86.25 for demand and at $4.83.30@4.83.35 for 60-day bills; posted rates, $4.84 and $4.87; commercial bills, $4.82¾. Bar silver, 64¾c; Mexican dollars, 50c. Government bonds easy; railroad bonds irregular.

Treasury Balances.

Washington, May 10.—Today's statement of the treasury balances in the general fund exclusive of the $150,000,000 gold reserve in the division of redemption shows: Available cash balance, $235,300,526; gold coin and bullion, $87,077,774; gold certificates, $44,592,870.

Copper Gossip.

Boston to Paine, Webber & Co.: The heavy issue of bonds by the Union Pacific has put a damper on the whole market, and although the pools tried hard to rally their specialties, they could not change public sentiment and steady liquidation came in all day. The close was weak and we feel moderately bearish at present. It is seldom safe to sell stock short on a dull market, but on the whole we do not look for any advance in stocks at present and think it would be well to liquidate speculative holdings of long stocks and save interest charges for the next few months.

Several small sales of copper were reported today at the prevailing prices and we understand there is considerable inquiry for large lots. The metal market is all right, but the prevailing bearish sentiment and extreme scarcity of buying orders makes the market look more like a sale than a purchase.

Soule to Gay & Sturgis: The course of prices in the local stock market was identical with those of New York, moderate firmness until the last hour then a reaction with nearly all the issues participating and a rally from the low mark maintained. Amalgamated was the most noteworthy among the copper shares, 93½ to 93⅞ being its range in price. Then followed North Butte with a range from 92¾ to 90½, closing at 91, Copper Range off a full point from 83¾ to 81¾, closing at the latter figures, and Utah, from 64 to 65, closing at 63¾, these issues contributing the larger part of the business of the day.

In marked contrast with the reaction of the prices in the copper shares was the strength in Shoe Machinery common on the favorable outlook for the defeat of the bill against this company now in the senate, a gain of 1⅝ to 67½, being effectively held. At the close the tone was decidedly weak, with net changes of leading stocks not mentioned above.

PUBLIC IN THE MARKET

Speculation in Wheat Greater Than for Years Past.

Price Has Jumped Fifteen Points in Five Weeks.

"The public is in the wheat market to a greater extent than it has been for the last three years," said one of the prominent members of the Duluth board of trade this morning.

"A long bull movement always interests the outside speculators, and the amount of speculating that is being done at the present time is greater than it has been at any time in three years past.

"This always has a tendency to make the market very susceptible to influences, and it responds very readily.

"This bull movement has lasted about three weeks, and it was begun by unfavorable crop reports from the Southwest, where the cold weather and the bugs were reported to be damaging the wheat. Later the backward spring caused many reports of decreased acreage in the Northwest, and the foreign inquiry has been good all along. These things have combined to send the price of wheat up, and it has been jumping steadily for the last three weeks, although the actual low water mark was reached about five weeks ago."

During the last five weeks the price of wheat in the Duluth market has jumped about 15 cents, or an average of 3 cents a week. On several occasions the price advanced 2 cents in a day, today being one of these. July wheat, which is the active option at present, closed in the Duluth pit today at 93 cents bid.

WILL RELAY ITS TRACKS

Street Railway Company to Begin Lake Avenue Work Saturday.

The street railway company will begin tomorrow the relaying of its tracks for the new pavement between the Lake avenue viaduct approach and Sutphin street. The company has been directed to set its tracks in concrete and, as that form of track construction requires some time for the concrete to harden, it will be necessary to stop the operation of the cars over the new tracks in the territory mentioned for a few days.

With a view of providing as good a service as possible on Lake avenue, during the time the street is torn up and the tracks are being laid, the company will continue to operate a car between Sutphin street and the canal, as it did while the viaduct and approach were being rebuilt. The cars from Eighth avenue west to the aerial bridge will be discontinued until the tracks are ready for service again.

GOOD LUCK OF SAILORS.

A veteran naval officer whose experience goes back long before the old navy disappeared from the seas was recounting the other night the success that certain enlisted man with his knowledge have met with when, after many years of service, they finally abandoned the sea—the veteran officer's experience being in opposition to the maxim, "Once a sailor, always a sailor," says the Washington Star.

"A few winters ago," said the veteran officer, "a party of officers from one of our ships anchored in the harbor of Marseille entered an exceedingly rich-looking and tastefully decorated cafe on one of the leading thoroughfares of Marseille for luncheon. The luncheon was perfect, the wines of the very best vintage, the prices unusually moderate and the service of the highest grade. The cafe was filled with a high class of patrons. A couple of the officers noticed, when they were about through with their luncheon, a broad-shouldered young man of 35 or so, with a decidedly Irish face, engaged in giving directions to an employe who wore the general look of a steward. Each officer gave a start of surprise, and one of them sent the waiter to the Irish-looking man, who was attired, like a finished boulevardier, to request him to come over to their table. He came, and smiled and saluted when he recognized a couple of the older officers.

"'Why, hello, O'Loughran,' said one of the officers to the Irishman, 'when did you get into port, and why aren't you in uniform, according to regulations?'

"O'Loughlin, ex-quartermaster of an American man-o'-war, smiled easily and saluted again as he answer the debt ser-

"'Shure, I've been in port foive year now, more's th' joy av it,' he repled. 'Oi was paid off here at th' finish av me last cruise.'

"'Well, O'Loughran, you look prosperous,' said one of the officers; 'and you must be prosperous to be dining in this place.'

"O'Loughran scratched his head and grinned.

"'Well,' he said, 'a man can dine in his own establishment, d'ye molnd, can't he?'

"That was a stunner, all right. The former quartermaster tickled the palates of his one-time official superiors with some royal Johannisberger of his own private stock before they left. He told them that he had invested the savings of his nine years of naval service in a small cafe in an obscure street of Marseille nearly five years before. The venture had been a go from the start, thanks to the patronage of itinerant Americans and Englishmen who discovered that O'Loughran knew how to serve up a chop or a steak in the right way, and a year before he had moved into his present swell establishment.

"'And Oi've got more money than Oi know annything about,' observed O'Laughran in his matter-of-fact tone.

"'What would you sell this place out for?' inquired one of the officers.

"'Divil a sou under 400,000 francs,' was the ex-tar's matter-of-fact reply.

Another case: A former chief bo'sun's mate of the American navy is even now one of the wealthy men of Villefranche, France. About twenty years ago, during his first cruise in the Mediterranean—he was then rated simply as a seaman—he married a young woman belonging to a good middle-class French family. The young woman was thrifty and frugal, and she took the best care of the young sailorman's $50 a month when he was promoted to the rating of chief bo'sun's mate. On account of his marriage and his excellent record he was permitted by the navy department to transfer from one ship to another on the Mediterranean station, and he has never been in the United States since he first went out to that station in an American man-o'-war.

"He invested the savings of a couple of three-year cruises in a high-grade millinery establishment, which his wife conducted to their mutual enrichment. After another cruise he bought out a wholesale wine house. He put in one more cruise and then quit the navy. He now owns many hundreds of acres of the choicest vineyards in France, any amount of real estate, has managers to carry on his two businesses—the millinery house and the vineyard and wine establishment —and lives handsomely, with a large income, surrounded by his large family. One of his daughters recently married a very wealthy merchant of Lyons. He has two boys at Oxford, and when they get through there they are going to be packed off to the United States to learn self-reliance and the art of hustling.

"Two gunners' mates, Luke Shugrue and Edward Simmons, took their discharges at Cape Town from one of the old warships about twenty years ago. They invested their joint savings in an eight-bullock outfit and started up country to engage in the business of freighters. They made money in that business, and they happened to be around when the first lodges of gold cropped out in the Transvaal. They located claims side by side, and struck it rich. Both of them at this day have got more money than they can ever think of spending. Shugrue bought a splendid estate for his folks in Ireland that had always lived in huts and a couple of years ago he ran over to this country to see some of his old shipmates on the receiving ship at the Brooklyn navy yard. There were some very severe heads among his shipmates during his stay near the Brooklyn navy yard, I assure you.

"About fourteen years ago a young bank-note engraver named Carlson, who drifted into the American navy because he hadn't acquired the art of behaving himself ashore, got paid off from his first cruise at Buenos Ayres. Carlson was an expert at the note-engraving business, and he had not the least trouble in getting work at his business at Buenos Ayres at the rate of $15 a day. He saved his money, gained the confidence of the people he met by sticking to business and keeping out of the fast set of English-speaking chaps who make Rome howl down that way about 365 nights a year and when the government invited bids for paper money and stamps Carlson got the contract, and quit the naval service. Now he has an immense engraving establishment of his own down there and is richer than cream.

"A down-east Yankee man-o'-war's man named Zeke Bingford put in two cruises solely for the sake of the wages and the opportunities for a level-headed man to save his wages. He was a chief gunner's mate during his final cruise. His shipmates guyed him for saving practically every cent excepting his trifling mess bills, but he let them guy and followed his path. At the end of his second cruise he quit the service at Yokohama, with $2,000 in savings. He employed a dozen skillful Japanese men to make curios for him, paying them wages that were purely nominal. He had them make portraits of George Washington and Abraham Lincoln, about a foot wide and high, in fancy-colored small feathers, and he sold them by the score at 50 yen, or $25 apiece to the very men-o'-war's men who had ridiculed him for his saving propensities. Then he branched out and had his largely amplified force of feather workers devise the flags of all nations out of the tiny feathers. These, too, he would sell for big money to the sailors on the ships of all nations in the harbor of Yokohama, merchantmen and naval.

"Zeke Bingford made a mint of money at this sort of thing, and then, still carrying on his feather-working business, he opened a general curio emporium on a large scale in Yokohama. His establishment, run on the best of business principles, was a go from the sende off, and he began to ship Japanese curios by the wholesale to the general markets of the world. He's pretty ligh as rich a white man as there is in Japan today, and it is worth something to hear his dry chuckle, when somebody mentions to him the horrible things predicted by his shipmates when he gave it out that he was going to quit the navy as service and go into business in Yokohama.

Once in a year you may find a good tenant by chance—through "happenstance." But a Herald want ad. will find him for you at the time you want him.

New York, May 11.—A resolution endorsing Governor Hughes for the Republican nomination for president, offered by Former Governor Odell at today's session of the Republican committee, was laid on the table by a vote of 32 to 4. Odell, George W. Dunn, member of the state railroad commission, William Halpin, state tax commissioner, and William Ten Eyck, voted in favor of the resolution.

In moving that Governor Odell's motion urging the nomination of Mr. Hughes for the presidency be tabled, Chairman Woodruff said: "I move that this resolution be tabled on account of the gentleman who introduced it; by reason of his well known antipathy to the president of the United States."

HARD RAPS AT ALASKA

General Greeley Scores Federal Rule in Northern Region.

Courts and Officials Declared Worthy of Mob Action.

Chicago, May 11.—Rule of the United States government in Alaska was criticized severely last night by Maj. Gen. Adolphus W. Greeley, commander of the Northern division of the United States army, in an address before the Geographic society of Chicago.

Gen. Greeley has made several polar expeditions, on one of which his party established a record for "farthest north," and all but seven of the party perished. Within the last two years he has explored parts of Alaska.

"The same trouble predominates in Alaska today that has characterized the attitude of the United States government towards all the aborigines with which it has come in contact," said the general. "It never treats them fairly. It has put the Esquimos or the Alaskan Indians on the road to ruin. Two years ago the United States courts were a fiasco. It was wonder to me that the entire lot of government officials were not hanged by mob law. I have been in mining camps where, as the old saying goes, they hung five men before breakfast for less provocation than was imposed on the people of Alaska. The courts were only instruments of private interests."

TRY TO END DOCK WAR

National Civic Federation Leaders Working for Arbitration.

Freight Piling Up and Shippers Feel Increasing Concern.

New York, May 11.—Arbitration is being broached by the National Civic Federation to end the longshoremen's strike, but there is little hope, as yet, of any negotiations being entered upon by the parties to the controversy. The federation suggested that instead of each side appointing conferees, as at first proposed, negotiations be taken up by a committee in no way connected with either side.

The steamship management received this proposal coldly, but did not say that they would ignore such a committee if it was formed. The strikers' spokesman and leader, Patrick Conners, said that, whereas the strikers would not appoint a committee to confer with one from the steamship companies they would be willing to listen to a committee coming from the companies to them. He said also that any outside committee having a settlement for its object would be received by the strikers. This statement is looked upon by the federation

JOHN L. APPEALS TO PRESIDENT

Veteran Pugilist Pleads for Pardon for Deserter Nephew.

Washington, May 11.—John L. Sullivan, the vetrean pugilist, saw the president again today by appointment in behalf of John L. Lennon, his nephew, who is serving a sentence at Governors Island for desertion from the marine corps. He made an earnest plea to the president to pardon the young man and permit him to serve out his enlistment in the corps. The president has the application under consideration. Sullivan said the president had not made any promsies.

In about two weeks Sullivan said he would leave the stage for an Indiana resort where he will take the mud baths for rheumatism. Some one suggested to him that he eat less beefsteak and potatoes and that milk and water was a good diet. Sullivan declared that he was not a vegetarian, but liked to have the "real thing."

ALLEGED EMBEZZLER OF $70,000 GIVES SELF UP.

Charlotte, N. C., May 11.—Frank H. Jones, former teller of the Charlotte National bank, charged with having embezzled about $70,000, and for whom a reward of $3,000 was offered, arrived in this city today, and surrendered himself. His alleged accomplice, Fonville, is now under $10,000 bail on a charge of complicity with Jones in the embezzlement.

SCHWAB TIRES OF LIFE IN HIS NEW YORK PALACE.

New York, May 11.—The World today says that Charles M. Schwab wants to sell his mansion in Riverside drive nad has placed it in the hands of brokers. The house, with its furnishings, is said to have cost $3,500,000. According to the World, he is tired of living in the big house and wishes to escape from the burdens the life entails.

WATCH CARS AND GUARDS

Governor and High Militia Officers Study Frisco Strike.

Flowers and Bricks Alternate for Non-Union Employes.

San Francisco, May 11.—Running of cars today by non-union men through the burned district will be watched by Governor Gillette, Adjutant Gen. J. B. Lauck and Brigadier Gen. Wankowski. The police will assemble in force, and their ability to cope with any riotous demonstrations by those in sympathy with the strikers will be closely watched. The governor will then be in a position to decide whether the assistance of the state soldiery is required to supplement the efforts of the local authorities to maintain order.

The heads of the contending forces still continue to issue statements to the public. The railroad officials assert that their cars will be run in the face of all opposition, while at the same time ignoring the existence of the Car Men's union. The outlook for peace is anything but bright, and the defiant attitude assumed on both sides suggests a fight to the finish.

A large force of strikebreakers arrived here early this morning and 400 of them were housed at the Valencia street barn. The new men are under contract with the company for $3.50 per day with board and lodging.

SPAIN'S JUBILEE LASTS ALL NIGHT

Birth of Heir to Throne Celebrated Until Dawn.

Madrid, May 11.—The public rejoicing over the birth of an heir to the throne continued everywhere until almost morning. In the provinces the church bells were rung, there was music in the streets of the various towns, and alms were distributed to the poor. The capital was brilliantly illuminated, there was a great display of fire works, regimental bands marching through the streets, which were thronged, and the cafes were crowded until almost daylight. By the king's order a sumptuous supper was served at midnight to the troops composing the garrisons throughout Spain. Dawn was breaking when the weary crowds sought their homes.

Queen Victoria and her baby passed a satisfactory night and this morning the condition of both the mother and child was pronounced to be excellent.

CHARLES H. MOYER,
Miners' Federation President, Accused of Having Served Term for Burglary.

Mounts Etna and Stromboli Belching Out Fire and Smoke.

Inhabitants of Sicily Are Alarmed; Those of Stromboli Suffering.

Sea Affected and Submarine Crater Considered Probable.

Messina, Sicily, May 11.—New craters have opened in Mounts Etna and Stromboli, whose eruptions are increasing.

The observatories of Messina and Catania continue to register earth shocks, but they are very light. The alarm of the population of this island is growing especially among the inhabitants of the villages in the Luziurant zone around Mount Etna, although the director of the Catania observatory, which is not far from the volcano, has assured the people that they are in no danger.

The smoke and flames issuing from the main crater of Mount Etna are visible for a long distance.

A portion of the main crater of Stromboli has fallen in, causing a more active eruption. It seems to have affected the sea, which is most agitated near the island. Scientists have expressed the opinion that possibly a submarine crater may have opened and that it is causing the aquatic disturbance.

Troops have been ordered to the island of Stromboli, which has been completely laid waste, while many of the inhabitants are destitute.

BIG CREWS IN CONTEST

Harvard and Columbia Meet for First Time in Years.

Race Regarded as Sort of Try-Out for Coming Matches.

Boston, May 11.—Collegiate interest today was centered on the boat race between eights, representing Harvard and Columbia, on the Charles river, over a course a mile and seven-eights in length. This was Columbia's first appearance on the Charles and the first rowing contest in twenty years, in which these two colleges have engaged.

Harvard today looked for a victory, for its crew is made up of five veterans, who rowed a winning race against Yale at New London last June, one varsity man of two years ago, and two new men. During the past two weeks Harvard shakeups in the crew have been frequent and the positions are unsettled. Col-

MAY SNOW STORMS RAGE IN MANY PARTS OF EAST WITH FREEZING WEATHER

GOVERNOR BUCHTEL
Of Colorado, Who Presided at the Initiation of the Great New Cripple Creek Tunnel.

New York State and New England Have Blizzards.

Pennsylvania and Ohio Lake Shore Covered With White.

Coldest May Day in Pittsburg for Thirty-One Years.

New York, May 11.—Snow and unseasonably low temperatures were reported today from many points in New York state and New England. At Boston and vicinity, following a night of heavy rain, there was snow early in the day sufficient to cover the ground. In the Adirondacks from three to six inches of snow has fallen the last twenty-four hours, and at Rome, N. Y., there was a fall of three inches of snow and the temperature was 34 degs. At Rochester, N. Y., the ground was white with snow. In this city there was a drop in temperature in eighteen hours of 32 degs. Syracuse, Buffalo and other up-state points also suffered from a miniature blizzard.

Pittsburg, May 11.—Phenomenally cold weather has been experienced throughout Western Pennsylvania during the past twenty-four hours. Since yesterday the temperature dropped from 65 degs. to 32, the freezing point, at 5 o'clock this morning. Several inches of snow is reported to have fallen in northern sections of the state, notably about Meadville, and ice formed in this city and vicinity. This is the coldest day in May since 1876, according to the records of the weather bureau.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 11.—The lake shore throughout this section was swept by a snowfall last night which lasted for two hours. The weather, while disagreeable, was not very cold and the snow melted as fast as it fell.

TO UNWATER GOLD MINES

Great Tunnel From Cripple Creek Started by Governor.

Shafts Cut at Big Depth and Output May be Doubled.

Cripple Creek, Colo., May 11.—With impressive ceremonies, participated in by Governor Buchtel, all the state officers, delegates from the principal cities of Colorado and tens of thousands of citizens, work was initiated today on the great Cripple Creek drainage tunnel that will unwater the mines of the district, vastly cheapen the cost of gold mining and permit the probable doubling of the annual output of the district.

About sixteen years ago Winfield Scott Strattan, a Colorado Springs carpenter, began spending his scant earnings in prospecting some outcroppings in the Cripple Creek cow pastures. July 4, 1891, he located a claim on a vein which gave him rich assays, and he called that claim the Independence. He subsequently located many other claims in that neighborhood, and a few years ago sold his property to an English syndicate for $10,000,000, after extracting many millions from it himself. In the succeeding years the Cripple Creek cow pasture was transformed into a great mining camp.

When the high grade ore bodies on the known veins had been extracted down to the 500-foot point, the water troubles of the district began. A drainage tunnel was, therefore, contrived, and eventually driven to cut the main water courses of the district at a depth of 600 feet, but that tunnel was not deep enough.

LOVER TAKES ODD REVENGE

Jilted Pole Has Former Sweetheart Arrested for Lese Majeste.

London, May 11.—According to the Vienna correspondent of the Express, Mrs. Wowanke, the wife of a Chicago engineer, has been arrested at her parent's home in Radmanitz, Silesia, on the curious charge of having committed lese majeste in love letters she wrote two years ago.

Mrs. Wowanke, it is stated, was originally bethrothed to a Pole named Strobowski, but cancelled the engagement and went to America where she married Wowanke. Recently she returned to visit her parents. Thereupon Strobowski, to obtain revenge for his jilting, submitted to the public prosecutor love letters written, it is alleged, by his former sweetheart in which she attacked the emperor's Polish policy. Her arrest followed on the eve of her return to Chicago.

TEXAS OIL STRIKERS LOSE "OPEN SHOP" FIGHT.

Beaumont, Tex., May 11.—A special dispatch from Saratoga says the strike in the oil fields is off and the men are returning to work. As a result of the settlement, "open shop" prevails at Spindletop, Saratoga and Batson. At the two former places nearly all of the men have been reinstated. At Batson the operators stated that the strikers will have to wait for vacancies.

CAR STRIKES DYNAMITE AND IS BLOWN TO BITS.

Montgomery, Ala., May 11.—A car of the Montgomery Traction company in the extreme southern edge of the city struck a stick of dynamite late last night and was completely shattered, portions of the car being blown 100 feet from the track. The motorman and conductor, brothers, named Brunsen, were slightly injured. There was only one passeger on the car, a negro, who escaped unhurt.

JOHN MITCHELL DOING WELL.

Spring Valley, Ill., May 11.—The physician in attendance on President John Mitchell of the United Mine Workers says that the patient is gaining strength every day. He takes long sleeps, the pains from the operation being gone. It is expected final recovery will be slow, but all danger seems past.

PHONES IN BIG UNION

Independent Companies Figuring on Forming One Concern.

Many States and Canada Interested in the Movement.

Chicago, May 11.—Development of a plan to cement 7,000 telephone companies of the United States and Canada with an aggregate capital of $350,000,000 into one gigantic organization is expected to follow the gathering here June 4 of 1,000 managers and presidents of interested concerns at the convention of the International Independent Telephone association.

Success of the movement inaugurated means the building of long distance telephone lines throughout the country, giving unified toll service to more than 3,000,000 patrons of independent systems. Ohio is leading the agitation for consolidation, with 300,000 independent telephones in use. Indiana, with 200,000, is second. Other states having complete organizations are: Alabama, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Maine, Minnesota, Michigan, Missouri, Nebraska, New York, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Texas, New Hampshire, Virginia, Washington, West Virginia, Tennessee and Vermont, while Canada has scores of companies.

The call for consolidation has come at the close of the most prosperous year in the history of independent telephony. Within the last year nearly $100,000,000 has been expended in independent plants.

WILL NOT FILE THEM

Auditor Acts on Legal Advice Concerning Tax Redemption Notices.

Notice of Expiration is Given Only to Owners of Record.

Acting on the opinion of First Assistant County Attorney W. J. Stevenson, County Auditor Halden will refuse to send notices of expiration of redemption to anybody except those to whom the land in question is assessed. It has been the custom of the auditor to notify all outside parties who might have an interest in the land taxed.

Answering the inquiry of Auditor Halden, concerning the filing of notices in the auditor's office requiring notices of expiration of redemption from tax sales to be served upon others than those in whose name the property is assessed, Mr. Stevenson's opinion is as follows:

"The Revised laws of 1905 seem to contain no provision similar to or as a substitute for Chapter 58 of the Laws of 1903, which constitute Section 1657 to 1661 inclusive, General Statutes 1894, and such chapter is expressly repealed by Revised Laws of 1905.

"I find no re-enactment of any such provisions in the general laws of 1905 and am not familiar with the laws passed by the legislature of 1907. Unless the legislature of 1907 made some provision for registered owners, I would advise the auditor to refuse to file the notices presented, as he has no right either to file them or recognize them hereafter.

"This does not refer to notice filed with the auditor prior to March 1, 1906, the time when the Revised Laws of 1905 went into effect."

UNION LABOR NEWS

SHOPMEN ORGANIZE

New Railroad Union at Proctor is Formally Installed.

No Dissatisfaction Exists and No Trouble in Sight.

The formal organization of the new union of shopmen was perfected at Proctor last evening, and there are forty-nine members to start with. The organization is known as the Railroad Shopmen's union, No. 12,471, and is affiliated with the A. F. of L.

A meeting was held several weeks ago to form a temporary organization, but since then the charter has been received, and last evening the union was installed and permanent officers were elected. The officers chosen were as follows: President, James Gleason; vice president, Frank Schabert; recording secretary, M. B. Johnson; treasurer, H. A. Sanders; financial secretary, William Giertz; marshal, Fred Tombly; guard, John Taylor; trustees, R. McGrath, James McGillivray and Christ Atkinson.

This organization will admit to membership any man employed at the shops who is not eligible to any other of the existing unions there. Many trades are represented there, but there are not enough members to organize a union, and the shopmen's union will, therefore, be an organization consisting of several different trades. The workmen of the different trades will be classified, according to the work and wages they receive.

No dissatisfaction exists among the employes at the shops, and the union has been only organized to promote the welfare of the members, and for the purpose of getting conferences with the railroad officials when there are any differences to be adjusted among the members of the different trades and the company.

W. E. McEwen of Duluth, state organizer, attended the meeting at Proctor last night and formally installed the union.

Second Largest Union.

The second largest union of workingmen in the state was organized at Red Wing this week by A. W. Turner, special organizer representing the Minnesota State Federation. The union will be known as the Red Wing Clay Workers' union, No. 12,461, and consists of 1,118 members. The largest union in the state is that of the Minneapolis carpenters which has a membership of 1,600.

WALSH IS ENDORSED

For Position of Superintendent of New State Labor Bureau.

Rev. Kirby S. Miller Gives Good Address on Child Labor.

James Walsh received the endorsement of the Duluth Trades assembly at the meeting last night for the position of superintendent of the new state labor bureau soon to be established in this city. Mr. Walsh is a well known member of the Licensed Tugmen's Protective association, and has been for several years a delegate from that organization to the trades assembly.

His name was the only one mentioned for endorsement at the meeting last night, and there was only one opposing vote when President Hunt called for yeas and nayes. One members of the assembly maintained that the members should not try to mix up in a political affair and did not favor the endorsement.

Delegate Peters, secretary of the assembly, who brought up the endorsement matter, explained that in all probability the man whom the trades assembly chooses for the place will receive the appointment. He explained that it is understood that the choice of a man for the position had been left entirely in the hands of one Duluth man who did not care to make the endorsement and was willing to leave it to the trades assembly.

The position carries with it a salary of $1,100 a year and a clerkship of $800 a year. The assembly directed Secretary Peters to draw up a communication to send to the governor and to State Labor Commissioner Williams explaining the action of the trades assembly to them. It is said there are several other candidates in Duluth for the position, but if union labor is to have a voice in the matter Mr. Walsh will probably be the first superintendent.

An attempt was made to again bring up the James Sullivan incident in the barbers' troubles, but the assembly would not stand for it.

A resolution from the local Leatherworkers' union was read, asking that the matter of endorsing the action of the Barbers' union in boycotting Mr. Sullivan's shop be reconsidered. It is claimed that the barbers have gone beyond their authority in trying to dictate the scale of prices to be charged.

As soon as the clerk had finished reading the communication a motion was made by one of the delegates that it be tabled. This was seconded, put to a vote and carried in hurry up order.

One of the features of the meeting last evening was the address on "Child Labor" delivered by Rev. Kirby S. Miller. Mr. Miller had been asked to give an address about a month ago, but had been unable to attend the meeting at that time and so arrangements were made to have him present last evening.

Mr. Miller's speech was a strong, interesting and instructive one, and the delegates showed their appreciation by paying strict attention throughout the half hour in which the address was being given. Mr. Miller explained the many evils of child labor and offered a few sugestions for the betterment of the conditions throughout the country.

"We must get public sentiment against these evils," said Mr. Miller. "We must outgrow them and get the people to outgrow them. You can go into many of the states and there are only a few child labor laws if there are any. The most advanced states in this regard have the age limit only as high as 16 years and the limit in most states is under 14 years.

"There can be no question as to the evil results of child labor. It ruins the life of a child to be working all day. From the years when a child is from 12 to 15 is the period when all boys and girls are learning. The moral decline when they are put to work in factories, mills or the coal mines is not pleasant to think about. In the South there are now 60,000 children under 14 years of age working in the cotton mills, glass mills and factories long hours every day.

"If boys and girls are worn out and grow old at the age of 16 they have passed the point when they can become more efficient and skilled and we all know that in the next generation there is going to be more and more of a demand for skill and efficiency in the world. It is said that in some families it is necessary for the children to work in order to keep the family going, but I think that if the children are not allowed to work the fathers will be able to earn enough in most cases to support his family.

"What this state lacks is more inspectors. We have some of the best child labor laws in the country, but one or two inspectors cannot cover so large a field. The child labor laws must be enforced and therefore we must have more inspectors. But this is not merely a state or local question. It is a national question and we must have a national remedy.

"One thing organizations of this kind can do is to advocate a state training or industrial school in which children can be taught a trade and become skillful. Children are often put to work when 14 or 15 years old in order that they can learn a trade, but if we have industrial schools this would not be necessary. I think you should also advocate raising the age limit to 17 years instead of 16."

After Mr. Miller had finished speaking, the assembly voted their thanks and appreciation and made him an honory member of the body.

A communication from the international union of machinsts was read. It called attention to the fact that there is a strike on in the Twin Cities among the machinists and Duluth unionists were warned to keep away. The Twin City unions are asking for higher wages.

The delegates to the assembly were directed to report the cotents of the communication back to their respective locals and warn the members to keep away from the Twin Cities during the strike.

ELECTRICIANS STILL OUT.

Have Not Yet Reached a Settlement With Contractors.

The sessions of the joint settlement of the contractors and unions did not result in bringing the strike of the electricians to an end last night and progress is being made and it is hoped that peace will be declared today. There is still a hitch between the contractors and the tinners and the men have not yet gone back to work but the difficulty will probably be soon settled.

All of the differences between the other three unions have now been settled and the carpenters, building laborers and roofers have all gone back to work. This conditions of affairs has made it possible for building operations to be resumed generally throughout the city.

Neither the electricians or the contractors had any statement to make concerning the strike this morning, but both sides are confident that a settlement will be reached by the first of next week and work will probably be resumed.

ELEVATOR MEN ORGANIZING.

New Branch of Longshoremen's Association is Being Formed.

An organization of elevator employes of West Superior is being formed this week by J. G. O'Neil, organizer for this district of the Longshoremen's association, and it is expected that the membership of the new union will be in the neighborhood of 200.

The first meeting will be held tomorrow afternoon at Kolanic hall in Superior and the temporary organization of the union will be then perfected. Afterwards a charter will be sent for to the international organization and as soon as received the permanent officers will be chosen and the union installed. It will be a branch of the Longshoremen's association.

TO ADMIT FARGO LOCALS.

They May Affiliate With Minnesota State Federation of Labor.

A new question recently came up for settlement by the state federation council. The Fargo, N. D., trades and labor assembly sent a communication asking whether or not the unions of that city would not be eigible for membership in the Minnesota State Federation of Labor.

They based their claim for membership from the fact that many of the workingmen belonging to the Fargo unions actually worked and resided in Moorhead which is in Minnesota and that the unions were really Fargo and Moorhead organizations and that therefore they were entitled to membership in the Minnesota federation as long as no central body exists in North Dakota.

The same condition exists in Duluth and Superior where several of the organizations, such as the steamfitters, pressmen and others, are composed of workmen from both cities and which have been admitted to the Minnesota State federation.

The federation council has ruled, according to a communication just received by W. E. McEwen in Duluth, that the unions at Fargo and Moorhead may be admitted to membership in the absence of any law in the constitution of the Minnesota federation which prohibits this.

Record Number Affiliate.

During the past week the record breaking number of sixteen local unions affiliated with the Minnesota State Federation of Labor. Most of these came from the smaller cities and towns in the state and this shows the general trend for centralization of the labor movement. A. H. Garfield has been at work as an organizer for the state federation at Winona for the past week, and other agents have visited other towns in the state.

Body to Be Installed.

The supplies, books, seal and other paraphernalia for the new union of hoisting engineers of Duluth, have been received today and the permanent organization of the union will take place at a meeting to be held on May 26, when State Organizer McEwen and the organization committee of the Duluth Trades assembly will be present and install the organization.

The Montgomery millworkers in a communication to the trades assembly stated that their strike had been settled, after they had been out three months. It was stated that they had been victorious and had secured the wage increase asked for. The trades assembly was thanked for its contribution, sent in about a month ago to aid the Montgomery strikers.

The committee appointed some time ago to meet jointly with committees from the Building Trades Structural Alliance and from the pavilion board, to draw up a plan for the division of the receipts from the Labor day celebration, handed in a resolution, which stated that the pavilion board should have charge of the park grounds and pavilion and should receive all money derived therefrom and the Pavilion association to share equally with the Trades Assembly and Building Structural Alliance in all other money derived from the celebration. The resolution was carried.

Seven new delegates presented their credentials at the meeting last evening and were obligated. They were as follows: D. J. Dillon and S. Z. Barncard, switchmen's union; W. A. Mahoney, freighthandlers; Joseph Shartel, cigarmakers; J. B. Anderson, tug firemen; D. O'Brien, tug firemen; Albert Smith, stationary firemen.

Formal Organization Completed.

Wednesday evening, there was a second meeting of the newly organized Garment Workers' union at Odd Fellows' hall, and the formal work of organizing was completed. Afterwards an election of permanent officers was held and resulted as follows: President, Mrs. Bessie Cayo; vice president, Mrs. Elin Berg; recording secretary Miss Lucille Van Oak; financial secretary, Miss Ellen Nelson; treasurer, Miss Maude Tender; sergeant at arms, Miss Francis Fencil; guide, Miss Clara Konrad. The next meeting of the union will be held at Odd Fellows' hall, on May 22.

Longshoremen Choose Officers.

An election of officers was held at the regular meeting of the Longshoremen's union, No. 12, at West Duluth Monday evening. William Fremont and J. Gordon O'Neil were chosen delegates to the annual convention of the International Longshoremen's union to be held in July. The following are the new officers: President, Peter McIntyre; vice president, John Faucalt, recording secretary, T. J. Uttican; financial secretary, R. S. McGregor; marshal, John Dumitchel; inspector, Dolph Supernant; trustees, Thoma Hewitt, Thomas Robinson and William Cluegh.

Have Received Charter.

The new union of hoisting engineers have their charter now, it having been received the first of the week, and at a meeting held Tuesday evening at Axa hall it was voted to have the installation of officers at the next meeting, two weeks in the future.

Attends Sister's Funeral.

William Thompson of the Horseshoers' union was called to Madison, Wis., yesterday on account of the death of his sister. He will arrive in time to attend the funeral.

Verren Returns.

William Verren of the Painters' union, who was called to Saginaw two weeks ago on account of the serious illness of his mother, returned to Duluth this week. Mr. Verren says that his mother died just before his arrival. She was 86 years of age, and was striken with pneumonia.

RAILROADS

DAN PATCH LINE.

Work About to Begin on Minneapolis & Dubuque Road.

Frank S. Lyen, representing the "Dan Patch Line," an electric road to be constructed by the Minneapolis, Rochester & Dubuque Traction company, is registered at the Spalding.

The primary purpose of the company is to connect the three towns named, but it is the intention to ultimately build a network of interrurban lines in the territory between Minneapolis and Dubuque. It will be a third rail system, with all the latest electrical appliances. The right of way has been secured and surveyed the entire distance. It is expected the line will be completed to Owatonna by Nov. 1.

M. W. Savage of Minneapolis is the president of the company, and chiefly through his influence it has been decided to convert Minneapolis' famous exposition building on the east side of the Mississippi, now owned and occupied by the International Stock Food company, into a modern terminal station for the new line. Mr. Savage has agreed to donate the first floor of the building for a modern terminal station. Other officers of the company are C. W. Shivel, vice president and secretary; and W. D. Boutell, second vice president. Both are residents of Minneapolis.

NO APPOINTMENT YET.

Local Manager of New Railroad Not Yet Announced.

No appointment has yet been made to the position of local manager of the Twin City & Lake Superior Railway company, which has opened offices in the Lyceum building. Minneapolis representatives of the company are in charge of the offices, but they will probably return next week, leaving some local man permanently in charge.

Actual grading work will be begun very soon, the greater part of the right of way being surveyed and secured by option.

LIBRARY BOARD APPOINTMENTS

Four Members Will be Named by Mayor Monday.

Monday evening the mayor will submit to the council his appointments to the library board for the coming year, as prescribed by the city charter. The mayor does not consider that it would be courtesy to the members of the council to divulge the names of the appointes before they are submitted for their approval, but, with the exception of M. M. Clark,, who has, since his appointment to the fire board, tendered his resignation, all the retiring members are probably slated for reappointment.

A West Duluth man will be appointed to fill the place of Mr. Clark. Besides Dr. C. L. Codding, the president, the board consists of Daniel G. Cash, R. B. Knox, Frank D. Adams, Frank Crassweller, Dr. William H. Salter, G. Ashley Tomlinson, M. M. Clark and Rev. John C. Faries. Besides Mr. Clark, resigned, the terms of Messrs. Cash, Knox and Adams expire this year.

ILLINOIS LEGISLATORS MAY HEED THE GOVERNOR.

Springfield, Ill., May 11.—Instead of adjourning sine die tonight, the legislature will probably adopt a joint resolution declaring a recess until next Wednesday when it will reassemble as recommended by Gov. Deneen to consider solely legislation to enable carrying out of a deep waterway project between Lake Michigan and the Mississippi river. An impression prevails, however, that the enacting clause of the deep water bill will be stricken out by the senate and that sine die adjournment will follow.

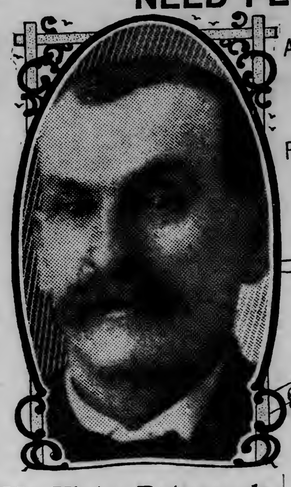
THE RICH AND THE POOR NEED PE-RU-NA.

After-Effects of La Grippe Continue Ten Years---Winter and Summer.

Pe-ru-na Restores Health and Strength, Work is Resumed In a Short Time.



Mr. Victor Patneaude

"My Wife and I Consider Pe-ru-na a Household Remedy."

—Victor Patneaude.

In different seasons of the year, catarrh assumes different phases. Systematic catarrh is very common during warm weather and is sometimes the after-effect of some acute ailment experienced during the preceding winter.

Mr. Victor Patneaude, 328 Madison street, Topeka, Kan., a well-known carpenter and member of Knights and Ladies of Security, writes:

"Twelve years ago I had a severe attack of la grippe and I never really recovered my health and strength, but grew weaker every year, until I was unable to work.

"Two years ago I began using Peruna and it built up my strength so that in a couple of months I was able to go to work again.

"My wife and I consider it a household remedy."

Bowel Trouble.

Mrs. Maggie Durbin, 1217 Water street, Little Rock, Ark., writes:

"I was troubled for five years with a chronic disease. I tried everything I heard of, but nothing did me any good.

"Some doctors said my trouble was catarrh of the bowels, and some said consumption of the bowels.

"A friend of mine advised me to try Peruna and I did so. After I had taken two bottles I found that it was helping me, so I continued its use and it has cured me sound and well.

"I can recommend Peruna to anyone, and if anyone wants to know what Peruna did for me, if they will write to me, I will answer them gladly."

Nerves All Unstrung.

Mr. D. A. Gebhardt, 537 Sixth avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:

"Owing to the strain and worry of business my nerves were in a bad shape. I tried many so-called nerve tonics without result.

"Hearing so much said in praise of Peruna, I decided to give it a trial. I could feel benefit from the first dose.

"Six bottles made a marked improvement in my condition. I have remained well ever since."

Younger and Weighs More.

Mrs. M. S. Davis, 1505 Buena Vista St., Nashville, Tenn., writes:

"After having been a constant sufferer from catarrh for more than twenty years and after trying almost every remedy advertised, and having lost all hope, I very reluctantly began the use of Peruna about two years ago.

"Everybody says I look younger now than I did twenty years ago, and I actually feel younger and better, and weigh more."

THE IDEAL DRINK

For warm weather is the one that thoroughly quenches the thirst and at the same time produces a beneficial effect upon the system.

Most summer drinks are a burden upon the stomach, sweet, sickening and manifestly unfit for use. In

Moose Beer

You have a beverage that satisfies the thirst better than any other, for it is about 90 per cent pure water. Instead of overtaxing the digestive apparatus, it is itself an important digestive agent, a liquid food that is readily assimilated and that at once lends its valuable assistance in building up the body.

Increased thirst comes with the return of warm weather. In satisfying your thirst, be careful to use a beverage that will be a benefit and not a detriment to your health.

Retires After Long Business Career.

After an association of forty-six years with the largest collar and cuff industry in the country, Mr. Robert Cluett retires from the presidency of Cluett, Peabody & Company and from active participation in business. Mr. Cluett, who has occupied the presidency of the Company for the past six years, will be succeeded by Mr. F. E. Peabody, a gentleman whose long familiarity and activity in the direction of affairs of the Company eminently fit him for the office.

Mr. Cluett's retirement brings about several other changes in official positions. Mr. Robert Cluett, Jr. succeeds to the office of Vice-President, formerly occupied by Mr. Peabody. Mr. C. A. Cluett becomes the Secretary of the Company, and the name of Mr. A. Gillespie is added to the Board of Directors.

As the makers of the famous Arrow and Cluett brands of collars, and of Monarch and Cluett shirts, the firm of Cluett, Peabody & Company is known from one end of the country to the other. The changes above reported will in no way affect the former policy of the business, and it will be noted that Mr. Cluett, in retiring from the Presidency, leaves others of his name to perpetuate the reputation of this name which has become so well known in connection with collars and cuffs.

ARBOR DAY CELEBRATED

Eveleth Pupils Plant a Tree and Bottle in School Grounds.

Eveleth, Minn., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Yesterday was observed as Arbor Day by the Eveleth public schools and appropriate exercises were carried on on the high school building grounds. About 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon the pupils gathered in the southwest corner of the grounds where a tree was to be planted. Superintendent B. O. Greening in a few well chosen words, stated the purpose of the day and the hope that the exercises would suggest to each of the appropriateness of cleaning up his own yard and planting a tree thereon.

The governor's Arbor Day proclamation was then read by the president of the senior class. Abe Feldman, after which it was sealed in a bottle and planted with the tree. As the tree was being planted, the pupils, led by the high school, sang "America."

A BASEBALL ASSOCIATION

Perfected at Eveleth and Officers Choosen for Coming Season.

Eveleth, Minn., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—A meeting of the thirty-second degree baseball fans was held at Gleason's hardware store last night, at which officers and directors of an association were elected, and preliminary arrangements were made for putting a strong team in the field. The account of the organization of a baseball team, which appeared in the papers last Tuesday, was premature, and the officers of the Eveleth Baseball association, as elected last night, are as follows: President, J. C. Poole; vice president, G. A. Whitman; secretary, P. E. Dowling; treasurer, J. A. Robb; manager, Dr. Fred Barrett; board of directors, W. J. Smith, J. J. Gleason, M. E. Nichols, Thomas Davey, George Lormer and D. A. Springer.

The election of Dr. Fred Barrett for manager was most fortunate, as he is very popular, an old ball player and will no doubt be able to make baseball in this city a success.

NEW BUILDING

Will be Erected by North Pole Lodge, S. H. and E. F. of Virginia.

Virginia, Minn., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—A substantial improvement in the way of a solid brick building to be located on Central avenue has been decided upon by North Pole lodge No. 28, S. H. and E. F. of Virginia. The decision was reached at the last meeting of the lodge and the following named were appointed as building committee: Gust Johnson, Henning Erickson, H. E. Foosness, Frank Wiren and F. B. Rossom.

The building will be two stories high basement, thirty feet wide and ninety or 100 feet long. The upper floor will be used as a lodge room by the society while the first floor and basement will be rented for business uses. The location will be adjoining the store of Nelson Shields, the electrician. The structure will cost in the neighborhood of $12,000 or $15,000.

CHISHOLM AUTHORITIES AFTER BLIND PIGGERS.

Chisholm, Minn., May 11.—The village authorities are again after the "blind piggers." Chief of Police Dennis Madden has arrested Steve Melodine for selling liquor without a license at the Shenango mine location. Melodine was brought before Judge Freeman, in the municipal court, and pleaded guilty. He was fined $85 and costs, which he promptly paid, and was released.

The village council has passed a resolution to the effect that all property owners residing on Lake street, Maple street and First avenue, must connect with the sewers within ninety days from the second of May. If they refuse the village will do the work and charge it up to the property.

The Twentieth Century Hostelry.

During the past decade hotel building in New York City has assumed marvelous proportions. In the district bounded by Thirty-third and Fifty-ninth streets, Broadway and Park avenue, there are today at least seventy-five hotels with accommodations for nearly 25,000 people and still others are being built. Perhaps the most wonderful of these modern palaces for public entertainment is Hotel Belmont, which was opened in May of last year. The Belmont is the tallest hotel in the world. It has twenty-eight stories in all, and more unusual still, five of these are below the street level. The Interborough Rapid Transit Subway has a station in its basement, and four lines of railways are accessible without stepping out of doors. Though sixty feet higher than its tallest rival, a system of electric and pneumatic rapid transit betwn lowest basement to highest hall, practically annihilates distance and makes communication easy and rapid. Naturally a hotel of such great height must be made safe. The Belmont is so absolutely fireproof and so perfectly equipped with fire fighting apparatus that no insurance is considered necessary.

In Hotel Belmont is not only to be found the highest type of excellence in fittings and furnishings, but it is also supplied with filtered air, dustless vacuum cleaning system, automatic heat regulation, private telephones, telautographs, electric clocks, pneumatic tubes, medical and surgical service and a score of other modern conveniences. The cuisine is in keeping with the high character of the house, and under the management of Mr. B. L. M. Bates, the Belmont is a favorite stopping place for visitors to New York and for New Yorkers themselves who appreciate the best in the way of metropolitan hospitality. Last season the Belmont was selected as the headquarters of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, which was held in New York, and recently it was chosen by Andrew Carnegie for the entertainment of his numerous and notable foreign guests who came to this country to attend the dedication of Carnegie Institute at Pittsburg, and the Peace Conference in New York the week following.

CITY'S FUTURE PAINTED IN MOST GLOWING COLORS

New Public Affairs Committee Holds Its First Meeting.

T. W. Hugo is Again Elected to the Chairmanship.

The new public affairs committee of the Duluth Commercial club met at dinner at the club last evening, and proceeded to get acquainted and to transact such business as usually comes up at a gathering of this kind. The appointments had been kept a secret by President W. E. Magner, making the event all the more interesting, for the guests did not know who the others present would be until all were together.

Officers were elected for the ensuing year, T. W. Hugo was elected to succeed himself as chairman, and P. S. Anneke was re-elected treasurer. W. A. McGonagle was chosen vice president, succeeding Capt. Alexander McDougall, and George Rupley was made secretary, replacing Clarence B. Miller. It required only a short time for the business in connection with the election, for as soon as each nomination was made the secretary was instructed to cast a unanimous ballot for the nominees.

Make-up of Committee.

The public affairs committee is divided into several sub-committees. There is a general committee, consisting of the four officers of the main committee, with seven sub-committees, which, taken as a whole, constitute the entire membership of the public affairs committee. The chairmen of the various sub-committees, with the general committee members, constitute an executive committee. The vice chairmen of the sub-committees will act in the place of the chairmen, when the latter are absent. Following is the list of committees:

General committee—T. W. Hugo, chairman; W. A. McGorakle, vice chairman; P. S. Anneke, treasurer; George Rupley, secretary.

Finance committee—Chairman, George H. Crosby; H. B. Knudsen, Charles W. Elston, G. C. Stone, W. W. Walker, E. P. Towne, Simon Clark.

Convention visitors and entertainment—Vice Chairman, C. F. West; W. G. Hegardt, N. J. Upham, H. D. Final, Frank Crassweller, A. E. McManus.

Industrial committee on promotion—B. Silberstein, chairman; G. H. Rupley, E. P. Coleman, Millie Bunnell, A. C. Weiss, O. Lonegren, George W. Buck.

Industrial development—Vice chairman, H. R. Armstrong; D. D Anderson, J. B. Helmick, Herman L. Hartenstein, H. L. Dresser.

Municipal committee—W. B. Patton, chairman; L. D. Campbell, Right Rev. J. D. Morrison, Judge W. A. Cant, R. E. Denfeld, E. W. Bohannon, Herbert L. Warren, George A. French.

Agricultural, drainage and good roads—Right Rev. James McGolrick, vice chairman; C. B. Church, Edward Hazen, J. D. Park, John Jeswold, jr., A. L. Agatin.

Transportation—Ward Ames, chairman; F. A. Patrick, C. T. Fairbairn, Frank E. House, E. C. Blanchard, R. L. Powell, John McAlpine, J. H. McLean.

Harbor, waterways and docks—Alexander McDougall, vice chairman; L. C. Harris, O. H. Simonds, C. T. Fitzsimmons, W. A. McGonagle, J. A. Ferguson.

Needs Home of Its Own.

Mr. Hugo, on accepting the chairmanship, spoke of matters relating to the general welfare of the city, saying, among other things, that the Commercial club is in need of a home of its own. He remarked upon the efforts of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. in getting buildings of their own, and said when the work of these organizations is completed the Commercial body should step into the field and see to it that a proper building for housing the organization, with its rapidly increasing membership, be erected. Davenport, Iowa, a city much smaller than Duluth, was described as having a three-story building owned by the Commercial club.

The speaker dwelt upon the oratorio season next week, and recommended that members lend their assistance to make the season a success.

He spoke in the highest terms of Horace W. Rayner, saying all his promotion work has been done without hope of reward.

Help the Range Towns.

Mr. Hugo suggested that Duluth do all she can to boost the interests of the range towns, and said it would be a great factor in the upbuilding of Duluth if this city will always maintain the most friendly possible relations with the towns on the range. It was argued that a big delegation of Duluth business men should visit the Hibbing fair this year.

Another matter mentioned as being of deep interest to the city is the coming of the government board of survey to look over the harbor. Mr. Hugo suggested that the committee with that work in hand meet the government men on their visit here and do all possible to secure any needed changes that will be of benefit to the harbor and vessel interests.

"I am sure," said the chairman, "that the government representatives in this matter will be able to see that the interests of this section are really the interests of the whole country. We all want to do all that is possible to promote the industries of this neighborhood."

High Rents Discussed.

High rents in Duluth were given attention by the speaker, who said it was useless to deny that rents were high. Statements that ther are not are not borne out by analysis, he said. Ward Ames, according to Mr. Hugo, has said he would be glad to co-operate with any others for the purpose of erecting houses for workingmen, with a purpose of renting them out at reasonable rates. Low house rents, remarked Mr. Hugo, are one of the greatest inducements the city could hold out to new industries.

"One reason that the industrial division of this committee has been separated," said the chairman, "is that not only do we have to secure such industries, which is promotion, but they have to be aided in development. We must get down to earth when we come into competition with other cities in securing factories, and that is one reason why it is necessary to keep living expenses here down to the lowest possible notch. It is a matter wholly within ourselves and for our own regulation."

W. A. McGonagle made a few remarks, beginning by saying that with such a leader as Mr. Hugo it would be a pleasure to work for the benefit of the city. He expressed the belief that the city is on the eve of an industrial awakening that has no limit. The steel plant that is coming can, by proper work, be followed by a steel car works, and then by a locomotive works. Duluth, he said, can be made a distributing point of very great importance, not only for merchandise, but for many industrial products.

The remarkable amount of good work done by the club during the last three years was referred to by P. S. Anneke. The success of much of this work he attributed to the efficiency of Chairman Hugo, for the collections amounted to less than $5,000 a year. He expressed his sincere pleasure at Mr. Hugo's re-election, saying the personal sacrifices and willingness of the chairman in his work in this connection were an inspiration to others. He hoped for a more liberal amount of money to carry out work planned by the committee in the future.

Duluth's bright future was further dwelt upon by George Rupley and George H. Crosby. The latter expressed the belief that the coming of the steel plant means a settlement of freight rates and the making of a desirable location here for many subsidiary enterprises. B. Silberstein made the prediction that in ten years Duluth will outstrip the Twin Cities. He said investments in manufacturing enterprises and industries along this line are as desirable as the best copper stocks.

Bishop McGolrick spoke particularly of the good roads movement. He said everything possible should be done to help along the movement. Rents and vegetables come high here, he asserted, but other things in Duluth are on a parity with other cities.

L. C. Harris, after dwelling on the strategic position of the city, proposed a toast, with water, to the bishop for his good work in bringing about a settlement of the recent strike. Mr. Magner expressed his thanks to the members present for his election to the president's chair.

Judge W. A. Cant urged next week's oratorio and the beautifying of the city as much-needed factors in the stand for better civilization, saying that the erection of buildings and the pushing of new enterprises is not all that is desirable. "Our great usefulness," he said, "lies not only in our activity, but in being always right."

WHEAT TAKES BIG JUMP

though higher temperatures are said to be probable by Monday.

Dispatches from Winnipeg were that seeding in that section of Canada was temporarily stopped, and that it would not be possible to do any planting before Monday. It was stated that not over 15 per cent of the total amount of seeding has so far been done in Manitoba.

From Kansas came reports covering ninety-one counties in the state, declaring that the condition of the wheat crop there was 1½ points below the government crop report. This estimate was based on statistics collected later than those upon which the government report was based.

The publication of the Michigan crop, giving the condition in that state, 75 against 83 on April 1, aided largely in causing the higher prices.

A renewal of the heavy realizing sales set in about 11 o'clock, and prices declined 1c, July falling off to 90½c and September to 92½c. The general market, however, was still strong.

The market closed strong with July over 3¼ cents up at from 91⅝ to 93¾ cents per bushel.

New York, May 11.—Amid further excitement in the local pit this morning, the bulls made an enthusiastic effort to get dollar wheat. They lifted July to 98⅞ cents, but encountered heavy selling for profits. Sensationally strong responses were made by foreign markets, especially the continent, owing to bad conditions in Russia and Hungary. The day's gain represents 5 to 6 cents per bushel since the crop report of yesterday.

VENEZUELA SETTLES UP DEBT TO ALLIED POWERS.

Washington, May 11.—The state department today received a dispatch from William W. Russell, American minister to Venezuela, that the payments to the allied powers—Germany, Great Britain and Italy—agreed on under the blockade several years ago, would be completed about July 1 and after that date the only payments would be on account of the exchanges in the currency of the countries. The deferred claimants, the United States, Mexico, the Netherlands, Sweden and Belgium, will then come in for settlement. Monthly payments will be made to these countries from the customs receipts of Venezuela.

NEW MYSTERY IN MARVIN CASE

Bottle Found in Marsh Contains Names of Four Men.

Dover, Del., May 11.—When the coroner's jury assembled today to begin its investigation into the mysterious death of Horace Marvin, Jr., the supposed kidnaped boy, Juror Robert O. Wilson reported an unusual discovery made by him yesterday, when in company with several others, he visited the place where the boy's body had been found.

Desiring to obtain a sample of the water, in order to ascertain if it was fresh or salt, this being considered important in connection with the matter of the condition of the boy's body, he looked for a whisky bottle, which he remembered having seen in the pond last Sunday. He found the bottle, and on opening it found inside a piece of paper, on which was written the names: "James Sylvester, John Burns, John Smith, Robert Passwaters," also the date "March 10, 1907."

The boy disappeared on March 4. Juror Wilson turned the bottle and its contents over to Attorney General Richards and the latter will investigate.

SATURDAY MEETING FOR CABINET QUITE EVENT.

Washington, May 11.—Quite an unusual event—a cabinet meeting on Saturday—occurred at the White House today, the meeting having been postponed from yesterday, the regular week end cabinet day. All the members were present except Secretary Wilson, who is in the West, and Secretary Metcalf, who escorted the foreign naval and military officials now visiting Washington to Mount Vernon on the yacht Mayflower.

MAYOR HEEDS WARNING.

Yekaterinoslav, Russia, May 11.—The mayor of this city, M. Azau, having received a second warning that he has been sentenced to death by the reactionary organization on account of his liberal opinions, has determined to resign.

SEAT SALE HEAVY.

May Festival is Assured of Excellent Patronage.

The advance sale of seats for the May festival of music, which is being conducted at Chamberlain & Taylor's book store, has been sufficiently heavy to prove beyond all doubt that the enterprise will be an unqualified success, and that the First Methodist church will be well filled at all three entertainments.

There are still some good seats left, but they are being rapidly disposed of, and at the present rate the reserved seats will all be sold before Monday night.

NAUGHTY PETE STEALS CLERK'S TROUSER LEG.

Washington, May 11.—Pete, the bulldog, President Roosevelt's prize bull terrier and special commissioner to keep suspicious characters, newspaper corespondents and incessant secretaries of the interior out of the White House grounds, chewed up an unoffending government clerk after giving him a run through the grounds that rivaled the famous chase of Pete after Ambassador Jusserand.

The clerk was John T. Thomas, employed in the navy department. He was injured severely and was placed under treatment of Dr. Joseph M. Keller.

Complications are likely, as the dog's condition is said to be problematical.

All this happened about 9 o'clock in the morning. Pete was not officially on duty, his patrol of the White House grounds being a night one. Since he was on duty a few nights ago, Secretary Garfield has not been there at night, and the newspaper correspondents who have had to go to the executive offices after dark have been chosen from among the fleetest runners in the press gallery. The chase between Pete and Thomas was a long one, but Thomas succeeded in reaching a friendly tree and was swarming up it when Pete got him. Pete also held him. The White House police force arrived in a body, forty strong, for the purpose of releasing the unfortunate clerk.

Thomas limped into the navy department with one trouser leg on and the other missing.

Last night Pete was not on duty and it is said he has been chained up as a punishment for his error in identity.

PLANS FOR PLANT ARE SUBMITTED

Building Inspection to Pass on Clyde Iron Works Plans.

The Clyde Iron Works company this morning submitted the plans for their big new plant to be erected near the ore docks to Building Inspector Kelley for his approval and the permit will probably be taken out next week.

The plans provide for a plant consisting of eight buildings, a foundry, machine shop, warehouse, pattern shop, cleaning shop, blacksmith shop, tool house, and log loader shop, and the buildings will extend over nearly two blocks of space, from Twenty ninth to Thirty-first avenues west between Michigan and Huron streets.

The foundry is the largest of the buildings measuring 90x180 feet and being one story high, with provision for a big traveling crane with a forty-foot span running down the middle of the building.

The machine shop will be a two and one-half story building, 90x140 feet, located on the eastern portion of the property, and the warehouse, which is of extra heavy construction on account of the great weight of machinery which it is expected to contain, will be two stories high and 70x90 feet in size.

The pattern shop, to be located on the southeast corner of the property at the corner of Twenty-ninth avenue west and Huron street, will be two stories high and 90x90 feet square. The blacksmith shop will be a big one-story affair, 50x200 feet in size, and the plans provide for a most complete equipment in this department. The tool house is to be a three-story structure, 50x80 feet, and the big shop, where the log loaders are to be manufactured, will be one story high and 80x160 feet in size. All the buildings will be thoroughly fire-proof.

Proclamation!

Citizens of Duluth:

I most earnestly request every citizen of Duluth to co-operate with the city authorities in their efforts to make our city clean. I appeal to the ministry, to the school teachers, very specially to the ladies' organizations, to the real estate exchanges—in fact, to every individual in the city, to do something to bring about this much desired condition.

It has been a cold spring and we have been delayed in our work, but with the enthusiastic co-operation of everyone, I believe we may be able to bring about a much better condition. The reasons for making this appeal must be apparent to all, and I trust it will meet with a hearty response. I therefore suggest that Monday, May 13th, be devoted to this work.

Yours,

M. B. CULLUM,
Mayor.

MYSTERY IN FINDING OF CHILD'S MUTILATED ARM

Officer Shannon Makes Gruesome Discovery on Fourth Street.

Murder Seems to be the Only Possible Explanation.

One of the most gruesome finds that has ever been reported to the police department was made by Officer Shannon on East Fourth street this morning. It was, or more correctly had been, the arm and hand of a child about 8 or 9 years of age and it was lying near the curb between Fifth and Sixth avenue east. The flesh was almost entirely off the bones of the arm down to the wrist, but the flesh of the hand was fairly well preserved though covered with dirt and mutilated. The condition of the flesh of the hand would indicate that the flesh from the rest of the member had been stripped off by force.

The gruesome relic could not have lain in the street for a very long time before being discovered, at least not longer than since last night, and the police are sure that it would not have been there yesterday.

How it came there is a mystery that is as yet far from solution. No child has as yet been reported as missing, and the motive which would induce the murderers of an 8-year-old child to strew the limbs haphazard about the streets of the city is hard to understand.

The flesh of the arm was so mutilated as to give but little evidence as to whether it had been hacked with a knife or had been torn away by some other means.

Any other solution than that the little one had been made away with by foul means and a rather bungling attempt made to hide the traces of the crime seems rather improbable. It is hard to imagine any other motive which would induce any one to hack or tear to pieces the body of a dead child.

The police will make a rigid investigation of the affair, but unless some new clue is found either in the shape of other portions of the little dismembered body or through some other means, it is doubtful whether anything can be learned about it.

Walker's copper letter in Saturday's Boston Commercial says:

"Confidence in the copper situation seems to have been restored. Lake copper is still held by producers at 25½ to 26 cents, and electrolytic at 25¼ cents per pound. A great many consuming interests are making inquiries and preparing to buy their July supply of copper. It is reported that some considerable sales of lake have been made at 26 cents, and electrolytic at 25¼ cents this week, but confirmation is so far lacking. There are some moderate lots of cash copper in the hands of small producers, and they report that they are receiving no bids. This reflects the absolute stagnation which prevails. As soon as one or two of the large consumers make contracts, however, a great deal of business will be done.

"There is now no prospect that the price of copper will be reduced. Should consumers decide not to purchase for any farther advance delivery than July, producers will still maintain prices. The market will not be offered down until there is an actual surplus of metal in existence, and there is no prospect that a real surplus will accumulate for several months to come.

"While it is quite probable that the price of copper will settle down to a somewhat lower level toward the end of this year or the first of next, there is no possibility that copper will decline in a decade to the low prices of a few years ago. Electrical development will be too rapid too extended to permit a copper surplus to accumulate.

"Twenty years ago an amount equal to 25 per cent to 40 per cent of the current annual copper production was always piled up in smelter yards and storehouses, in transit and in speculative hands. At present it is estimated that not more than 5 per cent of a year's output of refined, ready-to-use copper exists outside of consumers bins. In 1901, when copper declined to 10½ cents, there was a total surplus of over 400,000,000 pounds, or nearly half a year's world's output. Notwithstanding this surplus and the subsequent tremendous increase in production, all the available copper has been absorbed and the price has advanced to 26 cents. Of course, a direct reversal of these conditions is utterly impossible."

INVITATIONS RECEIVED.

Duluth Asked to Send Delegates to National Conventions.

He has expressed a desire to comply with these requests and if there are any citizens of Duluth anxious to attend either of these conventions they can do so in an official capacity by communicating with the mayor.

BLACK HAND ITALIANS GIVEN YEAR EACH IN JAIL.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., May 11.—The eleven Italians who were last Monday convicted of "black hand" crimes after a trial lasting two weeks, were today sentenced to one year each in the Luzerne county jail and to pay a fine of $25 each and the cost of prosecution.

The judge in sentencing the prisoners said he could impose the maximum penalty of two years, but as the defendants were strangers in the country and unfamiliar with the laws he had not a desire to inflict the extreme penalty, but would give them another opportunity to redeem themselves and become better citizens.

SUPERIOR NEWS

BREAK JAIL IN SUPERIOR

Alleged Robber and Young Thief Escape From County Lockup.

Hole Dug at Place Where They Escaped in 1905.

By knocking out bricks in the jail wall until a hole large enough to permit the passage of a man had been effected, James McCauley, awaiting trial on a charge of highway robbery, and Frank Jones, alias Neil Grant, made their escape from the county jail in Superior last night and are still at large. Jones was being held pending the arrival of an officer from the Green Bay reformatory, to which he had been sentenced by Judge Smith on Tuesday for petty larceny.

The hole showed that it must have been completed within twenty-four hours and it had evidently been done with the aid of a case knife. A number of plumbers and painters had been at work in the jail previous to the escape, a newspaper painted brown, the same as the wall of the jail, was found near at hand. It is thought that the prisoners fastened this over the hole in the wall at night.

All the other seven prisoners denied knowing anything of the plans of McCauly and Jones, but the jail authorities are confident that they do know. The reason that it is believed that the work was done within the twenty-four hours previous to the escape is that the paper showed that it had only been stuck over the hole once.

Two years ago two men made their escape from the jail in exactly the same portion of the wall. At that time they did not have the means of concealment which was afforded to Jones and McCauly by the pot of paint left inside the jail and they did the job quicker, digging through the wall between the visits of the warden.

The first intimation that the jail officials had of the escape was when John Lee, awaiting trial on a robbery charge, met Jailor Stone as he was coming into the jail to lock up, and excitedly informed him of it. Not fifteen minutes before the men had been seen in the hall, so they did not have much of a start before Sheriff Byrd, a couple of deputies and a police officer were scouring the surrounding country. The getaway was very cleverly managed, however, and up to this morning a rather indefinite clew as to the direction which the men are said to have taken, is all that had been secured.

McCauly is charged with a most brutal assault and robbery. He is said to have felled Charles Mast to the ground with a heavy stick by coming up behind and dealing him a terrific blow on top of the head and then to have taken his watch. Jones stole several pair of trousers from a Superior clothing store last week.

The police have sent out the following descriptions of the jail breakers:

McCauly—5 feet 4¾ inches in height; medium stout, brown hair, weight 170 pounds, gray eyes, smooth face and dark medium complexion.

Jones—24 years old; 5 feet 7⅞ inches in height, slim build, weight 135 pounds, light brown hair, blue eyes, smooth face and fair complexion.

The men in the jail continue their assertions that the work was done without their knowledge though the authorities say this is hardly possible. Lee, the prisoner who reported the matter, said he went into their cell to borrow a pack of cards, and, after looking vainly for the men, noticed the hole in the wall and reported the matter as soon as possible.

ARREST BLIND MAN.

John Burlisk, Loaded Down With Money, Was Very Drunk.

John Burlisk was arraigned in municipal court this morning on an assault charge. His trial was set for next Wednesday and he was released on cash bail of $50. Burlisk's is one of the queerest cases, with which the Superior police have had to deal in a long time. He is blind, but when arrested in the nether world district yesterday afternoon, he had a comfortable package. He is about 59 years of age, but is sprightly and manages to get around, although slightless.

When searched at the police station, Burlisk's pockets were found to contain a miscellaneous assortment of papers, books, trinkets and toys, besides about $250 in money, of which $2 or $3 were in pennies. The complaining witness is Annie Hanson.

GIRL ON STAND.

Tells Story of Assault Made Upon Her.

Little Josephine Mahalak, the 8-year-old girl who is the complaining witness in the assault case against George Fraser, who was arrested last week, went on the stand today to tell her story of the case.

The child was home from school at noon. Her parents, who live in the upper part of the house in which Fraser occupied the lower floor, were out, and she told the Judge that Fraser came upstairs and committed the act with which he is charged.

The case will not be completed until late this afternoon.

CLEANING DAY

Is Being Well Observed by Superior Citizens.

Today is cleaning day in Superior and it is being well observed.

The mayor issued a proclamation requesting all citizens to observe the day, and in all parts of the city property owners are removing the unsightly piles of ashes and rubbish.

Assembly Meeting.

The meeting held at the Commercial club last evening for the purpose of establishing a permanent chatauqua assembly in Superior, was well attended. No definite action was taken, but the committee appointed to draw up a constitution reported, and it was decided to call another meeting next Tuesday evening to take final action.

USED GILL NET.

W. O. Kronland Fined for Violating the Game Laws.

Charged with using a gill net while fishing on the Pokegame river, W. O. Kronland was arraigned in the municipal court this morning, and entered a plea of guilty. He was fined $25 and costs. His brother was arraigned on the same charge, but claimed he was only cutting bait, and was released by the court.

WANT PAVING SWEPT.

Second Street Residents Complain of Condition of Pavement.

To the Editor of The Herald: The mayor evidently forgot something in his excellent proclamation to the citizens of the city to clean up their back yards and alleys. He should have directed the board of public works to sweep the paved portion of Second street and keep it swept. The majority of the citizens are willing and glad to keep their premises clean, but they want to see the city do its share. Second street was paved last year and it has never been swept. When the paving was finished a layer of fine rock was put on for surfacing, to be ground down and fill in the interstices. This was most successfully pulverized, and mixed with the accumulations of winter and has formed a coating about two inches deep that is a menace to the health and comfort of those living or passing on the street. The slightest wind blows the fine dust into the lungs and fills the rooms of any house where the windows are left open. A few weeks ago when the heavy windstorm prevailed on Sunday, it was impossible to see across the street. When it rains or the street sprinklers deposit an unusual amount of water in any spot, there is mud, which is tracked everywhere and is entirely unnecessary. Second street has a good pavement and should be swept once at least, so that the people could see what they paid for.

BRITAIN'S "WATER NYMPH" COMES TO TEACH SWIMMING

Front-Back Dive

Miss Annette Kellermann Ready For A Dive

New York, May 8.—Miss Annette C. Kellerman, a champion woman swimmer of England, and hailed as a born water nymph, is staying at the Fifth Avenue hotel with her father, having arrived on the steamship Celtic from Southampton. Miss Kellerman comes here, literally speaking, to get "Into the swim." For the one thing that Miss Kellerman prides herself upon is her power to execute graceful curves and angles in diving from a dizzy height into shallow water, deep water or any kind of water.

The young woman comes from Australia, and has been an expert swimmer since she was 14 years of age. That was, well—it was not so very long ago, for Miss Annetta has hardly escaped her teens. Before her fourteenth birthday she was a swimmer, too, although she had not then won the many championships that she can now boast of, and she had not, at that tender age, tried to swim the English channel. Miss Annetta would have crossed the channel had it not been for mal-de-mer.

Her mission here is to demonstrate to the American women, who are desirous of being expert swimmers, the science of back dives, somersault dives, double back dives, fancy swiming and under waterstrokes. She is to give a private exhibition of her prowess in this city before she continues her travels Westward.

Before she returns to Australia she may decide to swim many of the great American rivers, including the New York bay. She will tackle the Mississippi, the Hudson, the Missouri and the Rio Grande. She may even try to swim from the Narrows to Coney Island, and she will undoubtedly have a try at the St. Lawrence. She will not, however attempt to navigate Niagara Falls. That feat she characterizes as a "trick swim."

Miss Kellerman is regarded as a perfect speciment of womanhood. Her father says she is a "bundle of nerves." Her animation put everybody in good humor aboard the Celtic when the great liner was held up by the fog within sight of New York, for nearly forty-eight hours.

Miss Kellerman holds the English coast swimming record of twenty miles from Dover to Ramsgate, having covered the distance in four hours and twenty-eight minutes. She also holds the world's 100 yard record of 1:14.

Here is Miss Kellerman's prescription to American women who would be athletic and healthy:

Don't overeat and eat good, wholesome food regularly.

Don't be lazy, but take plenty of good, easy exercise without tiring yourself out.

Go to bed early and regularly and rise early. If you live in the country walk a mile or two before breakfast. If you live in the city, walk around the block a few times before sitting down to your first meal.

Be as cheerful as you can, forget all about your troubles, real or imaginary, and laugh as much as you can. Laughter will take all the bad microbes out of your system and put in their place only the health giving, strength providing germs.

MARINE NEWS

SIGNALS ON ALL BOATS

Submarines Are Being Adopted by Lake Vessel Owners.

Captain Allen of Steamer Rensselaer is Very Optimistic.

Capt. S. C. Allen, master of the steamer Rensselaer of the Pittsburg Steamship company, is one of the enthusiastic advocates of the new submarine signal system, which is being adopted by his company and also by a number of the other lake lines. Capt. Allen has been in Duluth since Tuesday, his boat having brought up a cargo of coal. She is now loading ore at the Missabe docks.

The steamer Rensselaer is one of the twelve vessels of the Pittsburg fleet which have already been equipped with the new signals and Capt. Allen is thoroughly familiar with the workings of the submarine apparatus and thinks that all boats on the Great Lakes should be equipped with the receiving signals. He was one of the committee of captains selected by the Pittsburg Steamship company to go to the Atlantic coast and test the submarine signals along the coasts.

The trip of the captains was made in the early part of January and after their arrival at New York the committee embarked upon the steamer H. F. Dimock and sailed along Long Island sound. During the trip several tests were made and from the receiving apparatus on the steamer the bells could be picked up several miles away. The captains were able to tell the location also from the sound of the signals.

Tests were also made along the Atlantic coast and at Boston and proved most satisfactory. In a thick snowstorm the signals could be heard at all times several miles away. At times the signals are heard for a distance of eight miles and in one case off the coast of England one boat picked up the bell for a distance of sixteen miles, but the conditions were very favorable and it was an unusual record.

"I am very much in favor of the submarine signals myself," said Capt. Allen yesterday, "and I think that as soon as the vessel owners become thoroughly familiar with the advantage afforded by a boat being equipped with the receiving apparatus nearly all lake vessels will have them. The government is doing its part by installing them on all the lightships on the lakes and it will not be long before we have some of the bells on Lake Superior.

"The signals installed on the lake boats are not quite the same as those used on ocean boats owing to the difference in the construction of our boats. Our big freighters extend out of the water more than ocean boats when they are light and the position of the receiving apparatus had to be changed somewhat. But the signals placed on the lake boats do just as good service as any.

"In talking with captains of boats on the Atlantic which were equipped with the submarine signals they invariably recommended them strongly to us. I think it will not be long before practically all of the lake boats are equipped with the signals."

WIRELESS ON THE LAKES.

Two Passenger Boats on Lower Lakes Being Equipped.

News comes from the lower lakes that the C. & B. line is making arrangements to equip its boats, the City of Buffalo and the City of Erie, with wireless telegraph plants, so that its patrons may at all times be in instant communication with their interests, no matter where located. It is also an additional safety measure.

This is the first of the transportation companies and vessel owners on the Great Lakes to make use of the wireless system on their boats, but it will not be long before practically all of the lake vessels will be equipped with wireless plants.

The wireless operator on the City of Buffalo will be Terry Towner, who for the past three years has had charge of the station on the battleship Maine and has sent and received many messages for "Fighting Bob" Evans.

Another Captain Suspended.

Buffalo, May 11.—Capt. E. C. Leath of the steamer Northern King of the Mutual line has been suspended by the steamboat inspectors for navigating his ship with an expired certificate of inspection on board, and for not reporting the completion of equipment. This is the second suspension for a similar violation in the same line this spring.

Grounds at Lime Kilns.

Amherstburg, May 11.—The steamer Phillip Minch, upbound, ran on the west bank at the Lime Kilns yesterday afternoon, but was released a few hours later without injury by tugs.

CONDITIONS NO BETTER

Captain McIntyre Reports Much Ice in Thunder Bay.

Tug Philadelphia Tows Steamer Ionic From Port Arthur.

The steamer Ionic, of the Northern Navigation company, arrived in the harbor at 10:30 last evening, having been towed in from Port Arthur by the tug Philadelphia. She has a broken wheel and has been taken to the drydock for repairs.

Capt. Robert McIntyre, master of the Ionic, reports that the ice conditions in Thunder Bay are not yet much improved and it was a hard passage getting out from Port Arthur into the clear water of Lake Superior. He says that there is still plenty of ice in Thunder Bay and also outside between the main land and Isle Royale. The Ionic was stuck fast for three days.

The steamer Huronic which started up the lakes with package freight for Duluth deposited her freight at Port Arthur and returned to the lower lakes. The Ionic loaded the freight and brought it to this city last night. She was unloaded by this morning and was towed over to the drydock, where she will receive a new wheel.

Except for her broken wheel the steamer was not badly damaged when she reached Duluth although the battle with the ice was a pretty tough proposition. The tug Philadelphia is a Sault Ste Marie boat. The Ionic is the first of the Canadian boats to arrive in the Duluth harbor this season.

Bunched at Both Ends.

Cleveland, May 11.—Ore carriers are bunched at both ends of the route, and there is little tonnage on the market at the Head of the Lakes. The grain market was quiet yesterday, and no charters were reported at Duluth or Fort William. All coal docks are filled up with work, and boats that get around today will be held over Sunday. Coal cargoes are offered freely and the supply of tonnage is short of the demand. Coal shipments to date are about the same as last year for the same period, but the movement in other lines is behind that of 1906.

EGAN BOATS REPORTED SOLD

Pittsburg & Erie Coal Company Said to Have Purchased Steamers.

Detroit, May 11.—It is reported that the Pittsburg & Erie Coal company has purchased three of the steamers owned by the Egan estate and managed by Arthur C. Helm of Chicago.

Chicago, May 11.—A. C. Helm yesterday refused to state whether any of the steamers of the Egan fleet had been sold, as reported, although admitting that negotiations for their sale had been in progress. Among vesselmen, however, it was rumored that the four wooden steamers of the fleet, the P. D. Armour, W. M. Egan, John Plankinton and R. P. Fitzgerald, had been sold to go to Erie, although particulars of the sale were lacking.

NO EXTRA CHARGE.

For Passage on Juniata and Tionesta of Anchor Line.

A new feature of the passenger service of the Anchor line has just been announced and will go into effect when the regular passenger schedule begins on May 23. The new feature will be the abolishment of the extra fare previously charged on the steamers Juniata and Tionesta.

These vessels are equipped with the most approved appliances for safety and comfort, perfectly ventilated staterooms, running water, electric lights, palatial dining rooms, social halls, music rooms, libraries, parlors and smoking rooms, and a covered hurricane deck and wide promenade decks extending entirely around the vessels.

Besides these larger vessels the steamer Japan will be in the passenger service.

TWO TUGS DAMAGED.

The Inman and Wisconsin Are Out of Commission.

Two of the tugs of the Union Towing company are out of commission today as the result of accidents while doing towing work about the harbor.

The B. B. Inman, one of the largest tugs at the Head of the Lakes ran upon a shoal while entering one of the Pittsburg coal dock slips and at noon was not yet off the bank. The tug Wisconsin struck a dead head or sunken log while towing a lumber bark into one of the lumber slips yesterday. Her wheel was broken off entirely.

An effort is being made to have a light and spar placed at the point where the first tug went on the bank and later the shoal will be dredged out.

One Charter at Buffalo.

Buffalo, May 11.—Only one charter was reported yesterday—that of the steamer D. R. Hanna, which goes light to Cleveland to load coal for Duluth. The supply of coal here continues light.

Record Unloading Time.

The steamer H. D. Goulder was unloaded in the record-breaking time of twenty hours at the Boston coal dock recently. The big freighter carried 10,500 tons of fuel, and she was unloaded at the rate of about 525 tons a minute. The record is vouched for by Supt. H. M. Carr of the coal dock.

Ireland Leaves Harbor.

The first voyage of the steamer Ireland of the Gilchrist fleet since she was wrecked and towed in to Duluth from the Apostle islands in December was begun last night when she departed from the Duluth harbor with a cargo of ore for the lower lakes. Since coming out of the drydock she is as good as a new boat.

Conestoga Arrives.

The steamer Conestoga, the second boat of the new Duluth & Chicago line to reach this port, arrived in the harbor last evening with a cargo of package freight from Chicago. The third vessel of this line is on her way up from Chicago, while the steamer Alva is making her return trip to that port from Duluth.

General Manager Here.

H. H. Gildersleeve, general manager of the Northern Navigation company, was in Duluth today from Collingwood. This is the first trip he has made to the Head of the Lakes since navigation opened, and his stay will probably be for several days.

The shafts soon reached the tunnel level, and water troubles were again encountered. After months of investigation, it was determined to drive a deep drainage tunnel, which would drain the camp at great depth.

The cost of such an undertaking approximates $1,000,000, but the mine-owners, the citizens of Colorado and the railroads and smelters joined forces and contributed to the raising of the fund, and today the work was formally inaugurated.

The portal of the tunnel is located on the stream known as Cripple creek, and is situated at an elevation of 8,020 feet above sea level. It will drain the entire Cripple Creek district at a depth of about 1,330 feet from the surface, or 730 feet below the present water level. The district is drained at present by the El Paso tunnel, which cuts the El Paso mine on the west side of the district (on Beacon Hill), at a depth of about 600 feet from the surface, and the Vindicator mine, on the east side of the camp, at a depth of 1,275 feet. It will therefore be seen that the tunnel will drain the Beacon Hill section at a depth of about 1,330 feet and the east side at a depth of about 2,000 feet from the surface. The new tunnel will therefore make available all the way from 700 to 1,200 feet of additional ore bodies below the present water level and this will add millions in production.

The length of this tunnel from its portal to the main contact near the El Paso shaft, at which point it begins to drain the district, is about 14,000 feet, and, figuring at the rate of $50 per foot, it will cost $700,000 to this point. To continue it to the Vindicator, a further distance of about 12,000 feet, as estimated, will cost an additional $360,000. It is figured that it will take about two years to dig to the contact and between one and one-half to two years longer to build the tunnel to the Vindicator shaft.

The Cripple Creek district has thus far produced more than $200,000,000. During 1906 the production was nearly $17,000,000, and this rate of production has been steadily maintained for years. It is estimated that the driving of the deep drainage tunnel will enable the Cripple Creek district to double its present record.

are still working to secure a settlement of the existing industrial troubles, but their efforts are not attended with much success.

The plan of the United Railroads officials to run a string of cars from the barn at Oak and Broderick, through the burned district and north on Market street to the Ferry building, was vetoed by the police department. As a compromise two cars were run as far into the burned district as Larkin street, on Oak, Stanton, Page, Devisidero and Sutter streets. This route was covered twice. On the first trip mounted police acted as outriders and more than a score of patrolmen rode in automobiles, but no violence was offered. On the second trip the mounted officers were withdrawn as an experiment to determine the temper of the crowds. Missiles were hurled from buildings and several persons were injured.

When the cars passed the Majestic hotel at Sutter and Gough streets, in the first trip yesterday afternoon, women threw armsful of flowers from the window of the hostelry into the street. They were picked up and distributed among the unarmed strikebreakers operating the two cars. At various points citizens stood up in automobiles and wagons and cheered the non-union men lustily, clapped their hands and waved their hats. The men acknowledged these salutes by touching their caps. Hundreds of women appeared at windows and upon doorsteps and waved handkerchiefs to the carmen. On Oak street, near Lyon, the driver of a loaded brewery wagon showed signs of the purpose to blockade the cars. He was clubbed and put to rout.

On the second trip at Devisdero and McAllister streets, three carpenters at work on a building, hurled bricks from upper stories. Three of the missiles struck J. Hosper, a real estate man, who was acting as Capt. Gleason's chauffeur, in the face. Several of his teeth were dislodged and his mouth was cut. Another of the bricks hit Officer J. M. Murphy on the nose. He bled profusely. The procession of cars and automobiles was halted for half an hour while police raided the building. They caught, clubbed and arrested the three union carpenters. At Shrader and Oak streets a brick was hurled from a building in course of erection and struck Chief Timekeeper F. M. Maynard on the wrist. The officers searched the building, but were unable to find the assailant.

The telephone situation shows some alleviation according to the company officials, but the operators on strike deny that there has been any secession from their ranks. The iron and laundryworkers' strike are unchanged.

No further fatalities have been reported among the victims of Tuesday's riot. The condition of Palm, who was shot in the head, is still precarious and his recovery is considered doubtful. All of the others are doing fairly well.

BIG CREWS IN CONTEST

umbia's crew is composed of new men and is the first eight turned out by Rice, the new coach. The crew so far as actual racing is concerned is an unknown quantity.

Today's event was regarded as an important try-out for each eight, and likely to settle the uncertain positions for the later and more important events in which the crews are to engage—Harvard at Ithaca with Cornell, and later at New London against Yale, and Columbia for the big annual regatta on the Hudson at Poughkeepsie.

Julian W. Curtis, who is prominently identified with Yale, was selected as referee.

The make-up of the crews as announced before the race was:

Harvard: Stroke, Tappan; 7, Amberg; 6, Glass; 5, Richardson; 4, Bacon; 3, Severance; 2, Fish; bow, Burchard; coxswain, Blagden.

Columbia: Stroke, Corrussi; 7, Boyle; 6, Starbuck; 5, Von Saltza; 4, Mackenzie; 3, Spalding; 2, Jordan; bow, Sneveley; coxswain, Winslow.

The weather during the morning was disagreeable, with a raw easterly rain.

as offering a hope that negotiations can be begun.

It was strongly hinted by participants in the meeting of the representatives o fthe steamships, which issued an ultimatum to the strikers, that the strikers could not hold out much longer, because they had no strike fund. But the strikers presented an undaunted front and rely as a last resort upon sympathetic strikes by unions affiliated with theirs.

Meantime the ocean freight carrying business is all but demoralized, and the monetary losses are becoming enormous. Railroads, it is reported, are beginning to refuse freight billed to this port, and the big exporting houses are showing signs of decided uneasiness, inanmuch as they stand liable to have to store and pay for freight refused by steamship companies. The railroads also are in a predicament, as tons of freight, especially of grain consigned for shippers from here, are traveling to New York, and the congestion here is already so great that it is a question what shall be done with these incoming goods. European houses are flooding firms here with inquiries about expected shipments of grain.

General Manager Gerbercht of the Havemeyer Sugar Refining company in Williamsburg has delivered to the 2,000 Polish and Lithuamian striking laborers the company's ultimatum, offering a compromise rate of pay, meeting the demands of the strikers half way, and, in the event of their not accepting, threatening to close the works, throwing between 5,000 and 6,000 men out of work.

IOWA TEACHERS START A STRIKE

Movement for Better Wages or No School Progress.

Des Moines, May 11.—Iowa is threatened with an uprising of women that will totally eclipse the woman suffrage movement in London or any other feminine crusade. In this case, however, it is an uprising of school teachers. The demand for better wages is the warcry.

In many sections of the state teachers are actually striking. Schools are closed from sheer necessity. Schoolma'ams absolutely refuse to teach unless the meager salaries now allotted them are advanced to a point somewhere near commensurate to the work they are forced to do, and to the cost of modern-day living.

The teachers in the Burlington schools are up in arms. They threaten to quit teaching unless their salaries are raised. Moreover, they are appealing to other teachers in near-by cities and asking that they join in the movement for more money.

The rural schools in Crawford county were forced to close because no teachers would preside. At Denison the teachers in the county held a mass meeting and passed resolutions which made the directors sit up and take notice. A similar outburst occurred at Stratford. At Ida Grove the teachers have organized and have sent out a circular letter asking teachers in all parts of Iowa to join in the movement.

Gradually the movement is spreading. And it is no joke. The women mean business. Every county superintendent in the state is losing sleep because of the shortage of teachers, and the outlook at present is that it is only a question of a few months until rural schools throughout Iowa will be scarce as hen's teeth.

HONEYMOON HAS ENDED THE JOHNSON ROMANCE.

New York, May 11.—Little more than six weeks after their romantic marriage, Signor Frederico Mariani and his bride, the former Bessie Johnson, daughter of Mayor Tom L. Johnson of Cleveland, have ended their honeymoon by separating. Mariani is back in his old bachelor quarters, and has been there for more than a week, and the management of the Stratford house, on East Thirty-second has not seen and knows of no Mr. Mariani.

Just what occurred that led the couple to put an abrupt end to their honeymoon is a mystery.

It is known, however, that their friends have done everything they could to prevent the parting, and that Mayor Johnson himself has been in this city for this purpose.

The bride's mother is in a private sanitarium. It was reported she had first came to this city to prevent the estrangement of her daughter and son-in-law, and that she was so much affected by her inability to do this that she broke down.

A romance of Monte Carlo was that of Bessie Johnson and Mariani, who is a member of an old Tuscan family, which now has a residence at Milan, Italy.

The Italian is neither titled nor wealthy, but he has a manner and more of looks than are granted to most men, even of a race so often handsome. He was dribbling a few francs at the gilded tables of the greatest gambling place in the world.

ELECTRIC LIGHT

Within Reach of All

THERE was a time, and not so very long ago, when only the rich could enjoy the advantages of the electric light for home illumination. That time has passed and today the dweller in a modest cottage enjoys in this particular the same comfort and convenience as his more fortunate neighbor in the mansion. All of this has become possible by the wonderful improvements made in mechanical appliances for generating and harnessing the electric current. These improvements have necessarily lessened the cost of production, which naturally cheapens the product to the consumer. In this connection we wish to call your attention to the fact that on September 1st last, we put a new rate into effect, which means to the smaller user a reduction of about 40 per cent. The maximum rate for lighting now being 8 cents net per 1,000 watt hours—this is less than one-half a cent per hour for a 16-candlepower lamp. One 16-candlepower lamp consumes 60 watts per hour, which at 8 cents per 1,000 watts would amount to 48-100 cents per hour, or less than one-half cent.

Example: If you burned one 16-candlepower lamp ten hours at the old rate of 13½ cents it would amount to 8 1-10 cents. At the new rate, 8 cents, it would amount to 4 8-10 cents, which means a reduction of over 40 per cent.

This reduction in rates makes possible the use of electricity, for lighting, in every home in Duluth. From the view point of sanitation, economy, convenience, beauty and safety, it is truly the ideal, and consequently the most desirable light.

We have a few electric flat irons left. These are one of the many modern electrical household conveniences, and once used, never given up. If necessary, we make connections.

CENTRAL WILL BEGIN WORK WITHIN TWO WEEKS

A party of Wisconsin Central officials, consisting of E. F. Potter, general superintendent; F. E. Signe, general freight agent; A. J. Van Valkenburg, superintendent of transportation, and C. N. Kalk, chief engineer, arrived in the city on a special car today. They will probaly remain here only until tonight.

When seen this morning they claimed their visit here at this time bears no special significance, saying it was merely to allow them an opportunity to keep in touch with the situation as regards this end of the Wisconsin Central extension to the Head of the Lakes. Officials of the line will be frequent visitors in Duluth from now until the completion of the line.

The first actual construction work on the road on this side of the bay will be started before the end of the month, probably in about two weeks. The beginning will be in the way of grading in the West end. It is expected that general work along the survey in Duluth will be well under way by the first of July.

The most important piece of work on this side of the bay will be getting through the rocks in the vicinity of Twelfth avenue west. The contract for this particular piece has not yet been awarded, but different parties are now preparing bids to submit to the proper officials, and the contract should be awarded within the next four or five weeks, or possibly sooner.

WONDERFUL ADVENTURE

Mrs. Suech Was Aboard Maltke in Great Ocean Upheaval.

Steamer Seemed to be Dropping Into Bottomless Pit.

Mrs. Frank Suech, 329 Fifth avenue west, whose husband is the proprietor of a restaurant on Superior street, has porbably had an experience on the Atlantic ocea which no one else in the world, except those who were on the same boat, has ever been through.

Mrs. Suech just arrived this week from Europe and was on board the Atlantic liner Maltke at the time the vessel was in the big storm recorded in the papers several weeks ago. There was an upheaval, apparently, at the bottom of the ocean and for a time it seemed as though the big ship would be swallowed in an apparently bottomless hole in the ocean.

The Maltke left Genoa with Mrs. Suech and four of her children aboard, about three weeks ago. They stopped at Naples and it was not until two days after their departure from that port that the storm was encountered. They were at that time almost in midocean. Mrs. Suech says that even though she has crossed the Atlantic six times, she has never before seen anything like the awfulness of the situation during the last trip.

She says that the boat all at once seemed to be dropping down into a bottomless pit in the ocean. It went down so far that the water on each side loomed up like a mountain, and all on board thought that the boat would founder every minute. All at once, however, it seemed to stop suddenly and begin to shake and tremble.

Gradually the hollow trough in the ocean resumed its normal condition, though it was over eighteen hours before the heavy sea became calm again. The water in the cabins in which Mrs. Suech and her family made their quarters was over a foot deep troughout this period.

The sailors and boatmen, from the captain down, had never seen anything like the storm encountered, and none of them ever thought the boat would live through it. Sailors and passengers could do nothing but weep and cry aloud in their terror for hours. Everyone was seasick, says Mrs. Suech, even the mariners who had been on the ocean for many years.

WITNESSES DID NOT SHOW UP

Attorney and Judge Indulge in Tilt in Municipal Court.

Warren E. Green, attorney for Marie Moore, a resident of the Tenderloin district, who was to have been tried in the municipal court this morning on a grand larceny charge, got into a rather warm little tilt with Judge Cutting.

The two principal witnesses for the state, Walter Russell and Angus McDonald, failed to show up, though they had promised yesterday afternoon to be on hand, and County Attorney Norton asked for a postponement. Mr. Green at once jumped to his feet and moved for a dismissal, inasmuch as the defendant was ready for trial and the state was remiss. He said he did not think that the woman should be kept in custody any longer.

"I do not think the court can dismiss this case," said Judge Cutting. "Oftentimes witnesses have been tampered with by the defense under similar circumstances or other unavoidable events might have prevented their appearance in court. I think it would be very wrong for the court to dismiss under these conditions."

"Do I understand your honor to imply that the witnesses have been tampered with in this case?" demanded Green angrily.

"I made no reference to this case or as to whether the witnesses in this special case may or may not have been tampered with," returned the judge. "The case will be postponed until 10 o'clock Monday morning."

The Moore woman is charged with having robbed Russell of nine $5 gold pieces in a St. Croix avenue resort Wednesday night.

CABINET TALKS OF OHIO MATTER

Long Saturday Session Probably Devoted to Party Politics.

Washington, May 11.—The cabinet meeting today lasted from 11 until 1:45 o'clock, an unusually long time. It is believed that the political situation as affected by conditions in Ohio, was thoroughly considered.

None of the members would deny that it was not.

Each one who was asked about the meeting said that it did not relate particularly to business in his department.

The coming conference of Republican state leaders at Columbus on May 15 is causing a great deal of interest in administration circles, and from remarks made by a cabinet officer after the meeting today, the inference is that this came up for a large share of discussion. The position of the Taft people, from what this member of the cabinet said, is believed to be that the presidency and the senatorship in Ohio should be considered separately.

Mr. Taft declined to talk on the subject.

CLEANING DAY MONDAY

Mayor Issues Proclamation and Asks Clergy to Mention It.

Schools Also to Assist in Boosting Cleaning Day Idea.

Clean up! As predicted in last evening's Herald, the mayor today issued his cleaning day proclamation, and Monday, May 13, day after tomorrow, is the day set for the celebration. The proclamation itself appears in another column of the paper.

Some surprise has been expressed that Monday should be the day selected, when the children are confined to school, and the majority of Duith's citizens are kept at their places of business during the greater portion of the day, but the mayor explains this by saying that he set it on Monday so the ministers throughout the city might impress the cleaning day idea upon their congregations at their services tomorrow, thinking that such a course would be the most effective way of impressing the importance of the day upon the citizens.

The Herald make known his desire in this respect to the clergy of the city.

He also sent a request to Supt. Denfeld of the public schools, asking him to give such orders as might be necessary in order to insure the matter being brought before the students of the schools by the teachers Monday, that they might employ their hours out of school during the day in beautifying the city.

"I did not know of the day being set until this morning," said Supt. Denfeld this morning. "We have been cleaning up around the school buildings all spring, and I do not think there will be any need of setting aside an hour for the purpose of cleaning up any of the school yards in the city. I will do what I can, however, to have the teachers impress the importance of the day upon our students."

"My proclamation expresses my feeling on the subject," said the mayor, this morning. "I would like to say, however, that the people will be given a chance to clean up, and after this the board of public works, the health department and the police department will receive instructions to prosecute offenders vigorously."

Dr. Murray is disappointed that the proclamation did not set aside a whole week for the cleaning of the city, as he thinks that more could be accomplished in that way, and points out that on former occasions the fates have shown a strange perversity by ordaining an all day rain on the day set apart by the mayor for the purpose. The health department will do its part during the day to help the good work along, and if the weather is only ordinarily agreeable, indications point to the most successful and effective celebration of Cleaning day in the history of the city.

CHANGE IN FOOD

Works Wonders in Health.

It is worth knowing that a change in food can cure dyspepsia. "I deem it my duty to let you know how Grape-Nuts food has cured me of indigestion.

"I had been troubled with it for years, until last year my doctor recommended Grape-Nuts food to be used every morning. I followed instructions and now I am entirely well.

"The whole family like Grape-Nuts, we use four packages a week. You are welcome to use this testimonial as you see fit."

The reason this lady was helped by the use of Grape-Nuts food, is that it is predigested by natural processes and therefore does not tax the stomach as the food she had been using; it also contains the element required for building up the nervous system. If that part of the human body is in perfect working order, there can be no dyspepsia, for nervous energy represents the steam that drives the engine.

When the nervous system is run down, the machinery of the body works badly. Grape-Nuts food can be used by small children as well as adults. It is perfectly cooked and ready for instant use.

HAVE NOT YET SIGNED

Sheetmetal Workers Claim Bosses Have Not Kept Agreement.

All Other Unions But Electricians Back at Work.

Although it was generally understood by both the unions and the committee of contractors that a settlement had been reached between the sheetmetal workers and the contractors, it has developed this afternoon that the bosses in the sheetmetal business have refused to sign the agreement. Consequently the men are still on strike.

It was claimed by the union men that the contractors had agreed to stand by the settlement reached by the conference committee on Thursday, but have since refused to do so. The settlement was a compromise, the tinners receiving a wage increase to 47½ cents, while their demands had been for 50 cents.

Both sides were represented at the conference as had been agreed before the meeting was called, and the union men do not understand what reason the bosses have for refusing to sign the agreement.

It is claimed that the contractors, aside from these in the sheet metal business, think that the agreement should be lived up to, but until the new scale is signed, the members of the union can not go back to work.

All the other unions, except the electricians, have settled their differences and gone back to work. It is not thought that the trouble between the contractors and the sheet metal workers will precipitate a general strike again.

WARRANTS OUT FOR TEAMSTERS

Dillon Causes Arrests of Drivers Who Break Sidewalks.

The board of public works is going after the drivers who are careless in driving over the city's sidewalks. There have been a number of reports sent in this spring of sidewalks which have been seriously damaged by this altogether too prevalent practice, and a number of warrants are pending for drivers who drive across the city's sidewalks "without first erecting a suitable crossing across said sidewalk."

Andrew Anderson was arrested this morning by Court Officer MacDonald, on a warrant sworn out by Thomas Dillon of the board, and he was fined $5 in municipal court after entering a plea of guilty. Another warrant has already been issued and a number of others may be issued in the near future if any further instances of similar carelessness are reported.

COLUMBIA WINS FROM HARVARD

New York University Crew Captures Race by Half Length.

Boston, May 11.—Columbia defeated Harvard by half a length on the Charles river today in the first race between the two universities in twenty years. The contest was a splendid one from the start, as at no time was open water seen between the shells.

Columbia won by about half a length, over a course of a mile and seven-eights, her time being 9 minutes and 16 seconds. Harvard's time was 9 minutes and 18 seconds. Conditions for the race were not wholly favorable, although the river was not extremely rough, and tidal considerations were satisfactory. The day was a miserable one for any sport, as far as temperature at least was concerned.

BIG COMPANIES OUSTED FROM KANSAS BY COURT.

Topeka, Kas., May 11.—Writs of ouster were issued against the Western Union Telegraph company and the Pullman company here today by the supreme court of Kansas for not complying with the Kansas corporation laws. The ouster requires that the two companies must pay the charter fees required by the state before they can continue to do business in Kansas. It is expected that both companies will appeal to the supreme court of the United States.

POKER DECK SOCKS.

New York Press: The sporting fraternity is being catered to in recent introductions of half-hose which bear embroidered reproductions of the whole suit in playing cards. Even the piker will not be satisfied unless his wardrobe boasts full pack representation, his interpretation of the square deal calling for sox illustrated with clubs, diamonds, hearts and spades.

These novelties had their origin in the brain of a New York importer, who conceived the idea while visiting Monte Carlo. Naturally, the cheap sport will confine his transactions to popular-priced lisle goods, while the affluent sitter-in will favor expensive lines made of silk. The donning of poker half-hose aboard transatlantic liners is translated to mean that the wearer is ready and willing to take a hand at the gaming table.

Some of the more expensive patterns in silks represent all the high hands, and ankles displaying four of a kind, straights, flushes and royal flushes, may be seen everywhere this summer.

A FOUR DECKER SEA PIE.

London Globe: A huge sea pie was served to a party of fifty guests at a feast at Gorleston at which the member for Yarmouth was present.

It was made by an old trawl skipper and weighed a hundredweight and a half. It was a four decker and was boiled in a vast cauldron for several hours. The keel was laid with beef bones and there was a triple bulkhead of short crust, the bunkers being filled with beefsteak and ox kidneys.

There were holds also stored with meat, onions, carrots, turnips and potatoes, and the hull was constructed of a substantial short crust that alone took a stone and a half of flour.

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE.

Saturday Evening Post: Chick Bruce was a famous Adirondack guide who accompanied former President Cleveland one one or two of his hunting trips in those mountains.

Chick left Mr. Cleveland sitting on a log one morning while he went out to drive down a deer should he chance to find one.

When he came back he saw his distinguished employer still sitting on the log, but with the muzzle of his gun pointing directly at the presidential chest.

"Here!" shouted Chick, "quit that, dod gast ye! Supposin' that gun had gone off and had killed yourself, what would have happened to me? Dern ye, everybody knows I'm a Republican!"

STRUCK HIM ON THE HEAD

Man From Duluth Assaulted at Staples by Would-be Robbers.

Is Found Wandering Later in Woods Twenty Miles Away.

Fergus Falls, Minn., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—A man giving his name as Herman Young was found wandering in the woods in the vicinity of Bluffton yesterday and was brought to this city to be examined as to his sanity. He was barefooted, hatless and coatless. The little clothing he had on hung in tatters and his face was frightfully bruised and battered. He was delirious, but seemed to recover, and told a plausible story.

He says he left Duluth to go to the state of Washington, but went to sleep in the station at Staples, where there is a midnight change of cars and a two-hours' wait, and missed his train. He then went up town, took two drinks at a saloon and sat down in a card room in the rear. While in this room someone struck him over the head with the apparent intention of robbing him, and he was somewhat confused as to what followed until he found himself at Bluffton, twenty miles further on.

Papers show that he holds a patent on a freight car coupling, and that he has been in charge of a crew of men in the lumber woods. His home is in Grand Rapids, Mich.

NEW BUILDING

Will be Erected at Fergus Falls for Patients With Contagious Diseases.

Fergus Falls, Minn., May 11.—The board of control has decided to erect a $16,000 building for patients afflicted with contagious diseases at the insane hospital here the coming summer. L. A. Rosing of the board of control and Clarence Johnson, the hospital architect, were in the city this week for the purpose of selecting a site, and work on the building is to begin in a short time.

As the more virulent types of contagious diseases are comparatively rare among the insane, the new building will be used largely to accommodate patients afflicted with tuberculosis, particularly those in the advanced stages of that disease. Tuberculosis is common among the inmates.

BUILDING SPARED.

Robbers Take Safe Into Street Before Blowing it Into Pieces.

Melrose, Minn., May 11.—Robbers blew a safe at New Munich and stole $500 worth of checks. The safe was the property of Joe Rose, a saloonkeeper. It appears that he had taken up various checks from men at work on the Soo right-of-way. The checks were issued by Jacobson & Nelson, contractors, and were payable at the bank at Albany.

The safe was removed from the building into the street and was blown to pieces with dynamite. Mr. Rose had taken all the cash out the evening before, and all the robbers gained as booty were the checks cashed for the Soo workmen and a few creamery checks, amounting in all to about $500.

GOLD IN BROWN COUNTY.

Active Work Begun to Develop Mine on the Cottonwood River.

New Ulm, Minn., May 11.—Gold has been discovered on the Joseph Bier farm in the town of Milford, Brown county, five miles southwest of this city, and the people are in a fury of excitement. The farm had been for sale for several years, but on account of the Cottonwood river running through the land, causing a deep ravine, it was not considered an ideal location.

Recently, however, John K. Neuman, a local mining engineer, examined some of the sand and rock and came to the conclusion that it contained gold, silver and copper. Samples were sent to the state university and to an assay office in Denver, Colo., and word came back that they contained gold in paying quantities and that the explorers should secure ownership of the land at once.

MINNESOTA

BOTH DAY AND NIGHT

Work on Ditch Construction in Minnesota is Being Pushed.

Steam Dredges Used and Rapid Progress is Being Made.

Crookston, Minn., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ditch construction is being pushed with a vengeance in Northern Minnesota this season as is evidenced by the fact that the big contractors are working both day and night crews. Judicial ditch No. 4, between Red Lake and Polk county, is being constructed by the Standard Drainage company of Windom, Minn., and the manner in which the work is being done is certainly of general interest. A steam dredge is being employed. The dredge has an electric light plant board and from a distance the traveler might think that he was approaching a good sized town. The dredge on this ditch has a capacity of 1,600 yards of dirt daily and the dirt is not thrown haphazard by any means, for the contractors must build a roadway on one side of the ditch.

The ditch is supposed to be completed the coming fall, and unless the weather is very bad on an average, the work will be completed before the 1st of December. This ditch is fifteen miles in length, but certain portions of it do not require any great excavation. The same company, however, has a still larger contract in Roseau county, and their work there was started a year ago. Capt. Beard, who is in charge of it, was in the city for the past two days conferring with Engineer George Ralph, and left yesterday for the scene of operations. The present contract of the company covers a distance of eight miles on the river, but fifteen miles more is necessary to give Roseau county the key to the drainage situation. The balance of the work after the conclusion of the present contract means the removal of about 700,000 cubic yards of earth.

UPPER MICHIGAN

FOUND DEAD AT HIS POST

Charles Larson, Pumpman at Bonnie Mine, Dies Suddenly.

Was a Well-Known Resident of Ironwood for Many Years.

Ironwood, Mich., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charles Larson, an old and well-known resident of Ironwood, residing at Frenchtown, pumpman at the Bonnes mine, was found dead at his post Friday. Mr. Larson went to work Thursday evening, showing no signs of any ailment or discontent, and his death must have been caused by heart failure. Mr. Larson had his arm cut off while firing the air compressor at the Bonnie mine about eighteen months ago. Mr. Larsen leaves a widow, three children and a host of friends to mourn his sudden and unlooked-for death.

TO RAISE MASCOTTE.

Capt. Walter Lloyd of Duluth In Houghton for That Purpose.

Houghton, Mich., May 11.—Capt. Walter Lloyd, part owner of the excursion steamer Mascotte, which was brought to Portage lake last summer from Detroit and was placed on the canal run, has arrived in Houghton from Duluth and expects to remain here for the summer. Mr. Lloyd says that he expects that Capt. Reed of Port Huron, the well known wrecking contractor, will arrive here some day this week from the lower lakes for the purpose of starting the work of raising the excursion steamer from the bottom of the lake.

The Mascotte will be placed in condition for her summer's work as soon as she is brought to the surface and may be kept in the Portage lake district and on the canal and other resort runs about Houghton and Hancock. The boat is not damaged at all by her submersion.

MEMORIAL DAY

Will be Preserved From Desecration in Upper Peninsula, If Possible.

Houghton, Mich., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—A movement is on foot in the towns of the Copper country to prevent the desecration of Memorial day, May 30, started last year by the posts of the G. A. R. at Calumet and Hancock and continued this year by the veterans of the Civil war and the Spanish-American War Veterans all over Houghton county. An effort is being made to have the ball games, scheduled to be played at Houghton in the morning, and at Calumet in the afternoon, on Memorial day, cancelled. Meetings were held in Calumet and Houghton this week towards this end. The Houghton Light Infantry and Calumet Engineering corps have joined in the movement.

KNIGHTS OF KALEVA

Will Celebrate the Victory of Their Delegates at Recent Convention.

Hancock, Mich., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Tonight, Sotkan lodge, Knights of Kaleva, will celebrate in this city, the victory of the delegates of their order to Astoria, Oregon, where the three largest Finnish societies of this country were united recently under the name, "The Knights of Kaleva." Several copper country delegates were present at the Astoria convention, with hundreds of others from all over the country, and the result was a victory for the Kalevan knights, as it was decided that the voice of the majority of the delegates present should rule in choosing a name for the combined orders in one. Great plans have been made for tonight's meeting, good speakers will be present and a banquet will be spread. The Knights of Kaleva are now the largest and strongest Finnish organization in the country.

Ishpeming—The police officers have not been able to obtain any information as to the whereabouts of Mike Tasson, the young man who shot and wounded Mrs. Bruno Nardi in her husband's saloon Tuesday night. The Italians concerned will not explain the cause of the quarrel nor talk of anything that transpired at the place that night.

Trimountain—John Nichols, a miner, employed in the No. 4 shaft of the Trimountain, was instantly killed, the result of a premature blast, Thursday morning. Nichols was 45 years of age and is survived by a wife and five children.

Bessemer—In an endeavor to shoot a hawk, the 12-year-old son of August Semiling of Bessemer accidentally discharged the gun with which he was armed. The load of shot passed through his arm, tearing a bad hole through bones and muscles. It has been necessary to amputate the limb.

Crystal Falls—Fred H. Abbott, a Crystal Falls young man, has joined the ranks of inventors. He has been granted a patent on a receptacle designed to hold powder. As a measure of safety in handling explosives, it is considered that the newly devised can fills a need long felt.

DAKOTAS

ROUNDS UP LABORERS

North Dakota Labor Commissioner Secures 300 in Twin Cities.

Will be Sent to Northern Part of State at Once.

Fargo, N. D., May 11.—Commissioner of Agriculture and Labor Gilbreath is in Fargo after spending a week in the Twin Cities after farm laborers. He rounded up about 300 men, who will be sent to the northern part of the state, chiefly in the vicinity of Devils Lake, where the labor famine appears to be most marked. The new rate laws and the strict regulations imposed by the interstate commerce commission prevents the railroads from deadheading the laborers to this state, as has been the custom. The men are frequently unprepared to pay their own fare, and these conditions have resulted in the famine, which has been worse felt in the interior sections of the state.

KAUFMANN CASE

Will be Heard at This Term of the Circuit Court.

Sioux Falls, S. D., May 11.—The trial of Mrs. Emma Kaufmann, wife of a wealthy resident of Sioux Falls, who is charged with killing Agnes Polreis, a 16-year-old girl, who was employed by her as a domestic, will be called during this term of the state circuit court.

Last November, when the case was called, it was shown by the defense, corroborated by a committee of physicians, that Mrs. Kaufmann's mental and physical condition was such as to subject her to grave danger of a complete collapse should she be forced to trial at that time.

SERIOUS CHARGE

Made Against Burleigh County Man by Daughter of Homesteader.

Bismarck, N. D., May 11.—A revolting case will come before Justice Gilbert, when H. F. Tilburn is given a hearing on a charge of rape, preferred by Maud Clayton, a 17-year-old girl living with her parents near Driscoll. It is alleged that the crime was committed on April 19. The girl also claims that Tilburn is the father of her sister's month-old child and that her father beat her with a harness trace chain because she rebelled against Tilburn's attentions. The Claytons and Tilburn came from Sanborn, Minn., last fall and have land near Driscoll. The defendant has retained George Register to defend him.

MAN WANTS TO MARRY WOMAN WHO CANNOT TALK.

Manderson, S. D., May 11.—Roger Manchester, a Washington county widower of middle age, and of moderate means, is advertising for a woman to become his wife, who cannot talk. He says he will take a woman who can hear—that, indeed, he prefers one who is not deaf, but he insists that she who is to be the sharer of his joys and sorrows must be as dumb as the wooden Indian in front of a cigar store.

Fargo, N. D.—An examination of the remains of William Lovelace, whose body was found near Fort Ransom, showed that he had a bullet wound in his skull. No weapon could be found near the scene, with which he could have suicided, and murder is suspected.

The track layers of the Devils Lake-Aneta extension have crossed the Pelican Point bridge, and are now within four miles of Devils Lake. They are expected to reach the main line by Saturday night.

MABELLE SAYS SHE IS HAPPY

Reported That She Will Not Give Up the Stage.

New York, May 11.—For the first time since she returned to this country as the affianced bride of William Ellis Corey, president of the United States Steel corporation, Miss Mabelle Gilman has given an interview, telling some of her plans.

Miss Gilman and her companion, Miss Shaw, were seated in Mr. Corey's electric brougham.

"There is really nothing to say," was Miss Gilman's first remark; "nothing that I haven't already said, or rather written. Several days ago I wrote all that I believed the public would care to know about my wedding."

She expressed surprise when told that no such communication had appeared in any newspaper, and she and Miss Shaw exchanged amused smiles.

"Strange," she commented, "very strange."

"When is your wedding to be, positively, Miss Gilman?" was the first question asked.

"Next Monday, May 13," she replied.

"And not after midnight, so that it will be the 14th and so escape the hoodoo?"

"Not after midnight," she replied, "it will take place on May 13."

"Are you not superstitious?"

She laughed. "Not one bit," she said.

"Are you happy" was asked.

"Happy? Perfectly," she replied. "Have not all my dreams come true?"

"I thoroughly appreciate Mr. Corey and how good a man he is," was another comment.

For Miss Gilman, her friend says, has no idea of giving up the stage after her marriage. And her ideas, it is said, have the approval of Mr. Corey, her future husband.

"JOHNSON OF MINNESOTA."

The Herald last evening reprinted on this page several comments, all favorable, upon the availability of Governor Johnson of Minnesota as a Democratic candidate for president in 1908.

Tonight it reproduces a cartoon from the St. Paul Dispatch along the same line. Great and winning presidential booms have sprung, in time past, from much humbler beginnings than this. Things vastly more surprising than that the Johnson movement would sweep the country have often happened.

Governor Johnson's case is different from that of the prophet who is "not without honor save in his own country." His fellow-citizens have honored him signally on two occasions, and it is small wonder that outside speculators upon the condition in which Democracy finds itself are wondering whether the honor that has been given him at home may not mean that he is fit for presidential timber.

He is fit for it, and if the nation knew him as Minnesota knows him "Johnson of Minnesota" would be sweeping the country as a political battlecry.

As a campaigner he is without equal. Wherever he would go, as the Democratic candidate for president, he would set the hills and the prairies ablaze with enthusiasm. Strong in personal magnetism, attractive with his obvious sincerity, magnificent in his courage, integrity and sterling manhood, his charming personality would draw all men to him.

As a president, he would live and act the doctrine of the square deal, under which great and small, high and low, rich and poor, would each be dealt with according to his needs and just deserts. He would bear the people's burdens, and with fine intelligence, with untiring energy, and with devoted courage, he would bring to the solution of the nation's problems the clean-cut, vigorous spirit of the man that does things.

Henry Watterson in the Louisville Courier-Journal says that Democracy might go further and fare worse. The Herald is here to say that not only is this true, but that if it does go further it will fare worse, for Minnesota offers the nation a man of real constructive ability, of real sympathy with the masses of the people, and of real courage and readiness to grasp the duties of the highest office in the world; in short, a man of real presidential calibre.

THE PUBLIC AFFAIRS COMMITTEE.

One of the strongest factors in the upbuilding of Duluth is its Commercial club, and the most active branch of that organization is its public affairs committee, which had its annual reorganization in the club rooms last night. This body has met and grasped with praiseworthy activity and keen intelligence the problems attending upon the making of a great city, and the citizens that have helped make it up are entitled to the thanks of the community for their interest and industry.

The re-election of T. W. Hugo as chairman of the committee was a fitting recognition of the splendid work he has already done. Few citizens could or would have given the duties of this position the active and intelligent attention that he has given them, and it is a pleasure to note that his eminent fitness for the place has been recognized by re-election.

In a quiet, unostentatious way, this public affairs committee is doing a great and vital work, and it is the duty of every citizen who is interested in the progress of Duluth to assist it in every possible way.

SEEING GOOD IN EVERYTHING.

The man who sees something good in everything is the man who goes through life without depressing gloom, who helps not only himself and his immediate family but all with whom he comes in contact, who, by his good example and his cheery words, makes the whole world brighter and cheerier.

It is very easy to find matter for grouchiness in the weather, the state of business, the management of public affairs, everything in life in fact: but it is not so easy when the snow falls and the wind bites to one's marrow to see in them anything good; when trade is dull, to have occasion for even a mite of optimism; when the governing powers are apparently doing wrong or, at least, not doing their duty, to think that they are actuated by right motives and should be encouraged, not growled at.

Misfortunes are liable to come to even the most careful, most forehanded man—less than 10 per cent of business enterprises, statistics show, are permanently successful—but he who sees good in such misfortunes is almost without exception the one who recovers from them speedily and effectively. Such an one nearly always turns failure into success, brings glowing victory out of crushing defeat and adds to the general blessings of mankind which are at best lamentably few and far between, so perverse is human nature.

Of course, the man who, with the mistaken optimism of Wilkins Micawber, sits down and "waits for something to turn up," never makes a shining success. But the man who digs down under the apparent evil and finds the treasure of profiting by experience, is bound to rise superior to adversity. He, too, who sees the "silver lining to the darkest cloud," who knows that back of the storm the sun is shining as brightly as on the most brilliant day, is the one whose name will appear among those who have made their lives of good.

One of the new religious sects that has had a remarkable recent growth has as one of its cardinal principles the doctrine of seeing good in all things. If all people would adopt this view of adversity and storm and stress, of sickness and trouble, how much better and brighter and cheerier this old world would be! Let each individual resolve to put aside grouchiness and grumbling and look for good in everything and he or she will find life infinitely happier and will also bring incalculable blessings to mankind.

COMIC SUPPLEMENTS.

The International Kindergarten union, at a recent convention in New York, condemned the "comic supplement" that has been so much in favor of late years with many newspapers, and declared war to the knife against it and its influences.

The convention indicted the comic supplement not only for "bad art," which could be forgiven, but for "bad morals," which cannot be forgiven.

These definite charges were made against the comic supplements as a class:

Count No. 1.—They incalculate bad morals in inciting children to rebellion against their parents by idealizing boys and girls who invariably get the best of their elders.

Count No. 2.—They represent a low type of art, most of them being as bad artistically as they are in their influence on the impressionable minds of their readers.

Count No. 3.—There is no necessity for their existence in their present form; something far more artistic and more entertaining could be furnished which would prove quite as popular.

These counts are undeniable, and papers that furnish comic supplements would have a hard time substantiating any plea except that of "guilty." Artistically, most of the comic supplement pictures are execrable, horrible, impossible. The crudity of the art represented there would be a discredit to the drawing class in a fourth-grade grammar schoolroom.

But if that were the worst of it, much might be forgiven. The influence of most of the pictures can only be bad. Though a few grown people indulge in comic supplements, and even seem to enjoy them, it is the children that patronize them most, and there are many of the pictures that children should not even see, much less follow eagerly from week to week. The humor is of the baldest, crudest type. Practical jokes of a more or less brutal nature form the principal themes. The triumph of disobedient children is almost invariable, furnishing types of child heroes that will ultimately feed the reform schools by force of example. Domestic infelicity and domestic infidelity make very poor subjects for child reading, yet these are frequently found in the comic supplement.

Besides debasing the public by crudity of art, besides deteriorating public manners by teaching disrespect of elders, and besides teaching a grade of humor unworthy of a savage, the effects of the comic supplements are positively and dangerously immoral.

The International Kindergarten union should have plenty of public support in its campaign to make the wretched comic supplements unpopular, and to replace them by something that will be much more entertaining, and at the same time harmless if not beneficial.

"JUST JIMMY'S WIFE."

"And what do you intend to make of yourself, Maud, when you grow up?"
"Just Jimmy's wife, ma'am."

This is a fleeting bit of newspaper humor, accompanied by a picture of a pair of ragged children apparently well on the sunny side of 10 years of age.

They are not so frank about it when they grow older, even those that design themselves for such a career as that of being "just Jimmy's wife" or "just Tommy's wife," but since a very large proportion of the women are to undertake such a career as that, it would be a philosophical thing if they would admit it, if only to themselves, and deliberately train themselves to pursue it.

For in spite of the attractions of a "career" as most ambitious young women consider it, in medicine, in law, on the stage, in literature or on the lecture platform, the good old-fashioned career of being "just somebody's wife" and just the mother of somebody's children is still the noblest thing that woman can do.

If a young woman feels that Providence has bestowed upon her special gifts which she should not drown in the cares of wifehood and motherhood, she will probably strike out for what she considers to be a worthy career. She may be mistaken, and if so she will find it out. She may be right, and in that case, God bless her and her efforts to cut a figure in the world.

But there are lots of them that don't feel just that way, but that do want to be a power for good in the world, and for these, providing they pick the right "Jimmy," there is open a career of gentle power for good and the uplifting of humanity, in being "just Jimmy's wife."

If Jimmy realizes that man was put here for a purpose, and if he is aiming to do something that will make the world better for his having lived in it, there is nothing on earth that will back him up more strongly, or give him greater courage and higher ambitions, than the possession of a loving wife that will sympathize in his aims and cheer him up when he is weary and discouraged, as he must often be; that will be a companion and a comrade; that will burnish his breastplate and give him courage for the battle of life.

We can't all do the great things of life, but we can all help, and there is no part nobler, no part more worthy of the crown of eternal peace than that which a true and good wife can play in making the home a safe and happy retreat from the cares of life, and a place from which a man goes forth of a morning better equipped for doing his work in the world.

"MURDER WILL OUT."

"Murder will out" is an old saying, and it receives frequent support from the evidences of real life, evidences that make it applicable not only to murder but to other serious crimes.

For instance, there is the now famous case of January, the man who rather foolishly escaped from prison with only a few months of his term left to serve, who settled down, lived honestly and industriously, married, went into business, and was getting along nicely when a fellow-convict recognized him and betrayed him to the authorities. Of course there was nothing to do but to return him to prison, but public sympathy was aroused in his behalf, and he will doubtless regain his freedom shortly.

The wires bring another story, of a parallel nature, from Georgia. The other day William G. Graham, one of the best known planters in Northeast Georgia, was arrested for the murder of William King thirty years ago.

All these years Graham had been living within fifteen miles of his alleged crime, presumably conducting himself with propriety and a due regard for the rules of civilization, because he has never since come in contact with the law.

Immediately after the murder Graham disappeared, and though he was duly indicted for murder in the first degree in 1877, he had never been found and brought to book for his offense. The indictment has been hanging over him all these years, but successive sheriffs of Madison county, the county in which the crime was committed, have reported their inability to find him.

Meanwhile, Graham has been living upon land purchased in an adjoining county, only fifteen miles from the spot where he committed his homicide. He had prospered, was respected, and apparently nobody among his neighbors dreamed of the stain that was upon his soul.

Not long ago the sheriff of Madison county, while on a hunting trip, ran across Graham, and they fell into conversation. Graham asked numerous questions about his old home. This aroused the sheriff's curiosity, and when he returned to his home he began making inquiries, the result of which was that he found that he had located the long missing murderer. He promptly arrested Graham, and he is going to be tried shortly. Graham, who has much property and a large family, says his killing was done in self-defense, and that he is glad he is going to be tried.

He has had thirty years in which to think it over, and his mind could hardly have been placid, with the thought of that indictment hanging over him. His long years of law-abiding existence cannot have the weight that they had in January's case, because his crime is more serious and his fault in not returning for trial much greater.

PHYSICAL SPENDTHRIFTS.

The other day Ernest Huffcutt, legal adviser to Governor Hughes of New York, and until recently dean of the Cornell law school, shot himself on the deck of a Hudson river steamboat, on which he had taken passage from Albany.

The case had unusual pathos, for Huffcut was a man of brilliancy and of sterling worth, and the promise for his future was glowing. At first his mad act was a mystery, for he had no particular troubles that should have led him to such a desperate end. Investigation, however, showed that it was due to the same mistake that many other brainy men of ambition and industry have made and are making every day. He worked too hard, took too little thought of the need of relief from ceaseless care, and provided no place in his day's routine for play.

The result was mental depression, a nervous collapse, insomnia and a fit of temporary insanity, during which he put an end to his busy and useful existence.

It is said of him that he was one of the most brilliant men ever graduated from Cornell. In his comparatively brief career since his graduation he had fulfilled the bright promise of his youth. He had been acting of late with Governor Hughes in drawing up and assisting in the passage of the vitally important public utility bill, and in helping the governor in carrying out his ambitious plan of legislation. He had worked unceasingly, untiringly, and had drawn upon his resources of strength until, before he realized it, he was a physical bankrupt.

Too many men look upon their physical resources as inexhaustible, instead of regarding them much in the light of a deposit in a bank, which must be constantly renewed if it is regularly drawn upon.

A man who is tremendously and earnestly busy, who has a definite aim before him and who is wrapped up in gaining it, is too likely to lose sight of the value of play and the need of rest. He is more likely to even grudge the hours given to sleep, and to draw upon them to eke out his workday. No man can do this indefinitely without breaking down. Men may do it for a time, but if they do not take a rest, sooner or later they are certain to discover that there is a limit to the amount of work a man can do without recreation.

A week or two or three, spent every year in fishing, hunting, idling, resting as hard as they know how, will prolong their lives and make the year's results greater. It may seem paradoxical that a man can do more work in fifty weeks than he can in fifty-two, but it is absolutely true, and if more men realized it there would be fewer premature breakdowns, fewer nervous wrecks, fewer dyspeptics, fewer misanthropes and fewer suicides.

Physical spendthrifts become physical bankrupts, just as certainly as money spendthrifts become money bankrupts.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

"People always laugh when you tell them about how the biggest fish got away, but when one comes to think of it, it is only reasonable to believe that the big one did escape," said M. L. Nelson of Minneapolis, at the St. Louis. "Any fisherman will tell you that it requires greater skill to land the big ones than the little ones, and that the former is more apt to get away than the latter.

"Anyway, the biggest trout I ever hooked succeeded in freeing himself from the hook before he was landed. I got him on in the first place under rather peculiar circumstances. Two other fellows and myself had been tramping up and down an alleged trout stream for half a day or more, with very poor success. All we had to show for our work, or sport, whichever you want to call it, was seven measly little fish that wouldn't much more than make a meal for a sick cat. We finally gave up in disgust, and started for the station, for we had traveled several hours by train in the first place in order to reach the stream.

"Pretty soon we came to the railroad track, and hiked along it over the ties. The bridge crossing the particular creek we had been fishing in was easily forty feet above the water, but the notion suddenly struck me to try a cast from the bridge into a pool down below. I had little idea of getting anything, but did the thing more as a joke than anything else. The fellows laughed when I put my rod together and prepared to drop the hook into the water. Of course, I couldn't make a cast, but I gave as good an imitation as I could of one, and was astonished into nearly dropping my pole when something took hold of the other end of the line.

"The something was a big trout, and he gave me as lively a fight of the kind as I ever saw. I was working under tremendous difficulties, as you can see, and had little hope of being able to get the fish up onto the bridge. Every moment of the fight I expected him to break the line, free himself from the hook, or get the line tangled up with some of the timbers or drittwood.

"It was more luck than anything else that I got him out of the water at all, but in the course of five or ten minutes he was on his way heavenward, cutting lively capers in the sunshine. He must have weighed over four pounds. The spots on him were as large as a dime. I had the trout within four feet of the ties, and was just about to give a shout of triumph, when he flopped off the hook and, straight as an arow, went plunk down into the pool again. That is the last we saw of him."

MERRY JINGLES.

Baltimore American: "So your son has taken up the study of instrumental music?"
"Yes, sir."
"Does he play con amore?"
"No, sir; he plays the fiddle."

Chicago Record-Herald: "I knew that man when he didn't have a shirt to his back," said the old doctor.
"Why, I though he came of an old and wealthy family."
"He does. I officiated at his birth."

Washington Star: "Don't you think it wonderful that an actress should shed real tears?"
"If some actresses," answered Mr. Stormington Barnes, "could see their own performances I do not see how they could help it."

Catholic Standard and Times: "You women," complained Mr. Knox, "are forever discussing the faults of your neighbors. If you'd only gossip about their good points it would be more edifying."
"Perhaps," replied his wife, "but who'd care to listen to us?"

Philadelphia Ledger: "You ought to be handcuffed!" the woman exclaimed to her son, whom she had caught in mischief.
Acting on the theory, she boxed the lad's ears.

Philadelphia Ledger: "What's this first coupon on my ticket?" asked the traveler, beginning to fold a yard of pasteboard.
"That's our latest wrinkle," replied the genial agent, "and entitles you to a first-class burial if you happen to need it suddenly. We progress with the times, and it is our aim to please."

Chicago Tribune: Upgardson—Still occupying the same flat? How does it happen that you didn't move this year?
Atom—I found by consulting the van owners that it is no longer cheaper to move than to pay rent.

Nurse: Very likely; he's a railroad capitalist.

THE WEATHER.

This morning the sky was thinly but completely clouded, the wind came from the northeast, bringing the lake's chill, and the outlook for a northeaster—northeasters have been not numerous this spring, by the way—was good. The weather man's forecasts did not promise it, though it did not promise there would be none. He says it will be cloudy tonight and tomorrow, with probably rain, and with brisk and possibly high easterly to southerly winds. Last night's lowest temperature was 30 degs, and yesterday's highest was 39 degs. Tonight's lowest will be about 32 degs., the weather man says.

A year ago today it was cloudy and cool, and a year ago tomorrow summer weather prevailed.

The sun rose at 4:36 this morning, and sets at 7:31 tonight, making 14 hours and 55 minutes of sunshine.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "There has been a quite decided rise in temperature throughout the Northwest, due to the influence of a low pressure area that has moved from British Columbia to Saskatchewan. This disturbance also caused some rain or snow over Western Canada and the plateau region during the past twenty-four hours. The Atlantic coast low pressure caused a continuance of rainy weather in Atlantic and east gulf states and the southern lake region. The Red River valley high pressure has advanced to the western lake region and has caused colder weather in the southern lake region, Ohio and Middle Mississippi valleys."

Following were last night's lowest temperatures as recorded by the weather bureau:

Corporate and Private Rights.

Pittsburg Dispatch: Despite all that has been heard of "confiscation" and "assault on property rights," there is no case yet shown where there has been any confiscation of corporate rights under legal enactments. But there have been numerous and, it might also be said, continuous cases where private property has been either confiscated or materially injured by the corporate abuses. They date as far back as the wiping out of the petroleum refining industry of Pittsburg by the Standard Oil discriminations. They come to as recent a date as the exclusion by railroads of disfavored coal mine owners from shipping facilities. To stop all such things is the defense of property rights, not an attack on them.

Situation "Encouraging."

Charleston News and Courier: Were the Cubans left to themselves, they would at worst be as happy as the Haytiens or the Central Americans. They would possibly cut throats in mutual glee for ten or twenty years and finaly settle down to tranquility after they had exhausted themselves. The United States may spend many millions in teaching them that they must be good, and while carrying on the process the clever Yankees will obtain possession of all that is worth having in the island. That process is even now going on smoothly—which is equivalent to a liberal translation of the secretary's report that the Cuban situation is encouraging.

What Call Ye Justice?

(From "The Revolt of Islam.")

What call ye justice? Is there one who ne'er
In secret thought has wished another's ill?
Are ye all pure? Let those stand forth who hear
And tremble not. Shall they insult and kill,
If such they be? their mild eyes can they fill
With the false anger of the hypocrite?
Alas, such were not pure! The chastened will
Of virtue sees that justice is the light
Of love, and not revenge and terror and despite.

Weary Work.

Twenty-seven hours a day
Did he grub.
Nearly wore his nerves away,
Poor old dub!
Struggled with a greedy mob
In a ditch.
Found it a terrific job
Getting rich.

Now that he would ladle out
Coin, you know,
People sneer and yelp about
Tainted dough.
He, depicted as a slob
And a boor,
Finds it a terrific job
Getting poor.

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

Our Part in the World's Peace.

"Let us have peace!" That is the insistent cry from many quarters, taken up and sounded forth by imposing peace conferences and international arbitration assemblages. And world peace is coming, for the idea has ceased to be the exclusive possession of a few visionary dreamers, with Quaker blood in their veins; it is getting itself into the thought of leaders of social, political and industrial movements. One of the richest men in America is as willing to pour out his millions in behalf of international peace as the average autocrat is to spend money on himself and family. The very deadliness of modern warfare is speeding forward the happy day of individual disarmament. The burden of maintaining standing armies has become in some nations so heavy that the people clamor for relief. The absolute folly of war between people whom the Creator has endowed with common sense, is becoming more apparent day by day.

Grand, good things, then, these peace conferences and Hague tribunals. The wonder is the weary nations have had to wait so long for them; but let us not shout for universal peace one day and the next day exhibit in the field of personal, neighborhood or community life the pugnacious, quarrelsome, domineering spirit which is the primary source of warfare on a large scale. In other words, the movement toward international peace which has grown by leaps and bounds the last year, ought not simply to reshape international policies; but it ought to have a healthy, reactive influence upon Tom and Dick and Harry; Jane, Mary and Sarah, wherever they live and labor with others. For there is a deal of bickering—and strife of which the world never hears; but which makes bitter the cup of life for multitudes day by day.

Now to be honest, are our homes habitations of peace? Do people of the same neighborhood live habitually in consort? Are the members of the office force to which we happen to belong of the same mind in the pursuit of their tasks? Is there never any intrusion of jealousy or suspicion? And how about our respective churches? Surely into their sacred precincts there ought never to stalk the specter of discord and strife; but is this really the case, "honest Injun?"

No, if we should all own up to the bottom facts, we should be obliged to confess that there is just as much need of a peace movement in the world on a small scale as on the large scale, and here is where we all can be ambassadors of peace. We may never get appointments as commissioners to a Hague conference, or even as delegates to an international peace congress; but if we should start out to make peace within the area of our influence, we should have a fine large job on our hands. But it would be a splendid and rewarding task for any of us.

When a man once undertakes this role of peace maker, he finds that a good many important qualities are brought into exercise. No man can keep peace or make peace with us if he has not power of self restraint. If he lets himself go on a slight provocation, he foments discord. An even-handed sense of justice must go along too; for we don't want a peace that is based on injustice. And then there must be some courage, boldly to stand up for the better way, and a good degree of magnanimity too, whereby you will forego a certain right you may have to pay a man back in his own coin and rise to the heights of generosity. That is the privilege of the Christian to give up for the sake of another and the sake of peace.

And so, in the humdrum path of daily life, opportunities constantly offer, which, if quickly and courageously embraced, will put us in the company of the peace makers, to whom by rights belong the kingdom of God, and make us truly as were the angels 1900 years ago, voices through which God's greatest message of peace and good will to men is spoken to a weary tempest-tossed world.

THE PARSON.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: A splendid way not to become purse proud is to have a large family.

Generally a woman will forgive you unless you deserve to be forgiven.

A man is always too busy at the office to go to a funeral unless it's a horse race.

A woman can't help being suspicious of her husband unless he pretends he wants to wear some of her hair in a watch chain locket.

An exciting thing about a girl is how she can keep you guessing about how many ways she will tell you you mustn't kiss her when you are.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: Don't cast your pearls before swine or a woman who is a chronic kicker.

It takes a brave man to be chummy with a widow who has buried three husbands.

And it is sometimes necessary to put a man out in order to find out what's in him.

A young widow always acts as if she would have known just as much had she never married.

Many a man does nothing but hope from morning till night, then sits down and calls it a day's work.

When a man tells you that he prefers his old pipe to a good cigar there is no reason why you should believe him.

TALKING ABOUT THE HERALD

Meritorious Effort.

Anoka Union: Thursday The Duluth Evening Herald issued an industrial edition of ninety-two pages. It was a clear exponent of the industries of that city, and was a meritorious effort. Certainly Duluth is coming to the front.

A Credit to Duluth.

Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin: The Duluth Evening Herald's annual industrial edition for 1907 bears date of Thursday, April 25. It consists of ninety-two pages, and is a credit to Duluth and Northern Minnesota, as well as to the enterprising publishers of The Evening Herald.

It Was a Hummer.

Olberg Journal: It was a hummer! Did you see it? We mean the industrial edition of The Duluth Evening Herald of April 25 last. It contained ninety-two pages, with glowing write-ups and reports of the past, present and future of Northern Minnesota, and the future Pittsburg of the West, "Duluth." If you have not seen it, you should get a copy, price 2 cents, and 6 cents for postage. The Herald is proud; Duluth is proud, the people are proud; in fact, we are all proud of the magnificent showing made to the world at large of the "Zenith City" through The Herald, which in turn reflects the glorious future for Northern Minnesota, in every phase of life from agriculture up to colossal commercial, mining and manufacturing establishments.

Always a Pace Ahead.

Thief River Falls News: The Duluth Herald last week issued a 92-page industrial edition. Duluth, in the near future, will be the largest city in Minnesota and one of the great cities of the United States. And if The Herald remains under its present management, it will always be a pace ahead of Duluth.

Strictly Metropolitan.

Crookston Journal: The industrial number of The Duluth Herald not only shows what a wonderful city we have at the Head of the Lakes, but splendid business judgment in the management of the paper, with unexcelled facilities for issuing a strictly metropolitan edition of that character.

Duluth Should Be Proud.

Le Sueur News: Duluth should be proud of The Herald published in that city. Its industrial edition contained ninety-two pages, and it set forth comprehensively the advantages of Duluth. The Herald is proud of Duluth, and equally proud of Minnesota.

Evidence of Growth.

Sacramento, Cal., Bee: The special industrial edition of The Duluth Herald, consisting of ninety-two pages, is striking evidence of the growth of that city since Proctor Knott made his famous speech in congress ridiculing its claims to consideration as an inland port. The single fact that the Pittsburg Steamship company has 105 steamships sailing from Duluth illustrates the remarkable growth of her commerce. Four of these ships, built this year, are each 600 feet long, with a cargo capacity of 12,500 tons. The city has over 70,000 inhabitants, is growing fast, and certain to add enormously to her wealth, population and trade by great enterprises already on foot, one of which is a $7,000,000 steel plant.

AS SEEN BY THE COPPER

Ruler of Third Avenue Crossing Talks on Auto Speeding.

"Little Cars Worse Than Big Ones" Says Policeman.

"Here you, slow down there!" yelled the big copper that keeps watch of the passing traffic at Third avenue west, this morning, as a big touring car went whirling across the busiest corner of the city at a speed of considerably more than ten miles an hour. "I am going to pinch some of these fellows pretty soon. It is getting worse and worse. I am trying to get them all warned before I commence making arrests, but I am not going to keep it up much longer.

"Here comes a fellow that's all right," he added as a big gray car approached. "I asked him to slow down once and he always gets well below the four-mile limit on this crossing now, but there are some of them that I have to go after every time. They don't seem to realize the terror the big machines are to women and children. They may have them under control all right, but people that don't know anything about them don't know this, and when a big car goes steaming across this avenue at twenty miles an hour it looks a lot more dangerous than it really is, and it is dangerous enough anyway."

"Do the little electrics give as much trouble as the big cars?" asked a bystander.

"Every bit," said the man with the buttons, "I saw an electric turn up Third avenue here yesterday going at about fifteen miles an hour and the wheels skidded a little on the turn. That fellow missed a woman so narrowly that the front wheel brushed her skirt, and if she hadn't been active and dodged a whole lot quicker than most women do, she would have been a goner. The most careful drivers we have are the men that drive the biggest cars. They may let them out when they strike outside of the city, but they are pretty good here.

"There's a fellow I'm going to stop and give a talking to the next time he goes past here. I've got tired shouting. If that don't do any good, in he goes, that's all," and the big policeman looked as if he meant it. It's a busy life trying to keep track of the traffic at Third avenue west.

CHAMP CLARK, MISSOURI CONGRESSMAN

By SAVOYARD.

(Copyright, 1907, by E. W. Newman.)

The government of the American house of representatives is in absolute despotism, yet its czar is elective, and that gives the thing sort of a democratic tinge. There is plenty of speech-making in the house, but there is no deliberation. What the speaker decrees, the house affirms. Tom Reed's body is moldering in the grave, but his rules are marching on. Debate in the house is on issues already determined. Bailey's speech in the senate the first session of the Fifty-ninth congress convinced Mr. Hale, and that made the way comparatively smooth for the rate bill. Nothing like that has occurred in the house of representatives since the time of Henry Clay and John Randolph, if the matter under discussion happened to be political, unless it was upon a contested election case, such as Patterson vs. Carmack; but an issue like that appeals to the personal interest of each member, who may himself be a party to an election contest in the succeeding, or other future, congress.

It is a high position among men to be among the leaders of congress whether on the side of the majority or the minority. Character is the main thing; but other qualities are requisite—intellectual capacity, tact, eloquence, loyalty, industry, a love of justice, a sincere regard for the public weal. Humphrey Marshall would have been our greatest "commoner" if he had not been deficient in character. Tom Marshall served but a single term in congress; but he would have been first man in a body that numbered among its members John Quincy Adams, Dixon H. Lewis, William Pitt Fessenden, Caleb Cushing, Robert C. Winthrop, Millard Fillmore, Joshua R. Giddings, and Henry A. Wise, is his genius had not been so erratic. Notwithstanding the waywardness of his character and the intemperance of his habits, he was the first orator in the Twenty-seventh congress and the match for the greatest in forensic debate. Sometimes men do not take the rank they might and in congress because of an indifference to the fame excellence in such a body brings. Proctor Knott was such a man, and so is Carter Glass, a member at the present time from Virginia. Sometimes a man in congress gets a bad start and never overcomes the adverse impression he makes. "Cyclone" Jim Marshall of Virginia was one.

But it is a great senate, that house of representatives, and mainly because there is no royal road to preferment there. No skill will turn a sow's ear into a silk purse, and no preferment will make a statesman of one nature designed for a tater-digger. A man's excellencies may be obscured in that house, but his defects will stand out brazen in the beams of the noonday sun. It was said of Eugene Hale that he owed his prominence in congress to James G. Blaine, but Hale was a statesman of high order the first day he took his seat in the body presided over by Mr. Blaine. Not even the speaker, powerful as he is, can make a real parliamentary leader to order. Grosvenor, Dalzell, Hepburn, Burton, John Sharp Williams, Champ Clark, Bourke Cockran, and men of that calibre carved out the places they attained by their own efforts. Congressional life is a melee where hard knocks and nothing else avail. Every head that stands fair gets a lick; and hard licks endured by a congressman works wonders to his advantage. The scars they bore were testimony that Caesar's Tenth legion was not made up of carpet knights. When Conklin and Blaine so cruelly punished each other, that bright May day, 1866, they were training for the splendid conflicts of the future, when one was to be the idol of his party and the other the acknowledged leader of the United States senate.

Champ Clark is a conspicuous figure in the national house of representatives and the club he wields is an effective and powerful support to the rapier of John Sharp Williams. It was his knowledge of the history of American statesmanship that so formidably and serviceably armed John Quincy Adams for the forensic contests he so frequently engaged in. It was his familarity with the history of American politics that made Stephen A. Douglas, the first man of the United States senate for the decade 1850-60. Champ Clark has paid more attention to American biography than any other man in congress. He has made it a specialty, as Bailey made a study of constitutional philosophy and Constitutional construction. Clark is not the accomplished man Carmack is, not the orator Cockran is, not the lawyer Foraker is, not the scholar Lodge is; but Clark can tell Williams things about Mississippi and Mississippians Williams never heard of; he can tell Carmack things about Tennessee and Tennesseans Carmack never heard of; he can tell Cockran things about New York and New Yorkers that Cockran never heard of; he can tell Foraker things about Ohio and Ohio public men that Foraker never heard of. And one can see Daniel Webster, the man, more clearly by listening to Champ Clark's lecture on him than he can get out of Cabot Lodge's life of him.

Clark could not have made that speech on the powers and duties of the house of representatives delivered by Bourke Cochran in the Fifty-eighth congress. Neither could Williams, Neither could Carmack, neither could Foraker, neither could Bailey, neither could Lodge, neither could any other man in either house of the American congress. As an exposition of the philosophy of parliamentary government as it should exist, and was designed to exist, in this country it is the greatest speech the American congress ever heard. While Cockran delighted and enthused the house, as he always does, he shot away over the heads of nine-tenths of the members to whom the thing was all Greek, and that is why the speech died the day after it was made. Old Joe never paused in his czarism and made a requisition that very night on the White House for additional raw material for congressional legislation, if the White House was in further need of that sort of stuff. If the impeachment of Andy Johnson had not failed the house of representatives, instead of being in the subordinate position it now occupies, would have become, what it was intended to be—first in the governmental system. Take the constitution and read Article I and see the vast powers conferred on congress, and to the house was given the purse, without which the government would die.

Champ Clark was born in the blue grass region of Kentucky the very day Daniel Webster made his masterly speech on the compromise of 1850. His father was John Hampden Clark, and his mother was Aletha Jane Beauchamp. Collaterally she was not a distant relative of George Robertson, whose superior as a jurist the American bench has not yet produced, not even in John Marshall. Clark gets his stalwart physical development from the Robertsons, and much of their intellect went with it. His father was a farmer, and Clark was put to work as soon as he had the strength to perform the lightest share that is a part of farm economy. Thus he is of the soil, of the farm, of the cornfield, of the tobacco patch, of the hemp brake. He shot squirrels for recreation and hunted 'possums for excitement. He had a penetrating mind, and thus he could read, write and cipher before ordinary boys were half through the old blue-back Webster's spelling book. His was a healthy body, and cornbread, strengthened his bones and toughened his muscles as the blue grass does those things for the thoroughbred. He was left motherless at the age of 3 years, and was reared by an elder sister, now the wife of a beloved clergyman of Richmond, Va. She helped to form the boy's character and make a useful man of him. How well she succeeded is shown in the fact that he taught a school, to which went boys older and larger than himself, when he was barely 15, and that was a community where no moral or intellectual wealding could teach school at all.

He was taught the virtues of frugality from his childhood and from his savings he managed to sustain himself at the Kentucky university for three years, and until he was expelled for shooting a man from Ohio. He was quick to learn and his memory is like a tar bucket that retains whatever touches it. Especially was he swift to learn facts, and they serve him well in the American congress and on the lecture platform to this day.

Later we find him a student at Bethany college, Alexander Campbell's school. I do not state it as a fact, but I am of the impression that it was the intention to make a preacher of the Hon. Champ. Be that as it may, they made an intense Campbellite of him, and the man who assails that church in his presence can get all the argument of whatever sort, he can well manage. When I use the term "Campbellite" I mean no offense. Alexander Campbell was one of the greatest men of his time, our greatest divine of whatever sect, and I see no reason his name should not be perpetuated at Martin Luther's was. Clark remained at Bethany until he graduated, the head of his class, in 1873, and with the highest grade any student ever attained in that institution. He did not become a minister of the gospel; but he was chosen president of Marshall college at Huntington, W. Va., where he remained a year and then entered the famous law school at Cincinnati, and George Hoadley was one of his masters in the study of the great profession.

Kentucky is the child of Virginia, and Missouri is the child of Kentucky. Before this century shall have completed its fifth decade Missouri will be the empire state of the Mississippi valley. Not so prolifically endowed by nature in the variety of products as Kentucky, her area is greater and the gross products of her soil larger. Farmer Hatch, the grand old man who so long represented in congress the Hannibal district, always grew eloquent on the agricultural products of the state—corn, wheat, oats, rye, cattle, swine and mules. To those are added the products of the barnyard and the orchard—poultry, eggs and fruit. Missouri will pass Ohio in the race the next census, and collar Illinois by 1920, when she celebrates her centennial as a state in the American sisterhood. Champ Clark, too, loves Missouri as devotedly as did Father Hatch, and he is eloquent when sounding her praises. No plebeian little adjectives for him. It is always "Imperial Missouri" when Champ talks of his and Father Hatch's adopted state. And Pike county! One must hear Champ on Pike before he makes up his mind about the hub of this union of ours.

In 1875 Clark, now a lawyer, went to Pike county and pitched his tent. He taught school, edited a newspaper, and practiced in the courts. He was young, healthy, vigorous, gifted, determined, popular, and, if sometimes perverse, he was never godless. He succeeded, was chosen to office, and in 1880 was elected on the Democratic ticket of Hancock and English. Later he was in the state legislature, and in 1881 he married the excellent woman who is now his wife and the mother of his children. She, too, was born in Kentucky. Miss Genevieve Bennett, closely related to the famous McAfer family that contributed so much to the character and civilization of the state. Her father was a cousin of Senator McCreary of Kentucky. Both husband and wife were students, with congenial tastes, and their reading is both extensive and varied. Few women have such profund knowledge of American history as Mrs. Clark, and she has been of invaluable assistance in this respect to her distinguished husband.

Champ Clark is an orator, but he is not a rhetorician; he is a debater, but he is not a declaimer. He believes in facts, but he is not a Gradgrind. It is a pity that he had not taken Shakespeare twenty years ago and studied him line by line, for imagination is Champ Clark's weak suit. He shines best debate in the house, a partisan debate; and wary and fortunate is the adversary that evades his club.

It was a calamity to history, a misfortune to letters, and must ever be a regret to the children of the Old Commonwealth that the late W. C. P. Breckinridge did not devote the last ten years of his life to writing a history of Kentucky. He was the one of her sons fully equipped for the task. He was familiar with her story as none other was, as none other will ever be—the story of her first century. As a writer he was greater than he was an orator, and had he done what he was so often urged to do, he would have produced a narrative that would have remained a classic as long as American history exists.

Champ Clark ought to tell the story of Missouri. He knows it as no other man knows it. With a less captivating style than Breckinridge, he is even fonder of the curious in fact and circumstance. Direct and simple in narrative, a history of Missouri by Champ Clark would be as entertaining as a novel.

In 1893 Clark took his seat in congress, came to the front immediately, and since the day he first secured the floor in the national councils he has been a marked and a conspicuous man; but his congressional career I shall reserve for a future paper.

HUMMEL GIVEN YEAR IN PRISON

Notorious New York Lawyer Sentenced for Dodge Conspiracy.

New York, May 11.—One year in state's prison and a fine of $500 was the sentence imposed yesterday on Abraham H. Hummel, the lawyer convicted of conspiracy in the famous Dodge-Morris divorce case several months ago.

Conspiracy to annul the marriage of Charles W. Morse, the financier, to Mrs. Charles E. Dodge was the crime of which Hummel was convicted. Mrs. Dodge had secured a divorce from her former husband in 1898. Three years later she was married to Morse. In 1903, Hummel, as counsel for Dodge, began proceedings to annul the decree of divorce separating Dodge and Mrs. Dodge, on the ground that no papers in the case were ever served on Dodge. He was successful, and the divorce was set aside, but it was learned subsequently that the papers had been served on Dodge. The decree of divorce was then reaffirmed, and Mrs. Dodge again became the wife of Morse.

QUICK DIVING BY SUBMARINE

All American Records Broken by Octopus in Trial Tests.

Newport, R. I., May 11.—All American records for quick diving by a submarine boat were broken yesterday, when the submarine boat Octopus went through a series of extraordinary tests in Coddington Cove, in a nasty sea with a thick fog that cleared at times and a southwest wind that blew at a rate of forty miles an hour.

Running at full speed on the surface, propelled by gasoline engines, the Octopus received a signal from members of the trial board on the tender, Nina. The engines were stopped and under power by storage batteries, diving rudders were adjusted and the submarine boat took thirty-seven tons of water into her tanks and sank to a depth of twenty feet within four and a half minutes. A second test reduced the time by about half a minute.

When coming to the surface from one of her dives the Octopus sighted in the lifting for a tug and tow of barges, dived at once and escaped the danger of a collision by going down so deep in the water that the tow could pass above in safety. At another time, when the Octopus was running awash at a speed of ten knots an hour, she dived and was completely submerged within twenty-three seconds.

Berlin, May 11.—The Master Builders' association of Berlin and its suburbs has decided unanimously to lock out next Saturday, all masons and bricklayers assisting striking building workmen. Over 100,000 men are affected. The fight is for an eight-hour day.

TAR MACADAM.

Jefferson Street Property Owners Unanimous for Cheaper Paving.

As was expected, the twenty-four owners of Jefferson street property, along the line of improvement from Thirteenth to Twenty-second avenues east, who appeared at the hearing of the board of public works yesterday afternoon, to decide what kind of paving was to be used on the avenue, were unanimous for tar macadam. There was a difference of $9,000 in the bids submitted for tar macadam and asphalt by Contractor McDonnell, the successful bidder on both materials, and this made a difference of $63 in the assessment for every fifty-foot lot.

This, in addition to the fact that the asphalt would necessitate considerable delay, as the material would have had to be brought from the outside, decided the owners in favor of the tar paving. Sandstone curbing will be installed.

At the meeting of the board Monday morning, the contract for the work will be let to Mr. McDonnell, who will start the job immediately. The board has $40,038 of unappropriated funds on hand at present, so that there will be no trouble on this score.

THIRTY MILES PER HOUR.

Car Making This Rate on Superior Street When Stopped.

One block in ten seconds, six blocks a minute, or thirty miles an hour, is the rate at which L. B. Muntor, chauffeur for Mary Gaines, was running when arrested, Wednesday night, according to the car starter at Third avenue west, who said he timed the big car for a distance of one block. Muntor swore he was not making more than six miles per hour, but several other witnesses were put on the stand who swore positively that the car was making between twenty and thirty miles per hour.

The case was tried yesterday afternoon, and Judge Cutting assessed the young man $25 and costs, amounting to $32.24 in all, which he paid.

HEAVY INVESTMENTS MADE IN DULUTH REALTY

Transfers Indicate That City Offers an Excellent Field for Investment—G. G. Hartley Buys East Superior Street Property—Clyde Iron Works Sells Lake Avenue Plant—Sanders' Flats Sold.

Comparing the present conditions of the Duluth realty market with those of a similar period of time a year ago, ample evidence is found to substantiate the claims of the real estate dealers that the local market is active, strong, and was never before promising so much for the future. This view is especially encouraging from the fact that the real estate market a year ago was considered very good, and there was a great deal of trading being done at that time. During the week just closing there have been closed a number of large deals in Duluth centrally located property, or property contiguous to the business part of the city, and there are negotiating several others, deals that in some instances are likely to be of vast import to the city. These do not only concern the western end of the city, but the center and eastern end as well. There is at the present time a strong tendency toward buying for investment and most of the large deals that have been closed this week are said to have had that end in view. Inquiry is strong and the real estate brokers report a very busy week.

Last week The Herald referred to the amount of business in the county register of deeds' office as having broken all records for that office. Figures were not then obtainable. Register of Deeds Palmer submitted his monthly report to the county board this week, showing that the receipts of his office during April were $1,192.65 in fees for deeds and other papers placed on record. The work done for the county amounted to $257.70. The fees of the registrar of titles amounted to $331.28, making the total work done by the office amount to $1,781.63. Figuring the expenses of the office at $915, the register of deeds shows a net profit to the county of $866.63 for the month of April. The deeds recorded covered transfers all over the county. While the bulk of the transfers covered Duluth property the records show that there has been, and is now, one of the liveliest movements in property in the range towns that they have experienced in years.

A number of sales by which G. G. Hartley acquired a considerable amount of East Superior street property were made public this week. For the east half of lot 24 and the west half of lot 26, block 2, Central division, Mr. Hartley paid $25,000. The property is located on the lower side of Superior street between First and Second avenues east. From Martin Rosendahl he purchased the east half of lot 37 and the west half of lot 39, for $17,000. This property is located just east of the old Masonic temple and was bought by Mr. Rosendahl several weeks ago, for $15,000. The largest purchase made by Mr. Hartley was the northwest corner of Third avenue east and Superior street, a property with a frontage of 100 feet on Superior street, for $42,500. It is rumored that Mr. Hartley has bought or is negotiating for the purchase of a 40 acre tract of land northwest of the golf links of the Northland club.

The Superior street purchases by Mr. Hartley have special significance for the reason that the real estate brokers claim that property for sale along that thoroughfare, through the business district is scarce and that prices are reaching a high figure. Several of the brokers have claimed that it is almost impossible to buy Superior street property at the present time on the basis of the prices that have prevailed during the past few years.

It is currently reported in real estate circles that Christopher Sanders has sold the Sanders' flats at 118-120 East Fourth street to Charles Polinski, who recently sold his property at Ninth avenue west and Superior street. The purchase price is said to be about $25,000. The Sanders flat building was erected a few years ago and is considered one of the best properties of the kind in the city. The building contains nine flats.

North Star lodge of the local Masonic fraternity, has sold the southeast corner of Second street and Second avenue west to S. M. Young, for $12,000. The lodge was represented by Stryker, Manley & Buck, and Little & Nolte represented the purchaser. The property is described as lots 34 and 36, East Second street, First division. The land was originally purchased with a view of locating the new Masonic temple thereon, but it was decided to construct the building on its present location at Lake avenue and Second street.

Another reported sale of the week was the double brick house property on the northeast corner of Second avenue east and Second street, from N. J. Miller to George Coleman, a West Duluth building contractor. The purchase price was not learned. This property is located across Second street from the corner sold by the Masons to S. M. Young.

One of the largest of recent transactions in Lakeside property was closed up this week when the L. S. & S. Loeb company acquired title to about 115 lots, well located, both above and below London road, and pretty well scattered over Lakeside. The same interests have acquired a considerable amount of acreage in the western end of the city, besides their holdings of centrally located business property. In connection with the deals in local realty, the L. S. & S. Loeb company occasioned quite a stir in the Twin City realty circles by purchasing 500 lots, or about sixty acres, in St. Paul, at the entrance of Como park. The purchasers have already received some flattering offers for the tract, but intend to plat it and put it on sale on terms similar to those by which the owners disposed of a large acreage in Oneota, several months ago.

The Clyde Iron works, which has started clearing the ground in the West end for its new plant, has sold its old plant at Lake avenue and Sutphin street to the Duluth Corrugating & Roofing company for $33,000. The property is described as lots 26 to 30, re-arrangement of blocks 7 and 8, Industrial division.

Representing Thomas B. Scott, the owner, Stryker, Manley & Buck have sold a 50-foot property, on the upper side of Fourth street, between Sixth and Seventh avenues east, to Stella M. Young, for $2,500.

N. J. Upham & Co. have sold a 50-foot lot east of the Christian church, at Fifth avenue west and Fourth street, to Bayha & Co., for $2,250.

Charles Sheridan has sold his land near the northwest corner of Twenty-eighth avenue west and Michigan street, to the Wisconsin Central Railway company, and will move his house to a 50-foot lot he has recently purchased at the corner of Twenty-fourth avenue west and Fourth street.

Thomas Lynch has sold a residence property at the corner of Magellan street and Thirty-ninth avenue west to Max P. Shapiro for $2,300. The property has a frontage of seventy-five feet on the avenue.

J. C. Russell has purchased from Pulford How & Co. a residence property on the upper side of London road, between Fifty-fourth and Fifty-fifth avenues east, for $3,100.

Mary Kreager has sold to Theresa Goder a residence property on the lower side of Seventh street, between Ninth and Tenth avenues east, for $1,800.

C. G. Bryant has purchased from C. B. Beson a residence property on the lower side of Third street, between Twenty-eighth and Twenty-ninth avenues west for $2,700.

The transfer was recorded this week conveying title of the east half of lot 10, block 3, Central division, from E. S. Whitridge to Charlotte Clark. The consideration was $25,000. The property is located on the south side of Superior street between Lake avenue and First avenue east.

C. P. Gould has sold Thomas A. Merritt the northeast corner of Fifty-third avenue west and Bristol street for $1,500.

E. T. Wadhams has sold Christopher Sanders the residence and fifty-foot lot on the lower side of Third street, between Second and Third avenues west, for $4,250. The property is described as lot 44, West Third street.

Arthur L. Howard of Boston, Mass., managing trustee of the Sargent estate, was in the city this week looking after the property belonging to the estate. The Sargent estate is in the charge, locally, of W. C. Sargent & Co.

BEAR THIS IN MIND

Every year you continue to pay rent, you give away one-tenth of a Home, which might otherwise be your own. A small cash payment will secure for you one of our New Homes, and for the balance, you can make Monthly Payments just as easy as paying rent.

LISTEN!

Have you figured out the blessings of a home that's all your own?
Of a cozy little cottage that belongs to you alone?
Don't you feel a trifle weary as the rent days go and come,
That your little ones—your loved ones, have no really, truly home?
It is not a task heroic, you can purchase on small pay,
You can own a cottage cozy, if you know the proper way.
In the first place, don't be timid, just a modest sum will do,
If the Lakeside Land Company plans the home for yours and you.

Have you received our Booklet on Homes.

LODGE NOTES

NORWEGIAN INDEPENDENCE

Anniversary Will be Fittingly Celebrated in Duluth.

Norway's Independence day will be fittingly celebrated by Duluth Norwegians on May 17.

The armory has been secured for the occasion, and a program of music and speeches will be given, followed by dancing.

The affair is in charge of the members of Fram lodge, No. 5, and Nortun lodge, No. 16, of the Sons of Norway. Congressman J. Adam Bede has been secured for one of the speakers, and the other will be B. B. Haugan. There will also be a musical program by Flaaten's orchestra, which will play for the dance following the speeches.

The Norwegian Independence day was May 17, 1814. On this date a meeting was held at Eidsvold and a constitution drawn up.

This constitution was presented to King Charles XIII of Sweden, who was forced to accept its terms the following November, and grant the demands of the Norwegians for their freedom and constitutional rights.

Samaritans Initiate.

Alpha Council Modern Samaritans initiated a class of the prominent young business men of the city Thursday night at their council chambers in the Elks' hall. The journey over the hot sands from Jerusalem to Jericho was traveled. Refreshments were served at the inn. The latter part of the evening was given over to music and dancing. Next Thursday evening a class of ladies will join the council.

TAFT KEEPS OUT OF SENATORSHIP

Neither for Nor Against Foraker and Bargain Declined.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 11.—Congressman Theodore E. Burton gave out the following statement today:

"An erroneous report has gone forth to the effect that Secretary William H. Taft has said to me by telephone, that he desired the elmination of Senator Joseph B. Foraker, from politics.

"He has never made any such statement. He has conscientiously refused however, to enter into any deal under which he should have the support of the Republicans for the presidency and in consideration therefore, Mr. Foraker should be endorsed for the senatorship. Such an arrangement would savor of a political bargain and would awaken criticism because the two are supposed to represent different ideas, especially in regard to the policies of the administration of President Roosevelt.

"So far as I know, none of the friends of Secretary Taft have advised or asked him to take any part in any contest for the senatorship in the state, nor has he expressed any intention to do so."

STRIKERS RIOT WITH BREAKERS

Sticks and Stones Fly Fast—Police Use Night Clubs.

New York, May 11.—Sticks and stones flew thick in the fight between strikebreakers and a hundred longshoremen today. Two of the strikebreakers were injured. The police arrived in the height of the battle and had to use their night sticks freely before they could quell the disturbance. The uniforms of several policemen were torn. The street was finally cleared and the strikers dispersed. Italians went on with their work with policemen standing guard over them.

BANKERS UNDER FIRE.

Remarkable Methods Uncovered in Investigation of Iowa Failure.

Seymour, Iowa, May 11.—The state banking department made two sensational discoveries in the investigation of Cashier Ware's $250,000 shortage in the Farmers & Drovers' bank yesterday. In an old vault were found more than one hundred letters, some unopened and most of them containing drafts for the bank ranging in sums of $1 to $1,000. What these drafts total the department is yet unable to say. They are so old that they are now uncollectable.

This indicates the most careless system of banking that officials here have ever heard of. Twenty letters with money in them from other banks and from depositors had never been opened. Some were ten years old.

It was also discovered yesterday that three months ago two directors of the bank had hurriedly borrowed $15,000 at Centerville to tide over a "temporary stringency." An investigation is being made, and if the directors borrowed the money for the bank, they must have known of its condition and hence, according to the state examiner, are liable to arrest for receiving deposits for a bank they knew to be failing. It is not yet proved, however, that the $15,000 was borrowed for the Seymour bank.

WIDOW AND BACHELOR ALLIANCE BY WHOLESALE.

Chicago, May 11.—Nettled at the exclusion with which Chicago bachelors have surrounded themselves, a number of well-to-do widows have organized a home seeking association, and plans are being made to interest members of various bachelors' clubs.

Arts and wiles of womanhood will be exercised upon unmarried men and they will be asked to aid the widows in the purchase of a site on the North shore upon which it is proposed to erect a home for widows.

The club, which is called the Widows' Association of Illinois, was organized at the home of Mrs. Amelia Tenney, and Mrs. Tenney was chosen as president. She explained that the purpose of the club is for the mutual aid of all widows who find it difficult to struggle against the world.

"No spirit of frivolity entered into our plans in the organization of this society," said the president. "We realize the difficulties that confront a woman who has lost her husband and who perhaps has a large family of children to support. With this in mind we have determined to better the condition of the widow, and plans for the purchase of a tract of land and the subsequent erection of a widows' home have been thoroughly discussed. It is possible that we will appeal to members of the bachelors' clubs and other organizations for financial assistance."

SECULAR SHOTS AT PULPIT.

Portland Oregonian: Two York ministers have gotten into trouble with their churches because they went into the disorderly part of town to study sociological problems. They forgot the instruction of St. Paul, "Whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report, if there be any virtue and if there be any praise, think on these." There are sociological problems outside of the slums.

Boston Transcript: Cardinal Gibbons stands firm in his old position that the separation of church and state as practiced in this country is for the good of both, and in that spirit regards Paul Sabatier, the French historian and clerical advocate. The trouble seems to be in France that neither side understands our method, and one side would not want it if it understood it. Cardinal Gibbons definition of the American practice wherein the civil government holds over the church the arm of its protection without interfering with liberty of conscience in proclaiming the truths of the gospel is exact, but it must be remembered that in France the problem is as much to separate the church from the state as the state from the church.

Boston Herald: President Eliot's tribute to the ministers of the gospel is something altogether fervent and graceful As he says, the ministry is not strenuous, but it is faith and love and helpfulness, which are the great ethical foundations of life in the community. It has its drawbacks, however, and chief among these is the fact that, save in exceptional cases, it rarely enables the ministers to make a decent living. It was only the other day that Bishop Vinton of the diocese of Western Massachusetts asked that his own salary be reduced in order that his clergy might be more adequately paid. Until the lamentable condition of things here indicated is corrected, the ministry will scarcely possess the attractions for young men that it would otherwise.

EXPERTS TO STUDY RAILS.

Committee of Railroads and Steel Manufacturers Will Hold Conferences.

New York, May 11.—To bring about an improvement in the steel rail product, thus giving better security to the public against accidents, a committee of experts has been appointed, both railways and manufacturers of steel rails being represented. Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel corporation, said concerning the work of this committee: "The manufacturers of steel rails and railroad companies both realize that conditions relating to railroad operations have materially changed and that it is desirable to use every precaution against accident. With this end in view a committee of experts, appointed by the American Railway association, are in consultation with a committee of experts, representing the manufacturers. Every suggestion for the improvement of present conditions will be given careful consideration, and it is believed the manufacturers and railroad managers will agree upon a standard of excellence that should not be questioned."

There are no bonds to be held by capitalists, no preferred stocks to be held by promoters. This is to be a RAILROAD of the PEOPLE, for the PEOPLE and built by the PEOPLE and every investor shares equally in the handsome earnings of this ARROW LINE enterprise, as well as enjoying the increase in value of his early bought stock.

A Page From the Story.

(A New Life Has Come Into the World.)

THE TWIN CITY AND LAKE SUPERIOR RAILWAY COMPANY is organized under the laws of the State of Maine for the purpose of building a standard gauge DOUBLE-TRACK high speed freight and passenger service railroad between the Twin Cities, Minneapolis and St. Paul, and the Twin Cities at the Head of the Great Lakes, DULUTH and SUPERIOR. The construction of the roadway of this line will provide sufficient width between the tracks to permit the installing of the FARNHAM INVERTED PROTECTED THIRD RAIL ELECTRIC SYSTEM. Until ELECTRIFIED, the road will be operated as a steam railroad, it being not alone the object but the purpose to electrify this system just as soon as suitable motive power can be installed along the line with demonstrated ability to perform the requirements of this ARROW LINE enterprise.

The entire construction and equipment of this ARROW LINE railroad will be upon the basis of Steam Railroad practice; all roadbed to be of the maximum rigidity; bridges to be of sufficient capacity to enable the road to handle the heaviest trains, tracks of 70-pound rails laid on oak ties set to standard gauge, with extra wide track centers for greater safety to heavy loaded trains passing upon the double tracks.

The objects of this enterprise are as follows:

FIRST: To reduce the mileage between these four great commercial centers by building an ARROW LINE railroad on the shortest route that physical conditions will permit.

SECOND: By doing this we effect a saving of about 30 MILES on the present rail distance. It also eliminates curves, permitting a high rate of speed to be attained and maintained with security, safety and comfort, as well as affording a TWO HOUR instead of a FIVE HOUR service between the points named, thus bringing the TWIN CITIES to the head of America's inland sea, the greatest of all waterways.

THIRD: To reduce the cost of transportation, thereby securing that part of the freight, passenger, mail and express business that quick, efficient and safe service so justly merits.

FOURTH: To so construct, equip and operate the road that it will receive its full share of all classes of traffic, thereby enabling it to return to its stockholders annually every promise multiplied the biblical ten-fold.

FIFTH: It is the purpose to build the TWIN CITY AND LAKE SUPERIOR RAILROAD with the money received from the sale of its stock, which means that there will be NO DEBTS, NO BONDS, NO PREFERRED STOCK, NO WATERED STOCK, NO ASSESSMENTS, NO PERSONAL LIABILITIES. Each share of stock in the TWIN CITY AND LAKE SUPERIOR RAILROAD represents an equal interest in all assets as well as all earnings of the company. There is one particular feature of this enterprise which stands out broad and clear as a guarntee to the investor, a feature which makes doubly certain our promise that its stock will bring par the day the road is complete, a fact that should interest the investor, to-wit: The REDEMPTION CLAUSE ON THE FACE OF THE COMPANY'S CERTIFICATE OF STOCK. This clause makes the stock redeemable at its par or face value in freight or passenger transportation at current rates over its entire line or any part or portion in operation. This is not only a protecting feature to the stockholder, but fixes a par market for his stock which enables him to redeem the money which he has invested in the only redeemable commodity which any railroad has from which to make redemption, and over a line such as the TWIN CITY AND LAKE SUPERIOR RAILROAD, which expects to be in full operation within twenty-four months from July 1st, 1907. A purchase of stock at its present market brings a profit which any reader can figure with a dull pencil.

What Has Been Accomplished to Date.

The Twin City and Lake Superior Railway Company has completed preliminary surveys and has made maps of same; it has the right-of-way from City Limits to City Limits. The public will be advised as to terminals later. Detailing its plans as to terminals at this time would hazard one of the interests most vital to the four great cities.

Two complete survey crews are at work on permanent locations of the line, one crew working North from the Twin Cities, the other South from the Great Lakes.

The accompanying map shows approximately where the line is to run. WESTERN SURETY AND ADJUSTMENT COMPANY solicit inquiry and will cheerfully furnish information not inconsistent with the plans of the TWIN CITY AND LAKE SUPERIOR RAILWAY COMPANY.

Articles of the Company's Incorporation, right-of-way deeds, contracts and permits, also surveys, can be inspected at the office of THE WESTERN SURETY AND ADJUSTMENT COMPANY, Minneapolis, Minnesota, where copies of this company's prospectus may be secured.

The Men Who Are Building the Road.

Mr. E. W. Farnham, President of the TWIN CITY AND LAKE SUPERIOR RAILWAY COMPANY is a railroad man of thirty years' practical experience in steam railroad work, having commenced in the mechanical department when yet a young man, passing through the mechanical to locomotive engineering, thence to train service and train dispatcher, thence to Superintendent, advancing through various positions of construction and operation finally to the position of Superintendent of Transportation of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad and its allied lines.

Mr. Farnham is at this time President of the Farnham Company, Electrical Engineers and Railroad Contractors, Chicago, Illinois. The company is the exclusive owners, manufacturers and constructors of the now famous FARNHAM PROTECTED THIRD RAIL SYSTEM. Mr. Farnham's experience and standing as a mechanical, civil and electrical engineer is second to none in the United States.

The FARNHAM THIRD RAIL SYSTEM is the only protected third rail system in use. There are now approximately 500 miles of this system in use. The greatest number of operated miles is that of the New York Central Railway.

Mr. Farnham is a giant in the world of railroad, his knowledge of railroad, steam and electrical construction and operation not only makes him a tower of strength to the enterprise, but furnishes a guarantee to the world of the successful completion of the project.

Others associated with this enterprise are among some of the most influential business men and railroad builders in this country. They have undertaken to build this ARROW LINE from the TWIN CITIES TO THE HEAD OF THE GREAT LAKES, and as no member of this company has yet recorded a failure, it is but fair to assume that success of the enterprise is fully assured. Their names and business connections are given in full in the company's literature, which will be mailed upon request. An investor, after looking up the records of these men, will see that they are railroad builders as well as men of affairs, and that the element of speculation in this investment is entirely eliminated because of their connection with the enterprise.

Why This Road Should Be Built By the People.

The old steam railroads loaded down with debt, waterlogged with overcapitalization, and worn to the bone by their fearful struggle to pay dividends on securities with false values, are largely controlled by Wall Street, and the men back of these roads are in no position to sacrifice their millions to equip these old steam railroads with electricity—the modern—the cheap method of transportation—the railroads for the people. Instead of government ownership of railroads, the time has come when the PEOPLE propose to own them, and the TWIN CITY AND LAKE SUPERIOR RAILWAY is a great entering wedge. The shipper will soon learn that there will be no shortage of car shortage, that there will be no excessive freight charges with such a railroad as this, and that the small stockholder (AND WE HOPE YOU WILL BE AMONG THEM) will have an investment that will make him financially independent.

The conditions which are responsible for the building of this road are so unusual in the way of profit that it is hard to gauge the possible and probable earning powers accurately, for we do not believe there is in the United States of America today any section of country as badly in need of an Electric railroad as the country to be traversed by the TWIN CITY AND LAKE SUPERIOR RAILROAD.

Vanderbilt, Gould and many others made tremendous fortunes building railroads when the conditions were nothing like as favorable as they are now. Your investment in TWIN CITY AND LAKE SUPERIOR RAILROAD should make you independent in a few years' time. Some Electric railroads are earning as high as 100 per cent yearly on their stock. There has never been a failure of an electric railroad. THE DIVIDENDS FROM THESE STOCKS ARE ABSOLUTELY SURE.

We are trying to show you that this is your opportunity for laying aside a nest egg for a fortune. There may be some fear that this railroad, with its tremendous earning power, may be bought up by the Morgans, Harrimans or other railroad kings; but remember, if your stock is in your hands, the only way they can get it from you is to PAY YOU YOUR PRICE FOR IT.

Our advice to you is to invest every dollar that you feel you can spare in this railroad stock. A careful study of all the facts in the case, the conditions of the country through which the line will pass, and the men who are building this line, will show you the wisdom of such a course.

A LIMITED AMOUNT OF THE STOCK OF THIS COMPANY is NOW offered for sale to investors at $20.00 per share, and presents an unparalleled opportunity for investmen, that if taken advantage of will mean financial independence for you for the rest of your life. Space here will not permit us to give full particulars, but we will be glad to send you ADDITIONAL INFORMATION. As soon as the limited allotment to be sold at $20.00 is exhausted the price will advance to $25.00 per share without notice.

Come to our office, if you can, and we will explain to you all the details. If you cannot come, fill in the coupons below and mail to us, and we will return additional information. Send remittances by registered letter, or by postal or express money order, for the number of shares you wish.

This announcement is being made in many of the important newspapers in the Northwest today, and without a doubt, subscriptions to the capital stock of this corporation will pour in. Owing to the great merit of this investment proposition and the excellent standing of the management, we have every reason to believe that the small block of stock offered at the ground-floor price of $20.00 per share will be quickly subscribed. For this reason we urge you to act promptly and fill out one of the coupons below and send to our office immediately, if you cannot call.

SOAP BAD FOR COMPLEXION.

Woman Has Not Washed Her Face for Fifteen Years.

Webster City, Iowa, May 11.—Miss Amanda Johnson of this city, one of the most beautiful women in Northwest Iowa, has not washed her face for fifteen years. Though she is 50 years of age and still unwed, she is far from being an old maid. She is bright and cheerful and funloving. Her face is as free from wrinkles and her complexion as faultless as the skin of a babe.

Fifteen years ago her complexion was far from beautiful. She came to the conclusion that soap and water were not good for her face and immediately set about to find some method whereby she might keep a clean countenance and yet a pretty one.

Miss Johnson does not intend to wash her face again for fifteen years, according to her declaration.

NEWS FROM WEST DULUTH

EXTENSION OF STREETS

Commercial Club Discussed the Ramsey Street Project.

No Action Taken on Changing Names of Streets.

Consideration of the improvement of streets was the business before the West Duluth Commercial club last evening, at one of the largest and best meetings ever held by that body. The discussion centered around the extension of Ramsey street from Central avenue to Grand avenue, or probably to Fifty-eighth avenue. The different plans were laid before the club by those advocating them, and a committee consisting of C. M. Brooks, J. B. Flack and E. J. Zauft was appointed to look into the matter and report to the club next Friday evening.

It was the sense of the meeting that the extension of Ramsey street should be made, preferrably to Fifty-eighth avenue. To do this it would be necessary to secure a right of way from the Northern Pacific Railway company and also from property owners, who own the ground, through which the street would run. Those lots, fronting on Grand avenue, are not now built upon and they could be secured more easily now, probably, than at a later date. There is no direct communication now between Central avenue and the territory west at Ramsey street and the extension must come some time. Should the property be improved with buildings, it would be a far more expensive project than it is at present.

If the report of the committee next Friday night is favorable, the council will be petitioned to take the necessary action to acquire the property desired. If the holders do not care to sell at a reasonable figure, it will be necessary to begin condemnation proceedings for possession.

The committee having in charge the circulating of a petition among property holders on Ramsey street for the paving of that thoroughfare, reported and presented the petition with twenty-nine signatures. Only twenty-seven were necessary to have the council take action and Alderman Filiatrault will bring the petition before the city body next Monday night.

No definite action was taken on the matter of having the names of the streets, through which the street cars enter West Duluth, changed to Superior street. A motion to have a committee interview the property owners along the street in regard to the matter was voted down and it was allowed to rest there. It may be brought up again at a future meeting.

The question of requesting a larger police force or a mounted policeman was not brought up, on account of the lateness of the hour, after the other matters had been considered.

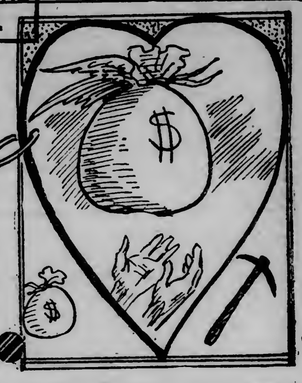
GREAT AMERICAN COPPER ROMANCES.



The First One Came Only Forty-One Years Ago When the Famous Calumet and Hecla Mine Was Developed, and Added Immensely to Boston's Wealth, Making It the Great American Copper Center Financially---Our Copper Production Was Then Only Seventeen Per Cent; Now It is More Than Half the Total.

The Romance of Anaconda Was a Far More Strenuous Thing---It Brought Marcus Daly, J. B. Haggin and Later F. A. Heinze to the Front---H. H. Rogers and Lawson of Boston---The New Generation of Copper "Magnates," of Whom Thomas F. Cole and "Harmonizer" John D. Ryan Are Examples.

By DEXTER MARSHALL.

(Copyright, 1907, by Dexter Marshall.)

Copper mining didn't amount to much in the United States until 1866, when the proper development of the great Calumet & Hecla mine was begun. It was the first great American copper romance. It was also a distinct triumph for the trained scientist as compared with the so-called "practical man" who works by the rule of thumb.

Everybody in every copper center knows the story. Copper was mined so many years ago in the northern peninsula of Michigan that only faint traces of the ancient miners who belonged to the blotted out race which lived before the Indians, have ever been found. The Indians themselves never mined copper there. The whites did nothing with the Superior copper deposits until 1844 and not much then.

The late Louis Agassiz examined them when on an exploration trip through the region, before he became famous and might have got rich from them. But he preferred pure science to the practical sort, devoted most of his life to the study of jellyfish and other things in search of biological mysteries, and died poor. Had he not begotten a son, there is no telling when Calumet & Hecla would have been developed.

Agassiz the elder wanted Agassiz the younger to be a scientist himself. The latter agreed, but announced that he should get rich if he could before following his father's lead. His chance came in 1865, when certain Bostonians who had stock in the Hecla copper claim, asked him to visit the Superior region and look into the claim. Young Agassiz had learned a lot about mines from his father, who was a mineralogist before he was a biologist, and undertook the job, his brother-in-law, Quincy A. Shaw, accompanying him on his first expedition.

There was some scoffing among the practical, but the young scientist didn't mind the jeers. He was to have a certain percentage of the stock in the mine if he found it good, and he was after the percentage.

It didn't take him long to get some idea of the nature of the mine and he and his brother-in-law hastened to buy all the stock they could raise the money to pay for, at the going price of $5 a share, besides advising all of their friends to do the same. When the price had reached $250, Agassiz and Shaw were so rich it almost frightened them, while the list of the wealthy in Boston had been increased by many names.

Ever since then Calumet & Hecla—the Calumet claim having been annexed weanwhile—has been producing a stead stream of the red metal, which has been transformed into good yellow gold or its equivalent for Boston consumption, making that city the greatest copper center financially in the country, if not in the world.

Many other copper mines have been opened since then in the Superior region, some unproductive, some productive, but none to approach Calumet & Hecla, the greatest single source of copper known. It boasts today the deepest shafts and the most powerful mining machinery and pumps in the world.

American Copper Production.

The United States now produces more than half of all the copper mined anywhere—in 1904, 362,739, out of a world total of 641,694 "long" tons, or 56 per cent—but in 1880, fourteen years after alumet & Hecla had been started, only 27,000 out of 253,959 tons, or 17 per cent. It was not until a dozen years ago, in 1895, that our production reached 50 per cent, the total for the United States then being 169,917, the foreign 164,648, and the grand total 334,565 long tons.

The greatest copper camp today is at Butte, Mont., but Calumet & Hecla still holds the record for a single mine, its production for 1904 being 95,100,160 pounds avoirdupois, just a shade over the Anaconda mine, near Butte. Its figures for 1904 were 85,000,000 pounds even, and for the Boston & Montana mine in the same district, 89,000,000 pounds. Of the forty-three copper mines producing 10,000,000 pounds or more a year of copper each, twenty-seven are in the United States, three in Mexico and one in British Columbia, making thirty-one in North America. The remaining twelve are distributed as follows: Japan, five; Spain, two; Australia, two; Africa, one; Tasmania, one, and Germany, one. There are some big mines in South America, but none of them sizes up to the level of the world's first two-score and three.

The Anaconda mine was not opened until 1880, fourteen years after Agassiz had proved that he was practical as well as scientific. Silver, not copper, was the metal sought and found in profitable quantities until a depth of about 150 feet had been reached. Then the silver ore petered out, but a few feet lower down the copper ores appeared. Today twenty-seven years after Anaconda's opening, there is no sign of ore exhaustion.

Butte, the wonderful Montana city, built on a mile square foundation composed mainly of copper ore, has been the scene of more and better known copper romances than any other place on the crust of the earth. It was at Butte that W. A. Clark, more recently and after much tribulation a United States senator, began his career as a trader among the miners under the nickname of "Baking Powder Billy." It was at Butte that Marcus Daly, now dead, and J. B. Higgin, "the Turk," still erected in copper, although his chief interests are now in Peru, formed their famous partnership with Hugh Tevis. Daly bought Anaconda on behalf of the firm, for $30,000 and, refusing to be discouraged when the silver gave out, kept on till he struck copper. Here is one version of the story:

Haggin and Tevis, who remained in California while Daly was in Montana, sent another expert to watch Daly. This expert said the mine was worthless and started for San Francisco to report Daly had no money left, but he had faith in Anaconda, managed to inspire a few of the miners with confidence, and they kept steadily at work, trusting the mine for their wages. Not long after the expert's departure they struck it rich.

Daly was able to borrow quite a pot of money on the strength of this. He got a horse, hired a messenger and gave him samples of the newly found ore.

"Your job," said Daly to the messenger, "is to beat that dodgasted expert to Frisco. Ride this horse till he drops if you have to; then get another horse, and as many as you please after that, but get there first."

The messenger did it. Nineteen years afterward—in 1899—Daly and Haggin sold the majority of the Anaconda stock to the Amalgamated Copper company, controlled by H. H. Rogers and other Standard Oil "magnates," who formed it as a "holding" organization, in which they could invest their surplus millions when they got in the way.

The Tumultuous Heinze.

F. Augustus Heinze, long most actively disturbing factor in the copper world, first appeared in Montana, a "terderfoot" fresh from school, in 1883, ten years before Amalgamated was organized.

Heinze was born in Brooklyn, of German descent, and, although then only 20, had studied mineralogy and mining engineering at the Columbia School of Mines, and thought he knew a few things about his business. He began as an "inside" engineer for the Boston & Montana Copper company at $5 a day, and worked with all the determination and energy he could muster ten or twelve hours a day. Evenings he cut something of a social dash, and was one of the few in Butte with nerve enough to wear evening clothes at dinner.

This gave him a certain prominence in the camp. Before long he became a marked figure for something else. Little by little, it was found out that he knew more about copper in general and the Butte mines in particular than most of them, and those who had laughed at him for a tenderfoot, had to sit up an dtake notice. They would have taken closer notice had they understood how minutely he had studied the mines, how patiently he had explored mile after mile of galleries, how many specifmens of ore he had examined with his own hands, how carefully he had gone into every detail, and why.

After two years in Butte, Heinze suddenly left the place, returned to New York, scraped together what money he could and went to Germany, there to continue his studies. Two years later he reappeared in Butte, accompanied by his brother, Arthur, a shrewd lawyer, and about $50,000, the proceeds of a legacy left by his grandmother.

This was in 1893 or 1894. With his brother and the money he became a great ice cutter in Montana. The two Heinzes studied the mineral land laws as closely as Augustus had ever studied mines and minerals. Whenever Arthur discovered what he considered a legal flaw in the title of a mine it was attacked. Presently Heinze had the whole Montana copper region stirred as it had never been stirred before, with the entire money world looking on, interested, in spite of itself, by the size of the stakes.

It was the lawsuits which ensued between Heinze and the mining companies taken over by the Amalgamated that formed the basis of the fierce fight between Heinze and H. H. Rogers. When, as the chief spirit of the Amalgamated, Rogers bought the mines involved, he necessarily bought the Heinze quarrels and suits along with them. The two men never had the slightest personal difference until, in the nature of things, they just had to quarrel over titles.

These various suits were in progress when Lawson of Boston butted in. The passage at arms was between the three—Lawson, Rogers and Heinze—and one Addicks, whose specialty had been gas, not copper, as well as occasional attempts at reconciliation, long made mostly by Lawson, were undoubtedly highly picturesque, even without the glamor shed upon them by Lawson's remarkable pen. As related in his "Frenzied Finance," they gave the reading public an altogether new notion of some things.

W. A. Clark's several campaigns for a United States senatorship from Montana and his final success are a part of the string of copper romances and so are most of the better political fights in that state, and likewise the tremendous graft charges and the marvelous list of crimes, some only charged and others actually committed, for the red metal's sake.

Great Copper Awakening.

Possibly the period of such tumultuous copper doings as those of Clark and Daly, of Heinze and Lawson has been brought to a close. At all events, the copper world has apparently begun to settle down to a more or less regular routine of production and sale and stock speculation, somewhat as the petroleum world adjusted itself subsequent to the formation of the Standard Oil company, after years of upheavals which sometimes created dozens of fortunes in a day, only to destroy them in as brief a time.

The Rogers-Heinze feud, which involved the Boston & Montana and the Butte & Boston properties was ended nearly two years ago, and no other copper trouble approaching it in seriousness has sprung up since.

Today in each of the three great red metal districts of the United States—the Superior region, Montana and Arizona-New Mexico—copper mining is now running along almost as smoothly as the mining of iron, though of course subject to greater disturbances from stock fluctuation and new discoveries, since exploration parties are constantly at work in all the three main regions of present production and others besides.

The most noteworthy exploring expedition organized in late years was sent to Arizona from the Superior district in 1898. The Olivers, George E. Tenor, W. E. Corey, James Gayley, Thomas F. Cole and others now heavily interested in iron mining and the United state Steel corporation, D. M. Clemens, Thomas Morrison, Charles Briggs, James and Thomas Hoatson, Charles d'Autremont, Chester A. Congdon, Charles A. Duncan, Joseph B. Cotton and John D. Ryan, managing director of the Amalgamated, but originally a Calumet & Hecla man, were all interested.

The result was the discovery and development of the Calumet & Arizona, now eleventh in production among the world's copper mines, at Bisbee, Ariz. The Calumet & Arizona property is close by the Copper Queen, sixth in point of production (64,570,874 pounds avoirdupois in 1904), which has been doing business just as long as the Anaconda, but whose owners failed to develop their neighborhood.

The exploring party of 1898 did not fall asleep after making their big strike in Arizona, but transferred their energies at once to Montana, in the vicinity of Butte. There they went at the little old Speculator mine and adjacent properties with all the energy imaginable. Before long they were turning out two or three million pounds of ore a month. This resulted in such an awakening of the Amalgamated and allied interests as had not been known in Butte for a long time.

This awakening was not disastrous, however—in fact, it was exactly the reverse, since it resulted in an all round peace.

Thomas F. Cole, Reorganizer.

Thomas F. Cole of Duluth, president of the Oliver Iron Mining company, the practical mining organization of the United States Steel corporation, president of Green Cananea, reorganizer of Greene Consolidated and important in Butte Coalition, North Butte and Calumet & Arizona (besides several other big copper companies) will not himself admit it for publication, but his friends and associates consider him the leading personal force in their group. His career has been a romance of iron, the gray metal, as well as of copper, the red.

Cole is 45, six feet tall or thereabouts, not stout—but by no means gaunt—muscular, erect and with a big head set on a strong neck which surmounts broad shoulders and a deep chest. He is fair of complexion, hair and mustache; his eyes are blue, his nose is prominent, his voice is deep and strong, his speech is direct.

He looks about as you would expect a man to look who had risen from poverty when a child to be a captain of industry before reaching the half-century mark, and who, in two more than a dozen years, was able to advance from a penniless, jobless condition to one of great wealth and power, with 20,000 men directly in his employ and thousands more employed by companies which he heads or with which he is connected.

He was born in 1862 in Keweenaw county, Mich. His father, an Englishman, employed in the Phoenix copper mine, was killed in a mine accident. Two years later Thomas F. had to leave school and help his mother support her family of five children, of whom he was the eldest.

He began work sorting stamp rock in the Phoenix and Cliff mines; became a wash boy in the Cliff mills inside of a year, and early in his teens went to work on the Hecla & Torch Lake railroad, belonging to the Calumet & Hecla. He was on the railroad seven or eight years altogether, and was brakeman at 15. His work was hard and his days long, but somehow he found time to study in his off hours, so that when he wanted to use it he had almost, if not quite, as much and as well digested knowledge of mineralogy as if he had been able to take a scientific college course.

In 1886, at 24, he left copper for iron, being made a clerk in the office of the Menominee Mining company, pioneers in the Menominee range. He was soon chief clerk, with 1,000 men under him. Then Ferdinand Schlesinger of Milwaukee bought out the Chapin Iron company. He controlled several small iron mines in the same range, and made Cole manager. He soon became the most extensive iron miner on this continent, his office being located at Negaunee, Mich.

Then in 1893 came the panic. Schlesinger's financial backers did not support him, and he failed. Cole stuck to the concern loyally, and prolonged its operations a month or two after its bankruptcy, paying wages and other obligations out of his own savings until they were used up. Then, again penniless and out of a job, he had to begin all over again. His reputation was first-class, though; he was offered the superintendency of the mines on the Marquette, Menominee and Gogebic ranges, and soon was at the head of the Norrie and other big operations and carrying on a bigger business than before.

Soon after the formation of the United States Steel corporation, Cole was made president and manager of the corporation's iron mining organization and thus executive head of the greatest iron mining operations in history. In 1905, says Horace J. Stevens, the Oliver Iron Mining company's output was 20,000,000 gross tons of ore; enough to load a fleet of barges reaching from New York to Liverpool, or two solid freight trains, one extending from New York to Chicago, another from Superior to the Gulf.

Cole changed his headquarters to Duluth six years ago, and his residence, while rather modest for a man of his grade, is one of the best known houses in the Zenith City of the Unsalted Seas. It stands well upon the hillside, overlooking the lake on Seventeenth avenue east, now spoken of oftener as "Copper Avenue" than otherwise by Duluthians.

Cole is no quitter. His present associates in copper found that out when sinking the shaft of the Calumet & Arizona in the Copper Queen district. It was put down 200 feet without discovering ore; then 300, then 400. At 500 feet there was still no ore. At 600 some of the party began to wonder, but Cole was not one of them. Seven hundred, 800—still no ore, but the shaft went right on down, and there was no halt until a depth of 900 feet had been reached. Then ore was found, and Cole's determination to persevere was justified.

Thomas F. Cole spends about three-quarters of his time "on the road" traveling largely in his own private car, New York, Bisbee, Ariz., and Butte, Mont., being the points he "makes" oftenest. He is athletic in temperament and likes to take an occasional fall out of any one he happens to be with, just for the fun of it. He is a great lover of music, and when in New York attends opera every night, if opera is being given. He has a big collection of phonograph records made by the leading opera singers of the day, both men and women, and gets much pleasure from these when at home in Duluth.

He plays golf, but not enough to do it very well; he is too busy. He is a great fisherman, and, with his family, put in the month of August every year on the Sylvania fish and game reservation in Northern Michigan. It covers twenty-seven square miles, much of it heavily timbered, and abounds in little lakes and streams, which are full of brook trout, black bass and other game fish. It is away from the railroad and its owners, who include President Corey of the Steel corporation, besides Messrs. Gayley, Clemson Morrison and Kerr Davidson, propose to maintain its wild estate indefinitely.

John D. Ryan, managing director of the Amalgamated, is much the same type of man as Thomas F. Cole. They were boys together and are close friends today. Ryan is a native of Michigan and, like Cole, began at the bottom. He has a brother who was obliged some years ago to go to Montana for his health. John D. went with him and grew

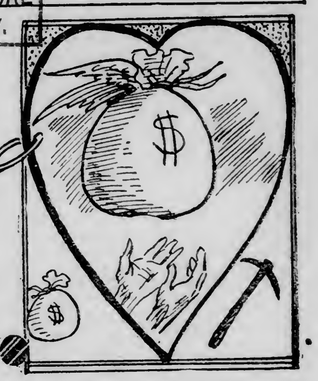
GREAT AMERICAN COPPER ROMANCES.



The First One Came Only Forty-One Years Ago When the Famous Calumet and Hecla Mine Was Developed, and Added Immensely to Boston's Wealth, Making It the Great American Copper Center Financially---Our Copper Production Was Then Only Seventeen Per Cent; Now It is More Than Half the Total.

The Romance of Anaconda Was a Far More Strenuous Thing---It Brought Marcus Daly, J. B. Haggin and Later F. A. Heinze to the Front---H. H. Rogers and Lawson of Boston---The New Generation of Copper "Magnates," of Whom Thomas F. Cole and "Harmonizer" John D. Ryan Are Examples.

By DEXTER MARSHALL.

Copper mining didn't amount to much in the United States until 1866, when the proper development of the great Calumet & Hecla mine was begun. It was the first great American copper romance. It was also a distinct triumph for the trained scientist as compared with the so-called "practical man" who works by the rule of thumb.

Everybody in every copper center knows the story. Copper was mined so many years ago in the northern peninsula of Michigan that only faint traces of the ancient miners who belonged to the blotted out race which lived before the Indians, have ever been found. The Indians themselves never mined copper, but none to approach Calumet & Hecla, the greatest single source of copper known. It boasts today the deepest shafts and the most powerful mining machinery and pumps in the world.

American Copper Production.

The United States now produces more than half of all the copper mined anywhere—in 1904, 362,739, out of a world total of 641,694 "long" tons, or 56 per cent—but in 1880, fourteen years after Calumet & Hecla had been started, only 27,600 out of 253,959 tons, or 17 per cent. It was not until a dozen years ago, in 1895, that our production reached 50 per cent, the total for the United States then being 169,917, the foreign 164,648, and the grand total 334,565 long tons.

The greatest copper camp today is at Butte, Mont., but Calumet & Hecla still holds the record for a single mine, its production for 1904 being 95,100,160 pounds avoirdupois, just a shade over the Anaconda mine, near Butte. Its figures for 1904 were 85,000,000 pounds even, and for the Boston & Montana mine in the same district, 80,000,000 pounds. Of the forty-three copper mines producing 10,000,000 pounds or more a year of copper each, twenty-seven are in the United States, three in Mexico and one in British Columbia, making thirty-one in North America. The remaining twelve are distributed as follows: Japan, five; Spain, two; Australia, two; Africa, one; Tasmania, one, and Germany, one. There are some big mines in South America, but none of them sizes up to the level of the world's first two-score and three.

The Anaconda mine was not opened until 1880, fourteen years after Agassiz had proved that he was practical as well as scientific. Silver, not copper, was the metal sought and found in profitable quantities until a depth of about 150 feet had been reached. Then the silver ore petered out, but a few feet lower down the copper ores appeared. Today twenty-seven years after Anaconda's opening, there is no sign of ore exhaustion.

Butte, the wonderful Montana city, built on a mile square foundation composed mainly of copper ore, has been the scene of more and better known copper romances than any other place on the crust of the earth. It was at Butte that W. A. Clark, more recently and after much tribulation a United States senator, began his career as a trader among the miners under the nickname of "Baking Powder Billy." It was at Butte that Marcus Daly, now dead, and J. B. Higgin, "the Turk," still erected in copper, although his chief interests are now in Peru, formed their famous partnership with Hugh Tevis. Daly bought Anaconda on behalf of the firm, for $30,000 and, refusing to be discouraged when the silver gave out, kept on till he struck copper. Here is one version of the story:

Haggin and Tevis, who remained in California while Daly was in Montana, sent another expert to watch Daly. This expert said the mine was worthless and started for San Francisco to report Daly had no money left, but he had faith in Anaconda, managed to inspire a few of the miners with confidence, and they kept steadily at work, trusting the mine for their wages. Not long after the expert's departure they struck it rich.

Daly was able to borrow quite a pot of money on the strength of this. He got a horse, hired a messenger and gave him samples of the newly found ore.

"Your job," said Daly to the messenger, "is to beat that dodgasted expert to Frisco. Ride this horse till he drops if you have to; then get another horse, and as many as you please after that, but get there first."

The messenger did it. Nineteen years afterward—in 1899—Daly and Haggin sold the majority of the Anaconda stock to the Amalgamated Copper company, controlled by H. H. Rogers and other Standard Oil "magnates," who formed it as a "holding" organization, in which they could invest their surplus millions when they got in the way.

The Tumultuous Heinze.

F. Augustus Heinze, long most actively disturbing factor in the copper world, first appeared in Montana, a "terderfoot" fresh from school, in 1889, ten years before Amalgamated was organized.

Heinze was born in Brooklyn, of German descent, and, although then only 26, had studied mineralogy and mining engineering at the Columbia School of Mines, and thought he knew a few things about his business. He began as an "inside" engineer for the Boston & Montana Copper company at $5 a day, and worked with all the determination and energy he could muster ten or twelve hours a day. Evenings he cut something of a social dash, and was one of the few in Butte with nerve enough to wear evening clothes at dinner.

This gave him a certain prominence in the camp. Before long he became a marked figure for something else. Little by little, it was found out that he knew more about copper in general and the Butte mines in particular than most of them, and those who had laughed at him for a tenderfoot, had to sit up an dtake notice. They would have taken closer notice had they understood how minutely he had studied the mines, how patiently he had explored mile after mile of galleries, how many specimens of ore he had examined with his own hands, how carefully he had gone into every detail, and why.

After two years in Butte, Heinze suddenly left the place, returned to New York, scraped together what money he could and went to Germany, there to continue his studies. Two years later he reappeared in Butte, accompanied by his brother, Arthur, a shrewd lawyer, and about $50,000, the proceeds of a legacy left by his grandmother.

This was in 1893 or 1894. With his brother and the money he became a great ice cutter in Montana. The two Heinzes studied the mineral land laws as closely as Augustus had ever studied mines and minerals. Whenever Arthur discovered what he considered a legal flaw in the title of a mine it was attacked. Presently Heinze had the whole Montana copper region stirred as it had never been stirred before, with the entire money world looking on, interested, in spite of itself, by the size of the stakes.

It was the lawsuits which ensued between Heinze and the mining companies taken over by the Amalgamated that formed the basis of the fierce fight between Heinze and H. H. Rogers. When, as the chief spirit of the Amalgamated, Rogers bought the mines involved, he necessarily bought the Heinze quarrels and suits along with them. The two men never had the slightest personal difference until, in the nature of things, they just had to quarrel over titles.

These various suits were in progress when Lawson of Boston butted in. The passage at arms was between the three—Lawson, Rogers and Heinze—and one Addicks, whose specialty had been gas, not copper, as well as occasional attempts at reconciliation, long made mostly by Lawson, were undoubtedly highly picturesque, even without the glamor shed upon them by Lawson's remarkable pen. As related in his "Frenzied Finance," they gave the reading public an altogether new notion of some things.

W. A. Clark's several campaigns for a United States senatorship from Montana and his final success are a part of the string of copper romances and so are most of the better political fights in that state, and likewise the tremendous graft charges and the marvelous list of crimes, some only charged and others actually committed, for the red metal's sake.

Great Copper Awakening.

Possibly the period of such tumultuous copper doings as those of Clark and Daly, of Heinze and Lawson has been brought to a close. At all events, the copper world has apparently begun to settle down to a more or less regular routine of production and sale and stock speculation, somewhat as the petroleum world adjusted itself subsequent to the formation of the Standard Oil company, after years of upheavals which sometimes created dozens of fortunes in a day, only to destroy them in as brief a time.

The Rogers-Heinze feud, which involved the Boston & Montana and the Butte & Boston properties was ended nearly two years ago, and no other copper trouble approaching it in seriousness has sprung up since.

Today in each of the three great red metal districts of the United States—the Superior region, Montana and Arizona-New Mexico—copper mining is now running along almost as smoothly as the mining of iron, though of course subject to greater disturbances from stock fluctuation and new discoveries, since exploration parties are constantly at work in all the three main regions of present production and others besides.

The most noteworthy exploring expedition organized in late years was sent to Arizona from the Superior district in 1898. The Olivers, George E. Tenor, W. E. Corey, James Gayley, Thomas F. Cole and others now heavily interested in iron mining and the United state Steel corporation, D. M. Clemens, Thomas Morrison, Charles Briggs, James and Thomas Hoatson, Charles d'Autremont, Chester A. Congdon, Charles A. Duncan, Joseph B. Cotton and John D. Ryan, managing director of the Amalgamated, but originally a Calumet & Hecla man, were all interested.

The result was the discovery and development of the Calumet & Arizona, now eleventh in production among the world's copper mines, at Bisbee, Ariz. The Calumet & Arizona property is close by the Copper Queen, sixth in point of production (64,570,874 pounds avoirdupois in 1904), which has been doing business just as long as the Anaconda, but whose owners failed to develop their neighborhood.

The exploring party of 1898 did not fall asleep after making their big strike in Arizona, but transferred their energies at once to Montana, in the vicinity of Butte. There they went at the little old Speculator mine and adjacent properties with all the energy imaginable. Before long they were turning out two or three million pounds of ore a month. This resulted in such an awakening of the Amalgamated and allied interests as had not been known in Butte for a long time.

This awakening was not disastrous, however—in fact, it was exactly the reverse, since it resulted in an all round peace.

Thomas F. Cole, Reorganizer.

Thomas F. Cole of Duluth, president of the Oliver Iron Mining company, the practical mining organization of the United States Steel corporation, president of Green Cananea, reorganizer of Greene Consolidated and important in Butte Coalition, North Butte and Calumet & Arizona (besides several other big copper companies) will not himself admit it for publication, but his friends and associates consider him the leading personal force in their group. His career has been a romance of iron, the gray metal, as well as of copper, the red.

Cole is 45, six feet tall or thereabouts, not stout—but by no means gaunt—muscular, erect and with a big head set on a strong neck which surmounts broad shoulders and a deep chest. He is fair of complexion, hair and mustache; his eyes are blue, his nose is prominent, his voice is deep and strong, his speech is direct.

He looks about as you would expect a man to look who had risen from poverty when a child to be a captain of industry before reaching the half-century mark, and who, in two more than a dozen years, was able to advance from a penniless, jobless condition to one of great wealth and power, with 20,000 men directly in his employ and thousands more employed by companies which he heads or with which he is connected.

He was born in 1862 in Keweenaw county, Mich. His father, an Englishman, employed in the Phoenix copper mine, was killed in a mine accident. Two years later Thomas F. had to leave school and help his mother support her family of five children, of whom he was the eldest.

He began work sorting stamp rock in the Phoenix and Cliff mines; became a wash boy in the Cliff mills inside of a year, and early in his teens went to work on the Hecla & Torch Lake railroad, belonging to the Calumet & Hecla. He was on the railroad seven or eight years altogether, and was brakeman at 15. His work was hard and his days long, but somehow he found time to study in his off hours, so that when he wanted to use it he had almost, if not quite, as much and as well digested knowledge of mineralogy as if he had been able to take a scientific college course.

In 1886, at 24, he left copper for iron, being made a clerk in the office of the Menominee Mining company, pioneers in the Menominee range. He was soon chief clerk, with 1,000 men under him. Then Ferdinand Schlesinger of Milwaukee bought out the Chapin Iron company. He controlled several small iron mines in the same range, and made Cole manager. He soon became the most extensive iron miner on this continent, his office being located at Negaunee, Mich.

Then in 1893 came the panic. Schlesinger's financial backers did not support him, and he failed. Cole stuck to the concern loyally, and prolonged its operations a month or two after its bankruptcy, paying wages and other obligations out of his own savings until they were used up. Then, again penniless and out of a job, he had to begin all over again. His reputation was first-class, though; he was offered the superintendency of the mines on the Marquette, Menominee and Gogebic ranges, and soon was at the head of the Norrie and other big operations and carrying on a bigger business than before.

Soon after the formation of the United States Steel corporation, Cole was made president and manager of the corporation's iron mining organization and thus executive head of the greatest iron mining operations in history. In 1905, says Horace J. Stevens, the Oliver Iron Mining company's output was 20,000,000 gross tons of ore; enough to load a fleet of barges reaching from New York to Liverpool, or two solid freight trains, one extending from New York to Chicago, another from Superior to the Gulf.

Cole changed his headquarters to Duluth six years ago, and his residence, while rather modest for a man of his grade, is one of the best known houses in the Zenith City of the Unsalted Seas. It stands well upon the hillside, overlooking the lake on Seventeenth avenue east, now spoken of oftener as "Copper Avenue" than otherwise by Duluthians.

Cole is no quitter. His present associates in copper found that out when sinking the shaft of the Calumet & Arizona in the Copper Queen district. It was put down 200 feet without discovering ore; then 300, then 400. At 500 feet there was still no ore. At 600 some of the party began to wonder, but Cole was not one of them. Seven hundred, 800—still no ore, but the shaft went right on down, and there was no halt until a depth of 900 feet had been reached. Then ore was found, and Cole's determination to persevere was justified.

Thomas F. Cole spends about three-quarters of his time "on the road" traveling largely in his own private car, New York, Bisbee, Ariz., and Butte, Mont., being the points he "makes" oftenest. He is athletic in temperament and likes to take an occasional fall out of any one he happens to be with, just for the fun of it. He is a great lover of music, and when in New York attends opera every night, if opera is being given. He has a big collection of phonograph records made by the leading opera singers of the day, both men and women, and gets much pleasure from these when at home in Duluth.

He plays golf, but not enough to do it very well; he is too busy. He is a great fisherman, and, with his family, put in the month of August every year on the Sylvania fish and game reservation in Northern Michigan. It covers twenty-seven square miles, much of it heavily timbered, and abounds in little lakes and streams, which are full of brook trout, black bass and other game fish. It is away from the railroad and its owners, who include President Corey of the Steel corporation, besides Messrs. Gayley, Clemson Morrison and Kerr Davidson, propose to maintain its wild estate indefinitely.

John D. Ryan, managing director of the Amalgamated, is much the same type of man as Thomas F. Cole. They were boys together and are close friends today. Ryan is a native of Michigan and, like Cole, began at the bottom. He has a brother who was obliged some years ago to go to Montana for his health. John D. went with him and grew

SOCIETY

PEOPLE ARE SELF-CENTERED.

That philosophic-sounding sentence explains the dearth of brilliant social affairs that ordinarily enliven the spring season. When one is entertaining the seamstress, one is prone not to bother about entertaining any of one's other enemies, and when one is energetically rearranging one's household effects one becomes completely wrapped up in the various effects that may be achieved with the requisite amount of ingenuity. These two excuses, spring housecleaning and spring sewing, have blocked social progress for six weeks, more or less, and it would seem that there ought to be a few houses in town shining with the shine that would gladden even a German housewife's heart. But the returns from much enquiry tends to show that "they" are still at it.

Arbutus hunting is one of the things that everyone is planning. The fragrant, hardy and lovely little pink flower, almost the earliest in this locality, is welcomed almost hysterically, and during the week several informal little groups of hunters went together for a day to bring home baskets of the pink beauties. These out-of-door pleasurings are of the most informal and simple sort and bring as much pleasure as any other one thing of the spring.

The May Musical festival of next week is, of course, the most important social and musical event that Duluth will enjoy during this spring. There is widespread interest in this first festival, and any number of parties for the opening evening have been planned. A most brilliant spring season is assured.

One of the interesting events of next week will be the banquet held next Friday evening by the congregation of the First Unitarian church of this city in honor of the Twentieth anniversary of the founding of the local church. The banquet will be served at 6:30 o'clock at the church and will be followed by a program of toasts. F. H. Barnard will preside as toastmaster.

One of the charming functions of the week was the luncheon last Saturday at the Kitchi Gammi club at which Mrs. A. D. Thomson was hostess in compliment to Mrs. A. T. Atwater of Montana. CLUBS AND MUSICAL.

First May Festival of Music.

The last week has been a busy one among the directors of the Duluth Oratorio club in preparation for the first May festival to be given at the Head of the Lakes. After many months of preparation everything points to a brilliant and successful launching of Duluth as the home of a Oratorio society that will present as fine a festival of music as any to be given throughout the country.

The concerts will be given Tuesday and Wednesday evenings and Wednesday afternoon at the First Methodist church. The chorus under the direction of Horace W. Reyner has been most carefully drilled and prepared in its part of presenting the two cantatas of Coleridge Taylor "Hiawatha's Wedding Feast" and "The Death of Minnehaha." The music of the English composer has caught the spirit of the wonderfully musical poem of Longfellow's, and the two exquisite passages telling of the wedding feast of the young Indian and the beautiful maiden from the land of the Dakotas and of the death of Minnehaha, are the text of the oratorios to be presented. The Minneapolis Symphony orchestra, one of the fine musical organizations of the country, will assist and the soloists will be Shanna Cumming of New York, soprano; Holmes Cowper, tenor, and Arthur Beresford, baritone, of Chicago, and Mrs. Grace Senior Brearley, pianist, of this city. Emil Oberhoffer of Minneapolis, and Horace W. Reyner of this city, will direct.

The officers of the Oratorio society are: President, Stephen H. Jones; secretary, F. G. Dunlop; treasurer, H. M. Whetsel, and librarian, W. H. Interesting Pupils' Recital.

A number of pupils from the class of Mrs. E. L. Schmied and Miss Bertha Schmied were heard in a piano recital last evening at the Pilgrim Congregation church. The auditorium was filled with a fashionable audience and the program which was in large part repeated by request from a piano recital of two weeks ago was a most enjoyable pupils' program. The numbers were played with precision and intelligence and the interest of the audience was held from the opening two piano number played by Helen Smith, Marion Fitger, Elsey Cole and Dorothy Dowse to the closing number of the program, "Marsch"-by Hollaender, played by Margaret Panton, Marie d'Autremont, Marjorie Harrison and Ruth Surton. The solo numbers were presented by Irene Pattison, Dora Williams, Carolyn Munger, Dorothy Olcott, Leo Schmied and Irma Richards. Miss Berta Schmied appeared in two numbers, a Chopin Etude and Schubert-Liszt number, "Hark, Hark the Lark" and was warmly received. Hazel Levin, Elizabeth Olcott, Melville Silvey and Dorothy Crosby played a two piano number.

Mrs. Schmied presented as an assisting artist, Carl Venth of St. Paul, violinist and composer. His numbers were marked by a beautiful tone of breadth and power and a marked individuality. He was most enthusiastically received and played double encores. His numbers were Viewtemps "Reverie," and Wieniawski number "Legende" with one of his own compositions, "Schottische Rhapsodie."

A MINE OF RICHES.

Why should I go to the Kloudike
When a mine of wealth is here?
Why go to seek for riches far,
When a treasure sure is near?
Why waste the years in lonely toil,
When bliss is mine to take?
Why seek the lesser good of gold
With happiness my stake?

Great diamonds? They are in her eyes,
My jewels of pure light.
Gold masses? They are in her hair,
A crown of glory bright.
Her ruby lips that smile on me
Show pearls of snowy gleam,
And ivory is her tender brow
Where love's sweet fancies dream.

O dross for which men sell their souls,
What is it to this mine
Wherein more treasurers every day
My heart work doth divine?
I'd rather have my lady here,
Than all the treasures there.
For she's mine, and her father is
A multi-millionaire.

THE PATCH AS A GUIDE.

Success Magazine: A New Englander recently had occasion to engage a gardener. One morning two applicants appeared—one a decidedly decent-looking man, and the other of much less prepossessing appearance and manner.

After very little hesitation, the man of the house chose the latter applicant.

A friend who was present evinced surprise at the selection, asking:

"Has that man ever worked for you before?"

"No," replied the other; in fact, I never saw any of them before today."

"Then why did you choose the shorter man? The other had a much better face."

"Face!" exclaimed the proprietor of the place in disgust. "Let me tell you that, when you pick out a gardener, you want to go by his overalls. If they're patched on the knees you want him. If the patch is on the seat of the trousers, you don't."

SOCIETY

PEOPLE ARE SELF-CENTERED.

That philosophic-sounding sentence explains the dearth of brilliant social affairs that ordinarily enliven the spring season. When one is entertaining the seamstress, one is prone not to bother about entertaining any of one's other enemies, and when one is energetically rearranging one's household effects one becomes completely wrapped up in the various effects that may be achieved with the requisite amount of ingenuity. These two excuses, spring housecleaning and spring sewing, have blocked social progress for six weeks, more or less, and it would seem that there ought to be a few houses in town shining with the shine that would gladden even a German housewife's heart. But the returns from much enquiry tends to show that "they" are still at it.

Arbutus hunting is one of the things that everyone is planning. The fragrant, hardy and lovely little pink flower, almost the earliest in this locality, is welcomed almost hysterically, and during the week several informal little groups of hunters went together for a day to bring home baskets of the pink beauties. These out-of-door pleasurings are of the most informal and simple sort and bring as much pleasure as any other one thing of the spring.

The May Musical festival of next week is, of course, the most important social and musical event that Duluth will enjoy during this spring. The banquet will be served at 6:30 o'clock at the church and will be followed by a program of toasts. F. H. Barnard will preside as toastmaster.

CLUBS AND MUSICAL.

First May Festival of Music.

The last week has been a busy one among the directors of the Duluth Oratorio club in preparation for the first May festival to be given at the Head of the Lakes. After many months of preparation everything points to a brilliant and successful launching of Duluth as the home of a Oratorio society that will present as fine a festival of music as any to be given throughout the country.

The concerts will be given Tuesday and Wednesday evenings and Wednesday afternoon at the First Methodist church. The chorus under the direction of Horace W. Reyner has been most carefully drilled and prepared in its part of presenting the two cantatas of Coleridge Taylor "Hiawatha's Wedding Feast" and "The Death of Minnehaha." The music of the English composer has caught the spirit of the wonderfully musical poem of Longfellow's, and the two exquisite passages telling of the wedding feast of the young Indian and the beautiful maiden from the land of the Dakotas and of the death of Minnehaha, are the text of the oratorios to be presented. The Minneapolis Symphony orchestra, one of the fine musical organizations of the country, will assist and the soloists will be Shanna Cumming of New York, soprano; Holmes Cowper, tenor, and Arthur Beresford, baritone, of Chicago, and Mrs. Grace Senior Brearley, pianist, of this city. Emil Oberhoffer of Minneapolis, and Horace W. Reyner of this city, will direct.

The officers of the Oratorio society are: President, Stephen H. Jones; secretary, F. G. Dunlop; treasurer, H. M. Whetsel, and librarian, W. H. Hancock, Jr. The vice presidents are John Miller, Otto C. Hartman and James N. McKindley and directors are Watson S. Moore, G. A. Tomlinson, J. H. Cook, Ernest Lachmund, E. C. Clow, J. C. Interesting Pupils' Recital.

A number of pupils from the class of Mrs. E. L. Schmied and Miss Bertha Schmied were heard in a piano recital last evening at the Pilgrim Congregation church. The auditorium was filled with a fashionable audience and the program which was in large part repeated by request from a piano recital of two weeks ago was a most enjoyable pupils' program. The numbers were played with precision and intelligence and the interest of the audience was held from the opening two piano number played by Helen Smith, Marion Fitger, Elsey Cole and Dorothy Dowse to the closing number of the program, "Marsch" by Hollaender, played by Margaret Panton, Marie d'Autremont, Marjorie Harrison and Ruth Sutton. The solo numbers were presented by Irene Pattison, Dora Williams, Carolyn Munger, Dorothy Olcott, Leo Schmied and Irma Richards. Miss Berta Schmied appeared in two numbers, a Chopin Etude and Schubert-Liszt number, "Hark, Hark 'the Lark" and was warmly received. Hazel Levin, Elizabeth Olcott, Melville Silvey and Dorothy Crosby played a two piano number.

Mrs. Schmied presented as an assisting artist, Carl Venth of St. Paul, violinist and composer. His numbers were marked by a beautiful tone of breadth and power and a marked individuality. He was most enthusiastically received and played double encores. His numbers were "Heuxtemps "Reverie,' and Wienlawski number "Legende" with one of his own compositions, "Schottische Rhapsodic."

Mrs. Brearly will return to this city Monday, and Tuesday evening will play the Beethoven Sonata in G with orchestra at the opening concert of the May Festival.

A MINE OF RICHES.

Why should I go to the Klondike
When a mine of wealth is here?
Why go to seek for riches far,
When a treasure sure is near?
Why waste the years in lonely toil,
When bliss is mine to take?
Why seek the lesser good of gold
With happiness my stake?

Great diamonds? They are in her eyes,
My jewels of pure light,
Gold masses? They are in her laur,
A crown of glory bright,
Her ruby lips that smile on me
Show pearls of snowy gleam,
And ivory is her tender brow
Where love's sweet fancies dream.

O dross for which men sell their souls,
What is it to this mine
Wherein more treasurers every day
My heart work doth divine?
I'd rather have my lady here,
Than all the treasures there.
For she's mine, and her father is
A multi-millionaire.

THE PATCH AS A GUIDE.

Success Magazine: A New Englander recently had occasion to engage a gardener. One morning two applicants appeared—one a decidedly decent-looking man, and the other of much less prepossessing appearance and manner.

After very little hesitation, the man of the house chose the latter applicant.

A friend who was present evinced surprise at the selection, asking:

"Has that man ever worked for you before?"

"No," replied the other; in fact, I never saw any of them before today."

"Then why did you choose the shorter man? The other had a much better face."

"Face!" exclaimed the proprietor of the place in disgust. "Let me tell you that, when you pick out a gardener, you want to go by his overalls. If they're patched on the knees you want him. If the patch is on the seat of the trousers, you don't."

The pretty, simple marcelled wave coiffure that we have grown accustomed to is in danger of being robbed of its popularity by the stiffer, more elaborate arrangement of little puffs and rolls or, more properly speaking, the Virginia curls. There seems to be no special position for these firm little rolls, for we see them at the top of the head, in the nape of the neck, behind the ears and sometimes even peeping between the waves of hair forming the pompadour. This is fortunate, in a sense, as the coiffure may then be made to suit the face.

The parted hair rolled back with little curls arranged around the back of the head from ear to ear is girlish looking, viewed from every point. And the same coiffure may be adopted by a matron by giving the pompadour effect to the front instead of the parting, which, strangely enough, while preserving the youth of a young woman, will have a tendency to add years to the one past 30. A more mature face requires the dignity of the pompadour. The parting of a young girl's hair suggests quaintness on the older woman, we imagine primness and sometimes a style that is altogether old fashioned.

It is an utter impossibility to lay down any set rules in regard to becoming hair dressing. Of course, if latest models are the only desire this accomplishment may be fulfilled by watching the hair dressers' windows, but in my opinion there is no better school for study than one of the large, better class department stores, where the young women employes usually display good taste in arranging their hair, and though they frequently err by going to extremes their coiffures are generally practical. This is another great point that is not always considered in models such as are seen at the theater or other public gatherings where there are well dressed women, for the styles of hair dressing worn at fashionable places often are decidedly smart, but when attempted by an amateur are often entirely different, especially when the hat is added. Now, young women in shops usually try to look smart on the street, and, it goes without saying, must look as neat and attractive as possible when in the stores, so I repeat there is no better schools for the study of hair dressing than a large department store.

A woman setting out for this purpose should carefully glance through the different aisles, taking note of the various shapes of hair, etc., until she finds some one as nearly as possible the same type as herself. She may or may not approve to the coiffure; if not, she will possibly be able to tell herself why not. Perhaps the hair is strained, or it may be a lock is too loose; anyway, let her carry the effect in her mind and notice whether the same style is much more—or less—becoming to a different type, for many women will be found to dress their hair alike, though of opposite types. Notice whether the face is round or long, the nose small or prominent, and view well the head from all points. Here, too, is a special advantage. These heads are not the inanimate things of hairdressers' window, or the elaborate coiffures for full dress, but the everyday, pretty, practical hair arrangements on heads ever in motion. Again, there are not two or three, but dozens of types for study, with hair of every imaginable shade, quality and texture.

Stunning Parisian Afternoon Costumes

These stylish Parisian frocks are models that will be much worn here during the coming summer and early fall, for they are made on lines that will be equally becoming to young women and to matrons. The designs of these costumes are simple enough for the home dressmaker to follow without difficulty, a recommendation that will appeal strongly to women who make or remodel their own frocks. In cloth, voile or silks, these dresses would be stunning.

Novel Traveling Bags

ALLIGATOR SKIN IS SMART.
FROM JAMES MCCREERY & CO.

Traveling bags, only a trifle larger than leather purses used for shopping, are now fitted with small brushes, combs and toilet boxes, so that they are convenient to take on short trips out of town, when one needs only a change of linen, etc., for the toilet articles are so neatly and closely held together on the sides of these miniature valises that there is room in the bottom for a few small pieces of clothing.

The combs and brushes, as well as the boxes, bottles, etc., are all encased in leather to match that of which the bag is made, and consequently are decidedly practical for train or boat travel; then, too, they are especially desirable because they need not be handled with such care as ivory, wood or metal backed pieces.

These bags, that are half purse, half valise, seem to be popular in two shapes, one of which is almost a square, the other an oblong design. Both styles are finished with metal clasps and strong two-piece leather handles, that make them particularly easy to carry when packed for a journey.

Those made of alligator skin in brown are decidedly smart, for the rough leather shows to disadvantage in the golden tints of this favorite color.

Less showy but perhaps more serviceable are those small sealskin grips. In light and dark browns they are neat and in black are much liked by elderly women who prefer the darker shades of leather for traveling purposes.

Heavy Linen Fabrics Will Be Worn by Boys and Girls

By ELIZABETH LEE.

The heavier, more substantial butcher linens are being revived for children's wear this season, and they are a welcome change, as the fabrics are most practical, wash well and, though heavy, are cool. Then, too, they look smart when made up with as little trimming as possible, and the simple lines are far more appropriate for construction than anything more elaborate, so that the little frocks, coats and wraps may be safely attempted by the home dressmaker.

In dresses, guimpes and jumper modes are to be preferred, both for comfort's sake and laundry saving. A pretty little frock in this style seen recently in a shop was of soft cadet blue, box pleated into the belt and hemmed on the bottom. Above the hem on each box pleat was a single wild rose worked in heavy outline with linen floss. The jumper, box pleated into a band at the top, was finished there with a scalloped collar of the blue buttonholed with white, and worked with single roses, and the slashed sleeves were similarly finished. The guimpe was of fine lawn. The same thing may be carried out in a one-piece dress for small girls, box pleated from the top to long waist length, the fullness springing from the pleats forming the skirt portion, and if the embroidery should be beyond the powers of the amateur sewer, then embroidered motifs could be applied. Such a frock will be smart and launder perfectly. Setting the colors, if there are checks, stripes, etc., should not be forgotten before sending to the laundry.

Coats of butcher linen are very much worn, both in white and colors. The brown shades have, of course, crept in even here and stylish box jackets in leather color are touched up with a little white linen and brown soutache, the closing by means of handsome white pear buttons. Small boys look mannish in this style of wrap topped by a leather Tam o' Shanter.

Another revival for boys' wear is the narrow brimmed conventional straw sailor with ribbon band. To boys whom the become nothing is jauntier for summer, though for some reason or another these small men prefer the round soft gray and tan hats. These may be more comfortable, but they certainly lack smartness.

In boys' suits gray appears to be a favorite color, and the box coat with the belt is newer than the belted Norfolk model; otherwise boys' styles remain stationary.

Coats and wraps of linen for girls do not differ greatly from those designed for boys, the added collar and cuffs of embroidered white pique or linen being the only mark of difference. For small children, a long, full skirt attached to a short body, with the cape effect, is the most popular, and at the same time the most appropriate, as such a wrap completely envelopes the figure, while the cape adds warmth as well as beauty.

For misses' wear in the line of light wraps there are loose bolcros and Etons in linens and very light weight cloths that are simple, smart and practical, the preferred trimming being braid or embroidery; and such models offer just the convenience and comfort needed for wear.

Recipe for Breakfast Rolls

By EMMA PADDOCK TELFORD

To make breakfast rolls, you can take some of your bread dough if set over night, or set a special sponge for the rolls, or best of all make your rolls in the day time, then reheat in the oven the next morning for breakfast.

Here are direction for the best Parker House rolls I ever ate, made by an old Virginia cook. She set her sponge in the morning about 10:30 and had the rolls smoking hot for supper at night, then reheated the rest for breakfast. Having boiled two medium sized potatoes in a small bright saucepan, she mashed them fine and creamy, saving the water in which they were boiled.

To the potato and water she now added one compressed yeast cake dissolved in a little lukewarm water, a tablespoonful sugar and a teaspoonful salt. Next came a scant tablespoonful melted lard or butter and enough more lukewarm milk and water to make a quart of the wetting in all. She next sifted into the bread pan three quarts new process flour, and making a hole in the center of that poured in the liquid mixture. This was stirred with a wooded spoon, adding more liquid if necessary until the dough was of the right consistency to work with the hand. It should be just stiff enough so as not to stick to the board. When it feels soft and velvety to the touch, it is returned to the bread bowl, and lightly greased over with melted butter or drippings so that no crust will be formed. Now the pan is lightly covered and set one side, but never on the back of the range, as many cooks do. Now the soft elastic mass is allowed to rise until it blisters and cracks, but not until it puffs up and falls, for then its strength is gone.

About 3 o'clock the dough is again worked into a round ball, and then cut into long strips about as large around as a rolling pin. With a sharp knife these strips are cut into pieces large enough for a medium sized roll, and each one is lightly greased over the top with melted butter. When this is accomplished and the round balls laid in symmetrical, showy rows on the board, Ann begins at the first one to cup off, gives it two or three rolls with a pin on the greased side, and turns it over so that the greased surface comes to the outside and folds over like a turnover, letting the edges come almost together. As they rise they naturally open a little, and if folded only half way over they open too far. She then puts them in the dripping pans about an inch apart, covers them with a light cloth, and sets out of the draught to rise for an hour, or until double in bulk. Lastly, they are baked in a hot oven for twenty minutes, emerging brown, fragrant, crusty outside and a dream of tenderness within.

FRATERNAL HISTORY WILL BE MADE AT CONVENTIONS IN DULUTH NEXT AUGUST

Fraternal Congress and Associated Fraternities May be Merged.

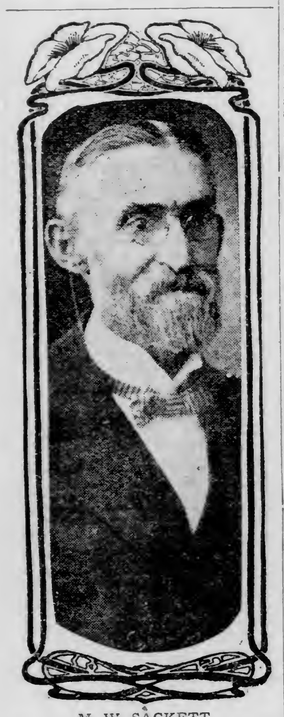
At Least 600 Delegates and Families Will be Present.

Big Preparations Already Being Made for Their Entertainment.

The annual conventions of the National Fraternal congress and the Associated Fraternities of America, which will be held in Duluth the third week in August next will be the greatest event of the kind that has ever occurred in this city or in the orthwest.

Duluth people have read in the papers, from time to time, accounts relative to the importance of the coming conventions, but the real magnitude of those gatherings has, perhaps, not been fully appreciated, nor will it be until the delegations arrive and the business of the two big fraternal organizations has begun.

Generally speaking, the conventions mean the presence in Duluth during the entire third week in August of 600 delegates, comprising some of the best



M. W. SACKETT,
Former Secretary-Treasurer National Fraternal Congress.

representative business men of this country and Canada, men who have been and are, leaders of the great fraternal organizations that they represent. They are the sort that, when they return to their homes, will carry with them views and recollections which will give Duluth some of the best advertising that it has ever had.

These delegates will not come alone. They are men who are bringing their families with them to spend a week in and about Duluth. There will be here also, some 150 to 200 representatives of bond companies, etc., so that a conservative estimate of the number of visitors that will sped a week in Duluth on the occasion mentioned, will be from 1,500 to 2,000.

The conventions of the National Fraternal congress and of the Associated Fraternities of America are eagerly sought after by all the prominent cities because of the classs of visitors that they bring. Last year the National Fraternal congress held its twentieth annual convention in Montreal. This year Duluth will have not only the convention of the Natioal Fraternal congress, but, at the same time, that of the Associated Fraternities of America, a combination that no other city in the United States or Canada has ever before been fortunate enough to secure.

May Consolidate.

The coming event is of the greatest importance in the fraternal world, for it seems very probable that the project for the consolidation of the two big organizations, which has been going forward for many years, will be consummated. Such an event alone would be a great feather in Duluth's cap.

In his annual address before the National Fraternal congress in Montreal, last year, President Talbot said in part:

"I can scarcely find language strong enough to express my conviction touching the importance to the societies of this congress and the country of the proposed consolidation. No great battle was ever won by sending the individual warriors to fight separately and the greatest victories are won only by the centralization and consolidation of forces in any cause."

So nearly did the plans for the consolidation of the two great fraternal forces materialize that it was not a difficult matter, after the convention of the National Fraternal congress was secured for Duluth, to induce the Associated Fraternities of America to set their annual convention date at the same time, in this city.

The fraternal congress and the associated fraternities are comprised of practically all the fraternal insurance societies in the United States and Canada.

Referring to the history of the National Fraternal congress, it may be said that in 1894, it was constituted of thirty-nine societies with a membership of 1,314,966, representing protection in the amount of $249,376,332. At the present time, sixty societies are represented in the congress, with a membership of

A. R. TALBOT,
President National Fraternal Congress.

C. A. GOWER,
Secretary-Treasurer National Fraternal Congress.

about four and one-quarter millions and represent an amount of protection of about $600,000,000.

Influence Is Widespread.

Year by year the influence of the congress has grown and multiplies until now it is recognized as a power to be heeded wherever the interests of fraternal protection are involved. Beyond this it has a more important and marked educational influence, which it exerts in the bringing of fraternal benefit societies from an insecure and unreliable basis to one of confidence and perpetuity.

Although the figures concerning the growth and size of the Associated Fraternities of America are not now available, it is known that the organization has accomplished as much good along fraternal lines as the National Fraternal congress.

The manner in which Duluth came to be selected as the convention place in 1907, of the National Fraternal congress is too well known for repetition. To A. E. McManus and Hon. George R. Laybourn of this city, representatives at the Montreal meeting, is due the credit for the magnificent campaign that concluded with Duluth as the choice of the congress, by an overwhelming vote.

The invitation extended by Messrs. McManus and Laybourn has been ratified by the Duluth Commercial club and by the local fraternal societies. A meeting of the delegates from the various fraternal organizations was held Nov. 30, last, at which George R. Laybourn presided and Bently P. Neff acted as secretary. Committees were appointed to take charge of matters pertaining to the meetings of the National Fraternal congress and the Associated Fraternities of America and preparations have been going forward ever since. The local lodges have been assessed pro rata to finance the entertainment operations.

The chairmen of the various committees are meeting once a week to discuss general matters of importance in connection with the coming event and regular meetings of each committee are to be held.

The principal meetings of the conventions will begin the third Wednesday in August. There are four sections of the congress, the law section, the medical section, the press section and the secretary's section. These will begin work Monday morning and will continue all through the week.

The Spalding hotel has been designated as the headquarters for the National Fraternal Congress and the St. Louis hotel will be the headquarters for the Associated Fraternities of America.

Bishop McGolrick has accepted an invitation to act as chaplain for the National Fraternal Congress, and Bishop Morrison has accepted an invitation to act in a similar capacity for the Associated Fraternities of America.

Governor Is Coming.

Governor John S. Johnson of Minnesota has accepted an invitation to deliver an address of welcome to a joint meeting of both fraternal organizations the first night of the convention week.

The letters of inquiry that are already coming to Duluth regarding the conventions indicate that there will be a large number of visitors here the convention week, who have no connection with the organizations. It is safe to predict that the third week in August will be one of the most strenuous periods of time that the city of Duluth has ever yet gone through.

Following is an official list of the local committees in charge of matters pertaining to the coming conventions:

TEMPLE OF D. O. K. K. WILL BE INSTALLED WITH IMPRESSIVE CEREMONIES

Many Delegates From Neighboring Cities Here for Occasion.

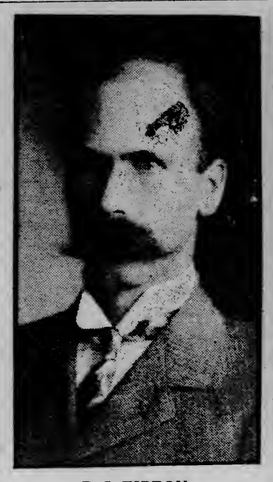
One of Most Important Events of Year in Fraternalism.

One of the most momentous events in local fraternal circles is scheduled to be pulled off this evening, at the Armory when Al Strat temple of the Dramatic Order of the Knights of Khorassan will be formally instituted by the officers and members of the Marah temple of Minneapolis.

The ceremonies will begin at 6:30 sharp, when a parade of all the assembled knights will start from the Knights of Pythias hall, will go west on Superior street, to Seventh avenue, reverse and file back to the Armory, where the installation services will be held. Between 100 and 150 applicants for membership are in town from the ranges, large delegations coming in from Ely, Eveleth, Biwabik, Aurora, Hibbing, Virginia and Two Harbors. Fully 150 members will be enrolled here, and the Marah temple has promised a delegation of at least 100 members for the affair, so the big parade will be no insignificant spectacle.

The officers which were elected at the meeting of the charter members which was held April 23, will be formally installed this evening, as a portion of the exercises, and the ceremonies from start to finish are said to be most elaborate and more impressive and awe-inspiring than those of any of the other orders. R. I. Tipton of Superior will be installed as Royal Vizier. George Cruikshank is secretary, and J. J. Lumm will be installed as keeper of the funds. J. H. Davis bears the title of Imperial Nawob, which, for the benefit of the uninitiated, means instituting officer.

After the close of the exercises, which will last from the arrival of the parade at the Armory building



R. I. TIPTON.
Royal Vizier of the New Temple.

until about 11:30, a lunch will be served, and the big gathering will not break up until well after midnight.

Al Sirat, the name of the Duluth temple, means the path or bridge from earth to paradise, over the abyss of Hades, which all good Mohammedans travel. According to the Koran, this bridge is of the width of the edge of a sword blade, the web of a starved spider, or the finest hair, so the road which is laid out for the Mohammedan in his journey to the upper world is even more narrow and tortuous than that planned for the believer in a more civilized faith.

Those who have been most instrumental in bringing the Duluth temple into existence, and have aroused interest in the new order to such a high pitch as to make its success assured are: J. H. Davis, James Wharton, Louis Dworschak, F. L. Young, J. J. Lumm and J. L. Cromwell. The committee on arrangements for tonight's ceremonies is composed of W. E. McEwen, D. O. Anderson, William Roleff and F. L. Young.

THE KING OF NEVADA MINES

additional proof of the now commonly-accepted theory that the western portion of the Wonder district is going to develop the highest values. Leading up with the remarkable discoveries on the Spider and Wasp, to the north, strikes of high grade ore have been made on the Ruby Wonder, the Colorados, the Rich Gulch and the Golden Wonder, on the south. On the last named property high gold values have been found, and proved up. Two miles south of these a great strike was made on the Black Rock group two weeks ago. With these disclosures of high-grade in this part of the district, the attention of all of the local operators is turning that way, and it promises to be the bonanza center of the camp.

United action among Wonder mine owners to get their ores to the smelters is bearing fruit, and the first apportioned shipment, with all the mines that have ore in readiness contributing, will go forward in a few days. There are a great number of small mines that will contribute to this shipment. Among the larger properties, the Jackpot has 1,500 sacks ready, and has forwarded two wagonloads; the Grand View, 500 sacks, and on the Toohey lease of the Spider and Wasp, twenty-five tons are ready for the wagons. The Wonder View, Vulture, Spider and Wasp and Nevada Wonder all have large quantities of sacked ore at the mines, and they will participate in this first general forwarding movement. Others are preparing to follow.

One of the properties along Wonder Mountain that has shown values within the last few days is the Stampede claim of the Daisy Wonder Mining company. On the Daisy vein, which is believed to be an extension of one of the ledges of the Nevada Wonder ground, laborers are at work building the last fifty feet of road which will be used for the installation of machinery brought to light rock carrying free gold. Several specimens of this were brought into Wonder by Sam Stone, the superintendent, and excited much comment and enthusiasm.

The Sierra Vista company, controlled by Senator Oddie and Sherwood Aldrich, has begun work on its immense gossan capping, which shows assays running as high as $200 a ton.

The Riverside Mining company is installing a gasolene hoist, and will be ready to resume sinking next week. Assays from the ledges cropping on this property run as high as $400 a ton, and the Riverside, on account of its location in the center of the ore zone, is considered one of the best prospects in the district.

The Atwood Mining company opened up a three-foot ledge which shows assays running up to $300. A force of twenty men will be put to work at once, it being the intention of the company to sink two shafts.

One of the largest of recent deals in the Wonder district was that involving the transfer of the Portland group from T. A. McNeil of Wonder to W. C. Cox of San Francisco. Mr. Cox left the camp after the completion of the negotiations, which have enriched Mr. McNeill, former president of the Miners' union in this district, to the extent of $42,500 and a block of stock in the new company, which will be called the Dexter Wonder Mining company.

The group consists of three Portland claims, the Portland Fraction and the Dexter. It adjoins the Queen and Gold Bar, and is just east of "Pike's Peak," and less than 1,000 feet from the Jack Pot. The price paid is said to be justified by the promise of the property.

Ely, Nev., May 11.—It is regarded as certain a new line of railroad between Tonopah and Ely will soon be laid. The surveys have been completed. The Western Pacific is completing its final connection between Winnemucca on the Southern Pacific and Bews on the Nevada Northern. The Nevada Northern, at present the only railroad entering Ely, has done a steadily increasing business since it was opened last September. Its average weekly receipts at present are about $40,000. The road is frequently congested with shipments of equipment and supplies for the same. The Ely Townsite company has over 200 carloads of material on the way.

The first tunnel of the Mountain Line, west of Ely, has been completed. This is a branch of the Nevada Northern railroad, which runs from Ely to the mines themselves. The line will be about twelve miles long and will have spurs to the leading mines. Ties are down for most of the distance and several miles of rails have been laid, to be operated by August.

The Chainman Consolidated Copper company, which recently purchased the old Chainman mines, has begun active work on undeveloped portions of its property. Two new shafts will be put down at once.

The Chainman is one of the oldest workings in the camp. It was originally opened as a gold and silver mine and for several years was operated with a fair measure of success. In 1901 a good sized cyanide mill was erected on the property, but shortly thereafter quantities of copper sulphides and oxides were encountered as the 200 foot level, it was found impossible to cyanide this ore successfully and work was abandoned. For some time the Chinman group was tied up by litigation, but this was satisfactorily adjusted early in the present year.

The Ruth ore tunnel has been completed. It is nearly a mile long and connects the Ruth and Star Pointer mines of the Nevada Consolidated. Owing to the rugged formation of the ground in the vicinity of the Ruth, it was found impracticable to run a railroad spur to it for the purpose of handling the ore. The Ruth ore will be taken through the new tunnel to the crusher plant at the Star Pointer.

Two shifts are working at the veteran mine. Tunneling and drifting already done here has developed a very large ore body which averages better than 3½ per cent copper. The mill at the Giroux is practically completed and will soon be in running order. Work at the Alpha and Bunker Hill shafts is being rushed, a churn drill has just been installed on the Beaver claim. A new body of sulphides was recently encountered in the April Fool shaft on the Butte and Ely property. The Brilliant shaft of the Ely Consolidated, which is now down over 400 feet, is in sulphides.

It is expected that a party from the United States geological survey will visit Ely this summer to examine the geology of the ore deposits. Last summer Prof. S. F. Emmons of the survey visited the camp and began a topographical survey, which has since been completed.

Searchlight, Nev., May 11.—Spring weather has been the signal for prospectors to continue in the quest of new diggings within a radius of twenty-five miles of Searchlight, and a number of strikes have been recorded. One of the most important finds of the week is that of Sam Yet, the Chinese mining operator, who owns a group of claims a short distance east of Searchlight. On the Tonopah group a ten-foot ledge has been opened, on which fancy assays have been secured, while the entire ten feet at a depth of twenty feet averages $12 of free milling rock. This ledge is the main ore body, many rich stringers trending toward it. The find is seven miles out.

Twelve miles north of town, near the St. Louis mine, Nagle and others have opened a ledge carrying niccolite, running as high as $1,800 a ton. This same ore shows 40 per cent copper, and is 50 feet wide. In the same vicinity and adjoining the Calavada M. & M., Jack Lincke has opened up a three-foot ledge that carries good values in gold and silver.

Near Nob Hill, and adjoining the Silver Legion on the south, John Weaver, who was one of the pioneers of Eldorado Canyon, has returned after thirty years, and uncovered a silver-gold ledge.

The New York Searchlight is introducing two innovations into the Searchlight district, both of which mean much to the entire camp. Following the return of General Manager Hurt, who has been scouring the country to secure early delivery of one of the largest plants of machinery yet to be installed here, comes the announcement that the company has arranged to establish a ten-stamp custom mill on its property. This announcement will be received with enthusiasm by hundreds of prospectors, who have good milling ore, but who cannot open up their properties until they can secure money for ores in sight. It is also proposed to install a fifty-horsepower holst, and power drills, ore cars, rails and double-deck cages. These are the first cages to be installed in the district, skips invariably being used.

AT THE LAKE COPPER MINES

pended at the new No. 4shaft and all energy is centered on extending the openings from No. 3. The lodes are found more encouraging than has been experienced for some time.

Michigan turned out 150 tons of mineral last month for two or three days no shipments were made to the mill on account of the railroad being blocked by snow and consequently this resulted in a decreased output. The mine is looking good, although operations have been slightly retareded by a scarcity of help, and a good increase in the product will undoubtedly be made during future months.

The Mass produced 172 tons of mineral during April. This makes the Mass the banner producer of Ontonagon county during the past month and shows that the company is beginning to reap some benefit from the extra development work which was done last year.

It is reported that Capt. Thomas Hoatson of Calumet, who is general manager of the Keweenaw Copper company, and a director of the Calumet & Arizona and Superior & Pittsburg companies, will have charge of the explorations to be started on the property of the newly-organized Ojibway Mining company, near Delaware, Keweenaw county. Diamond drill work was conducted on the land which comprises the Ojibway by Dr. L. I. Hubbard, former state geologist of Michigan, and some exceedingly rich ores were extracted from the lode which was located there.

Mohawk is steadily increasing its working force as the men can be obtained, and this month's production is expected to prove a record breaker. Additional drills have been placed in commission in Nos. 4 and 5 shafts and rock shipments from these openings are being enlarged. The outlook at the Mohawk is reassuring. Better ground is being opened in the deep workings and earnings on the present metal market are large. As the improvements at the stamp mill on Traverse Bay progress the capacity of the plant grows and the mine is enabled to increase its production. It is possible that the Mohawk will open a new shaft this summer in ground south of its No. 5 shaft.

While the fire which started in No. 2 shaft of the Tamarack mine a year and a half ago is still burning, it has drawn off into some of the abandoned openings of No. 1 shaft. No. 2 shaft has been in commission for some months and is furnishing a large amount of rock of good character. No. 3 shaft, known as the North Tamarack, is yielding a large tonnage and the showing there is encouraging. There is also some improvement in the condition of the No. 5 shaft openings. No. 1 shaft is idle. This is causing no trouble, however, as No. 1 had not been a considerable factor in the mine's production for many years.

EAST BUTTE IN NEW ORE BODY

immense quantity of ore and some of the new organizations are in the producing class. Among the latter are the Helms Copper, Amazon-Butte, East Butte, East Butte Extension and the Bullwhacker, all of which are mining to infinitesimal quantity, taken as a whole. Bullwacked produced 3,000 tons last month, and the Amazon-Butte and East Butte Extension must have shipped almost 3,000 tons each, which would be an average of 100 tons a day.

Some of the other new companies are on the verge of production, among them being the Davis-Daly, Farrel and Alliance. Farrel is now close to the vein for which it is driving from the 200-foot level of the Alliance shaft, and Alliance will reach the 300-foot mark in a day or two. The vein in this property was almost perpendicular at the 200, and it is, therefore, surmised that not much crosscutting will be necessary at the 300 to strike the body.

Several companies do not anticipate a strike of ore until their shaft work is finished and the veins crosscut. Among these are the Butte & Bacorn, Butte Copper Montana, Butte & London, Butte Milwaukee, North Buttee Extension and the Colusa-Leonard Extension, although the latter has ore at the present depth, 615 feet. Some of the companies that have ore near the surface, but ar sinking deeper in order to catch the large bodies and mine on an extensive scale, are the Butte & Michigan, Ida-Montana, Calumet & Butte, Tuolumne, Pilot-Butte, Butte & Balaklava, Butte & Bacorn, utte Copper Montana, Butte & Superior and Butte Central & Boston Copper corporation. The latter has plenty of silver-gold ore in all of its opened levels above the 500, which are the 100, 200 and 300. It will resume sinking to the 1,000 as soon as it cuts out a third compartment of its shaft. This work is about finished.

The shaft on the Badger State mine is 290 feet deep and is going down at a good clip. The Badger State is owned by the Boston & Montana company, and the property adjoins it on the south and on the west, is to be developed through this shaft, which will be taken to the 1,890-foot mark without stopping at anything except watering and pump stations.

The Ida-Montana company has placed a cage in the shaft of its property. It is also placing mine cars in the crosscut south of the 250-foot station in order to facilitate operations in that part of the property. This cross-cut is 25 feet long and is destined for the vein exposed in the shaft nearer the surface. Manager Krause of the property is of the opinion that this vein will be intersected not farther than five or ten feet from the present face of the cross-cut. The shaft is now 290 feet deep and is going deeper, but the company has adopted the wise policy, applicable of course to the east side at this stage of development there, of cross-cutting the vein or veins at intervals in order to keep track of the ore. At present the flow of water is immaterial, the total aggregating only about twenty gallons a minute. It may become somewhat heavier when the vein is tapped, but the company is prepared to take care of it.

The management of the property of the Colusa-Leonard Extension company reports the discovery of another vein of good mineral in its possessions. The find was made fifteen feet south of the 600-foot station, at which point a station was cut for the accommodation of a pump. After the station was finished a cross-cut was started south with a view of prospecting the ground, and at the distance stated the vein was encountered.

The shaft on the Colonel Sellers claim has reached a depth of 200 feet making 100 feet of sinking during April. Considering the fact that this shaft is of three compartments, the month's record is equal to that of any other company in the district, for the sinking was all done in solid rock. Everything on the property is in fine shape, and the work is moving along with that speed and sincerity of purpose that guarantees success. The Colonel Sellers is one of the group of claims owned by the Butte-Milwaukee company, and is traversed by a mineral-bearing lead fully 300 feet wide.

The mines of the Bute Coalition company have undergone great improvement recently. Special atention has been given to their ventilation, with the result that they are much cooler than formerly. This has had an influence on the production and added considerable to the comfort of underground employes. The ore bodies in the mines of the Coalition company are all looking good and the grade of ore is not changing for the worse. Development has been pushed vigorously.

The Helms Copper company has made some substantial improvements at its property recently among which may be mentioned the addition of a 200-horse power boiler and the substitution of a new air compressor for the old one. The aditional boiler gives the company a total of 650 horse power. Development is progressing nicely below the surface. Ore is coming from the 900 and 1,000 foot levels and the bulk of it is high grade. At present the output is not so heavy as it has been during the last six months, but is not bad. Two carloads of ore shipped recently returned the company $5,500, which is $2,250 a car. Not much ore of this grade is shipped from Butte mines.

Another mining company has entered the Butte field. It is known as the Butte & Red Eagle Copper Mining company, and is capitalized at $5,000,000 in 1,000,000 shares. The property which the company proposes to operate consists of several claims located southeast of the property of the Butte & Bacorn company. The group comprises the Red Eagle, Black Eagle, Orleans, Telegraph, Alaska, Dromedary and possibly the Old Maid, in a of which John W. Ewain is interested or owns, the Red Eagle and Dromedary belonging to him exclusively.

The North Butte Extension company, which owns a group of claims north of the North Butte property, is actively engaged in the development of its property, and will soon have a pretty fair start. It is going at the work properly, and when fully equipped with surface appurtenances will undoubtedly make rapid headway in its shaft.

DEFECTIVE PAGE

FRATERNAL HISTORY WILL BE MADE AT CONVENTIONS IN DULUTH NEXT AUGUST

Fraternal Congress and Associated Fraternities May be Merged.

At Least 600 Delegates and Families Will be Present.

Big Preparations Already Being Made for Their Entertainment.

The annual conventions of the National Fraternal congress and the Associated Fraternities of America, which will be held in Duluth the third week in August next will be the greatest event of the kind that has ever occurred in this city or in the orthwest.

Duluth people have read in the papers, from time to time, accounts relative to the importance of the coming conventions, but the real magnitude of those gatherings has, perhaps, not been fully appreciated, nor will it be until the delegations arrive and the business of the two big fraternal organizations has begun.

Generally speaking, the conventions mean the presence in Duluth during the entire third week in August of 600 delegates, comprising some of the best representative business men of this country and Canada, men who have been and are, leaders of the great fraternal organizations that they represent. They are the sort that, when they return to their homes, will carry with them views and recollections which will give Duluth some of the best advertising that it has ever had.

M. W. SACKETT,
Former Secretary-Treasurer National Fraternal Congress.

These delegates will not come alone. They are men who are bringing their families with them to spend a week in and about Duluth. There will be here also, some 150 to 200 representatives of bond companies, etc., so that a conservative estimate of the number of visitors that will spend a week in Duluth on the occasion mentioned, will be from 1,500 to 2,000.

The conventions of the National Fraternal congress and of the Associated Fraternities of America are eagerly sought after by all the prominent cities because of the class of visitors that they bring. Last year the National Fraternal congress held its twentieth annual convention in Montreal. This year Duluth will have not only the convention of the National Fraternal congress, but, at the same time, that of the Associated Fraternities of America, a combination that no other city in the United States or Canada has ever before been fortunate enough to secure.

May Consolidate.

The coming event is of the greatest importance in the fraternal world, for it seems very probable that the project for the consolidation of the two big organizations, which has been going forward for many years, will be consummated. Such an event alone would be a great feather in Duluth's cap.

In his annual address before the National Fraternal congress in Montreal, last year, President Talbot said in part:

"I can scarcely find language strong enough to express my conviction touching the importance to the societies of this congress and the country of the proposed consolidation. No great battle was ever won by sending the individual warriors to fight separately and the greatest victories are won only by the centralization and consolidation of forces in any cause."

So nearly did the plans for the consolidation of the two great fraternal forces materialize that it was not a difficult matter, after the convention of the National Fraternal congress was secured for Duluth, to induce the Associated Fraternities of America to set their annual convention date at the same time, in this city.

The fraternal congress and the associated fraternities are comprised of practically all the fraternal insurance societies in the United States and Canada.

Referring to the history of the National Fraternal congress, it may be said that in 1894, it was constituted of thirty-nine societies with a membership of 1,314,966, representing protection in the amount of $249,376,332. At the present time, sixty societies are represented in the congress, with a membership of about four and one-quarter millions and represent an amount of protection of about $600,000,000.

A. R. TALBOT,
President National Fraternal Congress.

C. A. GOWER,
Secretary-Treasurer National Fraternal Congress.

Influence Is Widespread.

Year by year the influence of the congress has grown and multiplies until now it is recognized as a power to be heeded wherever the interests of fraternal protection are involved. Beyond this it has a more important and marked educational influence, which it exerts in the bringing of fraternal benefit societies from an insecure and unreliable basis to one of confidence and perpetuity.

Although the figures concerning the growth and size of the Associated Fraternities of America are not now available, it is known that the organization has accomplished as much good along fraternal lines as the National Fraternal congress.

The manner in which Duluth came to be selected as the convention place in 1907, of the National Fraternal congress is too well known for repetition. To A. E. McManus and Hon. George R. Laybourn of this city, representatives at the Montreal meeting, is due the credit for the magnificent campaign that concluded with Duluth as the choice of the congress, by an overwhelming vote.

The invitation extended by Messrs. McManus and Laybourn has been ratified by the Duluth Commercial club and by the local fraternal societies. A meeting of the delegates from the various fraternal organizations was held Nov. 30, last, at which George R. Laybourn presided and Bently P. Neff acted as secretary. Committees were appointed to take charge of matters pertaining to the meetings of the National Fraternal congress and the Associated Fraternities of America and preparations have been going forward ever since. The local lodges have been assessed pro rata to finance the entertainment operations.

The chairmen of the various committees are meeting once a week to discuss general matters of importance in connection with the coming event and regular meetings of each committee are to be held.

The principal meetings of the conventions will begin the third Wednesday in August. There are four sections of the congress, the law section, the medical section, the press section and the secretary's section. These will begin work Monday morning and will continue all through the week.

The Spalding hotel has been designated as the headquarters for the National Fraternal Congress and the St. Louis hotel will be the headquarters for the Associated Fraternities of America.

Bishop McGolrick has accepted an invitation to act as chaplain for the National Fraternal Congress, and Bishop Morrison has accepted an invitation to act in a similar capacity for the Associated Fraternities of America.

Governor Is Coming.

Governor John S. Johnson of Minnesota has accepted an invitation to deliver an address of welcome to a joint meeting of both fraternal organizations the first night of the convention week.

The letters of inquiry that are already coming to Duluth regarding the conventions indicate that there will be a large number of visitors here the convention week, who have no connection with the organizations. It is safe to predict that the third week in August will be one of the most strenuous periods of time that the city of Duluth has ever yet gone through.

Following is an official list of the local committees in charge of matters pertaining to the coming conventions:

THE KING OF NEVADA MINES

additional proof of the now commonly-accepted theory that the western portion of the Wonder district is going to develop the highest values. Leading up with the remarkable discoveries on the Spider and Wasp, to the north, strikes of high grade ore have been made on the Ruby Wonder, the Colorados, and Rich Gulch and the Golden Wonder, on the south. On the last named property high gold values have been found, and proved up. Two miles south of these a great strike was made on the Black Rock group two weeks ago. With these disclosures of high-grade in this part of the district, the attention of all of the local operators is turning that way, and it promises to be the bonanza center of the camp.

United action among Wonder mine owners to get their ores to the smelters is bearing fruit, and the first apportioned shipment, with all the mines that have ore in readiness contributing, will go forward in a few days. There are a great number of small mines that will contribute to this shipment. Among the larger properties, the Jackpot has 1,500 sacks ready, and has forwarded two wagonloads; the Grand View, 500 sacks, and on the Toohey lease of the Spider and Wasp, twenty-five tons are ready for the wagons. The Wonder View, Vulture, Spider and Wasp and Nevada Wonder all have large quantities of sacked ore at the mines, and they will participate in this first general forwarding movement. Others are preparing to follow.

One of the properties along Wonder Mountain that has shown values within the last few days is the Stampede claim of the Daisy Wonder Mining company. On the Daisy vein, which is believed to be an extenston of one of the ledges of the Nevada Wonder ground, laborers are at work building the last fifty feet of road which will be used for the installation of machinery brought to light rock carrying free gold. Several specimens of this were brought into Wonder by Sam Stone, the superintendent, and excited much comment and enthusiasm.

The Sierra Vista company, controlled by Senator Oddie and Sherwood Aldrich, has begun work on its immense gossan capping, which shows assays running as high as $200 a ton.

The Riverside Mining company is installing a gasolene hoist, and will be ready to resume sinking next week. Assays from the ledges cropping on this property run as high as $400 a ton, and the Riverside, on account of its location in the center of the ore zone, is considered one of the best prospects in the district.

The Atwood Mining company opened up a three-foot ledge which shows assays running up to $300. A force of twenty men will be put to work at once, it being the intention of the company to sink two shafts.

One of the largest of recent deals in the Wonder district was that involving the transfer of the Portland group from T. A. McNell of Wonder to W. C. Cox of San Francisco. Mr. Cox left the camp after the completion of the negotiations, which have enriched Mr. McNeill, former president of the Miners' union in this district, to the extent of $42,500 and a block of stock in the new company, which will be called the Dexter Wonder Mining company.

The group consists of three Portland claims, the Portland Fraction and the Dexter. It adjoins the Queen and Gold Bar, and is just east of "Pike's Peak," and less than 1,000 feet from the Jack Pot. The price paid is said to be justified by the promise of the property.

Ely, Nev., May 11.—It is regarded as certain a new line of railroad between Tonopah and Ely will soon be laid. The surveys have been completed. The Western Pacific is completing its final connection between Winnemucca on the Southern Pacific and Bews on the Nevada Northern. The Nevada Northern, at present the only railroad entering Ely, has done a steadily increasing business since it was opened last September. Its average weekly receipts at present are about $40,000. The road is frequently congested with shipments of equipment and supplies for the same. The Ely Townsite company has over 200 carloads of material on the way.

The first tunnel of the Mountain Line, west of Ely, has been completed. This is a branch of the Nevada Northern railroad, which runs from Ely to the mines themselves. The line will be about twelve miles long and will have spurs to the leading mines. Ties are down for most of the distance and several miles of rails have been laid, to be operated by August 1.

The Chainman Consolidated Copper company, which recently purchased the old Chainman mines, has begun active work on undeveloped portions of its property. Two new shafts will be put down at once.

The Chainman is one of the oldest workings in the camp. It was originally opened as a gold and silver mine and for several years was operated with a fair measure of success. In 1901 a good sized cyanide mill was erected on the property, but shortly thereafter quantities of copper sulphides and oxides were encountered at the 200 foot level, it was found impossible to cyanide this ore successfully and work was abandoned.. For some time the Chinman group was tied up by litigation, but this was satisfactorily adjusted early in the present year.

The Ruth ore tunnel has just been completed. It is nearly a mile long and connects the Ruth and Star Pointer mines of the Nevada Consolidated. Owing to the rugged formation of the ground in the vicinity of the Ruth, it was found impracticable to run a railroad spur to it for the purpose of handling the ore. The Ruth ore will be taken through the new tunnel to the crusher plant at the Star Pointer.

Two shifts are working at the veteran mine. Tunneling and drifting already done here has developed a very large ore body which averages better than 3½ per cent copper. The mill at the Giroux is practically completed and will soon be in running order. Work at the Alpha and Bunker Hill shafts is being rushed. A churn drill has just been installed on the Beaver claim. A new body of sulphides was recently encountered in the April Fool shaft on the Butte and Ely property. The Brilliant shaft of the Ely Consolidated, which is now down over 400 feet, is in sulphides.

It is expected that a party from the United States geological survey will visit Ely this summer to examine the geology of the ore deposits. Last summer Prof. S. F. Emmons of the survey visited the camp and began a topographical survey, which has since been completed.

Searchlight, Nev., May 11.—Spring weather has been the signal for prospectors to continue in the quest of new diggings within a radius of twenty-five miles of Searchlight, and a number of strikes have been recorded. One of the most important finds of the week is that of Sam Yet, the Chinese mining operator, who owns a group of claims a short distance east of Searchlight. On the Tonopah group a ten-foot ledge has been opened, on which fancy assays have been secured, while the entire ten feet at a depth of twenty feet averages $12 of free milling rock. This ledge is the main ore body, many rich stringers trending toward it. The find is seven miles out.

Twelve miles north of town, near the St. Louis mine, Nagle and others have opened a ledge carrying niccolite, running as high as $1,800 a ton. This same ore shows 40 per cent copper, and is 50 feet wide. In the same vicinity and adjoining the Calavada M. & M., Jack Lincke has opened up a three-foot ledge that carries good values in gold and silver.

Near Nob Hill, and adjoining the Silver Legion on the south, John Weaver, who was one of the pioneers of Eldorado Canyon, has returned after thirty years, and uncovered a silver-gold ledge.

The New York Searchlight is introducing two innovations into the Searchlight district, both of which mean much to the entire camp. Following the return of General Manager Hurt, who has been scouring the country to secure early delivery of one of the largest plants of machinery yet to be installed here, comes the announcement that the company has arranged to establish a ten-stamp custom mill on its property. This announcement will be received with enthusiasm by hundreds of prospectors, who have good milling ore, but who cannot open up their properties until they can secure money for ores in sight. It is also proposed to install a fifty-horsepower hoist, and power drills, ore cars, rails and double-deck cages. These are the first cages to be installed in the district, skips invariably being used.

pended at the new No. 4shaft and all energy is centered on extending the openings from No. 2. The lodes are found more encouggaging than has been experienced for some time.

Michigan turned out 150 tons of mineral last month for two or three days no shipments were made to the mill on account of the railroad being blocked by snow and consequently this resulted in a decreased output. The mine is looking good, although operations have been slightly retarded by a scarcity of help, and a good increase in the product will undoubtedly be made during future months.

The Mass produced 172 tons of mineral during April. This makes the Mass the banner producer of Ontonagon county during the past month and shows that the company is beginning to reap some benefit from the extra development work which was done last year.

It is reported that Capt. Thomas Hoatson of Calumet, who is general manager of the Keweenaw Copper company, and a director of the Calumet & Arizona and Superior & Pittsburg companies, will have charge of the explorations to be started on the property of the newly-organized Ojibway Mining company, near Delaware, Keweenaw county. Diamond drill work was conducted on the land which comprises the Ojibway by Dr. L. I. Hubbard, former state geologist of Michigan, and some exceedingly rich ores were extracted from the lode which was located there.

Mohawk is steadily increasing its working force as the men can be obtained, and this month's production is expected to prove a record breaker. Additional drills have been placed in commission in Nos. 4 and 5 shafts and rock shipments from these openings are being enlarged. The outlook at the Mohawk is reassuring. Better ground is being opened in the deep workings and earnings on the present metal market are large. As the improvements at the stamp mill on Traverse Bay progress the capacity of the plant grows and the mine is enabled to increase its production. It is possible that the Mohawk will open a new shaft this summer in ground south of its No. 5 shaft.

While the fire which started in No. 2 shaft of the Tamarack mine a year and a half ago is still burning, it has drawn off into some of the abandoned openings of No. 1 shaft. No. 2 shaft has been in commission for some months and is further reaching a large amount of rock of good character. No. 3 shaft, known as the North Tamarack, is yielding a large tonnage and the showing there is encouraging. There is also some improvement in the condition of the No. 5 shaft openings. No. 1 shaft is idle. This is causing no trouble, however, as No. 1 had not been a considerable factor in the mine's production for many years.

immense quantity of ore and some of the new organizations are in the producing class. Among the latter are the Reins Copper, Amazon-Butte, East Butte, East Butte Extension and the Bullwhacker, all of which are mining to infinitesimal quantity, taken as a whole. Bullwached produced 3,000 tons last month, and the Amazon-Butte and East Butte Extension must have shipped almost 3,000 tons each, which would be an average of 100 tons a day.

Some of the other new companies are on the verge of production, among them being the Davis-Daly, Farrel and Alliance. Farrel is now close to the vein for which it is driving from the 200-foot level of the Alliance shaft, and Alliance will reach the 300-foot mark in a day or two. The vein in this property was almost perpendicular at the 200, and it is, therefore, surmised that not much crosscutting will be necessary at the 300 to strike the body.

Several companies do not anticipate a strike of ore until their shaft work is finished and the veins crosscut. Among these are the Butte & Bacorn, Butte Copper Montana, Butte & London, Butte Milwaukee, North Buttee Extension and the Colusa-Leonard Extension, although the latter has ore at the present depth, 615 feet. Some of the companies that have ore near the surface, but ar sinking deeper in order to catch the large bodies and mine on an extensive scale, are the Butte & Michigan, Ida-Montana, Calumet & Butte, Tuolumne, Pilot-Butte, Butte & Balaklava, Butte & Bacorn, utte Copper Montana, Butte & Superior and Butte Central & Boston Copper corporation. The latter has plenty of silver-gold ore in all of its opened levels above the 500, which are the 100, 200 and 300, and will resume sinking to the 1,000 as soon as it cuts out a third compartment of its shaft. This work is about finished.

The shaft on the Badger State mine is 200 feet deep and is going down at a good clip. The Badger State is owned by the Boston & Montana company, and with the drift which will adjoine it on the west, is to be developed through this shaft, which will be taken to the 1,800-foot mark without stopping at anything except watering and pump stations.

The Ida-Montana company has placed a cage in the shaft of its property. It is also placing mine cars in the crosscut south of the 250-foot station in order to facilitate operations in that part of the property. This cross-cut is 25 feet long and is destined for the vein exposed in the shaft nearer the surface. Manager Krause of the property is of the opinion that this vein will be intersected not farther than five or ten feet from the present face of the cross-cut. The shaft is now 300 feet deep and is going deeper, but the company has adopted the wise policy, applicable of course to the east side at this stage of development there, of cross-cutting the vein or veins at intervals in order to keep track of the ore. At present the flow of watter is the material, the total aggregating only about twenty gallons a minute. It may become somewhat heavier when the vein is tapped, but the company is prepared to take care of it.

The management of the property of the Colusa-Leonard Extension company reports the discovery of another vein of good mineral in its possessions. The find was made fifteen feet south of the 600-foot station, at which point a station was cut for the accommodation of a pump. After the station was finished a cross-cut was started south with a view of prospecting the ground, and at the distance stated the vein was encountered.

The shaft on the Colonel Sellers claim has reached a depth of 200 feet making 100 feet of sinking during April. Considering the fact that this shaft is of three compartments, the month's record is equal to that of any other company in the district, for the sinking was all done in solid rock. Everything on the property is in the shaft, and the work is moving along with that speed and sincerity of purpose that guarantees success. The Colonel Sellers is one of the group of claims owned by the Bute-Milwaukee company, and is traversed by a mineral-bearing lead fully 300 feet wide.

The mines of the Bute Coalition company have undergone great improvement recently. Special atention has been given to their ventilation, with the result that they are much cooler than formerly. This has had an influence on the production and added considerable to the comfort of underground employes. The ore bodies in the mines of the Coalition company are all looking good and the grade of ore is not changing for the worse. Development has been pushed vigorously.

The Reins Copper company has made some substantial improvements at its property recently among which may be mentioned the addition of a 200-horse power boiler and the substitution of a new air compressor for the old one. The aditional boiler gives the company a total of 600 horse power. Development is progressing nicely below the surface. Ore is coming from the 900 and 1,000 foot levels and the bulk of it is high grade. At present the output is not so heavy as it has been during the last six months, but is not bad. Two carloads of ore shipped recently returned the company $5,500, which is $2,250 a car. Not much ore of this grade is shipped from Butte mines.

Another mining company has entered the Butte field. It is known as the Butte & Red Eagle Copper Mining company, and is capitalized at $5,000,000 in 1,000,000 shares. The property which the company proposes to operate consists of several claims located southeast of the property of the Butte & Bacorn company. The group comprises the Red Eagle, Black Eagle, Orleans, Telegraph, Alaska, Dromedary and possibly the Old Maid, in a of which John W. Ewaln is interested or owns, the Red Eagle and Dromedary being leasing to him exclusively.

The North Butte Extension company, which owns a group of claims north of the North Butte property, is actively engaged in the development of its property, and will soon have a pretty fair start. It is going at the work properly, and when fully equipped with surface appurtenances will undoubtedly make rapid headway in its shaft.

TEMPLE OF D. O. K. K. WILL BE INSTALLED WITH IMPRESSIVE CEREMONIES

Many Delegates From Neighboring Cities Here for Occasion.

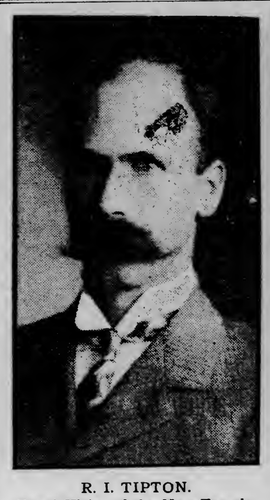
One of Most Important Events of Year in Fraternalism.

One of the most momentous events in local fraternal circles is scheduled to be pulled off this evening, at the Armory when Al Strat temple of the Dramatic Order of the Knights of Khorassan will be formally instituted by the officers and members of the Marah temple of Minneapolis.

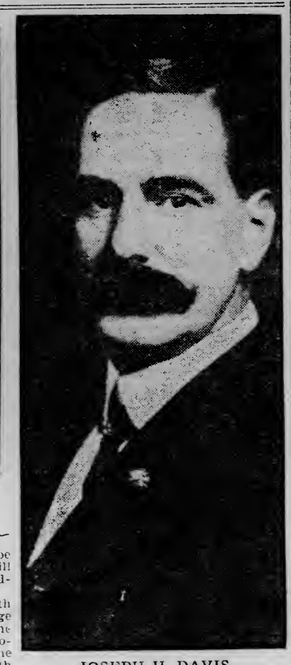
The ceremonies will begin at 6:30 sharp, when a parade of all the assembled knights will start from the Knights of Pythias hall, will go west on Superior street, to Seventh avenue, reverse and file back to the Armory, where the installation services will be held. Between 100 and 150 applicants for membership are in town from the ranges, large delegations coming in from Ely, Eveleth, Biwabik, Aurora, Hibbing, Virginia and Two Harbors. Fully 150 members will be enrolled here, and the Marah temple has promised a delegation of at least 100 members for the affair, so the big parade will be no insignificant spectacle.

The officers which were elected at the meeting of the charter members which was held April 23, will be formally installed this evening, as a portion of the exercises, and the ceremonies from start to finish are said to be most elaborate and more impressive and awe-inspiring than those of any of the other orders. R. I. Tipton of Superior will be installed as Royal Vizier, George Cruikshank is secretary, and J. J. Lumm will be installed as keeper of the funds. J. H. Davis bears the title of Imperial Nawob, which, for the benefit of the uninitiated, means instituting officer.

After the close of the exercises, which will last from the arrival of the parade at the Armory building until about 11:30, a lunch will be served, and the big gathering will not break up until well after midnight.



R. I. TIPTON.
Royal Vizier of the New Temple.



JOSEPH H. DAVIS.
Installing Officer of New Temple.

Al Sirat, the name of the Duluth temple, means the path or bridge from earth to paradise, over the abyss of Hades, which all good Mohammedans travel. According to the Koran, this bridge is of the width of the edge of a sword blade, the web of a starved spider, or the finest hair, so the road which is laid out for the Mohammedan in his journey to the upper world is even more narrow and tortuous than that planned for the believer in a more civilized faith.

Those who have been most instrumental in bringing the Duluth temple into existence, and have aroused interest in the new order to such a high pitch as to make its success assured are: J. H. Davis, James Wharton, Louis Dworschak, F. L. Young, J. J. Lumm and J. L. Cromwell. The committee on arrangements for tonight's ceremonies is composed of W. E. McEwen, D. O. Anderson, William Roleff and F. L. Young.

NEW TERMINAL OF THE WISCONSIN CENTRAL ROAD WILL CHANGE APPEARANCE OF HISTORIC DULUTH'S BOWERY

VIEW OF DULUTH'S BOWERY.

The march of railroad progress in the shape of the advent of the Wisconsin Central road will mean the dismantling of a block or so of Duluth's Bowery—the home of your "money to loan" relative and fusel oil whisky.

All the buildings on the lower side of West Superior street from Sixth avenue to the junction of Michigan and Superior streets must come down to make room for the terminals of the line that is about to build to this city.

All the legal processes and transfers of money necessary to secure for the road the desired property, have been accomplished and the moving of the buildings is now merely a matter of men, machinery and teams.

Just when the tearing down of the buildings will commence cannot be said, but that it will be soon is shown by the fact that the tenants of the divers and sundry structures now on Wisconsin Central soil were notified last week that they could not occupy their present premises more than sixty days longer.

By far the most important building in the district that is to give way to railroad terminals is the Metropolitan Opera house, which for two seasons past has harbored the Empire circuit burlesque shows.

The razing of the Metropolitan brings to mind the history the theater has had during the brief five years or so of its existence. Originally it represented the delving into the drama from the commercial side of a coterie of Duluth business men, whose dreams of bags of gold in the box office were hardly realized. At a later date, the builders of the temple of art were only too glad to have taken off their hands what had been something of a white elephant.

The theater was opened five years ago next Christmas time, when the seasons for the men who originally owned the theater were those devoted to stock companies. These prospered for quite a time.

Then came a period of vaudeville, then vaudeville with dramatic sketches on the side, and finally William H. Longstreet and his associates secured the "Met" and made it one of the Western wheel of burlesque houses, mobilized under the general name of the Empire circuit.

On the corner of Sixth avenue and Superior street stands the old Daily News building, a two story affair, now devoted to saloons and cheap stores on the first floor, and rooms for lodgers on the second. This building is one of those which must go. Immediately behind it, on Michigan street, is another lodging house, of more recent vintage, which must give way to the railroad.

On the other side of the Metropolitan, there is the De Velda block, brick and of comparatively recent build, and numerous smaller structures, housing all sorts of establishments from missions and turkish baths to drinking places where tobacco boxes full of sawdust serve for cuspidors.

In order to effect an entrance to the spot chosen for terminals, the Wisconsin Central must tunnel through rock for a considerable distance, a feat of engineering which will no doubt be watched assiduously from day to day by the numerous idlers who frequent the Bowery and not so often, but with quite as much interest by other and more busy citizens.

On Friday last the match factory was visited.

TRADE HURT BY WEATHER

Unseasonable Conditions Destroy Chances for Record Spring.

Iron and Steel Brilliant and Textile Mills Well Engaged.

New York, May 11.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says:

Weather conditions unseasonable almost beyond precedent have retarded retail trade and agriculture to an extent that cannot yet be measured, but the loss will be considerable. Spring opened with the brightest prospects for business and crops, but the record-breaking results can no longer be attained. May thus far has brought complaints of excessive cold from almost every section of the country, and in many cases it is found that mercantile collections have been slow on that account. Freight congestion is relieved, however, and traffic is very heavy, partly in preparation for fall and winter business, which is viewed with confidence, while last year's pressure causes a big movement of coal and attractive prices bring a vast tonnage of wheat to primary markets.

The outlook in the iron and steel industry was never brighter. Steel rails are constantly ordered, much new business being in light rails for trolley lines, and makers of agricultural implements are purchasing bars freely. Textile mills are still actively engaged as a rule, but in the primary markets there is some irregularity. Cotton goods are no cheaper, but the effect of the backward season on retail trade is felt in all departments. Business at first hand is more active on forward contracts than for quick delivery and there is less offering of premiums for spot goods. Yet the mills are not offering concessions, which may be due in part to the high cost of raw cotton. The only interest of the jobbing trade is in fall goods, current needs having been supplied. Export trade continues featureless, the only sales being small parcels for the Red Sea.

As to woolens, men's wear orders appear less freely and this slow movement is also attributed to the weather, retail clothiers making little preparation for another season when current distribution is so slow. While the footwear market cannot be termed active, there is a steady volume of business that keeps New England producers fairly well engaged. A better tone exists than at any recent date, most Eastern producers now expecting to keep factories active throughout the season. Prices are generally firm, several upward changes having been made on substantial contracts for oil grain boots and other advances are recorded, but satin goods are slightly cheaper. Leather is steady and quiet, dressed production having strengthened the position of tanners. A large sale of belting butts is reported and a good demand exists for all colored kid, calf skins and side upper leather. Domestic hides advanced with seasonable improvement in quality.

Weather reports have dominated commodity exchanges, the net result being a further rise in prices. Domestic statements of injury by insects and cold were supplemented by poor progress in many other nations, and the expert demand was maintained in the face of discouraging prices. Better traffic conditions and attractive quotations bring large arrivals of wheat at primary markets, and exports compare favorably with last year's movement despite the local strike.

"The Croxley Master," by A. Conan Doyle---"Arrows of Ambition," by Albert Frederick Hochwalt---Literary Gossip.

THE CROXLEY MASTER. By A. Conan Doyle. New York: McClure, Phillips & Co.

This booklet contains a reprint of a short story, which appeared some time ago in McClure's magazine. It deals with an athletic young doctor's assistant, poor, but ambitious to complete his university training, who discovers a chance of acquiring the necessary money by engaging in a boxing match with a local champion. It is a stirring tale, or it wouldn't have Conan Doyle's name attached to it, and by the same token it is well told.

ARROWS OF AMBITION. By Albert Frederick Hochwalt. Boston: Mayhew Publishing company.

This romance of the Thirty Years' war deals with the history of a youth who casts his lot with the fortunes of Wallenstein, the great war master, and who hews his way to fame and promotion. There is a pretty love story, plenty of adventure and a happy ending. The tale is acceptably told, though with obvious touches of the amateur, and some lack of editing. For instance, it should not be said of a soldier that he is a member of the "esprit de corps," unless one wishes to betray an ignorance of French that should compel the exclusive use of English.

Literary Gossip.

The Macmillan Company has just issued a new edition in a single volume of J. Holland Rose's "Life of Napoleon." Since its publication, about five years ago, this work has stood as one of the most noteworthy English contributions to the study of Napoleon, and in this low-priced, single volume issue, it will reach a larger public than ever before.

Under the title of "Strange Stories of the Civil War," the Harpers published, this week, a volume telling of adventures and brave deeds in that period of vitally absorbing interest. Some of the stories are stirring fiction, others are such as essentially embody actual experiences, others are actual descriptions of important and dramatic events, told by men who took part in them; and all are full of close human interest. The stories are by a number of well-known writers, and the book is not only of deep interest, but should lead to a closer realization of how the two great sections of our country were more closely welded together in the furnace heat of the Civil war.

In his new book, "Under the Sun," Percival Landon gives an interesting picture of the home and palace of the man who would, if India were to become an independent nation, rule her as the native sovereign. It is the Maharana of Udipur. Although inhabiting a lonely and seemingly unimportant province of the great Indian empire, the Maharana is, nevertheless, the most powerful man, politically, in the country.

"King John" and "Pericles" are the latest volumes to appear in that admirable edition of Shakespeare which takes its name from the most delightful of living writers on the bard—Prof. Edward Dowden. The "King John" is edited by Ivor B. John, the "Pericles" by K. Deighton, who is also responsible for the volumes containing "Timon of Athens" and "Troilus and Cressida." The Dowden Shakespeare continues to maintain its great excellence in letter press, in scholarship and in vital helpfulness to the general reader.

McClure, Phillips & Co. will introduce a new novelist this spring, whose first book, to appear under the title of "The Artist Temperament," has already made a great hit in London. The identity of the author is kept even from the publishers, the pen name, "Jane Wardle," being used. The story deals with the lives of London painter folk.

"The Romance of Steel," by Herbert M. Casson, which has been running as a serial in Munsey's Magazine, is soon to appear in book form from the press of A. S. Barnes & Co., New York. In many respects this will be a notable book. It is the first history of our greatest American business, an the only one which describes the whole career of the $1,000,000,000 steel trust. The subtitle of the book will be "The Story of a Thousand Millionaires." The unique feature of Mr. Casson's work is that it has dealt, in the most intimate and personal way, with the lives of the great steel makers and money makers of the past and present. He has been going in and out of the steel world for years, gathering a mass of wholly new material which is intensely interesting and of immense service to the business men of all trades and professions.

It has often been said that "truth is stranger than fiction," and in "The Truth About the Case," written by M. F. Gordon, ex-chief of the Paris Detective police, we have a series of exciting actual adventures from the career of one of the world's foremost criminal-takers. These true detective stories, recently published by J. B. Lippincott company, will be found as interesting and thrilling as any detective story from the pen of a writer of fiction.

Among the Magazines.

The Circle Magazine for May is redolent with the breath of spring, and full of boundless life and energy. The original articles include: "The Art of Conducting," by the renowned Russian leader of the New York Philharmonic society, Wassily Safonoff; "How Pocahontas Has Come to Her Own," a novelette in one chapter of real life 300 years ago, by William Ordway Partridge, on the occasion of the unveiling of the Pocahontas statue in Jamestown, Va.; "Smoothing the Way of the Working Girl," an article by Annette Austin, revealing the prictical welfare plans for empoyes in large stores and factories; "About Vines," by Eben E. Rexford; "The ordinary Man's Confessions," by William Grant Greenawalt and Helen Church.

The series of stories from American history will continue through the May numbers of the Youth's Companion. The group of tales under the title of "The Civil War," begins with Adeline Knapp's thrilling story, "How Craig Macdonald Rode Express." It is an account of the carrying of the news of the outbreak of the war into the Far West in the days of the pony express. In the same group is Arthur Colton's story of an artilleryman at Shiloh, entitled "The Runaway Gun." Another is "Princess Royal," by Martha McCulloch-Williams, the well known Southern writer. Then there is the interesting contribution of "A Boy's Recollections of Lincoln," by Dr. J. L. Kaine.

The May number of Talent is unusually rich in articles which are of the most general interest and value, presenting, as they do, different phases of recent events which all the world has been watching. Willard French's article on "The Great Peace Congress in New York" is a resume of this wonderful conference from the point of view of public speaker. The article by M. F. Murphy on the summing-up speech of Delphin Delmas in the Thaw trial is a keen analysis of the qualities which have made this man famous as an orator rather than as a lawyer. These two articles alone would make this issue of Talent noteworthy, but in addition we have Bertha Kunz Baker's "Studio Talk No. VI," and Col. French's regular article on "Public Speaking in Congress," both articles fully up to the mark of past issues or even better.

The Panama article which was such a hit in the April number of the National magazine is followed by a Jamestown edition for May, with even a handsomer cover than that of the April number. Besides a three-color cover there are two three-color reproductions from the original drawings, appearing as a frontispiece and in the body of the magazine.

"Affairs at Washington" is interesting, as usual. The first installment of a serial, entitled, "A Romance of Arlington House," starts with this number and gives promise of a very interesting story. There are a number of short stories and lots of good features which make the May number not only one of great interest, but one of the handsomest magazines ever published by the National.

The editorial section of Moody's magazine for May is of especial strength, not only in its independent view of the business and investment outlook, but also in the view of the current news development, including Mr. Carnegie's recently expressed views in respect of Wall street and also the effect of the same gentleman's peace conference. Possibly one of the most timely articles, aside from the editorials is Michael Williams' article on "Dealers in Human Honesty." This article, which gains additional emphasis and value from the disclosures attending the defalcations in one of the trust companies in New York city which has held public attention for the past few weeks, describes the broad faith in human nature upon which the surety bond companies found their business. The Torrens system of land transfers is explained by James B. Carret in "A Proposed Universal Coinage." E. W. Perry points out that the money systems of the world have grown up haphazard and without relation to each other. This diversity hampers commerce unnecessarily.

The May issue of The Outer's Book contains another of Hugh Skinner's out-door detective stories quite as interesting as the first of the series. In this story "Joe Briggs," the hero, uses the mathematical curve known as the "Witch of Agnesi," to solve a deep mystery in a most ingenious manner. In the series "What a Hunter Sees Besides Game," Craig S. Thomas writes delightfully on butterflies, their habits and the way to preserve them. Ella R. Long concludes her article on "Present Day Impressions of the Big Horn Country," and Lyman H. North contributes a very interesting article on "Devices for Aquatic Sport." A particularly interesting article by James Henbrook is entitled "How the East Trains Its Boys" and deals with the summer camp idea.

Under the title "President, Press and People—also a Deep-dyed Conspiracy," Harper's Weekly for May 11, presents, in a sixteen-page supplement, an extremely interesting symposium of opinions on the much-discussed speech delivered by the editor of the Weekly at the Jefferson birthday dinner of the National Democratic club on April 13. In the main body of this issue, Dr. Frederick A. Cook has a valuable and striking paper entitled "Why not Conquer the South Pole?" in which he outlines a quest for the explorer which is both feasible and alluring. William Inglis writes of the singular ways of the Japanese wrestlers, who practise a sport which would seem fantastic to Western minds. Henry Harrison Lewis writes of "Our Wonderful New Market—The Panama Canal." Henry Underwood, "D. W. of Hackensack," writes of "Whiskers and Their Virtues"; and there are these additional features: Count Okuma on "The New China"; Sydney Brooks on "England's Ideals of Empire"; and numerous photographs and drawings picturing important current events throughout the world.

The North American Review for May 3, presents a strikingly interesting table of contents. Mark Twain, in a brilliant instalment of his autobiography, goes back to the days of his childhood, in the description of which he is always at his best. Prof. Goldwin Smith contributes a lucid paper upon the present status of Ireland in the United Kingdom. W. H. Mallock continues his absorbing series of articles entitled "A Critical Examination of Socialism." George E. Roberts, director of the mint, in an article entitled "Financial Legislation," analyzes the needs of our financial system in order that it might be brought to approximate perfection.

AMONG THE PLANTS.

Some one made the remark that spring was later this year than ever was known, but I think it was in 1872 that we had one just like it, and another in Michigan some twenty-eight years ago, when not a thing could be done in the way of planting until May 10, and then it kept cool for another ten days, but when it warmed up, which it did finally, you should have seen things jump, and the crops matured about the same time they did other years. I remember that the early cabbage crop was just six weeks from planting time until the first solid heads were cut for market. So, go ahead and make your garden. The summer will come all right.

It is a good time now to work the soil. It is dry and if you take the trouble to firm the seeds, that is to press with full weight of your foot the earth covering over the seeds planted they will come all right.

Well hardened plants can also be set out. We are planting pansies every evening and the ground freezes hard every night, but we do not water the newly planted piece until the next morning, so as to let the plants dry off before the next night's freeze up.

You want to know what to do with your roses that are looking badly from the effects of red spiders, caused by the dry air of the dwelling house. The best way would be to set them in the coolest place you can, where it does not actually freeze, and in about two weeks set them in the garden and they will come out all right.

Poppies: The Nudicaul blooms all summer and is like a bed of lovely tulips. There are four colors, white, striped, yellow and orange scarlet, but the seeds must be kept off or the plants will stop blooming. These make a lovely cut flower, if cut before fully expanded, and are quite lasting, entirely different from the common poppy, and if lightly covered live over winter without trouble.

If your clumps of hardy phlox are getting too large, it is a good time to divide them now. Lift them and cut them with an old knife through the center. Don't disturb them more than you can help, and they will bloom just as well as they did last year, if this is done before the growth starts too much.

Moving begonias around generally sets them back in blooming.

FRESHMEN MAKE MERRY

Annual Dinner and Dance of First Year Class.

The freshmen of the high school, last night, enjoyed the first party since the organization of their class. The large lunch room of the high school was crowded to its capacity, as the party was the largest that has ever been given by a high school class. The tables were prettily decorated with the colors of the class, and were further ornamented by small palms and ferns.

The girls acted as waitresses, and were assisted by a few of the boys. After the students had stowed away as much as possible, and had imbibed hot chocolate quite freely, speeches were made.

Russell Mather, president of the freshman class acted as toastmaster, and delivered the opening address. He said that the freshmen consider themselves to be the best class that has ever entered the portals of the high school, and will do their best to prove this. He complimented the girls upon their cooking, and told several stories, which were witty and to the point.

Principal Smith and Supt. Denfeld were unavoidably absent, and this was a great disappointment to the class, but speeches were made by several members of the faculty.

Prof. Lambert, when called upon, responded with some very complimentary remarks concerning the class, and the pleasing banquet which they had given. He gave some clever characterizations, and closed with several humorous anecdotes.

Miss Von Scholten and Miss Wells also spoke to the freshmen. Mr. Mather then introduced president McDevitt of the senior class as one who had been in the school for four years. He responded with some jokes at the expense of the freshmen, and said that, as the president of the senior class, he felt compelled to give them some advice for future use. He complimented them upon the record which they have made in athletics, but urged them to devote more attention to the school teams than to those of the class, saying that they should always have the welfare of the whole school in view.

President Poirier of the jnuiors was introduced as the friend of the freshmen, and he replied by saying that he felt it a great privilege to be considered such.

Louis Denfeld, the sophomore president, mentioned the rivalry between his class and the freshmen, and said that the latter have always proven themselves worthy opponents, and that his class would be glad to meet them often in the future. He tendered the best wishes of his class to the lower class men.

The speaking was concluded by a toast to the girls, which was ably handled by Donald Warner.

After the banquet a dance was held in the hall, and an entertainment was also provided for all those who did not dance.

FRENCH CRITICS SCORE STRAUSS OPERA "SALOME."

Paris, May 11.—The theatrical critics are at war in regard to the merits of Richard Strauss' "Salome." The minority press, led by Libre Parole, has inaugurated a campaign similar to that in New York, declaring the production scandalous, saying that the success of opera is an example of the decadence of French morals, and adding that the spectacle is "worthy of inspiring the lamentations of a new Jeremiah or the sarcasm of another Juvenal." The paper objects to the performance on patriotic and moral grounds, prophesying the worst catastrophe for a nation which "lacks the moral sense and virility to reject it."

GOOD NEWS

Many Duluth Readers Have Heard It and Profited Thereby

"Good news travels fast," and the thousands of sufferers in Duluth are glad to learn that prompt relief is within their reach. Many a lame, weak and aching back is bad no more, thanks to Doan's Kidney Pills. Our citizens are telling the good news of their experience with the Old Quaker Remedy. Here is an example worth reading:

Leander Sinotte, rug manufacturer and carpet cleaner, of 1701 Michigan street, Duluth, Minn., and living at the corner of Michigan street and Eighteenth avenue, says: "Some six years ago I gave a testimonial in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills, because I felt so well pleased with the prompt relief from trouble with my kidneys and back which the use of this remedy brought me. I had been annoyed with constant dull pain across the loins and through the kidneys. To stoop or attempt to lift anything was sure to bring on sharp twinges of pain. The action of the kidneys was irregular. I tried many remedies until I got Doan's Kidney Pills, but found little relief and no permanent benefit. The treatment with this remedy completely drove out the whole trouble, and, as six years have passed without any return of the complaint, I consider my cure a permanent one."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

EQUITABLE MAY SELL ITS NEW YORK PROPERTY.

New York, May 11.—Directors of the Equitable Life Assurance society at their next meeting will consider a proposition that the society accept an offer of $16,000,000 for its real estate on Broadway between Pine and Cedar streets, including its own office building. EQUAL PAY FOR TEACHERS VETOED BY M'CLELLAN.

New York, May 11.—Mayor McClellan vetoed yesterday the White salary bill recently passed by the legislature, providing that in whatever grades men and women teachers were jointly employed, the salaries of both sexes should be the same. The women teachers who have fought vigorously for the legislation adopted the slogan "equal pay for equal work." The bill would have increased the school expenses $7,000,000 annually.

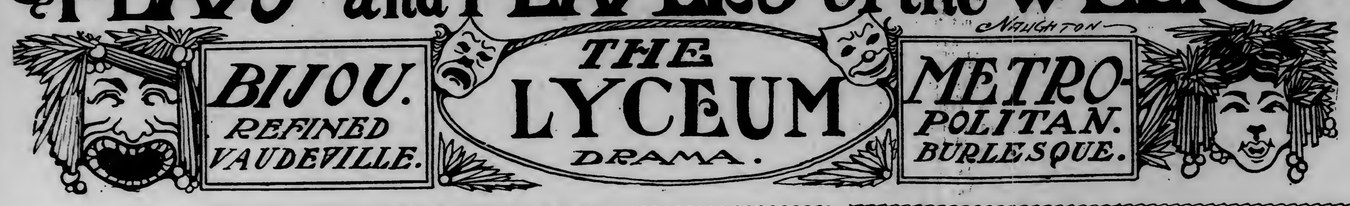
PLAYS and PLAYERS of the WEEK



AT THE LYCEUM

"The Free Lance" Will Play a Return Engagement on Monday Evening---The Flints, Hypnotists, Will Hold Boards During Rest of Week.

What The Herald said of "The Free Lance" on its last appearance here on Oct. 20 may be of interest at the present time. The company has identically the same cast that was seen here then. It will return for one night only, Monday evening, May 13.

Following are some extracts from the review published in The Herald Oct. 20:

"It is seldom that a Duluth audience warms up to a musical comedy as the one at the Lyceum last evening did.

"The music, or at least all of it, does not show Sousa at his best, and perhaps none of the marches are quite on a level with 'El Capitan' or some of the others of the March King's favorites, but it all has the tuneful, stirring swing of the great band leader's work, and however much Sousa may violate the sensibilities of the cultured musician brought up on a diet of Wagner and Mendelssohn, he never fails to catch the ear and the foot of the great American public.

"And then there are Joseph Cawthorne and Jeanette Lowrie, two of the best bets in the theatrical books. This merry pair kept the audience in a perpetual gurgle of enjoyment. The fun seems to ooze from them. It took them about four minutes to disarm the usual hostile Duluth audience, which dares a comedian to amuse it, and for the rest of the evening the audience leaned back thoroughly content and giggled and grinned in amused enjoyment.

"Miss Lowrie had a very bad cold last evening, but the hoarseness and the queer little break it caused in her voice only served to make her doubly funny.

"The chorus rendered Nellie Bergen, looking younger than ever, admirable assistance in singing 'Three Love Stories,' and showed its undoubted good qualities during the several elaborate ensembles.

"Miss Bergen was in splendid voice last evening and she sang the role of the princess with the same eclat which made her popular when she was in DeWolf Hopper's company and before she had settled down as that comedian's spouse. Her solo in the second act, 'The Carrier Pigeon,' was well received.

"'The Mystery of History, sung by Miss Lowrie and Joe Cawthorne also made an impression, as did Mr. Cawthorne's song, 'Hair.' The lyrics are away above the musical comedy standard; they are the best Harry B. Smith has accomplished in some time.

"Violating all the rules which have governed the construction of musical shows for the past few years, Harry B. Smith permits his plot to live until the final curtain.

"The story of the 'The Free Lance' concerns the efforts of two impecunious rulers to arrange a marriage between their children that they may tap the other for a big loan. Both are broke, but each believes the other is a sort of John D. Rockefeller as to wealth.

"But like most young people, the prince does not want to marry a princess whom he had never seen and neither is the princess keen for a match with a young peer who is liable to be a fright. Being comic opera persons, the fact that the other is supposed to have lots of money does not reconcile them to the match, so they run away—not together, however. Then the goat herder is called into service to impersonate the prince and upon Griselda, the goose girl, and incidentally the goat herder's wife, is thrust the part of the princess.

"When both monarchs discover that the other has no money, there is war, which culminates in the arrest of the goat person and his wife as impostors. These troubles vanish at the finale, however, and the curtain falls upon a satisfactory denouement and a very good show."

The Motion Pictures.

Shepard's moving pictures will again be shown at the Lyceum tomorrow night. Manager Harris has just returned from an extensive tour of the East, where he visited and made arrangements with all the manufacturers, so as to obtain the very latest pictures made. He also has had constructed by the Edison Manufacturing company, one of their special 1907 fire proof machines, which is said to be one of the finest ever made in this country. The result of intelligent study and continuaus effort for many years, it is guaranteed to be absolutely flickerless, and will, thtrefore, not hurt the eyes.

Miss Loretta Reitz will render one of the latest New York successes in connection with the colored slides. No expense or care has been spared to make this the most perfect exhibition of motion pictures ever shown in this city. The prices for this splendid program will remain the same, 10 cents for children and 20 cents for adults to any part of the theater.

THE FLINTS COMING.

Famous Hypnotists Will Appear Five Nights at Lyceum.

This coming week the Flints, the world's famous hypnotists, will be the attraction at the Lyceum all of next week but Monday.

Prof. Flint will deliver a short address each evening upon some phase of hypnotism which will be nicely illustrated. At an expense of both time and money, the Flints have gathered material which has made their performances famous throughout the land. No source which could possibly furnish anything new or novel has been left untouched. Every country on the face of the globe which knows anything of hypnotism, has its latest discoveries represented in these entertainments. The entertainment is composed of an almost endless variety of things selected from everyday walks of life. The drama, opera and extravaganza have each furnished their best parts. Quaint characters from various professions and trades, many of which show the most ludicrous instantaneous transformation in plain view of the audience, are all blended together with such nicety that the beholder has constantly before him a panoranna of life, which makes a most enjoyable entertainment from a purely theatrical standpoint. But considering the material for the performance, and the working of this seemingly strange and incomprehensible influence—which for want of a better name is called hypnotism—the results are wonderful.

LYCEUM NOTES.

News and Gossip of the Coming Attractions.

The new comedy in three acts, "The Butterfly," by Kellett Chambers, now serves to introduce Miss Lillian Russell as a comedienne, without the pictorial background of comic opera chorus and costuming with which her successful career has long been associated. Under the direction of Joseph Brooks, Miss Russell will appear in "The Butterfly" at the Lyceum June 7 and 8. The new piece is a comedy of essentially up-to-date manners, with scenes laid in New York city and Saratoga, and Miss Russell's role is that of a young widow whose frivolous disposition is indicated by the title. The superior company includes Eugene Ormonde, John Flood, Frederick Tiden, Grant Mitchell, Charles Lamb, Roland H. Hill, Isabel Merrill Richards, Kate Griffith and Rosalie de Vaux.

Raymond Hitchcock as the make-believe war correspondent in "A Yankee Tourist," the new comic opera which Henry W. Savage will offer at the Lyceum on May 20 wears a khaki uniform which was presented to him by Richard Harding Davis, the best known war correspondent in the world, who has written the book of "A Yankee Tourist." These garments were worn by Mr. Davis during the Graeco-Turkish war, which he "covered" for the New York Herald and London Times. The bracelet, watch and clasp medal worn by Mr. Hitchcock in the same opera, are also the property of Mr. Davis. The medal was presented to the noted writer by Prince George of Greece for bravery on the occasion of Mr. Davis' penetration of the Turkish lines.

Direct from an all summer run at the New York Theater roof garden and Manhattan Beach theater, the "Dandy Dixie Minstrels" of forty colored performers will be seen at the Lyceum May 24 and 25.

Nothing quite so elaborate as this latest Voelckel & Nolan production has ever been attempted in minstrelsy. Headed by Campbell brothers, the black aristocrats, the company includes a score of the world's best comedians, singers, dancers and musicians. The olio is replete with high priced vaudeville acts, while the spectacular first part in the Royal Palm Grotto is a masterpiece of minstrel mounting. Besides the famous Cotton Pickers' band of noted colored musicians, a big feature of the performance is a buck dance contest open to all comers for valuable prizes.

AT THE METROPOLITAN

The Brigadiers Will Close the Season of Burlesque With a Week's Engagement Beginning Tomorrow Afternoon---A Stock Company Will Play Short Engagement.

While the theater will be occupied by a stock company for a few weeks after next Saturday night, the Metropolitan's regular season of burlesque will end then. The last burlesque attraction of the season is the Brigadiers, who will open their engagement of one week with a matinee tomorrow afternoon.

The company will give the usual matinees as well, on Tuesday, Thursday (ladies' day) and Saturday.

The Brigadiers have played at the Metropolitan before and they have always been known to have a good show. That they have this time, Manager Cromwell is positive. He declares that his organization is stronger now than it has ever been before.

Aside from the vaudeville portion of the bill, the most pretentious offering of the Brigadiers is the musical comedy in two acts, "Mr. Dooley on the Empire Circuit." The book is the work of Paul Quinn and Frank D. Bryan and Charles H. Smith are responsible for the lyrics and the music, respectively.

All who had a hand in the composition of the piece are said to have builded very well. Tim Healy is the man in charge of the title role, and he is said to realize and take advantage of the ample possibilities of the part.

Among the specialties introduced are those of Jack Symonds, "the man of ease," in a monologue; Lester and Moure, who present a frivolity called "A Dance at the Beach;" Miss Nellie Burt, a graceful, charming and vivacious soubrette; Cosren and St. John, two singers and dancers who offer something entirely new; Sherman and Fuller, who do a lot of bumping, banging and tumbling in satisfactory style; and the sisters Maginel Mullini, talented instrumentalists.

AT THE BIJOU

The Vaudeville Bill Next Week Will Include an All Star List of Attractions---Japanese Magicians and Top Spinners Present Novel Act.

In presenting modern vaudeville the Bijou management is making every effort to give Duluth the best the market affords. While the programs are not quite as long as in the big Eastern theaters, the bills include the very best of talent obtainable and each week will have at least three feature acts with artists that are recognized as the best in their respective lines.

In presenting next week's program there is not an act that could not well be called a feature act.

One of the acts which will be seen, is the Tourist Trio, a combination of harmony singers and comedy entertainers that would be hard to equal during the twenty minutes they are on the stage; they keep the audience in a roar of laughter.

Another act of equal prominence will be the four Schades, who are sketch artists of great ability, and singers and dancers that never fail to please. They will appeal in a clever skit entitled "Mistakes Will Happen," which has a pretty plot and well staged and acted. The Tanakas, Japanese top spinners, magicians and novelty artists, will offer a new and original act of mystery. As a comedy pair, Gilmore and Castle, known as the merry comedians, will be seen in their own original line of comedy singing and dancing which is a hit from start to finish. As an added attraction, Kreisel's dog and cat show will be seen. This animal act stands in a class by itself. The tricks performed by these pets are said to be wonderful.

Isadore Silver will render "Some One Thinks of Someone," illustrated with colored views. The moving pictures for the week show "The Bandit King," a story picture that is thrilling. Other scenes shown are of a pathetic nature.

Matinees are given daily at 2:45, and evening performances at 8 and 9:30. Seats may be reserved by telephone. A special school children's matinee will be given on Saturday afternoon at 2:30 with regular performances Sunday afternoon and night.

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

The Great Actors' Fund at the Metropolitan Opera House Proving Very Successful---"Rip Van Winkle" in French.

New York, May 11.—The actors' fund fair at the Metropolitan Opera house, which opened Monday, has been the subject of most interest in theatrical circles this week. It is proving a great success and a large sum will be realized or the fund. It is the greatest thing of the kind ever seen even along the great white way.

"Rip Van Winkle" will be played in Paris in the French language by Thomas Jefferson, son of Joseph Jefferson. Harry F. Greene, Mr. Jefferson's business manager, says: "Joseph Jefferson knew that the people of Paris were very anxious to see this play, and at one time the elder Coquelin and Mr. Jefferson had a conference on this subject. The scheme then was for Coquelin to play the part of Rip because Mr. Jefferson could not speak French." Tom Jefferson will give the play in the Cluny theater. The French version is by Leon Rabillon, French consul at Baltimore.

Miss Carlotta Nilsson, who has just ended her long season as the heroine of "The Three of Us," will probably spend part of her vacation in Paris.

"I love the French stage," said Miss Nilsson "Its freedom, the technical power of its dramatists, the finish of its performers, their remarkable feeling for the ensemble. I count a visit to the French metropolis a gain in power and a source of fresh inspiration."

Ethel Barrymore is at the end of her present and successful engagement in the Empire theater. Last Saturday night she gave here her last presentation of the Robert Marshall comedy, "His Excellency the Governor," and on Monday evening she resumed the delightful title role in "Cousin Kate," which will be presented for the remaining two weeks of her engagement.

Handsome souvenirs were distributed in the Garrick on Monday, when William Collier appeared for the 150th time there in his jolly new farce, "Caught in the Rain." The comedian is still drawing crowded houses, and from the present great demand for seats it would seem that his popularity would last until the hot weather comes on.

The one-act sketch, "Marse Covington," written by George Ade, and which has been used in vaudeville with success by E. J. Connelly, is to be elaborated into a three-act comedy drama, in which form it is to appear next season.

Lillian Russell has been meeting with success in the straight comedy, "The Butterfly," which will induce her to remain in that sphere next season. She will appear in a new play, which is being written for her by George Broadhurst and George V. Hobart. It is claimed that the subject of the play will create a mild sensation. Several of the characters will be readily recognized as prototypes of men and women well known in New York, especially of the Sheepshead Bay and Gravesend racing meets.

Irma Gramatica, one of the foremost of present-day Italian actresses, is seriously ill in a sanitarium in Bologna, where she will remain for a year.

Sudermann's newest play, "Das Blumenboot" ("The Flower Boat"), was played in New York for the first time last week. It met with indifferent success. In the European theaters its reception was similar.

An interesting announcement of the week is to the effect that Marguerite Clarke, the petite and talented light opera singer, who has been with De Wolf Hopper for the past several seasons, has been selected by the Shuberts to play the principal role in their London production of "The Road to Yesterday." The play will open at the Waldorf theater at the conclusion of the Sothern-Marlowe engagement there. That Miss Clarke's talent and popularity assured her for eventual stardom was generally conceded, but her transfer to the legitimate stage comes somewhat as a surprise.

Guy Standing is to assume the principal role in a dramatization of Gilbert Parker's novel, "The Right of Way," which Klaw and Erlanger will produce next season. Originally Kyrle Bellew was intended for the part, and some months ago it was stated that Theodore Roberts had been selected.

Her tender nursing having placed him well on the road to health, it is now announced by friends of Charles Donald Mackay and Miss Lillian Kemble, both members of "The Man of the Hour" theatrical company, that they are to be married next month. Mr. Mackay was recently operated on for appendicitis and is nearly recovered.

On the same stage on which Mr. Mansfield performed so interestingly and curiously in "Peer Gynt" Mr. Mantell appeared this week in "Julius Caesar." Comparisons are inevitable, even if both distinguished actors had not appeared at the New Amsterdam, and it may be a predilection for the "old-fashioned" school, but Mr. Mantell has nothing to lose by the inevitable. With all his cleverness and all his subtleties—and oversubtleties—Mr. Mansfield's disposition to "antic" rather makes Mr. Mantell's straight acting stand forward most appealingly. Modernity is an excellent thing in its way, but it is apt to be very much overestimated, and with Mr. Mansfield modernity came very near being madness. Mr. Mantell, on the other hand, is at times a little too indifferent to the progress in histrionic methods, but that does not alter the fact that it would be a very good thing for those who think that Mansfield is a great actor to observe so conscientious, so "straight" an actor as Mr. Mantell.

William H. Crane refused to play in "She Stoops to Conquer" in New York because he said he was getting tired of being "jumped on." Was this an evidence of wisdom or an indication of peevishness on William's part? George Ade is now in Southern California trying to work out an American comedy for Mr. Crane, and when he tires of that task he devotes a few hours to working over "The Bad Samaritan" for Ezra Kendall's use.

While playing in Boston, a proposition was made to Robert Edeson to star next season in Thomas W. Lawson's "Friday, the Thirteenth." The character of Bob Brownley, the financier, is a powerful one. The actor was to be his own dramatist if the proposition were accepted, but asked by newspaper men if he would produce such a play, Manager Harris was reticent and said nothing in approval of the idea.

Hattie Williams, formerly chief assistant to Hoggenheimer Bernard, is the latest musical comedy divinity to insist that if she could have a play written for her by Clyde Fitch she would prove to certain parties that she is something more than a welterweight soubrette. Margaret Illington has returned to New York, having curtailed her season with John Drew in "His House in Order." She will remain here until after the Actors Fund fair. Miss Gertrude Hoffman, the dancer-mimic and stage manageress now with the Anna Held company, will go in for high art and be his leading woman on the roof.

will have her first fling at the repertoire Charles E. Blaney is building up for her use next season. The supplemental season for this purpose is to be played at Blaney's theater, Brooklyn, beginning May 6. The first play to be produced is "The Dancer and the King," a historical comedy drama written by Charles E. Blaney and J. Searles Dawley. Miss Spooner will have a specially organized company for this production, including William H. Turner, Lon Hascall, Ella Cameron, George Palmer Moore, Dick Thompson, Homer Barton, Florence Elliott and Charles Gibson. The following week Charles T. Dazey's play of the West, "The Girl From Texas," with Miss Spooner in the title role, will have its first presentation.

HE EVOLVED NEW TYPE OF THE CHORUS GIRL

Late James Davis Was Responsible For Many Wealthy Footlight Matches.

New York, May 11.—If chorus girls were properly grateful they would subscribe and build a monument to the memory of the recently deceased James Davis, better known by his pen name of Owen Hall.

It is not because he has the books of "A Gaiety Girl," "The Geisha" and "The Silver Slipper" to his credit that Mr. Hall has a claim on the gratitude of the show girl. These productions stamp him as the best librettist since Gilbert, but my lady of the footlights cares nothing about that.

The thing that gives Mr. Hall his claim on her is the fact that he wrote "Florodora" and evolved a new style of chorus girl.

Prior to "Florodora" the chorus girl wore the same kind of fleshings that had been the vogue since the days when the "Black Crook" first shocked the country. No one had ever had the originality to suggest a change. It had gone out of the fashion to fall captive to this creature of pads and paint.

Only a few insipid Johnnies clung to the stage door in admiration of this venerable type.

But suddenly a metamorphosis was effected.

The show girl was lifted to a pedestal such as she had never occupied before. Diamonds, automobiles, flowers, Wall street winnings and millionaire husbands were proffered to her.

The Florodora fever had done its work, and the new chorus girl was launched on her glittering career. What Mr. Hall did was simple enough, perhaps, but it remained for him to be the one to think of it.

First he decided that beauty unadorned was not necessarily beauty most adorned, so he began by giving the chorus girl some clothes. In place of the tights of tradition she was equipped with a superb Paris gown and hat that the wealthiest woman in the world need not have been ashamed to wear. Then he picked out six tall, willowy girls of a similar type, the very opposite of the old time elephantine favorites. To these he gave a most attractive and melodious air.

Not in the annals of the stage has such an enthusiasm been recorded for any one number in an opera. It was nothing unusual to hear the sextette repeated a dozen times, and the six stunning girls who composed the feminine half of the number leaped into a popularity that made them the envied of theaterdom.

It is a frequent mistake to say that Nan Patterson and Evelyn Nesbit Thaw were members of that famous "original" sextette, for they were not. Nan Patterson did sing in the sextette, but only in a No. 8 company. She had no part whatever in the first production.

Evelyn Nesbit-Thaw was in the opening New York production of the opera, but she never attained to the dignity of being in the sextet that made the success of the work. Nature had never adapted her for such a role. She lacked the height and distinction. The best she got was the small role of a flower maiden, who danced in the background and scattered flowers.

Since the fame of "Florodora" went round the country, it has become a fashion to class every girl who figures in a sensational incident as one of the original six. Let a woman shoot or be shot, let her make a rich marriage, be named as co-respondent, and "Florodora" instantly got the credit of another sensation. Had there been six thousand instead of six girls in the first corp, they would not have taken part in all the incidents credited to them.

Just to keep the records straight, it may be well to set down here the names of the six young ladies who first dazzled the country in the Paris gowns and big hats of the number.

They were:
Marie Wilson.
Maggaret Walker.
Vaughn Texsmith.
Marjorie Relyea.
Agnes Sayre.
Daisy Green.

If any one of this six ever has to do any further pirouetting before the footlights, it is because she was already married or did not take proper advantage of her opportunities, for every one was sought and courted by a host of eligible suitors.

Only lately one of them made a good marriage, when Marie L. Gamble, who in the list is given by her stage name Marie Wilson, married Freddy Gebhard, of Baltimore, famous in another epoch for his friendship for Mrs. Langtry, the English actress.

But Miss Wilson was wealthy before she married Gebhard. In fact she left the sextet before the original run ended, and was the first to go. A kind Wall street friend gave her tips on the market during a boom time when profits were coming easily, and so gamely did she plunge that she realized a sum said to be $200,000.

Agnes Wayburn, who was known in the East as Agnes Sayre, came into prominence lately by her suit for divorce from Ned Wayburn.

Vaughn Texsmith was an English show girl, who is still seen occasionally in ...s productions. The others have temporarily dropped out of sight.

So it happens that the original six who took part in the monumental success emerged from the excitement free of scandal.

All that happened to give the Florodora gem its undesirable notoriety it owes to those who went on the road in the half dozen companies that were organized, and sent out while the craze was on.

But it is not alone in connection with "Florodora" itself that the influence of Mr. Hall must be calculated. He really made a new type of chorus girl, which is being reflected in every current production.

The talented English librettist, who, like Anthony Hope, was a barrister before he turned his talents of clever dialogue into gold, taught the comic opera world that there was something new in the way of displaying femininity.

No impresario putting on a show now dare forget the lesson taught by the success of "Florodora." The opera started an unprecedented craze for elaborate costuming. If a manager now wants to put on a ballroom scene, he does not content himself with having his principals well dressed and his chorus girls looking like dowds. The show girl must be only a shade less elaborately dressed than the leading woman.

The result is a picture that never loses its charm, and that ever develops new beauties.

To a form of entertainment that regular theatergoers had come to regard with a jaded palate, Mr. Hall gave the new savor that put it back again in the forefront of popularity.

Also he made the stage such a matrimonial bureau as it had never before been. The tall, superb girl in the Paris gown and the huge hat, carrying herself like a queen and actually knowing how to sing, was a divinity not to be resisted.

Everywhere the opera went she took her all-conquering sway. The idea has been stolen and multiplied in all forms of entertainment, even down to vaudeville.

It is an unfortunate habit of Americans to sneer at the quality of British humor, but the careers of Messrs. Gilbert and Hall force something of a halt on this attitude. American playwrights would be hard put to show such a gallery of humorous portraits as Gilbert created, or such a sustained power of lively dialogue as Mr. Hall exhibited. Even without the music or the sextet at all, "Florodora" would have been a delightful entertainment, with its abundance of cleverness and comedy.

But long after Mr. Hall and his dialogue are forgotten the "Florodora" sextet will be remembered, and long after each of the estimable six ladies has reached the age of tottering senility, reporters will be recording incidents happening to members of the endless original sextet.

PARIS THEATER GRAFTERS

Eight Sorts Who Expect Tips From Visitors to the Playhouses.

"When a Parisian hits on the unhappy idea of going to the theater," writes one of them, "he has to run the guantlet of rare collection of nuisances and plunderers. First there is the crowd outside the theater and then there is another gang inside.

"He must give one tip to the coachman who drives him and another to the nimble person who springs to open the carriage door—even if he opens it himself. Then come the flower girls and ticket speculators and the program venders. They stand in his way and importune him. He has almost to use violence to rescue his coat talls from their clutches.

"At last the theater foyer swallows him up. He is saved from one barking pack, but new persecutors are ready. There is (1) the refreshment counter attendant. Won't he buy oranges? No, he won't. Then won't he buy candy for the lady? No! Then maybe a sandwich to eat between the acts, and so on. Next to this plague comes (2) the program peddler—only authorized and official program, of course—and (3) the opera glass man.

"There is a fourth, too, but the fourth interior plague of the theater take a great deal of space and ill temper to describe it. She is the ouvereuse, the official box opener and seat finder, the counterpart of the usher in America, but displaying an itching palm and a very unpleasant disposition when not paid to be genial. The ouvreuse is the worst parasite of the Parisian theater and few indeed are they from whom she fails to draw blood.

Her hand is not extended until the close of the performance, but she begins to get her fine work in at once. Not that she makes any pretense of finding the boxes or seats that the ticket presented to her calls for. The kicker defies any one in Paris to come forward and swear that she ever found his place for him. Nobody could make an affidavit without committing perjury, he says. But what she does is grab his hat and overcoat and walking cane. These she locks up in a chamber of horrors which she calls the cloakroom and thenceforward the victim is at her mercy. He can not escape without paying tribute.

It is no wonder that the ouvreuse devotes more attention to collecting her revnue than to seating the audience. It is a serious matter for her. Not only has she to make her living out of it, but she must also make up the quota of "the house." In one theater the ouvreuse pays 7 francs, or $1.40, a night for her privilege; sometimes it is more or less, but always somewhere between 5 and 10 francs, except recently in two or three of the best theaters, which have tried to reform the system. One or two go so far as to pay a salary, but even in these there is such a pleading look in the poor woman's eyes as she surrenders one's light baggage that no man with a tender heart can keep his hand out of his change pocket. He knows the woman is under heavy expenses; she must be expensively dressed in up-to-date style to keep her job.

But occasionally a man will revolt. One tells how one June evening he went to a variety theater alone. He dodged the ouvreuse at a busy moment, slipped down the aisle, found his seat by himself and sat down in it with an expression of unconscious innocence. As it was warm, he had no overcoat, and he hid his hat under the seat. All the same, toward the end of the performance, the ouvreuse appeared with outstretched hand.

"What for?" he asked.

"For service," she answered.

"What service?"

"The customary service we always give."

"But you gave me none, why should I give you anything?"

"Oh, pardon," she exclaimed in a good, audible tone. "I did not recognize that monsieur was a deadhead."

This brought him to time, and he gave her a franc.

Another man going to the Forte St. Martin theater, attempted to enter his box himself. An ouvreuse headed him off, and though she had seen him at least once a week for several years, demanded his ticket.

"I have none," said he, "I travel on a pass."

"Then what's your name?" she demanded.

He gave the name of Courbevoie, which is the name of a town in France, and when she returned to say that there was no such name on the free list, he gave her the names successively of Puteaux and Surennes, which are towns in the same vicinity. Then she realized that she could not get the best of him that way, especially as she saw one of the management in the background grinning at the dispute, so she ended the incident with a killing shot.

"I humbly apologize," said she. "If I had known that monsieur was a private detective on business, I would not have tried to force him to reveal his real name."

WORK FOR WORLD'S PEACE

The Coming Meeting of the Lake Mohonk Conference on International Arbitration.

Rarely has a great reform shown more striking evidence of progress than has the peace and arbitration movement during the past few years. Since the first Hague conference in 1899 an ever changing series of events has been tending in the direction of better international relations. Set over against a great war, we find a successful Hague court settling four cases involving fourteen nations; a net-work of arbitration treaties, forty-four in number, limited in scope but nevertheless strong guarantors of peace; an arising world sentiment which did not a little to terminate the Russo-Japanese war; and the development of an international respect and good will which has well expressed itself through such agencies as the Alaska boundary tribunal, the North Sea commission and the Algeciras conference. Arbitration has become a world subject, engrossing alike to cabinets and peace societies, executives and private citizens.

At this moment the great nations are witnessing impressive demonstrations of interest in the second Hague conference which meets June 15. In our own country, a great national arbitration and peace congress recently drew together in New York thousands of Americans and secured official recognition from city, state and nation. It is, indeed, encouraging that the coming Hague conference should evoke so great and widespread interest.

The reasons for this general interest will hardly be found in anything new that has been said of the horrors of war, the burdens of militarism or the expense of great armaments. The explanation is rather that the nations are finding new ways to adjust many controversies without bloodshed or dishonor, and that the people are coming to realize that any present hope of doing away with war lies not in removing its cause but in finding new means of dealing with those causes; not by unqualifiedly condemning war, but by codifying international law, allaying international distrust and extending and making more judicial the application of arbitration through the Hague court and like agencies. In the general acceptance of this principle, the movement against war has found a basis for sure, even if slow, progress.

In this connection, it is interesting to note the work of one man and of an institution of his creation which for twelve years past has been urging on the American public, with no little success, this very principle which is now being so generally accepted. That man is Albert K. Smiley, a business man of clear insight, the owner of a vast private estate at Lake Mohonk, N. Y. Here in 1895 he invited about fifty prominent persons to meet as his guests and from that rather unique house party grew the Lake Mohonk conference on international arbitration which has become of considerable national significance. The conference is remarkable as being perhaps the first and only meeting in the interest of peace at which it is distinctly stipulated that neither peace nor war shall be discussed. Attention is concentrated on arbitration and kindred agencies as practical means of adjusting international differences. This wisdom of this course has been demonstrated in the growth of the conference in numbers and influence. Each annual meeting now numbers more than 300 persons, eminent in all walks of American life, the highly cosmopolitan character of the conference, made possible by its limited scope, constituting its greatest strength.

Three great measures which have been steadily and persistently advocated by the conference have been: 1. An international court of arbitration. 2. Arbitration treaties, both special and general. 3. Some form of international congress with advisory powers. It will be seen that the conference has not hesitated to hold out a high ideal, but true to the practical, having stated its ideal, it has begun at the foot of the ladder to build up the practical details leading to it. Now that an international court has become a fact and the movement for arbitration treaties has assumed considerable proportions, the conference is specially emphasizing the importance that The Hague conference of this year take a short step toward an international congress by making The Hague conference a permanent institution with regular, periodic meetings.

The conference maintains a permanent office at Mohonk lake, through which an active educational propaganda is carried on throughout the year. An illustration of the practical nature of its work is seen in the fact that in the past three years, it has built up a voluntary co-operative association of 130 of the largest business organizations of the country, representing thirty-seven states, through which it can exert an immediate and powerful influence on the general public. It has also secured the active co-operation of nearly a third of the colleges of the United States. For these reasons, although its members still come as Mr. Smiley's guests and its personal nature is as strong as ever, it has come to be regarded almost as a national institution.

Not the least striking feature of the conference is its meeting place, Lake Mohonk, where within 100 miles of New York city and on a single estate nature has given as fine a specimen of her handiwork as can be found east of the Rockies, Crag, lake, woodland and valley are thrown together in a bewildering and inspiring combination which once seen is never forgotten.

The thirteenth annual meeting of the conference is to take place May 22-24 with Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, as presiding officer. Among the speakers will be Chief Justice S. E. Baldwin of Connecticut; Hon. John Barrett, director international bureau of American republics; Senor Enrique C. Creel, ambassador from Mexico; Senor Ignacio Calderon, minister from Bolivia; Hon. Richard Bartholot, M. C., American head of the Interparliamentary union; Hon. Bartlett Tripp of South Dakota, ex-minister to Austria; Dr. Benamin F. Trueblood of Boston, and Hon. Francis B. Loomis, former assistant secretary of state. There is reason to think that Dr. Andrew D. White, who was a member of the first Hague conference, will speak. Speeches on educational phases will be made by the United States commissioner of education and the New York state commissioner of education, and the relation of colleges to the arbitration movement will be made the subject of a general discussion. Among the college men expected are Presidents Eliot of Harvard, Angell of Michigan, Thwing of Western Reserve, Needham of George Washington, Rees of Rochester, Seelye of Smith, Taylor of Vassar and Warfield of Lafayette, and Professors H. W. Rogers of Yale, J. B. Moore of Columbia, J. H. Beale of Harvard, R. T. Ely of Wisconsin, W. W. Willoughby of Johns Hopkins, J. F. Colby of Dartmouth, M. Stalker of Iowa, E. Russell of Earlham and S. C. Mitchell of Richmond.

Other prominent men who have accepted invitations are Justice D. J. Brewer of the United States supreme court, Chief Justices Beard of Tennessee, Knowlton of Massachusetts and Douglas of Rhode Island and Justices Moore of Michigan and Potter of Pennsylvania; Congressmen Hill of Connecticut, Smith of Illinois, Goldfogle and Wiley of New York, and Granger of Rhode Island; Bishops Coleman of Delaware and Lawrence of Massachusetts; Senor Epifanio Portela, minister from Argentine, and Senor Enrique Cortes, minister from Colombia; Hon. John D. Long, ex-secretary of the navy; Rear Admirals C. F. Goodrich, T. F. Jewell and A. S. Barker, U. S. N.; Governor Crawford of South Dakota and ex-Governor McLane of New Hampshire; Mayor Jones of Minneapolis; Hon. H. B. F. Macfarland of Washington; Gen. Stewart L. Woodford and Alton B. Parker of New York; Edward M. Shepard of Brooklyn; Hon. Frank Plumley of Vermont; Hon. Charles P. Neill, United States commissioner of labor; Editors McKelway of the Brooklyn Eagle, Lambdin of the Philadelphia Public Ledger, O'Brien of the Boston Transcript, Hoyt of the Albany Argus, Abbott of the Outlook, Devins of the New York Observer and Ward of the Independent; and official delegates from more than fifty leading chambers of commerce and boards of trade, to whom one of the six sessions will be given for discussian of the relation of the business man to the furtherance of the arbitration movement.

BURTON MAY BE RIVAL OF FORAKER FOR SENATE.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 11.—Congressman Burton, asked if he would be a candidate for the United States senate to succeed Mr. Foraker, declared that he did not wish, at this time, to discuss the matter. Possibly he would have something to say on the subject a little later. It is believed among his most intimate friends here that he will shortly announce himself as a candidte.

TAFT OBJECTS TO FORAKER

Secretary Wants Senator Cut Out of Senatorial List.

Cleveland, May 11.—The Plaindealer, in its leading article on the Ohio political situation, today says: "Secretary of War William H. Taft will not accept the presidential endorsement from the Republican leaders of Ohio if it is coupled with an endorsement of Joseph B. Foraker, for another term in the United States senate. Congressman Burton held a long telephone conversation with Secretary Taft at Washington at the request of the secretary. The secretary stands by his original declaration, made through his managers, that the contest in Ohio has so shaped itself that Senator Foraker must be eliminated not only as a presidential, but as a senatorial figure."

MINING IN THE BLACK HILLS

Work at Ideal Camp Progressing Well---Homestake Mine Filling Up Rapidly---Reliance Now Running at Full Capacity.

Keystone, S. D., May 11.—Work at the Ideal camp progresses well. A new 100-horse power Sterling boiler is being put in, and also a six drill Ingersoll-Sergeant duplex steam compound air compressor for driving the tunnel to the main ledge. The tunnel will bring them to the main ledge. The tunnel has cut several smaller ledges.

Much interest has been taken in the rich strike made by John Snowie on his ground one mile west of this camp. While doing assessment work he encountered rich ore, and a shallow shaft has now penetrated the ore some distance. The assays run high and the property will be developed at once. There is a large amount of valuable timber on the ground, also plenty of water, and a good mill site. The transportation question will be easily solved, as the roads are good and in repair. The claim adjoins the rich Jupiter property.

Deadwood, S. D., May 11.—The open cut work being done on the Globe is revealing a larger ore body than was expected. The entire porphyritic cap of the hill is mineralized and there will be about 400 feet of ore above the tunnel, which will be immediately available for treatment. The mill is being pushed along as fast as possible. The 50,000 gallon water tank is being filled for fire purposes and sluicing out the pressure leaching tranks. The solution house is completed and the solution tanks all set up.

The Reliance mine is now running at full capacity of 160 tons a day. A good extraction is maintained and the grade of ore has kept above expectations. The surface work, which will be the chief work done during the summer, has already been commenced and over forty men are employed at the mine and at the mill. Even the hard blue ore is going through the crushing department in a satisfactory manner.

Lead, S. D., May 11.—The Homestake mine, which is being flooded to subdue the fire on the 400 foot level, is filling up rapidly, and there is but little loss so far from scepage. The water is rising about four inches an hour, and is now about sixteen feet deep on the 500 foot level. The supply is 1,500 cubic feet a minute, and a large part of Whitewood Creek is running in through the old Savage tunnel. The mine is filling faster than was expected and is holding the water better. At the present rate the mine should be flooded in twenty days. Some of the mills will be started as soon as the mine is flooded, so that the water is once more available. A flume 3,100 feet long was built to bring the water from Whitewood Creek into the Savage tunnel.

Custer, S. D., May 11.—The newest mineral discovered in the Southern hills is called epidote, and resembles crystals of horn-blende or tourmaline. It has no special value except as a gem. This makes 101 different minerals that have been found in this section. The epidote occurs in quartz, and so far has not been found in any quantity.

CRIPPLE CREEK DISTRICT

Output for May Shows Drop of 7,750 Tons, Due to Golden Cycle Mine Being Closed Nearly All Winter.

Cripple Creek, Colo., May 11.—The output from the Cripple Creek district for the month of April amounted to $1,177,575, with a gross tonnage of 51,250, which is a decrease from March of $172,425 and a loss in tonnage of 7,750 tons. This decrease is explained from the fact that the Golden Cycle mine was closed down practically all of the month and the Findley curtailed shipments while making repairs. The Elkton tonnage was also off on the same account. For nearly a week the outside mines, or those not along railroads, were handicapped by bad weather, which made the roads nearly impassable, and caused them to be short in production. Then there is a difference of one day between March and April.

The following table gives the individual treatment made by mills and smelter:

Plant.	Tons.	Value.
Vindicator	300	$4,800
Wild Horse	300	2,500
U. S. S. & R.	15,000	360,000
Smelters	6,000	318,000
Portland	10,000	220,000
Isabell	2,250	11,250
Ironclad	2,500	9,000
Homer Run	650	5,200
Wishbone	500	3,500
Santa Rita	350	1,225
Homestake	500	1,500
Golden Cycle	12,000	240,000
Total	51,250	$1,177,575

The Consolidated Copper Creek company, which a short time ago purchased the Delmonico claim on Bull Hill, is now considering the advisability of erecting a cyanide mill that will have a daily capacity of 100 tons.

The property was owned by the Union Gold Mining company, which passed its control to the late W. S. Statton for $350,000. The mine has produced in the neighborhood of $125,000, and the main working shaft has only been sunk to a depth of 600 feet. It is the purpose of James McIlwee, the superintendent, to start this week to sink the shaft uninterruptedly until a depth of 1,000 feet is attained, when extensive development work will be started. The crosscuts will be run to veins now exposed in the upper workings.

No less than three distinct ore bodies have already been cut by Mr. McIlwee since he took charge a few months ago. One of these veins is six feet wide and carries values of from $4 to $20, and it is of such a formation that it can readily be treated by cyanidation. The Delmonico claim is surrounded by the Deadwood, Maud Helena, Wilson of the Free Coinage, and is adjacent to the Isabella, Vindicator and Findley mines.

O. D. Folgeman & Co., operating on the Wild Horse property through its 200 and 500-foot workings between the two levels, are shipping out several cars of ore a month, the values running from three to five and six ounces in gold to the ton. The ore is being broken down between two and three feet wide. There

CANANEA IS MUCH AGITATED

Over Denouncement of Parcel of Mineral Land, Claimed by Both the Calumet & Sonora and the South Cananea Companies.

Cananea, Mex., May 11.—Through his attorney, I. J. McReynolds of this city, President Norton of the Calumet & Sonora, yesterday filed denouncement on a parcel of land containing thirty-four partenencias of mineral groun,d claimed by them to be open, which either lies directly next to the ground of the South Cananea Copper company or the Mitchell interests or within the borders of their property, and is claimed by them as a parcel of it.

When seen, Mr. McReynolds said that the report of the denouncement of the land was true.

"This ground is, we cliam, open, being left so by a survey approved by the South Cananaea-Bisbee companies several months ago, which was accepted and filed with the department de fomento in the City of Mexico.

"The Mitchells have no claim to this ground whatever and we intend to fight the matter to the end to prove we and not they are right in the controversy.

"If the matter leads to a legal battle we will have a hearing before the court of the first instance at Cananea and shall be, I believe, confidently the winners."

The filing of the denouncement has created much agitation and the mining men are extremely indignant over it. The claim of the Calumet & Sonora is deined by all of those interested in the mining property which would be affected. These are many, as officials of the land office at Cananea assert that in case the denouncement is granted, a resurvey of the entire southern portion of the Cananaea district will be necessary, as the shifting of one line would shift all. About 100 properties would be affected by this move.

As the denouncement will be open to protest any time within the next sixty days, the Mitchells will, without doubt enter protest against the procedure.

It is had on authority of Robert Mitchell that not alone will the protest be entered, but that in the suit resulting, he expects to be able to get the best portion of the land of the Calumet & Sonora away from that company. He states that the move is merely one in hope of obtaining a settlement in litigation between the two companies, which has been pending for some time. This, he says, will be unavailing, as no compromise will be made by his side.

The controversy involving such large amounts of land and so many people naturally arouses great interest and the people of the Cananea district are awaiting the outcome with eagerness, although they are confident that the claims of the Calumet & Sonora will be proved to be unfounded.

EAST BUTTE IN NEW ORE BODY

Strikes Apex of Second Enrichment at Depth of 815 Feet in Shaft—Peacock Copper is Beneath Iron Zone—Work to Start on Butte & Ballaklava.

Butte, Mont., May 11.—Established beyond all reasonable doubt, according to the theory advanced by John W. Neill, the mining expert, that rich sulphide ores underlie the immense area of the flat south of the city, shaft No. 1 of the East Butte Mining company has dropped into an entirely new ore body. At a depth of 815 feet the shaft has disclosed a complete change in the character of the formation, and the product may now be termed "hill ore." The assays give 8 per cent copper and eight and one-half ounces of silver to the ton.

The new lead is fifty feet wide and the solid ore body has a width of four feet, apparently a hidden apex which has just been reached. At a depth of 800 feet, the shaft passed through the iron zone, which is between 200 and 300 feet thick, and at the 800-foot level stringers of copper glance were cut. At 815 feet the new ore body was exposed, identical with the formation which Mr. Neill referred to in his last report upon the property. The opening up of the rich sulphide ores beneath the iron capping is looked upon by mining men to mean a permanency of the copper deposit, great depth and an almost inexhaustible supply.

The depth at which the East Butte is now working is equal to the 1,400-foot levels of the hill mines, and the character of the ore demonstrates that the same ore bodies have been reached. A station is now being cut at the 300-foot level of shaft No. 1, and as soon as this is finished and station pumps have been installed, sinking will be resumed to the 1,000 and 1,200-foot levels, when the new and larger ore bodies will be opened up for the shipping of commercial ores.

The East Butte company is now lifting about 225 tons of concentrating ore a day. With the opening up of the newly-discovered bodies the output of the mine will be greatly increased.

This is the first time in the history of the Butte camp that commercial ore has been found below the iron zone on the flat, and it means much to the future of the district. It means that inside of another year, a number of new shafts will be sunk in the ground south of the city with every assurance of success. It offers, also, unbounded encouragement to all of the newer companies operating east and south of the city, and guarantees to such companies as the Butte & London, Colusa-Leonard Extension, Butte Copper Exploration, Pittsburg & Montana, Amazon-Butte, and the Amalgamated properties within a range of two miles east and south of the East Butte, as well as to some further west, the finding of high-grade ores after piercing the iron zone which is known to underlie the first deposits encountered in all of these shafts.

Similar encouragement is also shared by the properties in the imediate vicinity of the East Butte, including the Alliance and Farrell companies, both of which are at the present time exploring ground on East Second street, and to the Consolidated Central Butte company, which will shortly comence operations on the South Star claim, located almost immediately west of the B., A. & P. depot. The latter company has recently interested a number of Duluth capitalists in its enterprise, and with the assurance that commercial ore may be found at a depth of from 800 to 1,000 feet, the success of the company is assured.

Preparations for the beginning of development work on the Butte & Ballaklava property near Meaderville, are under way, and the chances are that inside of the next two weeks ground will be broken for the three-compartment shaft which the company intends to sink on the Ballaklava. There is an old shaft 283 feet deep on the property, but it does not suit the company. The company is composed principally of Duluth men, who will press the button for the beginning of work as soon as the affairs of the corporation are polished.

Mining conditions in the Butte district were never better than they are now, which is evidenced by the fact that all of the large companies are extracting an

LAKE SUPERIOR IRON MINES

Future of Gogebic Range Never Looked Better—Life Greatly Increased by Discoveries of New Ore Bodies—Probably 4,000,000 Tons Will be Shipped This Year.

Ironwood Mich., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Gogebic mining men are a unit in the statement that the future of the range never looked better than at the present time. New ore bodies discovered at depth within recent years have added vastly to the life of the district. Nowhere else in the Lake Superior region do the deposits lie deeper; the ore occurs in immense bodies easily won, and while not all of the mineral is as desirable as some of the fancy grades of the Marquette and Vermilion ranges the product of the mines averages better than that of any other field. For years, in fact, until the dissolution of the Bessemer Ore association, Norrie mine ore set the standard from which all other Lake Superior ores were measured and graded, up or down, as they possessed the desirable elements of added units of iron, decreased phosphorus and lessened moisture; or the undesirable features of less metallic iron and excess of phosphorus, silica and moisture.

A peculiar feature of the geological formation of the Gogebic is the existence of successive layers of diorite rock extending to great depth, and each holding its quota of ore. This is notably the case at the Cleveland Cliffs Iron company's big Ashland mine; the Steel corporation's Norrie group, and the Newport, which, like the Ashland, following the practical exhaustion of the original ore measure, is opening new and extensive deposits at a depth of 2,000 feet after sinking hundreds of feet through barren ground. It occurs also at other leading properties in the territory between the Montreal river—the boundary line between Michigan and Wisconsin—and the Black river, just east of the village of Ramsey and the Eureka mine; and on the west side of the Montreal, as well, the same characteristic formation is being found. All the ores of the Gogebic were formed by leaching from lower grade silicious iron beds. These leached down through broken and porous rock until they met with an impervious trough formed by the junction of a wall of quartzite on the south with a flatter bed or dyke of diorite on the north. All the ore had to do some aeons ago was to purify itself of the oxide of silicon and leach through into the troughs appointed for its reception, remaining there undisturbed until the miners came to remove it. No better method of concentrating low grade ores could be devised than this process, performed in nature's own laboratory.

The Gogebic is equipped with a considerable number of very large and excellent shafts, steel lined and designed to handle exceptionally large tonnages, and more are sinking, the development of the range more than keeping ahead of production. The use of electricity in tramming ore through the drifts is expanding, and in all ways the operators are preparing for bigger outputs at lessened costs. Probably 4,000,000 tons, it is estimated, will be shipped

THE KING OF NEVADA MINES

Production of Nevada Hills Mines in the Fairview District is Staggering—Another Rich Strike Made in Wonder—New Railroad Line Between Tonopah and Ely.

Fairview, Nev., May 11.—A special meeting of the directors of the Nevada Hills Mining company is shortly to be held at the mine for the purpose of devising ways and means for getting rid of the high grade ore which gluts every part of the mine workings.

The situation which confronts the officials of this company is unique. It is probably the first time that a mine management has ever been called upon to consider a problem growing out of surfeit of ore. None of this high grade ore has been brought to the surface for the purposes of realization upon its value. It all came out in the course of plain and prosaic work of blocking out the main ore bodies in order to make a mine.

At the present time the congestion of ore is so great that the mine is threatened with a shut down unless the directors succeed in solving the transportation problem which they are to consider. The dumps contain little save shipping ore; 8,000 sacks of high grade are awaiting transport to the railroad, and now the ore is being left to lie where it falls, as the miners break it. Under present conditions it is possible to freight only one carload each week to the railroad for shipment to the smelters, and unless the directors can discover some way to remove the ore as it is broken down, the mine will have to suspend operations pending improved transportation facilities.

This unique condition in the Nevada hills is a fitting climax to the close of the first annual chapter in the history of this mine, which has carried the fame of the Fairview district through the nation and stands today, when only thirteen months old, as the greatest mine in Nevada.

Already the company has paid $150,000 in dividends from earnings. In June a third dividend, amounting to $112,500, is to be declared. When the second dividend of $75,000 had been paid in March, the company had in its treasury, from earnings, $300,000. There was $100,000 worth of ore in transit, $300,000 at the mine awaiting shipment, and $3,000,000 blocked out in the mine.

On this showing, Nevada Hills is a vastly greater property than the famous Mohawk at Goldfield, and in point of value of production, it bids fair to approach the historic Comstock. Engineer Wilkes of the Guggenheim staff, recently made an examination of the property for the New York stock exchange, on which the stock is shortly to be listed. Mr. Wilkes reported that the main ore shoot in this mine, instead of being 1,200 feet long, as the management had believed, is 4,000 feet long, his decision being that the latter andesite, which covers the outcrop at the east end, does not interfere with the progress of the ore shoot, which will be found to pass through it. With the listing of this stock on the New York stock exchange, Nevada Hills will come before the country as one of the greatest mining propositions of record, and the prominence of the stock is certain to focus the eyes of investors everywhere upon the wonderful possibilities of the Fairview district.

Wonder, Nev., May 11.—A strike of high-grade ore was made today on the Gould No. 2 claim, adjoining the Rich Gulf Wonder on the south. This strike is one of the most important so far made in the Wonder district, as assays from the ore taken out show values of $78 in gold, and 300 ounces of silver to the ton.

The district is in a furore of excitement over this latest discovery, and there is a wild scramble to secure properties in the vicinity of the Gould, Colorado, Golden and Rich Gulch groups, which adjoin each other.

This strike on the Gould No. 2 is

IN THE WARREN DISTRICT

Steady Increase of Miners at All the Shafts and the Furnaces Are Being Supplied With Sufficient Ore.

Bisbee, Ariz., May 11.—There is a steady increase of employes at all the mines in the district, and the strike is at an end so far as its strength or effectiveness is concerned. While none of the companies were running full handed the returns from the smelters at Douglas for the month of April show that both the Calumet & Arizona and Copper Queen companies were able to make their normal production figures. During the first ten days it was necessary to draw upon the reserve ore piles at the smelters, but it is reported now that sufficient ore is being received from the mines at Bisbee to supply the demands of the furnaces.

For the first time in several years the Copper Queen company last week began diamond drill operations between the Czar and Holbrook for general geological information. The timbers have arrived from the treating plant at Alamogordo, and are being framed for the purpose of repairing the Czar shaft. The Czar will be closed down for some time this month, and will be put in good condition before the commencement of the summer rains.

When the two new 285-horse power Scotch marine boilers now at the Junction mine are put in commission completing the battery of twelve boilers, that shaft can boast of having the largest boiler room in Arizona, where the boilers completing the battery are of such a high power type. The mechanical department at the shaft was not affected by the strike and there has been nothing to retard the progress of the improvements going on only delayed material which some time has been on the road.

A full force of miners are working in the stopes and drifts at the Junction and three shifts of men are at work cutting a station on the 1,000 level for the two pumps, of 1,000 gallons capacity each, that are to be installed as soon as the stations are finished. Realizing that an immense volume of water will find its way into the mine as the new country is opened up, the management is having another station cut on the 1,200 level and two pumps of 2,000 gallons each will be installed as soon as the stations are finished. With these pumps to handle part of the water and the big Corliss pumps that are already doing duty, the water question will not cause much bother in the Junction shaft during the rainy season.

Some small details relative to the transfer of the Bonanza de Cobre remain to be worked out yet, before a formal sale of the property is made to the Cole interests. The Bonanza de Cobre is understood to be the best thing in the Cananea district and was secured for the Cole interests by Col. L. W. Powell, third vice president of the Calumet & Arizona company from L. Lindsay and John Talbot. THE GLOBE CONSOLIDATED

Strike in North Crosscut From Gem Shaft Promises Well, But the Richest Ores Expected at Much Greater Depth.

Globe, Ariz., May 11.—The chief feature of interest this week in the work of development of the mining properties in this district was a strike on the Globe Consolidated that promises well for the future of that property. The north crosscut from the Gem shaft at 302 feet encountered the Gem vein on the Buffalo fault. Manager McCarthy reports that this is a well defined vein, dipping about 60 degs. to the north and carrying iron all through the vein matter. This vein has been struck at a depth of only about 500 feet, while it is not expected to encounter big values in any of the veins until nearly twice that depth has been attained. The history of the work underground in the Old Dominion, where sensational strikes have been made lately, shows that the richest veins are found at great depth, and it is believed that this experience will be repeated on the Globe Consolidated. The Taylor vein extends from the Old Dominion to the Globe's property and the north drift from the Gem shaft is working in the direction of that vein. The south crosscut from the same shaft is now in nearly 270 feet and it is expected that in about 100 feet more it will strike the Lizzie vein. When the shaft has been sunk to the 1,100-foot level, crosscuts will be put out to cut the veins at that depth, and it is expected that the richest ore will be encountered there.

The recent strike in the Old Dominion was made on the thirteenth level, and at a distance of 700 feet from the shaft sulphide vein No. 3 was encountered. The ore which has been assayed runs about 5 per cent. There is every indication that the vein will be a wide one and that the ore will become richer both in copper and sulphur. Four furnaces are now running at the smelter and it is expected that there will be a record output this month. Development work in the company's mines is moving along well and the ore reserves are steadily increased.

WORK AT CANANEA CENTRAL

Of An Encouraging Nature---Regular Shipments From the America Aiding Much in the Payment of Operating Expenses.

Cananea, Mex., May 11.—Naturally it is the Cananea Central end of the Greene-Cananea which will hold the center of the boards in the eyes of the stockholders during the next several months of work, preparatory to putting the ores of the property steadily in large quantities on the move to the smelter. Meantime the regular shipments from the workings of the America, made up from ore being displaced through development and the driving of the main delivery tunnel, are doing very neatly in the matter of aiding in the payment of operating expenses.

Stockholders have occasion to feel good over the above, and occasion to feel better still over the way they are opening up more and more rich ground in the Bonanza workings of the property, and the way they are crowding along all work that has been mapped out to the end of bringing about heavy production at the earliest possible date. In connection with new ore discoveries the third level has now been opened to sufficient extent to demonstrate beyond the shadow of a doubt that the Bonanza ore is there just as strong as on the upper levels. The fissure which has been cut has let them into the black sulphide ore body, with every favorable condition surrounding for further depth that prevails above. The third level work is at 170 feet, and there is nothing in the showing there that would indicate that expectations might not be reasonably entertained that several more levels will find conditions unchanged so far as desirability may be concerned.

In the way of crowding work there has been much doing in the new main working shaft, which gives indication of the vigor that is being aplied, and which has the aid of an enthusiastic force of operatives who know they were making ready for big output of rich ore and the employment at the work of a great many more men under highly desirable conditions that prevail in Chananea and are a permanent feature. Tehy have the big shaft down today to a depth of 151 feet and nine inches and it is exactly that measurement, which marks the place where connection wil lbe made with the double track delivery tunnel which is coming towards the shaft as fast as men can drive it. The cutting of the station at this point in the shaft has begun and in a very little while the tunnel will be driving from both ends. Of course it is a big piece of work and is going to require time. Of it is got through during the first part of August, as is now expected, record work wil have been done. As soon as it is through the mine will get into heavy shipping for good. Everything will be ready for it by that time. The railroad is now practically ready for action, the grade down to the ore bins being well under way. At the site for the ore bins grading has been commenced for them and foundations will soone be going in. These bins are to have a capacity for 500 tons. They will be filled by machinery operated from the main shaft practically automatically. In turn they will dump direct into ore cars on the railroad track. They will be erected at about the center of the site which has been chosen, room being left on both ends so that additions can be conveniently made at any time needed.

Prospecting continues over the ground of the Central with results attending wherever they go that give high reason for the elation which people who visit the property always feel and express when they go away. With the big showing this property has and the enormous demonstrated ore bodies of the Greene, together with its wonderful extent of highly mineralized ground on which prospecting is continuously showing more and more in the way of important values, Greene Cananea can only look to those who know about it as the best thing there is open in the copper list. That with other good things Cananea district is bringing in it will make the camp the greatest on the continent is an entirely safe bit, as the increased reduction facilities, which are sure of coming up in the next year or so will fully demonstrate.

BAXTER SPRINGS DISTRICT

Discovery Which Adds 2,000 Acres of Rich Zinc Land to District---Quantities of Pure Galena Being Taken Out.

Baxter Spring, Kan., May 11.—Great excitement followed the discovery of an eighteen foot vein of zinc ore running about 12 per cent in the town of Quapaw, I. T., April 25. The vein was struck at a depth of 138 feet and continued at a depth of 156 feet, and by its discovery there is added to the Baxter district about 2,000 acres of what is undoubtedly the richest zinc land in the world.

For the past ten days rich strikes have been made in nearly every property of either lead or zinc and, in some instance, both. The Omaha and Hobo mines are taking out quantities of pure galena, and the sunburst seem to be striking the same vein. Every effort is being made to run the drifts into the main body of this rich lead. Only two or three mills in the entire district were shut down this week and the remarkable activity of the camp as a surprise to all newcomers. The Mission and M. K. & T. mines are running to their full capacity grinding out their products with tireless energy.

A Tennesee miner who has worked in the great Idaho lead mines and also in the lead and zinc mines of the Scandanavian peninsula, and has been all through the Joplin district, has been seeking an investment for himself and friends for some little time. He is on the Baxter field now and has investigated the underground workings of the various mines. He states unreservedly that this is the world's greatest camp, and the continuity of great veins and the general and almost equal distribution of the ore over such a vast area was a revelation to him.

Whose Differences With Rogers Were Composed by Thomas F. Cole and John D. Ryan.

GREAT AMERICAN COPPER ROMANCES

up with Anaconda, joining the Amalgamated in due time.

Ryan's father was a copper pioneer in the Superior district; he helped develop Calumet & Hecla, and the Baltic mine, one of the most famous in the district, is the result of his efforts. To John D. himself more than any one else, say his friends, is due the present harmony in Butte camp.

When he took hold of the Amalgamated Copper company's work the conflict between it and Heinze was at its height, had engendered bitter feeling throughout the district and had become a serious issue before the legislature. Ryan showed a remarkable grasp of conditions in their entirety and a not less unusual power over men. He began upon the task of making peace all around without delay; under his influence even Heinze yielded and harmony was established between him and the Amalgamated at last.

Cole and Ryan belong to the new dynasty of copper "magnates." They have grown up in copper and did not go into it without experience, as did Heinze, Clark, Daly, Haggin and even Agasssiz. Lawson's copper incursions have always been practically disconnected with copper production.

Col. W. C. Greene, founder of the Greene Cananea property and big factor in the recently organized Greene Consolidated, is entitled to a much better place in the annals of copper than Lawson. He is several years older than Cole, being 56, and did not "grow up in copper." He is of New York birth, went West at 17, just after the civil war, and, before becoming a copper millionaire made his way as prospector, government contractor, rancher and cattle dealer. He discovered the mines of the Greene Cananea and the Greene Consolidated, which are in the state of Sonora, Mexico, almost by accident, when riding over certain ranches across the Sonora line, but adjacent to Greene's in Arizona, owned by a syndicate in which United States Senator Perkins was interested. Greene bought the mineral rights rather cheaply under the Mexican laws.

It was Col. Greene, you will remember, who made dire threats against Lawson in 1904 for printing things in his Frenzied Finance bulletins, which he, Greene, did not like. You will remember, also, that there was handshaking, not shooting, when Col. Greene met Lawson in Boston, whither Greene had gone to secure vindication. Greene gets his title of colonel from the fact that during the Apache troubles of the early eighties he organized and led several companies of volunteers against the savages. There has been plenty of romance in his life. His headquarters have been in New York for several years.

There is not a copper camp in the country that has not its quota of unpublished romances, and there is no place in the States where more of them are to be heard or with more picturesque details than at Duluth, not a copper camp, but in a way the financial center of about two-fifths of the country's copper interests, since the headquarters of at least that proportion of the companies are located there and nearby in the Superior district.

LARDER LAKE GOLD FIELDS

Much Litigation is Expected Within a Few Weeks—About 4,000 Locations Have Been Staked and Claims Recorded But No Patents Have Been Issued Yet.

Toronto, Ont., May 11.—The indications are that there will be a great deal of litigation in the Larder Lake gold fields in a few weeks. Up to the present time about 4,000 locations have been staked and claims recorded in the district, but not a single patent to any of them has been issued. This cannot be done until proof of the required development work and the passing of locations by mining inspectors has been furnished by those who have staked or bought rights to the locations. There have been a good many sales of mining locations in the district, but some purchasing parties do not seem to understand that they are only buying the claims of the settlers, subject to the working regulation and favorable results of inspection.

Another source of trouble is the fact that many stakes were put in through the snow, and with the spring thaws these and similar marks are likely to be washed away. The resultant confusion may easily be imagined.

A great many favorable reports of the condition of the gold-bearing quartz at Larder Lake have been received, though no independent authority has as yet given anything to the general mining public. No man, and it seems peculiar, who has been to the gold fields has a word to say against them. H. A. Brunne, who has a part interest in about a dozen claims, says a valuable deposit of nickel was found north of the lake a few days ago. There was a vein of almost clear mineral, about six inches wide. Several good gold finds have also been reported during the last week.

While little is being heard of the Cobalt silver region, on account of the inactivity of the stock market, a great deal of good work is being done there. Now that the snow has practically disappeared, excepting for places deep in the woods, all the properties will be more thoroughly prospected. Curious as it may seem, there are not more than half a dozen properties in Cobalt on which the managers know what lies a few inches below the surface. In a week or so it is expected many new and important discoveries will be reported.

When the shipments for the month of April are totalled up it will be seen that they are unusually small. This is due in a large measure to the bad condition of the roads during the entire month, during which it was practically impossible to team ore to the depot. Many of the mines have a large amount of first grade ore on hand, and the Nipissing is probably one of the largest holders in this respect. There is also a great deal of ore stored on the Silver Queen.

Supt. Adler of the Foster Cobalt Mining company states that the company now has struck cobalt and silver at the 71-foot level. The shaft is diagonal, and it is following a vein.

The new plant at the McKinley-Darragh is in operation and sinking and drifting in three shafts is vigorously prosecuted. The crosscut at the 150-foot level, between shafts Nos. 1 and 2, will soon be completed.

A merger has been completed of the British American and the Kerr Lake Crown Reserve companies. The new company will be known as the Kerr Lake Crown Mines. In addition to the mining rights of twenty-two acres of Kerr lake, which were secured from the Ontario government for $178,500, the company has the Godfrey and five claims adjoining, in the township of Coleman; 160 acres adjoining the Red Rock or Greene-Meehan; the Floyd lot, near Sharpe lake; the Portage Bay properties formerly owned by the Ontario company, and eleven Larder Lake properties. The capitalization is $5,000,000, and $1,500,000 goes into the treasury.

The Silver Queen now has nearly 150 tons of ore in its ore house and a telegram was recently received from the smelter that no more ore could be received before the first of June at the earliest. The Copper Cliff smelter is said to only receive ore that carries at least 6 per cent cobalt, and the ore at the Queen carries practically nothing but nicolite and silver. At the 75-foot level in the drift on the main vein excellent ore is looming up daily. The vein there is about fourteen inches wide. A 250-pound nugget was taken out last week and one sack was seen on the pile that weighed 195 pounds. The silver in the high grade ore clogs the crusher.

The weekly report of the Cobalt Lake Mining company states that on No. 2 vein fifteen sacks of smaltite, averaging 80 per cent of pure silver, have been taken out, and No. 4 shaft has been sunk to the 44-foot level, an advance of six feet in the past week. No. 5 shaft is now down forty-six feet, against forty-one feet last week. This vein continues to increase in richness, and the samples taken out prove the best which have yet been obtained on the property. Two small shipments will be made for assay purposes.

Dr. Von Hagen has bought a group of twelve claims, two miles northwest of Larder lake, and about the same distance from Grassy lake, and he has formed a company called the Little Larder Lake Mining company.

The Manhattan Mining company, which now owns twelve groups of claims near Cobalt, Larder Lake and the Pontiac region, intends obtaining control of 600 acres of copper lands about sixty-five miles north of Sudbury. The company, which is mostly comprised of New York capital, has already an option on the copper area, and this option will be closed.

The United States Cobalt company is now actively engaged in mining. It has the property adjoining the Temiskaming and the Hudson Bay where a rich find was made a few weeks ago. Strafford Higgins, general manager of the company, states that it will only be a short time until the United States will take a place among he shipping mines.

posed to drain the bulk of the water of the mine into this shaft, whence it will be hoisted to surface from the 1,500-foot station by the giant Cornish pump in commission years ago at "D" Chapin shaft. This pump is a steeple compound engine of the crank and flywheel type, and has a capacity of 3,000 gallons a minute from a depth of 1,500 feet, with a steam pressure of 125 pounds in the throttle. The flywheel of the engine alone weighs 160 tons; it is forty feet in diameter. The height of the pump from the top of the foundation is fifty-four feet. The pump lifts are 200 feet apart. At a depth of 1,200 feet "C" Ludington shaft is connected with the level known as the fourteenth, and this will become the main working level as soon as the ore has been removed from above the present twelfth level. However, this will not be for a few years yet.

The smoke-stack at the boiler house at "C" Ludington is probably the largest in Upper Michigan. Constructed of hollow tile, it rises from the foundation to a height of 155 feet. Its inside diameter is six feet. The foundation for the chimney is exceedingly massive. It is constructed entirely of concrete, and is 18x18 feet on the surface, and ten feet high, giving the stack a total height from the ground of 145 feet. The boiler house, 51x60 feet, is a brick-veneered, iron-clad structure, and contains a battery of six boilers. The boilers are each 18 feet in length, 6 feet in diameter, horizontal construction, and all told have a capacity of 800 horsepower.

A contract for thirty carloads of iron pipe has been awarded by the Cleveland Cliffs Iron company. The material is for use in the construction of the sewer system to be installed in the new town to be established by the company in the Swanzey district, Marquette range. Engineers are still at work at the townsite, engaged in laying out the streets, lots, etc. It is the intention of the officials to have the greater part of the sewer work finished before building the streets. All of the company's houses will be equipped with sewers, also with water and other conveniences. A visit to the site shows that a more desirable location could not have been selected, and it is expected the town will be one of the most attractive little cities in the Lake Superior region. The townsite is only half a mile from the Smith mine, a similar distance from the Austin and a mile and a half from the Princeton. All three mines are properties of the Cleveland Cliffs company.

A party of Negaunee (Marquette range) men have purchased the Holkinen farm in the Cascade district. The tract consists of 160 acres and is located within eighty acres of the Warner farm, owned by the Negaunee German Aid society and on which it is believed ore bodies will be developed. It is the intention of the new owners of the Holkinen farm to rent the property for farming purposes, but a few men will be put to work there shortly to explore the tract. Ore has been discovered at a number of points near the farm and the Negaunee men believe they stand an excellent chance of locating deposits of merchantable mineral. Indications of ore have been found in outcroppings on surface. Only a small part of the tract has yet been used for farming, but additional acres are to be put under cultivation this season.

from the ranges this season. This will compare with 3,642,000 tons last year, when there were twenty-two mines on the shipping list, fourteen of these in Michigan and eight in Wisconsin.

All told, the Gogebic has produced 50,500,000 tons of ore since its opening in 1884, its banner record being that achieved in 1905, when 3,705,000 tons were forwarded. The progress of the district has been steady, although in the panic year of 1893 the Gogebic was harder hit than any of the other ranges. The mines are now, as a rule, in strong hands, assuring steady employment in bad times as well as boom times and both the present and the future were never on so substantial a basis. It is unlikely that the heart-breaking days of the winter of 1893-94 will ever be repeated on the Gogebic, for the operators of its largest mines are among the greatest manufacturers of iron and steel in the world, and as iron and steel are necessaries, even in the worst of times, the mines will be run somehow, even in the remote possibility of panic periods, and the soup-house days will not return.

Just at present the most interesting exploration of the Gogebic is being conducted on the Wisconsin side of the Montreal, and more especially on the extreme western end. Oglebay, Norton & Co. are engaged in testing the old Hoppenyan lands, first explored a half century ago; the Ashland Iron & Mining company, operator of the Yale or West Colby, is exploring the Tyler's Forks field, and the Steel corporation is sinking a shaft at the Plumer location. Congressman Hayes, and his brother of California, who died some years ago, opened a big ore body at the Ashland mine, previously abandoned as worthless, and who afterward sold the property to the Cleveland Cliffs Iron company, are developing a deposit at the old Germania mine, now the Harmony, west of Hurley. The shaft is down 1,600 feet, and, because of the proximity of the river, the workings are unusually wet.

The Windsor, Cary, West Cary and Superior properties, in sections 26 and 27, 46-2, west of the Germania, and operated by Pickands, Mather & Co., produced more ore last season than any other Gogebic group in Wisconsin territory, sending out 217,000 tons, although the Montreal Mining company was a close second, with 200,000 tons. There are eight shafts in the Cary group, the deepest down to the sixteenth level, and it is the understanding that considerable new ore bodies have been located by diamond drills. Adjoining the Superior mine on the west is the Ottawa and two miles beyond the latter is the Montreal, between which and the Ottawa are the old Bourne, Jupiter and Moore, not now active. The deepest shaft at the Montreal is down to the nineteenth level, at a depth of 1,600 feet and there have been disclosed here the same diorite troughs of ores as have been found in the mines on the Michigan side, some miles distant. The Montreal has shipped 2,333,000 tons of ore during the years of its operation, and it still has in sight a production several times that tonnage. Eventually the present working shaft will give way to a steel-lined shaft of large capacity, three compartments in size and sunk in solid rock to a probable depth of 2,000 feet or more. The old Father Hennepin, the Pence mine and the Snyder exploration, in the same vicinity, are controlled by the Jones & Laughlin Steel company, which eventually will doubtless take much ore from a portion of the tracts.

The Father Hennepin, now idle, has produced only 250,000 tons, and the Pence but 40,000. Jones & Laughlin also hold the Jack Pot property, south adjoining the Yale, on the Michigan side of the Montreal river, but it affords little promise, considerable exploratory work, now suspended, having failed to show the deposits expected, the ore found at surface apparently pitching into the adjacent tract. West of the Snyder are the Daylight, Emma, Union and Caledonia tracts, and next to the west, in section 3, 45-2, the Steel corporations' Atlantic mine, with a total production of 1,290,000 tons, and much more than that yet to send to the surface. Adjoining on the southwest is the Iron Belt property of the Cleveland Cliffs Iron company, which last year sent out only one cargo of ore, but which has an aggregate production of 1,122,000 tons to its credit. The Iron Belt has an extensive acreage, and later on, when the ore is needed, it will be given more vigorous attention. In the territory out from Iron Belt, the Steel corporation, Oglebay, Norton & Co., and other concerns are busily engaged with exploratory work.

On the east bank of the Montreal, in Michigan, is the Cleveland Cliffs company's big Ashland mine, and east of that the Norrie group, and the Newport, Davis, Geneva, Royal, Puritan, Ironton, Jack Pot, Yale, Colby Tilden, Palms, Anvil, Eureka, Castile, Asteroids, Mikado, Chicago, Pike, Brotherton, Sunday Lake, Iron Chief, Joliet, Comet, Pittsburg, and others. A number of these properties are inactive. The Pike, acquired last fall, and the Brotherton and Sunday Lake, are controlled by Pickands, Mather & Co. They lie in close proximity to the body of water, whence the Sunday Lake takes its name, and consequently the workings are more than usually damp, with corresponding heavy pumping costs. However, the ore is of very good quality, materially better than the average, and there is little question that depth will reveal a continuation of the same fine deposits as now being mined. The Mikado, a neighboring mine, also is a Pickands-Mather possession, and it is an excellent property, with ore bodies assuring an extended and profitable term of life. There are two shafts down on an average depth of 800 feet. A number of houses at the Mikado will be removed this spring and transferred to more stable ground, their safety being endangered somewhat because of the work of the miners beneath the surface.

Adjoining the Mikado is the new Asteroids property of Oglebay, Norton & Co. This tract carries an extension of the Mikado ore bodies, and a fine steel shaft is sinking to develop the deposits. A second shaft is going down at the Castile, a new mine of Oglebay, Norton & Co., and at the Eureka, an adjacent property of the same concern, a steel shaft will supplement the present two-compartment incline shaft. The Eureka became a producer in 1890, and continued to send out ore in a moderate way until 1896, when all shipments ceased. It has been restored to the active list within the past two years, and is now being opened up and developed on systematic and practical lines for energetic operation. Some very good stopes of ore have been opened, and apparently the mine is assured of an extended lease of life. The Anvil, next to the Eureka on the west, is owned by Ferdinand Schleisinger of Milwaukee, as is the Palms, west adjoining the Anvil. The Palms is idle now, though it has produced 1,285,000 tons of ore in the past, and is not considered to be exhausted. The Anvil is down 1,200 feet, and has two shafts. Its product last year was 80,000 tons, and altogether it has produced 680,000 tons. New ore bodies are being actively sought.

The Tilden, adjoining the Palms on the west, is a Steel corporation property and formerly was part of the Colby, the pioneer mine of the range. The Tilden has made an aggregate output of upwards of 4,000,000 tons during its life of one and one-half decades, and it is well opened ahead and in good physical condition. Operations are conducted through three shafts. A million feet of timber, board measure, are consumed annually in mine work. The Tilden ore ranks with the best on the range, assaying 62 per cent in metallic iron and low in phosphorus. The Colby, west of the Tilden, is a Corrigan-McKinney property, as is the Ironton, adjoining the Colby on the west. The Colby is a remarkable mine with a fine record and produces high grade ores of both the Bessemer and non-Bessemer varieties. The mine is situated in section 16, 47-46, and comprises 160 acres. The property has been operated through one shaft, vertical and of three compartments, 5 by 14 feet inside of timbers and down 1,200 feet, but an excellent four-compartment, steel lined shaft has been sunk 800 feet east of the old one and will take care of most of the future production. Although first opened in 1886, subsequently which it was idle for a period of years, the Ironton is a comparatively young mine with a promising future. It comprises 160 acres, and is developed and operated through two active shafts. The workings are 1,000 feet deep. The ore produced is a high grade red hematite of both the Bessemer and non-Bessemer varieties.

The Puritan, 160 acres; Geneva, 160 acres, and the New Davis, 80 acres, all in town 47, range 46, southwest of Bessemer, are held under lease by the Steel corporation and are considered to contain important deposits at depth. At the new Davis, which lies next east to the Newport, there is being sunk one of the most substantial and deepest shafts on the range. The corporation also has the old Chicago mine and the Alpha property, in the Sunday Lake district, and it has done considerable exploratory work on the Section 12 tract and in the Marenisco field, near Ramsey. Southwest of the Geneva is Ferdinand Schlesinger's big Newport mine, which a few years ago it was feared was doomed to become a mere "soram." The veins quite regular at surface, considerable faulting was noted in the lower levels of the mine, and the task of keeping development work ahead of mining requirements became increasingly difficult. However, it was the theory that the rich deposits of the Norrie, to the west, would be found extending into the Newport, and the shafts were continued deeper. Subsequently valuable ore bodies were tapped in the lower reaches of the mine, and at the present time the Newport never looked better; it has become one of the very best mines on the range.

West of the Newport is the Steel corporation's Norrie group, which, if considered as one property, is the peer of any iron mine on the continent. Not including the Aurora mine, with which it connects, the Norrie group is opened and operated through eight shafts, the deepest of which is about 2,800 feet on the incline. The shafts are substantially constructed, and are capable of carting for an enormous output. The ore bodies are tremendously large. The reserves are extensive, and the mines are well opened ahead. It will take years, however, to exhaust the deposits already opened, and the lower stretches of ore still to be opened will, themselves, last for decades. In fact, the geological formation of the great properties of the Ironwood district, extending from the Ashland, on the Montreal river, to the Newport and beyond it, gives assurance of continued production and prosperity such as few mining camps have the happiness to possess. Whatever may happen in the future to some of the new flourishing iron mining towns of Michigan and Minnesota, Ironwood is secure for a generation or two to come.

The Norris shafts are generally sunk in the footwall side, and the ore bodies reached by a series of crosscuts. The shafts are connected at various levels, as are levels themselves, and the ventilation thus is excellent. Where posssible the tramming is done by electricity. Some 5,000,000 feet of timber are consumed annually in mining purposes at the Norrie, East Norrie and Pabst portions of the group, and at the Aurora, practically a member of the same family, 1,000,000 feet more are used. The Aurora, east adjoining the East Norrie, has two fine working shafts, and it also possesses the underlay of successive iron beds below the layers of diorite dikes.

Next to the Norrie is the Cleveland Cliffs company's great Ashland mine, the westernmost property of the Michigan portion of the range, being located on the hill rising on the eastern bank of the Montreal river. The geological formation of the Ashland is typical of the district. The property had for years been operated as a decedent mine, and in 1898, when it was abandoned to its fee owners, the Hayes brothers, it was considered a worked-out soram. Afterward diamond drill explorations showed the existence of enormous bodies of ore at considerable depth, extending under the entire tract of 110 acres from east to west, and the present company is considered to have drove an exceptional bargain when it purchased the Ashland, a few years ago, at a price popularly understood to be $4,000,000. It will take many years to exhaust the Ashland deposits.

Iron Mountain, Mich., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Baker property, which Corrigan, McKinney & Co., are opening in the Stambaugh valley, Western Menominee range, is developing into a fine mine. Ore was found some months ago, but it has been only recently that the future of the property has become assured. There is ore in sight in plenty now, and it is of considerable grade. The success of Corrigan, McKinney & Co. here but duplicates the good fortune of this concern in the Crystal Falls field, on the other side of the county, where a number of its properties subsequently made into good mines were taken over at a time when they were thoroughly discredited by other operators. Both the Steel corporation and the Cambria Steel company had tested the Baker tract, and each had pulled up stakes after a considerable expenditure in drill work. The property lay neglected for a time, and finally the Corrigan-McKinney people were induced to take it over. The result is substantial evidence that their proverbial good luck has not deserted them.

Operations have now been entirely suspended at the Steel corporation's Michigan mine, a property near Pickands, Mather & Co.'s old reliable Hemlock at Amasa, Menominee range. No mining work has been carried on here for many months, although the pumps were kept in commission. Now the pumps have been withdrawn and the workings will be permitted to fill with water. The property has produced no ore since 1905, with the exception of three or four carloads last season, and altogether it has sent out only 113,000 tons, the first of which went out in 1892. The fee of the property is owned by the Wilkinson estate of Marquette. The Mansfield mine of the Steel corporation, seven miles east of Crystal Falls, has resumed shipping after an idleness in this respect of some eighteen months. No ore was shipped last season, and in 1905 only 38,000 tons were forwarded. The first shipments were made in 1890, and all told the property has sent out upwards of 750,000 tons. The product is of very good grade. While the mine has not been operated with a full force, a large stockpile has accumulated. A steam shovel is now at work in this, and the ore thus loaded is being sent out along with the daily holst.

An odd state of affairs has been responsible for curtailing the output of Oglebay, Norton & Co.'s Bristol mine at Crystal Falls. The unseasonably cold weather is to blame. It has kept the frost in the upper levels, through which will, themselves, last for decades. In fact, the geological formation of the great properties of the Ironwood district, extending from the Ashland, on the Montreal river, to the Newport and beyond it, gives assurance of continued production and prosperity such as few mining camps have the happiness to possess. Whatever may happen in the future to some of the new flourishing iron mining towns of Michigan and Minnesota, Ironwood is secure for a generation or two to come.

are several sets of lessees operating on the same property, and all are shipping out some good ore. The Wild Horse mill is treating about fifty tons of ore a day, and it is giving values of from $8 to $12 in gold to the ton. This mill is giving as good returns as any in the camp.

A final dividend of $30,000, making a total of $1,010,000 an the full indebtedness of $840,000, will be paid this week to creditors of the defunct General Metals company of New York, who several years ago took over the Telluride Reduction company's plant in Colorado City from its New York builders. The debts of labor, liens and other preferred accounts were paid in full, leaving a balance of $10,000 out of $170,000 realized from the sale of the plant to the Golden Cycle Gold Mining company.

Referee in Bangruptcy G. M. Irwin has $2,000 to divide among creditors of the Economic Gold Extraction company, whose claims aggrate $250,000. A contest for this sum is being waged by a receiver and a trustee for creditors. The company's mill, which cost $500,000, recently burned without insurance. The Woods Investment company was in control.

Gold Quartz Hill, west of Cripple Creek, and hitherto considered outside the producing area, has a shaft fifty feet deep, which is in two veins of ore containing good gold values. A third vein five feet wide assays $60 per ton in gold, with some silver, while a fourth vein assays $40 per ton. It is two feet wide and contains wire gold. M. C. McClure and associates are owners.

Work on the Central tunnel, Idaro Springs district, Colo., has been resumed after six weeks interruption for necessary repairs. The heading is in 5,558 feet and is vertically beneath the Hudson claim of the Big Five company. On account of pitching the vein will not be reached for 900 feet. The Hudson is probably an extension of the Sun and Moon vein system.

In the Empire district, Colo., the Molly Brown has a crosscut in a crevice fourteen feet wide in which is a streak of copper pyrites carrying $120 gold in the center of a large body of mil grade ore. The apex of the Molly Brown was exposed by placer operations conducted by St. Louis parties.

Breckenridge, Colo., May 11.—As anticipated for some months past, gold-bearing ore has been exposed in the Ore mine. It is a carbonate body of good width, and besides the yellow metal contains a liberal make connection immediately with the Wellington tunnel, thus providing another outlet from the main workings of the Wellington. The present shipments from this mine amount to three carloads daily, but this output should be largely increased with the opening of the new outlet. The difference in elevation between the two mines is but 102 feet, but enormous ore bodies have already been demonstrated as intervening in this space.

Central City, Colo., May 11.—Lateral from the Newhouse tunnel are being driven and will be extended west to the Old Town mine and east through the Saratoga, Chase and Hampton. These laterals are expected to penetrate the longest, deepest and richest block of mineral ground ever opened up. The Old Town has the deepest working shaft in Gilpin county, and the recent strike of ore assaying $100 per ton is regarded as highly significant. It appears likely that for richness and extent of area developed the Newhouse tunnel will prove a vertiable pressure vault, as well as a marvelous and unparalled engineering feat.

J. L. Stauber, chief engineer of the Shattuck-Arizona Mining company, has been engaged with a force of helpers during the week surveying the contour of the ground and setting the stakes which marks the site of the Shattuck-Arizona smelter which is to be erected south of the Calumet & Arizona, just west of the Darling brick yard.

Supt. Houle, who will have charge of the erection of the smelter, stated that as soon as the survey of the ground was completed definite work could begin on the plans for the smelting plant. As soon as these plans are completed they will be forwarded to the company who will furnish the material for the steel buildings and this company will make the plans for the foundation and return them to Mr. Houle who can prepare all necessary foundations by the time the material for the buildings arrive.

WHATS WHAT IN THE SPORTING WORLD

By Naughton and Ye Sporting Scribe.

By deep delving in ancient sporting records, and with the aid of some Pinkerton detectives, "ye sporting scribe" has managed to unearth the full history of the members of the Duluth baseball team, and it is herewith given for the first time, to an eager public.

"Smiley" Smith.

He who is now known as "Smiley" Smith first saw the light of electricity in the beautiful little city of Atkinson, N. Y., in the year—the year doesn't matter anyway. Atkinson is famous for the great ball players it has sent out to cheer the hearts of the American people and of all those noted men, who have called shouts of joy from the bleachers through their ability to play the national game, "Smiley" Smith is the most famous for he has been chosen to lead the namesakes of the champions of the world, which is an honor to any ball player, unless he be a member of the champion Juneau team of the Arctic league.

"Smiley" Smith at early age, using a pillow for catching mitt.

On account of being so open in his expressions, the youngster was named Frank Harold, the latter name being later abbreviated to H. on account of its being thought unsuited for a real live ball player. But "Frank" didn't stick long, for it was too common around the school, which the youngster attended and the broad smile which always adorned his youthful countenance appeared so charming in the eyes of the little members of the fairer sex, that they named him "Smiley" and "Smiley" it has been to this day.

When a young man (he was only 6 years old, but he thought he was a man), he took the advice of Horace Greeley and came West, bringing his father and mother and the rest of the family with him. Always a studious youngster, the future leader of the White Sox directed their steps toward Madison, Wis., and there, in the shadow of the classic walls, from which have come some of the greatest football and baseball players in the country, young Smith grew to real manhood. Early in life, he learned to play ball by deftly catching and throwing pillows in early morning battles with his younger brother. Pillows felt so natural to his hands later in life that he took the largest glove in sight, when he began to play on his school nine and he has been using the pillow ever since, in both his sleeping and waking hours.

After earning a crown of glory by his control when throwing stones at students, he broke into fast company through the Three-I league and in his first session, he caught ninety-seven games, without once allowing more than four men to score on a passed ball. He succeeded in hitting the center field fence time after time, when nailing venturesome thieves, who would have carried away second base, and he was proclaimed a hero in every town of the league. Then he heard of the wonderful copper mines of Michigan and he journeyed to Houghton, famous for its gilded emporiums, where they hand out lemonade and seltzer to the students of the Michigan College of Mines. As Smith had played ball in Peoria, the shining light of the moon, which is strong in Houghton, didn't trouble him, and his smiling countenance brightened many a weary trip across the troubled waters of Portage lake.

Now, he has come to the real goal of his ambitions, for he is a real live manager of the White Sox—not the world's champions—but the White Sox just the same, and the fan who dares to raise a hammer, will be forced to drop it by the power of that wonderful smile.

Alvin Edward Cummings.

The name of Alvin Edward Cummings should bring a warm glow to the heart of every true citizen of the Zenith City of the Head of the Lakes. Alvin Edward, or Al Cummings, who allowed 27 hits and struck out one man.

Al, as the friends of his boyhood days were wont to call him, has made Duluth famous in every town from Moosemin, Manitoba, to Dollar Bay, Michigan, (wherever those places are.)

Alvin's first claim to glory in the eyes of Duluth citizens was established, when, as a member of the champion Duluth Heights 6-year-olds, he accomplished the feat of striking out one man and allowing twenty-seven hits in a game with the West Duluth Wonders. He has outgrown that feat now, however, and the best he can do is to strike out twenty-seven men and allow one hit. He is a willing worker, though, and Duluth fans would weep salty tears of anguish, should he depart for another clime.

But four short years, he remained away from Duluth, while he was a baseball player at the University of Wisconsin. There the practice he had on the Twelfth Avenue grounds stood him in good stead, for he ousted Slim Lewis and became the leading member of the student body of the Badgr State Institution of Athletics. Returning to his home, he was met by a band (of draymen and hack-drivers) and the cordial welcome he received so filled his heart with gratitude that he consented to go out and beat the other teams of the Grasshopper league, providing his expenses in the way of automobile keep, purchasing of diamonds and other incidentals were paid. He bids fair to be the idol of the Duluth fans just as long as he wins his game every time he goes into the box.

George William Krick.

George William Krick, whose dazzling facial expression almost outshines in its benignance that of his cheerful leader, hails from that land, the air of which exudes relief for incompatibility of temperament, South Dakota. Little George William first broke into the ranks of professional baseball in his home town, where he pitched for the Paper Collars in that memorable game against the Stump Jumpers. That game has gone down in history as the greatest ever played, for George William didn't give the stump jumpers a hit, didn't walk a man and struck out twenty-seven, but lost the game by a score of 57 to 0. It all happened because the other Paper Collars refused to go on the field, the Stump Jumpers insisting on playing on a field with at least five stumps on the line between the bases. With only stumps to support him, little G. W. pitched the game, and his wonderful record grew out of the fact that every ball hit by the Stump Jumpers struck a stump and the stump drew an error on the score book.

After burning up the Iowa and South Dakota league, so that it disappeared from the baseball map, he came to the Northern-Copper Country league, where his smiling countenance has brightened many a hard fought game. He has been practicing the smile all winter, so that now it has become so intense that G. W. draws six extra beans and two drops of molasses at every meal, to the intense envy of the other members of the squad.

Mister Treadway.

What would Ladies' day be without Mr. Treadway on the firing line? If the manager doesn't announce every Friday morning that the genial "Wilx" is to appear, hardly a lady puts in her appearance at the park.

When Wix began to pitch for Sioux City in the Iowa and South Dakota league, a venturesome sporting scribe on the Sioux City Thunder was driven out of town by a mob of feminine beauties, just because he said Wix was wild and should be put back with the bushers for seasoning. His prediction that Wix would one day become a great pitcher didn't appease the wrath of the ladies, although it proves that he was a wise boy. Wix is every inch a pitcher, besides being a drawing card on ladies' day.

William McCormack.

One day a farmer was working in his field near Pottsville, Iowa, when something came through the air as though shot from a cannon, hit him in the head and laid him low. He lay unconscious for three hours and then rose, wondering what had done the damage, only to find a baseball lying about twenty feet away. The next day the Pottsville Palladium conveyed the information that the Pottsville baseball team had been defeated the previous day by the Arcadia nine, and the feature of the game was a hit by one McCormack. The ball had gone over the fence and could not be found again. After studying for four hours, the man put two and two together to make six, and decided the ball that had hit him had some few minutes before hit the bat of one McCormack, despite the fact that Arcadia was fifteen miles away.

Thus Big McCormack became famous and he has remained famous to this day. As he steps to the plate, the fans loudly cry for a home run, and hundreds of dollars are bet every game that William will bring the bat in contact with the ball with such force that the ball will gain momentum sufficient to convey it through the atmosphere for a considerable distance, and deposit it on the outside of the enclosure. Not content with being a hitter, Bill pulls them down out of the skies, and he is the clear candy with the "bugs."

Harry Tracey.

Dixon, Illinois, has sent into the north for the admiration of baseball fans, that young giant of baseball ability, Harry Tracey. Burdened with a name, which brings to mind the desperate exploits of a notorious bandit, who broke loose in the Far West some years ago, Tracey is forced to explain to every new acquaintance that the only robbing he ever did was to rob a man of a hit; his stealing is limited to bases, the canvas variety of which can be bought for about 49 cents, and he has only been known to kill—the ball.

Astronomers declare that the star, under which Tracey was born, is magnetized and his steel blue eyes being attracted by it, he has risen to heights heretofore unknown by man. His first baseball experience was gained as a youth, when he used to play catch with the man in the moon, a comet being used instead of the regulation Spalding sphere. His playfellow was always so full of moonshine, however, that he couldn't catch and his errors were so numerous that Harry soon became disgusted and descended from his celestial heights to wear a pair of white stockings and reach around on the diamond for the wide ones thrown by the pygmies, who represent Duluth on the diamond.

James Leighty.

James Leighty was brought up in the land of colonels, blue grass, and liquid refreshments, which make one see blue snakes. Therefore, when he arrived in Leighty spent his boyhood days in Kentucky.

North Dakota to wear the brown uniform of Grand Forks, his heart sank within him. He didn't know that soda water was the standard beverage of North Dakota. Not that he wanted anything stronger. Goodness, no. But a crowd, which has been imbibing soda water for years cannot root like people, who have never known the taste of soda water and without good old Kentucky rooting to spur him on Leighty was lost on the ball field.

He found others on the team in the same predicament, so that Grand Forks was forced to drop out of the league. The management had lacked diplomacy in selecting its players from Paris, Ky., Milwaukee, Wis., and Peoria, Ill., and they haven't recovered from the experience yet. Knowing that Duluth fans can make noise enough to make him think of his own home crowd, Leighty expects to burn up the league this year and he has been capering around second base in great shape in his new-found joy.

James Fagin.

Descended from a line of ball players, beginning with Brian B'Rhu, James Fagin is a fit representative of that race, from which come such ball players as the Fagins, McGraws, Sullivans, O'Neills and other Frenchi, who have been cheered for years by American crowds. Little Jimmy learned "bawl" very early in life, and he learned to play "bawl" a little later, when he wished to appear in distress, to avoid going to school.

This consistent bawling turned his attention to the other kinds of ball, and constant heaving of bricks at the Germans next door had strengthened his arm so that he had no trouble making a place on the Young Hibernians, led by Little Paddy Casey. At first the ball was so much lighter than the bricks he had been accustomed chucking, that Jimmy brought down upon himself the maledictions of the first baseman, who objected to chasing the ball into the next county. Now Jimmy has outgrown his youthful folly and will this year proudly listen to the knocks from the third base bleachers.

SOX LOSE TO KELLEYS

Semi-Prof Won Exhibition Game From the Leaguers.

Wildness and Errors Gave Hardware Men the Victory.

Kelley Hardware, 3; Duluth White Sox, 2.

What a beautiful chance for the anvil chorus! The baseball team which is to represent Duluth in the Northern Copper Country league and is expected to make a run for the pennant this year, trimmed by a bunch of amateurs picked from our own little town! The Kelley boys turned the trick, or the White Sox turned it for them. Jimmy Fagin booted two in the fifth inning, Treadway walked one, and Tommy Robinson and his little club did the rest. They just handed the game to the stove shovers and said hardware dealers didn't have an inclination to hand enough in return to make up the difference, although in the eighth inning they did a little prescnting, just to make it interesting.

Inability to hit is the big weak point, if one may judge from their exhibition yesterday. Ernie Larson, a boy from West Duluth, who is something of a pitcher for a youngster, held the vaunted leaguers to two measly hits and the White Sox wouldn't have had a mark in the run column but for a period of wildness in the eighth, followed by an obliging bum chuck over the third baseman's head by one Sam Menelee, who was erstwhile a Maroon. Time after time, a little single would have done signal damage, but it wasn't forthcoming and if the Sox are to be up in the race this year, they must clout a few better than they hit the amateur yesterday.

Three pitchers worked for the Sox. Krick started the game and held the Kelleys well in hand for three innigs, when he gave way to Treadway. In the fourth Treadway retired them in one, two, three, but he started the fifth poorly by passing a man. Jimmy Fagin then did a little stunt of falling down twice in succession, letting one man score on his last error. The Kelleys got to Tread for two hits in succession then, and in the next inning, Old Jim Haney went to the slab. One little hit was the portion of the hardware men while the southpaw performed and they had but one chance for a score, which was spoiled by the power of Goldsmith's wing.

It was a good game at that. With the exception of Fagin's two slips, the Sox didn't make an error. Sam Menelee's wild heave did damage to the Kelley cause, but the other errors didn't get the Sox anything. Like the Sox, the Kelleys didn't shine at the bar, but Robinson's hit came just at the right time to make trouble.

The Kelleys started out by Schafer touching Krick for a bingle the first crack. He went to second, but expired there. In the third Krick passed two men in succession, but pulled himself out of the hole handily. Treadway appeared for the fourth and the first three men up went out. In the fifth he started by Walking McGraw. Salvoy fanned and Irwin hit at Fagin, who booted the sphere, McGraw going to third. Larson sent another to Fagin and Jimmy fell again, McGraw scoring. Schaefer went out to Tracey and Robinson was up with two on bases and two down. He caught one fairly, and it went into deep right, the two men scoring. Deetz repeated, but Menelee ended the misery by going out to Gildsmith. The Kelleys had their only chance to score again in the eighth. Robinson, the first man up, was hit by Haney and went to second on Deetz's sacrifice. He took third on Menelee's single. Olson hit a long fly to Goldsmith, who grabbed it off and made a beautiful peg to the plate, catching Robinson.

In the first, with two down, Goldsmith clouted it to the left field fence for two sacks, but didn't get any farther. In the fifth, Roy and Treadway got on base, but Leighty wasn't equal to the occasion. In the seventh, Olson and Fagin secured sacks through Larson's wildness, but Roy and Haney couldn't connect.

The Sox got off their fireworks in the eighth. Leighty walked to start the inning and moved up when Tracey's ribs connected with a pitched ball. Goldsmith hit to Larson, who failed to catch Leighty at third and everybody was safe. McCormack hit a long fly to Irwin, Leighty going in from third and the others racing ahead. Menelee took the throw and tried to head off Tracey at third, only to heave the ball to the fence, the big fellow scoring. Fagin and Summers, the next two men up, were easy outs. There was nothing doing in the ninth either way.

TOURNEYS ABANDONED.

Homewood Country Club Gives Up Important Events.

Chicago, May 11.—Coincidental with the destruction of the Homewood Country club by fire yesterday, it was announced last night by the directors of the organization that both the Western Amateur and Women's Western championships, scheduled to take place on that course has been abandoned and that the Western association and the Women's Western Golf association had been requested to give these tournaments to some other course. The Western amateur event was to have been held at Homewood, Aug 3 to 7, and the women's championship Aug. 26 to 30. Inability to rebuild the club house in time was given as the reason for abandoning the tournaments.

LEAGUE FOR SUNDAY SCHOOLS

Rev. Arthur H. Wurtele Puts Up Handsome Silver Trophy.

At a meeting called for Monday evening, at 8 o'clock, the Episcopal Sunday School Baseball league will be organized, with five teams, to play for a handsome silver trophy which has been offered by Rev. Arthur H. Wurtele of the Trinity pro-cathedral.

Mr. Wurtele has taken an active interest in the plan, and has been largely instrumental in forming the league. Two delegates have been invited to attend from each Episcopal Sunday school in the city, and all but Holy Apostles have accepted. The league, therefore, will include St. Luke's, St. John's, St. Paul's, Trinity and Park Point Mission.

A schedule will be drawn up, and the teams will play regular weekly or semi-weekly games during the summer.

SULLIVAN AND KELLY DRAW

The Well-Known Middleweights in Fast Bout at Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, May 11.—Jack (Twin) Sullivan of Boston and Hugh Kelly of Chicago fought twenty rounds to a draw, before the Pacific Athletic club, last night. The decision made was received by the crowd with entire satisfaction.

Neither man was very badly damaged. Kelly scored the only clean knock down of the fight in the fourth round. He sent Sullivan to the mat with a left to the point of the jaw. The latter recovered quickly, however, and finished the round without trouble. In the eighth round Kelly knocked Sullivan to his knees with a blow that landed below the belt. Referee Burns cautioned Kelly, warning him about the foul. The Boston fighter recovered almost on the instant and seemed uninjured.

The seventeenth was the best round of the fight. Kelly rushed throughout the entire three minutes, and both fought with vigor, the Chicago fighter having the advantage.

CULLED FROM THE SCORE BOOK.

Goldsmith looks good. He handled his three chances in fine style, and one of them was pretty hard. His first time up he met the ball squarely on the proboscis and he looks as though he might do it often during the season.

Clyde Ziegler certainly has some ball team in that outfit clad in Yale gray. They played better ball than a semi-professional team usually does and they played better ball than the White Sox yesterday. They fielded nicely and, though they didn't shine with the stick they showed a knowledge of the game, which promises to bring them out on the right side of the fence often this year.

Louey Roy, the substitute catcher, who caught seven innings, showed up well. He has a good wing and takes the ball well. He didn't do anything with the stick, but in that respect he was no weaker than several of the others.

Leighty played fast, clean ball. He took some hard ones at short and pegged them over in good style.

Tracey is all there around the first sack, as usual. In the fifth when things were going badly he picked off a hard one from Schaefer's bat.

Olson and Deetz pulled off a neat double play in the sixth inning. Larson had passed Tracey, and Goldsmith hit a hard one at Olson. He caught Tracey at second and Deetz pegged to first, heading off Goldsmith.

Cummings umpired a good game. He made a decision on third in the eight which the Kelley men questioned. It was a close one, but the runner looked to have the better of it, and in giving it to him, Cummings was within the rules.

Hit, hit, hit. That's what those white stockinged boys need. Smiley Smith should drill that into them day in and day out. Give them a bat and put a pitcher before them and keep them at it. Practice does the whole thing, and if they can't hit, the management will have to secure men who can. It 's hitting that wins games.

The two innings Treadway pitched yesterday were hits first for the year. He was a little wild, but the Kelley boys didn't do much with him, and in a few days he should be in good shape for the hard battles of the season.

Old Jim Haney is all to the merry. He has seen many a hard fought contest and knows baseball from the first page to the back cover. His old south wing is still good enough to smoke the ball over and he will make trouble for the league batters this year. Willie Krick is all there too, for he didn't give the semi-pros much of a look in during the three innings he performed.

The outfield of the Sox at present appears to be all right. McCormick has gone into left and he picks them off in good style, besides being just as handy as ever with the club. Goldsmith, judged on his performance of yesterday, should be able to get the money regularly and Olson, although he didn't do anything yesterday, has a good record.

The Sox play Lethbridge today and tomorrow. Jack Morrison has an aggregation of stars this year and if the Sox can trim them one game, the fans will partially forgive them for the way yesterday's game went.

Sam Menelee got one of the four hits secured by his team, but he shows lack of practice on the sack. Two of the errors made by the team might have been saved if he had been there on the low balls, and his wild throw did plenty damage.

BIG ORDER FOR NEW BOATS

The Boat Club Purchases Thirty New Pleasure Skiffs.

The largest order for pleasure boats ever given by the Duluth Boat club, was placed yesterday, when thirty new pleasure boats were ordered for immediate delivery.

The club has been compelled to add greatly to its equipment owing to the large number of new members taken in this year.

The crews are getting out regularly every evening, in spite of the cold weather, and the junior eight is beginning to show fairly good form.

PROHIBIT SPIT BALL

Fielder Jones Would Abolish the Saliva Moistened Sphere.

Says That It Lengthens Game and is Insanitary.

Although two "spit" ball pitchers helped him win the American league pennant, and one of the two was responsible for the White Sox winning the world's championship, last fall, Manager Fielder Jones of the champions, is in favor of doing away with the "spit" ball.

"I warned Comiskey against the evils of the 'spit' ball two years ago," said Jones to Harry P. Edwards, in an interview with the Cleveland Plaindealer's baseball man, last Friday night. "He laughed at me, and said baseball was more prosperous than ever. That may be true, but I would be willing to wager that the crowds would be even larger if it were not for 'spit' ball. Comiskey was on the rules committee when I begged him to have a rule inserted prohibiting a pitcher from moistening the ball, but he thought that my fears were groundless.

"In my opinion the 'spit' ball is doing a great injury to the game. In the first place, it is not natural. In the second place it is not cleanly. Lots of people do not like to go out to the park and watch a pitcher slobbering all over a ball. Thirdly, the use of the 'spit' ball lengthens the games, as pitchers who depend upon the 'spit' ball consume so much time applying the moisture. Friday's game between Walsh and Liebhardt, both using the 'spitter,' took two hours and a quarter, while the one Wednesday, with exactly the same score, 2 to 1, took an hour less, just because Joss and Altreck stuck to old methods.

"Another reason is that when a 'spit' ball pitcher has good control of this 'spitter,' the opposing team can consider itself lucky if it gets a hit. I do not care what some others may say, but a hit off a 'spit' ball is nothing but luck. Those two hits that Jiggs Donohue secured off Liebhardt, Saturday, the first one driving in a run, were lucky slabs. That's all. Larry's two hits in the same game were also lucky ones. Ordinarily his hits to left, or left center, yes, his three-bagger Friday finally rolled over the right foul line.

"The fans went crazy over Wednesday's game, in which every one hit the ball, and the fielders had a chance to make some fine stops and catches. That's baseball. The rooters like to see the ball hit hard, for then it is either a hit or a fine piece of fielding. But take Saturday's game. Outside of Birmingham's catch, what was there in the fielding that would cause the fans to applaud?

"Instead of the outfields having much to do, Wehlay, on our team, had two chances. Of the Clevelands, Birmingham had one and Hinchman another. The other three outfielders did not have a chance. No, the batteries were doing it all. Walsh struck out eight men and Liebhart seven. Each pitcher threw out five men at first. So the pitchers had a hand in retiring twenty-five of the fifty-four men put out. Five others were retired on popflies, while another would have gone out that way had it not been for Quillen's error.

"Then again with a 'spit' ball man in the box, the fielders behind him are more liable to make errors in consequence of the slippery condition of the ball. Furthermore, a fielder, with a non-spitter in the box, knows generally where to play for the batter. With a 'spit' ball pitcher at work, it is merely guesswork with him. A left hand hitter may hit to right and vice versa.

They said a year ago that the 'spit' ball pitcher would not have to be feared because they would be unable to control the ball. Such talk is ridiculous, for every good 'spit' ball pitcher has as good control as any of those who do not use the delivery in question. Take Saturday's games for an example. Walsh gave but one base on balls and did not hit a man or have a wild pitch. Liebhardt passed five, all left handed batters, but in his previous games he has had splendid control. Over at Detroit Howell and Willett gave five passes between them, yet both are 'spit' ball men. Brochett of New York handed out four. John Anderson getting three. Dygert, Connie Mack's 'spit' ball pitcher, held Boston to one hit and gave but one base on balls, while Pruitt, the vapor man who opposed him gave four passes and held the Athletics down to three hits.

"Two years ago when I made my first kick against the 'spit' ball, Shesbro and Howell were practically the only 'spit' ball pitchers. Now we have Berger and Rhodes, Philadelphia Dygert, New York Orth and Brockett, Boston Winter and Pruitt, Detroit Mullin and Willett, St. Louis Howell and Morgan. By another year there may be twice as many, and it would be no surprise to see all the pitchers within a few years using this delivery which injuries the game. Now is the time to act. Let the league pitcher instruct its umpires to call every ball pitched in which the pitcher uses the saliva a ball, and this delivery will be killed in short order. Then we will see the stop put to star pitchers being made of twirlers who have nothing but plenty of moisture with which to dampen the ball."

Quite a Change.

Nowadays, when Gans and Nelson are speculating on whether to soak up a $40,000 purse or wait until some energetic fight promoter offers a few thousand more, it is rather interesting to read accounts like this of the early days of the champs:

Almost all pugilists have had humble beginnings, but the career of Joe Gans, the lightweight champion, is unique. Gans began life as a cleaner of fish in a Baltimore market, and would never have been in the fighting business today but for an accident, says an exchange.

Several years ago a well-known sporting man went to Baltimore and induced Manager Kernan of Kernan's Manumental theater to run boxing shows in the Monumental amphitheater after the regular performance. In order to whet the appetite of the crowd for some of the preliminary star bouts, a battle royal between negroes was put on.

Although the sum offered was small, almost every negro with fistic ambitions in Baltimore entered, and at every show these battles royal made a big hit. One night Gans, who had just returned from work, made application to enter one of the contests. He was asked whether he had any experience, and he frankly admitted that he had not, but was willing to try.

"But you know what these battles royal are, don't you?" he was asked. "You've got to fight and mix it up all the time, and if you quit you don't get anything, see?" Since those days the dusky champion has found it quite profitable to quit on several occasions. But to go back to Gans' start. The negro saw and went on. He was very successful and created a good impression.

After that Gans entered the preliminary bouts, for which he received the munificent amount of $5, whether he won or lost. Gans had a peculiar style while even at that time he had a sleep-producing punch, which he delivered at random. His best blow then was a wicked drive for the stomach, and when it landed it was usually necessary for the referee to count ten on the negro's opponent.

Al Herford at that time was interested in a restaurant on Canton avenue, near Broadway, and a great boxing enthusiast. He took a fancy to Gans and offered to back him whenever he fought.

"But I don't know enough as yet," said Gans, "and you might lose your money."

"I'm satisfied to take the chance," was Herford's reply, and from that time until recently Herford was Gans' backer and manager.

No other pugilist in the ring has fought so many really hard battles as Gans. He is without doubt the cleverest man in the ring today, bar none, in any class. He has the peculiar faculty of being able to pick out the vulnerable point of an opponent and goes at it as unhesitatingly as a surgeon with a knife. Withal he is most merciful, and even with his great cleverness he takes no pleasure in cutting his adversary to ribbons.

DULUTH WHITE SOX ARE READY TO BEGIN RACE FOR 1907 PENNANT OF NORTHERN AND COPPER COUNTRY LEAGUE

Season Will Open on Thursday With Usual Ceremonies.

Mayor Cullum Will Throw the First Ball Over Plate.

Duluth and Houghton Teams Will Meet in First Game.

Next Thursday the season of the Northern Copper Country league will open, with Houghton playing here and Calumet at Winnipeg. Though composed of only four teams and those scattered through two states and a province of Canada, the officers of the league see only prosperity ahead, for in every town in the league, professional baseball has always been a paying proposition, and it is believed that the four teams will make a greater success of the season, than would a larger league, with towns which would turn out unprofitable crowds.

In Duluth, the season will open with the usual ceremonies attendant on such occasions. There will be a parade of the two teams and the mayor and city officials before the game and at the ball park, Mayor Cullom will pitch the first ball over the plate. At the opening of the season Duluth is home for a long series, Calumet and Winnipeg following Houghton.

Frank H. "Smiley" Smith makes his bow this year as a manager in Duluth and he is making every effort to give Duluth a good ball team. Smith is one of the best catchers who performed in this league last year. He is heady and the management has faith in his executive ability. The team itself has not made a good record on the training trip. But the efforts to get in shape have not been wholly successful, on account of the cold weather and the postponement of numerous practice games. Now the players are at home and they hope to live down the record of the exhibition games in the regular series.

Though Unfortunate in Exhibitions, Good Showing is Expected.

YACHT CLUB HOLDS SMOKER

Enjoyable Affair Given at Steinway Hall Last Night.

As a preliminary to the opening of the season and to give the new members an opportunity to meet the other members, the Duluth Yacht club held a smoker at Steinway hall last night, which was an enjoyable affair in every way. The committee in charge of the program had prepared an especially entertaining one and from 8:30 util almost midnight, the asembled club members were entertained by speeches and vocal and instrumental selections.

Commodore Johnson, in a speech to the club members, announced that club members, announced that preparations are being made for the regular opening of the season on May 29. The date on which the improvements to the club will be completed is still in doubt, but the members will certainly have use of the additions before the summer is over.

"The IVking," a chorus by mixed voices, opened the program. A duet by Miss Edith Miller and Leon Cooley followed and a chorus with violin obligato was then rendered. Leon Cooley sang "Starlight" and Charles Applehagen, "The Catastrophe," and both were thoroughly enjoyed. Dr. D. H. Day entertained with a number of humorous stories and J. H. Jamar closed the program with a solo.

IRISH HOPEFULNESS.

The Irishman sees everything through rose colored glasses, says a writer in the Guidon. He is supported, too by a simple, sturdy faith, a spirit of resignation and unworldliness worthy of the saints of old.

The dread blight had fallen on the fields in most of the districts where we were visiting in Ireland, and the potato vines hung limp and brown. No word of complaint was spoken, and when the likelihood of famine was mentioned, the answere came:

"Danger, ma'am. Yes, there is, indeed, but God is good. He'll find a way."

So, too, about the hay. The summer had been terribly wet, and for days the new mown hay had lain on the ground. It was an anxious time.

"What will you do," I said to Mike, "if this weather keeps up? Your hay will surely be ruined."

"Oh, please God, it won't keep up," he answered. "He'll send us a bright day soon, just to see how well we'll use it."

"What a glorious night, Mickey!" I said to the boy, as he and I and the donkey drove home under the August moon.

"A fine night, indeed, ma'am. Thanks be to God for giving it to us!"

They showed us, on the road to town, a gentleman's place where, in a stretch of what not long since had evidently been thickly wooded land, stood stump after stump of giant trees. Four or five years ago, when the winter was exceptionally long and cold the peasants suffered from scarcity of peat. They begged this landed proprietor to sell them wood, offering not only to pay the price but to fell the trees and carry them off. He refused.

Again and again they begged, for the suffering grew intense, but he would not let this land be marred. One night there came a wind so frightful that it seemed for a time as if the "big wind" were blowing again. In the morning the highway along this proprietor's domain was impassable. Huge trees, blown to the ground, lay across the road, a distance of two miles, and the forest beauty was a thing of the past. The town authorities ordered the obstruction cleared away and the peasant got for nothing more than they had been refused for pay.

"'Twas the hand of God was in that, ma'am," I was told, "for, with all the wind not a poor man's cot was harmed, nor another tree on the countryside, only those. God always looks after His poor."

WHERE WOMEN LIKE TO SMOKE.

Chicago Journal: Most American women who reside for any length of time in Europe become habitual smokers, simply because they find it impossible to abstain from a custom which is universal among women of the Old World.

There are very many American homes in Paris and Berlin and other European cities where American wives and daughters pass around cigarettes to the female guests and indulge in them in person with all the grace and nonchalance of a practiced smoker.

Many American women in Europe do not hesitate to smoke in public restaurants and cafes, just because it is the custom among their European cousins.

Moreover, they now acknowledge that they delight in the weed and would suffer a deprivation if compelled to do without it. American women in Europe assert that the habitual use of tobacco is in no way or degree demoralizing the sect.

Women may be seen smoking freely in the public restaurants of London, Paris, Berlin and other Euorpean cities. Ladies who do not carry about with them a dainty little cigarette case of gold or silver stocked with cigarettes o fthec holcest aroma are no longer in the forefront of fashion.

Russian, Roumanian, Polish and Spanish women are more addicted to the smoking habit than those of other countries. In Russia and Roumania and also in Hungary women also smoke cigars.

Some of the ladies of the exclusive Hungarian aristocracy delight in smoking pipes charged with tobacco of a peculiarly light and agreable flavor.

European women claim that the habitual use of tobacco soothes their nerves and promotes good fellowship among the sexes. Many a young man in Europe has gained the necessary courage to make a proposal of marriage while smoking in company with the lady of his heart. Husbands and wives declare that the common use of the weed promotes companionship and soothes over differences of opinion.

BUTTE MOB IS MISLED

One Officer Kills Fugitive and Lynchers Seek for Another.

Brothers of Dead Man Incite Crowd to Desperate Work.

Butte, Mont., May 11.—Patrol Driver Charles Jackson shot and killed Harry Cole, brother of Train-robber George Cole, while he was attempting to escape, and a mob of 5,000 led by brothers of Cole, made an ineffectual attempt to lynch Detective Charles McGarvey, under the impression that the officer had done the shooting.

Cole had been arrested by McGarvey on a forgery charge and was suspected of being one of the two bandits who several days ago held up the North Coast Limited on the Northern Pacific at Welch's Spur, murdering Engineer Frank Clow, and wounding Fireman Thomas Sullivan. While he was being "sweated" in the office of the police, he, it is stated, said that he knew all about the hold-up and then made a dash from the room down an alley. An officer started for Cole, but tripped over the threshhold of the door and fell. McGarvey followed and fell over the other policeman. Then Jackson, seeing that Cole was about to escape, fired and hit the fleeing man in the back, killing him almost instantly.

A mob gathered and the impression gaining ground that McGarvey had killed an innocent drunken man, the cry went up, "hang McGarvey." Timothy Cole and another brother and a cousin of the dead man took the leadership of the mob and, with more than 2,000 men, hastened to the county jail, where they thought McGarvey was hiding, and attempted to force their way through the line of armed officers. At this point, Deputy Sheriff Jack Wyman stopped the leaders of the mob and told them that McGarvey had left the jail, and that they were welcome to search the building. This was done, no trace of the detective being found.

Mounting the steps in front of the courthouse, Timothy Cole made an impassioned exhortation to the crowd to avenge the death of his brother, who, he declared, had ben shot down by McGarvey in cold blood. As the dead man had worked in the mines, and many of the miners knew him personally, there were loud cries of approval, with shouts of "hang him to a pole" and "shoot him." Cole addressed the crowd until he became so hoarse he could talk hardly above a whisper and telling the mob to follow, he made his way to the police station with the rapidly augmenting crowd following.

With revolvers drawn the officers prevented the mob from searching the police station, and the crowd then made its way to the gun store of Carl Engle, and despite the attempt of the police to guard the store, forced their way into that place and secured a number of shotguns, but for some reason were unable to locate the ammunition stores. The mob leaders declared, however, they would have the life of the slayer of Cole, but the authorities are determined.

SOCIAL HONORS TO NOTABLES

President Gives Reception and Taft Entertains Kuroki.

Washington, May 11.—Seven nations, through high officers of the army and navy, were represented at a reception given by President and Mrs. Roosevelt at the White House yesterday. These were Italy, Japan, China, the Argentine republic, Chile and Belgium and the United States. All the foreign nations were represented by their delegations to the Jamestown exposition.

Among those conspicuous were the duke of the Abruzzi, commander of the Italian squadron at Hampton Roads; Gen. Kuroki of Japan, Vice Admiral Sir Gero Ijuin, commander of the Japanese squadron; Admiral George Dewey of the American navy and Gen. J. Franklin Bell, chief of staff of the American army.

President Roosevelt met his guests in the large parlor where formal introductions were made by Col. Bromwell and Capt. Key, the president's aides. Then the visitors passed on into the green parlor where they were given a cordial greeting by Mrs. Roosevelt and members of the cabinet and their wives.

The stars and stripes and the emblem of the rising sun floated last week over the New Willard hotel where Secretary and Mrs. Taft gave an informal dinner in honor of Gen. Kuroki and the Japanese military and naval officers, who, with Gen. Kuroki, are the guests of the nation. Gen. Kuroki, addressing Secretary Taft, expressed the hope that the present cordial relations between the two countries would alway exist. Following the dinner the visitors were given a reception attended by several hundred invited guests, representing Washington's official, diplomatic and social life. Through an interpreter, Gen. Kuroki thanked the guests for their kind words of greeting.

ANGLES AND THE LADDER.

Harper's Weekly: A young lady who taught a Sunday school class of young boys was often non-plussed by the ingenious questions sometimes propounded by her young hopefus.

One Sunday the lesson touched on the story of Jacob's dream in which he had a vision of angels descending and ascending a ladder extending from heaven to earth. One inquiring youngster wanted to know why the angels used a ladder since they all had wings. At a loss for a reply, the teacher sought to escape the difficulty by leaving the question to the class.

"Can any of you tell us why the angels used a ladder?" she asked.

One little fellow raised his hand.

"Please, ma'am," he said, "p'raps they was moulting!"

FAST TRAINS THAT SERVE DULUTH AND THE MEN WHO OPERATE THEM

THE "OMAHA" WAITING TO PULL OUT.

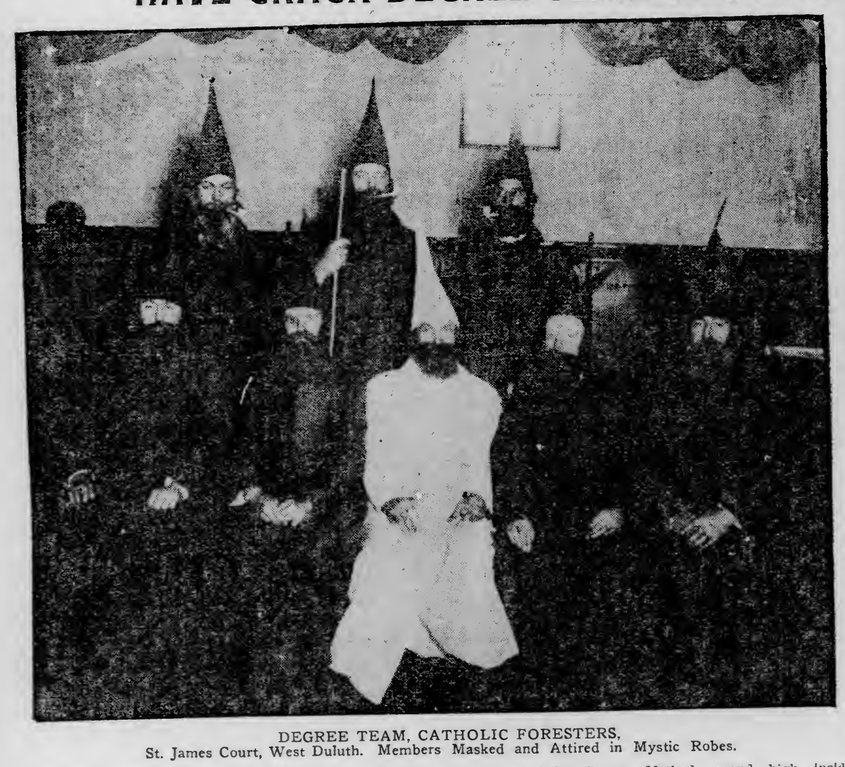
Everything but money comes so easily to the American people nowadays that very few of them appreciate the many advantages of modern civilization. The railroads and the trains that run over them, and the men that run the trains, easily come within the class of the unappreciated. They have grown to be such common sights that the public doesn't realize all that the shining steel rails, and what goes with them, means.

Herewith is produced a photograph of the Omaha's fast Chicago train, which is in a class at the top of the heap. The size of the engine, seeming to tower almost as high as the depot itself, first attracts the eye, and in the general survey of the picture one is apt to overlook entirely the men standing beside the monster thing of steel, and yet they are as important to the railroad company and the traveling public, as the locomotive itself; for without tehir respective services as engineer and firemen, the train would be useful only as an ornament.

A good deal depends on the men in the cab. Upon the clearness of their eyes and the coolness of their judgment rests the safety of the passengers. The people in the coaches scarcely ever give a thought to these men up ahead, the engineer with his hand on the lever, his eyes glued to the rails ahead, and the firemen bending to his task of keeping the proper amount of steam for sending the engine on its snorting way.

Despite the heavy responsibility resting on these men in the cab up ahead, and the fact that there is the ever-present chance of their being smashed to a pulp without a moment's warning, they are generally a cheerful, happy-appearing set, generally in a good humor and ready for the pleasures that come from friendly association and intercourse with mankind. If there is anyone killed in a wreck, the names of the firemen and engineer are generally to be found in the list. If only one or two are killed, it usually is safe to assume that the unfortunate victims were occupants of the cab. They occupy the most dangerous position in the train, but never appear to realize that it is dangerous. They seem to look at life from the gamblers' viewpoint, always believing that they will be lucky, and that if there are to be any disasters they will occur to some other train than theirs.

WEST DULUTH CATHOLIC FORESTERS HAVE CRACK DEGREE TEAM OF STATE



DEGREE TEAM, CATHOLIC FORESTERS,
St. James Court, West Duluth. Members Masked and Attired in Mystic Robes.

Although there are four or five courts of Catholic Foresters in this city, only one of them has a regularly organized degree team, and that is the West Duluth court, known as St. James court, No. 614, C. O. F. This degree team is not only the first one to be organized in Duluth, but is one of a very few in the state of Minnesota.

The degree team of the Catholic Foresters is an independent organization from the court itself, although the members of the degree team must first be members of a court of Catholic Foresters. The degree team is a sort of a side rank, and is sometimes called a second degree in forestry. It has its own independent set of officers, and is governed separately from the court.

The degree team of St. James' court was organized about four months ago after a thorough canvas had been made of the members. It consists of eight members of the court, who have taken up the degree work in an enthusiastic manner, and have become proficient in the initiatory art. Regular practise drills are held and the team is now becoming well trained.

The members of the team and their officers are as follows: Joseph Bellmeur, grand high ruler; Chris Tracy, grand vice high ruler; Daniel Bellmeur, grand past high ruler; Christ Hugh, grand high prophet; August Schulte, grand high treasurer; John Cashia, grand high secretary; Edward Madden, grand high guide; George Method, grand high inside sentinel.

The picture above shows the men attired in their mysterious robes, and in disguise, and few of them could be recognized by even their closest friends. Their robes and the disguise all symbolize a part of the work which they do in introducing new candidates to the secrets and mysteries of the order. These members of the degree team hold regular meetings outside those of the St. James' court.

Another degree team has been organized for several years at Minneapolis, and there is also one at St. Cloud, but the St. James team is the only one in this section of the state and, therefore, the members have already taken several trips outside the city up on the range to do initiatory work.

THE WORLD'S TELEPHONES

Five-Sevenths of the Entire Number Are in America ---English Speaking People Do Nearly All the Telephoning.

New York, May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Of every seven telephones in use in the world, five are in the United States of America. The exact number of instruments into which people talk that their words may be sent flashing over the wires is unknown, but a careful estimate made by a telephone expert shows the number to be 7,398,000. Of these 7,000,000 telephones, 5,068,000 are in the United States. Putting it still another way, this country has 68.5 per cent of all the telephones in existence. Most of the other telephones are in Europe, which has about 2,000,000; there are 130,000 in Canada, 200,000 in the rest of the world.

The telephone was invented by an American citizen of Scotch descent, and English speaking people have since done nearly all the telephoning. The people of the United States, Great Britain and Canada are today using about 5,700,000 telephones out of the total of 7,398,000. That leaves about 1,700,000 for the dwellers in other parts of the world, and of this number about one half are used by the Germans and Scandinavians, kindred races to the Anglo-Saxons, and by the English speaking peoples of the outlying possessions of the British empire.

Thus, it appears that France, Spain, Italy, Russia, Austria, Hungary and various other European states, the whole of Asia, with its teeming millions, the great continent of South America, the island kingdom of the enterprising Japanese, and other portions of the earth's crust where people manage to live more or less happily, are getting along with less than 1,000,000 telephones, or about a quarter of the number that are included in the Bell system in this country.

Figures about the world's telephone equipment tell some other interesting things. Patriotic Americans may be pardoned if they let the eagle scream. Europe with a population of about 425,000,000 has only about 40 per cent of the number of telephones in use in the United States, with a population of about 85,000,000. There is a telephone in the United States to every twenty people. The next best showing is made by Sweden, with a telephone to every forty-three persons. By way of contrast, there are 1,965 people in Servia to every telephone. An American city, Los Angeles, has more telephones in proportion to population than any city in the world. It has one telephone to every four of its inhabitants. The best Europuean showing is made by Stockholm, with a telephone to every six people.

Of the 5,000,000 telephones in the United States, 3,000,000 are included in the Bell system. The number of Bell telephones is known. The number of independent telephones is estimated, because the independent companis throughout the country have no system of making exact reports. In certain of the larger states, however, figures giving the number of independent telephones are obtainable and these figures show that the independent companies in these states are growing at a rate not quite equal to that of the Bell system. Taking as a starting point the census figures for the year 1902, when Uncle Sam counted the telephones, this rate of growth would indicate that there are today in the United States about 2,000,000 independent telephones, which, added to the 3,000,000 in the Bell system, would make the total of 5,000,000 for the whole country.

With 5,000,000 telephones in use, the American people spend considerable time in talking over the wire. It amounts to about 750 centuries a year, figuring it out in this way. There are 17,000,000 telephone communications over the lines of the Bell system every day. The independent lines are probably used to the same relative extent, or about 10,000,000 times a day, making a total of 27,000,000 conversations a day, or nearly 10,000,000,000 conversations a year. To be on the safe side let us say that the conversations average only two minutes each. That makes nearly 20,000,000,000 minutes a year. But it takes two persons to carry on a conversation, so we multiply by two and find that Americans spend nearly 40,000,000,000 minutes at the telephone every year. Reducing the minutes to years, we have about 75,000 or 750 centuries.

So, if one person undertook to make 10,000,000,000 telephone calls, allowing two minutes to each, he would have to give about 37,500 years to the task. If he was today making the last of these calls it would mean that he began the job long before the dawn of recorded history. He would have been calling central for about 25,000 years before the Egyptians began to build the pyramids. He would have been a contemporary of the cave dwellers and have discussed by telephone the affairs of the stone age and the age of bronze. In fact, he would be a much more remarkable individual than the Wandering Jew. The man at the telephone would have been many times as old as Methuselah before the Wandering Jew began to wander.

It is universally admitted that the telephone is the greatest time saver of the twentieth century. If America spends 750 centuries a year at the telephone and thus saves time, how much time do they save? That is a question which even the statisticans can't answer.

LINCOLN, THE MAN OF PEACE

By GEN. HORACE PORTER.

GEN. HORACE PORTER.

Abraham Lincoln was of humble birth; he early had to struggle with the trials of misfortune and to learn the first lessons of life in the severe school of adversity. He came from that class which he always alluded to as the plain people. He always possessed their confidence, he never lost his hold on their affections. He believed that the government was made for the people and not the people for the government, and that true Republicanism was like a torch—the more it is shaken in the hands of the people the brighter it burns.

If at the height of his power any one had sneered at him on account of his humble origin, he might well have replied, like the marshal of France, who was raised from the ranks to a dukedom, when he told the haughty nobles of Vienna, who boasted of their long lines of descent and refused to associate with him: "I am an ancestor; you are only descendants."

Abraham Lincoln possessed in a remarkable degree that most uncommon of all virtues, common sense. With him there was no practising the arts of the demagogue, no posing for effect, no attitudinizing in public, no mawkish sentimentality. There was none of that puppyism so often bred by power. There was none of that dogmatism that Dr. Johnson said was only puppyism grown to maturity.

While his mind was one great storehouse of facts and useful information, he laid no claim to any knowledge he did not possess. He believed with Addison that pedantry in learning is like hypocrisy in religion, a form of knowledge without the power of it.

While he was singularly adroit and patient in smoothing down the ruffled feathers of friends who did not understand him, or even of political opponents, he wasted no time upon the absolute recalcitrants. He never attempted to massage the back of a political porcupine. And, as he once said himself, he always found it was a losing game to try to shovel fleas across a barnyard.

There are two names of presidents that will always be inseparably associated in our minds—Washington and Lincoln. But, from the manner in which modern historians magnify trivial acts, you would suppose one had spent his entire life in cutting down trees and the other in splitting them up into rails. There was one marked difference between them—Washington could not tell a story; Lincoln always could.

But he told them not for the anecdote, but to clinch a fact, to point a moral.

Ah, it was that humor of his that was his safety-valve. It lightened his mind and relieved it for the time from the great responsibilities that were weighing upon him. He could cut the sting from the keenest criticism with his wit; he could gild disappointment with a joke. He knew better than most men that in speech wit is to eloquence what in music melody is in harmony.

But his mind was not always attuned to mirth; its chords were too often set to strains of sadness. There was the slaughter in the field, the depletion of the treasury, complications which arose. All these were so appalling that sometimes even the great soul of Lincoln seemed ready to melt. But just when the gloom was blackest he never, never took counsel of his fears. He always had the courage of his convictions. He never had occasion to look to the past with regret, nor to the future with apprehension. He had that sublime faith which is content to leave the efforts to man; the results to God.

For ages after the battle of Thermoplae every Greek school child was taught to recite each day the names of the 300 heroes who fell in the defense of that pass. It would be a crowning act of patriotism if every American school child could be taught each day to contemplate the exalted character and utter the inspiring name of Abraham Lincoln.

Singular man! No one can pluck a single laurel from his brow, no one can lessen the measure of his fame. Marvelous man! In the annals of all history we fail to find another whose life had been so peaceful, whose nature so gentle, and yet who was called upon to marshal the hosts of an aroused people and for four long years to conduct a bloody, relentless, fratricidal war.

In the annals of history we fail to find another whose education was that of the cabinet, not the camp, and yet who died a more heroic death.

It has seldom fallen to the lot of man to strike the shackles from the limbs of bondmen and liberate a race. It has seldom fallen to the lot of man to die the death of an honored martyr, with his robes of office still about him, his heart at peace with his fellowmen, his soul at peace with his God, at the moment of the restoration of his country to peace within her borders, to peace with all the world.

A celebrated sculptor in the fourteenth century in Florence was commanded to make a colossal statue, which was to surmount a historic cathedral. When it was placed at the base of the cathedral, the ropes arranged for hoisting it, and it was there unveiled, the crowd jeered and hooted and criticised unmercifully the sculptor. It was all out of proportion; it was a failure, and, as the statue moved up in the air the crowd ceased to jeer, and finally, when it was placed upon the pinnacle at the proper focal distance, as intended by the great sculptor, who created it, the sneers turned to plaudits and the people then saw it in all the beauty of its true proportions.

And so Abraham Lincoln has so far receded from use in history that he is now in the proper focal distance. We can now measure all his great qualities as they appear in their true beauty and symmetry.

Iam glad of the work of the Lincoln Farm association. It is well that his birthplace should be redeemed from individual ownership. It should be made the repository of all the interesting relics connected with him. It ought to be the seat of a national museum and a national park.

He is gone from us now, crowned with the sublimity of martyrdom. We have bidden a last farewell to him who was the gentlest of all spirits, noblest of all hearts, liberator of a race, savior of a republic, martyr, whose sepulchre is human hearts.

IS C. H. MOYER AN EX-CONVICT?

Grave Charges Made Against Miners' Federation President.

Chicago, May 11.—The Journal printed yesterday a long story in which it is alleged that Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, now in prison at Boise, Idaho, for complicity in the Steunenberg murder, served as convict in the penitentiary at Joliet in this state in 1886 and 1887. The date of his discharge is said to have been Jan. 4, 1887.

According to the Journal, Moyer was sentenced from Cook county on Feb. 4, 1886, to serve one year for burglary. The official record of the Joliet prison in the case, is said to be as follows:

"Name—Charles H. Moyer, No. 7465; sentenced from Cook county, Feb. 4, 1886; aged 20 years; term one year for burglary; height 5 feet 8 inches; weight, 156 pounds; complexion, medium dark; color of eyes, hazel; color of hair, dark brown; occupation, farm hand from Iowa; discharged, Jan. 4, 1887."

The records of the Chicago police department show the following entries under the date Dec. 14, 1885, the name of the prisoner being given C. S. Moyer in each instance: C. S. Moyer, alias Fred Baker, burglary; complainant Ingor Larson, 721 West Lake street; John Keating, burglary, the same complainant; C. S. Moyer, alias Fred Baker, burglary of Swen T. Johnson, 55 Northwestern avenue; C. S. Moyer, alias Fred Baker, robbery of W. S. Newell, 45 Warren avenue; C. S. Moyer, alias Fred Baker, robbery of C. E. Murphy, 1538 Michigan avenue; C. S. Moyer, alias Fred Baker, attempted robbery of Jacob Emans, 20 Walnut street; C. S. Moyer, alias Fred Baker, carrying concealed weapons.

Denver, May 11.—The story that Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, served a term in the Joliet penitentiary for burglary, is discredited at the federation headquarters in this city. C. E. Mahoney, vice president and acting president, said he had no record of Moyer's entire career, but was positive that the man who served a term in the Joliet penitentiary was not the miners' president.

Boise, Idaho, May 11.—Charles H. Moyer when asked as to the Chicago Journal story, said he was working in the Black Hills country of South Dakota at the time which is given as between Feb. 4, 1886 and Jan. 4, 1887. He states that it would be easy to verify this by the records of the Castle Creek Gold Mining company at Rockford, S. D., where he says he was working at the time. Moyer also said that the postmaster at Rockford will be able to testify as to his receiving mail at the time.

Relief from Rheumatic Pains.

"I suffered with rheumatism for over two years," says Mr. Rolland Curry, a patrolman, of Key West, Fla. "Sometimes it settled in my knees and lamed me so I could hardly walk, at other times it would be in my feet and hands so I was incapacitated for duty. One night when I was in severe pain, and lame from it, my wife went to the drug store here and came back with a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. I was rubbed with it and found the pain had nearly gone during the night. I kept on using it for a little more than two weeks and found that it drove the rheumatism away. I have not had any trouble from that disease for over three months." For sale by all druggists.

NEWS OF THE WEEK AT THE CENTRAL HIGH SCHOOL

Athletic Association Working to Revive Interest In Sports.

Girls' Basketball Teams Will Carry Out Their Schedule.

A meeting of the Athletic association was held Thursday, chiefly for the purpose of stirring up more interest in baseball and track athletics. The president announced that the association is already $7.50 to the bad and that this is the time of year when money is the most needed. The track team has purchased a discus, and a hammer and will have to pay for the use of the field, while the baseball team has been to considerable expense in buying bats, and balls and other paraphernalia. In addition to this their cartare must be paid to the games and this all costs money.

It was therefore decided to appoint a committee to go around to the various rooms and to secure a guaranty fund as it is thought that the boys of the school will be glad to help the association through.

The track meet between the classes of the school will be held next Saturday and the meet between Duluth and Superior will come off a week later, on May 25, Prof. Phillips, who is acting in the capacity of faculty manager, asked the captains of the teams to hand in the names of the candidates to him in order that he may get some idea of the number who are to outed. He said that he had previously thought that the best plan would be to allow the winners in the inter class meet to enter the contest with Blaine, but that this may not be possible because several of the men have flunked in their studies recently and this will bar them from the interscholiastic meet. Mr. Phillips said that more men will have to get out for practice if the school is going to defeat Blaine and that there is no use having the meet unless more interest in shown.

President McDevitt gave the baseball candidates a roasting for their lack of interest and their refusal to get out for practice, saying that the small interest that is taken by the men is a disgrace to the athletic spirit of the school. He remarked that the men were all willing to play when the time for the game comes but that they object to doing a little preliminary work.

Public Speaking Club.

The members of the public speaking club held a meeting last Monday for the purpose of making arrangements for a spread to be given in the near future, and a committee of three was appointed to take the matter in hand and make inquiries as to the cost of such an affair.

Last year a banquet was given by the society and it proved to be a great success and attracted several new members to the club. It was announced at the beginning of this year that a dinner would be given, and those who are at the head of the club are going to make every effort to see that this promise is carried out. The members have worked hard and have accomplished a great deal along debating lines and they would like to close the season with some sort of a celebration.

Owing to the fact that there is no money in the treasury, it will be necessary for every one to pay his own expenses, but these would not be large.

The committee will look the matter up and make the preliminary preparations for the event and a definite decision will be made at the next meeting.

This is called for next Monday, when several important matters will come up. Some of the members of the club have suggested that a pin should be secured, and samples will be shown at the meeting. Nothing elaborate or expensive is desired, but simply something that may be worn as a sign of membership.

It is not likely that any more debates wil be held this term, as the students are all busy studying during the last few weeks.

Girls Play Basketball.

The girls of the school have at last succeeded in awaking basket ball from the sound sleep into which it had fallen, and announce that the series of games which they started out to play will be finished.

For several weeks there have been no games, owing principally to the fact that neither of the lower classes would challenge the seniors, who are in the lead. However, the deadlock has been broken, and the championship of the league will be decided.

Next Friday the junior and sophomore basketball teams will play, and the winners will meet the seniors in the final game to settle the supremacy of the school. On account of the inadequate facilities for basket ball offered by the Y. W. C. A., the game will be played on the floor of the Y. M. C. A., and the girls are expected to show up to better advantage here than in the cramped quarters in which they have previously played.

If the admission were opened to both sexes there is no doubt that the attendance would crowd the capacity of the building, and the girls would realize a considerable sum, but these arguments, and various others, fail to move them from their position.

The winning team will be presented with a banner, and the rivalry for its possession is keen.

Freshmen Meet.

A spirited meeting of the freshman class was held last Wednesday and the time was mostly taken up with discussions of the plans for the spread. The president requested the boys and girls to mix up with each other and said that if the boys should be too bashful to ask the girls, the latter should take the matter into their own hands and do a little asking on their own account. He concluded with a few rules of etiquette, urging the freshman to behave as much like grown ups as possible.

Agassiz Club.

At the meeting of the Agassiz club that was held last Monday, an interesting paper on Linnaeus, the great Swedish botanist, was read by Jessie Todd. The subject was an appropriate one as the two hundredth anniversary of his birth is being celebrated by the Scandinavian people of this city at the present time and much interest is being shown in all matters pertaining to this eminent man.

The paper was instructive and entertaining and dealt with the discoveries which Linnaeus made and the work which he did in the field of botany and the other sciences.

Although no plans have yet been made for the annual spring outing of the club, it is probable that it will be held either two or three weeks from today, as there are only four more weeks of school.

The members of the society will make a trip up St. Louis river, as in former years, and the day will be spent in the woods. This is an extremely interesting and instructive way in which to study botany and the outing is always enjoyed greatly by those who attend.

The Schillerbund.

The members of the Schillerbund gave their last program of the year on Thursday afternoon and the only meeting that will be held before the close of the school will be for the purpose of electing officers for the club for next year.

The program which was given was as follows:

May song ..... Miss Johnson
Story of Act 3, from "Marie Stuart"
..... Miss Gonska
Story of Act 4, from "Marie Stuart"
..... Miss Myers
Poem "Hope" ..... Miss Von Scholtem

It is a curious coincidence that the meetings of the Schillerbund were commenced onn the anniversary of Schiller's birthday and closed on the anniversary of his death.

High School Notes.

President Poirier of the junior class has announced that any seniors who wish to secure programs for the junior-senior party, which will be held at the Spalding, June 6, may do so by notifying him.

On Friday morning, the members of the football team were presented with the sweaters, for which they had been waiting so long.

Prof. Custance has completed the selection of the cast for the senior play, but does not yet wish to make it public, as it may be altered. Rehearsing will be commenced at once as there is only a short time left before the close of school.

Harold Bowen, who has been playing third base on the baseball team, cut his hand severely while at work in the manual training room, and will not be able to play baseball for some time. The man who will fill his place has not yet been selected.

Capt. Duncan of the sophomore track team called a meeting of the candidates Thursday night. A good many men showed up and it is expected that the second-year men will turn out a strong bunch for the meet.

Principal Smith wrote to the students recently telling them not to be absent any more than is necessary, as it imposes an added burden on the teachers, whose work is already heavy.

Prof. Crull was absent last Tuesday and all except two of his classes recited to Principal Smith.

The seniors have all handed in their full names this week to the principal, in order that they may have them written in full on their diplomas. Some of the students are said to be worrying more about securing the diplomas than about the names.

ROOSEVELT'S MESSAGE TO SPAIN'S YOUNG PAPA.

Washington, May 11.—President Roosevelt sent to King Alfonso XIII of Spain, the following message yesterday:

"I congratulate your majesty and the Spanish nation on the birth of an heir to the throne of Spain."

Grandfather's Cure for Constipation

GREAT medicine,—the Sawbuck. Two hours a day sawing wood will keep anyone's Bowels regular.

No need of pills, Cathartics, Castor Oil, nor "Physic," if you'll only work the Sawbuck regularly.

Exercise is Nature's Cure for Constipation and,—a Ten-Mile walk will do, if you haven't got a wood-pile.

But, if you will take your Exercise in an Easy Chair, there's only one way to do that, because,—there's only one kind of Artificial Exercise for the Bowels and its name is "CASCARETS."

Cascarets are the only means to exercise the Bowel Muscles without work.

They don't Purge, Gripe, nor "upset your Stomach," because they don't act like "Physics."

They don't flush out your Bowels and Intestines with a costly waste of Digestive Juice, as Salts, Castor Oil, Calomel, Jalap, or Aperient Waters always do.

No—Cascarets strengthen and stimulate the Bowel Muscles, that line the Food passages and that tighten up when food touches them, thus driving the food to its finish.

A Cascaret acts on your Bowel Muscles as if you had just sawed a cord of wood, or walked ten miles.

Cascarets move the Food Naturally, digesting it without waste of tomorrow's Gastric Juice.

The thin, flat, Ten-Cent Box is made to fit your Vest pocket, or "My Lady's" Purse. Druggists—10 Cents a Box.

Carry it constantly with you and take a Cascaret whenever you suspect you need one.

LATEST NEWS of the NEIGHBORING TOWNS

McKinley

McKinley, Minn., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Duluth & Iron Range gravel trains have been balloting and repairing tracks at Mariska this week, the ore coming from that section over the Virginia branch being heavier than usual this year.

Conductor Harry Lewis has gone to Two Harbors and James McDonald is relieving him on the work train, taking up the logging spur at Mile 821.

There are now two train crews hauling ore and empty cars between Biwabik and the mines, Conductor Byron Hall and L. Brultt being on the work.

Ed St. George has gone to Skibo to relieve Agent A. L. Flatley for a few days.

The Gilbert mine cut through the Duluth, Missabe & Northern tracks at Pettit is about finished and their tracks there will be ready for use again within a short period, when the Duluth, Missabe & Northern trains will discontinue using the Duluth & Iron Range tracks between Pettit and Biwabik.

It is expected that much steam shovel work and stock pile loading will be under way within another week or ten days.

The Scott-Graff company has discontinued log shipments from Mile 83. It will require some logging in that section next winter to finish as the soft weather spoiled their track before all their logs were taken out this season.

The Duluth & Iron Range crews are laying track to the Alberta mine, Virginia, and ballasting some. This mine is among the new shippers this year.

Two Harbors

Two Harbors, Minn., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—A number of additional switch engines and crews were sent to the range yards this week to spot cars for the steam shovels which are being started ther as the ore business increases.

Several fishermen were out for a try at the trout streams, and a few fish were caught. They report about 2 feet of snow still in the woods, and traveling very difficult. The ground also is almost black and no vegetation seems to have started yet.

The coal receipts continue steady and it is likely the handling machines will be kept busy most all season and the receipts be over 200,000 tons for this year; the mines using larger quantities each year, and most of it coming through this port.

The local owners of gasoline launches are getting their boats in repair, and sailing parties along the lake shore will soon be in vogue again.

Ore receipts from the mines are now running from 1,200 to 1,500 carloads per day.

P. Schubert is now working as night operator at Highland scales.

Matt Taylor, who had his leg broken while at work on the new coal dock, Saturday, is getting along nicely.

A meeting of the Two Harbors Gun club was held Tuesday evening at the Brown barber shop, and arrangements made for the work and shoots the coming season.

The roads are now in much better shape and the farmers are able to get to town regularly.

Lumber boats are coming fast and the Duluth & Iron Range have every available flat car in service, hauling the lumber from the Tower and Ely mills for them. THE ART OF BREWING was brought to America by the first settlers of the Colonies, and the industry was generally fostered by Colonial legislation. One of the many examples of this is the act of 1789, passed by the legislature of Massachusetts: "Whereas the wholesome qualities of malt liquors greatly recommend them for general use, as an important means of preserving the health of the citizens of this commonwealth, and to prevent the pernicious effect of spiritous liquors; Therefore be it enacted, that all Brewhouses shall be exempt from taxes and duties of all kinds for a period of five years after the passage of this act."

We say: Most all Beers are wholesome, but ours is the most wholesome, and is brewed of choicest material, according to most modern and approved methods.

Quinton and the Magic Cane

BY MAUD WALKER.

In a strange land, far, far, beyond the seas, there lived outside the walls of a great city a poor man with his wife and little son. The man's name was Barber, his wife's name was Susanna, and the little son's name was Quinton. Barber kept a small flock of sheep on the hillside, while his wife and son made a garden on the small plot of ground attached to their rude house, which was built of baked clay and roofed with thatch of straw.

All day they were busy, this man, wife and son; and they were good and honest folk, living simply and happily together and praising their Creator for the blessings of health, love and home. When wars raged without and within the city Barber took no part in the shedding of blood. With wife and child he would seek some hiding-place far away in the hills till the conflict was over, then, driving his flock back to their old grazing place, Barber, with Susanna and Quinton, would resume the old way of living, rebuilding the house, which in time of stress had been demolished, and again breaking the ground for the garden, ground that had probably been drenched in the blood of innocent men during Barber's absence.

But the happiness and prosperity of this good man caused envy and hatred to rankle in the bosom of a kinsman who dwelt not far off. This kinsman's name was Peter, and he was arrogant, selfish and lazy. His work was done by slaves brought from Nubia, a land far distant from the one where he dwelt. These slaves were beaten and treated most cruelly by Peter and his old wife, the latter being quite as mean as the former.

Owing to his own lack of interest in work—depending entirely upon his slaves to look after everything—the crops on Peter's lands were failures two years out of three; his flocks suffered and died off and soon Peter, the lazy and mean, found himself on the verge of starvation. There was enough for himself and wife to eat, but nothing for his poor slaves. Of course, Peter could not see them starve, for he wanted them to do his work and wait upon himself and wife. So one night after Barber, Susanna and Quinton were in bed and fast asleep the dastardly Peter, with a dozen of his slave men, crept into the sheepfold belonging to Barber and drove away the entire flock. Also did this bad man burst open the door to Barber's storeroom, where his winter's provisions were kept, and steal from there the great sacks of grain and skins of wine, not even leaving a single fig or bean for the good people whose labor and thrift had provided this goodly stock.

The next morning when Barber arose before the dawn to look into his fold he was grief-stricken to see that every fine sheep had been stolen during his slumber. Then he observed that the door to his storeroom was open and, going there, he beheld another awful sight—not a morsel of food nor a drop of his own homemade wine were left. When Barber broke the news to Susanna and Quinton the former said: "Husband, this foul deed has been done by our kinsman, Peter. None but he would do us this awful injury. His eyes have coveted our flock and grain and wine. Being too lazy to provide for his own needs he waits till we are prepared for the winter, then he robs us of our labor's fruits."

"You speak true, wife," said Barber. "But what can I do in the matter? If I go to the king within the city's walls he will say that I am not a loyal subject, seeing that I am not recorded on the lists belonging to the army that defend and fight for him and his wicked policy. He will refer me to the governor-prince whose dominion extends outside the city walls. If I go to him he will declare that during the last war I was not to be found in my house when all male subjects were being called to arms to slay the rightful claimant to the crown—the good Prince John—and his followers. And what must I say? Why, confess that I have never lifted my arm in battle; that I have split not one drop of a brother's lifeblood. And what reparation would I receive for my injury, think you, after this confession?"

"You are right, you are right," said Susanna, her voice full of sadness. "We are helpless in the hands of the wicked, who seem to rule the earth."

But Quinton, hearing the conversation between his parents, thought differently. Surely, surely, the right would win and the wicked fall. He said nothing, though, to his father and mother, but lay in his bed as quietly as when slumbering. But from his heart there went a prayer—not a selfish prayer, but a most just one. He prayed that the wicked inside and outside the city would be overcome by the good; that the king, a blood-loving and oppressive tyrant, would be removed in some way—not through bloody violence—and that the good Prince John, who loved the lowly and despised the arrogant rich, would come into his own—the crown and scepter of the great city of Bethben and the kingdom of which it was the capital.

After a frugal breakfast, which consisted of the remnants of their supper the previous evening, Barber set out to find some sort of employment that would bring him enough money to buy a few head of sheep, Susanna went into the garden to till for the next crop and Quinton was sent to the house of Peter to see whether or not their suspicions of him were true. The child was warned to say nothing about his father's loss, but told to look about for the bags of grain, the skins of wine and the flock of sheep. Then he was to bid Peter and his wife farewell and hasten home with what news he could bring. But on the road leading to the land and house of Peter, Quinton was stopped by that unworthy kinsman, who was en route to the city.

"Whither goest thou, son Quinton?" asked Peter, in most kindly tones. Without thinking of his parents' warning, the little fellow replied defiantly: "I am going to hunt for my father's sheep, bags of grain and skins of wine that were stolen by some wicked thief last night. Think you I will find them in this direction?"

"Mayhap thou shalt find them the sooner by accompanying me to the city," answered Peter, a hideous smile coming over his face. Then, before Quinton could turn to fly, Peter had ordered two of his slaves to seize him and bind him and carry him to the city, where he—Peter—would sell him into captivity to some of the roving tribes from other lands.

In vain did Quinton plead with Peter and the poor slaves to unbind him and let him return to his father's home. "Nay, nay, lad," said Peter. "I have never been blessed with a son, and it cuts me to the quick to behold my common kinsman, the rude clod Barber, with one growing up to honor and love him. So I shall this day remove from my sight something that hurts me like a thorn in the flesh. You shall be sold to some foreign tribe that may be camped beside the city gates."

And the wicked Peter was true to his word. On arriving at one of the city gates—not the gate to which the home of Quinton stood—they found a group of tents and horses. This pronounced the fact that Gypsies camped there. Peter stopped at the big tent, which was occupied by the chief of the tribe. A bargain was instantly struck and Quinton was made the property of the Gypsies, his kinsman receiving two handfuls of silver and a horse in payment for him. Then, with a wicked smile, Peter bade the weeping boy adieu and with his slaves departed, going into the city.

As Quinton lay in the corner of a tent weeping and praying, a pretty dark-eyed girl came to him, her heart touched by the sight of his grief. As best he could, Quinton told her his sad story; but this was difficult, for he spoke little of the Gypsy tongue and the maiden spoke little of Quinton's native tongue. But youth and sympathy served as interpreters, and soon the Gypsy girl understood the plight of poor little Quinton. Deftly she undid the thongs that bound his feet and hands. Then she took from the folds of her cloak a short cane, made of beautiful, glossy wood. Watching that no one should see her, the maiden placed the cane within the bosom of Quinton's blouse, saying: "This is a magic cane. Three times will it work miracles. Then its power is gone and it is nothing more than ordinary wood. My grandmother left it a legacy to me. I have never had need of it. Take it and use it carefully."

Then the maiden went from the tent and Quinton meditated on her words. He was an unusually wide-awake boy and knew that he must use judgment in regard to the magic cane. He decided on his first move. Taking the cane from his bosom he pressed a small silver star that was on its point. Immediately he was attended by twenty armed knights, who led him forth from the tent and from the camp. The chief and his band stood in amazement, making no effort to stop the progress of Quinton. Once on the road leading to his home, and out of sight of the Gypsies, the armed knights faded away, one by one, and Quinton ran to his father's house alone, arriving there in good time. He called his mother from her work and told her the wonderful story of his morning's adventures. She examined the cane, taking care not to touch the star. Then she said they must wait till Barber's return.

That evening, worn and hungry after an unsuccessful day spent in hunting for work, Barber came to his cot. Susanna and Quinton told him the story of the cane. Barber, a good and wise man, thought deeply for a while. Then he said: "I'll take you, my son, to the good Prince John and let him have one of the wishes the magic cane can gratify. The other wish shall recover for us our goods stolen by Peter." So that night, while Peter was in bed asleep, Barber and Quinton went to his house and touched the star on the cane. Forth from the folds walked their sheep, going homeward without a herdman. Slaves came from the store-room of Peter with the sacks of grain and skins of wine, carrying them to Barber's own house.

The next day Barber and Quinton took the cane to Prince John, who was hidden away in the fastness of the mountains with his few faithful followers, and presented him with the cane. He touched the star and a mighty army, strong and armed to the teeth, sprang up about him. With such a force he marched into the city and demanded the throne. The cruel king, so overcome by the size of the army, fled from the city, making no defense. Prince John became king and brought Barber to his court as one of his council. Quinton was created a prince and grew into a great and good man, and after becoming of age set out to find the Gypsy maid who had given him the magic cane. Her he made his wife and they were known as the happiest couple in all the land.

So ends the story of Quinton and the Magic Cane.

Babies.

You might think all babies are small,
But such isn't the case—not at all!
For example, the elephant's baby is one
That weighs on the day of its birth
Most a ton.

But the dear baby mouse wouldn't weigh
Half an ounce on its first birth day.
While the cute little babes of old Tabby
Cat
Weigh one or two ounces at birth—
If fat.

So you see, some babies are big:
(For instance, a plump baby pig!)
While others we see are really quite small.
But as babies we love them, yes, one
And all.

MAUD WALKER.

Deftly she undid the thongs that bound his feet and hands.

Little Pat was standing in front of a baker's window, his blue eyes feasting themselves on some apple tarts. An old lady, elegantly attired, passing on the pavement, noticed the wistful expression in Pat's eyes and stopped to question:

"Would you like an apple tart, little boy?"

"Would I loike one, mim? No. Holly gee! I'd loike a dozen ov 'im."

Queens of England.

Little is known of the private life of Mary II., Queen Regnant of Great Britain and Ireland, and consort of William II. of Orange. She was the daughter of James II. by his first wife, Anne Hyde. She was born at St. James' Palace April 30, 1662. Her father was at that time the Duke of York.

The little Lady Mary was a "beautiful and engaging child," according to the biographers of that day, and was dearly beloved by her father, whose pet she was. But owing to James' leaning to the Roman Catholic faith, Mary and her sister Anne were removed from his care by the King, their uncle, and educated by tutors of his selection.

When Mary was in her fifteenth year plans for her marriage began to agitate the minds of her father, the King and the English people. The choice of the latter was the Dutch William, Prince of Orange, cousin to Lady Mary.

But to this match Mary strongly objected, weeping bitterly when told that the King, her uncle, had set his heart upon it. Her father, always in sympathy with his beloved child, used his influence to prevent the marriage in opposition to her heart, going to the King, his brother, and reminding his royal highness of a promise he had made that the hand of Mary should not be bestowed in marriage without her father's consent.

Charles, in his gruff way, answered: "So I did, man. But odds-fish! James must consent to this!"

And as in all other matters, James bowed to the will of his brother and monarch, giving his consent to the union of Lady Mary and the Prince of Orange.

On November 4, 1677, the marriage of William, Prince of Orange, and Lady Mary was celebrated in St. James' Palace. On the eleventh anniversary of that day William, Prince of Orange, invaded England, dethroned his father-in-law, who had succeeded Charles II. to the throne, and had himself made king, to rule jointly with his wife Mary, who was not the heir-apparent to the throne, James II. having a living son, the young Prince of Wales, by his second wife, Mary Beatrice.

Space forbids just condemnation of Mary and her sister, Anne, for the part they took in the downfall of their always good and loving father. Suffice it to say that the portrayal of King Lear's unnatural daughters is a true delineation of the characters of the two ungrateful daughters of the ill-fated James II.

Mary II. died of smallpox in 1694, in the sixth year of her reign. William III. survived her eight years, and was succeeded by Anne, Mary's sister.

Mischievous Danny Goes to a Picnic.

BY HELENA DAVIS.

Mischievous Danny ran into his mother's room, crying out excitedly: "Oh, mama, I've got an invite to go to a picnic. Lulu Davis is——"

But Danny's mother stopped him, saying: "You mean you have received an invitation—not an invite—to attend a picnic. Now, dear, go on and tell me all about it; but be careful of your English. You are growing very careless in regard to your language lately."

"Well, mama, boys can't be so awful petickler about their language. It's all right for girls and ladies; but boys——"

Mama shook her head despairingly; but at the same time she smiled in spite of herself. Her little "Mischievous," as she was wont to call Danny, had such a funny way of arguing certain questions—particularly the one pertaining to grammar—that she could never find it in her heart to be severe with him, always assuring herself that her boy was just a boy after all and would grow up all right in spite of his carelessness in manners and language. Smiling and putting her arms about him she said: "And so my sonny wants to go to a picnic? Well, let's have the particulars."

Danny squared himself about and gave the information.

"Lulu Davis is having a birthday next Saturday. She'll be nearly as old as me."

"And twice as proper in speech, I hope," smiled mama.

"Oh, she's on top when it comes to grammar," assured Danny. "Girls always are. But just wait and us boys will show 'em something when we get growed up. What'll Lulu Davis do with all her fine verbs and nouns and proper essay education when it comes to a show-down with me when I'm the greatest explorer in the world?" And Danny looked defiance at the imaginary Lulu grown to womanhood. "If I don't say 'doesn't' instead of 'don't' when I ought to, and if I don't say 'pardon me' instead of 'look out there,' it's no sign that I'll not become great when I'm a man. It's the BIG things I mean to learn, not the teentsy-weentsy ones."

"But the teentsy-weentsy things help to make the BIG things," explained mama. "Just as little babies grow into boys like my own Danny, and just as boys like my own Danny grow into great men. So one must heed the little things, you see."

Danny shuffled about on his feet a moment, seriously meditating. Then he broke out with, "But mama, the future hasn't anything to do with the picnic Lulu Davis is getting up. There is plenty of time for me to grow after the picnic is over. The question now is, may I go? And will you fix some of those good sandwiches with cold tongue and mustard and chopped celery for me to take? And I'd like to have some tarts and spiced peaches and—and—chocolate cake, too. But you know, mama, just what I'd like for a picnic dinner."

"Yes, dear," said mama. "You shall not only go to the picnic but you shall have all the nice things to eat you ask for. But I want you to promise mama one thing. Will you?"

"Let's hear it first," said Danny, a real little philosopher. "If I should say yes I might be sorry after hearing what it is that you want me to promise. I always want to please you, mama dear; but some things you ask of me are so hard to remember, and I might be obliged to break my promise. That would be very naughty indeed, so I must be very careful in making promises."

"That is very right, sonny," agreed mama. "Never under any circumstances break a promise. But do not shirk giving your word of honor in things of moment to your parents and yourself. You should know that anything your mother asks of you is for your own good. But what I want you to promise is this: Be a little gentleman in your conduct and language at the picnic next Saturday. You are so full of mischief that you sometimes draw down criticism on your head through sheer thoughtlessness. Now, won't you promise to be just as careful in speech and manners as possible?"

"Oh, yes indeed, I can make that promise, mama. I shall think of you every time I am spoken to by a girl or by the mothers who are going along to look after us. But when I'm playing with the boys it is different. I don't have to be so careful. So you have my promise, mama, to behave just as you would have me everywhere with me."

Mama kissed her mischievous son and declared that she had the greatest faith in him and felt no uneasiness about the way he would conduct himself at the picnic on Saturday. Then, as it was already Thursday, she began to make preparations for Danny's luncheon. Saturday came at last, although Danny declared it seemed a week in getting there. And Friday night was so long that several times Danny wondered if the sun had gone never to return. He was up before five o'clock, waiting for the day.

At last nine o'clock struck, and Danny, with basket on arm and umbrella in hand, kissed his mama good-bye and started for the home of Lulu Davis, where the boys and girls were to assemble. On entering the parlor—where a number of his comrades were gathered—Danny cried out: "Hello, kids!" Then his face became suffused with blushes, for he remembered his promise to his mother. He knew his manner of salutation was most ungentlemanly, for several little girls were present, as well as Mrs. Davis, who was to chaperon the party. "Oh, I mean—I mean good morning, ladies and gentlemen," he stammered. A laugh went round the room at Danny's expense, but he "grinned and bore it" as he afterwards told his mama.

The next break poor Danny made was on entering the big picnic wagon. He was anxious to get a seat beside Tom Moore and on trying to do so he trampled on the toes of Annie Snell and tore the ribbon bow from her hair. "Oh, lookout there!" he cried by way of apology. Then his promise instantly came to mind and he paused in front of Annie, saying: "I beg pardon. I never meant to tramp on you and yank your bow off." Then, with a low bow, he was about to move on to the seat that was waiting for him when the handle of his umbrella poked into the face of Della Martin, who was sitting behind him. "Gee whiz!" yelled Danny, seeing the mischief his low bow had wrought. Then, as Della made a mouth at him and said something about "rude boys" and "bad manners," he turned to apologize to her. But at this instant the driver cracked to the horses, and away they went, the sudden start throwing Danny off his feet. He fell plump in the lap of Mrs. Davis, who, mother-like, took him upon her knee. He was so confused now that he could scarcely keep the tears back from his eyes and some very expressive language from his tongue. But his promise to be well-mannered was still in his mind, and he got off the good lady's lap, blushing as he said to her: "Thank you, Mrs. Davis, for holding me on your lap. You are very kind." Of course, every one laughed then, and Danny, feeling like dropping into his lunch basket and hiding beneath the napkin, pulled himself to the seat next to Tom Moore. That young chap said in his ear: "Say, what's the matter with you today, Dan? Got a new assortment of manners, haven't you? Well, you don't know how to put 'em on yet. They are so new."

"And I'm afraid they'll never fit, either," confessed Danny. "But I've given my promise and can't go back on it. I've got to be a gentleman."

Tom Moore laughed and replied: "Ain't you always a gentleman?"

Danny lifted his eyebrows. "Don't say 'ain't'; say 'aren't.'"

"Gee, you've got it bad," declared Tom. Then he turned to a boy who was at his other side. "Let me introduce you to Miss Dannie; she used to be plain Dan Brown. But, gee, such manners! Next week she is going to appear in a pink sunbonnet and white slippers. She's so proper." The boy thus introduced to Danny caught the spirit of Tom's ridicule and bowed with mock gravity, saying: "Good-morning, Miss Dannie. Hope you have your dollies with you."

To Danny's relief no one save Tom and the other boy heard this conversation. The other children were all talking at once, and paid no heed to the three boys at the farthest end of the long seat. Danny could have struck Tom and the other tormentor with a vengeance, but he dared not do so in the wagon. However, he whispered with his old-time spirit: "Just you fellows wait till we git into the woods away from the rest and I'll show you a few things."

"Ah, you're Dan again," laughed Tom Moore. "I wondered where your spirit had gone. But what means all these furbelows in manners?"

Danny had no chance to answer just then, for Mrs. Davis was asking some question of him, and he had to give her his attention.

After an hour's ride the picnic party arrived at the grove where the festival was to be held. Danny assisted with the preparation of tables and hanging of swings. With the boys he was himself, but in the presence of the girls and Mrs. Davis he was strained and painfully proper in manner.

After the dinner had all been spread Mrs. Davis appointed the children to their seats, placing Danny between Annie Snell and her own little daughter Lulu. At first Danny felt at his ease, but a moment later his promise came to his mind, and he became very self-conscious. He thought to be very polite, and began by passing some pie to Annie, who burst out laughing and said: "Why, that comes later, you goose." Danny swallowed his embarrassment as best he could. He turned to Lulu, who was busy with a sandwich. Bowing very low, he asked: "Do you like sandwiches? I think them very common." Of course, Lulu laughed at him, causing him to blush. And, thinking he had said something improper, he hastened to make his excuses. "Oh, I mean some sandwiches are common. But my mother made the one you are—are—devouring. It is very fine."

"I'm eating, not d-e-v-o-u-r-i-n-g," emphasized Lulu. "But how funny you are today, Dan. You act as though you'd been laundered and starched and ironed. You are as stiff and proper as new shoes. You make me laugh."

"Can't a man become a gentleman without causing—causing — merriment?" asked Danny, his confusion growing.

"Oh, that's it?" And Lulu glanced at Annie; then both little misses laughed wickedly.

Then came the dessert. Danny, anxious to reinstate himself in the favor of his two little friends, forgot for the moment his promise to his mother. He grabbed up two oranges and began tossing them in the air and catching them on his shoulder. Lulu dodged the falling fruit, looking horrified at the behavior of Danny. Annie cried out and sprang away from the table, saying: "Such table manners." Mrs. Davis' attention was called to Danny. She shook her head at him, saying: "Don't forget where you are, Danny. You must be a gentleman."

This was too much for Danny. Springing to his feet he cried out vehemently: "I'm laughed at and poked fun at if I play the gentleman. If I act just natural—like an everyday boy—I get scolded and make girls run from me. I guess I'll have to go in a crowd all by myself. Then nobody will be uncomfortable or make me uncomfortable."

Mrs. Davis—mother that she was—came to Danny's side and drew from him the secret of his misery. After Danny's private confession about the promise to his mother the lady explained:

"Why, my dear little boy, your mama did not mean for you to behave like a prig. She wanted you to act gentlemanly. Good manners do not require the use of unusually large words nor unnatural conduct. You can be a gentleman and still remain yourself—jolly little Danny. So, come, have a good time and make as much fun as you like, just so you are not rude and do not use slang or become too noisy. And I'll vouch for you to your mother, for you've been trying to do what you thought she wanted you to."

And then Danny understood what had before been a problem to him. Suffice it to say the rest of the day was filled with pleasure for him as well as for his comrades.

Mrs. Davis came to Danny's side and drew from him the secret of his misery.

When Spring Fever Comes to School.

Young Frankie lingered o'er his task;
The day was warm, the sun was bright.
How hard it was to study books
When one was wishing with one's might

To be out doors, to run and play;
To fish, to swim, to lie at ease
In grass so green, beneath the sun;
To watch the birdies in the trees.

And as poor Frankie dreamt and dreamt,
Spring Fever came in at the door:
He knew the school house very well,
For he had been there oft before.

He marched with very silent step,
(The teacher even couldn't hear:)
To Frankie's desk, and sat him down,
And whispered soft in Frankie's ear:

"I wouldn't study now," he said.
"I'd slip from school and run away;
I'd lie in fields and hay-stacks warm:
In fact, I'd play the live-long day."

E'en as he whispered, Frankie's eyes
Went quite tight shut; he fell asleep.
The spell Spring Fever carried 'round
Did o'er the little fellow creep.

But Teacher calling, "Frankie, come!
Recite your lesson; do you hear?"
Then seeing Frankie was asleep
She gently plucked him by the ear.

Then old Spring Fever quickly fled:
But did not go away to stay,
For Frankie's desk he visited
Quite often every nice spring day.

COREY AND MISS GILMAN TO HAVE NIGHT WEDDING IN HOTEL OF NEW YORK

Twenty-Three of Twenty-Five Invited Guests Accept.

Remarkable Trousseau Brought to America for the Bride.

Brief Sketches of Careers of Both Parties to Marriage.

New York, May 13.—The management of the Hotel Gotham, where Miss Mabelle Gilman is staying, has announced that her wedding to W. E. Corey, president of the United States Steel corporation, will take place tonight at 10 o'clock. Mr. Corey has engaged the "royal" suite of rooms, which are on the first floor and have a private entrance from the street.

Mr. Corey arranged for a wedding supper for twenty-five guests, and the hotel authorities say twenty-three have accepted. He is said to have engaged a suite on the steamer Kaiser Wilhelm II. and will sail for Europe with his bride tomorrow.

Miss Gilman's wedding trousseau is said to be one of the most elaborate ever brought here from Europe. Boxes of elaborately embroidered stockings, open-worked ones, heavily clocked ones, and plain ones for walking boots are waiting to make the pretty foot of Miss Gilman prettier. Her gloves alone would stock a glove store. They were made for her, and they whisper that she wears her gloves but once.

MYSTERIOUS FIRE RUINS GREAT NEW LAKE STEAMER ALMOST READY FOR WORK

City of Cleveland is Burned at the Detroit Shipyards.

All But Hull and Machinery Prove a Complete Loss.

Incendiarism Hinted at to Explain Flames on Fine Vessel.

Detroit, Mich., May 13.—The magnificent new passenger steamer, City of Cleveland, under construction at the plant of the Detroit Shipbuilding company for the Detroit & Cleveland Navigation company and designed to run between Detroit and Cleveland was swept by fire early today and is a total loss except for her hull and machinery. How much they have been damaged cannot be determined until the hull is pumped out and a careful examination made. The loss which falls upon the Detroit Shipbuilding company, a branch of the American Shipbuilding company, is about $700,000 and is fairly well covered by insurance.

The fire broke out just before daylight in some mysterious manner. Rumors are afloat of incendiarism and the officials of the shipyards are at a loss to explain the conflagration, as there were two watchmen on the steamer and another at the gate to the shipyards.

WHEAT HITS DOLLAR MARK IN NORTHWEST MARKETS AFTER SHARP ADVANCES

Climax of the Long Bull Movement is Reached.

Price Jumped Four Cents From Saturday's Closing Figures.

Some of the Causes Leading to the Sharp Advance.

The climax of the long bull movement in wheat was reached this morning, when the price of the July option in the Duluth trading pit, jumped 1⅞c at the opening, and climbed steadily until it reached the $1.00¼ mark within ten minutes after the opening. The July option is the active option at present. September wheat also climbed over the dollar mark.

This was an advance of 4 cents over Saturday's closing prices.

To the outsider who follows wheat prices with but a mild degree of interest, the causes of this remarkable bull movement are known in but a general way. Five weeks ago the price of wheat was hovering between 76c and 80c, with the latter figure looked upon as the high water mark. Reports of damage to the winter wheat crop by green bugs in the Southwest started the bull movement.

The bulls kept yelling about the green bugs, while the bears scoffed. Wheat would go up one day on particularly emphatic rumors regarding the damage and the next day would be sent down some by the energetic bears. But the price was gradually climbing.

When unfavorable weather furnished food for bullish news, in addition to the green bug, prices went up some more.

New Hampshire Cruelty to Animals Experiment a Success.

Mrs. Powers and Mrs. Kendall Perform Their Work Nobly.

Nashua, N. H., May 13.—The unique experiment of the state of New Hampshire to secure better enforcement of the laws regarding cruelty to animals and children in appointing two women as deputy sheriffs, with full authority, seems to have fully demonstrated its success by the reports being made by Mrs. Jennie P. Powers of Keen, and Mrs. M. Jennie Kendall of Nashua, and will lead, it is believed, to a number of other such appointments.

Armed with a camera and a revolver and thoroughly versed in the law covering her powers and duties, Mrs. Powers has gone fearlessly about her work and in the past year has made sixteen arrests, killed forty-one horses and caused numerous prosecutions. Using her camera to secure indisputable evidence she notifies wrongdoers of the law and their duty in the case.

Mrs. Kendall has confined most of her activities to Nashua and its immediate vicinity, where she has caused many arrests to be made.

Dr. Ware of Cincinnati, the first physician to reach the scene, arrived last night and told a graphic story of the terrible scenes that he witnessed. The most pathetic incident was the death of a bride and groom at almost the same instant, each believing that the other still lived. L. N. Ellenbogen and his bride were members of the excursion party, and were thrown from the coaches on opposite sides of the track. Russian Terrorists, Who Aimed to Kill Czar, in Prison.

Eighty Men Involved in Conspiracy But All Caught.

London, May 13.—The Daily Telegraph's St. Petersburg correspondent reports the accidental discovery and foiling of the greatest terrorist plot since the Decembrist conspiracy eighty-two years ago.

No less than eighty conspirators resolved a couple of months ago to assassinate Emperor Nicholas and plans were finally fixed for carrying out the deed during Easter. The plotters included reserve officers and other officials and civilians whose loyalty hitherto had been undoubted. The large number of plotters was necessitated by the elaborate precautions adopted nowadays to protect imperial personages. The plan was, the correspondent says, to approach the Tsarskoe Selo in distinct groups and then execute a sudden and daring attack on the palace. The first group consisting of thirty-four men arrived on the Russian Good Friday, when from some means unknown, suspicions against them were aroused and the whole thirty-four were arrested at Tsarskoe Selo and documents found in their possession led to the apprehension of the other members of the band in St. Petersburg.

REOPEN PLANT UNDER GUARD

Smelting Managers at Murray, Utah, Secures Pledge of Aid.

Salt Lake City, May 13.—Having been promised ample police protection, the American Smelting & Refining company has decided to reopen its plant at Murray tonight. At a meeting with the smelter men yesterday, the mayor of Murray and the county officials agreed to furnish seventy-five special officers and to guarantee the safety of all who applied for work.

It is believed that a majority of the 1,200 men who quit the plant last Thursday will apply for their old positions and that no serious trouble will occur. An advance of 10 per cent in wages will be made by the company, this being the raise which was offered and rejected by the men before the strike. It was said that the ores diverted to the Montana and Colorado plants of the company have been ordered back to Utah.

SUPERIOR NEWS

KILLED IN THE YARDS

Michael Keeley is Crushed While Coupling Freight Cars.

Body Terribly Mangled and Death Was Instantaneous.

While working at a coupling between two freight cars in the Great Northern yards in Superior this morning Michael Keeley was caught between them, and his life crushed out almost instantly. The body was terribly crushed and mangled in the abdomen, where he was caught, and he was dead when reached by his horrified fellow workers.

Keeley was 38 years old and leaves a wife and children, residing at 1302 North Eleventh street. He was a member of the switchmen's union of Superior and had worked in the Great Northern yards there for six years.

The funeral arrangements have not been announced as yet.

DOCTORS WILL MEET.

Big Plans Being Made for the State Convention.

The Wisconsin State Medical association will meet in Superior during September, the same time that the Minnesota association is holding its meeting in Duluth. The Superior medics are already making plans for the entertainment of their brother physicians and a most elaborate program is being devised.

There is a possibility of a big auto show being held in Superior during the convention by one of the manufacturers who makes automobiles especially for the profession. There is a similar exhibition to be held at the meeting of the Illinois State Medical association this summer, and as there will be about 1,000 doctors in Duluth and Superior during the convention it is thought that this field will be an especially attractive one.

SUSPECT HELD.

One of Jail Breakers May Have Been Caught.

Sheriff Berg received a wire this morning from Eau Claire police saying that they had arrested a man there who answers the description of Neil Grant, alias Frank Jones, the thief who escaped from the Douglas county jail Friday night while he was being held awaiting an officer to take him to the Green Bay reformatory. An officer will be sent down at once to identify the prisoner. No word has been received of McCauly's whereabouts, but it is suspected that he took the same route.

REV. J. W. POWELL ACCEPTS.

Will Deliver Baccelaureate Sermon at Superior Normal.

Rev. John W. Powell today signified his acceptance of the invitation extended to him by the Superior normal school to deliver their baccelaureate address on June 20, next. This news will be greeted with a great deal of pleasure by the Superior students.

DROWNED IN SLIP.

Fireman in Globe Elevator Fell From Dock to Death.

While wheeling a wheelbarrow load of wheat dust along the west side of the platform along the west side of the Globe elevator in Superior yesterday afternoon Julius Marsh, a fireman at the elevator, in some unknown manner fell into the slip and was drowned. His watch stopped at 1:40, indicating about the time the accident happened.

Marsh's fellow employes say that they were inside the building when they heard cries for help coming from the outside. They immediately rushed out and saw Marsh's wheelbarrow floating just off the edge of the platform. A row boat was at once put into service and after twenty minutes' work the lifeless body was brought to the surface by the aid of grappling hooks.

There were no eye witnesses to the tragedy and just how the unfortunate man could have fallen from the comparatively wide platform at this point is hard to understand. Marsh was 28 years of age, and had been employed at the elevator for several years. He leaves a wife residing at 324 Banks avenue. This is the second casualty in the elevator within the past two weeks. William Clark, a cousin of Marsh's, was caught between the passenger elevator and a bar of iron in the elevator shaft only a week ago, and was instantly killed.

DUPONT CONTEST STARTS.

D. E. Kennedy Takes First in Initial Shoot.

The first of the series of weekly shoots for the Dupont badge, was held by the Superior gun club on their range yesterday afternoon when D. E. Kennedy walked off with first honors by a goodly margin. Four other events were pulled off yesterday, a twenty-five bird event and three fifteen bird contests. Adams and Kennedy tied for first in the twenty-five bird shoot and while Anderson and Brown and Williams took first place in the fifteen-bird session.

Interest in the Dupont contest is very lively. The event is something in the line of a handicap, the winner of every week's contest having to retire a certain number of paces behind the others the next occasion. The marksman having the highest score at the end of the season will win the badge.

The high wind which was blowing yesterday had its effect on the scores. They were as follows:

Dupont badge—Kennedy, 13; Renouf, 11; Paddock, 8; Thorne, 3; Graham, 4; Belcher, 5; Christianson, 7; Williams, 8; Brown, 8; Brenner, 5; Huber, 4; Hope, 8; Anderson, 8.

Twenty-five-bird event—Williams, 16; Adams, 19; Kennedy, 19; Paddock, 12; Budd, 13; Thorne, 8; Renouf, 10; Christianson, 7; Brown, 16; Hope, 7; Crowe, 10; Graham, 6.

THIRD STREET CONTRACT.

Comptroller Wentzel Removes Objection and Work May Proceed.

After a conference with City Attorney Luse, Comptroller Wentzel Saturday signed the paving contract for the work on Third street, and should Contractor A. E. Dahl accept the document today the work will go forward as rapidly as possible.

Comptroller Wentzel held up the contract a few days ago, contending that the description of the property together with the manner of paying for the improvement, are irregular.

A number of the largest property owners along the line of the improvement have been registering strenuous kicks against the brick paving proposed. This will cost about $215 a lot and the owners claim that as their property is not worth more than $400 per lot, this will practically amount to confiscation.

Although the contract is now in shape so that the work may start at any time, Comptroller Wentzel's objections have made a decided impression and it is the general impression that the work is likely to be tied up at any time.

ACCUSED OF DARK CRIME, HE DIES A FREE MAN.

New Haven, Conn., May 13.—Herbert H. Hayden died at his home in this city today, aged 57 years, after a prolonged illness involving a number of serious surgical operations. He was a graduate of Wesleyan university, afterward became a Methodist minister and settled in North Madison, Conn. While there, he was accused of the murder of Mary Stanhard, an accusation which led in 1879 to one of the most famous murder trials in Connecticut. It involved a trip paid for by the state of Prof. Edward S. Dana of Yale, to Europe, to investigate the properties of arsenic, which figured in the trial. The jury disagreed and Hayden was released on bonds, which were afterward cancelled.

BORN IN HIM.

Life: The little son of a lawyer had finished working an elaborate sum on the blackboard, and, after the usual detailed explanation of the operation, he concluded with:

"Therefore, the answer is two thousand six hundred and forty-five." "And can you prove it?" asked the teacher. The boy looked wise.

"Prove it?" Yes, ma'am, I will subpoena the entire class as witnesses, but I must request a postponement for ten days in order to prepare my defense."

BASORICH ON TRAIL

Faces Jury on Charge of Murder in Second Degree.

Shooting Affray That Occurred at Hull Mine in January.

Frank J. Hughes	Virginia
John Soderblom	Duluth
Hector Morrison	Duluth
Frank A. Berg	Duluth
Wesley T. Wilke	Duluth
John Dahl	Duluth
Clarendon D. Marble W.	Duluth
August Viven	Duluth
Ignatius Ziminski	Duluth
Richard B. Brundage	Hibbing
Charles Hallock	Virginia
Robert Langdon	Lester Park

The above twelve men were selected this morning to determine the guilt or innocence of Dan Basorich, an Austrian who has been indicted for murder in the second degree. The indictment accuses Basorich of having shot and killed Marco Breklacich at the Hull-Rust mine location the evening of Jan. 8, last, during a celebration of the Greek Christmas. It is alleged that Basorich did the killing without premeditation.

Basorich has been in jail ever since the shooting affray and for a time it seemed that he would not live to face trial, as he became despondent and went into a decline. Lately his health has improved, although he does not yet look as healthy and rugged as he did when first taken to jail. The confinement and the charge hanging over him have worried him a great deal.

L. H. Corcoran is defending Basorich. It is expected that a strong effort will be made by the defense to throw the responsibility for the shooting on other parties. It is claimed that Basorich was very much intoxicated the night of the tragedy. He does not remember shooting anybody.

WARNING IS RECEIVED

Street Flushing Machine Companies Fighting Over Patent Rights.

As a result of an article published in The Herald a week ago relative to the street flushing machine now in use in this city and the proposed tests which were to be made with it in the near future, the board of public works this morning received a letter from the American Street Flushing Machine company of St. Louis warning them against the use of the St. Louis Street Flushing machine, as there was a case now pending in the supreme court relative to an infringement of patents by the St. Louis company upon the patents of the American company, and advising the muot to accept any small bond as surety from the infringing company, as the rental which the American Street Flushing Machine company would charge would amount to $1,200 a year, and they proposed to collect if they won their suit. The letter stated that the company was indebted to The Duluth Herald for the information in regard to the use of the flusher here.

MORE TIME ALLOWED FOR MRS. EDDY'S PLEADINGS.

Concord, N. H., May 13.—A motion for additional time in which to file supplemental pleadings was today granted counsel for the plaintiffs in the suit brought by the "next friends" of Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy, for an accounting of the property of the Christian Science leader, in the Merrimac county court. The motion requested fifteen days additional time for the filing of supplemental pleadings, after the decision of the court is rendered on the petition of Mrs. Eddy's three trustees, Henry M. Baker, Archibald McLellan and Josiah E. Fernald, that they be substituted for the "next friends" as plaintiffs in the suit. Arguments on the petition of the trustees will be made next Monday. There was no opposition by counsel for the defense.

SNOW IN WYOMING DOES GOOD TO THE COUNTRY.

SUCCESS IS NOW ASSURED

May Festival Will Have Enthusiastic Reception in Duluth.

Everything now points to a most successful season of oratorio in Duluth.

The people back of the May Festival did not go into it with the intention or expectation of making money from it, and the best that they hoped to do was to break even. This they will probably do, as the advance sale of seats has been very heavy, and three packed houses are assured.

With such soloists as have been secured, there is no question of the success of the affair from a musical standpoint. Any one of the three artists, Shanna Cummings, Arthur Beresford or Holmes Cowper would be a sufficient attraction alone to draw an enthusiastic audience in any city where they are known. In addition to these three soloists, there will be the well drilled chorus, and the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra, with Emil Oberhoffer as conductor and Grace Senior Brearley as the pianist. The oratorios which will be presented will undoubtedly be the greatest musical treat offered Duluthians in recent years.

A wire to Paine, Webber & Co., from Bisbee, Ariz., says:

"General Supt. J. C. Adams of the Boston & Montana company, who has recently inspected the copper mines of Arizona says: 'I have never seen a mining country that can equal Arizona. I inspected a score or so of mines and was astonished at the enormous deposits of copper displayed. Many of the mines will make some of the largest copper mines in Montana look to their laurels. Greene Consolidated has over $20,000,000 of copper already blocked. I think that Arizona will eventually furnish the copper for the world.' "

PUSH DRAINAGE WORK IN STATE

More Dirt to be Removed Each Month Than at Panama.

St. Paul, May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—More cubic yards of dirt will be romeved each month this summer in digging drainage canals in Minnesota than will be removed by the workmen who are digging the Panama canal. This is the statement made today by State Drainage Engineer George A. Ralph, who estimates that the work in the state now under way, or that will begin within a few months, will entail an expenditure of approximately $2,000,000.

Every dollar that is expended for drainage, he declares, will return $3 in increased values of the lands improved. Among the biggest of the contemplated improvements is the shortening of the Mississippi river channel in Aitkin county, for which the issuance of bonds was authorized by the last legislature. The work will cost about $135,000 and will be started within three months. In all, more than one million acres of land will be benefited by the gigantic network of drainage canals that will cover virtually the whole state.

FOURTEEN DEAD BY EXPLOSION

Railroad Workmen Blown Up—Deadly Affray of Laborers.

Charlotte, N. C., May 13.—As the result of a premature explosion at "Camp 2½" on the South & Western railway near Marion, N. C., last Saturday evening, fourteen men are dead. Eight bodies have been recovered. Foreman Kidd's body was badly mangled.

At the same camp Sunday afternoon, Walking Boss Kidd and Charles Hale went to quiet Jim and William Anderson, who are said to have been drinking, when the Andersons fired and killed Kidd. Following this, Hale killed one of the Andersons. Hale and five others are under arrest at Marion charged with murder.

BANK ROBBERS SECURE THOUSANDS IN TOPEKA.

Topeka, Kan., May 13.—Robbers early today broke into the Citizens' Bank of North Topeka and chiseled around the time lock on the safe door. It is believed they secured the contents of the safe, which the bank officials late today admitted contained at least $15,000. The robbers before they left battered the lock and it has been impossible to open the safe today to learn the exact loss.

OUTBREAK OF FALSE PUFFS.

Vogue: On every side one sees evidence of the violent outbreak of puffs, curls and double twists which constitute the bulwark of strength in the fashionable coiffure of the day.

No longer is it in the least necessary to confine oneself to the hair which nature has seen fit to bestow, for all the world has now acknowledged the desirability and perfect propriety of convenient extraneous additions.

Curls are no longer the denier cri, however, for puffs have usurped their place and offer possibilities in the way of natural effect not to be obtained by any other form of adornment. They can be bought separately or in clusters.

They require very little skill in adjustment, and any one with an idea of harmony of line can make them look as though they grew where they are placed. The beauties of Charles the II.'s reign had a great advantage in the coiffure of that period, which consisted of a wonderfully artistic massing of drooping and flowing curls, but not since then has there been a more flattering coiffure than that of today.

KING ALFONSO TELLS OF NAMING OF HIS SON.

Madrid, May 13.—King Alfonso and the queen mother, Maria Christina, opened the Spanish parliament today. The king read a message from the throne, promising reforms in the administration, comprising decentralization. He referred in happy terms to the birth of the heir apparent, and announced that he had received the approval of the sovereigns of Great Britain, Germany, Austria and Portugal on the conferment of their names on the new born prince.

MAN DOES A WOMAN'S WORK.

Chicago News: Maj. Robert Brewster Chappell is the government storekeeper in a bonded warehouse near Clark and Illinois streets. His only duty is to receipt for packages that are stacked up in the big room and basement, and it admits of considerable waiting time, so he set about to use it to some advantage. He conceived the idea of knitting socks, mittens and wristlets. His mother, more than 50 years ago, had taught him how to use the needles. In the corner of the big room in the light of a great window there is a small space, as the boxes of filled bottles leave him scarcely enough room in which to turn around. In this space beside a radiator he does his knitting. He has had the place for four years and has been knitting most of that time.

The major improvised a reel by the use of which he unwinds the skeins to balls. In a canvas bag that he buttons on his coat he holds the ball of yarn lest the playful tabby that has taken up her home in the warehouse take to rolling it over the dusty floor. Hundreds of pairs of socks and mittens have come from his work. He has a queer way of working silken threads in with the coarse yarn. Some of the mittens have been covered with pieces of fur. Jack Frost has no earthly chance of nipping a finger or toe that is hidden beneath such a covering.

MADE BY WHAT YOU EAT.

New York World: "It is what you eat that makes you what you are."

That's what the food sharps of the agricultural department said when they read the conclusions of Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale—that the vegetarian is the strongest type physically. According to a table of recipes outlined food not only decides a man's muscular character, but his mental calibre and particular fitness in business life as well. Here are some of them:

To make money in the stock market—Eat meat fresh from the slaughter-house, just as the eagle, the shrewdest of all types, kills a lamb and eats it on the spot.

To become a prize fighter or a great warrior—Eat all raw meats.

To be mediocre—Eat "beef and"—

To cultivate "brainstorms"—Eat midnight lobster.

To be a "mollycoddle"—Eat nuts and breakfast foods.

Success in everything depends upon the regularity of your diet.

The department authorities say that man reflects animal spirit. They point to the fact that just as the carnivorous animals, as the tiger and the lion, are predatory and ferocious, so can a human being become by devouring raw meat. And by the same process the granivorous animals, like the cow and the horse, are tractable and strong, just as the man is who lives on vegetables. Thus, by the regular diet of beans three times a day, from generation to generation, the subject finally becomes a strong but easily persuaded individual. On the other hand, if the subject eats raw beef sandwiches he becomes belligerent, crafty, treacherous and selfish.

The department is now engaged in exhaustive research into the precise effect upon the human intellect of various kinds of food, and will soon issue a formal statement on the subject.

"Investigations by noted scientific men throughout the world," said Prof. Langsworthy of the department, "have lead to the conclusion that probably the most intellectual men in the world are the Buddhist priests. They are vegetarians. But it is well known to anyone who views the mere physiological aspect of the case that regularity is what counts. I don't mean that a man or woman should eat the same thing every day, but that they must eat about the same time each day and be moderate in the quantity of their food.

"Temperance in the consumption of food counts for everything. Over-eating and the persistent consumption of rich foodstuffs, especially at hours when the digestive apparatus should be allowed to rest ,cause the so called 'brainstorms.' The mind is put in an adnormal condition through the over taxing of the stomach."

REVENGE OF AN AUTOCRAT.

Baltimore American: She—"I'm sorry you lost your temper over the fried steak this morning."

He—"But it wasn't fit to eat."

She—"I know, dear, but you must consider the consequences. You made cook very angry, and she may decide to put us on bread and water."

CONCERNING WOMEN.

The speaker at the devotional service yesterday afternoon at the Young Women's Christian association was the state secretary, Miss Daisy M. Griggs, who is the guest of the local association for a few days, for the annual meeting and the May morning breakfast. A large audience of association members gathered at 4 o'clock for the service and the informal Sunday evening tea, which followed. Miss Griggs spoke informally, taking as her subject, "The Remedy For Sin." A lesson from the book of John was read and an informal talk given.

Aside from the business of the annual meeting, which will be held this evening at the association rooms at 8 o'clock, there is much interest in the address to be given by Rev. Campbell C. Coyle of the First Presbyterian church, who will give his first talk outside of his pulpit since taking the pastorate of the church in this city. Mr. Coyle will speak after the routine business of the annual meeting has been transacted. The reports of the officers will be heard and the election of directors and trustees will take place. The election of officers will be held at the next regular meeting of the board, which will be held the first Saturday afternoon in June.

Knowing the weather forecast is unusually "More of the same" after a day of such typical weather as Duluth has enjoyed today, the outlook for a sunshiny May morning breakfast for the Young Women's Christian association is not promising, but the function will be held as planned and the suggestion of spring will be supplied by breakfast table decorations of trailing arbutus and a dainty menu of strawberries and cream and broiled chops and other delicacies. The members of the board of directors will preside as hostesses and a delightful affair is anticipated.

The members of the senior basketball team of the association were hostesses Saturday afternoon at an informal tea at the association rooms, in compliment to the basketball team of the Superior Normal school. A practice game of ball was enjoyed with an informal social hour.

PLANS COMPLETED

For New Y. W. C. A. Home —Fund Slowly Increasing.

In speaking of the building fund campaign for the Young Women's Christian association today, Chairman W. A. McGonagle said:

"The building fund of the Young Women's Christian association has now passed the $120,000 mark and is slowly but surely approaching the desired amount of $130,000.

"Numerous subscriptions from friends of the work are expected when they return from their winter vacations and so sure is the association of the ultimate success of the campaign that already the architects, Messrs. German and Lignell, are at work on the final plans, and the old buildings on the site recently purchased are being sold with the understanding that they will be immediately removed from the premises. The association urges all persons who have not yet subscribed, to come forward and help close up this campaign, believing that each and every subscriber will be proud of the monument that will be built for the advancement of the cause of women in the city of Duluth.

Ham, 30 cents a lb.
Pork chops, 18 cents a lb.

Frizzled ham or broiled pork chops is the sort of pleasantry that will receive warm greeting an evening like this, when the dull gray rains of spring have been soaking into the world the entire day. So many people will insist upon forever frying these delicacies, when another way of preparing them would receive a glorious welcome from an astonished household. Take ham, for instance. When one considers that ham is almost invariably served with that indelicate thing, fried eggs, one wonders that a pig doesn't give up in despair of ever coming into its own as a delicate and dainty piece of eating. Thin slices of pink ham, frizzled over a bed of glowing coals, are one of the real delights of life. If you want to be very extravagant, have pan baked apples, cut into quarters and cooked tenderly and served while still retaining their shape. That combination, followed by a cup of golden brown coffee, would make one perfectly indifferent to the minor and major worries of life.

MYSTERIOUS FIRE

before they were discovered and, despite the efforts of two fire boats and all the shore apparatus which could work on the burning ship, swept away everything inflammable on the craft. Tons of water were poured into the hull, which now lies at the Orleans street dock partially submerged. The two watchmen on the steamer got ashore safely and no one was injured during the fire.

The City of Cleveland was intended to be the finest side wheel steamer on fresh water and her interior woodwork, all of which is destroyed was unusually beautiful and lavish. Her whole cost was intended to be $1,250,000. The shipbuilding company will rebuild the boat as rapidly as possible, but it will be impossible to get her ready for service before next season. She was launched at Wyandotte, Jan. 5, and was to have been turned over to the Detroit & Cleveland Navigation company about June 30. She was 444 feet long and was designed to carry 4,500 passengers, with sleeping accommodations for 1,500. The interior woodwork and fittings were practically completed and the machinery and boilers were installed.

Chicago, May 13.—In the burning of the new steamer City of Cleveland, at Detroit today, the underwriters experienced one of the heaviest losses in lake history. The steamer was insured at $700,000, covering builders' risk, and advices indicate that the loss will nearly, if not quite, reach that sum. Not even rough estimates could be obtained by the underwriters, who feared that the loss will come up to the total of their policies.

COREY AND MISS GILMAN TO HAVE NIGHT WEDDING

affected big scoop-shaped hats with long nodding plumes. She still favors this style of headdress. There are many broad shaped drooping feathers among the hats prepared for her by the Parisienne milliners.

Among the gowns is a wonderful empire. This carriage toilet is of gray chiffon cloth, made very long in the skirt and short in the corsage. The whole is overlaid with rare Irish lace. The neck of the bodice is cut low, the yoke being of delicate Valenciennes, and this fine lace finishes the short sleeves.

The empire period appeals to the bride-to-be of the steel president. It is becoming to her beauty, and many of her gowns are built on these lines.

An afternoon reception dress is distinctive by the empire plait in the back. The material of this costume is broadcloth of the finest weave, and the color is that of a mellow peach. Grapes in the same hue are heavily wrought as trimming for this gown. Character is given it by the black satin band that is at the foot.

Pale pink chiffon silk is the fabric used in a magnificent dinner gown. It is trimmed with the rarest, costliest old Venetian lace. This gown is long and clinging, short in the bodice, with no sleeves, and the other ornamentation beside the lace is golden rosebuds.

One evening gown is of white mulle painted in colors by a French artist. This is one of the latest Paris fashions. The garlands of flowers are done in the natural colors.

The gem of all Miss Gilman's gowns, however, is a Venetian lace one of rare old rose point. The lace is worth its weight in precious jewels. The bodice is trimed with turquoise blue velvet. These appear in narrow bands, held together with jeweled buckles.

The parasols of Miss Gilman fill one trunk.

William Ellis Corey was born May 4, 1866, in Braddock, Pa. Attended common schools; accepted position when 16 years old in laboratory of Edgar Thompson Steel works. Transferred to plate mill, Homestead works, subsequently to order office, and at 21 made superintendent of plate mills and open-hearth department. Advanced to superintendent armor plate department, and in 1896 succeeded Mr. Schwab as general superintendent Homestead Steel works, including Carrie furnaces at Rankin and Howard Axle works. Admitted in 1898 to Carnegie company, partnership. Elected president Carnegie company and Carnegie Steel company to succeed Mr. Schwab April 16, 1901. During administration American Steel Hoop and National steel companies added to duties, and later merged with Carnegie company. Chosen acting president United States Steel corporation, retaining duties of Carnegie company presidency. Divorced by his wife in Reno, Nev., July 30, 1906, on charge of desertion. Chief forms of pleasure the development of athletic sports among Homestead workmen and fostering most famous professional football eleven of American history.

Mabelle Gilman was born of poor parents in San Francisco. Ten years ago appeared on Broadway, seeking theatrical engagement. Described as not beautiful but pretty. Became member of chorus for Augustin Daly's "The Geisha." Starred in the "Mocking Bird," a failure. While playing in this piece in Pittsburg, William E. Corey first saw her at an aquatic party. In the "Casino Girl," "Dolly Varden" and the "Belle of New York," Miss Gilman met success in New York and London. Crown prince of Siam fell in love with her. Sent marvelous letters which mysteriously found their way into the papers. Started fad of wearing small diamond set into thumbnail. Retired from the stage to live in French chateau and await approach of wedding.

DIAZ TALKS FOR PEACE

shed blood to show the Guatemalan government the error of their ways and will not resort to that extreme measure unless some overtact or insult be committed, which will demand the infliction by Mexico of a short sharp punishment. If it becomes necessary to have war we will make it a very brief one. Mexico's present wonderful development and progress must not be hindered by a long drawn-out conflict. The blow, if struck, will be hard and quick."

President Diaz then reviewed the events leading up to the present differences with Gautemala down to the withdrawal of the Mexican minister. "Not," he said, "with the idea of severing diplomatic relations, but to get him out of the way of receiving any insult from that government, which would compel Mexico to administer a deserved punishment by force of arms. There the matter rests for the time. That is why there is no war. It is only a temporary condition, however."

President Diaz made this important statement: "The problem of the Central American republics is a great one that, for the benefit of their salvation, must be settled sooner or later. It is none of my business and I am not ambitious to settle it. Nevertheless, I have an idea. I believe the best solution would be an amalgamation of all the Central American countries into one strong government, under a man with enough strength of character and honest common sense to hold in check the revolutionary spirit that has done so much to retard the progress and development of these countries. Mexico is willing at any time to co-operate with the United States in a protectorate over them and in any measure that will be beneficial. I want it distinctly understood, however, that there must be no thought or act of territorial acquisition in this compact. Mexico wants no addition. It is big enough now."

SHOCKED BY THE WRECK

sician, "Give her my love and let me know how she is."

Mrs. Ellenbogen in return sent a message of love to her husband, with the assurance that she was all right.

Before the physician could carry another message, both had passed away.

Dr. Ware was compelled to use driftwood for pillows, and cut up the sheets on the train for bandages.

H. Thornton, the head of a large party of Shriners from Meridian, Miss., who came through from Los Angeles on the second section of the wrecked special, is at a hotel here. He is a railroad man of many years' experience, and is not satisfied that the disaster was caused by a defective switch. According to his statement the sleepers were not badly affected by the wreck, and are largely intact. They were flung in every direction, one of them ahead of the engine, but they did not collapse.

The train which carried the Shriners doomed to death in the wreck left Los Angeles ten minutes after the Islam Temple special. By some unaccountable working of fate, the first train passed safely, at a mile a minute clip, over the very spot at which the following train was wrecked.

After the wreck, Conductor Jones climbed the nearest telegraph pole, and, with a telegraph instrument provided for such purposes, succeeded in tapping one of the dispatcher's wires. Connected with the San Luis Obispo division office, he told of the wreck. The men at the other end of the line doubted his story, believing some one was playing a prank, but consternation followed, when, in confirmation of his identity, the conductor read a copy of his last order. The news was immediately sent to Santa Barbara and other points.

MAY FILL UP JURY ROOM

Thursday shows seventy-five farmers or ranchmen, the remainder being people of business, many of them prominent business men. The men who have been confined in the "jury house" under the care of four deputy sheriffs since Thursday afternoon and who took their places in the jury box were: No. 1, A. L. Ewing, carpenter; No. 2, W. M. Van Orsdale, grocer; No. 3, Samuel D. Gilman, farmer; No. 5, J. L. Waggoner, farmer; No. 6, George Walker, butcher; No. 7, George H. McIntyre, farmer; No. 8, W. N. Rudge, farmer; No. 9, Ora Cole, miner; No. 10, W. W. Bisby, real estate; No. 11, Samuel A. Wingate, irrigation employe; No. 12, Samuel F. Russell, farmer. Of these, Ewing, Van Orsdale and Gilman went through the examination of opposing counsel last Thursday without disqualifying themselves.

Several men were called into seat No. 4, but one after another they were disqualified under the questioning of the attorneys for the defense. It was the inability to find a suitable juror at No. 4 that caused exhaustion of the regular panel.

It was said at the beginning of today's proceedings that not more than two of the eleven men in the jury box will be members of the trial panel. The residents of the country districts, examined last Thursday, said they read of Governor Steunenberg's death and talked about it casually with their families and friends for a time, but that discussion of the matter ceased many months ago. They had all read of President Roosevelt's "undesirable citizens" letter, but in no instance did a prospective juror say that the letter had influenced his judgment or prejudiced him in any way against the prisoners.

Another significant feature of the examination of talesmen was the fact that the attorneys for the defense were unable to unearth here any feeling among the country folk against any particular labor union or against trades unionism in general.

Most of the farmers visited by the sheriff in summoning the new venire were taken by surprise. Those who had taken any interest whatsoever in the case had been confident that the jury would be selected from the men already summoned for the April term of court which still continues. If the other jurymen were necessary, it was the belief in the country districts that the sheriff would summon men from the city to complete the panel.

The opening address of the prosecution probably will be delivered by James H. Hawley, leading counsel for the prosecution. Just how far the state's attorneys will go in outlining the case they hope to prove against Haywood is problematical. They may choose to state their case in a most general way, giving no actual hint of the testimony they claim to have, or the opening address may be a proposition as broad as the attorneys will be permitted to set out.

Interest in the trial continues to center in the personality and testimony of Harry Orchard who is alleged to have killed Governor Steunenbery and on whose confession William Haywood and his associates in the dictorate of the Western Federation of Miners were indicted. Speculation as to the time of his appearance is idle until the jury is formed, but it is believed that he will be called after the death of Steunenberg has been proved, and that his testimony will be the main foundation upon which the prosecution will build. Meantime he is a closely guarded prisoner in the state penitentiary in the eastern suburbs of the city. Various reports of efforts to reach or kill him are in circulation, the last being a tale from Lewiston of a plot alleged to have been formed months ago to shoot him from the hills back of the prison. These stories lack confirmation, but they serve to tighten the vigilance of Warden Whitney and his deputies.

Reports from the prison say that Orchard is in good health and condition; that he continues his reading along religious lines; that he will unquestionably repeat his confession in court; that he is ready for the fate made certain by this confession.

WHEAT HITS DOLLAR MARK

Higher and higher went wheat, with only occasional declines. The setbacks did not really stop the steady climb of prices, however.

When the farmers should have been seeding in the Northwest, they were kept idle by cold weather. When spring should have been here in earnest, there were blizzards, and the time might have been January instead of April or May.

The government report of the condition of wheat on the first of April was distinctly bullish, showing a poorer condition than for the year before, but it was the government report on the condition of wheat on the first of May, issued last week, that gave the wheat such an impetus toward the dollar mark and attracted the attention of a public which had been hitherto oblivious to the steady climbing that had been going on.

The season is very late in the Northwest, the green bug and bad weather have played havoc with the Southwestern crop, and reports of damage to the crop come from Germany and Austria-Hungary, so it is no wonder that a big bull movement, such as has not been seen since the "black rust" flurry of a few years ago, is on.

Wheat already high at the close Saturday, started up again this morning, on palpably bullish news.

Snow was reported in parts of the Dakotas and Manitoba, the world's shipments were quite a little smaller than estimated, and the foreign markets were up four and five cents.

So wheat simply soared.

The public is now in the market in a speculative way and this makes it all the more sensitive to news of a bullish character.

The effect of dollar wheat in the Northwest will be very beneficial to the farmers at least. The wheat crop of the Northwest is approximately 180,000,000 bushels a year. An advance of a cent a bushel in the price means $1,800,000 and twenty cents advance means just twenty times that much. It spells prosperity for the farmers who can raise good wheat crops this year.

But the other side of the story is the advance in the price of flour. It jumped thirty cents a barrel Saturday, for wholesale lots, and the retail price will doubtless follow.

Chicago, May 13.—Wheat took a tremendous jump at the opening of the board of trade today, initial prices showing a gain on the leading options 1½c to 8c. The latter advance being on the December delivery which sold at $1.03.

The opening on the board was the wildest and most excited that has been seen in several years. The predictions made by the bulls Saturday night that "dollar wheat" would soon be a reality was brought about within a few calls after the opening, both September and December selling above the predicted price. December going as high as $1.03. The trade was too big and too broad to follow exactly, but every commission house was stacked up with orders to buy wheat at the market price. The feeling in the country that the winter wheat crop has been badly hurt was even stronger than on Saturday and the demand came from all parts of the United States.

Many traders realized heavily on the enormous bulge at the opening, but the big demand continued and the selling had apparently, not the slightest effect. Prices continued to advance steadily. Liverpool was reported strong and there was a sharp advance at Minneapolis because of small world's shipments and unfavorable weather in the Northwest.

At 10 o'clock July wheat was selling at 96¾c and September at 97½c, both having dropped back somewhat under selling pressure.

The scene on the board of trade for the first hour after the opening was the liveliest that has been witnessed there since the collapse of the Leiter corner in 1898. Brokers made the most frantic efforts to fill orders for wheat but in many cases were unable to buy within 2 or 3 cents of the expected price, so rapid were the fluctuations.

The entire country seemed to be back of the buying movement and, although the conservative traders on the local board seemed to be largely of the opinion that the advance was too abrupt to hold, the flood of buying orders from the country continued and it was evident that for some time at least the market would have ample support.

At 10:45 the buying pressure which was responsible for the wild opening of the market was less urgent. Long wheat was being thrown upon the market in large quantities, and prices were much steadier. The excitement had so far subsided that it was possible for traders to execute orders with some degree of certainty. The market at this time had reacted considerably. December wheat was down to 99c—4c below the high mark. September was selling at 93¼c and July at 96c. The May option was nominally 90½c.

The market was comparatively quiet after 11 o'clock and prices held steady around 96c for July and 97¾c for September. Numerous reports poured in from the Southwest as to the amount of damage done by the green bug and the buying orders from the country continued in unabated volume. Professional traders, however, sold heavily and threw much long grain upon the market. At 11:30 o'clock July was 96c and September 97¾c, the prices not having varied materially within half an hour.

HUGE LOSS BY THE STRIKE

loss in wages to the longshoremen also runs into seven figures.

Neither side has thus far shown any disposition to surrender, but the prediction was made that one side or the other must give way, as the strike is paralyzing the ocean freight traffic of the port—a condition that merchants cannot long permit to continue.

According to the strike leaders, 30,000 stevedores are on strike in Manhattan, Brooklyn and Hoboken and, considering the number of men out, the strike is remarkable for the lack of disorder. There have been a few instances of disorder, but these have been easily controlled by the police.

The Civic Federation, despite the rebuffs of last week, will this week renew its attempts to settle the strike by arbitration. In this connection, it is stated that Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, influential with workingmen generally, has been called upon to endeavor to bring about a peace conference. He is in Washington and it is expected he will reply today to the messages sent him on the subject. The strikers, it is believed, are ready to fall into line for arbitration, but they want the steamship owners to take the initiative. They believe any move in this direction by them would be construed as a sign of weakness.

A feature of the strike in the last few hours was the desertion of between 200 and 300 strikebreakers from the White Star line docks. The men grew tired of being cooped up on the docks and left to go to their families. It is feared that the dissension will spread to the strikebreakers on the other piers.

President Connors of the longshoremen's union says he expects the tidewater boat men, who tow the coal barges from the pockets to the steamers to strike in sympathy today. He also expects that the grain elevator men will strike today. Should these movements occur the shipping embargo will become more serious than ever.

IRON IMPORTED IN GREAT LOTS

Eighty Per Cent Increase in April Over March Recorded.

New York, May 13.—Because of the great demand for raw material used in the manufacture of steel all records were broken last month in the imports of iron ore and pig iron. Through New York and other Eastern seaboard points no less than 210,780 tons arrived in April, being an increase of more than 80 per cent when compared with the imports during March. The shipments came from Cuba, Europe and Africa, while pig iron was sent here from Russia and China. Sweden sent 3,403 tons also, this being the first lot of Scandinavian ore ever imported into this country.

OPEN SWITCH CAUSES WRECK

Engineer and Fireman Dying, and Passengers Bruised.

Columbus, May 13.—Dashing through an open switch at Truro station, twelve miles southeast, today, the West Virginia express on the Ohio Central road was derailed. John Davis of Truro station, who was walking beside the track, was killed and a number of trainmen were more or less injured. Most of the passengers escaped with a few bruises. Michael Martin, the engineer, was pinned under his engine and will die as will also Dan Martin, the fireman, and an unknown woman. A special coach holding members of the Red Men going to Marietta was not derailed, but a number of the members of the order were slightly injured. The conductor, who was badly hurt, proved a hero by rushing through the escaping steam and pulling the dying engineer from under his engine.

DERELICT WAR MINE ENDS THIRTEEN JAP FISHERS.

Victoria, B. C., May 13.—News of the destruction of a Japanese fishing boat, with the loss of thirteen lives, as the result of an explosion of a derelict war mine, off Thyema, was brought by the Rio Jun. The fishermen mistook the mine for an oil drum, and were trying to pick it up when it exploded, smashing their schooner. Of all on board, only one escaped.

KUROKI SEES GREAT PARADE

Japanese General Reviews Troops and Marines at Jamestown.

Norfolk, Va., May 13.—Gen. Baron Kuroki of Japan arrived at Old Point Comfort at 6:15 this morning, and was greeted with a salute of seventeen guns. After breakfast the general and party proceeded by special boat to review the great fleet of American and foreign warships in Hampton roads, after which they landed at the Jamestown exposition grounds for the exercises of the day, which include an address by President Harry St. George Tucker of the Jamestown exposition company, and a parade and review of the federal troops at the exposition together with several thousand sailors landed from the American and foreign warships in Hampton Roads.

At noon a salute of 300 guns was fired in Hampton Roads commemorative of the landing of the first English settlers May 13, 1607. Gen. Kuroki and his party will later inspect Fortress Monroe and the festivities of the day will conclude with a ball and dinner tonight by the duke of the Abruzzi on the Italian flagship Varese.

DROVE HERE FROM IOWA

D. R. M'Kinley Takes a Trip Behind Team of Horses.

Covered the Distance From St Angers in Twelve Days.

D. R. McKinley of Fifty-fourth avenue west, returned home Saturday evening after a rather singular experience. He drove a team of horses from St. Angers, Iowa, where he had been for about a month past, to West Duluth.

Mr. McKinley had a hard trip, as one of his horses became ill on the road, and progress was consequently slow. Bad roads were encountered in some places, but his destination was finally reached with the horses in fairly good shape. He had been about twelve days on the road.

BEFORE COUNCIL TONIGHT.

"Owl" Car Question Will Probably Be Decided Soon.

The "owl" car question is cutting a considerable figure in West Duluth, and the action of the council and the street railway company is being rather anxiously awaited by West Duluth residents, who might have occasion to avail themselves of the late service. Tonight the city attorney will probably report to the council its powers to force the street railway to run the "owl" cars, and if the report should be unfavorable, the matter will be taken up with the street railway company direct.

West Duluth people want the hourly service all night, if possible, but should it fail to go through, a compromise will probably be effected. An hourly car has been suggested, but either of those would not be as satisfaceory as the "owl" car service, and an effort will be made to secure the latter if it is at all possible.

The Ramsey street pavement petition will also be presented to the council, and it is expected some action will be taken. More than a sufficient number of signatures have been secured, and it is believed the council will take favorable action.

Funeral of Mrs. Howell.

STANDARD OIL TRIALS IN OHIO DELAYED MONTH.

Findlay, Ohio, May 13.—The initial trial against the Standard Oil Company of Ohio, which was to have been called before Judge Duncan today, was postponed until possibly the week beginning June 10, because the circuit court will convene here on Tuesday of next week, and it is expected that some decisions will be secured from this court that will permit the Standard Oil trials to go on with less quibbling on technical questions.

RAILROADS

CHARGE FOR DIVERTING

Eastern Lines Want Pay for Cars Held too Long.

Stop Usage of Cars for Grain Storage Purposes.

All railroad lines east of Chicago will, after June 15, levy a charge of $2 on every car of grain that is held beyond forty-eight hours and then diverted. The practice of allowing cars to be held at diversion points for a certain period without additional expense beyond the usual car service charges, usually for the accommodation of jobbers, that they may sell the grain in transit, has been observed for fifteen years. It was started by weaker lines, and competition forced the practice upon bigger roads.

Some of the roads claim the charge should be even higher. The diverting privilege has had a demoralizing effect upon the grain business, to say nothing of the effect upon the car situation. It is a reform that can be appreciated all the more when it is known that 90 per cent of the grain shipped by rail today is subject to this diversion. In the face of this $2 charge the Eastern brokers will probably order cars shipped more direct.

There are no cities east of Cleveland that have big warehouses for the storage of grain, or that carry big supplies of grain. When jobbers are compelled to cease using cars for storage purposes at diverting points, the roads will find the car shortage situation considerably relieved. The New York Central has had at times a shortage of 2,000 to 5,000 cars a day, with as high as 1,000 cars of grain held by brokers all the way from Chicago to Buffalo. At the same time Buffalo yards were blocked with grain, and all this was under ordinary circumstances.

Owing to an increase in traffic, the Northern Pacific has decided to reorganize the operating department of the system. Third Vice President C. M. Levey, with headquarters at Tacoma, Wash., will be transferred to St. Paul, to be in charge of maintenance and operation of all the lines.

General Manager H. J. Horn will continue to make his headquarters in St. Paul, and will be in charge of maintenance and operation in Montana, North Dakota, Minnesota and Wisconsin. H. C. Nutt is appoited general manager in charge of maintenance and operation of all lines in Washington, Idaho and Oregon, with headquarters at Tacoma. Rate of One Fare.

In view of the ruling of the interstate commerce commission that it is illegal for the railroads to include in their rates for the annual meeting of the National Educational association the sum of $2 as membership fee, to be paid to the officers of the association, the lines in the Central Passenger association have agreed to make a rate of one fare for the round trip from all points in its territory to Los Angeles, provided the Transcontinental association revises its rates in accordance with the commission's ruling, eliminating the $2 membership fee. Some of the Western lines are objecting to such a change.

MORE CARS PUT ON FRISCO LINES

United Railroads People Beleive Strike Has Been Broken.

San Francisco, May 13.—Street cars were run today through the city to the ferry at the foot of Market street. No disturbance occurred on the early runs, and the United Railroads will put many more cars on during the day. The success which attended the efforts to run cars yesterday having prompted them to enlarge the service today.

The board of supervisors will now insist that the railroads must operate their lines in the interest of the public, threatening that if this is not done at once the municipality will itself restores the traffic. The company says it has now enough men to run its entire system and large numbers of men are arriving daily from the East.

THE FIRST SPRING RAIN

Storm Was General Over Minnesota and the Dakotas.

Shower Will do Much Toward Clearing Woods of Snow.

Duluth's first spring rain of the year was falling at an early hour this morning and was welcomed by citizens in general. The rainfall started during the night and kept up steadily until about 8 o'clock, when it ceased and the sun made an ineffectual attempt to struggle through the clouds.

Although the northeast wind off the lake was cold the rain was of the spring variety, the kind that will make the grass grow and leaves begin to come out on the trees. All day yesterday, Duluth people expected rain, and last night flashes of lightning could be seen to the southwest, but the thunder storm was too far away and the cars of Duluth people were unable to detect it.

The rain storm, however, was general over the Northwest this morning, including Wisconsin, Minnesota, the Dakotas and parts of Montana and Colorado. In the western parts of North and South Dakota, and Colorado and Montana there was snow in most places instead of rain.

The northeast wind was blowing off the lake at a rate of about thirty miles an hour for the greater part of the time yesterday and today. The greatest velocity reached was last evening, when the wind blew a gale of thirty-six miles an hour.

All over the Upper Mississippi valley districts warmer temperatures were recorded yesterday and today. At St. Paul the mercury was up to the 46 deg. mark early this morning. At La Crosse it was 66 and over Iowa the average was about 60 degs. The weather man does not hold out any promise that the warmer temperatures will continue for long, however. He says that it is already colder in Western Canada and this probably means a like condition at Duluth in a day or two.

One thing which the people on the range and over Northern Minnesota in general will be thankful for, is that the rain will start the snow in the woods going.

On account of the thickness of the trees in the wooded districts, the sun has been unable to get at the snow, but the warm rain of this morning is expected to start it coming over the hillside in torrents. Reports of swollen streams may be expected from this time forward.

BUILDING IS RESUMED

Nearly All Men in Building Trades Are Working.

Contractors and Sheet Metal Workers Still Have Differences.

Building operations throughout the city were generally resumed today after a delay of nearly two weeks as a result of the strike of the building laborers. All of the men, with the exception of the sheet metal workers have gone back to work, the differences between the electricians and the employers having been settled late Saturday.

Although the conference committee composed of representatives of the contractors and also the unions agreed upon a settlement of the demands of the sheet metal workers, the employers have so far refused to sign the agreement and the men are still out on strike. About thirty-six are concerned in this misunderstanding. The compromise reached by the conference committee allowed the men an increase from 45 cents to 47½ cents, when they had asked for 50 cents an hour. It it claimed that the conference committee had full power to bring about any kind of an agreement and the unionists do not understand why the contractors now refuse to sign the new scale.

A compromise was also decided upon between the electricians and the contractors at the meeting held Saturday night. The electricians will receive $3.65 for an eight-hour day, and although the union men will not work with the non-union men, the latter will be taken into the union provided they can pass a satisfactory examination. The first demands of the electricians were for $4 a day, but they have been willing to compromise ever since the strike started.

It is believed that the trouble between the contractors and the sheet metal workers will soon be settled and the men will go back to work. The difficulty is said to have arisen over the rules of the union and is of a minor character. Meetings will be held this afternonn and a settlement will undoubtedly soon be reached.

All of the members of the carpenters' union and those of the building laborers and roofers seem to be satisfied with the result of the conferences and will hold to the agreement reached. Most of the men returned to work before the end of last week and practically everybody was working today, except in cases where the weather interrupted operations.

DELIVERIES DELAYED

Rush of Orders Has Tied Up Coal Companies.

People Hold Back Their Orders to the Last Minute.

It is nearly the middle of May and a rush of coal orders has hardly been expected at the offices of the various coal companies in Duluth. But it is a fact that during the past week the coal companies have been kept busy supplying the calls of Duluthians for fuel.

Of course the weather is to blame for it.

Hoping that the supply of coal purchased for the winter would last until warm weather arrived, citizens of Duluth have postponed buying a supply for the spring until the last minute.

The result is a hurry-up order sent in to some coal company's office. It is usually a small order as just enough coal is wanted to last for a few days until warmer weather comes. But it consumes a good deal of the delivery department of the coal company's time and the result is there has been a considerable delay in filling the orders.

Since the opening of interlake navigation two weeks ago there has been no lack of a coal supply in Duluth and the only trouble is in the delay in the orders to Duluth people.

Although great quantities of the fuel are constnatly being shipped West from the coal docks, the coal receipts are now very heavy, and there is no danger, whatever, of a coal famine at the Head of the Lakes.

MURDER OF ITALIAN CONNECTED WITH STRIKE.

New York, May 13.—The identification today of the body of an Italian, murdered in the basement of 333 Columbia street, Brooklyn, last night, as that of Thomas Beepoly, a longshoreman, formerly employed by the Ward line, led the police to believe that it was connected with the longshoremen's strike. Marco de Celo, an Italian, seen coming out of the building wearing a blood-stained hat, was arrested, and his underclothing was found to be stained with blood.

Guiseppe Argentina, who lived in the apartment house, told the police that Beepoly was his guest early in the evening, and other residents said they had been awakened by screams during the night, but did not investigate. Argentina was arrested.

DREDGEMEN LOSE CASES

Harbor Workers Held Not Under Federal Eight Hour Law.

Contracts for $87,000,000 of Improvements Now to be Let.

Washington, May 13.—Justice Holmes of the United States supreme court today, announced the decision of the court in seven cases involving the construction of the eight-hour law of 1892 by which the employment of laborers and mechanics on public works is limited to eight hours per day.

The defendants were all prosecuted criminally and were all found guilty and fined by the trial court. The suits were instituted especially to test the applicability of the law to laborers and mechanics employed on dredges in river and harbor improvements, but other points also were necessarily involved. The courts held the law to be constitutional, but held that it did not apply to laborers and mechanics on dredges and that men so employed cannot be held to be employed upon public works.

Justice Holmes' opinion was based on the cases of William H. Ellis and the Eastern Dredging company vs. the United States and all the others were decided along the same lines. Justice Moody delivered a dissenting opinion.

The decision will have immediate bearing upon the letting of contracts for the $87,000,000 worth of river and harbor work authorized by the last session of congress, most of the contracts having been held up by the war department pending the settlement of the cases.

WHEAT LIVELY IN NEW YORK

Prices Open Above Dollar and Fluctuations Are Violent.

New York, May 13.—"Dollar wheat" on the Chicago board of trade today was reflected in a violent advance on the produce exchange here, where trading assumed tremendous proportions amid much excitement. The entrance of the public into the local grain market was a feature of the day's trading.

July wheat opened at $1.00¾ to $1.03½, an advance of 4c over Saturday's close, while September opened at $1.01 and $1.03⅝, an advance of 4c over the close Saturday. December jumped from $1.05 to $1.05¾ at the opening, having closed Saturday at $1.01¾. In the first hour of trading, it is estimated over 2,000,000 bushels were bought or sold in the pit. Severe losses are said to have been sustained by belated shorts.

Liverpool gave warning of the upward movement by sending over higher prices. Reports from the British grain market indicated a panicky condition for the first time in years, because of the gloomy advices from Russia and other continental countries on the wheat crop. When the gong sounded for the opening today, there was a wild rush to execute orders for both the long and short accounts. Fluctuations were violent and in some instances a cent apart. The local bulls vigorously pressed their advantage and bid up prices.

Youth's Companion: The Harmon twins looked so much alike as babies that their parents could scarcely tell them apart. As they grew older it became evident that to Grandmother Harmon at least the twins were a unit.

"You were asking me how much the twins weigh," said Grandmother Harmon to a neighbor. "When I went out that afternoon I put one of them on the scales at the grocery, and found they weigh just twenty-six pounds."

"Do they always weight exactly the same?" inquired the neighbor, and Grandmother Harmon looked quite impatient.

"The twins?" she said. "Of course; why not?"

The neighbor had no reason to give, but she rebelled a few days later when in answer to her inquiry Grandmother Harmon said:

"'Where are the twins? O, they got a cinder in one of their eyes, and their mother has taken them down to the oculist's to have it removed, they were fussing so over it."

Norfolk, Va., May 13.—Gen. Baron Kuroki of Japan arrived at Old Point Comfort at 6:15 this morning, and was greeted with a salute of seventeen guns. After breakfast the general and party proceeded by special boat to review the great fleet of American and foreign warships in Hampton roads, after which they landed at the Jamestown exposition grounds for the exercises of the day, which include an address by President Harry St. George Tucker of the Jamestown exposition company, and a parade and review of the federal troops at the exposition together with several thousand sailors landed from the American and foreign warships in Hampton Roads.

At noon a salute of 300 guns was fired in Hampton Roads commemorative of the landing of the first English settlers May 13, 1607. Gen. BEFORE COUNCIL TONIGHT.

"Owl" Car Question Will Probably Be Decided Soon.

The "owl" car question is cutting a considerable figure in West Duluth, and the action of the council and the street railway company is being rather anxiously awaited by West Duluth residents, who might have occasion to avail themselves of the late service. Tonight the city attorney will probably report to the council his powers to force the street railway to run the "owl" cars, and if the report should be unfavorable, the matter will be taken up with the street railway company direct.

West Duluth people want the hourly service all night, if possible, but should it fail to go through, a compromise will probably be effected. An hourly car has been suggested, but either of those would not be as satisfaceory as the "owl" car service, and an effort will be made to secure the latter if it is at all possible.

The Ramsey street pavement petition will also be presented to the council, and it is expected some action will be taken. More than a sufficient number of signatures have been secured, and it is believed the council will take favorable action.

RAILROADS

CHARGE FOR DIVERTING

Eastern Lines Want Pay for Cars Held too Long.

Stop Usage of Cars for Grain Storage Purposes.

All railroad lines east of Chicago will, after June 15, levy a charge of $2 on every car of grain that is held beyond forty-eight hours and then diverted. The practice of allowing cars to be held at diversion points for a certain period without additional expense beyond the usual car service charges, usually for the accommodation of jobbers, that they may sell the grain in transit, has been observed for firteen years. It was started by weaker lines, and competition forced the practice upon bigger roads.

Some of the roads claim the charge should be even higher. The diverting privilege has had a demoralizing effect upon the grain business, to say nothing of the effect upon the car situation. It is a reform that can be appreciated all the more when it is known that 90 per cent of the grain shipped by rail today is subject to this diversion. In the face of this $2 charge the Eastern brokers will probably order cars shipped more direct.

There are no cities east of Cleveland that have big warehouses for the storage of grain, or that carry big supplies of grain. When jobbers are compelled to cease using cars for storage purposes at diverting points, the roads will find the car shortage situation considerably relieved. The New York Central has had at times a shortage of 2,000 to 5,000 cars a day, with as high as 1,000 cars of grain held by brokers all the way from Chicago to Buffalo. At the same time Buffalo yards were blocked with grain, and all this was under ordinary circumstances.

DELIVERIES DELAYED

Rush of Orders Has Tied Up Coal Companies.

People Hold Back Their Orders to the Last Minute.

It is nearly the middle of May and a rush of coal orders has hardly been expected at the offices of the various coal companies in Duluth. But it is a fact that during the past week the coal companies have been kept busy supplying the calls of Duluthians for fuel.

Of course the weather is to blame for it.

Hoping that the supply of coal purchased for the winter would last until warm weather arrived, citizens of Duluth have postponed buying a supply for the spring until the last minute.

The result is a hurry-up order sent in to some coal company's office. It is usually a small order as just enough coal is wanted to last for a few days until warmer weather comes. But it consumes a good deal of the delivery department of the coal company's time and the result is there has been a considerable delay in filling the orders.

Since the opening of interlake navigation two weeks ago there has been no lack of a coal supply in Duluth and the only trouble is in the delay in the orders to Duluth people.

Although great quantities of the fuel are constnatly being shipped West from the coal docks, the coal receipts are now very heavy, and there is no danger, whatever, of a coal famine at the Head of the Lakes.

MURDER OF ITALIAN CONNECTED WITH STRIKE.

New York, May 13.—The identification today of the body of an Italian, murdered in the basement of 333 Columbia street, Brooklyn, last night, as that of Thomas Beepoly, a longshoreman, formerly employed by the Ward line, led the police to believe that it was connected with the longshoremen's strike. Marco de Celo, an Italian, seen coming out of the building wearing a blood-staained hat, was arrested, and his underclothing was found to be stained with blood.

Guiseppe Argentina, who lived in the apartment house, told the police that Beepoly was his guest early in the evening, and other residents said they had been awakened by screams during the night, but did not investigate. Argentina was arrested.

DREDGEMEN LOSE CASES

Harbor Workers Held Not Under Federal Eight Hour Law.

Contracts for $87,000,000 of Improvements Now to be Let.

Washington, May 13.—Justice Holmes of the United States supreme court today, announced the decision of the court in seven cases involving the construction of the eight-hour law of 1892 by which the employment of laborers and mechanics on public works is limited to eight hours per day.

The defendants were all prosecuted criminally and were all found guilty and fined by the trial court. The suits were instituted especially to test the applicability of the law to laborers and mechanics employed on dredges in river and harbor improvements, but other points also were necessarily involved. The courts held the law to be constitutional, but held that it did not apply to laborers and mechanics on dredges and that men so employed cannot be held to be employed upon public works.

Justice Holmes' opinion was based on the cases of William H. Ellis and the Eastern Dredging company vs. the United States and all the others were decided along the same lines, Justice Moody delivered a dissenting opinion.

The decision will have immediate bearing upon the letting of contracts for the $87,000,000 worth of river and harbor work authorized by the last session of congress, most of the contracts having been held up by the war department pending the settlement of the cases.

WHEAT LIVELY IN NEW YORK

Prices Open Above Dollar and Fluctuations Are Violent.

New York, May 13.—"Dollar wheat" on the Chicago board of trade today was reflected in a violent advance on the produce exchange here, where trading assumed tremendous proportions amid much excitement. The entrance of the public into the local grain market was a feature of the day's trading.

July wheat opened at $1.00¾ to $1.03½, an advance of 4c over Saturday's close, while September opened at $1.01 and $1.03⅝, an advance of 4c over the close Saturday. December jumped from $1.05 to $1.05¾ at the opening, having closed Saturday at $1.01¾. In the first hour of trading, it is estimated over 2,000,000 bushels were bought or sold in the pit. Severe losses are said to have been sustained by belated shorts.

Liverpool gave warning of the upward movement by sending over higher prices. Reports from the British grain market indicated a panicky condition for the first time in years, because of the gloomy advices from Russia and other continental countries on the wheat crop. When the gong sounded for the opening today, there was a wild rush to execute orders for both the long and short accounts. Fluctuations were violent and in some instances a cent apart. The local bulls vigorously pressed their advantage and bid up prices.

ARRESTED AMERICAN RELEASED WITHOUT TRIAL.

Warsaw, Russian Poland, May 13.—The naturalized American citizen, named Dembrowski, who was brought here in custody from Lublin, April 20, was released today without a trial and without any explanation of the reason for his imprisonment.

Dombrowski was arrested last month by the authorities of Lublin, and after being taken to Warsaw, was confined there in the overcrowded prison for suspects. The local authorities of Warsaw expressed the opinion that he had been conducting political agitations, and promised to investigate the matter. Otherwise, nothing was known of the charge against the man.

THE TWINS.

Youth's Companion: The Harmon twins looked so much alike as babies that their parents could scarcely tell them apart. As they grew older it became evident that to Grandmother Harmon at least the twins were a unit.

"You were asking me how much the twins weigh," said Grandmother Harmon to a neighbor. "When I went out that afternoon I put one of them on the scales at the grocery, and found they weigh just twenty-six pounds."

"Do they always weight exactly the same?" inquired the neighbor, and Grandmother Harmon looked quite impatient.

"The twins?" she said. "Of course; why not?"

The neighbor had no reason to give, but she rebelled a few days later when in answer to her inquiry Grandmother Harmon said:

"'Where are the twins? O, they got a cinder in one of their eyes, and their mother has taken them down to the oculist's to have it removed, they were fussing so over it."

FORAKER DENIES ANY OHIO DEAL

Senator Declares Willingness to Accept Convention's Decision.

Washington, May 13.—Senator Foraker of Ohio issued last night a statement on the Ohio situation in reply to Congressman Burton saying that so far as he (Foraker) knew, no effort whatever had been made to make a deal, bargain or compromise with anybody about anything; that the statement issued by George B. Cox of Cincinnati was not in Mr. Foraker's interest or with his approval, but he thought Mr. Cox was striving for party harmony and he (Foraker) was willing to accept the results of the convention should it act favorably on Mr. Cox's recommendations. The senator says all questions of endorsement and nomination should be deferred until the next state convention and he will not regard as binding any action taken meanwhile by any individual or committee not authorized to settle these questions for Ohio Republicans.

MELLEN COUP BIGGEST EVER

Secures Control of System Greater Than the Milwaukee's.

Boston, Mass., May 13.—President Charles H. Mellen of the New York & Hartford, or "New Haven System," as it is known, former president of the Northern Pacific, is just concluding the final details of one of the greatest coups in Eastern railroad history.

He has secured practical control of the Boston & Maine system, which includes the Fitchburg, Maine Central, Boston & Maine and Boston & Lowell roads, with several smaller lines, through a purchase of stock, and combined them with several large holdings, owing to the widely scattered nature of the smaller holders. He required only about one-third the entire capitalization of $28,000,000 to do this.

His road has secured by purchase the holdings of the New York Central and American Express company, and will exchange share for share New Haven stock for Boston & Maine stock. A public announcement through Boston bankers probably will be made shortly.

The Gen. gives him sway over 7,418 miles of track, besides a vast system of trolley lines and several big coastwise steamship companies, incorporated as subsidiary to the New Haven. It makes his system greater than the Milwaukee's, and second only to the Pennsylvania with the Vanderbilt Rock Island-Harriman and Hill lines, the only larger combinations.

TIDE OF IMMIGRATION BREAKS RECORDS MONTHLY.

New York, May 13.—Now high water marks for the influx of European immigrants are being recorded each month. Already May bids fair to far outstrip April when 103,452 immigrants poured through the gateway of New York. Five Trans-Atlantic liners brought in over 5,000 immigrants Saturday and officials at Ellis Island say that there are no signs of cessation of this European invasion.

Most of the immigrants come from Southern and Middle Europe, but a lesser current has its source in Scandinavia and Germany. Italy, Austria-Hungary and the lower Russias now supply more than one-half of all the immigrants seeking homes in this country.

Under the new laws the class of people is better. During the last month the steamship companies turned back 6,000 would-be immigrants at the ports of embarkation. The steamship lines now investigate each immigrant before he embarks and this has aided the government in keeping out undesirable elements. Nearly all are industrial workers and few go to farms.

QUEEN TO NURSE SON.

Woman Wins Signal Victory in Face of Spanish Traditions.

Madrid, May 13.—Queen Victoria of Spain has won the greatest battle ever waged by a woman and a mother for her rights. She has given the royal Spanish customs and traditions of centuries a death blow. She is to nurse the prince of the Asturias, just as any ordinary American or English mother would, had the infant been born a mere common baby instead of heir to the house of Bourbon, with its crown and its scepter and its ever-menacing specter of a gaunt-eyed bomb thrower in perspective. Altogether, it is the most signal victory ever won by woman in modern history.

WRECK DEAD NUMBER 32

Terrible Disaster Befalls Mystic Shriner Special Train.

Reading, Pa., Loses Noted Citizens—Stories of Heroism.

Santa Barbara, Cal., May 13.—Thirty-two lives were lost and more than a score injured in the terrible wreck of a special Mystic Shriners train on the coast line of the Southern Pacific railroad Saturday afternoon.

The victims were homeward bound after a week of fraternizing and fiesta in Los Angeles and were part of 145 Shriners of Ismalia temple of Buffalo and Rajah temple of Reading, with their families and friends.

The special train, running fifty miles an hour, struck a defective switch at Honda, a lonely station on the sand wastes of the Pacific beach, smashing the coaches to flinders and causing fire to break out.

The dead at Santa Barbara include J. Douglass Hipple, Reading, Pa.; H. K. Gittleman, Reading, Pa.; A. L. Roth, Reading, Pa.; Gilbert Steffe, Reading; W. D. Wasson, Buffalo; J. W. Cutler and wife, Binghamton, N. Y.; Charles M. Lowing, Pullman conductor, Buffalo, N. Y.; C. W. Austin, New York, agent for McCann's Tourist company, New York; John Lacey, negro dining car waiter; R. W. Sweeney, negro dining car waiter; Mrs. William W. Essick, Reading; Mrs. Henry J. Fisher, Cleveland; Miss Cora Young, Cleveland; Mrs. Brumach, Reading; George N. Hagerman, Reading; Benjamin Stoltz, Reading; Harrison R. Hendel, Reading; Oliver F. Kaufman, Reading; Harry G. Miller, Reading; Charles S. Henry, Lebanon, Pa.

At San Luis Obispo 21—S. Snyder and wife, Reading; Richard Essick, Reading; Thomas J. Prunlach, Reading; Miss Stoltz, Reading; L. N. Ellenbogen and wife, Allentown, Pa.; Howard Meyer, Hazleton, Pa.; Alonzo B. Rogers, St. Paul, Minn., Pullman conductor; Brakeman, S. A. Bickford; unidentified woman, probably Mrs. Mary C. Ivins, Reading.

Injured at San Luis Obispo: R. Fountain, brakeman, back injured and the lower part of his body paralyzed; W. H. Boyd, Reading, Pa., badly scalded; Martin L. Henry, Shamokin, Pa., injured spine and severely scalded; F. R. Lee, Chambersburg, Pa., face lacerated, both hips cut and fractured leg; J. Logan, Buffalo, N. Y., leg fractured and three ribs broken; H. A. Hartsel, Easton, Pa., severely scalded and fractured leg; Charles McKinney, Binghingham, N. Y., back scalded; Mrs. McKinney, severely bruised about the body; Mrs. Fred Greenwood, Binghamton, ankle broken; A. W. Ropple, Bemus Point, N. Y., severely bruised about neck; Engineer Champlain, badly scalded; Fireman Glenn Thompson, face, arms and internal injuries; Mrs. Hendel and daughter Helen, Reading, Pa., not serious; Galvin Heffelfl, Reading, Pa., left leg fractured, scalp wounds.

The wreck occurred exactly at 2:35 o'clock Saturday afternoon, one hour and forty minutes after the conclave riders forming a merry party, had spent the morning sightseeing in Santa Barbara. The statement that the train was making a terrific speed when it struck the defective track is borne out by the fact that it covered the sixty-one miles of curves and crooked track between here and Honda in exactly 100 minutes.

The special plunged upon the defective switch, and in an instant the big locomotive, baggage car, diner and Pullman coupled with it were hurled together in a huge heap of wreckage. The engine shot forward on the broken track, tearing up the rails and ties and twisting the iron spans into fish hooks. The baggage car half buried itself in the sand on the right side of the locomotive. It was smashed to kindling wood.

The dining car, in which were thirty-two persons eating their noonday meal, leaped into the air and was thrown directly on top of the demolished locomotive. Nearly every person in this coach was instantly killed, being scalded by steam from disconnected pipes in the kitchen of the diner. Many of those who escaped instant death by the first impact were crushed by the rear couches hurled upon the wreckage. Others caught in the debris were roasted alive. The wreckage caught fire from the coals of the engine, but was extinguished in a few minutes by the passengers who escaped injury.

Engineer Frank Champlaine was pitched with his cab twenty-five feet beyond the engine and got up and ran three-quarters of a mile, seeking help before he discovered that his arm was broken and that he was severely scalded. John W. Cutter, standing behind his wife in the baggage car, was hurled through a huge rent in the roof and alighted in soft sand almost uninjured. Mrs. Cutter was forced through the floors and the wreckers had to lift tons of baggage to get her out.

At last call for luncheon had just sounded a few minutes before the disaster. Rajah temple of Reading occupied the last car on the train and were the last ones to go forward to the diner. The car was filled almost entirely with Reading people when the wreck occurred. An instant after the smash those who were not rendered insensible or otherwise incapacitated by the terrible impact, jumped from the train to render aid, but the gruesome scene before them unfitted many for the work. Frightened women, peering through the windows of the undamaged sleeper fainted when they saw the bodies of their friends strewn along the roadside.

When Miss Cora Young of Cleveland was taken from the shattered diner she was still alive, but frightfully injured. Her entire body had been showered with boiling water and when woman friends removed her corset the imprint of the stays was left deep in the scalded flesh.

A. D. Hagerman of Reading, Pa., refused the aid of his brother nobles after they had dragged him, fatally hurt, from the wreck. "I am dying," he said. "go help the women."

Sander Deabald of Cleveland, worked heroically, but unavailingly to save the lives of two women pinned beneath the diner. The flames had broken out amid the wreckage and were burning all about the prostrate forms of women. Burrowing his way down into the smouldering, splintered wreck, Deabald, with a hose which he had wrenched from a coach connection, spouted water from an adjacent tank and extinguished the flames. Then he reached down and, after cutting away the broken timbers that held her fast, took Mrs. William W. Essick of Reading from the ruins. She was begging piteously for relief when Deabald reached her. As he lifted her from the wreckage, a stream of boiling water poured over her, searing her body terribly. Women passengers sought to remove her upper garments, but fainted when the flesh came off with the clothing. She expired a few minutes after being carried out on the sand, and Deabald was forced back into the sleeper, unable to longer endure the harrowing sight on every hand.

A. D. Wasson of Buffalo was eating at a corner table. He was within six inches of the hot water tanks. When the rescuers neared him he yelled encouragingly. Dragged from under the range of the scalding steam, he murmured "Thank God" and died. His wife and 3-year-old baby were with him on the train and escaped injury.

When the first relief trains reached the scene the work of rescue had been nearly completed by those who had escaped the disaster unhurt. Twenty-five bodies lay in rows on the sand beside the track. The injured, many of them unconscious and dying, were scattered about the vicinity on piles of bedding and plush seats brought from the Pullmans. The more fortunate ones were attempting to give succor to the sufferers. It was determined at once to remove the injured to San Louis Obispo and bring the dead to this city. Before the special bearing the injured had reached San Luis Obispo five more had succumbed to their terrible wounds. Physicians and nurses worked over the survivors incessantly. Arriving at its destination, the train was met by a score of ambulances and automobiles, and the injured were quickly carried to the two local sanitariums. The dead were removed in undertakers' wagons to a morgue.

When the relief train arrived at Sutton on the way to the wreck, Miss Maria Fuller, 19 years of age, of Los Angeles, jumped on board. "I want to go with you to the wreck," she said to Dr. W. A. Taylor, the Southern Pacific division surgeon, who had charge of the train.

"You cannot go," replied the surgeon. Ten minutes later, when the train was clipping miles at the rate of fifty an hour, a wisp of dark brown hair blowing above the front car window drew the attention of Dr. Taylor and the conductor. A moment more and they had dragged the girl from the tender brake beam of the speeding engine. Brought into the car, Miss Fuller smiled away the doctor's glowering looks. "I really had to go," she said. "I am a member of South Gate Eastern Star, and I am pledged to give aid whenever I can."

San Francisco, May 13.—While en route to this city yesterday, Medinah Temple of Chicago held special memorial services in a special train, commemorating the great loss suffered by the order through the disaster. Dr. J. B. McFarrich, potentate of Medinah temple, delivered a memorial address, and a quartet rendered familiar hymns.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 13.—The Associated Press received the following message from Imperial Potentate Frank C. Roundy, sent from the depot at Paso Robles, Cal., where he was en route to his home in Chicago from the Los Angeles conclave:

"To the Nobility of North America: It is with profound regret I announce that a horrible disaster has saddened the homeward journey of many of our nobles from our Imperial councils at Los Angeles, and I hereby express my deep sympathy and sorrow for the irreparable loss of life sustained by Ismaelia and Rajah temples in the wreck of their special train.

"FRANK C. ROUNDY,
"Imperial Potentate."

Reading, Pa., May 13.—Of the killed, J. Douglas Hipple was illustrious potentate of Rajah temple of this city. He was 40 years old and leaves a widow and two daughters. Gilbert Steffe was a retired Reading railroad employe. He was about 60 years old, and was formerly master mechanic on the road. He was a Mason in high standing. Harry Rendel was a hat manufacturer and about 36 years old. He had a family. George F. Hagerman was about 50 years old and a leading member of the Berks county bar. His father was the late Jeremiah Hagerman, at one time presiding judge of the Berks courts. Harry Miller was about 26 years old and a member of the firm of J. R. BIRD WANTED RIDE.

Belated Sparrow Flies Into Car On Lakeside Run.

While one of the Lakeside cars was coming westward down the hill just west of the Northland club grounds, about 10:30 o'clock last evening, a belated sparrow dashed at one of the windows and managed to get between the wire netting and the glass, where it became imprisoned with its wings caught in the wire.

The conductor opened the window when the sparrow flew into the car and darted from end to end several times while the women passengers ducked their heads and the men threw up their hands in the attempt to catch it.

The conductor caught the sparrow finally as it flew by, and carried it to the door, where he released it. The bird started off in the darkness then turned and followed the car for some distance as though loath to leave it.

CRAP SHOOTING RAID CATCHES A CITY JAILER.

Cincinnati, Ohio, May 13.—As a result of anti-gambling agitation in Newport, Ky., shortly before midnight Saturday Chief Lickert, assisted by nearly every member of the police force, raided a crap game almost opposite police headquarters. The proprietor and about twenty-five well known citizens were caught, among others City Jailer Ben Ploeger, who experienced the unusual sensation of being locked in his own jail.

Itching, bleeding, protruding or blind piles yield to Doan's Ointment. Chronic cases soon relieved, finally cured. Druggists all sell it.

GOAT OR HUMAN CULTURE?

Articles of Incorporation of Arizona Company Leave Doubt.

Phoenix Ariz., May 13.—Articles of incorporation claiming varied powers for the incorporators are filed almost every day under the liberal and beneficient laws of this territory. But a few days ago there were filed articles admitting the incorporators to an unusually wide range of human activities.

The corporation is called the Socorro County Goat, Physical Culture & New Thought company, with a capital stock of $100,000. The instigators of this varied enterprise are Olive A. R. Foley and James R. Shelton. The theater of operations is to be located in Socorro county, N. M., which is an unusually favorite locality for goats, and is perhaps a favorable place for new thoughts and physical culture.

The goat has hitherto been regarded as of fixed purpose and narrow views, moving in a kind of rut, so to speak, imagining that life is worth living only for the empty tin cans it throws in his way and enjoying no other fun or recreation than now and then disturbing from behind the equilibrium of some unsuspecting human being. The goat would, therefore, seem to be a proper, though perhaps a refractory, subject for the inroads of new thought.

SKELETON FOUND.

Homesteader Makes Gruesome Discovery on Unused Logging Road.

A solitary and long past tragedy was revealed last Friday when John Anderson, a homesteader, discovered the bones of a man lying on an old unused logging road about three miles from Payne, a small station of the D. M. & N. railroad, about forty miles from Duluth.

The clothing and flesh had entirely rotted away from the skelton and there is absolutely no means of identification. The condition of the remains indicates that they must have lain there, bleaching and weather beaten, for at least a year.

The skelton was removed to Flood & Horgan's undertaking rooms in this city and will be buried by the county.

LEAGUE DOING WELL.

Editor of Epworth Herald Speaks at First Methodist Church.

Rev. Dan P. Brumitt, assistant editor of the Epworth Herald, of Chicago, spoke before a large congregation at the First Methodist church last evening on "Old Faiths and New Forces."

All of the Epworth leagues in the city joined in the services, it being the eighteenth anniversary of the organization of the league. Naturally, most of Dr. Brumitt's talk was devoted to a review of the league's eighteen years of progress.

He declared that there were some persons today who were inclined to assume that the league was not accomplishing as much now as it had in the past and that it had not the strength today that it formerly had.

Dr. Brumitt declared that it was not because the league was not doing so much now but because it was not making such a noise about it, that led unthinking persons to a conclusion that the society was going backward rather than forward.

He told that amusing story of Abraham Lincoln's about the river steamboat with the small engines and boilers and the enormous whistle. The whistle was so large and required so much steam to blow it that it was necessary to stop the boat every time a toot was to be accomplished.

Dr. Brumitt also referred to social and economic conditions today.

NEW CHURCH DEDICATED.

Appropriate Exercises at House of Worship at Hermantown.

With elaborate and appropriate exercises, the Free Emanuel Mission church at Hermantown was dedicated yesterday and a class of fifteen children confirmed.

The dedicatory exercises were in charge of Rev. F. O. Kling, pastor of the Swedish Mission church of the West end, and he gave the principal sermon. His subject was "True Worship" and he was listened to with rapt attention by a congregation which filled the new church to the doors.

Addresses were also made by Rev. Peter Gillison of West Duluth and Rev. Waintz of the Superior City mission. Several selections were given by the ladies' octet of the Swedish Mission church of the West end, under the direction of Professor Henry Oberg, choir leader.

Fifteen young people were confirmed and presented with diplomas and Bibles, following which there was holy communion.

"THE MASTER WORKMAN."

Rev. Baxter Waters Talks Entertainingly at Y. M. C. A.

"The Master Workman" was the subject of Rev. Baxter Waters' address to the men of the Y. M. C. A. at the Y. M. C. A. building yesterday afternoon. "Christ's toil while on earth was the pledge of the master's love for the workingmen," was the keynote of Rev. Waters address and he dwelt upon this throughout the talk.

Christ was a workman during his boyhood, the son of a carpenter, and this fact, said Mr. Waters, elevated the position of the workingman more than could anything else on earth. The speaker said, however, that Christ's love was as impartial as it was strong and the employer of labor met the same bounty and mercy at his hands as the humblest worker.

Several songs were rendered by the audience and special music was also a feature of the meeting.

MORE WARSHIPS URGED BY GERMAN NAVAL LEAGUE.

Cologne, May 13.—At the annual conference of the German naval league a resolution was presented declaring that it was urgently necessary that the shipbuilding be extended so as to considerably accelerate the building of battleships. Great Britain, the resolution recited, found it easy to conclude alliances and friendships because she had a pawerful navy. Germany must follow her example. Germany was now nervous because she resembled a solitary man with a thin cane facing a group of menacing rivals armed with heavy cudgels.

Wonderful Eczema Cure.
"Our little boy had eczema for five years" writes N. A. Adams, Henrietta, Pa. "Two of our home doctors said the case was hopeless, his lungs being affected. We then employed other doctors, but no benefit resulted. By chance we read about Eclectric Bitters; bought a bottle and soon noticed improvement. We continued this medicine until several bottles were used, when our boy was completely cured." Best of all blood medicines and body building health tonics. Guaranteed at all drug stores. 50c.

GOMEZ TO LEAVE PARTY AND JOIN REPUBLICANS.

Havana, May 13.—It is reported that Jose Miguel Gomez has decided to leave the Liberal party, join the Republican party of which he was formerly the head and become the Republican candidate for the presidency. This move, it is expected, will clear the political situation by removing the friction which has prevailed between Gomez and Zayas. Their rivalry for the Liberal nomination for the presidency has almost disrupted that party.

THE BLESSED RAIN.

Perhaps no northeaster was ever welcomed so heartily in Duluth as the one that came last night after several days of threatening conditions that seemed to forecast the coming of the mixture of weather characteristic of the Lake Superior northeaster.

It was welcomed because, unpleasant though it may be, it is a certain and tangible sign of spring, and because spring has been woefully backward.

It was welcomed because it offered hope that the backward conditions in the Northwestern wheat fields would be replaced by needed rains, and the winter of the farmer's discontent made glorious summer by conditions favorable to grain-growing.

And the weather bureau reports this morning show that in a large measure this hope was well founded. It was raining generally throughout the Northwest, in Wisconsin, Minnesota and the eastern part of the Dakotas, and it was warmer in the Upper Mississippi valley. This meant conditions much better for the grain-growers of the Northwest than those that have prevailed so uncomfortably long, and it spread better and more hopeful feeling throughout this section.

It is true that it was still cool, that in the Western Dakotas and southwest to Colorado it was snowing, and that it was colder in Western Canada, but it was too much to hope that good weather would come all at once.

It is something to be thankful for that conditions are much better, and that the cold, near-spring weather of the past few weeks cannot last much longer.

PUSHING LAND SALES.

Because the railroads have withdrawn the landseekers' rates, which did so much to help settle up the Northwest, the land dealers of the Northwestern states have formed an association in order that they may work more effectively for the common interests of all.

The association is formed for a good purpose, and is entitled to public support. The action of the railroads seems to have been due entirely to their irritation at the enactment of a 2-cent passenger rate law, and it is as though they sought to punish the states that did it by refusing their aid in development.

This is ridiculously shortsighted. No interest profits more from development of idle areas than the railroads. No interest can better afford to contribute money and other aid toward locating settlers on idle lands than the railroads. Yet because the legislature of the state of Minnesota has seen fit to reduce the maximum passenger rates, the railroads have withdrawn such privileges as the landseekers' rates, and have in effect told those interested in the development of the Northwest that they will have to get along without railroad help.

Well, they will get along somehow, no doubt. The petty action of the railroads is not going to retard development materially. The land dealers, through their association, should be able to overcome this slight handicap, and work more effectively than ever toward attracting immigration to this state.

Of course the land dealers are selfishly interested. They are in the land business, and they want to sell their lands to settlers. But in benefiting themselves in this manner they cannot help benefiting the entire Northwest, for every settler they bring in is a real asset to the state in which that settler is located.

The need of such an organized effort is the more acute because the Southwestern railroads are showing more public spirit, and are looking toward the development of their freight and passenger business by doing everything in their power to settle up the idle areas in the states they reach. They are not only giving landseekers' rates, but they are advertising them and the sections they affect liberally.

It is not to be supposed for a moment that the action of the railroads in cutting off all excursion rates and landseekers' rates is permanent. That would be about as sensible as cutting off one's nose to spite one's face. After they recover from their first fit of sulks over the 2-cent fare legislation, the railroads will undoubtedly restore their cheap rates. They never would have offered them if they had not been profitable, and if they were profitable then they will be profitable now.

The Northwestern Land Dealers' association can be of valiant service to the Northwest, and here's hoping it will be.

THE INNOCENT SUFFER.

Recently an Eastern clergyman, one Cooke, created a sensation by eloping with his ward, a young girl. The minister was promptly unfrocked, the officers were put upon his trail, and the gossips of the country rolled the incident upon their lickerish tongues.

Meanwhile, what of those whose names crept into the reports but seldom, those who are always the chief sufferers from an incident like this, the families of the culprits?

The faithful wife of the recreant clerical scamp returned to her home from a visit, a broken woman. She arrived at the station on the train that was expected to bring the reverend rascal and his victim, and the platform was thronged with curious villagers. She bravely walked through the crowd, refused a carriage, walked up the street to her home, and fell fainting across the threshhold of the ruined home.

A report from the village referring to the elopement says: "Waiting patiently by the window hour after hour, aged Mary Whaley, grandmother of the girl, is practically alone in her great grief. In striking contrast to the attempts on the part of some of the wealthy parishioners to throw the cloak of charity over the act of the absent clergyman is the failure of warden or vestryman to comfort or address the lonely old woman whose favorite grandchild has been led astray."

Those to whom sympathy should go out in such cases are the innocent ones who are punished most grievously for the faults of the guilty. The clergyman will have his punishment, and while one should not judge of that of which he knows little, it is hard to refrain from the hope that it will be bitter. The young girl will have hers, too, and as she was led astray by the influence of one upon whom she had been taught to lean, it will probably be heavier than it should be.

But though these are deserving of punishment, the broken wife and the sorrowing grandmother are not. Yet theirs is the heaviest burden and the deepest grief.

Those who sin, if they cannot be restrained by thought of personal consequences, should give some heed to the effect of their crimes upon their innocent wives and mothers.

If the punishment stopped with the guilty parties, all might be well; but it never does. It is hard indeed that those whose fault is the least should be compelled to bear the heaviest burden of sorrow and shame, but such is the way of the world, and the only way to prevent it is that those who think of sinning should have some pity for those who must suffer for their sin.

CLEANING DULUTH.

Evidently the mayor did not consult with the weather man before selecting today as municipal cleaning day.

About all the cleaning that was done was accomplished by the rain, which was welcome, indeed, but which stopped plans for putting back yards and alleys into seemly condition for the coming of an active, prosperous summer.

However, nobody need feel relieved of the obligation to clean up because the weather was unfavorable on the official municipal cleaning day. The cleaning must be done, and if tomorrow is fair, tomorrow will do as well as today. If it isn't, then the next day, or the first favorable day, should be set aside by everybody as their own official cleaning day.

In the interests of health, in the interests of municipal beauty, and in the interests of a greater and better Duluth, cleaning up is a most important civic duty, one that no good citizen who has the good of his city at heart will neglect.

Out with the ash heaps, the dirt piles, the tin cans and all the other evidences of untidiness and insanitary conditions!

Clean up!

A LESSON FROM BUTTE.

Few merchants need any education in the value of advertising. Given every other element of success in business, it is absolutely true that in these days no business can succeed without advertising, and if it is done skillfully, as most advertising is done nowadays, money spent in advertising is money profitably invested, certain of a substantial return upon the investment.

Yet probably few people realize to what a large extent advertising enters into modern business successes. It is no coincidence that the shops and business enterprises that produce the greatest financial success are the greatest advertisers. It is the relation between cause and effect.

The merchants of Butte, Mont., had a little experience along this line recently that was of great value to them, and that will doubtless prove of great value to others.

There was a newspaper strike on in that city, and for a time the newspapers disappeared altogether. Not a single daily paper was issued in Butte or Anaconda for several months. The merchants had been liberal and judicious advertisers in the Butte and Anaconda newspapers, and when this medium of reaching the public failed them, they tried other ways of advertising. Some of them rather liked the idea, because the new ways of advertising were cheaper, or rather they seemed cheaper.

They put their advertisements on the billboards, scattered freely over the city as they are over most cities. They were made as striking as possible, and they were changed frequently. In addition, the merchants got out out dodgers and handbills, and sought to interest the public in their bargains in that manner. With billboards in every block, and with handbills distributed so copiously that they littered the streets, the advertisements got a pretty good circulation, and probably every citizen of Butte that was able to read had his attention called to the wares that were being advertised.

Yet business fell off on every hand. In many instances merchants suffered losses of 20 per cent in business, and instances were not rare where the decline amounted to 50 per cent. Even the theaters lost 50 per cent of their patronage.

The merchants were unanimous in ascribing this loss of business to the fact that they had no newspapers in which to place their advertising. The lesson not only showed the inefficiency of billboard advertising, but it showed the necessity of newspaper advertising in the conduct of a modern business enterprise.

It may well be imagined that when the newspapers started up again, as they did recently, the merchants of Butte lost no time in resuming their old line of advertising which had meant so much more to them than they had ever imagined.

TALKING ABOUT THE HERALD

Should Be Proud.

St. Peter Herald: Stories of Duluth, of its prosperity and its bright future, filled an industrial edition of ninety-two pages issued by The Duluth Herald. Duluth ought to be proud of The Herald.

Of Great Help.

Winona Herald: The Duluth Herald of Friday was a magnificent trade edition of so many pages that we couldn't find time to count them. This edition is largely due to the prominence the city by the "unsalted sea" has attained on account of its new departure in the iron and steel business. Realizing that it is bound to become a great steel manufacturing center, the people of Duluth are stepping pretty high these days. The Herald gives the new Duluth spirit a great boom, one that will be of great help to the city and aid in its industrial and commercial prosperity.

Just as Good.

Lake Crystal Union: The Duluth Herald's industrial edition is something to talk about in the way of newspaper enterprise. It is not quite as large as Duluth, but is just as good.

Climbing to the Front.

Two Harbors Iron Trade Journal: The Duluth Evening Herald is climbing right to the front. On Thursday last it contained ninety-two pages of good historical matter with plenty of illustrations.

Duluth Must "Go Some."

Crookston Times: The industrial number of The Duluth Herald with its ninety-two pages is just beginning to impress us with the true immensity of The Herald present and the Duluth of the future. Even Duluth will have to "go some" to keep up with The Herald.

Duluth Should Feel Proud.

Grand Rapids Herald-Review: The Duluth Evening Herald is always to the fore, and last week presented its readers with a 92-page industrial edition. In typography and half-tone cuts the paper was ahead of all others, and Duluth should feel proud of such an able newspaper.

A Strong Advocate.

Roseau Region: The Duluth Herald, in a special edition consisting of ninety-two pages issued last week, continues its advocacy of Northern Minnesota soil, and among many illustrations it has the fine display of grains, vegetables and other products of Roseau county, which were displayed in Sjoberg Bros.' window in this city in 1905, and for which prizes were given. The Herald is certainly a believer in the Northland, and a strong advocate at all times for its up-building.

One of the Finest.

Breckenridge Gazette: The industrial edition of The Duluth Herald, issued last week, was one of the finest things ever attempted by a Minnesota newspaper. It consisted of ninety-two pages and was a complete exposition of the tremendous resources of Duluth and the country tributary. The Herald, which is one of the great papers of the state, is to be congratulated on the work.

Will Tackle Other Big Things.

Karlstad Advocate: The industrial edition of The Duluth Evening Herald has reached our desk. In size it almost equals the roll of bills the state legislature failed to pass during the session just passed. It also about equals in size the roll of our bank account. By the way, the Zenith City is causing some of the would-be large cities to sit up and take notice; and the industrial edition is a forerunner of other big things the people of Duluth will tackle in the near future.

One of the Best.

Redwood Reveille: The industrial edition of The Duluth Herald, which was published last week, contained ninety-two pages and was one of the best newspaper productions we have ever seen. Duluth people have reason to be proud of their newspapers.

Forging Ahead Fast.

Hawley Herald: The Duluth Evening Herald came out with a 92-page industrial edition last week Thursday, showing the wonderful growth of mining, smelting, shipping and other great industries of that city and vicinity in recent years. Duluth is forging ahead very fast in these lines and bids fair to become one of the greatest manufacturing and shipping centers of the world.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

"This has been one of the best orange seasons in the history of California, although probably no larger in point of profits from the viewpoint of the grower," said P. A. Hershey of Los Angeles, Cal., at the St. Louis. "While the crop has been exceptionally large, there has been so much difficulty attendant upon securing enough cars for shipment that a large amount of the fruit could not be moved at all, but was left to rot on the ground.

"Oranges are shipped out of California all the year round, beginning with the navels in November in time for the Christmas trade. These are shipped until June. Then come the Mediterranean sweets, the blood oranges and others. Thousands of pickers swarm over the fields, Japanese, Chinese, Mexicans, halfbreeds and whites in a many-colored mixture, until the groves resemble busy ant hills. Cooperative packing companies now handle almost all the shipments, greatly facilitating matters and reducing expenses. Giant machines wash, dry, polish and carry the fruit, finally sorting it according to size, padded spouts and bins keeping the oranges from being bruised, the size of the oranges making the contents of the boxes range from forty-eight to 360 in each box.

"Science and common sense have been busy in the last few years determining the best methods of handling the fruit, the speediest method of packing and shipping, and the quickest way of marketing. The department of agriculture recently carried on an experiment to find out what caused rot in fruit that was apparently sound. Experts stayed on the grounds and in the packing houses, or accompanied trains of fruit in their long journey across the continent to New York and other Eastern points.

"It was found that from 10 to 25 per cent of the decay was caused by a slight wound in each orange, made by the steel clippers in the hands of the gatherers who cut the fruit from the bough, and this per cent is now saved by the simple process of having the points of the clippers made blunt. Finger nails often cause abrasions in the skin, and no woman is allowed to pack until her finger nails have been closely trimmed."

"The coming of the steel plant is doing more to advertise Duluth than any other one thing," said F. B. Daugherty, manager of the Great Lakes Tug & Dredge Owners' association at the Spalding. "I hear much about the city in different parts of the country since the announcement that the Steel corporation will establish a plant here. There is a general idea through the country that Duluth has reached a point in her career where she will go ahead very fast. The steel plant is a much bigger proposition than many imagine.

"Governor Johnson is attracting a good deal of outside attention just now and turning the eyes of the country this way. I consider the governor the strongest man that the Democrats can find for a presidential candidate next year. He has made a good governor, and seems friendly to Northern Minnesota. I do not believe Roosevelt will accept a renomination from the Republican party, and it looks to me as if Taft is the man who will be at the head of the Republican ticket next time. Taft is the strongest man in the cabinet, and is of a practical turn of mind.

"The outlook for the dredgemen of the Great Lakes for the present season is not as bright just now as we would like. Considerable work is being held up by the government to await the decision of the United States supreme court as to the constitutionality of the eight-hour law and just what classes of labor are affected by it so far as the government work is concerned. Outside of Duluth there is not a great deal of private dredging being done along the lakes. The amount of private dredging is not nearly so extensive as formerly."

THE WEATHER.

After loitering about on the horizon for several days, threatening great things and doing nothing but blow, the northeaster skipped up in the night last night, and this morning the windows were dripping with wet, the lake was stirred up, and every ingredient of a real northeaster was at hand. However, nobody complained. The country had needed the rain, and the grass immediately showed its appreciation by brightening up. Last night's lowest temperature was 34 degs., and yesterday's highest was 48 degs. The weather man expects the northeaster to break tonight, and to be followed by clearing weather and northwest winds.

A year ago today a northeaster was in progress, too.

The sun rose at 4:33 this morning and sets at 7:34 tonight, making 15 hours and 1 minute of sunshine, or four minutes more than there was yesterday.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "A storm of considerable energy is central over Western Iowa and Eastern Nebraska. During Sunday or last night it caused rain or snow and strong southerly to northeast winds in the Upper Lake region and throughout most of the Northwest. The barometer is rising in the Northwest attended by colder weather in the Dakotas, Montana, Manitoba and Saskatchewan, withfre ezing temperatures over most of those districts. The easterly movement of the Iowa storm will cause a continuance of rain or snow and strong northeast winds in this section this afternoon and tonight followed by clearing weather and northwest winds."

For the week ending last Saturday the bank clearings of Duluth amounted to $3,125,063. This places Duluth twentieth in the list and ranks her next to Cleveland.

The Carleton Opera company has been secured for three nights' engagement at the Grand Opera house, opening May 23.

The Omaha and St. Paul railroads have sold out their holdings of St. Paul & Duluth stock, and now it is reported that the Manitoba has done the same and President Hill will resign from the directorate. The fact is of great importance with Duluth, as it is coupled with the announcement that the surveyed line made some time ago by the Manitoba company from St. Paul to Lake Superior is to be brought into use. It is the intention of President Hill to begin work at once on the construction of a line entirely under the control of the Manitoba.

At the council meeting last night, F. B. Daugherty resigned as a member of the board of fire commissioners and John Monaghan was appointed to the vacancy. The salaries of city officers were fixed as follows: Mayor, $1,200; city clerk, $1,200; city attorney, $600; comptroller, $1,500; city engineer, $2,000; health officer, $800; chief of police, $1,800; first sergeant, $1,200; second sergeant, $85 per month; board of public works, $600 each.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Anoka Free Press: Governor Johnson, it appears, vetoed the bill providing for the pensioning of everybody and their survivors who happened to be in Minnesota during the Indian massacres in 1862. Somehow the governor has a knack of doing just about what the people would like to have him do.

Princeton Union: If St. Paul lands the national Democratic convention the unterrified will not feel so lonesome as they would have in the good old days before Mr. Johnson came to town.

Pine Tree Blaze: A schoolma'am in the northern part of the county got lost in the woods and wandered for twenty-five miles without finding a house or meeting anyone. Finally she came to a lonely bachelor homesteader, who rescued her. Those who seek shall find. Nuff sed.

Middle River Pioneer: Why all this query and discussion to center on a Republican candidate to carry out the so-called Roosevelt policies, which are really Bryan policies? Why not give Mr. Bryan the unanimous nomination and be done with it?

Lake Crystal Union: There are others who are just as honest and would make just as trustworthy an officer as President Roosevelt if they had an opportunity. It's opportunity that all honest men want, to prove to the world that they are capable.

Crookston Journal: The rural free delivery is one of the greatest factors in bringing the farmers in close touch with the present conditions and it is now as hard a job to hoodwink them as it is to fool any other portion of the population.

LeSueur Center Leader: We understand that a Le Sueur woman intends to sue Editor Grimes because he said in an obituary that her husband had gone to a happier home.

Princeton Union: Much ado is being made by some papers because the recent legislature failed to enact a law to extend the primary system to the election of state officers and United States senators. It is impossible for a legislature to accomplish everything the people ask in one session.

Anoka Free Press: It is reported that John D. Rockefeller realizes the approach of death. Pity that his nefarious life's work can not die with him.

Le Sueur News: Just why the legislature avoids the root of all evil in the pure food legislation, we fail to understand. Governor Johnson vetoed a bill punishing the wholesaler for having adulterated food in stock, and we believe that the governor was correct. Neither retailer nor wholesaler should be held in such cases. The manufacturer is the proper one to punish. The others are innocent purchasers, like the consumer. Is the legislature and congress afraid to touch the purse of the manufacturer, or what is the trouble?

Mankato Free Press: The Winona Independent is of the opinion that "there is no occasion for anybody to be shocked by the charge that this or that official is 'playing politics.' It's a game that opened when this government was formed and has never closed since. All our officials have played it, but there has been a wide difference in the dexterity displayed and consequently in the public criticism." There are officeholders who can "play politics" in such a smooth manner that the general public does not get acquainted with their "curves."

A Mother's Question.

Soft waves of chestnut hair—gold in the sun—
Red mouth, whose curving lips dimpled with fun;
Skin fair and soft and smooth, cheeks tinged, with rose,
Eyes in whose smiling depths happiness glows,
Never the cloud of tears shadowed their blue—
This was the mother's face my baby knew.

Hair white as driven snow, face seamed and drawn,
Pale lips with grief-lines marked, all laughter gone,
Eyes dull and lusterless, faded by tears,
Empty arms, aching heart, all these long years.
Lord, if we meet again, by Thy dear grace,
How shall my baby know his mother's face?

—The Bohemian.

Closer Railroad Discipline.

Atlantic Monthly: It is easy to throw the blame for failure of discipline upon the guilty trainman when the accident occurs, but who is at fault for the lowered tone of the whole service that makes this particular breach of discipline inevitable? How long will the public continue to regard accidents due to such causes as "unavoidable" and ascribe them with a shrug of the shoulders to the frailty of human nature? Charles Francis Adams as early as 1879 wrote that "the only thing left with some men who are not accessible to argument or the teachings of experience is the gentle stimulant of a criminal prosecution." His suggestion is still pertinent, for we have never yet had the courage to apply the drastic remedy.

An Ingenious Lawyer.

Chicago News: In Brussels lives a lawyer who recently made good use of a phonograph in a lawsuit. He had been continually annoyed by the noises of hammering at an iron foundry in his near neighborhood. Finding that complaints were unavailing, he brought the matter into court. But before doing so he placed a phonograph in his library for one whole day. When the case came before the court he produced the phonograph and set going the specially prepared cylinder. An uproar and din as from the forge of Vulcan was the result and the ingenious lawyer won his case.

Will Keep It Hustling.

Baltimore Sun: The White House will have a busy time if it goes into the business of picking out all the undesirable citizens.

Washington Herald: "I have frequently seen $10,000 in the pot."

"Where?"

"In the poker story."

Philadelphia Record: Mr. Saphedde—Do you think men have descended from monkeys?

Miss Caustique—Not very far.

Washington Star: "The man who succeeds," said the earnest citizen, "is the one who holds to his opinion in the face of all opposition."

"I don't know about that," answered the practical person. "A baseball umpire doesn't get such a large salary."

Chicago Tribune: "A man may smile and be a villain still," quoted Uncle Allen Sparks; "but I've known crooked men that could keep their faces just as straight as anybody else."

Detroit Free Press: Brown—Jones is in favor of women voting.

Smith—Is that so?

Brown—Yes, he says that if women were allowed to vote he'd run for office and make his wife support him.

Chicago Record-Herald: "She is my affinity, your honor!" pleaded the man who had deserted his family for a schoolgirl.

"You are mistaken," said the sententious magistrate. "Work is your affinity. Sixteen years at hard labor!"

Detroit Free Press: First Bulldog—This is the worst spring I've ever experienced.

Second Bulldog—It is backward. So far I haven't had a chance at a single tramp, and this time last year I had the seats of four pairs of trousers in my kennel.

Baltimore American: Biggs—Did you make anything of a spring trip in your automobile?

Diggs (gloomily)—It was all spring when it wasn't fall.

Washington Star: "Why don't you make a few speeches on that subject?" asked the admiring friend.

"My dear sir," answered Senator Sorghum, "making a few speeches is out of the question. Once the habit is acquired it is impossible to make a few speeches, just as it is impossible to smoke a few cigarettes."

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: Some people are proud to get run over by a rich man's automobile.

When you are on a swear-off and your wife goes away on a visit you feel as if you had been swindled in a horse trade.

Engaged couples don't seem to other people half as foolish as other people seem to engaged couples to be in the way.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: Some men are gulded and some others are guyed.

Everybody knows what to do with the things they haven't got.

If man could discover way a woman is a mystery she wouldn't be.

Keep your eye on a friend after his first attempt to make a touch.

FARM FOR INEBRIATES

To be Established by State Will be Well Endowed.

The Revenue of New Institution Estimated at $70,000 a Year.

St. Paul, Minn., May 13.—Treasurers of cities, counties and towns will be notified by State Auditor Iverson to at once send in the 2 per cent assessment on all liquor licenses which must be paid to the state for equipment and maintenance of the projected hospital farm for inebriates.

All license money paid in since the approval of the bill, April 22, is subject to this 2 per cent, and under the terms of the bill it must be immediately remitted to the state auditor. Mr. Iverson will ask, however, that remittances be made quarterly to simplify matters. The first remittances will be made Aug. 1.

The state board of control estimates that there are 5,000 liquor licenses issued every year in the state, averaging $70, which means a revenue of $3,500,00, or $70,000 a year for the inebriate hospital fund. As most licenses expire in May and June they will probably take in at least $50,000 with the August remittances.

There is no state institution just like this in the country, though there are plenty of inebriate asylums. Physicians indorse the farm idea heartily. They say it is necessary not only to stop the use of liquor or drugs, but to build up the physique of the patient so as to restore will-power and a normal nervous system. For this there is nothing like a year spent in active outdoor work. The farm idea will be carried out so as to give the inmates healthful but not heavy outdoor exercise, with little or no restraint.

Many will probably apply voluntarily for reception and treatment at the state farm, as under the law they will be cared for free by the state, but it provides machinery for committing inebriates against their will. Any one may make a petition with the probate court alleging a resident of the county to be an inebriate and in need of care and treatment. The court then appoints three examiners as in the case of examinations as to sanity, and on the verdict of the examining board the patient may be committed. He will be subject to parole after sixty days, and to discharge when cured.

CONFLAGRATION AT RUSH CITY

Minnesota Town Has Bad Fire in Its Business Section.

Rush City, Minn., May 13.—A serious fire started in this village at 11 o'clock last night and the conflagration was gotten under control only after damage to the extent of $150,000 to $175,000 was done. The Johnson block, which was the principal business structure in the village was destroyed, together with two or three other adjoining structures. There was no loss of life but there were several narrow escapes in the excitement.

The Johnson block was a two story frame structure and housed two banks, the First National and the Rush City State bank, two telephone offices, electric light plant and many offices of professional men, etc. It is said that the losses are covered by insurance in most cases.

NO GAMBLING IN BORDER TOWNS

Spooner and Beaudette Have Banished Tin Horn Sports.

Spooner, May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—A surprise was in store for our saloonkeepers and gambling houses of Spooner and Beaudette when notices were received by them from Sheriff Thomas Bailey of Bemidji that all gambling must cease. Our once notorious towns for being wide open have now an appearance of being civilized. The professional poker player has packed his grip and fled to more interesting scenes; the hum of the roulette wheel has ceased; the numerous slot machines are out of sight, and the click of the enticing dice is heard no more.

FALLS IN FIRE.

Superintendent of Rush City Electric Plant Meets Bad Accident.

Rush City, Minn., May 13.—Herbert Broom, superintendent of the local electric light plant, was probably fatally burned early yesterday morning by falling into the fire on the hearth at the Grant hotel lobby. About 2 o'clock, Broom went to the hotel to rest a few moments. He went to sleep while seated in a chair, and fell over striking his head on the sandiron.

The fall stunned him and he rolled over into the fire. It was three minutes before he was discovered and by that time he was terribly burned, especially about the face.

The doctors hold little hope of his recovery, as his head is almost twice its natural size.

A WARFARE ON WOLVES

Will be Waged in Northern Minnesota by Government.

One Hundred Carcasses of Deer Found in Itasca Park.

Lake Itasca, Minn., May 13.—Superintendent Arnold of the state park reports that more than 100 carcasses of deer have been found in the park, where the deer have been killed by wolves. The wolves have grown so numerous that it has not been safe to send children to school this winter. Packs of twenty or more of the animals have been seen in the clearing in the daytime, pursuing rabbits. In several cases men in the camps, when going to work in the early morning, have been followed by the beasts.

Washington, May 13.—The agricultural department has declared war on the wolves of Northern Minnesota and Michigan. Secretary Wilson says that wolves are destroying deer by the wholesale in that section of the country. He believes one deer is worth more than a whole pack of wolves and he has had his experts busy devising ways to destroy wolves. Deer gather in great numbers in the swamps and dense timber in the winter time, and during the time of deep snow the animals often were found in a well beaten yard, sometimes a hundred or more in a yard. While the snow was soft they were at the mercy of the wolves and dead deer were found in large numbers in these yards. The wolves seemed to know the haunts of the deer and locate their dens in that vicinity. While the deer were penned up in the yards the wolves only ate fresh meat, but after the snow became crusted and the deer were able to scatter, the wolves would live on the decayed carcasses.

Secretary Wilson wants to treat the wolves as the fellow did his dead mother-in-law. He suggests that they be poisoned, trapped and burned out. The most appropriate time to destroy them is in the month of April. The young wolves or pups can be easily located by watching the old wolves going to their dens. The secretary of agriculture calls upon the sportsmen of the Northwest and the game wardens to assist in the destructive campaign. Unless something is done he says it will only be a matter of a few years until deer will be extinguished.

FORECLOSE ON A CEMETERY

Right to Sell Home of Dead Considered by Judge.

St. Cloud, Minn., May 13.—Judge Taylor is considering the question of the right to foreclose and sell at sheriff's sale a cemetery—the home of the dead—to satisfy a mortgage. There was a hearing in chambers in the case of Hans Nelson vs. Peter Swanson and others, trustees of the Lutheran church at Scandia Valley, in Morrison county. The plaintiff loaned the church people some money, about $250. The case came up at the March term of court at Little Falls, and a decree of foreclosure was entered, and the sheriff's sale was set for last Friday. The mortgage covered the church property, upon which is situated, besides the church, the cemetery, where the dead have been buried for years.

Judge Taylor refused the application to open up the case, on the ground of new evidence, as far as the church was concerned, but has taken under advisement the foreclosure on the cemetery.

He has already been in jail for some little time and there were extenuating circumstances.

SHERIFF TO HUNT DIETZ

Posse Summoned to Arrest Famous Cameron Dam Man.

Fifty Citizens of Hayward Sworn in as Deputies.

Hayward, Wis., May 13.—Sheriff Clark Saturday began the summoning of a posse of 100 men, with avowed purpose of capturing John Dietz, the "outlaw of Cameron dam." Considerable criticism has been aroused by this move because Sheriff Clark, since assuming office several months ago, has made no attempt to arrest Dietz and has served no summons on the "outlaw."

About fifty citizens of Hayward, among them a number of prominent business men, already have been made deputy sheriffs, and as many more men will be enlisted from the surrounding country. The posse members will meet here next Monday and agree on a plan of campaign. Then the start will be made for the Cameron dam.

Governor Davidson has consistently refused to take action looking to the apprehension of Dietz. He contends that it has not been demonstrated that the resources of Sawyer county have been exhausted and therefore refuses to sanction the use of the militia in the enterprise.

It is intimated that Sheriff Clark's plan is to make an attempt to take Dietz and then, should the attempt fail, call upon the state authorities for help. The Dietz case has been the fly in the ointment that has made officeholding in Sawyer not an unmixed pleasure for several years past, and there is a growing demand that the vexing problem be disposed of in some manner.

TWO DROWNED

While Trying to Cross the Mississippi River, at La Crosse.

La Crosse, Wis., May 13.—While 200 people watched them from the shore yesterday V. Vancamp, E. O. Ellsworth and Rose Wright attempted to cross the Mississippi river in a small rowboat. A 30-mile an hour gale was blowing and the waves overturned the frail craft. Vancamp and the girl were drowned, but Ellsworth managed to cling to the overturned skiff until rescued.

INHUMAN MOTHER IS SENT TO PRISON.

Washburn, Wis., May 13.—On a plea of guilty to the charge of murdering an infant at Bayfield by ramming a cork down its throat, Amanda Gunderson, an 18-year-old girl, was Saturday sentenced to serve from one to five years in the Green Bay reformatory. A plea to be lenient was made to the court by several attorneys.

FATAL SHOOTING AT PARTY, NOT MURDER.

La Crosse, Wis., May 13.—Albert Linhart, who was charged with the murder of Palmer Johnson, was acquitted by a jury Saturday night in circuit court. Linhart shot Johnson at a surprise party, but, according to the evidence, it was an accident.

WISCONSIN IN BRIEF

Chippewa Falls—James R. Palmer, who introduced and operated the first omnibus line in New York city before the advent of railways, died Saturday at the age of 97 years. He enjoyed the friendship of Henry Clay and had seen almost every president of the United States. He asserted that he was the oldest Republican who voted for Roosevelt.

Milwaukee—While watching high school athletics Saturday afternoon, Nora Kullman, aged 16 years, was hit by a discus thrown by a contestant. Her skull was broken and she is not expected to recover.

Eau Claire—The teachers' union won its demands before the meeting of the school board. There are about 300 teachers in this city, and the result has caused much rejoicing among them. The present expenditure for keeping up the schools is over $100,000 a year, which amount will be greatly increased by the raise in salaries granted.

A POSSE STARTS OUT TO FIND MISSING MAN

Hancock, Mich., May 13.—A number of people of Winona have become alarmed, owing to the disappearance of a homesteader, residing about nine miles from the location, and to this end a searching party set out Saturday with the hopes of ascertaining whether or not their suppositions are true. The person in question has been known about town as Cummings, and as far as is known, has no relatives in the county. He had been located there for a number of years, though on account of his mode of living had not been widely known.

UPPER MICHIGAN

WILL NOT BE TRIED

Fulton Miner Charged With the Assault Ends His Life.

His Was Only Criminal Case on Keweenaw County Docket.

Hancock, Mich., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—When the Keweenaw county circuit court convenes next, one case on the docket will have to be dismissed without a trial. Mike Salata of Fulton location, whose case is the only criminal one on the docket, avoided trial by taking his life by his own hand.

Salata is charged by his wife with having attempted to kill her. The defendant was bound over to the next term of circuit court, but furnished bond for his appearance and was not detained in jail.

Saturday evening he attired himself in his best suit of clothes, a new one apparently purchased for the occasion, and lay down on the bed. Taking a 38-caliber revolver, he placed it against his chin and fired. The course of the bullet was upward and it passed out through his skull, bringing almost instant death. Previous to committing the act, Mr. Salata, who had apparently planned the deed deliberately, drove his little daughter from the room. He left no message throwing light on the cause for the deed and made no statement of his intentions previous to committing the act.

A WARM FIGHT IN MINE SKIP

Miner Charged With Assault While Ascending in Shaft.

Calumet, Mich., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fighting in a Calumet & Hecla skip on its way to the surface is certainly a dangerous proceeding, and according to the story told to Justice Jackola by John Singer, this is what took place. Singer appeared in court and asked to have a warrant sworn out for the arrest of John Marta, charging him with assault and battery. He claimed he had been assaulted by Marta while coming to the surface with the defendant in a cage. Marta was arrested and brought into Justice Jackola's court to answer to the charge. He pleaded not guilty and demanded an examination. The hearing has been set for Wednesday of this week.

FLAW IN BALLOT.

South Range Must Hold Another Election to Rectify Error.

Houghton, Mich., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—A flaw has been discovered in the bonding proceedings for South Range, in that the notices issued by the village for the special election held last week called for the issuing of bonds amounting to $19,000, to be paid within twenty years, while the ballots used at the election were made to read "payable in nineteen years." This is merely a technical defect, according to Village Attorney Donahue, and, while it may not amount to anything, nevertheless, a new election will be held to make everything satisfactory.

ELABORATE PROGRAM

To Be Arranged for Meeting of Michigan Congregational Association.

Hancock, Mich., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—A committee appointed for the purpose of arranging an elaborate program for the sixty-sixth annual meeting of the Michigan Congregational association, to be held in Hancock, June 6 to 10. Hundreds of delegates are expected from all over the state and a most cordial welcome will be extended to them. It has been suggested that a large copper key be moulded to present the head delegate in token of the "wide open" door for the religious worker in Hancock, the only city in the Copper country. Ample accommodations have been arranged for all of the expected visitors.

WEST HOUGHTON TO HAVE NEW SEWERAGE SYSTEM.

Houghton, Mich., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The proposition to bond Houghton for $50,000, acted on favorably by the state legislature a short time ago, carried at the special election last week, and the matter of constructing a complete new sewerage system in West Houghton can be carried out. The village will likely do the work by day labor, as bids calling for contract work some time ago, were far from being satisfactory. The work will be started in the near future and completed before fall. It is mostly upon the hill work, at a steep angle and much of it will be through solid rock.

WELL KNOWN RAILROAD MAN DIES IN MAAS CITY.

Hancock, Mich., May 13.—Frank Shields, a well known railroad man, expired at Maas City last week as the result of blood poisoning. It appears that two years ago several of his toes were cut off in an accident and that another operation was found necessary recently. It was performed, and although it at first appeared to be successful, blood poisoning set in and his death occurred shortly after.

DAKOTAS

BEER GOES TO WASTE

Gutters of Northwood Filled With Various Kinds of Booze.

Much Liquor Destroyed Under North Dakota's New Law.

Grand Forks, May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—North Dakota's new liquor law was successfully applied Saturday, when several cases and kegs of beer and a box of whisky were destroyed at Northwood, N. D. The liquor was seized recently, and Saturday was set as the date on which the agent for the Great Northern should show cause why the liquor should not be destroyed in accordance with a law passed by the recent legislature, providing for the seizure and confiscation of liquor found in quantities, indicating it was to be sold in violation of law.

The liquor interests through George A. Bangs, a Grand Forks attorney, asked State's Attorney Wineman to stipulate the facts, so that a test case could be made of it. State's Attorney Wineman emphatically declined to stipulate the facts, and the liquor men decided to let the state go ahead and destroy the property without any appearance on the part of the shippers of the liquor. Some other case in the state will be used to test the constitutionality of the liquor law. It is understood that it will be that the North Dakota law conflicts with interstate commerce regulations.

MARRIED AND ENDED SUIT

Sensational Criminal Case Comes to Sudden Halt at Bismarck.

Bismarck, N. D., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The charge of rape against H. F. Tilburn was speedily disposed of by Justice Gilbert. The complainant was Maud Clayton. The plaintiff testified to the crime having been committed on the 19th day of April last and to having been whipped with a razor strop by her father because she refused to do his bidding in not keeping company with S. Mahood, a neighbor. The father and mother of the girl and Tilburn flatly contradicted the girl's testimony and as a result the case was dismissed after the court had done a little stunt of throwing oil upon the troubled waters, the result of which was the marriage of Mahood and the Clayton girl.

SUMMONED AS WITNESSES

Testimony of Clergyman Wanted in the Gladstone Case.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 13.—Rev. F. R. E. Miller, pastor of the Baptist church, has been subpoenaed as a witness for the state in the case of Paul Gladstone, the choir leader, who is accused of a serious offense. The papers were served on Mr. Miller on the eve of his departure to attend a Baptist church meeting at Johnstown, Pa. It is said that the accused confessed his guilt to Rev. Miller. Three boys were also subpoenaed to testify in the case. They were cited to appear June 10. Rev. Miller will return in time to be present in court. Gladstone was arrested a few weeks ago in Superior, where he was assisting in revival work, and was brought back here. In a message from Superior he admitted his guilt, and stated that he would plead guilty, but he is said to have changed his mind and will stand trial.

GAS KILLS THREE.

Father, Daughter and Son Asphyxiated in Private Mine Near Wilton.

Bismarck, N. D., May 13.—Another mine catastrophe occurred at Wilton Friday night, when John Lind and his son and daughter lost their lives from suffocation in a mine on their farm. Lind had a private mine from which he supplied his home with fuel. Friday afternoon he entered the mine for coal, and not returning within a reasonable time, his 15-year-old son went in to look for him. The son not returning, a 10-year-old daughter followed. None of them reappearing the mother, fearing something had happened, went into the mine with a lighted lamp. A short way in the mine the lamp went out and the woman realized what had happened and aroused the neighbors, who finally secured the bodies, all dead, the three having been overcome by gas, which is a very unusual feature in lignite coal mines.

SAFE WRECKED.

Yeggmen Secure $250 From a Laundry Office at Minot.

Minot, N. D., May 13.—Expert yeggmen tapped the safe of the Minot steam laundry early Friday morning and secured $100 in cash and $150 in checks. Most of the checks were recovered along the roadbed of the Soo and the Great Northern, near the Great Northern passenger station. Valuable papers which had been separated from the bills and cash as the yeggmen made their escape were also picked up along the track and in the ditches at various intervals.

DAKOTAS IN BRIEF

Grand Forks, N. D.—Martin Mayer, recently reinstated as conductor on the Great Northern, has received a check for $1,074, in payment for the time he has been off. His lay-off was due to the false information furnished the company by a spotter.

Williston, N. D.—At the regular council meeting Mayor Wegley announced the appointment of Justice of the Peace Will T. Poe as city auditor, and the latter takes office Monday.

Portal, N. D.—Mrs. Frank Ingles, wife of the station agent here, was probably fatally burned by an explosion of a mixture of beeswax and turpentine which she was heating upon the kitchen stove.

Gackle, N. D.—A prairie fire which started several miles northeast of here, swept over a wide strip of country, burning hay, buildings and fences and causing much damage.

Arlington, S. D.—Ole Knutson, the son of a well-to-do farmer living between Volga and Rutland, was found dead in the road between that town and his home, and indications point to murder.

GRAIN GOING IN.

Farmers in Northwestern Minnesota Are Practically Through Seeding.

Crookston, Minn., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is a misapprehension on the part of many people living in the city regarding the progress being made with seeding by the farmers of this section, and while there are communities where very little work has been done, in many other sections, the grain is being rushed into the ground and many farmers have reported all their wheat in, and some too, have finished seeding their oats.

Johnson Bros., west of the city finished wheat seeding last week, and H. C. Johnson, J. L. Quamme, John Byer and C. E. Peterson are among other Lowell township farmers who are well along with their wheat seeding and will finish in the course of a few days with continued dry weather.

Mr. Hagen presented the bird to Mr. Rindal, who sent it to E. L. Boren, the Warren taxidermist, who will mount it.

NEW CARS ARE DELIVERED

Duluth & Iron Range Places 500 More in Service.

The Duluth & Iron Range road has received the 500 new ore cars from the Pressed Steel Car Company of Pittsburg, which were to be delivered to the line during the early part of the present shipping season.

Consignments of the new equipment have been received from time to time for the past two or three months. The cars are the latest type of ore carriers, with improved hoppers, brakes and all that sort of thing.

All of the new equipment has already gone into the road's service. The shipping of ore from the mines is now going on in earnest. The congestion caused by the lateness of the season of navigation opening has now been straightened out. The ore trains are running regularly, heavily laden, and the boats are being loaded rapidly at the docks.

The Iron Range is to receive some more ore cars this season, the next deliveries to be about as large as the first. These cars will come also from the Pressed Steel Car company and the first lot will be received some time in July.

The Duluth, Missabe & Northern is also receiving new ore cars from the shops right along. The first consignments arrived several months ago and have been keeping up with considerable regularity ever since.

As fast as the new cars are received they are put into service and the old style wooden cars are being relegated to the unused side tracks as fast as they show signs of being dilapidated.

ILLINOIS LEGISLATORS HELP CHICAGO GREATLY.

Chicago, May 13.—The Illinois legislature which finished its work yesterday passed during the session a number of important bills, the greatest to this city being the act granting a new charter to the city of Chicago.

For many years the city has labored under the handicap of a charter whose provisions were originally designed for a city of not more than 500,000 inhabitants. The enlarged powers under the new charter will greatly simplify in some directions the management of the city. It will also permit extensive plans to be carried out which their projectors believe will make Chicago, in time, one of the beautiful cities in the country.

Other important bills were the appropriation of $100,000 for the use of the governor and attorney general in the prosecution of tax suits against the Illinois Central railroad. Two million, one hundred thousand dollars was set apart for the improvement and repairs of state charitable institutions. Numerous sums were set apart for the use of the university of Illinois for various purposes, including $550,000 for the erection of additional buildings and $320,000 for the college of agriculture.

By another law insurance companies are required to show on the face of each policy that the policy is secured by collateral equal to the amount of the legal reserve. Another law requires allen companies to furnish the state superintendent of insurance with information concerning condition at any time.

A law was also passed requiring the state registration of all automobiles and fixing the limit of speed at twenty miles an hour on country roads.

MISPRINT IS AMUSING

A New Mistake is Found in Law Affecting Inebriates.

Newspaper Supplement of State Laws of 1907 is Issued.

Though a seeming typographical error in the law supplement that has been issued, containing the general laws passed by the Minnesota legislature at the session of 1907, provision is made in the bill establishing a hospital farm for inebriates that it shall be unlawful for any reputable physician to certify to the inebrity of any person for the purpose of securing his commitment to custody.

According to the law, as it is published, "it shall not be unlawful for an physician to certify to the inebrity of any persons for the purpose of securing his commitment to custody, unless such physician is of a reputable character, a graduate of some incorporated medical college, a permanent resident of the state, etc."

The apparent error in the use of the word "not" has caused some amusement among the attorneys who have read the law.

The law is one of the longest passed by the last legislature and is of more or less general interest.

It is entitled Chapter 288—H. F. No. 642, and is entitled, "An act creating and establishing a hospital farm for inebriates, and authorizing the state board of control to purchase lands therefor, and to provide means for the building and maintenance of such an institution.

It is provided that the state acquire a suitable tract of land, not to exceed 640 acres, build and equip a hospital and appoint a superintendent.

Under the law "inebriates" is a term applied to every species of chronic inebriety, or in the common vernacular of the street all chronic "jags." The term applies whether the person so termed uses to excess liquor, morphine, opium or other narcotics.

When the hospital and farm is ready for patients the governor will issue a proclamation to that effect to the probate judges in each county in the state.

The procedure to secure the commitment of an inebriate is about as follows:

Whenever a verified petition is filed with the judge of the probate court, setting forth that a person in the county is an inebriate and in need of care and treatment, or that it is dangerous for him to remain at large, stating the petitioner's relationship to the person claimed to be an inebriate and stating the indications of inebriety or lack of control in the use of liquors or narcotics, the court shall direct such alleged inebriate to be brought before it on a warrant directed to the sheriff or any constable in the county.

It is provided that when any person shall have been convicted of drunkenness three times in a court of competent jurisdiction, the judge holding such court may file with the probate court a certificate showing the dates of the convictions, and the probate judge shall issue a warrant and deal with the person, as provided in the act, without the petition being filed.

Alleged inebriates will be examined before a board of three persons of whom at least one shall be a duly qualified physician.

The board will hear all the testimony there is to be had on the question of the inebrity of the person in custody and the witnesses will be subpoenaed in the usual way.

Any person who swears falsely or makes false representations concerning the conditions of a person alleged to be an inebriate, shall be deemed guilty of felony.

Persons found by the board of examiners to be inebriates have the right of appeal to the district court and their cases shall be tried by a jury. The term of dentention and treatment at the inebriate farm shall be indeterminate, but not be longer than two years without a release on parole.

Patients on parole who do not make satisfactory reports may be returned to the farm and hospital.

For the building and maintenance of the hospital a tax of 2 per cent is levied on all license fees for the sale of intoxicating liquor.

NINETY PERISH IN MINE BLAZE

Careless Cigarette Smoking Responsible for Mexican Disaster.

Mexico City, May 13.—Ninety lives were lost in a fire in the Cornethas shaft of the Ternera group of the Ternera group of mines in the town of Velardena, state of Durango. The fire started early Friday night in an abandoned shaft. At the time 107 men were working in another part of the mine, and only seventeen escaped. Thirty-five bodies have been recovered, but as the fire is still raging it is feared that few others will be found.

The fire is supposed to have been due to the carelessness of a miner who was smoking a cigarette in an abandoned drift through which he was passing. The shaft, in which the fire is still raging, is one of a mine which is in a group of the largest copper producers in the northern section of Mexico. The Guggenheim interests are said to own the property.

THE OHIO SITUATION

Despite the Recent Agreement, There May be Lively Fight.

Thought That Burton Will Not Oppose Foraker's Election.

FROM THE HERALD WASHINGTON BUREAU.

Washington, May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Politicians in Washington looked at one another with elevated eyebrows and knowing winks when they read in last week's papers that there was quite a decided change in the political situation in Ohio, and that everything pointed to an understanding between the forces of Secretary Taft and Senator Foraker regarding the complexion of the Buckeye delegation to the next national Republican convention. Those who have followed the politics of Ohio for a quarter of a century are inclined to believe that the position taken by George Cox, late boss of the Republican party in Cincinnati, clarifies the atmosphere tremendously, but they are at a loss to understand what is underneath Cox's pronouncement in favor of Taft for the presidency, Foraker for the senate and Harris the acting governor, for the gubernatorial nomination.

Senator Foraker, when shown the position taken by Mr. Cox, said if it was the wish of the Republicans of Ohio to send a delegation to the national convention favorable to the nomination of the distinguished secretary of war, he would heartily acquiesce in the same, and Secretary Taft would find in him a most earnest and enthusiastic supporter. On the face of things it would seem that, instead of being the battle ground for two titanic forces, commanded by Secretary Taft on the one side and Senator Foraker on the other, it is to be a quiet, orderly "try-out" to see who really controls the political situation in Ohio, and that settled, the rank and file of the Republican party will gird up their loins and proceed to smite their ancient enemy, the Democratic party, most roundly. And all this is done to allay factional differeces in the Republican party in Ohio, so far as the municipal elections go, and which occur in November. There are no state issues at hand this year. There are no state officers to be elected, but there are elections throughout the commonwealth for city and county officers, and rather than lose control of local affairs throughout the cities and in the state, both factions of the Republican party can readily get together on some basis which will continue that party in power.

There are those in and about Washington who have made Ohio politics a study who assert that the dove of peace which now seems to hover over the Buckeye state is an earnest of stressful days to come; that with the November elections over, and the party lines strengthened, there will still be left for next year one of the novellest scrapes that our country has seen in years. These wiseacres believe that Senator Foraker, like the Missourian, "has got to be shown" that the people of Ohio want Taft before he will yield the delegation to him, and they see in Mr. Cox's declaration for Taft for president, and Foraker to succeed himself, one of the finest bits of political generaiship that has been presented in an exceedingly long time.

It is generally thought that, as conditions now are in Ohio, and everything on its face looking so serene and pleasant after the threatening storm, it eliminates Theodore E. Burton, and that he will not enter the senatorial fight against Joseph Benson Foraker, but that instead he will be a candidate against Senator Dick, whose term expires March 3, 1911. Burton lives in the Western reserve, as does Dick, and therefore it would be following precedent to be a candidate for the senatorship in the section of the state, which custom has divided the state. North Ohio was settled by people from the New England states, South Ohio largely by the people from Virginia and Kentucky. It is from this latter section that Foraker comes, and if the precedent is to be carried out he will be his own successor in the event the delegation to the next Republican national convention be not with him for the presidency, or else he will have a candidate against him from the section which he has represented for so many years in the upper branch of congress.

Secretary Garfield has designated F. H. Newell, the director of the reclamation service, as the consulting engineer of the geological survey. This is in recognition of Mr. Newell's long service in building up the engineering work of that bureau, as it pertains to the measurement of streams and the determination of the water supply. This work was initiated by him in 1888, and carried on under his direction. It has gradually expanded from a few simple measurements into a system covering the greater part of the United States.

As a result a large amount of data has been brought together, covering the behavior of streams in different parts of the country and affording material upon which to base substantial development. The importance of these investigations will be readily appreciated when it is known that during recent years from $3,000,000 to $5,000,000 per annum has been expended in waterpowers and other works which would not have been invested if it were not for the existence of the data, which have been procured by the geological survey. These records of river flow and fluctations in high and low water seasons extend through a number of years and are absolutely essential to the engineer and investor in planning important works for stream utilization.

It is proposed by the geological survey that this work shall be continued and still further expanded in variousness, and to assist in this Mr. Newell has been designated, as stated above, as the consulting engineer of the survey.

It is a notable fact that all of the railway cars exhibited at the Jamestown exposition are lighted by electricity, and most of them are constructed of steel, as typifying the highest progress of the car builders' art. On the other hand, when the postoffice department has in the past asked the railroads to equip their mail cars with electricity as a lighting agent, the answer has universally been that electricity as a lighting agent on railroad trains is the coming light, but that it is still in the experimental stage.

This being the case, the friends of the railway postal clerks in the senate and house are going to make a great effort to pass a law next winter compelling the railroads to so equip their cars. The senate did pass a bill requiring it last winter, but it was killed in the conference on the postoffice appropriation bill, on the alleged ground that the department already has the power to require railroads to so equip their cars. There are those who believe the department will hesitate to exercise this authority, except under express authority of congress, and that this must be obtained before electrical equipment can be installed.

Statistics show that more mail is destroyed in wrecks through fires caused from exploding gas than from any other source. In a wreck of any seriousness the pipes are broken and the first spark from any source results in an explosion that communicates fire to all the mail. The greater portion of mail cars are lighted by gas.

In cases like this not only is the mail destroyed, but usually the bodies of the hapless clerks are incinerated, and in some cases the indestructible mail lock key has been the only means of locating the ashes of the bodies of the clerks. The average mail car costs $6,000 to build and is rented to the government for fifteen years at $5,447 a year.

GOOD LIFE MAY BRING PAROLE

Michigan Has Strange Parallel to Convict January Case.

Jackson, Mich., May 13.—After two years of freedom, during which he tried to atone for past misdeeds by hard work and decent living, John Allison, member of the notorious Lake Shore gang, who was sentenced to seventeen years in prison for participation in the Richland, Mich., bank robbery, and escaped in 1904, is back in the Jackson penitntiary to serve out his remaining twelve years, unless he secures a parole or pardon because of his good record during the two years of freedom.

The Lake Shore gang spread terror through Southern Michigan and Northern Ohio and Indiana in 1898, by their robberies. In 1899, Allison, with three other members of the gang, P. Everett, Slater and Spellman, were captured and convicted of robbing the Richland, Mich., bank. Allison was given a seventeen-year sentence and with the others sent to the prison here. While repairs were being made in the institution, they succeeded in escaping. Allison made his way to Illinois, forsook his former ways, took a new name and went to work as a mechanic. He met Mrs. Wagner, a widow with four children, fell in love with her, and married her without disclosing his past life.

Allison's fellow workmen in the plow works raised a modest purse for Mrs. Allison, who came to this city where she might be near her husband and could work for his release.

Governor F. M. Warner, who was impressed with Allison's apparently sincere reformation, has said that he believes he should be given some relief from the long term of imprisonment which he faces.

TRAMP NEARLY DROWNS IN TANK OF ENGINE.

St. Louis, May 13.—As the Chicago & Alton limited pulled out of St. Louis Saturday a tramp snugley esconed himself at the rear of the engine's tender, but when the train was well under way fell into the opening of the engine's water tank. His cries for help were unheard and he was buffeted about the tank in the swirling water by the surging of the train.

At Alton, the first stop, faint cries for help were heard and the fireman discovered the hatchway of the water tank open and peered in. The tramp was splashing in the water feebly trying to keep his head above the surface and was almost exhausted. He was pulled out and laid on the ground, half strangled and partially unconscious.

How to Exercise the Bowels

YOUR Intestines are lined inside with millions of suckers, that draw the Nutrition from food as it passes them. But, if the food passes too slowly, it decays before it gets through. Then the little suckers draw Poison from it instead of Nutrition. This Poison makes a Gas that injures your system more than the food should have nourished it.

The usual remedy for this delayed passage (called Constipation) is to take a big dose of Castor Oil.

This merely make slippery the passage for unloading the current cargo.

It does not help the Cause of delay a trifle. It does slacken the Bowel-Muscles, and weakens them for their next task.

Another remedy is to take a strong "Physic," like Salts, Calomel, Jalap, Phosphate of Sodium, Aperient Water, or any of these mixed.

What does the "Physic" do?

It merely flushes-out the Bowels with a waste of Digestive Juice, set flowing into the Intestines through the tiny suckers.

Cascarets are the only safe medicine for the bowels.

They do not waste any precious fluid of the Bowels, as "Physics" do.

They do not relax the Intestines by greasing them Inside like Castor Oil or Glycerine.

They simply stimulate the Bowel-Muscles to do their work naturally, comfortably, and nutritiously.

They are put up in thin, flat, round-cornered Enamel boxes, so they can be carried in a man's vest pocket, or in a woman's purse, all the time, without bulk or trouble.

The time to take a Cascaret is not only when you are Sick, but when you first suspect you need one. Price, 10c a box.

Be very careful to get the genuine, made only by the Sterling Remedy Company and never sold in bulk. Every tablet stamped "CCC." All druggists. 739

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

SOX TOOK TWO GAMES

Morrison's Lethbridge Team Was Beaten Twice.

Sox Hit, Fielded, and Ran the Bases Well.

The beating at the hands of the Kelley Hardware team Friday seems to have caused the White Sox to awaken to the fact that they can play ball, if they will, for Saturday and yesterday, they defated the Lethbridge team of the Western Canada league handily by scores of 5 to 2 and 6 to 5, respectively. They didn't have an easy time by any means, for John Morrison has a ball team in that Lethbridge outfit. Both games were played with a wintry chill to the air, but the Sox were out to win and they made the slugger which they brought into play offset the bad effects of the cold weather.

Despite the unfavorable climatic conditions yesterday, about 500 fans gathered for the game and they went away satisfied that Smiley Smith's men can play ball. Those white-stockinged boys played the game from the first call of play until the last man was out. They hit like fiends and fielded brilliantly, but not only that. They played inside baseball and made everything count. If those boys run bases throughout the season as they did yesterday they will place a few games on the right side of the Duluth column this summer. They took advantage of every slip of Lethbridge and made it count for its full value and to that fact they owe their victory.

From a spectator's point of view, the game was a good one. There was plenty of hitting, some good fielding, tense situations galore and baseball all the way through. In the field, Lethbridge showed weakness at times, but the way in which the Sox took advantabe of the opportunities thus given them only added interest to the game.

Duluth got off badly, when Lethbridge started right at Krick and scored three runs in the first inning. Jim Haney went in the box in the first with one down and two on bases and ended the inning by striking two out. He held the Canucks well until the ninth inning, when Morrison put Schurch and Fogarty in to bat and started a healthy batting rally, which scored two runs, but fell short of a victory. Morrison pitched for Lethbridge and the Sox pounded him hard all the way through. The twelve hits were all for single bases, but they came in bunches and with men on bases, seven of them coming in three innings for six scores.

Krick started the game by giving Foster a ticket, free gratis, and Mackin sacrificed him to second. O'Dea drove him in with a single and moved ahead when Booth walked. Krick filled the bases by hitting Bues. Nunzie singled, scoring O'Dea and Booth, Haney took the hill and Ball and Rogers scored.

Two errors by Lethbridge in the second didn't get the Sox anything, nor did two hits in the third. They started something in the fourth, however, McCormack singled to left and went to second while Booth was juggling the ball. Leighty sacrificed him to third and he scored when Smith hit a slow one to Mackin, the captain going out at first.

In the fifth, they got to Morrison hard and with the aid of an error and some brilliant base running, made three hits count for three runs. Roy went out on a pop-up to second and Haney was given a life by an error of Nunzie in right field. He stole second and went along to third on Summers' single. Tracey hit safely, Haney scoring and Summers landing on third in a cloud of dust. Goldsmith hit a fly to right and Summers beat out the throw to the plate, Tracey taking third in the mixup. The big fellow scored on McCormack's single. Leighty ended the inning by fanning.

Smith singled in the sixth and went to third, but died there, when Booth picked off a hard crack from Haney's bat. In the seventh, the Sox scored up two more. Summers took first on O'Dea's error and he stole second, scoring on Goldsmith's single. Goldsmith also swiped the second sack and scored on McCormack's single. Somebody sent McCormack to steal and Mackin was waiting for him with the ball. Leighty singled and met the same fate.

In the sixth, Lethbridge started out with a two base hit and a single right at the start, but fast fielding prevented a score. In the ninth, there were some fireworks and it looked for a time as though the game was going to slip away after the Sox had it fairly won. Schurch came up to bat for Rogers and singled. Fogarty did the same, batting for Morrison, Schurch going to third on the hit. Foster went out on a fly to left and Fogarty took second. Mackin singled, scoring Schurch and was caught while trying to steal second. O'Dea's single scored Fogarty and Booth ended it all by popping a foul to Jimmy Fagin.

After Artie O'Dea, by a home run swat over the left field fence, had grabbed off Saturday's game and presumably stowed it safely away in Jack Morrison's grip, the Sox, led by Jimmy Fagin, made a concerted attack in the eighth inning and recaptured the honors, wining out by a score of 5 to 2.

Although the game was played with the mercury hovering around the freezing point and the couple of hundred fans, who had braved the elements to see the team work, had to load themselves with winter clothes and then couldn't keep warm, it was a good exhibition. Errors were few and there was some good healthy swatting, when it was needed. There wasn't a moment when the tide of the game could not have been turned very easily and fast fielding served to keep the fans so interested that they well nigh forgot their troubles.

Our old friend Hank Schurch, who used to throw them over for Glass' Own last year, started out to pitch for Letabridge. He was slightly wild and in the first inning gave bases to two men, but the Sox couldn't get a hit off of him and he held them well in hand for the four innings in which he performed. He was succeeded by Grogan, who was plentifully touched for timely bingles.

Al Cummings pitched for the Sox and the Canucks didn't do much damage to him, Artie O'Den's mighty clout being the sole run-getter. In the third, a single and a base on ball made things look bad for a few minutes, but a double pulled off by Summers and Tracey, cut off the scores. In the fourth again, Nunzie drew a single and stole second and third, but died on the last station. Artie O'Den pulled off his little stunt in the sixth, Mackin, Marrison's diminutive second basemean, hit one at Leighty, who failed to handle it. He stole second while Bues was fanning and Artie came to bat. He caught one fairly on the nose and Bill McCormack stood and watched it sail over the left field fence, Artie circling the bases with Mackin in front of him. Nunzie made his second hit and again stole second, but Ball struck out and Rogers was retired by Leighty, ending the inning and the scoring for the Canadians.

The Sox secured their first in the fifth, when Grogan started to pitch. With Smith out, Fagin drew a pass on balls and went to second on a passed ball. He stole third and completed the circuit on Cummings' hit. Al also pilfered a bag and McLaughlin drew a pass. They both advanced a base, when Mackin failed to connect with Summers' grounder and with the bases full, Tracey and Goldsmith went out on flies.

In the seventh, with Fagin down, Cummings hit for two bases. Haney was substituted for McLaughlin and he clouted one far out into left. It looked good, but Fogarty made a great running catch and pulled it down. Summers hit safely, sending Cummings to third, but Tracey wasn't there and fanned.

The fireworks were pulled off in the eighth. Goldsmith, the first man up, was robbed of a hit by Fogarty, who was pulling off some great stunts out in right. McCormack was given first and Leighty fanned. There wer two down and the fans had visions of another defeat for the unlucky Sox. Roy, who had succeeded Smith behind the bat in the previous inning, singled and it was up to Jimmy Fagin. Jimmy was there. He gave Foster and Nunzie a lively chase to the fence between right and center, scoring McCormack and Roy and taking second. Cummings walked and Fagin went to third on a passed ball. Haney duplicated Fagin's trick, scoring both men and Summers ended the inning by going out on a grounder to short. It was one-two-three for the Canadians in the ninth.

LOSE IN ONE BAD INNING

Blaine Scored Four In Fourth Against Duluth Boys.

Rooney Blanks Duluth Stickers After the Third Inning

Though Cummings held the Blaineites down to three hits while the Duluth boys connected with Rooney for safe ones several times, one disastrous inning, the fourth, when big "Goldie" Young found Cummings for a three-bagger at a critical moment, resulted in the defeat of Duluth high at the hands of Blaine, Saturday afternoon at Hammond Park, Superior. Blaine scored four times in this frame, the final tally being 5 to 4.

Duluth scored four times in the first three innings, Rooney being hit freely, but in the fourth the little Superior slab artist struck his galt and Duluth failed to tally after that stage. Cummings also took a brace after the sad fourth inning and pitched a hitless game for the rest of the contest.

Rooney had eleven strikeouts to Cummings' six and both allowed two passes to first, but the Duluth boy had a little the better of the pitching battle, as Duluth got to Rooney for a number of good safe two-baggers, while Burns and Young, who slammed out a two and a three bagger in the Duluth boys' one bad inning were the only pair of the Superiorites who got more than a single. Rooney's support, which was sensational at times, saved a couple of other tallies that looked good at the start from being labeled hits.

Duluth's fielding was somewhat ragged in spots, but the team worked together in fistrate shape and the boys gether in fistrate shape and the boys feel that with a little more work they can take the second game from the ball tossers from across the bay by a good margin. "That three-point lead in the third inning gave us all a big dose of over-confidence and it finished us, that's all," said one of the boys after the game.

Cole, Cummings and McDevitt led the Duluth stickers. Peterson had a little better of McDevitt in the backstop department, as the Blaineites had eight stolen bases to their credit and Duluth only two. McDevitt did some great work raking in the wild ones, however, only one passed ball being called on him.

CULLED FROM THE SCORE BOOK.

Jack Morrison's team has in its make-up a number of familiar faces. Morrison, himself, was manager of the champion Calumet Aristocrats last year. Cantering around in center garden was "Rabbit" Bill Foster, once of Superior and last year buffeted about between Lake Linden-Hancock, Houghton and Frago. Artie O'Dea is holding down the first sack and behind the bat is Oy Rogers, who caught for Superior about three years ago, and was in the Western league last year. Hank Schurch of last year's Lake Linden team is also on the pitching staff.

Krick was wild as the proverbial Comanche indian yesterday. He handed tickets to Foster and Booth and hit Bues in the slats before Smith pulled him off the hill.

Old Jim Haney is going to cut some figure with the stick this year. He took a hit in each game of the Lethbridge series and kept the outfielders on the jump every time he came to bat.

Bill McCormack struck his gait yesterday and poked out three singles out of four times up. They came where they would do the most good, too.

Yesterday's game showed the effects of drilling in inside baseball. Teamwork went and there were no attempts to swat it out of the lot, when a sacrifice was advisable. The boys ran bases well and in every inning, there was evidence of headwork on the part of the manager and the men.

Jimmy Fagin is cutting up capers around the third sack. In the second inning yesterday, he grabbed off a grass-cutter and shot it to first, bringing a round of applause and again in the ninth, he pulled down a hot one, though too late to get the man.

The pounding they gave Jack Morrison yesterday doesn't seem to indicate that the Sox can't hit. One couldn't ask for more than twelve singles, seven of them well bunched. Getting out with two errors on a cold day like yesterday, is fielding some, too.

"Smiley" Smith caught both games and he made himself solid with the fans. He goes after everything and pulled down some difficult fouls. His anxiety to get everything, let a foul get away yesterday, when Tracey might have caught it, but ginger in the man behind the bat is a good thing and the fans like to see it.

Jim Haney's philosophy: "After a game, I never ask how many hits or how many errors, just how many runs, and if we're one run to the good, there's no cause for complaint. The team that comes out one run to the good more times than any other wins the pennant."

Artie O'Dea's swat over the left field fence Saturday was a mighty one. He pulled it off with a man on base and for a time the fans thought it won the game for the Canadians.

Goldsmith only got one hit in the two games, but he batted in hard luck. A couple of swats, which might have been good, were pulled down. He meets the ball well and has all the earmarks of a hitter.

TWO GAMES CALLED OFF

Medicine Hat Team Cannot Come for Exhibitions.

Manager Kuehnow of the White Sox yesterday received a message from the manager of the Medicine Hat team of the Western Canada league, cancelling the two exhibition games scheduled for Duluth today and tomorrow. The Medicine Hat team was recruited in Montreal and had been playing exhibition games on the way West. The team became crippled, so all exhibition games were called off and they will go direct to Medicine Hat.

The calling off of the two games means that there will be no more baseball until Thursday, when the Houghton Glants will be here to couple up with the Sox in the first game of the season. The Giants are due to play at Hibbing today and tomorrow.

The Lethbridge team left last night for Winnipeg, where they play two games before leaving for the Alberta town. The season in the Western Canada league opens a week from today.

READY FOR THE SPRING

Copper Country Teams Have Rounded Into Good Shape.

Houghton Opens at Duluth and Calumet at Winnipeg.

Houghton, Mich., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Copper country fans will get their first professional ball for the season on Memorial day—unless the various military organizations, G. A. R., Spanish-American War Veterans, Naval Reserves, Calumet Engineering corps and Houghton Light infantry, which present a formidable array, can prevent the games from being played. A movement toward this end has been started, and the crusade against the "desecration of Memorial day" is on in full blast.

The Houghton team arrived home this week, and it is a good-looking squad. Miller of the pitching staff, came from Grand Rapids of the Michigan league; G. and W. Neubaurer, "Christy" Egan and Kaiser from Chicago. Kaiser is the star—a wonder. He allowed only two hits to Green Bay in twelve innings, and Egan gave only two in eight. W. Neubaurer has not had a chance to show himself yet, but his brother has everything, a world of speed and wonderful curves. Miller is wild and needs schooling, and he will get it. There is not a southpaw or "spitball" artist in the bunch.

Gibson and Ryan will catch, Solbraa, old Lake Linden favorite and crack first baseman, will fill that position; Capt. Taylor will be at second, Sundheim is back at third, and is in better condition even than he was last year, and Bittings, the "find" of the season and a wonderful man with the stick, will be at short. In left field, Meyers will work, the only left hand hitter on the team, and Gilmour and Licht will take care of the other gardens.

The team goes to Hibbing this week for two games before opening at Duluth.

Calumet, Mich., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Calumet Aristocrats, winners of last year's pennant in the Northern-Copper Country league, are tearing up things in great shape on their workout trip through Minnesot. Everything that goes up against the pennant holders is getting bumped. First it was the "champs" of the Wisconsin State league, La Crosse, then others of the bush circuit, next Walter Bel"s celebrated colored gentlemen, the Gophers of St. Paul, and then the Lethbridge team of the New Western Canada league.

The Calumets are certainly a strong-looking bunch of players. They work well with Mullane, a Minneapolis catcher, at their head, and bid well to hold the pennant and add more glories this year to the stack piled up last. Dun, a new pitcher, is doing good work, as is Newcombe, who was with Lake Linden last year. Mullane works behind the bat, alternating with Kurke, who caught Newcombe last season. Schroeder of Kelly's Des Moines bunch, also is working well. The other pitchers are doing fair. Four twirlers will be carried.

Dolan, star first of the league last year, is hitting out his home runs right from the start this season, and is taking care of the initial sack in first-classs manner. Taylor and Carley, two Indians, trying for the infield, are showing up well, and Jack Burns is playing good ball. The othre men are not yet decided on.

TROUT FISHING NOU YET GOOD

Streams High and Cold and Snow Deep in Woods.

Although quite a number of Duluth fishermen visited some of the North shore streams between the city and Two Harbors, yesterday, there were no good catches reported, in fact most of the fishermen did not get any trout.

The water is still cold and high and it is practically impossible to get through the woods about the streams on account of the snow, which is from three to four feet deep yet, except on the south slopes of the hills where the sun may have penetrated to some extent. The snow has settled and there is a light crust on top but this is treacherous and persons walking on it break through every few steps.

So large an amount of snow in the woods means another period of high water in the streams in case the weather continues warm for any period of time or there are warm rains. Some of the woodsmen believe that there will be snow in some parts of the woods as late as the early part of July.

GIANTS WERE WINNERS.

Houghton Team Won Exhibition From Hurontown Yesterday.

Houghton, Mich., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Copper country baseball season opened here yesterday with the Houghton Giants playing the Hurontown semi-professionals, the Giants winning 9 to 1. The game was marked by loose fielding. Egan for Houghton pitched a good game for six innings. Mutter with Hurontown was a star, as was Smith, the pitcher. Miller pitched two innings for Houghton and gave three hits. Eagen gave two. Score:

Houghton	1	1	2
Hurontown	1	5	6

Batteries—Egan, Miller and Gibson; Smith and Wedge.

Women Who Wear Well.

It is astonishing how great a change a few years of married life often make in the appearance and disposition of many women. The freshness, the charm, the brilliance vanish like the bloom from a flower which is rudely handled. The matron is only a dim shadow, a faint echo of the charming maiden. Few young women appreciate the shock of the system through the change which comes with marriage and motherhood. Many neglect to deal with the unpleasant pelvic drains and weaknesses which too often come with marriage and motherhood, not understanding that this secret drain is robbing the cheek of its freshness and the form of its fairness.

As surely as the general health suffers when there is derangement of the health of the delicate womanly organs, so surely when these organs are established in health the face and form at once witness to the fact in renewed comeliness. More than a million women have found health and happiness in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It makes weak women strong and sick women well. Ingredients on label—contains no alcohol or harmful habit-forming drugs. It is made wholly of those native, American, medicinal roots most highly recommended by leading medical authorities of all the several schools of practice for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments.

For nursing mothers, or for those broken-down in health by too frequent bearing of children, also for the expectant mothers, to prepare the system for the coming of baby and make its advent easy and almost painless, there is no medicine quite so good as "Favorite Prescription." It can do no harm in any condition of the system. It is a most potent invigorating tonic and strengthening nervine, nicely adapted to woman's delicate system by a physician of large experience in the treatment of woman's peculiar ailments.

Bad Symptoms. The woman who has periodical headaches, backache, sees imaginary dark spots or specks floating or dancing before her eyes, has gnawing distress or heavy full feeling in stomach, faint spells, dragging-down feeling in lower abdominal or pelvic region, easily startled or excited, irregular or painful periods, with or without pelvic catarrh, is suffering from weaknesses and derangements that should have early attention. Not all of above symptoms are likely to be present in any case at one time.

Neglected or badly treated and such cases often run into maladies which demand the surgeon's knife if they do not result fatally.

No medicine extant has such a long and numerous record of cures in such cases as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. No medicine has such a strong professional indorsement of each of its several ingredients—worth more than any number of ordinary non-professional testimonials. The very best ingredients known to medical science for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments enter into its composition. No alcohol, harmful, or habit-forming drug is to be found in the list of its ingredients printed on each bottle-wrapper and attested under oath as complete and correct.

In any condition of the female system, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription can do only good—never harm. Its whole effect is to strengthen, invigorate and regulate the whole female system and especially the pelvic organs. When these are deranged in function or affected by disease, the stomach and other organs of digestion become sympathetically deranged, the nerves are weakened, and a long list of bad, unpleasant symptoms follow. Too much must not be expected of the "Favorite Prescription." It will not perform miracles; will not cure tumors—no medicine will. It will often prevent them, if taken in time, and thus the operating table and the surgeon's knife may be avoided.

Doctor's All Agree. The most eminent writers on Materia Medica, whose works are consulted as authorities by physicians of all the different schools of practice, extol, in the most positive terms, the curative virtues of each and every ingredient entering into Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. In fact it is the only medicine, put up for sale through druggists for the cure of all diseases of the mucous surfaces, as nasal catarrh, throat, laryngeal, and bronchial affections attended by lingering, or hang-on-coughs that has any such professional endorsement—worth more than any amount of lay or non-professional testimonials.

Do not expect too much from the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It will not work miracles. It will not cure consumption in its advanced stages. No medicine will. Nor is the "Discovery" so good for a sudden attack of acute cough, but for the lingering, obstinate, hang-on-coughs, accompanying catarrhal, throat, laryngeal and bronchial affections, it is a most efficacious remedy. In cases accompanied with wasting of flesh, night-sweats, weak stomach and poor digestion with faulty assimilation, and which, if neglected or badly treated are apt to lead to consumption, the "Discovery" has proven wonderfully successful in effecting cures.

The formula is printed on every wrapper of "Golden Medical Discovery," attested as to correctness under oath, and you can't afford to accept any substitute of unknown composition for this non-secret remedy no matter what selfish interests may prompt the dealer to urge such upon you. In fact it is an insult to your intelligence for him to do so. You know what you want and it is his place to supply that want.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the original "Little Liver Pills" first put up by old Dr. Pierce over 40 years ago. Much imitated, but never equaled. They cleanse, invigorate and regulate stomach, liver and bowels, curing biliousness and constipation. Little sugar-coated granules—easy to take as candy.

Dr. Pierce may be consulted by letter free of charge. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser (1000 pages) is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps for paper-covered, or 31 stamps for cloth-bound copy. Address Dr. Pierce as above

DECISION RENDERED

Mrs. Minnie Walsh Gets Divorce on Ground of Cruelty.

Ellis Walsh is Given Custody of Their Children.

Granting Mrs. Minnie Walsh a decree of divorce from Ellis Walsh, on the grounds of cruelty, and awarding the custody of their three children to the father, Judge Dibell, Saturday evening, rendered judgment in the divorce action which for some time past has attracted considerable attention in the district court.

Before the court rendered judgment he heard additional evidence, claimed by Mr. Walsh to have a bearing on the case, and which was given with the intent to show that Mrs. Walsh and Ole Berg, the former clerk at Virginia, who figured very prominently in the case, were seen together since the trial started.

Mrs. Walsh testified in her own behalf to contradict the testimony of several witnesses. Four or five women were called to establish an alibi for Mrs. Walsh on the nights she was alleged to have been seen with Ole Berg.

A lively tilt took place between Miss Mary Walsh, a sister of the defendant, and C. E. Adams, attorney for Mrs. Walsh. Miss Walsh accused Mr. Adams of inducing children to commit perjury, and the latter replied by charging Miss Walsh with deliberately lying while on the witness stand. He claimed the witness would do anything to convict Mrs. Walsh of improper conduct.

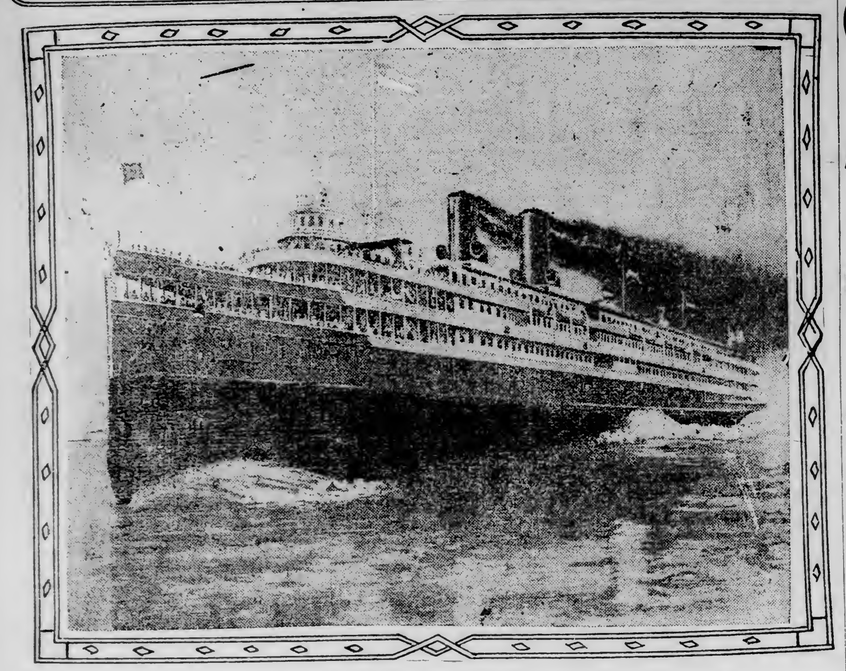
After all the testimony was in, Mr. Baldwin, for the defense, said he thought the father should have the custody of the children; that Mrs. W. H. Cook, an aunt of the children, had signified her willingness to care for and raise them properly if they were given in the charge of their father.

Mr. Adams argued that Mrs. Walsh had been grossly wronged. He claimed that Ole Berg had also been wronged. Mr. Adams made an eloquent plea that Mrs. Walsh be given a decree, and that she also be given the custody of the children.

Judge Dibell, in rendering judgment, did so in a few words. He said he regretted that the matter had come into court at all. The court said Mrs. Walsh would be granted a decree of absolute divorce on the grounds of cruelty; that she should have $350 permanent allimony; that Mr. Walsh should pay the costs of the suit, amounting to about $150, and Mrs. Walsh's attorney's fees, amounting to $200.

The court gave Ellis Walsh custody of the children

MARINE NEWS



STEAMER CITY OF CLEVELAND.
Burned at Detroit Shipyards When Nearly Completed. It Was to Have Been the Largest Passenger Boat on the Great Lakes.

WILL LOWER LAKE LEVEL

Chicago People Want More Water for Drainage Canal.

Lake Carriers Association Will Make Strong Protest Against it.

Another attempt is being made by the governor of Illinois and officials of the drainage board of Chicago to get permission to take an additional flow of water from Lake Michigan for the great drainage canal. A number of the drainage officials called on Secretary Taft at Washington last week, but he refused at present to change the current and the situation is now the same as it was after the hearing last winter.

Officials of the Lake Carriers' association have made a hard fight against an additional flow of water from Lake Michigan and the marine men and vessel owners of all lake ports are said to be with them and will unite in protest against the plan. The lowering of the lake levels for the drainage canal purpose is a question of interest to marine men from one end of the Great Lakes to the other.

"It is indisputable," said a prominent member of the Lake Carriers' association recently, "That the diversion of the water will, to whatever extent achieved, affect lake levels, and good authority has pronounced that the projects contemplated would reduce the levels from eight to twelve or even up to fifteen inches according to the extent of the depletion suggested.

"Naturally the Lake Carriers' association must combat such a result, and is already doing so. But it must be put upon a broader ground than the mere interest of the vessel owner, who it is asserted, received a greater return on his investment when there were more shallow channels and smaller ships, than today with the deeper channels and the big ships.

"The advantages of moving large quantities in a single ship, and the wonderful expedition of handling cargoes, comes to the general community, to every producer and every consumer in cheap transportation, and the only advantage to the ship owner is that the increase of business requires a larger ship and the cheaper transportation in order that they shall have any business at all. It is the old story of American opportunity and enterprise in progression of the physical means of carrying on business; and so at whatever cost, the old time canal schooner gave way to the larger vessel, which therefore carried at reduced rate, and so factors it has come by rapid stages, that vessels have grown larger yea: by year. The people of the United States have profited, and the owners and operators of ships have had to keep pace with the general progress, just as the railroads have had to improve their railroads and increase their capacity, all the time tending to a lower charge upon the things carried.

"It has never been intimated or suggested by the Lake Carriers' association or by anyone, that anything should be put in the way of such use and withdrawal of water from Lake Michigan as is in good faith necessary to the health of Chicago and to the sanitary district. The only objection that has even been suggested is to going beyond that point for purely business purposes and private advantage."

SINKS AFTER COLLISION.

Steamer Whittaker Is Struck by the Goult in Detroit River.

Detroit, Mich., May 12.—The steamer Byron Whittaker of Detroit, was sunk in the lower Detroit river last night off Amherstburg, after a collision with the steamer John C. Gault. The Gault was evidently not damaged, as she proceeded on her journey up the river. The Whittaker was going down the river with a load of corn. She was 250 feet long and built at Mount Clemens in 1896. The Whittaker's crew was rescued by the crew of the tug General.

By a singular coincidence, Byron Whittaker, a well known Detroit vessel man and owner of the sunken steamer, died yesterday, aged 76, his death preceding the wreck of his boat by only eight hours.

Patents Breakwater Protection.

George A. Wieland of this city has just secured a patent on a breakwater protection for ship canals which he claims would be all that is needed for the Duluth canal and harbor. It consists of a two-part breakwater arranged at substantially right angles to each other and at an angle to the canal. The idea for this protection has been advocated by others during the last year, but it was well known that the idea originated with Mr. Wieland.

WELL UNDER WAY

Lumber Traffic on the Lakes Has Opened Up Well.

The lumber traffic on the lakes is opening up very satisfactorily so far this spring, and is now fairly under way. Several fleets of lumber carriers are loading at the lumber docks this week.

C. H. Weeks, local lumber vessel agent, has nine boats which will leave the lumber with lumber this week, and other agents will send out a few boats. None of the lumber boats have yet made round trips from this port to the lower lakes yet this season.

"There will not be as much lumber traffic this year as in former years," said Mr. Weeks today, "as the products of the mills are being continually cut down. We have known that there would be a shortage over last year, but as the season opened late there will probably be enough lumber to move to keep all of the boats in this trade busy for the season."

Air Pump Broken.

Sault Ste. Marie, May 13.—The steamer Mecosta returned here last night with a broken air pump. Repairs will be completed tomorrow.

Less Tonnage in April.

The report of the Sault Ste. Marie canal shows that during the month of April 1,678,613 tons of freight were moved through the canal as against 2,513,267 tons last year or a decrease of 1,434,654 tons. It will not be difficult for the big fleet of lake carriers to overcome this handicap this year, however.

TUGMEN HAD BUSY DAY

Many Boats Arrived and Nearly All Wanted Assistance.

Three Tugs Out of Commission, Which Handicaps Company.

It was a lively day for the tugmen and dispatchers of the Union Towing company yesterday. All the afternoon there was a steady string of big freighters coming into the harbor and on account of the storm nearly all of them whistled for tugs either before or after enterin the canal.

Owing to a wreck on the Duluth & Iron Range road, there was very little ore at the Two Harbors docks and nearly all ore boats were sent to this port which increased the work of the tug office. Since Saturday at noon nearly fifty boats have arrived in port which is an unusually large number except on extraordinary occasions.

As a general thing the officials of the tug company are anxious for work for their tugs, of any kind, but yesterday they had almost more than they could attend to as three of their tugs are still out of commission. Several barges came in during the afternoon and on account of the heavy sea tugs were whistled for to bring them into the harbor.

The steamer Queen City of the Pittsburg company came in with the barge Corliss and as she came a little nearer to the canal piers before she whistled for a tug and then turned around and headed out into the lake some excitable East end people thought one or the other of the boats was damaged or aground. This was an entirely false alarm, however, as neither were in any danger of grounding at any time.

The tug company were badly handicapped yesterday and are still so today, as the tug Inman has not yet been gotten off the bank at Pittsburg coal dock No. 3, and the tug Record, which was damaged several weeks ago, has not yet been put back into commission. The Wisconsin lost her wheel last Friday and it will be several days yet before she will be any work. A vessel is being brought up the lakes for her on one of the upbound steamers. Dredging is being done near where the Inman is aground and she will probably be off soon.

Several loaded boats are at anchor in the harbor waiting for better weather before starting on the trip down the lakes. The wind is today blowing at about thirty to forty miles an hour and there is quite a heavy sea. The storm has not delayed the upbound fleet to any great extent.

RUSSIAN SOCIALISTS HOLD LONDON CONGRESS.

London, May 13.—The Russian Social Democratic congress met today in a small church at Islington, known as the "Brotherhood" chapel, whose pastor has strong Socialistic leanings. The night brought many delegates from various parts of the continent, and nearly 400 were present at the opening scsssion.

The proceedings were solely committee work, and attempts to reconcile the proposals of the various groups. There were considerable differences of opinion regarding the degree of publicity to be given to the debates. Press representatives were excluded, but it was practically decided to issue a censored summary at the conclusion of each of the plenary sittings, which begin tomorrow.

ON THE IRON RANGES

GREAT FIND OF IRON ORE

At Depth of 1,500 Feet in the Old Soudan Mine.

Fallacy of Diamond Drill Work on Vermilion Shown.

Tower, Minn., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Soudan mine in which for the past few years very little work has been done, will probably become an extensive shipper this season, as a new vein of ore has been struck. The quality of the new find is far superior to any ore ever mined in this section. The depth at which the new discovery was made is 1,500 feet and this fact, together with the quality of the ore and the size of the vein makes it one of the most important, if not the greatest find ever made on the Verrailion range. The finding of this ore at this time is conclusive proof that diamond drill work on this range is "no good," especially where the holes are less than one thousand feet; this fact is confirmed by the amount of work done in past years by the Minnesota Iron company as this company alone drilled 56,900 feet in the two mines of the Soudan and Lee Hills. Fifty-five of these holes were less than 500 feet deep and forty-nine averaged about 600 feet in depth. The principal part of the drilling on the Vermilion range was done in these two hills, leaving a greater part of the range unexplored, yet there is a certain school of geological men who persist in claiming that thousands of dollars have been uselessly spent in diamond drill work on the Vermilion range, and that there is not now or never was any merchantable ore found on the Vermilion. Of course, those people take a special interest in knocking, but it remains to be seen that the Vermilion, if given a chance, will surpass any of those now receiving so much attention.

The facts are that every mine ever found on the range was at some time condemned by the diamond drills and that everywhere a shaft has been sunk a mine was found. This is probably due to the fact that the drills have never gone deep enough. The new find here at a depth of 1,500 feet confirms the fact and as another example the Zenith at a depth of 800 feet showed a vein of only seven feet while at 1,200 feet, the vein was over 300 feet wide. The Pioneer mine did not show up a body of ore until the shaft reached over 800 feet deep, this same proposition holds good in every place on the range where the ore was not an outcrop. At the present time there are thousands of acres of good iron ore lands on this range, all showing good formation out crops and as these lands have never been explored for ore, it is only a matter of time when capital can be attracted and the vast area of the Vermilion explored. Then when quality and quantity are taken into consideration the Vermilion range will not have to take a back seat alongside any of the other ranges of the Lake Superior district.

MEUNCH STARTS FOR PHILIPPINES

Farewell Entertainment Given by the Chisholm High School.

Chisholm, Minn., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Prof. Meunch, who recently resigned as superintendent of schools, departed yesterday for the Philippine islands, where he will have charge of a number of schools. At the high school entertainment Friday evening, Prof. Meunch gave a farewell address. He spoke of his work in the school, covering a period of over five years and very feelingly referred to the building up of ties formed by years of close friendship. Prof. Meunch has a hold on the school and community as few superintendents have and the regret at parting with him is universal in the community.

The entertainment given by the school was an entire success and the different ones who participated showed a carefulness in training that is seldom excelled. The hall was crowded, ensuring the financial success of the entertainment, the proceeds of which will be applied to the athletic fund.

The entertainment consisted of the presentation of a football romance, entitled, "The Revolving Wedge" as follows:

Trio, "I've Said My Last Farewell," Dorothy, Samuel and Joseph Lewis.

Aurora, Minn., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The school board of this district have decided to build an addition to the present school structure. The board also decided to secure a university graduate as superintendent, and retain the present teaching force, which consists of C. E. Graham, principal; Misses Phoebe Gray, Eliza Savage and Jessie Perham. Next year the school will be fully graded.

Herbert Mayes is endeavoring to organize a band in Aurora. The village council has agreed to donate $50, and if the business men will raise another $150, the band will be started.

WOULD MOVE CHURCH.

Steps Taken to Change Location of Biwabik Congregational Edifice.

Biwabik, Minn., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Steps have been taken toward the removal of the Congregational church from its present location on the main street to a site on the proposed new addition, near the new high school building now in process of construction. If a lot can be secured from the owners of the land the church will be moved. It will be placed on a stone foundation and otherwise improved.

The board of supervisors of Biwabik township have decided to improve the road between McKinley and Elba immediately.

MUCH HIBBING REAL ESTATE CHANGES HANDS.

Hibbing, May 13.—Several real estate deals of considerable importance have been closed during the past few days. W. J. Ryder has purchased the Third avenue building, now occupied by the People's theater for $10,000, and it is understood that he will move his furniture store to that point. The building is leased for a year from date, however.

Fred Klass has purchased the J. F. Twitchell residence on lower Third avenue, for $3,250.

Mrs. Peter R. Simpson has purchased two corners on Washington street and Fourth avenue, and will build eight cottages at once. The price paid was $1,650 for one corner and $1,600 for the other.

The northeast corner of Washington and Third avenue has been sold by Powers & Simpson to Dr. H. R. Weirick, Dr. G. N. Butchart, Dr. C. F. Morsman and Mr. Lenoy. The corner contains four cottages and the total price paid was $7,000.

PRESIDENT COOK LOOKS OVER GROUND.

Eveleth, Minn., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—President Cook of the Duluth, Rainy Lake & Winnipeg railroad met several citizens of Eveleth Sunday and went over the ground where he desires his road shall enter Eveleth. A survey may be made later, but not at present. Both President Cook and the people of Eveleth are very anxious for the road to pass through the city and every effort will be made to accomplish that end.

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—"THE FREE LANCE."
METROPOLITAN—Burlesque.
BIJOU—Vaudeville.

LAST WEEK OF BURLESQUE.

The Brigadiers Make Very Favorable Impression at Metropolitan.

The Brigadiers opened the last week of burlesque at the Metropolitan Opera house with a matinee yesterday afternoon which was much enjoyed by a large audience.

The Brigadiers made a very favorable impression indeed, many persons declaring after seeing the performance that it was the best given on the Metropolitan stage this season.

The organization is a large one, composed of some clever funmakers and pretty girls, and the lines, music, and specialties seem to satisfy the auditors. "Mr. Dooley on the Empire Circuit" is the title of the skit which runs for two acts, furnishing a melange of mirth and music on each side of the vaudeville portion of the bill.

Tim Healy is Dooley and he makes a hit. Bernard Williams, William Lester, Lester Pike, Jack Symonds, Gladys St. John, Juliet Moure, Nellie Burt and others are first-class in the fun-making.

The chorus is really good looking.

The Sisters Mullini, instrumentalists, open the olio with some cleverly executed musical numbers. As drummers, they are very clever and their duets on the cornet are most enjoyable.

Lester and Moure have a funny knockabout act, replete with trick scenery and "props," called "A Day at the Beach," Sherman & Fuller call their acrobatic act "Tumbles, Bumps and Bangs," which adequately describes it and Jack Symonds closes the olio with his monologue.

"THE FREE LANCE."

The same magnificent company which presented "The Free Lance" here last fall, will be seen at the Lyceum again tonight, in a return engagement of the stirring new Sousa opera. Jeanette Lowery and Joseph Cawthorn have the leading comedy roles, and they are too well known to need any comment. Nellie Gorgen is still singing the prima donna part, and the rest of the company is said to be identically the same as the one seen in Duluth last fall. Those who missed witnessing it on that occasion should not fail to see it tonight. It is a Klaw & Erlanger production, which is a sufficient guaranty that it is not in the class of second year road shows.

NEW BILL AT BIJOU.

The bill which will open at the Bijou this evening will include the Four Schades, the Tourist Trio, Gilmore and Castle, the Tanakas, Kressel's Trained Dogs and Cats, Osadere Silver, Motion pictures.

FIFTY CARS RUN QUIETLY

San Francisco People Heed Warning of Governor Gillette.

San Francisco, May 13.—Fifty street cars were operated yesterday from 10 o'clock in the morning until 5 o'clock in the evening over two of the twenty odd lines, composing the United Railroads system and, for the first time since the commencement of the strike last Sunday, cars were run to the ferries. About 20,000 passengers, a majority of them women, patronized the service.

There was little disorder during the day, in comparison with the five days previous. Thousands of persons evidently regarded the published injunctions and private warnings and remained indoors, for the Sunday crowds were much smaller than usual. Unquestionably the firm stand taken by Governor Gillette, when he announced that he would judge the San Francisco situation by the acts of the people and would not hesitate a moment to call out the militia if rioting should be continued, had a sobering effect on the hundreds of trouble-makers.

Five hundred police guarded the streets through which fifty cars were run, but they had little to do.

They cost a little more, but they are cheapest to buy, because they outwear two or three ordinary straw mattings.

They can be sewed at seams like a carpet.

They're richer in color, too—they can be cleaned—the colors are absolutely fast.

Pretty patterns are here in colorings selected to harmonize with bedroom effects.

Window shades that will not spot, crack or fade can be had here.

BIG ACREAGE OF LESTER PARK PROPERTY IS SOLD

Duluth Citizen Said to Have Purchased 400 Acres.

Purchaser Will Sell City Large Portion for Park Purposes.

One of the largest real estate transactions in the eastern end of the city and one that is of a great deal of importance to the citizens, is understood to have been made by a well-known Duluthian within the past few days.

It is understood that the deal involves the purchase of some 400 acres around the mouth of Lester river and extending back into the country between and on either side of the two branches of the river, for a considerable distance. A large tract in the reported purchase lies along the lake shore east of Sixty-third avenue east.

It is also understood that the purchaser of this vast tract of land has agreed to sell to the city from time to time, as it is able to buy, a large part of the acreage in Lester Park, at a comparatively low figure, his idea being to give the city of Duluth every opportunity of purchasing a large and valuable tract of land for park purposes at a low price that will not be affected by any future speculative value that the land may have.

The city of Duluth owns at the present time only a fringe of land along Lester river up to about the fish dam opposite the pavilion site. It is proposed that the city acquire from the purchaser of the acres a large part that now comprises what is popularly known as Lester Park.

The land in question has long been desired for park purposes by the city and by the park board, to whom it is understood that some proposition has been made looking toward a sale of such part of the acreage as the city may desire for park purposes, from time to time, as the money is available.

It is understood that the citizen who has bought the Lester Park property, intends to erect a country home there and make some other important improvements about the mouth of Lester river, the plans for which have not been disclosed.

Although the negotiations for the purchase of the property and those with the park board have been going on for some time, it was not until recently that an inkling was given of what the deal might mean to the city. Within the last week there has been much talk of the transaction among the people of Lester Park.

APPEAL IS NOTICED

Clark Mine Case is Carried to Supreme Court.

Notice Filed by Rogers Heirs Who Lost Their Suit.

Notice of an appeal to the supreme court of the judgment in favor of the Clark Iron company and other lessees of the Clark mine property, has been filed with the clerk of the district court, by David Munro Rogers and the other heirs of James Rogers, deceased, by their attorneys, D. G. Cash and J. B. Richards.

That such an appeal was being perfected has been known for some time past, the process being a slow one, as the record was voluminous, and there were numerous motions and orders to be attended to since the trial of the case.

Messrs. Cash & Richards not only appeal to the supreme court from the judgment rendered by Judge Cant, Feb. 13 last, but they appeal from the order of the court denying the motion to have the judgment for the defendants set aside, for judgment in favor of the plaintiffs, or for a new trial. The latter order was made by Judge Cant, April 13, last.

With the notice of appeal is filed plaintiffs' bond in the sum of $500, furnished by the Metropolitan Surety company.

The Clark mine case, as it is popularly called, was one of the most important cases tried in the district court of this county in recent years. The suit involved the title to iron mining property estimated to be worth over a million dollars. The plaintiff's in the case were the heirs of James Rogers of Arkansas or the Indian Territory, who were claimed to have title in the land by reason of a patent. It was claimed that his power of attorney was never transferred.

The Clark Iron company claimed that James Rogers was not the original James Rogers who secured the land under a patent. It was claimed that the land was purchased in a regular manner through right of sale, by the original owner, also that the iron company had a valid claim to the property through a tax title.

FIRST DEATHS IN SIX MONTHS

Diphtheria Claims its First Victims in Duluth This Year.

Two deaths from diphtheria were reported to the health department Saturday afternoon, the first which have occurred in Duluth for over six months. One of these, a little Polish girl in the West end might have been saved, according to the story of the attending physician, had a doctor been called in time. The parents were ignorant of the nature of the disease and the 2-year-old child was past saving when the doctor arrived. The funeral was held Saturday afternoon under the watchful eye of one of the health inspectors.

The other case was that of Charles E. Noonan who died at St. Mary's hospital of the disease. This case can not be recorded against the city's bill of health as Noonan was visiting here and had been in the city a few days at the time of his death, the disease being contracted elsewhere. The body was shipped this afternoon to Hurley, Wis., by Flood & Horgan.

IN HONOR OF OLD SOLDIERS

Joint Meeting on Memorial Sunday at First Presbyterian Church.

The joint memorial day services to be held in honor of the old soldiers on the Sunday preceding Memorial day, will this year take place at the First Presbyterian church and Rev. Campbell Coyle has been selected to deliver the Memorial sermon.

Besides the old veterans of the G. A. R., all of the auxiliaries will have large delegations at this meeting and it will be a largely attended service. Members of all the G. A. R. posts in the city will make an attempt to attend this joint service and the new citizen's auxiliary will be well represented.

At the recent meeting of the committee which has charge of the Memorial day preparations, the speaker of the day was not chosen, but his name will soon be announced.

The campaign for new members for the citizens' auxiliary is still going on and the work has so far been very successful. The auxiliary will have charge of the most of the work of getting ready for memorial day and as many members as possible are needed.

GIANTS ARE IN DULUTH

Taylor's Houghton Team to Play Two Games at Hibbing.

M. O. "Kid" Taylor and his Houghton Giants arrived in Duluth this morning and will leave tomorrow morning for Hibbing, where they will meet the Hibbing semi-professional team tomorrow and Wednesday, returning to Duluth for the opening of the season, Thursday. Taylor has a likely looking lot of ball players and their performances in the exhibition games stamp them as promising candidates for honors in the pennant race.

Taylor has weeded out his squad until now it consists of but twelve men, as follows: M. O. Taylor, second base and captain; Percy Solbraa, first base; John Sundheim, third base; Dan Bitting, short stop; W. J. Gibson, catcher; William Kaiser, Christy Egan, Frank Miller, William Neubauer, Ned Rogers, pitchers; Albert Myers, left field; Gilmore, center field.

The only men of the squad, who were in this league last year, are Taylor, Sundheim, Solbraa and Rogers. Taylor and Sundheim were with Houghton, Solbraa with Lake Linden, and Rogers with Hancock and Calumet.

Arthur O'Dea and Henry Schurch did not leave for Winnipeg last evening with the Lethbridge team and it is evident that O'Dea, at least, is sincere in his announcement that he will not play ball this year. Schurch may follow the team later.

LODGE NOTES

THE NEW LODGE IS INSTITUTED

Duluth's Temple, Knights of Khorassan is a Lorge One.

Elaborate ceremonies attendant upon the initiation of a large class of members into Duluth's new fraternal order, Al Sirat temple, Knights of Khorassan, were successfully conducted at the Armory Saturday evening. Marah temple of Minneapolis and St. Paul, was well represented at the ceremonies, and the Twin City men had general supervision over the affair.

Headed by Flaaten's Third Regiment band, the members and candidates marched from the Lenox hotel to the Armory, making quite an impressive parade. There were about 300 men in the parade, all told, including fifty visitors. Gaily colored robes drew additional attention to the lineup. Among the more prominent of the visitors from the Twin Cities were Thomas Himeline, Charles Greenwood, James Robertson, Frank Francis, H. V. Boutelle, P. W. McAllister, Maj. K. B. Hamilton, Joe O'Keefe, Thomas Ostrander, E. P. Thompson, George Reviere, Andrew Knutsen and Messrs. Schulz, Gray and Lamb.

The official title of the new lodge is Al Sirat temple, D. O. K. K., No. 135. It is made up of high degree Pythians, and has the largest charter membership of any lodge in the order. A varied assortment of foods, supposedly imported from the Far East especially for the occasion was arranged at the Armory for the participants. Olives, desert, bread, camel's milk, Arabian nuts, Egyptian figs, etc., were there in abundance. The officers of the new temple are: Royal vizier, R. I. Tipton, Superior; grand emir, Joseph A. Wharton, Duluth; mahedi, B. F. Fowler, Two Harbors; mokanna, Louis Dworshak, Duluth; joc, J. W. Owens, Duluth; master of ceremonies, J. L. Cromwell, Duluth; secretary, George M. Cruikshank, Duluth; treasurer, John J. Lamm, Duluth; satrap, S. L. Pierce, Duluth; sahib, H. Jones, West Duluth; nawab, J. H. Davis, Duluth; princes, Iver Amundson, Two Harbors; L. A. OPENED AND CLOSED HERE

Duluth Engagement Practically Ends Season of Free Lance Co.

E. Rosenbaum, manager for "The Free Lance," one of the Klaw & Erlanger popular productions which will be seen at the Lyceum this evening, says that he and his company have a special regard for Duluth, for the reason that the company began the season here in October, and will practically end the season here on this trip, playing at only two or three places on the way back to New York.

"This is the only city in which we have 'repeated,'" said Mr. Rosenbaum this afternoon.

"We are back here with the original company intact. There has not been a loss of a single person in the cast by sickness, death or any other cause. We have with us Joseph Cawthorne, Nella Bergen, Jeanette Lowry, Albert Hart, George Schiller, George Tallman, all of whom will be recognized by theatergoers who saw 'The Free Lance' here last fall.

"Since leaving Duluth last October we have swung around in a pretty big circle. We first went East, then through Pennsylvania southward to New Orleans and to El Paso, Tex. Then we swung to Los Angeles and other California points up into the Sound country, and through British Columbia and Manitoba back to Duluth. We are glad to get back here from our very successful tour and hope our Duluth friends will be as well pleased this time as they were when the company opened here last fall."

FORECAST OF COUNCIL

City Attorney's Report on Owl Cars—Mayor's on Parks.

Jefferson Street Contract and Sidewalk Resolution to Come Up.

Communications from the mayor and from City Attorney Fesler will be the principal features of tonight's council meeting.

The city attorney will, in all probability, submit to the council a statement of its powers in regard to forcing the street car company to put owl cars on its lines where necessary. While nothing of this will be made public until it has been submitted to the council, it is understood that it will probably be unfavorable. The franchise under which the company is running is very lax as to the hours during which it shall be necessary for the company to operate cars.

The mayor will submit two communications. One will relate to the park site between Eighth and Thirteenth avenues east below London road and will probably be to the effect that the $10,000 which the mayor promised to secure by private subscription has been raised and that the property has already been purchased. It is understood that the city already has the deeds for this property, and that the park board will make up the other $10,000 necessary for the completion of the payments on it, from its next year's appropriation. The communication as to parks may also include a statement of a proposition which has recently been made to the city of even greater importance, but this is rather doubtful.

The mayor will also submit a statement of his appointments to the library board. Daniel G. Cash, R. B. Knox and Frank D. Adams will retire this year and M. M. Clark has handed in his resignation since his appointment to the fire board. It is understood that with the exception of Mr. Clark, who will be replaced by another West Duluth man, all the retiring members will be re-appointed.

The board of public works this morning formally awarded the contract for paving Jefferson street to P. McDonnell for $57,754, and this will doubtless come up for the council's approval this evening. A number of sidewalks will be ordered built according to the recommendations of the board submitted last week. The resolution was held over one week in order that everything might be included, and is due to come up again tonight. The resolution will include sidewalks in different places along more than seventy-five of the streets and avenues in the city.

EXPRESS RATES ATTACKED.

McLaughlin Brothers of Columbus and St. Paul Ask for Justice.

Washington, May 13.—Complaint was filed with the interstate commerce commission against the Adams Express company, alleging excessive rates and discrimination against the firm of McLaughlin Brothers of Columbus, Ohio, importers, shippers and sellers of horses. It is alleged that the defendant charges the firm $550 a car for the shipment of horses from New York to Kansas City, with a stopover privilege at Columbus, while the rate from New York to Kansas City direct is only $450. The allegation is that the stopover rate is unjust and excessive, both to Kansas City and to St. Paul, Minn., where the complainant has a branch establishment. The commission is asked to fix a fair and equitable rate with stopover privilege.

CHANGE IN WIND SAVES BIG OHIO STEEL WORKS.

Wheeling, Va., May 13.—After consuming the warehouse of the Aetna Standard mill of the United States Steel corporation, at Bridgeport, Ohio, today, the fire, which had got beyond control of the firemen and threatened the destruction of the $2,000,000 plant, was subdued, when a fortunate change of the wind blew the flames toward an open field. District Manager C. A. Robinson estimates the losss at $25,000.

THE POLICE COURT GRIST

A Tenderloin Resident Grows Disrespectful and Gets Big Fine.

Boys Charged With Robbing Stores in West End.

Marie Moore, the woman who was to have been tried on a charge of grand larceny, was released by Judge Cutting this morning on a motion for dismissal by County Attorney John Norton, but was arraigned again immediately on a warrant sworn out by Chief Troyer, charging her with having been a resident of a house of ill-fame.

She pleaded guilty to this charge, and W. E. Green, her attorney, made a plea for leniency on the part of the court, pointing out that circumstances might have driven the woman to her present position in life, and bringing forth documentary evidence in the shape of certain permits granted by the police, to show that the authorities had been cognizant of the fact that Marie Moore was guilty of the crime charged for some time and that they had brought the charge at the present time in order to secure a conviction which he did not believe could have been secured on the larceny charge, even had the complaining witness appeared.

Mr. Troyer, who appeared for the state, pointed out that he had learned upon good authority that some of the witness's friends, without the knowledge of Mr. Green, her attorney, had been seen talking with the chief witness, Walter Russell the night before the case was set, and that his subsequent disappearance pointed strongly to an attempt to get the witnesses out of the way.

Judge Cutting was not inclined to be especially merciful toward the woman, who made several remarks, which might have been characterized as contempt of court, and which the judge said were the worst language he had ever heard used by man or woman," and inflicted a $75 fine, with a sixty day sentence alternative.

Peter McCann was arraigned this morning on a charge of begging on the street. McCann was going from house to house in West Duluth demanding food and at several houses is said to have frightened the women nearly into hysterics by threats which he made when the food was refused him.

Some one telephoned to the police station and he was at once taken in charge. He said he had ridden from Minneapolis on a freight dodging the brakeman, and only got here yesterday morning. Judge Cutting sentenced him to ten days in the county jail at labor.

Albert and Benjamin Johnson, two 10-year-old West end boys, were arrested this morning on complaint of two West end storekeepers on a burglary charge. The two boys broke into the store of Oscar F. Strom at 1710 Piedmont avenue west and there took some mouth organs and a very small quantity of change. They then visited the Scandinavian bakery on Twentieth avenue west between Superior and First street and there secured a quantity of gum and some small change. The total amount of their depredations did not aggregate over $5.

The two boys tearfully confessed to the whole proceeding this morning when questioned by Chief Troyer. They will probably be committed to the juvenile court.

TO REPRESENT PRESBYTERY

Rev. Southerland and Dr. Wilson Going to Columbus, O.

Duluth and Northern Minnesota Presbyterians will have two representatives at the annual session of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church of the United States, which will meet at Columbus, Ohio, on Thursday of this week. Rev. Henry B. Sutherland, pastor of the Lakeside Presbyterian church, and Dr. C. M. Wilson, lay delegate, will leave tomorrow evening as commissioners from the Duluth Presbytery.

These were selected to represent this district at the meeting of the presbytery, held last month at the Glen Avon church. The Duluth presbytery takes in all of Northeastern Minnesota and a good share of the territory west of this city, but this year both of the delegates to the convention were chosen from this city.

The meeting at Columbus will be the 119th session of the general assembly, and will be the first to be held since the Cumberland Presbyterian church and the Presbyterian church were reunited. The sessions will last for about two weeks, and there will be representatives from all parts of the United States.

Dr. Wilson is a prominent member of the First Presbyterian church of Duluth, while Rev. Sutherland, as pastor of the Lakeside church, is well known throughout the district.

ROCKEFELLER IN PRIVATE.

Detroit News' Augusta Letter: John D. Rockefeller, ruler of the world's greatest monopoly, the most hated and one of the most respected men in America, an advertisement for a hotel.

That is the way the town folks here look upon the finance king, who is spending his time on the golf links of the Hampton terrace.

And John D. Rockefeller, despite his wealth and position, gets the poorest table service and attention of any of the many guests of the big place on the hill.

The oil king does not believe in tipping the servants and the prestige of a guest is gauged, from the servants' standpoint, by the volume of noise he makes like ready money.

In fact, John D. is not very popular down here. They call him "stingy" and some call him a good deal worse because of his recent action in going to a Negro church although invited to attend the First Baptist church in Augusta.

It happened shortly after the aged financier's arrival here. He had been invited to attend the First Baptist church and the church was crowded to pay homage to the man who has given so much for the Baptist denomination. He did not appear.

Later it was learned that he had changed his mind and had attended the negro church to hear Rev. Charles Walker, the famous "Black Spurgeon" of the South, who is speaking here.

John D. sat in the third pew, surrounded by the colored folks, and was deeply interested in the service while the wealthiest of the south sat congregated some blocks away awaiting his arrival.

When the service was over he dropped a $20 bill into the collection plate.

But the next Sunday he walked into the big church unannounced and took his seat. A $20 bill was the donation. John D. did not come in a carriage. A street car is good enough for him, he figures. Every Sunday he takes the trip into town and walks the four blocks to the church.

There is a big special car carrying the guests from the Terrace into the city and John climbed on to that by mistake the other Sunday.

He handed the conductor a nickel.

"Twenty-five cents, please," said the fare collector.

"Young man," responded the millionaire, "a nickel is enough for this ride. It is all it is worth."

And because he was John D. the conductor let him get away with it.

It's the same way in everything he does. John D. Rockefeller never misses a white chip. A news stand boy at the Terrace had $1.50 coming to him, and at the end of the week told his famous customer of the bill.

"Do I owe you $1.50?" queried Reckefeller.

"Yes, sir."

"I'll see about it."

And the ruler of millions wired his secretary, who happened to be in New York at the time, ordering him to look it up.

The secretary did, and informed John D. that the lad had the money coming. And the boy was paid.

Once you have gained the presence of the money king he is not hard to talk to. If you can elude his guards and get to him personally, you will find him an affable, almost jovial old chap, taciturn, but usually smiling and willing to answer questions, not pertaining to himself.

He surely does not fulfill the role of Ready Money Ryder of "The Lion and the Mouse," and it would be hard to pick him if you should see him on the golf links as a man such as Ida Tarbell describes.

And don't get the idea that John D. Rockefeller is the sad, lonely, decrepit old man she would have you believe.

The infirmities of old age show plainly, but for a man of 75 years John D. Rockefeller is remarkably healthy. He can swing a brassie with no feeble movement and he can dance and shout and throw his hat in the air with enthusiasm that shows he is still young mentally, if not physically.

We found the famous Clevelander playing golf on the beautiful Terrace links.

John D. had his bodyguard thrown around him, but there is something in the air here that makes the average man languid and care-free. We walked over several fields until we came to the grounds, and waited behind the shrubbery until he came along. As we stepped out a quiet-looking chap in civilian's clothes stepped toward us.

"What do you want with that box around here?"

"Getting some views."

"Well, show a permit."

"Don't have to; we are guests."

The guard of the grounds stretched and went back to his sightseeing from the top of the hill, much of the state of Georgia stretching forth in panorama.

Rockefeller came along swing his golf stick, trailed by a "darkey" caddie, with whom he was talking. The old fellow seemed to have considerable pleasure listening to the lad try to answer his questions. He was accompanied by his son-in-law, McCormick, the latter's little son, Dr. Biggar, his physician, and several others.

Someone was humming George Cohan's "You're a Grand Old Rag," and the Standard Oil magnate, turning, playfully kept time to the music.

"Mr. Rockefeller, will you kindly pose for a picture?"

The oil king hitched up his black silk golf sweater, displaying a heavy brown sweater.

"What's that?"

The question was repeated.

Here Dr. Biggar interposed with an introduction. We had told the doctor what we wanted, but he was good enough to keep that fact from Rockefeller.

"Glad to meet you," was all he said. "Excuse the glove; now just a minute."

There was nothing weak about his grip. It was firm and the hand was held out as though he really did not have his mind on the introduction as he was looking at the ground while the caddie placed his ball on the tee.

He studied it a minute, then swung. The club whizzed through the air and the ball went sailing away. It was a pretty stroke.

"Whee," he yelled, throwing his hands in the air and almost upsetting that magnificent gray wig of his. "That was a nice one. That is because you are here." And he beamed on the strangers.

By that time the camera was clicking, but John D. didn't care. He was in a happy frame of mind; he had made a good shot.

The next one wasn't quite so good and he frowned.

"Very poor, very poor," he said, kicking the turf impatiently; "no, sir, I'll have no pictures taken."

Again the camera clicked.

The party was nearing the last hole and had decided to quit for the day.

"Mr. Rockefeller, will you—"

"Now, young man, you're from some paper and I'll have nothing to do with them today. Yes, I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll pose for one picture and then you must leave me alone."

The camera was ready and the party stood out in the sunlight.

Then John D. showed that he is a trifle vain.

"Not here in the sun. You can't take a good one as the light makes me squint. Over here in the shade. Now, all right. Good-by. Not another thing."

The party entered the big hotel.

INVADING MEN'S WORK.

The women of Chicago, says the Record-Herald of that city, have shown in many ways that they have a deep interest in the smoke question. The only trouble has been that they have as yet, found no effective way of making their interest practically useful. They are among the chief sufferers from smoke, but about all they can do is to pass resolutions in their clubs or discuss the evil privately. The smoke bureau, under its present management, has not been willing to receive outside help in the campaign against smoke, and the women's efforts have been thwarted. If a woman inspector with a keen interest in smoke suppression were on the staff the probabilities are that she would soon be reporting as many violations a day as all the men inspectors together; she would be, at least until the men changed their methods and got very busy. She would not find the work as easy as the men find it, for she would have to climb to the top of high buildings in order to get good points of observation, she would have to be outdoors in all kinds of weather, and she would have to busy herself around furnaces and boiler rooms, all of which tasks the men can more readily adapt themselves to. But all she would need would be resolution and perserverance, and before long she would work wonders.

The staff of smoke inspectors should be increased this year by the council. Whether this is done or not, it will be a good thing if, as soon as there is a vacancy, a woman may be found at the head of the eligible list and may get the appointment.

Whether a woman white wings, or rather, a superintendent of white wings, shall be appointed in the New York street cleaning department is a problem Commissioner Craven soon will be called upon to decide.

Women, as represented by the Equality League for Self-Supporting Women, are about to insist that a woman be named as superintendent, so that she may give the city a few pointers on housekeeping.

"For," declares Mrs. Harriet Staunton Blatch, president of the league, "housekeeping is woman's natural function, so, if she knows how to keep her house clean why shouldn't she be able to have clean streets? A mass meeting, when the subject will come up for discussion, will be held in Cooper Union April 4.

"Moreover, Chicago has shown what can be done in this respect. Mrs. Paul demonstrated her ability so admirably in nthis respect that when politicians threatened to remove her the business men rebelled. She was retained."

At Munrovia, a little town of probably 500 inhabitants in the northwest corner of Morgan county, Indiana, is a little band of women associated in an organization known as the Commercial club. This town is like many other Indiana towns of its size. It has no place suitable for public gatherings, aside from the churches and schoolhouses, and these energetic women have attempted to remedy this condition. With that purpose in view, they are striving by every honorable method to raise money with which to build a town hall. The name Commercial club is usually applied to a body of men, organized for the purpose of obtaining factories and other public institutions for their cities, and at first blush it might seem inappropriate when applied to a club of women. Not a man is permitted to join.

The club now has $423 in the bank to its credit, and it hopes to have $500 soon, when the club proposes to incorporate and sell shares. Business men of the town have promised to add several hundred dollars to the fund when the $500 mark is reached, and three of the business men will be on the board of directors.

If possible the club will build this fall. The women will either erect a second story to some business room or buy a lot and put up a structure with a basement, so that they can put in an auditorium 45x85 feet, with a piano, gasoline lighting plant, and everything up to date.

THE WHEAT PASSES THE DOLLAR MARK IN DULUTH

July and September Options Go Over it at Opening.

Strong Throughout Day and at Close—Flax Steady.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 13.—Wheat was the strongest in the Duluth market today that it has been since 1905. The July and September options passed the dollar mark, and all of the other American markets displayed approximately as much strength, showing gains which make today the most to be remembered in this bull movement which has been on since the green bugs began nibbling at the Southwestern crop. The closing prices were 3½c higher than Saturday in Duluth, but all of the American markets closed 4c or more over Saturday's final prices.

Unfavorable weather in the Northwest, the big advance abroad in response to Saturday's bulge on this side of the Atlantic, and the world's shipments being smaller than estimated, gave the wheat impetus at the opening today.

During the first ten minutes of trading, the July option soared to $1.00½ on the floor of the Duluth board of trade. The price was strong throughout the session. Heavy selling caused a decline just before the close, but prices rallied at the session's end.

Reports received from different points in the Northwest during the early part of the session were discouraging. Snow was reported in different parts of the Dakotas and Manitoba and there seems to be no indications of warmer weather. It continues cold.

Liverpool closed 4½d to 4¾d higher, and Paris 2c to 3¼c higher. Antwerp, 1⅞c to 2¾c higher, Budapest 3¾c higher and Berlin, ¾c lower.

The May option closed 2¾c higher in Duluth, 4c in Chicago, 4⅛c in Minneapolis, 2⅜c in New York, 4¼c in St. Louis and 4½c in Winnipeg. The September option closed 5¾c higher in Kansas City. The July option closed 3½c higher in Duluth, 4c in Chicago and Minneapolis, 3⅝c in New York, 4-⅛c in St. Louis, 4⅜c in Kansas City and 4¼c in Winnipeg.

July corn closed 1-⅛c higher in Chicago and was ¾d higher in Liverpool. July oats closed ¼-⅜c higher in Chicago.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Opens Wildly Excited With September and December Above Dollar.

Chicago, May 13.—The wheat market today opened wild and excited. July within a few minutes after the opening selling at 96¾c after touching 97c. September sold at $1.00½ and December at $1.00⅝, the features which made a runaway market in the wheat pit on the last three days of last week were present again today. The reports of damage by cold weather were amplified from points in the West and Southwest and extremely cold weather was again reported from the Canadian Northwest where seeding has been so badly delayed. Colder weather predicted over the wheat growing section of this country and Canada, will greatly decrease the yield of the winter wheat and reduce by many thousand acres the sowing of spring wheat. All over the Canadian Northwest, west from Winnipeg, the temperature was reported as being below freezing. All commission houses were loaded with buying orders from the country at large and prices jumped fiercely immediately when trading commenced. Later the market eased off somewhat under the heavy pounding of several commission houses whose customers were disposed to take profits. July wheat opened 1¼@1⅜ to 2¼@⅜c higher at 97c to 97¼c, sold up to 97c, declined to 95⅞c, sold up to 96¾c and then declined to 96c. September opened 1⅜c to 1⅝c higher at 95c to 95¾c, sold at $1.00¼, declined to 98c and then, under heavy selling, dropped to 97⅜c. December wheat opened 1⅜c to 1⅝c higher at 96½c to $1.00, declined to $1.00¼, then sold at 99c where for a time it held. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 601 cars against 600 last week and 151 cars a year ago.

The market was much steadier in the last half of the session. July declined to 94⅝c; September to 96⅜c and December to 98⅞c. All of the options held within a 2-cent range in the last half of the session. The close was strong with July up 4c at 95⅝@96⅜c, September was up 4c at 95¾c and December up 4⅛c at 99⅛c.

The corn market was strong, the options ranging from 1 to 2 cents above the close of Saturday. The advance was largely in sympathy with wheat, but there was a good general demand from all points. Cables were firm and ½d higher. July opened 9c to 1⅝c higher at 62c to 63c and sold at 62⅝@⅞c. Local receipts were 249 cars.

Prices held strong all day, although they did not go out of the opening range. The close was steady with July 1@1⅛c higher at 62⅝@62⅝c.

The oats market was active and strong, there being especially a large trade in the more distant options. Sympathy with wheat was the; principal bullish factor. July opened ⅝c higher at 45c and sold at 44⅞c.

The provisions market was weak and trading was active. Packers were lively sellers and used considerable pressure to keep the speculative fire of the grain market away from their business. July pork opened 20c lower at $16.82½. July lard opened 7½c to 10c lower at $9.27½@9.30. Ribs were down 7½@10c at $9.10 to 9.12½c. Close: Wheat—May, 93¾c; July, 96⅝@96⅝c. Corn—May, 52⅝c; July, 52⅜@52½c. Oats—May, 45⅜c; July, 44⅝@45⅜c. Pork—May, $16.75; July, $16.95. Lard—May, $9.37½; July, $9.50. Ribs—May, $9.12½; July, $9.25. Rye—Cash, 78@79c. Barley—Cash, 80@84c. Cash wheat—No. 2 red, 94½@95c; No. 3 red, 91@93½c; No. 2 hard, 93@94¾c; No. 3 hard, 82@93c; No. 1 northern, 98c@$1.01; No. 2 northern, 98c@$1; No. 3 spring, 94@99c. Corn—No. 3, 51¾@52¼c.

Minneapolis Flour.

Minneapolis, May 13.—The flour market is higher. Flour prices were advanced again this morning in sympathy with the big advance in wheat. The market is so uncertain that very little new business was accomplished. Millers reported buyers as still holding back, although shipping directions on old orders came in freely today. First patents, $5@5.15; second patents, $4.85@5; first clears, $3.55@3.65; second clears, $2.75@2.85.

Grain Gossip.

The last time July wheat touched the dollar mark in the Duluth market was in the spring of 1905. During most of the time until the option expired, from the late winter until the last day of July, the price was over $1. On the last day of the July, and the last day of the July option, in 1905, it closed at $1.06 bid.

Broomhall, Liverpool, May 13, on wheat: Strong at the opening with values showing advances from 1½ to 1¾. Shorts were anxious and covered very freely due to the strong cables from America on Saturday. This advance was followed later by an additional sharp rally ranging from ⅞d to 1¼d. Support was general with a large part of the buying coming from prominent commission houses, owing to the delayed seeding in Manitoba. Toward mid-day some pressure to sell developed, prices easing on reports of improved progress in the American winter wheat belt and scattered showers in Roumania."

Weather forecast for grain belt:

Logan & Bryan, Chicago, to Paine, Webber & Co.: Wheat had an excited opening with prices from 5 to 5c over Saturday before the volume of orders in hand at the opening could be filled. Seldom in the history of the trade has there been an advance such as that of this morning without being followed almost immediately by a sharp reaction such as would make the market look dangerous to the average trader. The market is now, as it has been, forced up by the unmistakable evidence of crop injury the world over. As the market climbs higher the crop news in central quarters gets worse. Considering pit conditions, the temper of the trading public and the character of the news, we think it conservative to expect a continuation of the big bull market in wheat, in which buying should be done on breaks, if possible.

ADVANCES IN STOCKS

Market Started Firm, Fell Off Slightly But Rallied Again.

Close Strong and Dull With Prices Generally Near Top.

New York, May 13.—Prices of stocks moved sluggishly upwards from Saturday's level in the opening dealings. There was a large absorption of Union Pacific at an advance of 1½. The only other stocks that moved notably were those which have shown sympathy with Union Pacific for some time past. St. Paul and Northwestern rose a point each, and Northern Pacific and Reading ¾ each. Transactions in the general list were small.

Opening prices were generally the best in the first hour, the market receding thereafter on pressure against Smelting and realizing in Union Pacific. Reading, which had risen 1⅛ to 108½, reacted to below Saturday's closing. Business increased on the decline.

Canadian Pacific fell 1½ on the recession. Prices then rallied to a higher level than at the opening on light transactions. Northwestern rose 3. Union Pacific 1¾, Reading and Great Northern preferred 1½ each and Northern Pacific and New York Central 1 each. Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha fell 2½. Bonds were irregular.

Business contracted steadily until the market was practically stagnant. The grain carriers held strong with the quieter tone in wheat after the sensational opening. Sugar and Toledo Railway improved a point and Wisconsin Central yielded 1⅛.

Stocks were without especial change except for a further slight improvement in Reading. People's Gas moved up a point; Union Bag preferred declined 1.

The market closed strong and dull. Union Pacific rose further to 3¼ over Saturday's close and Reading ⅜ on large transactions. This stirred the market from its lethargy, but did not cause great change in the general price level. St. Paul, Central Leather and Sugar rose 2 each; Pennsylvania and Iowa Central preferred 1¼ each, and Baltimore & Ohio, Atchison, Amalgamated Copper and Central Railroad of New Jersey 1 each. American Ice fell 2. Prices slipped back on profit-taking but came up again.

Stock Gossip.

New York—Logan & Bryan to Paine, Webber & Co.: The action of today's market would indicate that the bulk of securities had been pretty well liquidated. It also looks as if there was something behind the market to put it higher. In the face of the tremendous advance in the grain market, it is remarkable that stocks gradually advanced throughout the session. There was no news of importance. We believe that on any setbacks the standard issues will do to buy for a turn, at least.

New York to Gay & Sturgis: After midday the market was quiet but decidedly firmer, rallying very easily on the shorts, and the absence of any weak bull account disclosed in the early attack on the general list. Traders were helping the advance and reported that there was not much stock in the market.

On the appearance of the weather map some very shrewd traders sold the wheat of which they have been long and bought calls. The indications for warmer weather are better than they have been on any showing of the map during the present spring.

In spite of their selling of American Smelting, Menham Bros. held the rally by their purchases of the United States Steel and Reading. Active grain houses, like Bartlett F. & Co. and Atwood Violet & Co., were buyers of St. Paul, Union Pacific and other active stocks and were believed by the traders to be covering shorts.

The Cotton Market.

New York, May 13.—The cotton market opened easy at a decline of 5 to 15 points in response to lower cables and better weather reports. Fluctuations reflected a pretty even division of orders and prices in the middle of the morning were steadier at a net decline of 5 to 9 points on active months.

Copper Gossip.

Boston to Paine, Webber & Co: It was a traders' market again today, but there was a little demand for long stock and small buying orders in Butte and Range lifted the price of each about two points. The market has no tendency either way at present and should be let alone except for quick turns.

Boston to Gay & Sturgis: The result of today's market shows pretty conclusively what we have said lately and that is it has been sold to a standstill. The bears have used every possible argument, and have no ammunition left. We do not look for any runaway market, but think there will be a gradual hardening in prices. It was authoritatively stated just at the close that the underwriting to the $75,000,000 Union Pacific bonds was already in excess of the amount required.

Coppers, although dull, were strong. There is a little short interest in them here, chiefly among room traders. The price of the metal shows pretty clearly that it is going to stay around 25 cents for the present, at least.

Butte, Mont. to Gay & Sturgis: Owing to a break in the engine the Neversweat mine of the Anaconda company will be closed for a few days. Drifting is being done on the rich ore body opened on the 2,200-foot level and is showing up fully as rich on the 2,400-foot level of Anaconda. The Neversweat shaft is also below the 2,400-foot point and the crosscut is being driven south to catch the vein at that depth, which it is expected will be reached in about two months.

THE PRODUCE MARKET.

The following prices, with the exception of those on hay, feed and meats, are the official quotations of the Duluth Produce exchange and shippers can rely upon them as being correct. The list is corrected daily by the secretary, and it shows accurately the market conditions up to 12 o'clock on the date of issue. The weekly market letter, published on Fridays, is not an official statement of the exchange, but the information is gathered personally from the different dealers:

THE GOVERNMENT'S ANIMAL COLONY

The Collection in the National Zoo at Washington Averages About Twelve Hundred Birds and Beasts, Which Have Come From Various Sources.

Not long ago Ras Makonnon, governor of Harrar Province, Abyssinia, after the manner of old-world potentates, presented to the United States a rare species of zebra. With the zebra came a lion, and later a pair of ostriches was shipped from the same source. From Sir Reginald Wingate, the successor to Lord Kitchener as governor-general of Sudan, there has come another lion, and from the governors of states in Brazil such as the governor of Para and the governor of Amazonas, the United States has accepted a number of South American animals. Within a fortnight Mr. Nelson of the department of agriculture shipped to Washington two Mexican tiger-cats and a number of rare forest birds, the gift of Mr. Carlos H. Jones of Campeche, Mexico.

The international courtesies exchanged, it is not generally known what becomes of these animals. The future of many other beasts and birds which in one way or another, through consuls or department agents come into the possession of the United States government is not usually followed up. To whose charge are they given and how do they pass the rest of their lives?

Twenty years ago they would have been turned over to some private menagerie or housed in crude wooden structures back of the Smithsonian institution at Washington where zoologists and biologists could study them at close range. Perhaps the daily sight of these temporary structures had something to do with the purpose the late Dr. S. P. Langley, secretary of the institution, toook steps to carry out at that time to found on the outskirts of Washington a national zoological park.

It was not an easy task to convince legislators why they should pay to "have the Nebraska elk and Florida alligators cooped up." In 1890, however, a bill was finally passed through Congress to establish a zoological park for the "advancement of science and the instruction and recreation of the people" and also as a haven of refuge where those "native animals that were threatened with extinction might live and perpetuate their species in peace."

The bill allotted $200,000 for the purchase of land and building. The few animals caged back of the Smithsonian institution were turned over to new quarters and the administration of the National zoo became a branch of the institution's work.

Now a hundred and sixty-seven acres of hilly, woody land two miles from the center of Washington is the final home of nearly every beast that come into the possession of the United States governments. There is no law making it the only depository for such gifts, but as a matter of fact, very few are sent elsewhere.

An idea of Secretary Langley, when he founded the Zoo, was to furnish for the animals surroundings as nearly like their natural homes as possible. The idea was a new one at the time. The few menageries in the country had not the facilities to execute any such plan. He opposed any too evident artificiality in the architecture of the grounds. He wished the National Zoo to be a natural park in every mode practicable. The large acreage helped him in this course, for our zoological gardens are two and a half times as large as the celebrated Thiergarten at Berlin and four times as large as the zoo at London.

Since the national zoo was founded over two thousand animals have been housed here, and during the last few years the collection has averaged about twelve hundred birds and beasts at a time.

The animals thus gotten together have come, necessarily from very varied sources. Bison lent by "Buffalo Bill," polar bears brought down by adventurers from the far arctic regions, lions from Soudan, snakes from Manilla and Cuba, peculiar birds from China, gifts from foreigners through consuls and other government agents, besides many rarer species for scientific study purchased or exchanged by the Zoo officials, make up the great animal family.

If the lives of some of these beasts could be put into story an interesting volume would result. As it is, headkeeper Blackburn has many a little yarn about their doings. He will invariably point out two healthy rolling bear cubs from Canada, which weighed, when they arrived, not more than two pounds each. These, he insists, he has brought up entirely on the bottle.

Near them sits a big pensive grizzly from Yellowstone Park who, when the keeper calls "Dooley," looks up and slouches lazily forward to the bars. Dooley had been a pet, when a cub, of the owner of a large hotel in the Yellowstone. He was captured in the spring and chained at a safe distance from the kitchen he could get the dainty morsels left by the guests at dinner. Dooley lived contentendly all summer, receiving in a philosophical way the attentions of visitors, but the day before the hotel closed in the fall, he heeded the call of the wild, slipped his collar and went roaming the mountains. Curiously enough, when the spring again arrived and preparations were being made to open for the summer, to the terror of the servants Dooley ambled up with the air of a previous owner. He had grown considerably during the winter; therefore it was thought safest to trap him and send him to Washington.

The animals are not always peaceful at the Zoo. A buffalo battle between a young and old bull several years ago is a classic in the annals of the park. More recently the usually sleepy crocodiles have had differences which must be settled by physical combat. A vicious contest resulted in the complete severance of a leg of one of them before the keepers could interfere. With much trouble the big beast was placed on a thick plank and wrapped round and round with rope. Only when the beast was thus helpless did the keeper dare pick up the foot and sew it back into place. A plaster of Paris cast the keeper thought would hold it. So it would, if several weeks afterwards the rivals had not again found a difference which ended in the injured foot, plaster of Paris cast, sewing and all, being again snapped through. Minor surgical operations, often necessary among so many animals, usually result successfully.

The antics of the monkeys are not less popularly amusing than they are interesting from a scientific point of view. The keeper tells of a young South American monkey which was placed near several old world cousins with large mouth pouches. The youngster, trying to imitate his elders of another tribe, forced a big Brazilian nut into his cheek in such a way that it could be gotten out only by cutting from the outside. The operation was performed and the cut sewed up, but the stitches bothered the little fellow. He pulled them out and was surprised to find that he could now feed through another mouth. Just like a magician, the keeper says he formed an audience of his companions and to their great amazement, kept passing a piece of hay and a small nut through the newly-made opening. It was necessary to lock the little fellow by himself where he could not perform, and even to tie his hands before he would let the wound heal.

It is by such incidents as these that some of the animals relieve the monotony of their lives of captivity, for in every case it has not been found compatible with safety to carry into accomplishment the plan for constructing natural surroundings. Some of the animals, to be sure, can be held in a setting somewhat similar to that of their wild life. The buffalo has his rolling plain, the deer his slump of shrubbery, his stream and hillside, the bear has his cave and swimming pool, the seal his tank and sunning spot, the peacock is allowed the freedom of the whole park where he can display his plumage and select his nesting place, the raccoon has his tall dead tree, the colony of beavers has its stream and submarine lodge, its dams and fallen timber, and but a hundred varieties of birds fly about as if in freedom in a "flying cage" the size of three or four dwellings. But the lions and the tigers, the leopards and the pumas, and other carnivorous beasts must be carefully penned in a house by themselves with outdoor cages attached for fresh air in the summer. The snakes and monkeys must be confined, and there is no jungle for "Dunk," the big elephant, to roam in.

Opportunities for providing more roomy quarters for a number of the beasts are still many. These opportunities will be grasped as soon as government appropriations, to the minds of those in charge, justify the expenditure. Built from the current funds of the park, there has recently been opened a "mammal house," which embodies the latest ideas in the housing of animals.

The execution as far as possible, however, of the original idea is invaluable from a scientific point of view. For the Zoo is designed not alone to afford amusement and recreation to Washington and its thousands of annual visitors. To the student of biology, of zoology, of ichthyology, and many allied subjects, the park affords material for original research in a form probably more available than any other collection in the world. The animals, even those born in the grounds, retain to a remarkable degree the habits of the wild. They learn that, protected from men, they may live to a certain extent their own lives among men. An investigator may here study the danger signals of the startled Virginia deer, the burrowing instincts of the prairie dogs, or the habits of the diving cranes and pelicans.

The object of furnishing here a haven of refuge where the native animals threatened with extinction might live and perpetuate their species in peace, has, it must be confessed, not met with as great success as was at first hoped for. It has been physically impossible to provide for the buffalo a range as large as his natural one, and the excitement of the hunt for food can not be furnished. The surroundings are, of course, in many ways different, more perceptibly so to the animals than to the men who have studied them. And it is a known fact among zoologists that, in order to perpetuate their species successfully, some beasts must be allowed, to a great degree, their natural freedom.

Not only in their living state are the animals valuable for scientific study. But when, in the course of nature or by accident, any of them die, their remains are turned over to the experts at the National museum, who may investigate the structure of their bones or the symptoms of any disease they may have contracted, or use their skeletons and skins for exhibition purposes.

The opportunities afforded at the Zoo for experimental breeding for industrial purposes, have not as yet been utilized extensively. The energies of Supt. Frank Baker and other officials have been devoted to housing the animals, properly caring for them, and beautifying the grounds, leaving industrial experiments to the department of agriculture. The field opened for the future, of developing perhaps stronger beasts of burden or industrial animals better capable of resisting disease, is a large one, in which a single success would offset very many failures.

WHEN THE CIRCUS CAME TO TOWN

By Elixabeth Button.

(Copyright, 1907, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

Miss Lappin was standing at the big kitchen table making cake for supper. Miss Lappin was never in a good humor while making cake. She was so particular about beating the batter until it was all studded with bubbles, and she worried and fussed all the time it baked, fearing it would be too well done or not done enough. Naturally her temper and patience did not amount to much during the process.

Marie, her niece, sat at one of the windows of the kitchen, that opened into a garden filled with lilacs, roses and geraniums. She was a pretty girl, with a clear red and white complexion, beautiful teeth, dark eyes and in striking contrast with these charms, hair as yellow as a marigold. She resembled not in the least her aunt, who was a tall, angular spinster, with sharp black eyes, unpleasantly pronounced cheek bones, and gray hair drawn unbecomingly away from her face in a tight knot at the back of her head.

"Aunt, will you let me go?" Marie had asked the question a dozen times within the last few minutes, and Miss Lappin had pretended not to hear her. Suddenly she compressed her lips so tightly that they were lost in her face. She beat the sponge with such vigorous strokes that a number of small bubbles appeared and broke on its surface. "No, I won't let you go," she snapped, "so it's no use'n you settin' there teasin', I ain't thinkin' of lettin' you go, so there's an end to it. After awhile you'll believe that when I say a thing I mean it. I won't let you go there, or to any other party. You know without astin' I never let you go anywheres."

"Will you please tell me why you never allow me to go anywhere? Will you tell me just why you never let me have a good time like the other girls of Bolsville?" the girl asked, calmly.

Miss Lappin let her spoon fall into the batter. She rested her hands upon her hips and faced her niece.

"Well, Marie, bein's you want to know so bad, I'll tell you this much. I don't let you go 'round like the other girls because you're the kind of a mother you had. When you wuz left an orphan, with no one in the wide world to see to you but me, I took you an' never let you git like your mother if I could help it. I hate to say one word agin the dead, but your mother wuzn't much, Marie. You know as well as I do, an' that's well enough, that your mother went an' ran off with a German professor, leavin' you a little thing of three, an' my poor brother broken-hearted."

Bolsville had gossiped a long time about Miss Lappin and her pretty niece Marie. They said: "Marie looks just like her mother. It'll be too bad if she takes after her, too; but Miss Lappin is a little hard on the girl. My goodness, youth must have its fling, an' if it doesn't, somethin's sure to happen. Young folks will be young folks. Even if her mother wuzn't much. Gracious, that ain't no reason Marie should be shut up an' never let go anywheres. An' she dresses her like a holy show, for she dresses her like a holy show, for she'll git proud or any one'll look at her."

Marie received invitations to everything going on in Bolsville, for all liked her, and all felt very sorry for her. They pitied her as the victim of a tyrannical spinster who was determined to cut the girl from all social life, because unfortunately, her mother had furnished Bolsville with its one scandal.

So Marie was always asking her aunt: "Aunt, may I go?" and Miss Lappin forever answering her: "No; you can't go." It was rather extraordinary under the circumstances, that the girl was never seemingly, ill-natured or resentful because of these refusals. When her aunt said "no" she appeared perfectly satisfied, and then would ask her permission to go somewhere else in a few days.

One day in early summer, Marie, who had been out on an errand, rushed into the kitchen, where Miss Lappin sat sewing. She threw a parcel down on the table and seemed quite breathless. "Oh, aunt, there's a circus here," she cried. "It came in this morning. I met some of the girls and they are all going in a crowd tonight. They want me to go with them. Aunt may I go?"

Miss Lappin dropped her sewing in her lap. She pushed her glasses up on her forehead. "Marie Lappin," she said, "you must be gettin' crazy, for sure. You wantin' to go to a circus. A girl 19 years of age. Why, Marie, you must be gettin' soft'nen of the brain. No, Marie Lappin, you can't go to the circus."

"Very well, aunt," Marie said, but not as humble as usual.

"I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll let you go an' see the parade," Miss Lappin cried suddenly. "I'll let you stay out this morning till it's all over."

Marie murmured her thanks for this concession.

The girl left the parlor and went into her own room opening off the kitchen. It was a bare little place. She took a pink dress, much beruffled from a hook behind the door. It was her best gown. She removed the dress she was wearing and donned this one. The pink was not particularly becoming, but the girl was handsome enough to carry it off well. She fluffed out her pretty blonde hair in a becoming pompadour. Then she put on a cheap little sailor hat, and despite her clothing made a pretty picture. When she came out of her room her aunt was in the kitchen. "Why Marie," she cried when she beheld the girl. "Why, you've got on all your best things."

"Everybody's dressed up today," Marie answered.

"Well, good Lord! if a circus don't set the hull town crazy! I guess, though, it don't take much to set them that way. An' you're as silly as the rest. The idee, puttin' on your best things to go out to see a circus parade. For two pins I'd make you take them off."

"I'll take them off as soon as I come home," Marie replied humbly. "Just as soon as the parade is over I'll hurry home and take these things off."

"All right," said Miss Lappin. "I'll let it pass for this time. But when you do a thing so silly again you'll see what I'll do."

"I'll never do it again," Marie promised in a low voice. Then she walked out of the house.

When noontime arrived and Marie had not reached home, Miss Lappin sat down to her dinner saying: "It must take circus parades longer to pass than when I wuz young. My goodness, I had no idee but Marie would be home by now."

But the afternoon passed and evening came, and still Marie did not appear.

After supper Miss Lappin went into the parlor and sat at one of the windows. All night long Miss Lappin kept her vigil. "Just wait till she comes. Just wait till she comes," she told herself again and again. Morning dawned. "Somethin's happened, I know. I'm sure somethin's happened." Miss Lappin now moaned. "That comes from lettin' her go for just onct. Oh, if I only hadn't let her go!"

Presently there was a knock that Miss Lappin heard in the parlor. She rushed eagerly into the kitchen and opened the door. The woman who lived next door stood there. "Kin you let me have a little bit of coffee, Miss Lappin?" she said. "I didn't know I wuz out."

Miss Lappin went to the closet and began to pour out some ground coffee into a cup. "There you'll believe that when I say a thing I mean it. I won't let you go there, or to any other party. You know without astin' I never let you go anywheres."

"Will you please tell me why you never allow me to go anywhere? Will you tell me just why you never let me have a good time like the other girls of Bolsville?" the girl asked, calmly.

HAYWOOD JURY PROBABLE BEFORE THE WEEK'S CLOSE IS BELIEF OF ATTORNEYS

Good Progress Being Made in Selection of the Panel.

Chief Counsel for Defense Makes Roosevelt's Letter Feature.

Prisoner at Bar Apparently Coolest of All in Court.

Boise, Idaho, May 14.—With twelve jurymen in the box, four of whom have been passed by both the prosecution and the defense and seventy-five talesmen yet to be called, the trial of William D. Haywood, charged with the murder of Former Governor Steunenberg, opened this morning at 11 o'clock, the third day of the trial, with every prospect of a complete jury before the end of the week.

It is admitted on every side, however, that while the progress toward the selection of jurymen is much greater than was anticipated, it is difficult to foretell what may be the outcome of the examination of the talesmen summoned by the sheriff under the order for a special venire. The fact that thirty-five of this number presented excuses yesterday and that of these, twenty-four were excused, shows an extreme reluctance to serve on the jury, and also the lenience of the court.

Another feature that may prolong the work of securing a jury is the

DEMANDS TRIAL OF DICTATOR

Brother of Venezuelan General Arraigns Castro for Murder.

New York, May 14.—Hector Luis Parades, brother of Gen. Antonie Parades, who was killed, Feb. 15, after he had led an insurrection against President Castro, it is announced, has forwarded to the high federal court and court of cassation, at Caracas, a petition, accusing Castro of murder, and demanding that he be placed on trial. The petitioner is now in Berlin.

Gen. Parades led a small force of his compatriots to Venezuela to organize a revolution against President Castro. He and his companions were captured within a week after landing in the country, and were summarily put to death.

The documents of accusation show, first, that capital punishment has been abolished; secondly, that the president of the republic can be punished for common crime, and, thirdly, that President Castro ordered the killing of Gen. Parades.

MUTINY ON BY MIDDIES

First Battalion at Naval Academy Boycotts Officer.

"Silence Given" at Table and Whole Set Put Under Ban.

Annapolis, Md., May 14.—The whole membership of the First battalion of the brigade of midshipmen has been restricted for an indefinite period to the confines of the institution as a result of its members having "given the silence" to Lieut. Commander C. B. McVay, Jr., one of the discipline officers.

The members of the battalion had taken exception to McVay's mode of investigating their actions and determined to administer this form of rebuke to him. The "silence" is as old as the navy itself. It is in the nature of a boycott. At the time agreed for its application these participating in it keep absolutely silent during the whole of some meal at which the officer is present in the midshipman's mess hall.

Ordinarily this dining room at meal time is a very noisy place and silence, when the 800 midshipmen are assembled there, is decidedly noticeable. When it was directed against Lieut. Commander McVay that officer withheld the order for the First battalion to leave the room at the end of the meal after having dismissed the Second battalion. He sat quietly at the table for nearly two hours, attempting by this means to force the remaining midshipmen to break the silence, but without effect. Eventually he dismissed them and reported the matter to the commandant.

RELIEF FOR PYTHIANS

State Grand Lodge to Consider Marked Change in Laws.

Frank L. Young of Duluth Candidate for Grand Chancellor.

St. Paul, May 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—More than half the delegates to the state grand lodge meeting of the Knights of Pythias had arrived this morning. The meeting will open this afternoon at 400 Cedar street.

Yesterday afternoon and evening the committees on credentials and finance met and finished their reports. Advance copies of the annual reports of the officers have been issued so that the reports of the committee are more nearly completed than at any previous session of the grand lodge.

The most important change in the appropriations to be recommended by the finance committee is the advance in the portion of the per capita tax to be sent the supreme lodge. That body, at its meeting last October, raised the assessment of each grand lodge 40 per cent.

The most important change in the

ERIE ROAD MACHINISTS WANT WAGES ADJUSTED.

New York, May 14.—The machinists in the repair shops all along the line of the Erie railroad, it is learned, are dissatisfied and will demand important changes in a proposed new agreement that will be submitted to the officials by a special committee, representing about 1,000 men. The principal complaint, it is said, is inequality of wages.

Washington, May 14.—Information has been received at the war department that Governor Magoon is making plans for contracts for extensive road improvements in Cuba for which the Cuban congress passed a bill authorizing the expenditure of $6,000,000. GRAIN TIED UP BY STRIKE

Elevator Men on Jersey Shore Quit to Help Longshoremen.

Efforts to Bring About Arbitration Come to Naught.

New York, May 14.—The grain handlers at forty or more elevators on the New Jersey harbor front have struck out of sympathy for the 30,000 striking longshoremen, retarding greatly the shipping of grain to Europe and adding to the blockades of freight. The men employed on the barges, which supply the liners with coal, have refused so far to quit work. This would be the most telling stroke against the companies the strikers could make.

Some attempts have been made toward arbitration, but these efforts have not been sanctioned by either the trans-Atlantic steamship companies or the strikers, and they have been met with discouragement at the outset. Herman Robinson, New York representative of the American Federation of Labor, sought the headquarters of the Longshoremen's Protective union to inquire if the Federation could be of any assistance in a possible settlement of the strike, although the union is not affiliated with the federation. President Connors of the union told him that the strikers were not looking for arbitration and that, if the steamship companies wished to communicate with the strikers, their agents could come to the longshoremen's headquarters. Connors thanked Robinson, however, for the friendly spirit shown by him on behalf of the American Federation of Labor.

Father J. F. Flanneily of St. Veronica's Roman Catholic church, which President Conners and other longshoremen attended, sent for Conners and asked if he could not induce the union to treat with the steamship own-

St. Petersburg Workmen Cause General Suspension of Labor.

St. Petersburg, May 14.—The workmen of St. Petersburg generally today celebrated the Russian May day with a one-day's strike, most of the factories closing entirely and others suspending business at noon. Only the governmental works, such as the shipyards and ammunition factories, were open. The authorities had announced that a cessation of work there would be punished by a general lock-out, but the workmen voted to give their day's earnings to the fund for idle workmen.

The strike also affected many of the smaller stores, the street car service was suspended on several of the lines, and most of the news-

Omaha, Neb., May 14.—Snow fell over a large part of Nebraska last night and continues falling today doing great good to winter wheat, the weather not being severe. At Lincoln there is half an inch on the ground and it has been falling at Columbus since daylight.

Concordia, Kas., reports snow falling. Half of Northern Nebraska is covered while in Southeastern Nebraska scattered showers of cold rain have fallen with indications of further precipitation during the day.

The temperature reached 28 degs. above zero in Northern Nebraska last night—the coldest in the state. Indications for tonight are for frost over the entire state, followed by warmer Wednesday.

PLANS REUNION OF GRANT MEN OF 1880 CONVENTION.

Washington, May 14.—A feature of the next Republican national convention will be a reunion of the delegates to the convention in Chicago in 1880, who, for thirty-six ballots, supported Gen. U. S. Grant for the presidency for a third term. The call for the reunion has been issued by Col. A. M. Hughes of Columbia, Tenn., the only surviving member of the Tennessee delegation to the 1880 convention. He estimates that there are between sixty and eighty of the "immortal 306" Grant delegates living, and he hopes, if possible, to have all the survivors at the reunion.

CHARLES LITTLE LEAVES BREAKFAST TABLE AND PUTS BULLET IN BRAIN

SENATOR CHARLES DICK,
Who Has Called Off the "Harmony" Conference of Ohio Republican Leaders.

Well Known West Duluthian Commits Suicide at Home.

Was Apparently in Good Spirits Just Before Deed.

Many Friends in City Shocked by Unexpected Tragedy.

In a fit of despondency, the cause of which has not been disclosed, Charles R. Little, a prominent resident of West Duluth, this morning shot and killed himself in his room at 4809 West Sixth street, where he lived with his aged father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Little. After taking breakfast with his parents, he retired to his room shortly before 8 o'clock, evidently in good spirits. A few minutes later a shot was heard, and on entering the room his parents found him lying dead on the floor.

The weapon used was a 38-caliber revolver, which he held in his clasped hand. Death had been instantaneous, the shot evidently having been directed with that end in view. The muzzle of the revolver had been inserted in his mouth and the bullet directed upward, crashing through his brain and causing instant death. Coroner McCuen was notified, but it is not expected an inquest will be necessary.

Mr. Little was 48 years of age and had been a resident of West Duluth for the past sixteen years, during which time he had been superintendent of the Merrill & Ring Lumber company's mill. The mill discontinued operations early last November, but Mr. Little continued to act as superintendent, there being considerable lumber to ship. He made his regular trip to the mill yesterday, and to friends with whom he talked on the way nothing appeared unusual.

The cause of the act will probably never be known. Mr. Little had been ill for some weeks past, suffering from a severe attack of the grip. Naturally of a reticent and retiring disposition, he confided no trouble to any of his family or friends, and whether his illness or some other matter prompted him to take his own life is unknown.

Mr. Little was born in Michigan and entered the employ of the Merrill & Ring company when a young man. For six years he was superintendent of the lath and shingle mill of the company at Saginaw, Mich., and became superintendent of the entire plant about seventeen years ago. When the plant was moved to West Duluth a year after he had taken charge, he came here to continue in the position. His father and mother came with him and continued to reside here.

The news of the suicide created a profound sensation among West Duluth residents, to whom Mr. Little was well known. He had made many friends both in West Duluth and the city in general, and sincere regret was expressed for the unfortunate occurrance and sympathy for his aged parents, who are prostrated by the blow.

Mr. Little was unmarried, and besides his father and mother, is survived by a brother, Robert, a traveling salesman, who was away from home at the time of the occurrence, and two sisters. The funeral arrangements will be made later.

IRISH BILL DENOUNCED

Cardinal Logue and Other Prelates Hostile to the Measure.

Timothy M. Healy Stimulates the Revolt of the Nationalists.

Dublin, May 14.—The active hostility of the Catholic church against Mr. Birrell's Irish bill renders especially difficult John E. Redmond's task of securing its approval by the forthcoming Nationalist convention. Cardinal Logue, primate of all Ireland, has now joined Archbishop Walsh and the bishops of Limerick and Kildare, in denouncing the measure. The lead given by these prelates is particularly fateful, as practically every parish priest in Ireland will be a delegate to the convention.

The Nationalist revolt is being assiduously stimulated by Timothy M. Healy, William O'Brien and other politicians. Mr. Healy, in an open letter declares that the "introduction of the bill was the worst day's work done for Ireland in my time, and to proceed with it would be a crime against the Irish nation. The first draft of the bill was better than the last. Each fresh draft grew steadily worse under the shears of Roseberyism," referring to Foreign Secretary Grey, War Secretary Haldane and Chancellor of the Exchequer Asquith, followers of Lord Rosebery who are members of the cabinet.

Neither the chief secretary for Ireland nor the premier, according to Mr. Healy, favored the introduction of the "stunted bantling which only saw the light of day because of the pressure of the Irish leaders."

Cardinal Logue goes so far as to say: "I believe that any politician who will try to secure the bill's acceptance by the forthcoming convention will incur the grave suspicion of endeavoring to deceive his countrymen in the interest of the ministry."

SPEAKS FOR PUBLICITY

Vice President Brown of New York Central Backs Roosevelt.

Holds Railroad Business Should be Open to Every One.

Syracuse, N. Y., May 14.—Second Vice President W. C. Brown of the New York Central railroad in an address at the annual banquet of the Syracuse chamber of commerce last night, endorsed the stand taken by President Roosevelt with regard to corporations.

"I am firmly in favor of the regulation of the railroads and all other corporations by the nation and the states. The power which creates can and should regulate," said Mr. Brown. "From the standpoint of the public and the railroad I would regard any backward step in the great principle of corporate regulation as a serious mistake.

"I have said, and I am glad to repeat, that the business of the railroads should be as open and public as that of the national banks; rates should be reasonable and equal to all. This regulation of the railroads, however, shoud be undertaken in a spirit of the most liberal conservatism. The radical, the agitator, the reactionist of both sides should be suppressed."

OLD SOLDIER'S APPEAL HEARD

North Dakota Veteran's Land Fraud Conviction in Higher Court.

St. Paul, Minn., May 14.—The United States circuit court of appeals today heard the appeal of F. W. Warnberger, a Civil war veteran of Ward County, North Dakota, who was convicted in the United States district court of North Dakota of alleged land frauds against the government, and was sentenced to a fine of $2,100 and one year imprisonment.

Warnberger's plan was to get widows of Civil war veterans to go to North Dakota to file on government land and turn the claims over to him for a consideration. He secured the aid of twenty widows and eight Civil war veterans, but the government interfered. Some of the women were from the vicinity of Bowling Green, Ohio, where Warnberger formerly lived. Decision in the case was reserved.

HEAVY FINES FOR ICE TRUST

One Kansas City Concern Assessed $15,000; Another, $8,000.

Kansas City, Mo., May 14.—Judge Walter A. Powell of the circuit court today fined the following named companies, recently found guilty of maintaining a trust to regulate the production and price of ice at Kansas City: People's Ice, Storage & Fuel company, $15,000; Central Ice company, $8,000; Kansas City Breweries company, $5,000. Punishment of the Vandervlice-Lynd Mercantile company, also found guilty of violating the law, will be determined later.

Judge Powell also enjoined these companies from doing business in the future with one another.

Similar charges brought against the Gold Packing company, the Western Ice company, Ruddy Bros. and the Interstate Ice company, were dismissed, the allegations not having been sustained.

THE POLICE COURT GRIST

Wife Beater Pleads Not Guilty on Surprising Contention.

Prisoner Would Not Say Whether He Had Been Preacher.

When arraigned on a charge of wife beating or third degree assault in municipal court, John Bartl, an Austrian laborer, pleaded not guilty to the allegations of the complaint upon a somewhat startling basis. Before coming into court he is said to have admitted to the officers that he struck the woman, who swore out the complaint, but when arraigned in court he assured the judge through an interpreter, that the woman was not his wife. She was just living with him, he said. She had gone away from him for a year, about a year ago, and after awhile she had written to him that she wanted to come back and he sent her a ticket and she returned.

The clerk entered a plea of not guilty and the case is set for Thursday morning, Bartl putting up $20 bail.

The cold northeaster and rheumatism were the causes pleaded by John M. McDonald in municipal court for his having been "tanked up" yesterday afternoon to such an extent that Officer Eck took him to the police station.

McDonald is an old man and quite superior in appearance to the general run of men who are arraigned for drunkenness in the municipal court. He was released on the strength of his appearance two days ago on the same charge, however, and the court was not inclined to be lenient this time. When sentence was postponed, he sprang to his feet and poured forth such a flood of eloquent pleading, delivered with such a ministerial inflection, that the court asked him if he had ever been a preacher.

The old man flushed, stammered, and said he had tried a little of everything during his life, but he refused to answer the question direct.

Judge Cutting remained obdurate while McDonald was in the room, but after the long line of "morning afters" filed gloomily out with the rheumatic old man following them, he told the police officer that he thought sentence could be suspended again.

Minnie Peterson has so far developed the new woman theory as to assume masculine habits with a vengeance. Minnie both smokes and drinks and does both with a persistence that got her into trouble yesterday. She was arrested at a house in the West end yesterday afternoon by Sergeant Wilcox, charged with drunkenness, and she brought her pipe with her to jail and was quite indignant when not allowed to smoke in the woman's department.

She pleaded not guilty to being drunk this morning, but upon Sergeant Wilcox's testimony a sentence of $40 and costs was imposed by the court with a forty-day jail alternative. This was suspended on condition that she get to a farm in Wisconsin, where a brother and sister live, before night.

ACTION IS WELCOME

West Duluth People Pleased at Mayor's Park Plans.

Some Action Also Seems Likely on Proctor Extension.

West Duluth residents in general were pleased with the developments at the council meeting last night. The mayor's communication in regard to parks exhibits many possibilities for the western extremity of the city and the people of West Duluth are pleased that their needs are to be given consideration. The statement that "Fairmount park, with a comparatively small expenditure of money, could be made for West Duluth what Lincoln and Lester parks are to the remainder of the city," strikes a responsive chord among West Duluth people, and any efforts of the mayor to put his recommendations through will meet with hearty accord from this end of the city.

Fairmount park is West Duluth's only playground at present and, although it serves its purpose very well, there is room for vast improvement. The attention of the city officials and a good sized force of men could be given it for quite a time and the results which would be obtained would more than offset any expenditure of money.

The vast west end of the city has not been treated as generously as it might have been by the park board, but that this is not to be the rule in the future is shown by the mayor's statement that if $50,000 park bonds are issued, half or more of that sum will be spent on parks west of the Point of Rocks. The population of West Duluth and West end will welcome improvements to its park facilities and hope that the council will act on the mayor's suggestions.

Alderman Getchell's request that the city engineer prepare a plat showing a feasible route for an extension of the Fifty-seventh avenue street car line to Bay View and Proctorknott indicates that some action is soon to be taken on that project. The people of the two locations and West Duluth are anxious to see the extension made and the business interests of West Duluth are working for it. The preparing of the plat will be merely a preliminary step, but it is an indication that the matter has not been dropped entirely.

RASMUS BIRKEDAL DEAD.

West Duluth Man Died at Duluth Hospital This Morning.

Rasmus Birkedal, a resident of Duluth for about twenty years, the greater part of which time he had lived in West Duluth, died this morning at the Duluth hospital of alcoholism. Birkedal had been employed all winter by John Winness at one of his camps, and he had left recently to come in from the woods. He had been drinking heavily, and was removed to the hospital Friday evening last, passing away this morning.

Birkedal was 49 years of age, and was born in Norway. He came to this country when a young man, and for ten or twelve years was employed as a clerk in Hendricks' store on Central avenue. For about three years he had been employed by John Winness, acting as timekeeper in the woods. He was unmarried and has no relatives in Duluth. The remains will be taken in charge by friends, and the funeral arrangements made later.

Postal Improvements.

It is expected West Duluth residents will be benefited by a marked improvement in the postal service soon. Postmaster Eaton is to put on at least one additional carrier, and the securing of new quarters for the office is being considered. The time for the business men's delivery has not yet been set, but it probably will be as soon as the postoffice department notifies Mr. Eaton of the number of additional men to be allowed the office.

SCHEME IS ATTACKED

O. G. Major's Coal Company Not Meeting With Favor.

Former Business Associate Makes an Investigation of It.

North Dakota papers have recently been devoting considerable space to the exploitation of a co-operative coal company which proposes to build a dock at Ashland, Wis., and which has interested in the project a number of North Dakota people. The company is seeking to sell stock among the dealers in coal in the Northwest and agrees to sell each person taking stock a certain amount of coal, claiming that the price will be attractive in comparison with that paid by those who buy from the companies now controlling the business.

Among those who are advocating the sale of stock of the company and exhibiting a most active interest in its behalf is O. G. Major of Hope, N. D., former president of the Minnesota Farmers' exchange. He is quite well known in Duluth from having been the chief instigator of the suit which Attorney General Young brought against the Duluth board of trade. The Minnesota Farmers' exchange dropped Mr. Major at its annual meeting about two months ago and he has now ceased the advocacy of the building of farmers' elevators for the time being at least, and is pushing the coal business.

Closely associated with Mr. Major in his work in the Minnesota Farmers' exchange and in the interest of farmer's elevators was H. B. Borneman of Colgate, N. D. Mr. Borneman does not however, take kindly to the coal company scheme and has been doing some investigating. He professes to see in it a pretty good thing for the man selling the stock and not a very glittering prospect for the purchaser. His conclusions are embodied in the following communication addressed to the Fargo Forum:

Hatlock, Minn., May 6.—To The Forum: I have been in Ashland, Wis., looking over the prospects of the Northwestern Co-operative Coal & Dock company. I found a proposed dock 1,467 feet like frontage, by 2,000 feet which includes 600 feet of dock and the depth of water frontage. I also found a nice office, furnished with desk, nine Remington typewriters and six more to be installed; eight buildings and thirty-four lots valued at $5,000. The company expects to correspond with 900 stations. I am not very favorably impressed with the company's plant, which is about as follows: The value of the dock property is $40,000 which is being used to promote the concern, or, in other words, Mr. Harder is using the sale of the preferred stock to the amount of $40,000. Consequently the dock is not a gift. Then it will take $100,000 for machinery, $20,000 for planking and $20,000 for dredging, making in all $180,000.

Then before it is declared a company $300,000 worth of preferred stock must be sold. With each $100 of preferred stock the buyer receives one certificate of the watered or common stock, valued at $25, leaving 75 per cent in the hands of the promoters, which equals $240,000 of common stock. In addition to the $300,000 of preferred stock, the holders of this stock must agree to contract for 250,000 tons of coal. In this pamphlet (2 copies enclosed) you will notice under the heading Profit that it will take $18,000 to pay the 6 per cent guaranteed dividend, which looks laughable. The stockholders themselves guarantee the 6 per cent, as the organization is not complete until the $300,000 of preferred stocks are sold, and the 250,000 tons of coal contracted for, which leaves $200,000 of common stock in the hands of the promoters and nets them a handsome profit with salary added, where the poor North Dakota sucker receives only $18,000 profit on his own guarantee. See? Namely, furnishes all the capital and must buy all the coal, before he can realize any of the $18,000 and profits on coal, which are liable to be very limited, especially for those doing business on the Great Northern Railway company, as the additional freight per ton from Ashland to Duluth is 60 cents per ton. Now let us see what the promoters' profits are. According to the pamphlet, the total estimated profit is $125,000; deduct $18,000 for dividends on preferred stock, leaves $107,000 to pay dividends on $300,000 common stock, of which the promoters have $200,000, earning them a net profit of nearly $72,000. Add the value of the dock property, which is $40,000, and a salary from $10,000 to $20,000 a year. Sum these together and you touch the high-water mark for a starter. After the first year the profits for the promoters will be cut down to $92,000, undoubtedly a satisfactory yearly income. The pamphlet issued by the company is very honest in its statements and nothing misleading.

About the directors first. It's the plan of the company to have six states interested, one director to be nominated from each state by the preferred stockholders and elected by the common stockholders. Also that it will take at least eight affirmative directors' votes to carry any proposition. Then we go on further down and it's proposed that preferred stockholders are to nominate the treasurer of the company, to be elected by the common stock holders. The treasurer is to receive $5,000 yearly salary. Here is a show for a state organizer or solicitor to have it whispered in his ear, push this through and the treasurership is yours. As there are six states to come into the company it would mean six candidates for the treasurership, and the candidate not aware that each had received a whisper. The above would give the common stockholders the affirmative and not the preferred stockholders. The whole plan is a little too one-sided. If the promoters would ask a yearly salary of $20,000 it would look better. Also place the company's affairs into the stockholders and consumers' hands, otherwise I fail to see where the benefit is to be arrived at by being a member of this company. The company owns no coal mines but buys its coal from independent mines which may include mines that are closely connected with the coal trusts and are liable to call a halt any time. Prices of coal to preferred stock holders are as follows:

Cost of Hocking coal at the mines—to per ton	$1.15 to $1.25
F. O. B. on vessels, Toledo	1.00
Toledo to Ashland	.40
Proposed profit	.30
Total at Ashland	$2.95
Cost of hard coal—
At the mines when bought in May	$2.40
10 cents to be added to the $2.40 for each additional month.
F. O. B. cars Buffalo	1.90
Buffalo to Ashland	.40
Proposed profits	.30
	$3.00

"To the above prices, members should add 60 cents per ton freight from Ashland to Duluth. Then the freight to destination desired which will give you the wholesale price of coal. It strikes me that lignite coal rate law which becomes effective July 1 would build up opposition to the regular coal dealers' home industry first. Yours respectfully,

"H. B. BORNEMANN."

GRANDE IS REMANDED

Judge Dibell Quashes His Writ of Habeas Corpus.

Court Grants Ten Day Stay to Permit an Appeal.

The writ of habeas corpus issued to Joseph H. Grande against Sheriff William J. Bates, to secure the former's release from custody in his fight against extradition papers in the hands of California authorities, was quashed by order of Judge Dibell this morning. The court, in the same order directs that Grande be remanded to the custody of Sheriff Bates, to be turned over to C. C. Case, the deputy sheriff from San Joaquin county and by him returned to the state of California.

A stay of execution is ordered for a period of ten days, or until otherwise ordered by the court. This time is granted at the request of Grande who says he will appeal to the supreme court from Judge Dibell's ruling.

The writ was issued May 6 and was returnable May 11. The court finds from the evidence offered at the hearing that the governor of California demanded of the governor of Minnesota the surrender of Grande as a fugitive from justice from California, and that there was produced an affidavit charging Grande with the crime of forgery. It is further found that the governor of Minnesota issued extradition papers committing Grande to C. C. Case, an officer representing the state of California.

In his memoranda, attached to the order quashing the writ, Judge Dibell says it must be conceded that the executive warrant for the surrender of Grande as a fugitive from justice is insufficient as a justification for his arrest and surrender, in that it recites that he stands charged with crime in California, by complaint instead of affidavit, as provided by the federal statutes.

Judge Dibell says the only question is whether the papers presented to Governor Johnson of Minnesota and on which he acted, show the jurisdictional facts essential to the arrest and the extradition of Grande.

The question most urgently urged by Grande related to the sufficiency of the complaint made before a justice of the peace in California as an affidavit under the federal statutes.

"To my mind," says Judge Dibell, "it is sufficient. It is in writing. Its averments are positive. A crime is definitely charged. The person making the complaint is sworn by the committing magistrate. He signed it before a magistrate who certifies to it. It has all the essentials of an affidavit and that is enough. It is authenticated by the governor.

The court further holds that complaint and the warrant issued are in strict conformity with the requirements of the California criminal code and thinks that Grande is mistaken in his contentions in that respect.

SMOKE FATAL TO FIREMEN

Two Reported Dead and Thirty Overcome in New York Blaze.

New York, May 14.—Thirty firemen were overcome by smoke and one was reported to have been killed and another to be missing as the result of a stubborn fire today in the sub-cellar and basement of a five-story building at 325 Broadway, occupied in part by the sales rooms and offices of the Remington Typewriter company. With no window to allow the escape of the smoke the firemen were unable to withstand the fumes. One after another they were brought out unconscious by their comrades. A temporary hospital ward was established in offices in Worth street, near the scene of the fire, and many of the firemen were removed there.

About 100 young women who were employed in the offices of the Remington company and who fled to the street when the fire started volunteered to serve as nurses, and their services were accepted. As fast as they became able, the men returned to the building and helped their comrades bring out others who had become overcome.

MIX-UP IN MARRIAGES.

Detroit Free Press: Here is an entanglement that has "how old is Ann" and all kindred problems looking like a kindergarten stunt. If Rosa Crouch, playing at the Temple, has a sister older than her grandmother, and a grandnephew older than herself, then where does Rosa come in? The gay little dancer belongs to a family whose dimensions would make Roosevelt forget all his troubles.

She is the twenty-fifth of twenty-seven children, and all her topsy-turvey relationships come of her father having divided his numerous offsprings into four parts. Frederick Nicholls Crouch, F. R. S., composer of the melody, "Kathleen Mavourneen," composer of music and writer of stories, married four times—first when he was very young and last when he was very old.

"It makes an awfully funny jumble," said Miss Crouch, "to have a father that married so often and so far apart. You see, it sounds queer to say you have a sister sixty years older than yourself, but I have. My mother was nothing but a chit of a girl when my father married her, and he was an old man.

"A New York reporter studied all my queer relationships one time and wrote them out so that you'd almost go crazy trying to make head or tail to them, but everything he said was true. You see, my sister in England, the child of my father's first wife, is over 60 years my senior, and my own mother's mother is only about fifty-five years older than I am, and is a grandchild of that same sister—my grandnephew is quite a bit older than me—really, when I get to thinking about it I wonder where I'm at.

"Yes, father wrote the music of 'Kathleen Mavourneen'—I have letters in New York from his publishers, D'Almaine & Co., telling about the song. Father never made a bit of money from the music, although it was issued by thirty different publishers in England and America and made lots of money for them." This patriarch Crouch died agout ten years ago at the age of 82.

SHOES OF WHALEHIDE.

London Express: Newfoundland whalers, seized with a spirit of enterprising economy, are reported to be attempting to place whale hide on the market for the manufacture of whale leather.

It is not surprising that such an attempt should be made. It must vex the spirit of any whaler of well balanced mind to see, after all the hardship and danger of his calling, an enormous and altogether disproportionable bulk of his quarry cast away.

From a large right whale of, say, forty-five to fifty feet in length, about 250 barrels of oil, and 1¾ tons of baleen, or whalebone, may be obtained. The remainder of the gigantic carcass, which may be as much as fifty tons, has hitherto been considered useless.

The average whale hide if laid out on the ground would cover a surface of nearly 1,500 square feet, at which rate one whale, if its hide could be made into boots and shoes, would well stock a west end boot shop.

RAILROADS

WEATHER IS EXPENSIVE

Spring Rains Add to Cost of Railroad Construction.

Result in High Bids for Wisconsin Central Work.

Lake Superior spring weather will add considerably to the expense of building the extension of the Wisconsin Central line to Duluth. Continued rains during the early part of last year resulted in heavy losses to some of the sub-contractors, and so discouraged them that they refuse to have anything further to do with the same sort of work this season. Other men in the same line of business have been made wary by the experience of their friends, and do not appear at all enthusiastic over bidding for new pieces of work.

A good deal of grading and similar work is still to be done along the extension, and the company wants it to be completed at the earliest possible date. Such weather as is holding forth today is not at all encouraging. It means the suspension of all construction work. Past seasons have shown that the same variety may be expected for the next six weeks, with only short intermissions of sunshiny days. Usually, at this time of the year the rain begins again before the ground has had a chance to more than begin to dry out, and it soon becomes so thoroughly water soaked that slow progress is made by the men who are grading and otherwise working along the line.

Continued rains put the sub-contractors up against a pretty hard proposition. Each of them has a crew of men working for him, and these men cannot work while it rains. If he pays them every day, whether it rains or not, it is evident that it will be a losing game with him if there is much bad weather. If he does not pay them every day, they naturally become discontented, because of having to pay board when not making any money, and quit their jobs. There is so much work to be had that it is no easy matter to hire a crew of men for railroad work, and to have a crew desert is a dire misfortune to the contractor.

Aside from the men there are all the teams engaged on the work. The same rule applies to them. If their owners are paid only for the time they work, it is a losing game to let them remain in the barn waiting for the sun to come out, and if they are paid right along, regardless of the weather, the contractor is the loser instead of the owner.

These several difficulties have resulted in a demand for more money than this class of work usually commands. The sub-contractors, figuring on the irregularities of the weather, place their bids at a higher figure than they would in a country where the weather conditions are more to be depended on, and, in consequence, the grand total for building the railroad extensions through this section are swelled to a considerable degree, not to speak of the serious delays resulting from the weather conditions.

HOLD CONFERENCE.

Hill-Harriman People Discuss Rates Demanded by Spokane.

St. Paul, May 14.—There was a conference yesterday of the traffic men and attorneys of the Hill-Harriman lines for the purpose of outlining the course to be pursued in the litigation now pending before the interstate commerce commission concerning the reduction in rates demanded by Spokane commercial interests. The commission already has held a number of hearings on this subject and arguments on the matter will come up in Washington next month. According to Third Vice President B. Campbell of the Great Northern, who represented his road at the conference, there was nothing done than to outline the course to be pursued by the attorneys in their arguments. Those representing the Harriman lines at the conference, which was held at the Great Northern general offices here, were: J. C. Stubbs, traffic director; P. C. Stohr, assistant traffic director; R. B. Miller, general freight agent of Portland, Or., and W. W. Cotton, general solicitor, Portland; Vice President Campbell and General Counsel Beggs represented the Great Northern.

MAY CHANGE JOBS.

Reported Hannaford Will Give Entire Attention to Express Business.

St. Paul, May 14.—It was persistently rumored in high railroad circles yesterday that Jules M. Hannaford, second vice president of the Northern Pacific railroad company, and president of the Northern Express company, would, in the near future, give up all his railroad duties and confine himself exclusively to the direction of the express interests of the Hill system.

The home official announcement is expected within the present month. Mr. Hannaford's place in the Northern Pacific will, it is stated, be given to James Woodworth, at present traffic manager.

The Northern Express company, recently organized, has taken over the business of the Northern Pacific, and will also take up that of the Great Northern Express company.

The combined express business of the Hill roads amounts to a large volume, and the executive work involved requires, it is said, the executive attention of an expert, and for this reason Mr. Hannaford, is to be transferred to the express branch of the business.

DISLIKED TREATMENT

West End Ball Players Say Superiorites Threw Stones.

They Won in Spite of Treatment of Spectators.

The Universal Millers, a fast West end team, are not entirely satisfied with the treatment they received Sunday afternoon at Hammond Park, Superior, where they met and defeated the Happy Hooligans.

The Millers say that the crow showed great animosity toward the Duluth players, interfering with plays wherever possible and even throwing stones at some of the Duluth boys.

The game was a hot one, lasting twelve innings, but the Duluth aggregation won out, the final score being 12 to 8.

The Millers were in good form and most of the errors, according to a statement made by one of the players, Al Swanstrom, were due to the antics of the unfriendly crowd. Hoodlums on the coach lines threw caps and things at the ball and did other things to rattle the Duluthians.

During the first seven innings, the Millers secured four tallies and the Hooligans had nothing. In the seventh, however, some errors on the part of the Duluth aggregation gave the other side several scores and the beginning of the ninth showed the Hooligans to be in possession of six scores, whereas the Millers had but four.

In the Millers' half of the ninth, A. Olson made three powerful swishes, but he failed to locate the pill, and Murray was caught at second after he had accomplished a two bagger. That made two out. Then Al Johnson succeeded in planting the pellett where it would do for a single bag and Swanstrom came up and swatted out a three bagger, permitting Mr. Johnson to romp across the platter. With Swanstrom lounging at third, waiting for a chance to get under the wire, J. Olson secured a single which scored Swanstrom and tied the score. The next man could not find the globule and the side was retired.

It was necessary to play twelve innings. In the first part of the twelfth, the Millers secured six runs, a lead which the Wisconsin players could not overcome.

The Millers are elated over the victory and they have only the kindest words for the men who played against them, but they are peevish about the way the onlookers acted.

The team lined up as follows:

NEW BOTTLING HOUSE

To be Built at Duluth Brewing & Malting Company's Plant.

Ground is being broken in the West end now for a new bottling house for the Duluth Brewing & Malting company.

The new structure will be located just across the street from that part of the brewery where the bottling is now carried on. It will be much larger than the present bottling house and will be complete in every detail.

The latest and most improved bottling machinery will be installed. A piece is now in operation in the old bottling house, as the new one will not be finished before fall. It is a "crowner," a machine which is capable of putting metal caps on 100 bottle a minute.

The cost of the contemplated improvements at the brewery are not known now, but it is said that no expense will be spared to make the new portion of the plant one of the finest in the country. The present bottling house will be turned into a filling and shipping place for the keg beer.

Launches Change Hands.

The latest West enders to take up the gasoline launch fad are P. George Hanson and B. Brown.

Reuben Johnson has sold his twenty-two foot boat, "Edna S." to Mr. Hanson. The "Edna S." is a four horsepower craft, with canopy and other improvements and has been one of the handsomest launches in the West end fleet.

Mr. Brown has bought Al Bicwett's eighteen foot launch.

Herman Olson has repaired his launch, the Newsboy, and it now looks like a new boat.

West End Shortrails.

Richard Broderick, who is now working for the Duluth, Missabe & Northern, was in the West end yesterday.

P. C. Lyden of Lake Nebagamon, Wis., was transacting business in the West end yesterday.

Arthur McAvoy has returned from the Pacific coast, where he has been working during the past winter.

The Epworth league of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church will give a literary program at the church parlors this evening, when the side captained by A. B. Anderson will be in charge.

J. P. Signell, agent for the Duluth Brewing & Malting company at Bemidji, Minn., and G. Beecher, agent for the same concern at Aitkin, transacted business in the West end the first of the week.

J. P. Carey of Virginia spent Sunday in the West end.

Harlowe Amos, formerly employed by the Duluth, Missabe & Northern, has accepted a position in the office at the Duluth Brewing & Malting company's plant.

ALL BRITISH STEAMSHIP LINE BY CANADA FAVORED.

London, May 14.—The imperial conference, at its closing session today, adopted the motion of Sir Wilfrid Laurier in favor of an all British subsidized steamship route from the United Kingdom to Australasia, by way of Canada. A committee is to be appointed to inquire into the cost of such a route and draw up definite proposals. The motion of Sir Wilfrid is designed to bring about a reduction in freight charges, thus giving an indirect form of preference to the British colonies, reducing the time from England to Australia to twenty instead of thirty days, and in the end diverting some of the traffic now going by way of New York.

JUDGE AND SHERIFF IN KENTUCKY MURDER PLOT.

Lexington, Ky., May 14.—At the opening of Judge James Hargis' trial for the James Cockrill murder today, M. J. Peters, a new witness, swore that just after Cockrill was shot, he saw Judge James Hargis and Sheriff Ed Callahan in Hargis' store with guns in their hands. Hargis called to some one, "go back or you will get shot."

Oscar Hagin swore he saw John Smith at the courthouse window when Cockrill was shot, but that Smith ran when seen. This was new testimony and created a stir in the court.

VERY LATE FOR SNOW

There Have Been Few Storms Later Than This.

Weather Man Looks for Warmer Wheather by Wednesday.

This morning's snowstorm, although it was not the latest on record at the Duluth weather bureau, came within a few days of being a record-breaker and was one of only a few to occur so late in the season during the last thirty-six years. The weather man says snow flurries may be expected this afternoon and until tonight, but warmer weather is promised for tomorrow.

On May 14, 1889, there was a snowstorm in Duluth and about half an inch of the beautiful fell. Again on the same day in 1890 a real snowstorm occurred and there was a fall of an inch, which was a record-breaker for such a late date. Then last year there was just a trace of snow on May 19, but it was hardly as noticeable as that of today. There is a chance that the record may be broken this afternoon, however, as several inches of snow fell at Moorhead last night and Duluth may get some of this storm before warmer weather comes.

It has been raining or snowing over a good portion of the Northwest during the last twenty-four hours. Rain has been falling over the western lake region, Upper Mississippi valley and the Southwest, and rain or snow in Northern Minnesota, Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas and the Rocky mountain region.

The temperature was generally colder this morning over the entire Upper Mississippi valley and from the Dakotas to Northern Texas. Over the most of Minnesota there was freezing weather this morning and also in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and the Rocky mountain region, Nebraska and Western Kansas. The temperature fell twenty to thirty degs. in parts of Nebraska, Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Northern Oklahoma.

A good brisk gale was blowing over Lake Superior all day yesterday, and at one time the velocity of the wind was as high as forty-eight miles an hour. Again during the night it reached a velocity of forty-two miles, but most of the time it was not blowing faster than thirty-five miles an hour. The weather man expects the wind will shift around to the northwest tonight and after a lull of a few hours will begin to blow a lively clip from that quarter.

The prospects today are that it will remain partly cloudy this afternoon and tonight and there will probably be warmer temperatures throughout the Northwest tomorrow.

MADE HUSBAND SMOKE IN YARD

And Chased Him Out of the Parlor, Says Archer.

New York, May 14.—When the action for a separation brought by Mrs. Henry D. Archer of White Plains, against her husband, who is connected with Gedney Farm, the country estate of Howard Willets, is brought to trial in the supreme court of Westchester county, the question whether the husband can bring a counter charge of cruelty because Mrs. Archer blew a tin whistle at midnight to stop him from snoring, will be decided.

According to the husband's lawyer, Mrs. Archer admits she blew a whistle, but claims it was not a "tin whistle." Mrs. Archer also admits she threw a shoe at her husband, but says it missed its mark and went through a window.

Mr. Archer said today his defence would be along these lines:

That Mrs. Archer kicked in the panels of the pantry door.

That she divided the bedclothes between them.

That she made him eat out of dishes that hadn't been washed.

That she hurled crockery of all kinds at his head.

That she chased him out of the parlor every time he stepped within the door.

That she demanded more money than he earned.

That she would not let him smoke in the house, and he had to go out into the barnyard or into the street to enjoy a peaceful smoke.

That at times he had to cook his own meals.

That his wife hid food so he could not find it.

That she hung his mother's picture in a shed.

"And now," said Mr. Archer, "don't you think I am entitled to a separation? I am going to fight her suit bitterly, and I shall prove my charges, too."

Mrs. Archer is now living in Ossining with relatives.

She says her husband turned her mother's portrait to the wall and he did not support her.

MAKES ANIMALS HIS HEIRS.

Indiana Man Leaves Part of Fortune to Dog and Horse.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 14.—According to the terms of a will offered for probate here, the favorite dog of George C. Watts, formerly of Chicago, will receive the interest on $20,000 for the period of twenty-one years. Watts directs that his executor, Willis K. Gore of Chicago, shall invest $20,000 of his estate in interest-bearing bonds, and this interest shall be expended for the dog's benefit. The dog is called "Bill" in the instrument filed for probate, but no reason is assigned for making him an heir for such an amount.

Mr. Watts also makes provision for his horse "King," which is to be kept by the executor and fed $300 worth of feed a year, as long as he is used, and $200 a year after he is retired from service. Gore is to receive $3,000 for carrying out these trusts.

LADY GODIVA

Again to Ride Through Country in "Historic Costum:."

London, May 14.—The ancient town of Coventry is to have a Godiva pageant next August. But the historical committee, which has been formed to preserve "the unities," is just now divided on the important question of how the twentieth century impersonator of the famous wife of Earl Leofric should be dressed.

Historical purists assert that Lady Godiva should not be dressed at all. Her "historic costume," as far as Coventry is concerned, consisted of her innocence.

On the other hand, certain members of the committee believe that this limited costume is beneath the dignity of a countess.

It is believed that the adherents to the historic costume will win, so that Coventry, a city of so many brave traditions, will not be shocked by a pageant in which Lady Godiva, in frills and furbelows, will repeat the famous ride through the gray stoned city.

Several ambitious young women have written to the committee offering to wear the "historic costume" in the ride through Coventry, just "for the fun of the thing." But the matter of selecting a Godiva is in the hands of a theatrical agent.

One curious fact in connection with the pageant is that the young woman to impersonate Lady Godiva will not be allowed to arrive in the city till the morning of the procession and will have to leave immediately after the pageant is over.

GIRL TURNS BANDIT AND TERRORIZES THE PEOPLE.

Dubois, Wyo., May 14.—Ethel Burrows, an 18-year-old girl, has turned bandit and has been terrorizing people in this and other regions in Wyoming. Several nights ago she suddenly appeared in the doorway of a roadhouse west of here, and at the point of a six-shooter compelled three or four men who were gathered there to hand over to her all the money and valuables in their possession, and the landlord to empty the contents of his cash drawer into her lap. After committing the robbery she mounted a horse and rode swiftly away.

The next night she appeared at a ranch house and at the point of her revolver "stuck up" the ranchman, relieving him of $50 and a gold watch and chain. In several cases she has stuck up travelers in broad daylight and robbed them of their money and valuables.

Miss Burrows used to be a servant in a number of Wyoming towns. She has no parents and no brothers or sisters.

CONCERNING WOMEN

The fourth annual May morning breakfast of the Young Women's Christian association was served this morning at the association rooms from 7 to 9 o'clock to a large number of the association members and their guests. The May morning breakfast is one of the typical functions of the association, and is especially enjoyed in Duluth where social affairs peculiar to spring are not numerous. The weather was not bright, but the rains were welcome and the out of door grayness did little toward dulling the pleasure of the affair.

The decorations used were the simple little spring flowers found in this locality and on each table a low bowl of hypaticas with their dainty little blossoms and green leaves were used. Presiding at the tables were the members of the board of directors, and a number of the young women of the association in spotless garb of white served the following delicious menu:

Strawberries and Cream.
Corn Flakes. Oat Meal.
Ham and Eggs.
Lamb Chops.
Eggs.
French Fried Potatoes. Baked Potatoes.
Buttered Toast. Rolls.
Doughnuts.
Tea. Coffee. Milk.

Breakfast was served to nearly 100 guests.

The fifth annual meeting of the association was held last evening in the rooms with the president, Mrs. W. C. Agnew, presiding, and the election of directors and trustees was held and the report of the general secretary given. The directors elected last evening were: 1907 to 1910, Mrs. R. S. Manley, Mrs. L. W. Kline, Mrs. W. A. McGonagle, Mrs. W. H. Cole, Miss L. Ella Roe and Miss L. L. Garvin; 1907 to 1908, Mrs. A. W. Bradley; 1907 to 1909, Mrs. Z. D. Scott. The trustees elected were, 1907 to 1908, Watson S. Moore; 1907 to 1909, W. C. Agnew; 1907 to 1910, W. A. McGonagle; 1907 to 1911, G. H. Claypool.

A rising vote of thanks was voted to W. A. McGonagle, chairman of the business men's committees interested in securing the subscriptions for the building fund, and also to the board of directors of the association for the efficient service during the last year.

The fiscal year of the association closes Dec. 31 and at that time a detailed report of the various departments was given and at last evening's session the report of the general secretary, Mrs. Wesley Feetham, combined the reports of the various departments. There are at present 920 members including four life members, eighty sustaining members, 448 active members, 340 associate members and forty-eight junior members. The work of the religious, educational, physical and lunch room departments was reported upon in an informal way. The association is 90 per cent self supporting and it is expected that with the larger opportunities which will be offered with the new building and equipment that it will be possible to establish the work so that it will be necessary to ask even less from the public for its yearly support. During the year just closed 100,000 women have been reached through some branch of the association work. The number of meals served during the year has been 67,524. Mrs. Feetham closed her report with an appeal to every member to renew her efforts in the raising of funds until the last $10,000 is subscribed for the new building.

At the close of the annual meeting Rev. C. C. Coyle of the First Presbyterian church spoke informally to the members. Mr. Coyle spoke of the association as a monument that will endure long after the present workers have passed from this scene of endeavor, to be a place of rest, refreshment, shelter and fellowship, to countless workers in time to come, and that the association founded upon such endeavors would come to be a symbol of a quiet harbor for spiritual refreshment and help.

ARTS AND CRAFTS.

New Enterprise of Women's Council Reported to Courant.

At the meeting of the Women's Council, which will be held Friday morning of this week, at the club room of the library, one of the important matters for discussion will be the final details for the Arts and Crafts exhibit, which will be held in June. The following report to the Courant, the official organ of the Federated Clubs of Minnesota, Wisconsin and the Dakotas of this local enterprise, will be of interest to many here. The report was written by Miss L. Ella Roe, and is as follows:

"The Women's Council of Duluth, ever alert to promote the best interests of the city, have inaugurated an enthusiastic campaign in behalf of the Arts and Crafts. The first step was taken some time ago, when a corps of detectives, so to speak, were appointed to spy out the land and diligently search the by-ways and hedges for hidden treasures and buried talents.

"Only time can prove the richness of the field, but already we have at our command splendid foundation material that only awaits organization.

"So varied is our constituency, and broad the territory from which we may reasonably hope to draw that it would seem as if Duluth were especially equipped for the successful promotion of an Arts and Crafts society.

"Our high school and normal school are doing commendable work in teaching intelligent, artistic handicrafts, and one can readily see the value of such a society to such of our students as should care to perfect themselves along these lines.

"Then, too, our natural resources are in our favor. The Lake Superior region is rich in products readily utilized in artistic ways. Nature runs riot in grasses that have already proved available for basketry, through the experiments of our artists. Even our common, everyday clay shows promising artistic tendencies, although it's perfectly evident Mother Earth has no intention of falling too easy a victim to human ambition, but prefers to reward patient, persevering effort.

"We hope by the centralized products of our schools and of our artistic and useful handicrafts to acquaint the people of our city with the excellent and available material at our very door, and press home the benefit of mutual co-operation in promoting the dignity of labor through the fostering of higher and more intelligent standards among our handicraftsmen, thereby securing their substantial encouragement and support to the present promoters.

"Perhaps few cities are better situated to reap profit and honor from the prosperity of the Arts and Crafts than Duluth, through the medium of her many tourists, and we feel that the day is not far distant when she will come into a realization of her splendid opportunities. To this end neither time or labor will be spared to make the 'Arts and Crafts' exhibit, to be held in Duluth in the near future, a great success."

MAY FESTIVAL.

First Concert of Series to Be Presented Tonight.

The singing of the Coleridge Taylor cantatas "Hiawatha's Wedding Feast" and "The Death of Minnehaha" should have an especial appeal aside from the beauty of the verse and the charm of music to Duluthians and particularly to those who have made their home beside the "Shining Big-Sea Water" for many years. The poetry, and charm and beauty of the combination should have rare appeal, and many people are preparing for the oratorios by reading again the musical poem of Longfellow, episodes of which furnish the text for the two cantatas to be sung tonight and tomorrow night by the Duluth Oratorio club at its first May Musical festival at the First Methodist church.

Mrs. Grace Senior Brearley who will be heard in a piano concerto with orchestra at tonight's concert has just returned from Memphis, Tenn., where she appeared on the program of the National Federation of Musical clubs, playing at Saturday afternoon's meeting, Schumann's "Carnival." Mrs. Brearley is among the most studious and brilliant of the pianists of the city, and local musicians and music lovers are anticipating with pleasure hearing her with the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra. The concerto to be played this evening will be Beethoven's concerto in G, opus 58.

The demand for seats has been large, and a brilliant audience is assured.

To Meet Tomorrow.

Central Auxiliary of the First Presbyterian church will meet tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the church parlors.

The Ladies' Aid society of St. John's English Lutheran church will meet tomorrow afternoon with Mrs. C. A. Turning of 1723 East Fourth street.

What Retail Markets Offer.

Asparagus, 12½ cents a bunch.
Spinach, 40 cents a peck.
New potatoes, 3 lbs. for 25 cents.
White fish, 20 cents a lb.
Beef tongue, 15 cents a lb.
Calves' hearts, 15 cents a lb.
Beef hearts, 12 cents a lb.
Strawberries, 20 cents a lb.

The strawberries are getting riper and rounder and more like real honest, in-the-season berries. The vegetables to be obtained are all very good, but the prices make them as yet rather prohibitive. The spinach, that cure all for any ill that flesh might be heir to, is very nice. Spinach properly boiled and deliciously seasoned with melted butter and salt and plenty of pepper is very good. It defies an analysis of why it is good, and probably it is because somebody once said it was good for the complexion. To have a thing good for one, usually settles it as a matter that one desires, but the exception comes when the qualifying phrase become "Good for one's complexion." What wouldn't one eat from raw onions to horseradish grated in sour milk, in order to have that smooth, pink and white, clear and velvety, brilliant and attractive skin that the beauty article says is the result of just following those special directions carefully and consistently. Order spinach.

THE NEW SCHOOL MARM

By Fay Stuart.

(Copyright, 1907, by Joseph B. Bowles).

Energetic Miss Martha Pryor opened the picket gate in front of the Gordon homestead, closing it with a sharp click that made Mrs. Gordon glance out from the flower-screened window at her approaching guest.

"Good afternoon, Martha!" she exclaimed heartily as Miss Pryor entered, bringing with her a gust of fresh air. "Do take your things right off and sit down."

"I can't stop long, but I thought I'd just run over for a spell, seein' I had the work done up," said Miss Pryor.

"I'm glad you come, Martha. Folks in Fairfield ain't half neighborly enough."

After discussing various minor matters, Miss Martha held forth upon the subject uppermost in her mind, which was, indeed, the sole object of her visit.

"Have you heard about the goin's on over to the schoolhouse since that new schoolmarm come, Maria?" she asked in an impressive tone that contained unspoken volumes.

Mrs. Gordon brightened visibly. "I ain't heard no particulars, as you might say; but James' sister, Sarah Ann, was sayin' last night that her young ones was head over heels in love with Miss Grayson. Now I call that a bad sign. I'm afraid she's goin' to turn out kind of easy goin', without much notion of government."

"Notion!" cried Miss Martha, sharply, "she's all notions! That is the trouble exactly. Of all the newfangled ideas you ever heard—well, I ought to know what I'm talkin' about, seein' I live right side of the schoolhouse, and I tell you, Maria, something's got to be done! Why, last Saturday she had the boys diggin' up the schoolyard to make flower gardens! And she's forever trampin' around in the woods after evergreen and princess vine to decorate with. There's precious little studyin' goin' on these days, I'm thinkin'!" and Miss Martha pursed her thin lips together.

"It's too bad," sighed Mrs. Gordon, helplessly. "I did hope we'd get a smart teacher after that ridiculous Mr. Porter; he just let everything go to rack and ruin! I suppose it's a pretty hard school to manage by this time."

"She don't try to manage! She ain't got no idea of managin'! And I've about made up my mind to complain to the schoolboard. Now there's Johnnie, dear; I'm bound to do my duty by my dead brother's child and I won't have his head filled with highflown notions. He's almost stark mad a'ready over drawin' lessons and speakin' pieces with motions to 'em. 'Tain't right! Why can't she be plain and sensible and teach plain readin', writin' and 'rithmetic? What do you think, Maria? Would it be any use to see Dr. Whitcomb? I think a good deal of your advice in important matters."

"Well, Martha; seems to me 'twouldn't do any harm at any rate. Might be worth tryin'. 'Twill depend a good deal on the way the doctor happens to be feelin'."

Meanwhile Miss Leslie Grayson, "that new schoolmarm," went serenely on her way, not wholly unconscious of the commotion that she was creating in the little village.

To this village, where she had spent several years of her childhood, fresh from college and bubbling over with enthusiasm, came Leslie Grayson. She saw with wondering, pitiful eyes the narrow, monotonous life of these people, and her heart grew fairly a-tremble as she longed to show them all the beauty and sweetness that surrounded them. Oh, the boundless out-of-door world, with its wondrous nature studies! The glory and delight of it was all theirs—and they did not know it. Here was the corner where she could work; here, the opportunity for which she had longed; so, with a light heart she made her plans. And she began with the children.

The result of her interesting experiment at the end of the first month was very gratifying. Already she had won the good-will of every scholar; and instead of the studied indifference so impossible to combat, people were beginning to open their eyes, stare, wonder and talk.

At the close of the Friday afternoon exercises, Miss Grayson omitted her usual reading from Miss Alcott's "Little Women," and talked to the children instead.

"It is a month today, children," she began, "since I first looked into your faces. I want to tell you that I am proud of my choice of a school."

The children looked at each other with pleased faces.

"It is a pleasure to teach boys and girls who are interested. I can see improvements already. Now that we are so well acquainted I expect better work to be done next month. When I first came here I thought this room the most dismal place in the world, but even in this short time we have succeeded in making it neat and pleasant.

"Now, I want to tell you of a plan I have in mind, and see if you don't think it would be great fun. It is to have a village improvement society, and to try and make Fairfield brighter and cleaner."

Then she told the children of her plans. Thirty-four white ribbon bows were proudly displayed upon the streets of Fairfield that night; thirty-four busy little brains dreamed all sorts of possible and impossible plans and waited impatiently for Monday morning, each hoping to be the first to consult "teacher."

Curious eyes peeped through half-closed shutters to watch the unheard of doin's of this busy band as they scampered here and there after school hours and on Saturday afternoons. Carter's field was changed from an unsightly dump heap to a green hollow over which, now that the rubbish was removed, kindly nature scattered twinkling-eyed daisies, sweet clover and other wild beauties.

The churchyard paths were weeded, the grass mowed, and, obtaining permission from the trustees, they made a garden of hardy flowers around the lamppost. Indeed, the children scattered flower seeds in every nook and corner of Fairfield.

The result of their work was soon apparent. Morning-glories climbed riotously into cedar trees by the wayside; four o'clocks lazily shook their petals at the appointed hour in unexpected places.

Gradually the spirit of improvement spread during Miss Grayson's regime. Rickety fences were torn down, front yards graded, buildings repaired and painted, and shade trees set out along Main street. Flags floated over schoolhouse and postoffice, while the citizens seemed to take more interest in all town affairs.

Tactfully did Miss Grayson work, keeping herself in the background as much as possible, knowing that she could accomplish most good through the children, whose parents were interested in their plans.

One afternoon near the close of the term, Dr. Whitcomb sauntered into the schoolroom. Miss Grayson was justly proud of her scholars, for never had recitations gone more smoothly than during the hour of this visit. The doctor shook his head approvingly from time to time.

"A model school, Miss Leslie," he said, taking up hat and cane to depart, after the scholars had filed quietly out. "You have inherited your Grandfather Grayson's knack for managing, I reckon. This was the worst school in the county. You are doing excellent work, child."

"Wait a moment, Dr. Whitcomb," said Miss Grayson, her face flushing pink with embarrassment. "I wish to talk to you about the school. You must have heard the complaints. I hear them also through the children."

"Well, there's no use denying it, then," answered the old doctor. "All the old maids in town have their ideas about running school, same's they do about doctoring sick folks."

"The people do not approve of the Friday exercises, because the children hear stories written by our best authors, recite poems by Longellow, Whittier and Eugene Field, and compose little stories of their own. Yet this is important work, Dr. Whitcomb, and the improvement society work is all done outside of school hours. If people would visit the school, they would see that each pupil is learning rapidly. But I protest against all this ill-natured, unfounded gossip. If I consent to remain next year, I shall carry out still further plans for the good of this school. Without neglecting regular work, we shall have easy lessons in botany and natural philosophy. It is best to understand matters; do you heartily approve of my idea, Dr. Whitcomb?"

"Most certainly. The three Rs are no longer sufficient for Fairfield boys and girls. I am sorry you hear the gossip. I get so tired of complaints and advice that sometimes I am rather 'sassy,' as my grandson Rob would say. Stuff your ears with cotton next year, Miss Leslie, but keep on; for pity's sake, keep on!"

The next morning Robert Drew gave Miss Grayson a neatly folded paper, his face aglow with fun.

"Grandpa sent you this, Miss Grayson," he explained laughingly. "He let me read it, and it's comical enough!" The children on the playground heard peal after peal of merry laughter, as Robert and Miss Grayson laughed together over the doctor's quaint acrostic.

"Say nothing about your grandfather's poetry, Robert," she said, as he went out to tease the boys about the secret he and "teacher" knew.

"How people would gossip if they knew this," thought Miss Grayson as she reread the verse:

Lovely and noble thou art,
Enshrined in every pupil's heart,
Scattering flowers on every side,
Long may your work in Fairfield abide.
In spite of the old maids, just keep on;
Everyone would miss your bright face if 'twas gone.

She paused on her way to the window, ball in hand, her blue eyes sparkling with merriment. "With the doctor's approval and his sharp tongue to fight my battles with the gossipy folk, I think, Leslie Grayson," she mused, "we'll just keep on."

For the second time this season Joseph Cawthorne and his merry band of followers in Sousa's breezy military comic opera, "The Free Lance," paid a visit to the Lyceum last evening. The weather man had managed to arrange for the worst night of the entire spring, but nothing daunted by tais fact the people turned out in good shape, and when the curtain went up on the first act there were few vacant seats.

It has come to the stage in Duluth where anything with the mark of Klaw & Erlanger about it, is bound to draw well, for experience seems to have satisfied the theater-goer that whatever bears that mark must be about right. The opera took just as well last night as it did on its first visit, which is saying a lot, for it was declared then to be one of the best shows of the season. Individually the players seemed to do even better than they did when here before, and there was the same swing to the catchy and tuneful music. Scenically and in the matter of costumes, the production shows no bad effects from its season on the road. It is a thoroughly good show all the way through.

Joseph Cawthorne, Jeanette Lowrie, Nella Bergen, George Tallman, Albert Hart and George Schiller, all did remarkably well. The audience could not get enough of Cawthorne, and it was hugely delighted with Jeanette Lowrie. Nella Bergen, who seemed all that is graceful and pretty as the princess, is really Mrs. De Wolf Hopper, whose husband is playing with the Shuberts, while she is in what is commonly called the theatrical trust. Jeanette Lowrie is in much the same situation, for her husband, Thomas Q. Seabrook, is also with the Shuberts this season.

STRONG BILL.

New Program at Bijou Has Many Good Features.

The Bijou has an exceptionally strong and well balanced vaudeville bill this week.

The Four Schades have a little sketch entitled, "Mistakes Will Happen" which is very funny, and which pleased two large audiences last evening, immensely.

Kreisel and his trained dogs and cats, give one of the best acts of the kind ever seen in Duluth. The animals go through their turns in a most finished style.

Some wonderful top spinning feats are accomplished by the Tanakas, Japanese top spinners.

The Tourist Trio have a good musical and comedy turn and Gilmore Castle fill in ten minutes most acceptably with a funny dialogue. Isadore Silver has a good illustrated song number and the motion pictures are up to the usual standard.

THE FLINTS.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Flint are so well known in this city that any comment on their program is unnecessary. They have long occupied a place at the head of hypnotists and they have a public of their own. Their performances, besides their marvelous scientific value have through their clever arrangement been made to yield amusement to thousands.

The Flints will open an engagement of five nights at the Lyceum tonight, at popular prices.

A MUSICAL ACT.

The Sisters Mullini, instrumentalists, have one of the feature acts in the olio of the Brigadiers, who are at the Metropolitan all this week, closing the season of burlesque there. They play on half a dozen different instruments and their selections range from the classical to the most popular ditties of the day. The Brigadiers will give a matinee for ladies Thursday.

CATHOLIC BENEVOLENT LEGION IN CONVENTION.

Baltimore, May 14.—The twenty-sixth annual convention of the supreme council of the Catholic Benevolen legion began here today at the Catholic club. Supreme President Tippert gave figures showing the development of fifty-six fraternal organizations doing business in this country, many of which he said were less than twenty-five years old, and by no means constituted all of the fraternal societies of the country, and embracing none of those which do not pay benefits. These fifty-six organizations, he added, had a membership on Jan. 1, 1906, of 4,756,867, carrying an insurance of $5,586,857,664. They paid out for benefits to their members and their beneficiaries for the year 1905, the sum of $57,159,531.

WEDDING A DISGRACE

Rev. Alexander Milne Comments on Gilman-Corey Affair.

Ashamed That Minister Would Consent to Perform Ceremony.

"It is a shame and a disgrace that such a wedding as the Gilman-Corey affair should take place," said Rev. Alexander Milne of the Pilgrim Congregational church this morning.

"I was ashamed that any minister could be found who would perform the ceremony, and I was doubly ashamed to hear that he was a Congregational minister. Later, however, on looking the matter up I found that he was not a Congregational minister. Rev. J. L. Clark, who I believe is the man who performed the ceremony, is not included in the list of regular Congregational ministers. He has been merely supplying in a pulpit of a Brooklyn church for some time.

"It is a disgrace, however, that such a wedding can take place in this country, and I am ashamed to feel that a minister could be found to perform the ceremony."

CHINA SORE AT JAPAN'S COURSE

Pledges to Return Property Taken in War Not Fulfilled.

Mukden, May 14.—The repeated promises made by the Japanese for the past three years to return to China the property appropriated through the exigencies of war are still unfulfilled. In consequence China is expressing much indignation at what is considered a gross breach of faith. Yet the recovery is considered doubtful of a large amount of government and private property in numerous places throughout Manchuria which was appropriated by Japan without compensation, on the allowing sole pretext that China had failed to observe neutrality in allowing Russia to occupy these buildings, mines and land. This excuse is not considered honest because Japan is fully aware of China's helplessness to enforce neutrality, while Japan, in regard to abuse to neutrality, is considered equally guilty. Russia holds much appropriated property which has been leased to Japanese traders without any compensation to China.

NEWSIES WILL SEE THE SHOW

Herald Boys Will be Guests of the Flints.

The Herald Newsies are not going to be forgotten even if "Pinkie," otherwise A. C. Pearson, former circulator of The Herald, is lost to them, and the plan which he established of providing entertainment for the boys every few weeks will be carried out.

Arrangements have been made by Edward Armstrong, the present circulation manager of The Herald, to have the boys entertained at the Lyceum theater Wednesday night, when they will all be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Flint, the hypnotists. The Flints will arrange an entertainment that will be sure to delight the boys.

Regular patrons of the theater need have no fear of attending the performance Wednesday evening. The boys may be a little noisy, but they are never disorderly, and they will be on their best behavior Wednesday night.

NEW YORK TO ENTERTAIN JAPANESE IN FINE STYLE.

New York, May 14—For Gen. Kuroki and the officers of the Japanese cruisers Tsukuba and Chitose, which will arrive tomorrow from Hampton Roads, formal dinners have been arranged at Sherry's that night, and at the Hotel Astor Friday night, when Admiral Dewey will preside. For the 1,400 sailors an entertainment committee of local Japanese will act. Every man on the ships will have shore leave before the cruisers leave this port. They will have automobile rides and feasts and theater visits.

BRITISH "BOOS" GIVEN MARLOWE AND SOTHERN.

London, May 14.—Julia Marlowe and E.H.Sothern, the American actress and actor, were called last night before the curtain of the theater where they are playing and were hooted and "booed." The British audience resented their realistic portrayal of Henry VIII in the American play: "When Knighthood Was in Flower," as a jovial, but undignified monarch. This was the first time either actor had been subjected to an experience of this sort during their stage careers. Miss Marlowe smiled, however, and neither was ruffled

CONCERNING WOMEN.

The fourth annual May morning breakfast of the Young Women's Christian association was served this morning at the association rooms from 7 to 9 o'clock to a large number of the association members and their guests. The May morning breakfast is one of the typical functions of the association, and is especially enjoyed in Duluth where social affairs peculiar to spring are not numerous. The weather was not bright, but the rains were welcome and the out of door grayness did little toward dulling the pleasure of the affair.

The decorations used were the simple little spring flowers found in this locality and on each table a low bowl of hypaticas with their dainty little blossoms and green leaves were used. Presiding at the tables were the members of the board of directors, and a number of the young women of the association in spotless garb of white served the following delicious menu:

Strawberries and Cream.
Corn Flakes. Oat Meal.
Ham and Eggs.
Lamb Chops.
Eggs.
French Fried Potatoes. Baked Potatoes.
Buttered Toast. Rolls.
Doughnuts.
Tea. Coffee. Milk.

Breakfast was served to nearly 100 guests.

The fifth annual meeting of the association was held last evening in the rooms with the president, Mrs. W. C. Agnew, presiding, and the election of directors and trustees was held and the report of the general secretary given. The directors elected last evening were: 1907 to 1910, Mrs. R. S. Manley, Mrs. L. W. Kline, Mrs. W. A. McGonagle, Mrs. W. H. Cole, Miss L. Ella Roe and Miss L. L. Garvin; 1907 to 1909, Mrs. A. W. Bradley; 1907 to 1909, Mrs. Z. D. Scott. The trustees elected were, 1907 to 1908, Watson S. Moore; 1907 to 1909, W. C. Agnew; 1907 to 1910, W. A. McGonagle; 1907 to 1911, G. H. Claypool.

A rising vote of thanks was voted to W. A. McGonagle, chairman of the business men's committees interested in securing the subscriptions for the building fund, and also to the board of directors of the association for the efficient service during the last year.

The fiscal year of the association closes Dec. 31 and at that time a detailed report of the various departments was given and at last evening's session the report of the general secretary, Mrs. Wesley Feetham combined the reports of the various departments. There are at present 920 members including four life members, eighty sustaining members, 448 active members, 340 associate members and forty-eight junior members. The work of the religious, educational, physical and lunch room departments was reported upon in an informal way. The association is 90 per cent self supporting and it is expected that with the larger opportunities which will be offered with the new building and equipment that it will be possible to establish the work so that it will be necessary to ask even less from the public for its yearly support. During the year just closed 100,000 women have been reached through some branch of the association work. The number of meals served during the year has been 67,524. Mrs. Feetham closed her report with an appeal to every member to renew her efforts in the raising of funds until the last $10,000 is subscribed for the new building.

At the close of the annual meeting Rev. C. C. Coyle of the First Presbyterian church spoke informally to the members. Mr. Coyle spoke of the association as a monument that will endure long after the present workers have passed from this scene of endeavor, to be a place of rest, refreshment, shelter and fellowship, to countless workers in time to come, and that the association founded upon such endeavors would come to be a symbol of a quiet harbor for spiritual refreshment and help.

ARTS AND CRAFTS.

New Enterprise of Women's Council Reported to Courant.

At the meeting of the Women's Council, which will be held Friday morning of this week, at the club room of the library, one of the important matters for discussion will be the final details for the Arts and Crafts exhibit, which will be held in June. The following report to the Courant, the official organ of the Federated Clubs of Minnesota, Wisconsin and the Dakotas of this local enterprise, will be of interest to many here. The report was written by Miss L. Ella Roe, and is as follows:

"The Women's Council of Duluth, ever alert to promote the best interests of the city, have inaugurated an enthusiastic campaign in behalf of the Arts and Crafts. The first step was taken some time ago, when a corps of detectives, so to speak, were appointed to spy out the land and diligently search the by-ways and hedges for hidden treasures and buried talents.

"Only time can prove the richness of the field, but already we have at our command splendid foundation material that only awaits organization.

"So varied is our constituency, and broad the territory from which we may reasonably hope to draw that it would seem as if Duluth were especially equipped for the successful promotion of an Arts and Crafts society.

"Our high school and normal school are doing commendable work in teaching intelligent, artistic handicrafts, and one can readily see the value of such a society to such of our students as should care to perfect themselves along these lines.

"Then, too, our natural resources are in our favor. The Lake Superior region is rich in products readily utilized in artistic ways. Nature runs riot in grasses that have already proved available for basketry, through the experiments of our artists. Even our common, everyday clay shows promising artistic tendencies, although it's perfectly evident Mother Earth has no intention of falling too easy a victim to human ambition, but prefers to reward patient, persevering effort.

"We hope by the centralized products of our schools and of our artistic and useful handicrafts to acquaint the people of our city with the excellent and available material at our very door, and press home the benefit of mutual co-operation in promoting the dignity of labor through the fostering of higher and more intelligent standards among our handicraftsmen, thereby securing their substantial encouragement and support to the present promoters.

"Perhaps few cities are better situated to reap profit and honor from the prosperity of the Arts and Crafts than Duluth, through the medium of her many tourists, and we feel that the day is not far distant when she will come into a realization of her splendid opportunities. To this end neither time or labor will be spared to make the 'Arts and Crafts' exhibit, to be held in Duluth in the near future, a great success."

MAY FESTIVAL.

First Concert of Series to Be Presented Tonight.

The singing of the Coridge Taylor cantatas "Hiawatha's Wedding Feast" and "The Death of Minnehaha" should have an especial appeal aside from the beauty of the verse and the charm of music to Duluthians and particularly to those who have made their home beside the "Shining Big-Sea Water" for many years. The poetry, and charm and beauty of the combination should have rare appeal, and many people are preparing for the oratorios by reading again the musical poem of Longfellow, episodes of which furnish the text for the two cantatas to be sung tonight and tomorrow night by the Duluth Oratorio club at its first May Musical festival at the First Methodist church.

Mrs. Grace Senior Brearley who will be heard in a piano concerto with orchestra at tonight's concert has just returned from Memphis, Tenn., where she appeared on the program of the National Federation of Musical clubs, playing at Saturday afternoon's meeting, Schumann's "Carnival." Mrs. Brearley is among the most studious and brilliant of the pianists of the city, and local musicians and music lovers are anticipating with pleasure hearing her with the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra. The concerto to be played this evening will be Beethoven's concerto in G, opus 58.

The demand for seats has been large, and a brilliant audience is assured.

To Meet Tomorrow.

Central Auxiliary of the First Presbyterian church will meet tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the church parlors.

The Ladies' Aid society of St. John's English Lutheran church will meet tomorrow afternoon with Mrs. C. A. Turning of 1723 East Fourth street.

What Retail Markets Offer.

Asparagus, 12½ cents a bunch.
Spinach, 40 cents a peck.
New potatoes, 3 lbs. for 25 cents.
White fish, 20 cents a lb.
Beef tongue, 15 cents a lb.
Calves' hearts, 15 cents a lb.
Beef hearts, 12 cents a lb.
Strawberries, 20 cents a lb.

The strawberries are getting riper and rounder and more like real honest, in-the-season berries. The vegetables to be obtained are all very good, but the prices make them as yet rather prohibitive. The spinach, that cure all for any ill that flesh might be heir to, is very nice. Spinach properly boiled and deliciously seasoned with melted butter and salt and plenty of pepper is very good. It defies an analysis of why it is good, and probably it is because somebody once said it was good for the complexion. To have a thing good for one, usually settles it as a matter that one desires, but the exception comes when the qualifying phrase become "Good for one's complexion." What wouldn't one eat from raw onions to horseradish grated in sour milk, in order to have that smooth, pink and white, clear and velvety, brilliant and attractive skin that the beauty article says is the result of just following those special directions carefully and consistently. THE NEW SCHOOL MARM

By Fay Stuart.

(Copyright, 1907, by Joseph B. Bowles).

Energetic Miss Martha Pryor opened the picket gate in front of the Gordon homestead, closing it with a sharp click that made Mrs. Gordon glance out from the flower-screened window at her approaching guest.

"Good afternoon, Martha!" she exclaimed heartily as Miss Pryor entered, bringing with her a gust of fresh air. "Do take your things right off and sit down."

"I can't stop long, but I thought I'd just run over for a spell, seein' I had the work done up," said Miss Pryor.

"I'm glad you come, Martha. Folks in Fairfield ain't half neighborly enough?"

After discussing various minor matters, Miss Martha held forth upon the subject uppermost in her mind, which was, indeed, the sole object of her visit.

"Have you heard about the goin's on over to the schoolhouse since that new schoolmarm come, Maria?" she asked in an impressive tone that contained unspoken volumes.

Mrs. Gordon brightened visibly. "I ain't heard no particulars, as you might say, but James' sister, Sarah Ann, was sayin' last night that her young ones was head over heels in love with Miss Grayson. Now I call that a bad sign. I'm afraid she's goin' to turn out kind of easy goin', without much notion of government."

"Notion!" cried Miss Martha sharply, "she's all notions' That is the trouble exactly. Of all the newfangled ideas you ever heard—well, I ought to know what I'm talkin' about, seein' I live right side of the schoolhouse, and I tell you, Maria, something's got to be done! Why, last Saturday she had the boys diggin' up the schoolyard to make flower gardens! And she's forever trampin' around in the woods after evergreen and princess vine to decorate with. There's precious little studyin' goin' on these days, I'm thinkin'!" and Miss Martha pursed her thin lips together.

"It's too bad," sighed Mrs. Gordon, helplessly. "I did hope we'd get a smart teacher after that ridiculous Mr. Porter; he just let everything go to rack and ruin! I suppose it's a pretty hard school to manage by this time."

"She don't try to manage! She ain't got no idea of managin'! And I've about made up my mind to complain to the schoolboard. Now there's Johnnie, dear; I'm bound to do my duty by my dead brother's child and I won't have his head filled with highflown notions. He's almost stark mad a'ready over drawin' lessons and speakin' pieces with motions to 'em. 'Tain't right! Why can't she be plain and sensible and teach plain readin', writin' and 'rithmetic? What do you think, Maria? Would it be any use to see Dr. Whitcomb? I think a good deal of your advice in important matters."

"Well, Martha; seems to me 'twouldn't do any harm at any rate. Might be worth tryin'. 'Twill depend a good deal on the way the doctor happens to be feelin'."

Meanwhile Miss Leslie Grayson, "that new schoolmarm," went serenely on her way, not wholly unconscious of the commotion that she was creating in the little village.

To this village, where she had spent several years of her childhood, fresh from college and bubbling over with enthusiasm, came Leslie Grayson. She saw with wondering, pitiful eyes the narrow, monotonous life of these people, and her heart grew fairly a-tremble as she longed to show them all the beauty and sweetness that surrounded them. Oh, the boundless out-of-door world, with its wondrous nature studies! The glory and delight of it was all theirs—and they did not know it. Here was the corner where she could work; here, the opportunity for which she had longed; so, with a light heart she made her plans. And she began with the children.

The result of her interesting experiment at the end of the first month was very gratifying. Already she had won the good-will of every scholar; and instead of the studied indifference so impossible to combat, people were beginning to open their eyes, stare, wonder and talk.

At the close of the Friday afternoon exercises, Miss Grayson omitted her usual reading from Miss Alcott's "Little Women," and talked to the children instead.

"It is a month today, children," she began, "since I first looked into your faces. I want to tell you that I am proud of my choice of a school."

The children looked at each other with pleased faces.

"It is a pleasure to teach boys and girls who are interested. I can see improvements already. Now that we are so well acquainted I expect better work to be done next month. When I first came here I thought this room the most dismal place in the world, but even in this short time we have succeeded in making it neat and pleasant.

"Now, I want to tell you of a plan I have in mind, and see if you don't think it would be great fun. It is to have a village improvement society, and to try and make Fairfield brighter and cleaner."

Then she told the children of her plans. Thirty-four white ribbon bows were proudly displayed upon the streets of Fairfield that night; thirty-four busy little brains dreamed all sorts of possible and impossible plans and waited impatiently for Monday morning, each hoping to be the first to consult "teacher."

Curious eyes peeped through half-closed shutters to watch the unheard of doin's of this busy band as they scampered here and there after school hours and on Saturday afternoons. Carter's field was changed from an unsightly dump heap to a green hollow over which, now that the rubbish was removed, kindly nature scattered twinkling-eyed daisies, sweet clover and other wild beauties.

The churchyard paths were weeded, the grass mowed, and, obtaining permission from the trustees, they made a garden of hardy flowers around the lamppost. Indeed, the children scattered flower seeds in every nook and corner of Fairfield.

The result of their work was soon apparent. Morning-glories climbed riotously into cedar trees by the wayside; four o'clocks lazily shook their petals at the appointed hour in unexpected places.

Gradually the spirit of improvement spread during Miss Grayson's regime. Rickety fences were torn down, front yards graded, buildings repaired and painted, and shade trees set out along Main street. Flags floated over schoolhouse and postoffice, while the citizens seemed to take more interest in all town affairs.

Tactfully did Miss Grayson work, keeping herself in the background as much as possible, knowing that she could accomplish most good through the children whose parents were interested in their plans.

One afternoon near the close of the term, Dr. Whitcomb sauntered into the schoolroom. Miss Grayson was justly proud of her scholars, for never had recitations gone more smoothly than during the hour of this visit. The doctor shook his head approvingly from time to time.

"A model school, Miss Leslie," he said, taking up hat and cane to depart, after the scholars had filed quietly out. "You have inherited your Grandfather Grayson's knack for managing, I reckon. This was the worst school in the county. You are doing excellent work, child."

"Wait a moment, Dr. Whitcomb," said Miss Grayson, her face flushing pink with embarrassment. "I wish to talk to you about the school. You must have heard the complaints. I hear them also through the children."

"Well, there's no use denying it, then," answered the old doctor. "All the old maids in town have their ideas about running school, same's they do about doctoring sick folks."

"The people do not approve of the Friday exercises, because the children hear stories written by our best authors, recite poems by Longfellow, Whittier and Eugene Field, and compose little stories of their own. Yet this is important work, Dr. Whitcomb, and the improvement society work is all done outside of school hours. If people would visit the school, they would see that each pupil is learning rapidly. But I protest against all this ill-natured, unfounded gossip. If I consent to remain next year, I shall carry out still further plans for the good of this school. Without neglecting regular work, we shall have easy lessons in botany and natural philosophy. It is best to understand matters; do you heartily approve of my idea, Dr. Whitcomb?"

"Most certainly. The three Rs are no longer sufficient for Fairfield boys and girls. I am sorry you hear the gossip. I get so tired of complaints and advice that sometimes I am rather 'sassy,' as my grandson Rob would say. Stuff your ears with cotton next year, Miss Leslie, but keep on; for pity's sake, keep on!"

The next morning Robert Drew gave Miss Grayson a neatly folded paper, his face aglow with fun.

"Grandpa sent you this, Miss Grayson," he explained laughingly. "He let me read it, and it's comical enough!" The children on the playground heard peal after peal of merry laughter, as Robert and Miss Grayson laughed together over the doctor's quaint acrostic.

"Say nothing about your grandfather's poetry, Robert," she said, as he went out to tease the boys about the secret he and "teacher" knew.

"How people would gossip if they knew this," thought Miss Grayson as she reread the verse:

Lovely and noble thou art,
Enshrined in every pupil's heart,
Scattering flowers on every side,
Long may your work in Fairfield abide,
Of spite of the old maids, just keep on;
Everyone would miss your bright face if 'twas gone.

She paused on her way to the window, bell in hand, her blue eyes sparkling with merriment. "With the doctor's approval and his sharp tongue to fight my battles with the gossipy folk, I think, Leslie Grayson," she mused, "we'll just keep on."

For the second time this season Joseph Cawthorne and his merry band of followers in Sousa's breezy military comic opera, "The Free Lance," paid a visit to the Lyceum last evening. The weather man had managed to arrange for the worst night of the entire spring, but nothing daunted by this fact the people turned out in good shape, and when the curtain went up on the first act there were few vacant seats.

It has come to the stage in Duluth where anything with the mark of Klaw & Erlanger about it, is bound to draw well, for experience seems to have satisfied the theater-goer that whatever bears that mark must be about right. The opera took just as well last night as it did on its first visit, which is saying a lot, for it was declared then to be one of the best shows of the season. Individually the players seemed to do even better than they did when here before, and there was the same swing to the catchy and tuneful music. Scenically and in the matter of costumes, the production shows no bad effects from its season on the road. It is a thoroughly good show all the way through.

Joseph Cawthorne, Jeanette Lowrie, Nella Bergen, George Tallman, Albert Hart and George Schiller, all did remarkably well. The audience could not get enough of Cawthorne, and it was hugely delighted with Jeanette Lowrie. Nella Bergen, who seemed all that is graceful and pretty as the princess, is really Mrs. DeWolf Hopper, whose husband is playing with the Shuberts, while she is in what is commonly called the theatrical trust, Jeanette Lowrie is in much the same situation, for her husband, Thomas Q. Seabrook, is also with the Shuberts this season.

STRONG BILL.

New Program at Bijou Has Many Good Features.

The Bijou has an exceptionally strong and well balanced vaudeville bill this week.

The Four Schades have a little sketch entitled, "Mistakes Will Happen" which is very funny, and which pleased two large audiences last evening, immensely.

Kreisel and his trained dogs and cats, give one of the best acts of the kind ever seen in Duluth. The animals go though their turns in a most finished style.

Some wonderful top spinning feats are accomplished by the Tanakas, Japanese top spinners.

The Tourist Trio have a good musical and comedy turn and Gilmore Castle fill in ten minutes most acceptably with a funny dialogue. Isadore Silver has a good illustrated song number and the motion pictures are up to the usual standard.

THE FLINTS.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Flint are so well known in this city that any comment on their program is unnecessary. They have long occupied a place at the head of hypnotists and they have a public of their own. Their performances, besides their marvelous scientific value have through their clever arrangement been made to yield amusement to thousands.

The Flints will open an engagement of five nights at the Lyceum tonight, at popular prices.

A MUSICAL ACT.

The Sisters Mullisi, instrumentalists, have one of the feature acts in the olio of the Brigadiers, who are at the Metropolitan all this week, closing the season of burlesque there. They play on half a dozen different instruments and their selections range from the classical to the most popular ditties of the day. The Brigadiers will give a matinee for ladies Thursday.

WEDDING A DISGRACE

Rev. Alexander Milne Comments on Gilman-Corey Affair.

Ashamed That Minister Would Consent to Perform Ceremony.

"It is a shame and a disgrace that such a wedding as the Gilman-Corey affair should take place," said Rev. Alexander Milne of the Pilgrim Congregational church this morning.

"I was ashamed that any minister could be found who would perform the ceremony, and I was doubly ashamed to hear that he was a Congregational minister. Later, however, on looking the matter up I found that he was not a Congregational minister. Rev. J. L. Clark, who I believe is the man who performed the ceremony, is not included in the list of regular Congregational ministers. He has been merely supplying in a pulpit of a Brooklyn church for some time.

"It is a disgrace, however, that such a wedding can take place in this country, and I am ashamed to feel that a minister could be found to perform the ceremony."

CHINA SORE AT JAPAN'S COURSE

Pledges to Return Property Taken in War Not Fulfilled.

Mukden, May 14.—The repeated promises made by the Japanese for the past three years to return to China the property appropriated through the exigencies of war are still unfulfilled. In consequence China is expressing much indignation at what is considered a gross breach of faith. Yet the recovery is considered doubtful of a large amount of government and private property in numerous places throughout Manchuria which was appropriated by Japan without compensation, on the allowing sole pretext that China had failed to observe neutrality in allowing Russia to occupy these buildings, mines and land. This excuse is not considered honest because Japan is fully aware of China's helplessness to enforce neutrality, while Japan, in regard to abuse to neutrality, is considered equally guilty. Russia holds much appropriated property which has been leased to Japanese traders without any compensation to China.

NEWSIES WILL SEE THE SHOW

Herald Boys Will be Guests of the Flints.

The Herald Newsies are not going to be forgotten even if "Pinkie," otherwise A. C. Pearson, former circulator of The Herald, is lost to them, and the plan which he established of providing entertainment for the boys every few weeks will be carried out.

Arrangements have been made by Edward Armstrong, the present circulation manager of The Herald, to have the boys entertained at the Lyceum theater Wednesday night, when they will all be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Flint, the hypnotists. The Flints will arrange an entertainment that will be sure to delight the boys.

Regular patrons of the theater need have no fear of attending the performance Wednesday evening. The boys may be a little noisy, but they are never disorderly, and they will be on their best behavior Wednesday night.

NEW YORK TO ENTERTAIN JAPANESE IN FINE STYLE.

New York, May 14—For Gen. For the 1,300 sailors an entertainment committee of local Japanese will act. Every man on the ships will have shore leave before the cruisers leave this port. They will have automobile rides and feasts and theater visits.

BRITISH "BOOS" GIVEN MARLOWE AND SOTHERN.

London, May 14.—Julia Marlowe and E.H.Sothern, the American actress and actor, were called last night before the curtain of the theater where they are playing and were hooted and "booed." The British audience resented their realistic portrayal of Henry VIII in the American play: "When Knighthood Was in Flower," as a jovial, but undignified monarch. This was the first time either actor had been subjected to an experience of this sort during their stage careers. Miss Marlowe smiled, however, and neither was ruffled

THE IDEAL DRINK

For warm weather is the one that thoroughly quenches the thirst and at the same time produces a beneficial effect upon the system.

Most summer drinks are a burden upon the stomach, sweet, sickening and manifestly unfit for use. In

Moose Beer

You have a beverage that satisfies the thirst better than any other, for it is about 90 per cent pure water. Instead of overtaxing the digestive apparatus, it is itself an important digestive agent, a liquid food that is readily assimilated and that at once lends its valuable assistance in building up the body.

Increased thirst comes with the return of warm weather. In satisfying your thirst, be careful to use a beverage that will be a benefit and not a detriment to your health.

"JOE" DWYER IS NO MORE

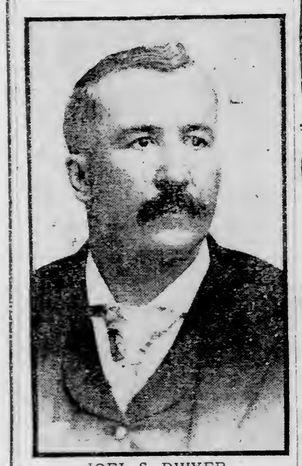
Well Known Duluth Police Officer Dies From Paralysis.

Had Wide Circle of Friends and Acquaintances in City.

Shortly before 4 o'clock this morning Joel S. Dwyer, for thirteen years a member of the Duluth police force, and probably the best known man ever connected with the police work of this city, died at St. Luke's hospital, following a stroke of apoplexy with which he was stricken Saturday night. Mr. Dwyer was taken to the hospital from his home at the McKay hotel a week ago Monday, when he complained of feeling ill, and he sustained another attack of his old trouble Saturday night, resulting in the paralysis of his right arm and finally in his death this morning.

Mr. Dwyer complained of feeling ill during the latter part of March and was given unlimited leave of absence at that time to recuperate. Since that time he has been living at the hotel, but making daily trips back to his old quarters at the telephone desk in police hearquarters.

He lost one leg, when a boy, and this handicap prevented him from taking any more important place on the force than that of telephone operator, but his years of service in this position have made him a man whose place has been hard to fill.



JOEL S. DWYER,
Who Died This Morning at St. Luke's Hospital.

Dwyer joined the force March 26, 1894, and laid off for a rest on March 31 last, after just thirteen years of service. The personnel of the force has changed materially since "Joe" first commenced to officiate at the telephone desk where the various patrolmen make their hourly reports, but the stability of the familiar figure with one trouser leg pathetically empty, and the crutch beside the chair, had made the frequenters of police station regard the old man as practically a fixture.

It was over a year ago that he had his first attack of apoplexy and the result was a partial paralysis affecting only his face, one eyelid drooping and his mouth being pulled slightly to one side. He has been feeling ill since the first of the year and during the last month has shown some indications of a slightly failing mind.

Since being stricken Saturday night he had not regained consciousness, his last words being a call for George Brennan, another member of the force who has been with him faithfully during his illness.

"Joe" was one of the best friends the newspaper men had. In his position of operater at headquarters he was in touch with all parts of the city, and was always one of the first to hear of a fire, an accident, or a crime of any kind. Where it did not conflict with his duty or where secrecy was not required, "Joe" never lost any time in "tipping it off" to the newspaper men, and there was not a reporter in the city who did not have a warm spot in his heart for him.

Before joining the force Mr. Dwyer was employed as street sprinkling superintendent for a number of years and he was at one time engaged in the grocery business at Lakeside. He was 59 years old, having been born in New York Oct. 13, 1847.

Short services will be held tomorrow afternoon at Durkan & Crawford's undertaking rooms, from where the body will be shipped to the old home in New York, where a brother and sister reside.

CLAIMS HE SAW BASORICH FIRE THE FATAL SHOTS

Mike Dosan Testifies for State in Murder Case.

Says Prisoner Put Three Bullets into Breklacich's Body.

With the testimony of Mike Dosan, its principal witness, the state had practically rested in the murder trial of Dan Basorich, this noon. Dosan was still on the stand under cross-examination when the noon adjournment was taken, but it was understood that he was the last witness to be called.

Dosan claims to have seen Basorich shoot and kill Marco Breklacich at the celebration of the Greek Christmas at the boarding house, near the Rust mine, Jan. 8 last.

He testified this morning that he, Basorich and Breklacich were just outside the door when Basorich fired three shots at Breklacich, who fell dead beside the door. Dosan says he asked Basorich why he shot Breklacich, but that he did not reply.

The witness testified that after the shooting he went up stairs in the boarding house by an outside stairway, and when questioned by the people there concerning the shooting, he said Basorich had shot at Breklacich.

Dosan related Basorich's visit to the room later in the evening, when he was warned to fly by one of the men, who said that the police were after him.

The witness, who is 20 years of age, worked for several months alongside of Basorich on a steam shovel.

Mike Devicich who was also one of the party at the celebration, said that there had been some shooting at an empty beer keg by various members of the party, previous to the killing of Breklacich. He claimed the shooting was done with Basorich's revolver, that he, the witness, did not see anybody else with a gun.

Devicich testified that Bacorich, Breklacich and Dosan left the room and shortly afterward three shots were heard outside. He testified that when he went out Breklacich was lying dead beside the door with three bullet wounds, and that there was nobody else in sight.

All the witnesses are either Greeks or Austrians, and their testimony is taken through an interpreter. On that account the progress is necessarily slow.

Basorich sits near the railing, several feet back of his counsel, humped up in his chair, furtively watching the proceedings. During the recess period, when an interpreter talks to him he shows more signs of animation.

L. H. Corcoran, who is defending Basorich, expected to begin introducing testimony in the latter's behalf early this afternoon.

Martin Hensted Charged With 'Shoving the Queer' at Virginia.

Slot Machine Proprietor Claims He Used Lead Slugs.

Martin Hensted was brought to Duluth from Virginia and placed in the St. Louis county jail by United States Marshal G. J. Mallory this morning. He is charged with having passed worthless and counterfeit money at Virginia and will be held over to the federal grand jury which convenes in July.

Hensted was arrested by the chief of police of Virginia several days ago. The Virginia police official then notified the St. Paul federal authorities and a warrant for his arrest was immediately sent to Mr. Mallory in this city.

It is claimed that Hensted was found attempting to pass counterfeit coins while playing a slot machine. His actions were noticed by several Virginia people and the proprietor of the place in which the slot machine was located, and the police were notified.

At the Virginia municipal court Hensted was arraigned, but waived an examination and was bound over to await the action of the grand jury at the July term of federal court. In default of bail bonds he was committeed to the St. Louis county jail.

The federal officials say that there is a good deal of counterfeit money and slugs used in playing the slot machines and that an attempt is being made to round up all of the offenders. The officials are aided by the proprietors of the machines who keep as close a watch as possible upon those playing the machines and upon the kind of money they use.

OHIO MIX-UP IS GROWING

State Chairman Brown Calls Off Central Committee Meeting.

Foraker and Taft Leaders Both Claim to Have Control.

Columbus, Ohio, May 14.—The call for the meeting of the Republican state central committee, which was to have been held here tomorrow at the same time with the state conference of Republican party leaders has been cancelled by Chairman Walter F. Brown after a series of conferences with prominent Republicans, chief among whom were Governor Harris and Arthur I. Vorys, manager of the Taft campaign.

The opinion of Chairman Brown was that, inasmuch as the committee meeting had been requested by Senator Dick as an adjunct to the general conference and as the larger meeting had been cancelled by the parties who had advocated it there was no especial need for the state central committee to meet alone.

This decision was not entirely in harmony with the opinions of many of the following in various parts of the state, and throughout the morning telephone and telegraph messages poured in on Brown and Vorys urging that the meeting of the committee be insisted on. Many of these dispatches urged the importance of a showdown among the members of the committee declaring that the result would be that the majority would be for Taft, and not with the two senators as has been claimed. Brown, however, decided that no actual good would follow a meeting of the committee at this time and called the meeting off.

The Foraker people insist that a meeting of the committee would have shown that the party organization was still with him and Senator Dick. To this the Taft managers reply that Chairman Brown came out in favor of an endorsement for Taft when he issued a statement last night declaring that, if the conference called by Senator Dick had been held, it would "beyond any doubt have given a unanimous endorsement to Secretary Taft." As Brown was to have been a party to the conference, a statement that the indorsement would, in his opinion, have been unanimous means that he must have favored such action. The Taft managers also claim the majority of the members of the state central committee.

ALL DAY CAR SERVICE IN SAN FRANCISCO.

San Francisco, May 14.—This morning the street railroad officials announced that cars would run over the lines operated yesterday, from 7 o'clock in the morning until 7 o'clock in the evening and that they would establish service on the Castro street line. Three of the strike breakers were attacked by a mob last night and would probably have been killed but for the interference of the police.

IMPRESSIVE CEREMONIES

Laying of Cornerstone of Y. M. C. A. Building Thursday Afternoon.

Rev. M. S. Rice and John Miller Will Take Prominent Parts.

The cornerstone of the new Y. M. C. A. building will be laid Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock amid suitable and impressive ceremonies. Duluthians who helped raise the $178,000 which is being spent on the magnificent structure fell a proprietary interest in the new building which will go far in creating an interest in Thursday's ceremony.

The program is now complete with the exception of the selection of the pastor who will deliver the final prayer, and it was expected that one of the city's prominent ministers would have accepted an invitation to officiate in this capacity by this evening.

The Y. M. C. A. male quartet which has been so warmly applauded at all of the big Y. M. C. A. meetings during this winter, is down for two selections which are sure to be appreciated, and Rev. M. S. Rice of the First Methodist church is to deliver the principal address at the ceremonies.

The program which will commence at 2:30 sharp will be as follows:

Song.....Male quartet
Scripture reading.....Rev. Alex. Milne
Prayer.....Rev. Campbell Coyle
Address.....Rev. M. S. Rice
Laying of cornerstone....Hon. J. Miller
Song.....Male quartet
Prayer.....

While the framework and much of the walls of the new structure is towering well above the first story already the northeast corner of the building is untouched above the foundation and the big stone will be swung into place under Mr. Miller's guidance, at this place.

They have been receiving $1.75 per day and demanded $2. They were told to return to work or call and get their time. So far most of them have done neither. The leaders are organizing under the Federation of Labor, so they state, and claim to have the promises of the machinists and blacksmiths that those organizations will refuse to use material handled by non-union laborers. So far there are about fifty men affected.

papers announced the suspension of their afternoon or Wednesday morning editions, owing to the strike of their compositors.

No disorders had been reported up to noon, and none were expected, the Socialist organizations having exhorted the workmen to abstain from demonstrations, either in the vicinity of the works or in the public parks, which today are the scenes of May day merrymaking on the part of the working classes.

The few districts in regard to which the authorities were particularly apprehensive were patrolled by detachments of infantry and cavalry, and forces of troops were held in readiness for emergencies in the other quarters, but they were kept out of sight, as far as possible. Several agitators were arrested, among them M. Izmailoff, a Social Democratic member of parliament, who was taken into custody while organizing a strike in the Warsaw railway shop. He was released when his identity was established.

SNOW FALLS IN NEBRASKA

Minneapolis curb and on continued cold weather in the spring wheat territory. A decline of over a penny a bushel for wheat at Liverpool furnished sufficient reason for the belief on the part of other traders that prices on the local board had reached the climax, at least for the present.

When the confusion attending the opening transactions had subsided somewhat and it was found that prices showed comparatively small gains, those who had wheat for sale at a profit flooded the pit with their offerings, and the result was a quick decline. After prices had dropped back from 1 to 3 cents the buying again began on an enormous scale and prices rallied about 1 cent from the low point. At the end of the first half hour of trading July was selling around 95½ cents. At the same time the September option was being bought around 97 cents and December at 98½.

At noon May wheat sold at 92c, July at 94c and September at 95c. A widespread profit-taking movement was evident all forenoon.

Liverpool, May 14.—Wheat futures opened ½d to ¾d lower on the corn exchange today, on disappointing cables and further declines on general realizations. This afternoon futures were quoted at about 1¾ pence lower than last evening. Maize opened unchanged and this afternoon was about ¼ penny lower in sympathy with wheat.

Scotch holders of wheat are demanding substantial advances. The stocks on this side are light and the large cargoes usually expected at this time of the year are not materializing. Home millers, therefore, are protecting themselves and the Scotch bakers have raised the price of bread on account of the increased cost of flour. Germany is a factor in the situation, large quantities of Australian and Scotch wheat being purchased for that country.

NAVIGATION IS DELAYED

Northeaster Stirs Up a Heavy Sea on Lake Superior.

Big Fleet of Boats is Waiting in Duluth Harbor.

The northeast storm which has been blowing over Lake Superior for the last three days has stirred up a heavy sea outside of the Duluth harbor and as a result navigation is being seriously delayed. The weather man expects the wind to shift around by tomorrow, however, and most of the vessels will depart on their delayed trips.

The only vessel to leave the harbor yesterday afternoon was the steamer Socapa, but this morning six of the vessel captains decided to wait no longer for better conditions and weighed anchor. There has been a small list of arrivals since yesterday and the indications show that the up-bound fleet has also been badly delayed by the storm.

A large number of boats are loaded and have been ready to depart but for the past two days have been waiting in the bay for better weather. The Pittsburg company has quite a fleet bunched at this end of the route at present. The only boats to leave since yesterday noon were ore boats of the larger variety.

People on the shore and in the various office buildings watched the progress of the boats through the canal very anxiously this morning, but all of them got through with no trouble, although the waves rolled and tossed them about more or less.

Up to this afternoon no word of any lake disasters had been received at any of the vessel agencies in the city. The larger boats will not be bothered by the sea of this character, but should any of the smaller lumber boats happen to get caught in it they might fare badly.

SHOWS BREAKWATER NEED.

Boats Drag Anchors at Night and Collision Results.

The need of a breakwater to protect the Duluth harbor and canal entrance was again demonstrated last night when the large fleet of vessels waiting for better weather dragged their anchors and were so shifted about that several collisions took place and some damage was done. Every northeaster shows this need.

The steamer Hoover & Mason was lying at the end of the slip at Elevator B and a number of vessels of the waiting fleet dragged their anchors so far that that they soon bumped into her. The damage was not serious but it is a demonstration that some sort of harbor protection is needed.

"The Duluth harbor is little better than the open lake," said a well known marine man today. "When a boat runs into a harbor it expects to find shelter but there is little shelter to be found in the Duluth harbor during a northeaster. The newspapers can never agitate the need of a breakwater too much until we have one."

At the tug office which is at the end of the Northern Pacific pier at the foot of Sixth avenue, the tugs could not tie up at the docks and had to go in to the slips which inconvenience caused a considerable delay all day.

BIG PASSENGER TRAFFIC.

Outlook on the Great Lakes Better Than Ever This Season.

The outlook for a good passenger traffic is very good all along the lakes this year, and the various passenger and package freight lines are making preparations accordingly. It is generally predicted that all of the lake passenger boats will be well patronized this summer.

"Unless all signs fail," said the general passenger agent of one of the lake lines, "this will be the banner season for passenger traffic in the history of lake transportation. Inquiries at our office already indicate that records this year are going to be smashed.

"Water trips are growing more popular every season. Last year we carried many thousand people more than the year previous and there will be still more of a gain this season.

BLOCKS NIGHT NAVIGATION.

Boats Must Not Pass Wreck of the Whitaker.

Detroit, May 14.—Orders have been issued by Col. Davis, United States district engineer, that navigation at night past the sunken steamer Whitaker shall be suspended. Capt. H. W. Baker left here last night with the wrecker Snook to begin the work of raising the Whitaker.

Cleveland, May 14.—Large steamers are taking tugs to assist them in passing the wreck of the steamer Whitaker in Detroit river. It is probable that boats will not be allowed to pass that point at night until after the wreck has been removed. Superintendent Smith of the Pittsburg Steamship company and President Livingstone of the Lake Carriers, have gone to the wreck and they will make arrangements for the safety of passing vessels.

ROUGH FOR BOOTH BOATS.

Steamers Easton and America Were Out in Northeast Storm.

The two Booth line passenger steamers Easton and America were out in the northeaster yesterday and last night and each had a pretty rough passage. For the last three days there has been a heavy sea on but both boats rode through it handily.

The steamer Easton arrived in the harbor last night at about 5:30 from the south shore and the America got in from the north shore early this morning. Both boats had a good list of passengers from the towns along the south and north shores.

Both of the boats will remain in port today to wait for better weather and a smoother sea.

Avon on the Rocks.

Ogdensburg, May 14.—The steamer Avon, coal laden for Montreal, ran on the rocks in Lachine lake last night. She was later released but is reported as leaking badly.

Little Chartering Is Done.

Cleveland, May 14.—Tonnage is in good demand all around but offerings are light and little chartering is being done. From Duluth to Buffalo 2¼ cents was offered on wheat today but brokers could not get boats at that figure. A large number of vessels are at upper lake ports and the dispatch is slow.

Excursion Steamer Raised.

The well known excursion steamer Plowboy, which sank at Bayfield early this spring, has been raised by her owner, S. Boutin, and will be put in condition for the summer passenger traffic.

Sand Bar at Racine.

Gus B. Lofberg, keeper of the life-saving station at Racine, Wis., reports through the Chicago hydrographic office, that a sand bar, having over it a depth of 17 feet, has recently formed across the harbor entrance at Racine, extending between the piers. The steamer Bielman, loaded with coal, tried to enter the harbor at night several weeks ago, but was unable to do so.

Mataafa Is Back.

The first round trip of the steamer Mataafa since she has been rebuilt has been completed and the famous vessel is now at Two Harbors, having come up light from the lower lakes. She is now loading ore at the Two Harbors docks.

Master of Gasoline Tug.

Charles Winters has been appointed master of the gasoline tug Grace J., which was brought up from Chicago last week, and the boat is being prepared for the season's work. She will be used in the fishing business along the north shore for the present, and later on will be taken to Isle Royale.

Auction Sale of Boats.

United States Marshal Campbell of Detroit, will sell the tug Willie Brown and the scow Rebecca L. Fletcher at auction at Saginaw, Mich., on May 20. The City of Grand Rapids will be sold at auction today at one of the lower lake ports.

Warning to Navigators.

The following notice has been sent out by E. J. Kelley, nautical expert in charge of the Cleveland hydrographic office:

This office is informed by Capt. Sydney Lo Beau of the steamer H. Lisman Smith that there is a dangerous spar sticking about eight or ten feet out of the water on the course between Whitefish Point and Manitou island. It is about forty-five miles from Manitou island and bears E. by N. twenty-seven miles from Stannard rock lighthouse.

POPULAR TOWER GIRL IS MARRIED

Miss Emma Bystrom and Andrew C. Anderson Wedded.

Tower, Minn., May 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—A pretty home wedding was solemnized today at high noon, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jonas Bystrom, when their daughter, Emma, was married to Andrew C. Anderson of Eveleth. The bride was attended by Miss Tillie Modine, while Albert Bystrom, brother of the bride, was best man. The bride wore a pretty gown of white and carried carnations, while the bridesmaid was similarly attired, and carried carnations also. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Turner of the Presbyterian church, and was a quiet affair, only the immediate relatives being present. Out-of-town guests were Mrs. Stafford of Duluth, a sister of the groom, and Ed Phelps and wife of Hibbing. Both young people are well known in this city and at Eveleth, the bride being a resident of this place from childhood, until three years ago, when she went to Eveleth, where she has since resided and made many friends. Mr. Anderson is bookkeeper for the firm of Colvin & Robb of Eveleth, and is a highly respected citizen of that place. The happy couple left on the afternoon train for a short wedding tour, after which they will take up their residence at Eveleth.

ORE TRAIN DERAILED NEAR ALLEN JUNCTION.

Two Harbors, Minn., May 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Engine 202, in charge of Conductor Lafe Mills and Engineer Paul Fingerthal was derailed at Wyman just north of Allen Junction at an early hour Sunday morning by some unknown cruise, and nine carloads of ore were also derailed. No one was injured, but all traffic to Tower Junction and Ely was blocked and it was necessary to transfer the passengers and baggage of passenger trains around the wreck. The wrecker was sent from here and succeeded in clearing the line about 7 o'clock p. m., when traffic was resumed.

RANGES IN BRIEF

Coleraine—There are six large shovels, working upon the Canisteo mine at Coleraine and it is calculated that they are half way down to the ore.

Ely—The White Iron Lake company is still sinking its shaft and are meeting with excellent results. The company is also conducting explorations on the Mesaba range, and it is said their prospects are of the best.

Hibbing—The annual school exhibit of the public schools of Hibbing will be given Friday afternoon and evening of this week at the new high school building.

The remodeled Miles hotel is nearing completion and an opening date will be shortly announced. Close to $10,000 has been spent on the building which will be one of the most elaborately furnished and decorated in the state.

ers' agents. The clergyman said that he thought the strikers would gain much public sympathy by such a step and they might succeed in ending the strike on their terms. But Conners explained that not one of the union would vote the appointment of such a committee.

Michael Regan and John Bealin of the state labor commissions bureau of mediation and arbitration, who suggested arbitration, were told by Conners practically the same thing. Marcus M. Marks of the National Civic Federation called on several of the steamship agents, but when he broached the subject of a conference committee they shook their heads.

Montreal, May 14.—Acting on a demand made to the shipping federation some time ago, the longshoremen on many of the ships controlled by members of the federation quit work last night, not to return until they secure the increased wages for which they asked—30 cents per hour for day work and 35 cents per hour for night work, an increase all around of 5 cents per hour. On only one of the federation boats, the Allan liner Parisian, were men at work. On the Donaldson and Thomson lines work was at a standstill. The Canadian Pacific railway's steamship lines are not in the federation, and men are working on all four of that company's boats in port.

existing laws to be considered is a proposition which the lodge at Faribault is urging, for the appointment of a grand lodge relief committee, to be composed of the grand chancellor, the grand keeper of records and seals and the grand keeper of the exchequer, a portion of the per capita tax to be set aside for relief work to be distributed through the local lodge, but the state, by assuming the burden, will divide the support of indigent members among all the lodges of the state.

The only offices over which there is likely to be much of a contest tomorrow are those of grand chancellor and keeper of the records and seals. Among those most prominently mentioned for grand chancellor are William Mallgren of St. Peter, vice chancellor; Fred E. Wheaton of Minneapolis, keeper of the records and seals, who has held his present office fourteen years, and previously was grand chancellor; George W. Granger of Rochester, Frank L. Young of Duluth, present fraternal correspondent; De Forest Ward of Fairmont, and J. C. Netaway of Stillwater. Owatonna lodge, No. 50, arrived early yesterday, with a big delegation to push the candidacy of J. W. Rowland of Owatonna for grand keeper of records and seals.

HAYWOOD JURY

wide range given by the court to both sides in the examination of the talesmen. Seldom has either prosecution or defense been permitted by any court to search so deeply into the history or the present mental attitude of a prospective juryman. Attorney E. F. Richardson, who so far has conducted the examination for the defense, invariably goes into the relations of the talesmen under examination with union labor and with what is known as the citizen's alliance, an organization of citizens of Boise, formed to oppose what was regarded as oppressive demands by union labor some years ago.

The defense also lays much stress on what they allege to have been interference by President Roosevelt and Secretary Taft. The line of questioning invariably goes into President Roosevelt's "undesirable citizens" letter and into the speeches by Secretary Taft at Pocatello and Boise during the last gubernatorial election, in which Mr. Taft supported Governor Gooding and commended his attitude over what was then known as the "Moyer-Haywood-Pettibone case."

Up to the present, not a single juryman examined has admitted that the expressions of either the president or the secretary or the supposed attitude of Governor Gooding would have any effect on his decision.

Haywood, the prisoner and defendant, who has of late years been a dominant factor in the Western Federation of Miners, evinces less interest in the proceedings than any one around him.

In the court yesterday afternoon came Julian Steunenberg, son of the murdered governor, a tall, sturdy youth, strikingly like his father in face and figure. For two hours, he sat with the members of the Boise bar, ten feet from the chair of the prisoner, Haywood. He spoke to no one, and remained a quiet, unobtrusive spectator. He is here under subpoena as a witness and it is expected will be among the first called.

The courtroom was crowded for the first time, but that was because of the presence of the summoned jurors. An hour after the session began, Sheriff Hodgin ordered the doors closed.

Main's 35-Year Growth of Hair Proves Panacea Against Illness.

Omaha, Neb., May 14.—James W. Main, a farmer residing near Glenwood, has whiskers seven feet long, the result of thirty-five years of uninterrupted growth. He is now more than 70 years old. Thirty-five years ago he says he grew tired of shaving, and swore he would never shave again. In a few years his whiskers reached his waist, and he concealed them under his coat. Then they reached his knees, and he had to button his vest and trousers over them. When he unfuris the giant growth he looks a picture of old Father Time. Main has never had a sick day since he began to let his whiskers grow.

NO HOMES, FREE FOOD.

Census Taker by London County Council Shows Fearful Distress.

London, May 14.—According to a census taken by the London county council one person out of every 2,000 in the population of London is homeless. The percentage is growing year by year.

It is interesting to note what the facilities are for obtaining cheap or free food. At a mission hall in Shoreditch 500 men are fed daily for 4 cents a meal. Free food is distributed to an average of 350 on Sundays and 900 on Thursdays.

From 900 to 1,500 are supplied on the Thames embankment with soup and bread nightly and 400 bread tickets are distributed nightly in Limehouse. In this manner, the London county council's report says, a man can live, so far as his food is concerned, for 2 cents a day.

OHIO PEACE CONFAB OFF

Senator Dick Revokes Call for Republican Leaders to Meet.

No Chance for Restoring Party Harmony at Present Time.

Akron, Ohio, May 14.—United States Senator Charles Dick, chairman of the Republican state central committee, issued last night the following statement calling off the notice of a conference at Columbus tomorrow of members of the state central committee, Republican members of congress, county chairmen, state officers and Republican leaders generally to discuss means of reconciling clashing interests of political leaders in this state and maintaining harmony in the party.

"The conference was called with no purpose of ratifying any deal, bargain or compromise, for there was none, but to secure party harmony and unity of purpose among the Republicans of Ohio, and to allay party strife and contention. This it was believed, could be done by a full, frank and considerate exchange of opinion in so representative a gathering, and finally the adoption of some public expression, voicing as nearly as might be the ascertained sentiment of Ohio Republicans. There was no intention of assuming to do more than to recommend united action and effort among Ohio Republicans, and no purpose to attempt to dictate or even indorse, or still less nominate, the party choice or candidates. It was never meant to have the conference assume the functions of the state convention or encroach upon any party rights or privileges of individual Republicans. Nor was it supposed that there would be any arbitrary action binding the great body of Republicans, and no such action was contemplated, as a careful reading of the call will show. Certainly the conference could exercise no function beyond that of recommendation.

"The chief thought was that harmony and unity among all the Republicans of Ohio, based upon justice to every element of the party, are essential to the complete promotion of Republican principles, and to insure full success to Republican candidates in all elections, local as well as general, and should be secured, if possible, without delay.

"The purpose of this meeting has been misunderstood by some and misrepresented by others, and thus it has met with some opposition and disfavor, and in her case animosity. Therefore, having become convinced that the desired restoration of complete party harmony through unanimous action by such a conference would be impossible at this time, I postpone the meeting indefinitely."

The following telegram was sent to those who had been invited:

"Akron, Ohio, May 13.—Conference called for Wednesday indefinitely postponed. Statement in Tuesday's newspapers. "CHARLES DICK."

Senator Dick, according to statements of his friends, feels that he has done all possible to bring about peace and as chairman of the executive committee now leaves the matter to the party.

The call for the Columbus conference was issued last week following statements by George R. Cox of Cincinnati, Senator Foraker, Walter Brown of Toledo, and others, urging a reconciliation between the various wings of the party, notably those supporting Senator Foraker. The order of Dick calling it off followed a statement issued by Senator Foraker Sunday, declining, in the light of what he pointed to as later events to be bound by any action of the body, and following protests from other party leaders who took the position that instead of leading to a reconciliation of conflicting political interests, the conference would certainly result in widening the breach already existing.

LOVE AT THE SPELLING BEE.

Dictionary Couldn't Stump Lucy and John, But Cupid Did.

Somerville, Mass., May 14.—Cupid was the referee at the spelling bee where Miss Lucy M. Stone, one of Summersville's wealthiest women, and John S. Edmands of the same city, met first, and he completed the romance by presiding at their wedding.

The bride is 43 years old, very attractive and exceedingly popular, and the groom is 33, a graduate of Tufts The difference in ages doesn't worry the couple a bit.

It was at a spelling contest a dozen years ago that the couple first met, and the members of the now defunct Somerville Spelling club will recall the fierce contest for supremacy that followed the meeting.

Both spelled for almost an hour, Miss Stone and Mr. Edmands, having spelled all others down, and then they proceeded to tire the committee, who sought for words that would feaze one or the other.

The battle was nobly fought, and when the spelling books and dictionaries were finally closed, Cupid had taken up the matter himself. From that time forward Miss Stone and Mr. Edmands were the best of friends, and during the travels of the Spelling club were thrown into each other's company considerably.

WEAR SPIKED COLLARS.

French Dragoons Suffer Through Brutality of an Officer.

Paris, May 14.—No longer may Frenchmen point out with scorn the abuse of private soldiers in the kaiser's army, for a cause as bad as any ever presented to Germany has been brought to light in the Twenty-second regiment of dragoons at Toulon.

It is said that a lieutenant in the regiment has been guilty of the grossest cruelty to recruits under his charge.

It is alleged that in order that the men shall be forced to hold the head erect, he invented a leather collar, with spikes, which tore their skin cruelly if they as much as moved their heads. Then he has made his men ride in saddles with nails in the pommel, so that they shall not ride in a cramped position. The lieutenant, as can only be expected, is hated by the men for his treatment of them, and one of them has sworn that if ever he can get the chance he will revenge himself. Meanwhile the minister of war is investigating the matter.

RECOVERED OLD CENT.

Fifty-Two Years Ago Adkins Hung It on Boy's Neck.

City City, Ind., May 14.—Fifty-two years ago, finding among his pocket money a bright, new copper cent of the old size and style, bearing date 1854, which was the birth year of his infant son, Benjamin Adkins punched a hole through the center of the coin, in which he inserted a string and placed it around the child's neck. The little fellow was very proud of it. A few months later the child lost the coin. A few days ago, standing in the yard watching his dog tracing a mole, Mr. Adkins noticed something unearthed and picking it up, it proved to be the long-lost and much coveted copper cent, well preserved. He has sent the coin to his son, who is now a minister in Arkansas.

"Its quality has made it famous."

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

MINNESOTA.

ENGINEER IS SCALDED

Ed Garrigan of Red Lake Road Seriously Hurt.

Engine Derailed When Entering the Yards at Bemidji.

Bemidji, Minn., 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Engineer Ed Garrigan of the Red Lake & Minneapolis railroad, was nearly cooked to death from escaping steam caused by the derailing of the locomotive of the Red Lake passenger train in the local yards yesterday forenoon.

The train was just pulling in from Red Lake at 11 o'clock when the engine was derailed when passing the switch a few rods from the Red Lake depot. Engineer Garrigan was pinioned between the cab and the tender, and in a second was enveloped in clouds of escaping steam. Although help was immediately at hand, it took nearly ten minutes before the unfortunate man could be extricated from his perilous position.

Although frightfully scalded he never lost consciousness and coolly directed the work of his release while the steam and hot water was cooking the flesh from his frame. He was immediately taken to St. Anthony's hospital and attended by Dr. Marcum, but internal injuries in addition to burns, makes his recovery doubtful.

Mr. Garrigan has been in the service of the Red Lake road for the past ten years, and run the first engine when the road was known as the Red Lake Transportation company. He is a single man and is making his home with his parents in this city.

None of the coaches left the rails, and no others were injured, the fireman jumping when he saw the engine derailing. No reason is given for the accident, the switch being locked, and, apparently, in good condition.

FIRE AT CLOQUET

Nearly Causes Loss of Life---Mill Man Suffocated in Shavings.

Cloquet, Minn., May 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The fire department was called out yesterday morning by a fire in the house owned by E. M. Johnson and occupied by Mrs. Villeneuve and family. A lamp had been left lighted in the sitting room and it exploded, setting the house on fire. So quickly did the flames spread that the family had all they could do to get out alive. The house was insured for $400 and the goods for $500.

The dead body of John Osmak was found underneath a pile of shavings in the electric light plant of the Cloquet Electric Light Co. Osmak was employed by the Cloquet Electric Light company and was found by the fireman underneath a pile of shavings which was blown into the electric light plant from one of the Cloquet Lumber company's sawmills. Life was extinct when the body was found and it is believed that death was caused by suffocation. Osmak was a Polander and not having been employed long in Cloquet nothing is known of his past history.

DIVERSIFIED FARMING

Will be More Prevalent in Vicinity of Akely This Year.

Akeley, Minn., May 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—A heavy rain, at first accompanied by hail, has done much to take the frost out of the ground and seeding will commence tomorrow in this district. The cold weather has enabled the farmers to do much clearing. Wheat will not be sown so plentiful and diversified farming will be more prevalent. A number of farmers are sowing the land for haying purposes as hay was very profitable last year and is now very scarce. Clover and oats are being sown, but little corn will be sown this year. Truck farms will grow less vegetables that are long in maturing, but other vegetable seeds are being sown. Owing to the late season there will be far more land ready for seeding as much land has been opened up and improved. Expert farmers think that the grain will ripen as well as ever this year and that a good crop will be sure.

LUMBER BURNS AT CASS LAKE

Fire in Niel Lumber Company's Yard Does $500 Damages.

Cass Lake, Minn., May 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—A fire in a lumber pile in the J. Niels Lumber company yards yesterday did damage estimated at about $500.

About 12:30 p. m. flames were noticed issuing from a large pile of lumber in the center of the yards. The fire alarm was at once turned in and as soon as possible the firemen and mill employes had three streams of water playing on the flames, while a brigade with buckets were hustling water from the lake and another crew unpiling endangered lumber. The fire was hard to get at, it being in the center of the pile, but after an hour and a half of fierce and unyielding fighting the fire was finally quenched.

The exact origin of the fire is unknown, but it is supposed to have been caused by a spark from the mill burner.

PIONEER GUIDE FOUND DEAD

Ed. Archibald Succumbs on Journey to His Home Sunday.

Pine River, Minn., May 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ed Archibald, a guide at Kabekona summer resort, twenty-five miles from here, was found dead at Birch Point, between Woman and Girl lakes, on Sunday afternoon by a party of men who went in search for him.

He had been missing since Thursday morning when he started across the lake for home after spending a day at Longville. He left his shack on Wednesday morning and went to Longville, returning in the evening and taking supper at the home of Frank Pinckert, another guide. After supper he started home, but lest his way and returned for the night. In the morning he started for home again and when last seen was on the right course on the lake in his row boat.

Where he was found by the men he had built three different fires to keep warm, but it is supposed that too much whiskey was the cause of his death.

Archibald was a pioneer guide at Kabekona, having been there since the camp was first started eleven years ago. He formerly was also a guide at Detroit, Minn., in the early days. He was 55 years old. Nothing definite is known of his relatives except that they live at Montreal. The coroner at Walker was notified and will come down and conduct an inquiry.

WISCONSIN

PROMPT ACTION IS NECESSARY

If Eau Claire People Want Shoe Factory Located There.

Eau Claire, Wis., May 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Eau Claire people must act at once if they want the Getzian shoe industry.

It will only require about $15,000 to put the undertaking in shape for success and as it would benefit everybody and many business men could afford to invest something, it seems strange that there are not more favorable indications.

The amount of rent, the kind of building, the site, power, etc., have all been arranged for. The linen-mill people headed by Messrs. Ingram and Putnam have been very liberal in the matter of site, and the Chippewa Valley Electric Railroad company has made concessions in the way of power.

Unless there are some favorable responses inside of twenty-four hours, the Gotzian people will be informed by wire tonight that there is nothing doing here. The city's $5,000 will also have to be made available for immediate use in order to get action.

WANT A CURFEW.

Hancock Council Will Consider the Matter at Next Meeting.

Hancock, Mich., May 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—A curfew ordinance will be considered by the city council. Hancock has had this spring a carnival of juvenile crime which is appalling. Small boys have robbed and stolen and have run away from school in a manner which shows a laxity in the discipline department of the home. The law must therefore step in. The ordinance will undoubtedly pass and have immediate effect, so that by the first of June the small boy will be a rara avis on Hancock streets after 9 o'clock or so.

The proposed ordinance will order that at a certain hour each evening some centrally located bell, the fire alarm presumably, shall be rung, and after its last note has died away all children shall be off the streets, or if on the streets shall be in charge of parents or guradians, or some person delegated to the duty.

SUFFICIENT NAMES

Said to Have Been Secured to Move Red Lake County Seat.

Thief River Falls, Minn., May 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The workers who are circulating the county seat removal petition report that they have already sufficient names to the paper, though they will continue until they have at least 400 more than they really require. The old petition was stolen from the county auditor's office last February, and this forced the city of Thief River to circulate a new one. Should it ever come to a vote, there is not the slightest doubt but that Red Lake Falls will lose the seat. The north end has votes to spare.

THIEF RIVER FALLS MEN

Ask the Council for a Franchise for a Local Exchange.

Thief River Falls, Minn., May 14.—The local telephone exchange question has again bobbed up. This time the council has to deal, not with an outside corporation, but with a syndicate of home men, who have asked for a franchise to erect and operate an exchange. This request is signed by T. P. Hamre, D. B. Bakke, C. M. Evenson, C. C. Jackson, Henry Grundy and George Stearns. The last named will be in active charge of the plant.

The city is to have the privilege of buying the plant at the end of seven years by paying the cost of construction. The proposed plant is guaranteed to be in good working order by May 1, 1908, and is to be modern in every respect. A maximum rate of $3 a month for business and $2 a month for residence 'phones is to be charged.

The council postponed the matter until Tuesday evening, when the franchise will either be granted or turned down. The new organization is willing to buy the present exchange, but the owner asks $20,000 for his plant, while the new company is only willing to pay $12,500.

Mayor Johnson returned from New York Sunday morning. With him he brought his daughter. Watched over by her father, the young woman will try to forget the day, less than two months ago, she became the bride of Marlani and the later events which transformed the honeymoon into a period of bitterness.

Back in the home where, as a girl, she knew little but happiness, she is now seeking quiet and rest. The appeal for comfort is to her father.

"My daughter is at home. I brought her with me," said Mayor Johnson. "That is all."

Mrs. Sage Elected President, and Scope of Work Defined.

New York, May 14.—The Russell Sage foundation, to which Mrs. Sage recently gave $10,000,000, and which has been incorporated by a special act of the legislature, was formally organized yesterday with Mrs. Sage as president, Robert W. DeForest and John M. Glen of Baltimore as secretary and director, and the following as trustees: Mrs. Russell Sage, Robert W. DeForest, Cleveland H. Dodge, Daniel C. Gilman, John M. Glenn, Helen M. Gould, Gertrude S. Rice, Louisa Lee Schuyler and Robert C. Ogden.

Mr. Glen has long been president of the board of supervisors of city charities of Baltimore, president of the National Conference of Charities and Correction, and president of the State Conference of Charities.

The following limitations of scope have been adopted by the trustees: The foundation will not attempt to relieve individual or family needs. The function is to eradicate, as far as possible, causes of poverty and ignorance—rather than to relieve the sufferings of those who are poor or ignorant. The sphere of higher education, that served universities and colleges, will not be within the scope of the Sage foundation. That is the sphere of the general education board.

LAWYER ADVISED HEAVY THEFT

Clerk Douglass Tells of Scheme to Save Self From Theft.

New York, May 14.—Details of a confession of William O. Douglass, former loan clerk of the Trust Company of America, made public yesterday are that, acting on the advice of a lawyer, he planned to steal $1,000,000 of securities in order to compel the Trust company to overlook his minor thefts.

He first took small quantities of bonds and borrowing money on them, lost it in speculating. When it was evident that he could not retrieve his losses, a lawyer was consulted who advised that the only way out of the dilemma was to steal $1,600,000 worth of securities and turn them over to the lawyer, who might negotiate with the officials of the Trust company for their return. Douglass, understanding was that the lawyer expected to get $200,000 from the Trust company for the restoration of the securities, which would have sufficed to cover the amounts Douglass had already borrowed and lost.

WITTE OUT OF POLITICS.

Power is Gone and He Has No Influence With Stolypin.

St. Petersburg, May 14.—It is denied that Count Witte will shortly be charged with a number of diplomatic and financial missions. This is alleged to be intended to pave the way for his return to power. Count Witte is completely out of Russian politics and he has no relations of any kind with M. Stolypin, the premier.

Coughs of Children

Especially night coughs. Nature needs a little help to quiet the irritation, control the inflammation, check the progress of the disease. Our advice is—give the children Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Ask your doctor if this is his advice also. He knows best. Do as he says.

THE NEW COURTHOUSE.

While there is no public disposition to urge the members of the courthouse commission into any undue precipitancy in the construction of the new courthouse, it cannot be denied that there is evidence of some dissatisfaction because matters are not proceeding with greater alacrity than they are.

In fact, there is a more or less settled public conviction that matters are not proceeding at all, but are becalmed in the doldrums of inaction, for some reason.

Some slight delay was to be expected when it was discovered that the commission was not properly constituted under the old law, and it was necessary to pass a new one and make new appointments of the members of the commission.

However, that was all done some time ago, and it is nearly a month since the new appointments were made, the chairman of the board of county commissioners having reappointed all but one of the old members.

Since then only one member has qualified, and at present, as a matter of fact, there is no courthouse commission, and therefore nothing can be done.

In the meantime the county is getting along as best it can with the disgraceful old shack and its absurd protuberances at Sixth avenue east, and that best is a very poor substitute for the spacious and convenient quarters that may be expected when the new building is completed.

The Herald believes that the public would be much better satisfied if it could see some tangible evidence that something is being done toward the completion of the new courthouse that is so sadly needed.

ANOTHER TRUST SQUELCHED.

The so-called "drug trust," which the federal government has just succeeded in squelching, was not so conspicuous in its effects as some other combinations in restraint of trade, but judging from the evidence that appeared against it, and the alacrity with which it pleaded guilty and promised to go out of business, it must have been something of an octopus itself.

The result of the prosecution was a sweeping injunction against ninety-two men who were either officers, members, agents or attorneys of the National Retail and National Wholesale Druggists' associations, which virtually wipes these two bodies out of existence.

This injunction was issued by the United States circuit court at Indianapolis, and not only operates against these two associations, but against "black list" manufacturers, "direct contract" manufacturers, and "wholesale contract" manufacturers, all of whom, working in the common interest, constitute what is called the "drug trust."

They are one and all "perpetually enjoined, restrained and prohibited from doing any act, in pursuance of or for the purpose of carrying out the combination, conspiracy and agreement in restraint of trade and commerce and from monopolizing said trade and commerce as alleged in the bill of complaint."

The court further releases every manufacturer from any agreement or contract to conform to any or all plans for marketing his product.

This is one of the most important victories of the federal government in its prosecution of combinations in restraint of trade, and is equalled only in the sweeping nature of its results by the successful prosecution of the paper trust, which was conducted by Frank B. Kellogg of this state recently.

The drug trust was an attempt to shut out of business all druggists, manufacturing, wholesale or retail, that refused to enter into the combination to control prices, products and business. A retailer who refused to join the retail association and submit to its rules found that he was blacklisted by manufacturers and wholesalers, who refused to sell him the goods he had to have to successfully conduct his business. On the other hand, wholesalers who attempted to be independent found that the association of retailers prevented its members from buying from independent wholesalers.

It was a strong and ingeniously constructed combination, but it could not stand out against the publicity and exposure of prosecution, which showed that it attempted to destroy rivalry and competition in the making and sale of drugs, and to place all of the people under tribute.

A CONTRAST.

The railroads of the Northwest have withdrawn their landseekers' rates, which have done much to encourage settlement, simply because the Minnesota legislature had the temerity to reduce passenger rates.

The railroads of the Southwest will spend $500,000 and employ several hundred special agents in advertising and peopling that region this year. The five big roads that are joining in this work figure that they will add 400,000 to the population of Missouri, Arkansas, Oklahome, Indian Territory, Louisiana and Texas by their work this year.

This is the difference between the railroads of the Northwest and the railroads of the Southwest.

Now the railroads of the Southwest are not spending half a million dollars out of pure philanthropy. Railroads don't do that kind of business. They are spending it because it will develop the territory they reach, and because that means more freight and passengers for them to carry, and therefore more receipts and greater profits.

In helping their territory to grow, they are helping themselves, and while they are to be commended for their work, it is not because of their benevolence, but because of the splendid business judgment and foresight they are displaying.

If the Northwestern railroads stick to their announced policy of refusing to encourage settlement by favorable landseekers' rates, they will be working against their own interests just as certainly as the Southwestern railroads are working intelligently for theirs.

The example of the railroads of the Southwest, whose expenditures in encouraging development in their territory will this year be 25 per cent greater than those of last year, which broke all previous records, is commended to the railroads of the Northwest.

If they do not realize that they are harming themselves quite as much as they are harming the Northwestern states by their dog-in-the-manger policy, they should be taught the lesson in some emphatic way.

When their interests are threatened by legislation, they are quick to talk about how closely allied are the interests of the railroads and of the people they serve. This is true, but it works both ways. If legislation curbing railroad expansion hurts the people, railroad action tending to discourage development hurts the railroads.

The genius that has spanned the Northwest with railroad lines promised better sense than the railroads are showing in this matter. It is not often that outsiders are compelled to explain to the railroads their proper course for their own good. Usually railroad officials have as quick an eye to the main chance as anybody. This time, apparently, they have permitted a temporary pique to blind them to their own good.

DOLLAR WHEAT.

Amid much excitement on the grain exchanges of the country, wheat has mounted to the dollar mark, and there is a good deal of a "boom" on in the price of that important cereal.

This is due to conditions that prevail not only in the Northwest, but in various parts of the world. Weather damage, and damage from the ravages of an early and busy insect, have contributed to the advance in price, together with the fact that the public, inspired by the spirit of bullishness, has "got into the market."

So far as the Northwest is concerned, while the season is backward there is yet plenty of time in which to raise a big crop of wheat. While the Northwest does not wish harm to other wheat-growing sections, it could not fail to profit enormously if the price of wheat remains high and if the crop in Minnesota and the Dakotas reaches the normal or passes it.

At any rate, the increase in the price means large profits to those that have wheat to sell, and even if the crop is short, the larger price will in a large measure, if not to the fullest extent, compensate for the shortage in quantity.

PRIVILEGES AND TAXES.

It is a blessed thing to be an American. Everybody—in America at least—admits it. But it is also expensive. There are many advantages, and many costs as well, but few complain, because there is nothing really worth while that does not cost something, either in money or in sacrifice or in effort.

One of the items of cost is taxation. The mere running expenses of a city like New York amount to $31 per head per year, though very likely taxes do not average so high, thanks to large corporate interests that reluctantly accept a considerable share of the burden, though often it is but a small part of what they should pay. That figure is high, however. In Duluth the total running expenses of the city last year were about $16 per capita, and a good deal of that was raised otherwise than by direct taxation. Saloon licenses and other fees, for instance, contributed considerable, though of course that part of the population which patronizes the saloons paid that as well.

Crime costs the nation a fearful toll each year. It has been estimated that the care of prisons, the detection and prosecution of criminals, etc., costs $700,000,000 annually.

Then, for the better profit of our friends that are interested in trusts, we pay a large tariff tax every year. We pay this on pretty nearly everything we eat, wear or use, and if we paid as much in direct taxes as we do this way we should spend much of our time mobbing the courthouses and telling the taxing officers what we thought of them.

But it is not a direct tax. It is merely an intangible part of the cost of things we buy, so we only realize the burden in a vague way. We do not even realize, perhaps, that through it we are enabling our millionaires to wax richer, our millionaires' sons to indulge in brain storms and scandals, and our millionaires' daughters to buy titles encumbered by misery and shame.

Another foolish tax, equivalent to nearly $8 per head each year, comes from our fire losses. Part of this goes in the gamble we make with the fire insurance companies to reimburse us for part of what we lose, but the greater part of it goes up in smoke, not to mention a yearly sacrifice of 6,000 lives. Fires involving losses aggregating $100,000,000 are due to incendiaries or to gross negligence. A very large proportion of the losses are due to putting human lives and property into structures that are little better than tinderboxes. Much of the loss could be saved by greater care, and by a closer attention to making our structures fireproof.

In spite of all these taxes, some of which we can lower if we wish to, it is still more than blessed to live in America, and it will be finer still when we set about cutting down these unnecessary expenses, and making it cheaper as well as better to live in this country.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

"The mining prospector of the West is even a more picturesque character than your timber cruiser of this section of the country," said M. P. Thorpe of Denver, Colo., at the McKay. "Most timber cruisers are in the business because they can make more money at it than any other line of work, although same engage in the work as much for the fascination of the forests as anything else. With the typical prospector it is almost entirely the fascination of the game that appeals, for there is something about the life, with its uncertainties and promises, that is very attractive to a certain class.

"It is a good deal of a gambler's existence. In all cases the prospector is poor, except where he has struck it lucky and later returned to the game for the fun of the thing, after tiring of a life of ease and luxury. The old way was for a man to get grubstaked, that is, have some one provide him with the necessary provisions and outfits, and then divide up with the man who did this, if pay dirt was found.

"The same system is still quite extensively followed. When a poor man does find a mine he does not have the wherewithal to work it, and finds it necessary to seek aid from the man with money. If he has been grubstaked, the fellow who furnishes the coin in the first place generally sees things through on a business basis. The prospector gets the job of general superintendent of the workings, unless the job is too big for him to handle, and a share of the profits, while his partner brings in outside capital if he has not enough to float the deal himself.

"There is always the chance that the man who is prospecting will become fabulously rich at the game, and as long as he is getting a living out of the work, he usually feels that his time is better expended that way than in any other. He goes through a good many hardships, but is never really enjoying life except when he is off in the mountains in a search for the elusive gold. There are always wonderful stories of chance rich finds to spur him on. Any minute may bring about a discovery that will mean riches as great as anticipated in any of his wildest dreams. It is a queer sort of an existence, but an interesting one."

"People in the territory which is to be traversed by the proposed coast extension of the Milwaukee road have been greatly worried over the reports to the effect that the line would not be extended this year, as originally planned," said T. A. Hartford of Helena, Mont., at the St. Louis. "I guess there really were grounds for such reports for a time, but it now looks very much as if construction work would be carried on this season, and the road completed through to the coast at the earliest possible date.

"People out there believe there is plenty of room for another coast line, and expect the Milwaukee to be a success from the start. It will run through a productive country, with plenty of freight and passenger business, which will increase as the country develops. This development will be rapid in certain sections with the coming of the railroad. I think myself there has been enough anti-railroad legislation to justify any hesitation different companies may show when it comes to building new lines and extending the old, but if any mistakes have been made it is a cinch they will be corrected later on. The general public has no desire to cripple utilities of such very great importance to the country as the railroads."

"What is commonly classed as common labor is one of the most uncertain elements in the world to deal with," said A. Jacobs, a Minneapolis contractor, at the Lenox. "One can never tell just what is going to happen next in the labor situation. Organized labor is uncertain enough, but unorganized labor, when times are good and work is plenty, is even more so.

"The higher wages the men are getting the harder it is to tell how long they are going to stay with any certain contractor. An increase of wages gives them an air of independence. They know they wouldn't be getting so much money if labor was not hard to secure, and therefore figure that the boss will stand for a good deal before he will discharge an employe, that employe knows there are other contractors who will be glad enough to engage his services, and does not worry much over losing his job.

"And then there is the difficulty of getting the men in the first place. In good times, when there are plenty of good jobs offered, the men cannot decide which one they want to take, and usually insist in hanging around town until they are flat broke, and until they cannot get out of town until their fare is paid for them. Austrians are as uncertain an element to deal with as any other. They usually work in gangs, with one of their number acting as a sort of leader.

"Whatever he says goes. When one quits they all quit in a bunch, generally on short notice, and the whole gang walks out together. The Austrians are more apt to be discontented with their work than most nationalities, but when discontentment is shown it means more to the contractor, for the result is that his whole gang quits, where discontentment among other nationalities means only one or two vacancies at a time in his crew."

THE WEATHER.

If there is any kind of weather—except fine weather—that was not provided for Duluth in the past twenty-four hours, it isn't worth mentioning. For a groundwork, the northeaster has been doing business pretty regularly. About 7 o'clock last night a thunder storm, the first of the season, came up and growled around for a time, producing a sudden increase in the rainfall and incidentally a bit of hail, and then retreated in disgust. This morning the northeaster was still doing business at the old stand, and along in the forenoon came slight snow flurries. Last night's lowest temperature was 32, and yesterday's highest was 38 degs. The weather man expects snow flurries and freezing weather tonight, but he promises warmer weather tomorrow. The northwest storm signal was hoisted this morning.

A year ago today a northeaster was doing its second day's stunt.

The sun rose at 4:32 this morning and sets at 7:35 tonight, making 15 hours and 3 minutes of sunlight.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "Low pressures overlie the entire Mississippi valley. This disturbance caused rain or snow Monday or last night over the western lake region, western and northwestern states, and high easterly to northerly winds in the western lake region and Northwest. High pressures over the Rocky Mountains have caused colder weather in the Northwest, Lower Missouri valley and Southwest."

Following were last night's lowest temperatures as recorded by the weather bureau:

With a Drop of Molasses.

Louisville Courier-Journal: The next Democratic platform should be very short and very crisp. It should be so simple that he who runs many read. The tariff must be reduced to a revenue basis. The government has no right either in equity, or in law, to collect a dollar of taxes except for its own support. Publicity for the franchise corporations. The railways to be reached and regulated through the interstate commerce commission; but the law to be limited to the supervision of their capitalization and their relation to the general public, striking down the possibility of discrimination, and excesses, either as to passengers or shippers. The railways are the property of the people. Their managers should be made to obey the law. But all laws enacted in hot blood, or for revenge, can in the end only recoil upon the people. The separation of church and state. The further improvement of the labor laws so as more fully to meet the reasonable demands of labor as against the frequent impositions of capital, and thus by eliminating just causes of discontent to allay agitation and make progress toward the complete reconciliation of capital and labor.

It seems to us that a few simple rescripts of this sort, grouped under the paramount issue of "Back to the Constitution," would put the Democratic party on solid and high ground. Public Ownership is a mirage. The initiative and referendum are foreign to our constitutional system of checks and balances and impracticable to a territory of such vast extent and a population so varied, great and widely separate. Home rule for the states, the federal power, restricted by the constitution, for the nation; a cessation for a while from strenuous politics; and, above all, as among Democrats, a little less vinegar and a little more oil, with a drop, or two—just a drop, or two of—molasses.

The Fullness of Grace.

Psalms, 23: The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want.

He maketh me to lie down in green pastures; He leadeth me beside the still waters.

He restoreth my soul; He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake.

Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil; for Thou art with me; Thy rod and Thy staff they comfort me.

Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies; Thou anointest my head with oil; my cup runneth over.

Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life; and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever.

DULUTH AND THE HERALD.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: Scientists have just made the discovery that tarantula, when properly cooked, is a delicious tidbit. The scientist is late. Some of us have for years been contented to take ours in the form of liquid extract, while there are a few of the unlucky ones that eat them raw. The latter gormandizers live at Duluth, mostly.

Brainerd Dispatch: The Anoka Herald thinks Duluth is unduly exercised over the new steel plant. Put the same plant in Anoka and every one of her citizens would be ilt subjects for the state institution located in that sleepy old town.

Big Falls Compass: We hope Duluth's steel plant will withstand the brass hammers of the Twin City knocker clubs.

Sunbeam Sunbeam: We always like to note the prosperity of Duluth, and it will soon be the supply city for the entire Northwest, and the Twin Cities will be placed on the sidetrack.

Walker Pilot: When Duluth gets that steel plant it will be as big as its two leading newspapers.

Eveleth Star: Duluth should now offer a bonus for a cheese factory.

Minneapolis Telegram: Duluth is to have an immense steel plant. It will be of inestimable value to the city at the Head of the Lakes and to the entire northern part of the state.—St. Peter Herald.

And, maybe, perhaps, as it will benefit the entire state, its inestimable value may reach even into the precincts of St. Peter. Duluth can't build a peanut stand without benefiting the entire state to some extent. Your neighbor can't rake his lawn without benefiting you. His wife can't wash the face of the children without improving the surroundings and increasing the value of the real estate. Benefits are not always to be measured by the pennies we see dropping into our own till direct from a certain movement. Boost and be boosted!

Big Falls Compass: Duluth is coming to the front and pushing this part of the state ahead of it.

Mankato Free Press: This is a vigorous comment from The Duluth Herald: "It is a blot upon the name of religion in this country that ministers are not better paid, and it looks as though it were up to the church-goers to contribute a little more freely and fully to the support of their churches." Well put. The Free Press has been talking along the same lines for a long while. Ministers are entitled to more consideration from their flocks. Even a preacher cannot live on bread alone.

Deer River News: Just as Duluth was rejoicing over her great prosperity and the prospects of the new steel plant, the city was threatened with a strike which promised to be the greatest in her history. The strikers will no doubt come in for a good share of abuse and denunciation, but they have simply followed the lead of men in business who, in view of the growing prosperity, have boosted rents and real estate values up several notches. Why should not the workingman get his share of the increase as well as the capitalist?

Washington Post: Says The Duluth Herald: "Talking about the weather—let's change the subject." Sure; might as well, since we can't change the weather.

North Branch Review: "Duluth, the Center of Industry," would be a good title for the city at the Head of the Lakes.

Wiseman—Yes, but in that case you wouldn't get some men to the polls once in ten years.

Washington Herald: "What we want in this domestic machinery," she explained with flashing eyes, "is something to choke off useless discussion."

"Perhaps," he retorted, "but nothing would do that short of a throttling engine."

CLAY AND WATER IS ELIXIR OF LIFE

Claims Secret That Will Lengthen Life to 300 Years.

Clarement, Tex., May 14.—At the age of 92, H. H. Bourne of this place, believes he has discovered the secret elixir of life. He is confident, he says, that with proper application of his system there is no good excuse for a person dying under 300 years of age. Mr. Bourne says that he will live to be 300 years old. He does not look a day over 50 at this time.

He has just returned from a business trip to Mexico, where he made a muleback ride of 200 miles through the mountains. Every muscle in his body is supple and strong. His mind is as clear as a man of 20. He is one of the most wonderful men living today. There are many people here who can testify to his powers of endurance and exhibitions of strength. He is a champion "bronco buster" of this section, despite his 92 years. There is not an outlaw horse in Kent county that he cannot ride.

For many years a student in mineralogy, Mr. Bourne has been applying his knowledge to experiment with the human system.

"The great secret of health and life is purification," Mr. Bourne said. "If the human system can be kept pure there will be no decay. It is stagnation that causes death. I learned my first lesson from the running brooks. I observed that where these streams pass through a clay formation, the water is quickly purified and made clear.

"I was growing old and decrepit, like every other man, until I began my experiment of purifying my system several years ago. I analyzed and experimented with various clays, with the view of discovering the best purifier. I discovered that a mineral clay in this county, known as glacialite, exceeds all other clays in purification effects. I have been using this clay to keep my system clean and pure for a number of years, and the effect has been simply marvelous. I drink the clay with hot water, and apply the mixture externally, thereby keeping my system cleansed and purified."

Bourne was born on the ocean while his parents were making their way from Ireland to the United States, on April 25, 1815. He accompanied his parents to a point on the Missouri river, near what is now Kansas City. He penetrated the West when a boy, and settled near the site of Pueblo, Col., which was at that time a part of Kansas. He lived there fifty-two years. He has hunted big game all over, and had many fights with Indians in the early days. He moved to Texas twenty years ago.

TOMBSTONE LOAF SCARES.

"Rest in Peace" on Bottom of Her Bread.

Waterbury, Conn., May 14.—Because of weird hieroglyphics on her newly baked bread, Mrs. Isabel Bronson moved from the Ransom place, south of Kent, and her husband found a cheerless, cold hearthstone, no light and an abandoned cat looking for consolation. Finally he found a note saying:

"Ben: You will find us down at Pettingill's farm now until I get shelter."

Mrs. Bronson baked, trying an old brick oven. There were imprints on the bottom of the loaves that excited Mrs. Bronson. The bread was flat and nearly twenty inches long. Plain as day on the bottom were:

"May she rest in peace," and "Died May 1, in her thirtieth year. Glory Hallelujah."

Mrs. Bronson thought fate had decreed she must die, but recovered when neighbors broke the news to her that an old tombstone was doing duty in the oven as a bottom. Mrs. Bronson will not return to the house, despite her husband's pleadings.

BROWNSVILLE PROBING RESUMED BY SENATORS.

Washington, May 14.—The investigation by the senate committee on military affairs into the Brownsville negro soldiers' affair, was resumed today. Thirty-three witnesses have been called, most of them at the request of Senator Warner, who is in charge of the administration side of the case, and it is expected that testimony will be offered against the discharged negro soldiers. Heretofore practically all of the testimony has been in favor of the negroes. There is no indication how long the committee will be in session at this time, but it is believed that it will be for two weeks at least. Senator Foraker will continue his active interest in behalf of the dismissed negroes.

DOWAGER EMPRESS RUNS OVER GIRL BY ACCIDENT.

St. Petersburg, May 14.—The dowager empress was driving in the outskirts of St. Petersburg yesterday when the horses of her carriage got beyond control of the driver and nearly trampled to death a young girl who happened to be passing. The empress deeply agitated at the sight of the blood from the child's injuries, descended from the carriage and herself helped to dress the wounds. She detailed her adjutant to accompany the girl to the Seminoff Military hospital and was greatly relieved to learn that the doctors had hopes of saving the child's life.

An Imitation is An Aggravation

After you once eat the GENUINE.

If you ever ate the original Toasted Corn Flakes, the original ONLY, is good enough for you.

But all successful things, all good things, are imitated. This most popular breakfast food is no exception. As the flavor of Toasted Corn Flakes won your favor, so it has won the Nation's favor. The demand for it is great and widespread. Now the imitators are busy. They have succeeded in copying, so far as they dared, the name and the package, for unfortunately the law does not prevent. They have also used corn. THAT'S ALL.

We tell you this simply to warn you against these imitations. If the "corn flakes" you buy do not taste right or look right—if they are only an aggravation, then you have been imposed upon.

To prevent further substitution, see that the package bears the signature of W. K. Kellogg

WILL NOT SET ANOTHER DAY

Mayor Says Rainy Cleaning Day Had Good Effect.

"It was extremely unfortunate that we could not have had a better day for cleaning up," said Mayor Cullum this morning. "But I am not inclined to think that it will be worth while to name another day for the work. Practically nothing was accomplished yesterday, of course, but the chief idea of cleaning day is not so much the setting of a day for the work as it is the establishment of a date after which everything in the city is supposed to be spick and span.

"Hereafter every property owner who has slovenly looking premises will be in disgrace, even though the weather did give the negligent an excuse for not cleaning up on the day appointed. Perhaps fully half the population of Duluth would have been prevented from cleaning up yesterday anyway by some personal engagement or obstacle and they can go ahead and clean up just as well as if we had had a nice day."

Dr. Murray thinks he was vindicated in demanding a week for the purpose as he claimed in making this demand that it had always rained whenever a day had been set for the work in the past. "The first spring rain was welcome and it did a lot of good, but if it could only have held off until tomorrow it might have been very much more effective," said the doctor.

M. O. LEIGHTON IS APPOINTED

To be Chief Hydrographer of the Geological Survey.

Washington, May 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The inland waterways commission has designated Marshall O. Leighton, chief hydrographer of the geological survey, as consulting hydrographer. He will serve in an advisory capacity in all matters relating to the flow of rivers and related problems of water supply, water power, river pollution, etc., for which duties he is unusually well equipped.

He has spent his whole professional life since graduating from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in water supply work, especially that relating to the rivers of the United States their flow and power development, and the damages from sewage and industrial pollution. At the present time Mr. Leighton is one of the flood commissioners of the state of New Jersey.

He will bring to the inland waterways commission a fund of information of great value to that body. Data concerning the amount of water contributed by rivers of the Mississippi drainage basin and other matters of interest to them has already been collected by the branch of the United States geological survey of which he is chief.

Relief from Rheumatic Pains.

"I suffered with rheumatism for over two years," says Mr. Rolland Curry, a patrolman of Key West, Fla. "Sometimes it settled in my knees and lamed me so I could hardly walk, at other times it would be in my feet and hands so I was incapacitated for duty. One night when I was in severe pain, and lame from it, my wife went to the drug store here and came back with a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. I was rubbed with it and found the pain had nearly gone during the night. I kept on using it for a little more than two weeks and found that it drove the rheumatism away. I have not had any trouble from that disease for over three months." For sale by all druggists.

THE REIDS GIVE DINNER TO BRITISH NOTABLES.

London, May 14.—Ambassador and Mrs. Reid entertained last evening, representatives of the various parts of the British empire. Many English officials and their wives were present. After the dinner a large number of guests came in to enjoy the concert, which was followed by a dance and supper. For this part of the evening some 400 invitations were sent out and a great majority were accepted.

RAILROADS DENY GUILT OF CHARGES OF REBATING.

New York, May 14.—Before Judge Chatfield, in the United States circuit court late yesterday, the Great Northern, the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific and the New York, Ontario & Western railways entered pleas of not guilty to the indictments recently returned against them for violation of the Elkins anti-rebating act. The Western Transit company, indicted at the same time for alleged granting of rebates, it is said, will enter its plea later in the week. The Great Northern is charged with granting rebates to the American Sugar Refining company and the other roads with granting rebates on coffee shipments to the Woolson Spice company.

QUADRUPLE CRIME BY A FARMER OF ONTARIO.

The Man From New York

rather than "the man from Missouri" was the one who said "show me" as to life insurance. Everyone knows that the New York Legislature investigated the insurance situation but everyone may not know that the insurance laws of New York are now recognized as the best in the world. Other states will doubtless follow, but New York has led the way in laws made in the interest of the insured.

The Mutual Life Insurance Company

operates under these laws. Its policies have the state's approval. It is withal a mutual company belonging to its policy holders and they must therefore participate in the vast savings and economies which have been put into effect by the new management. Things are bound to be good for the Mutual Life policy holder.

The Time to Act is NOW.

WANTS THE BUSINESS

Company Will Operate Owl Cars if Patronage is Shown.

Later Night Service Will be Given Under New Schedules.

"The Duluth Street Railway company is after business, and any time it can be shown to us that there would be any reasonable amount of patronage for an 'owl car' service, we will gladly furnish it, and nobody need go to the trouble of looking up the ordinances or our franchise to see if the company can be compelled to put on such service," said General Manager Herbert Warren today, when asked concerning the probability of the "owl car" service which has been agitated by some of the people in West Duluth.

"Although I never heard of a city the size of Duluth in which the street railway company ever attempted such service, I desire to say that this company is as anxious to get the nickels as the people are to get the service, and any time it is demonstrated to us that there is a general demand for cars to run until 3 o'clock in the morning.

"The company is not now in condition to attempt the 'owl car' service, for the reason that we would have to keep our plant at the Eleventh avenue station in operation, but just as soon as we are furnished power by the Great Northern Power company, we will be willing to make the experiment, providing there is the demand for the service.

"As a matter of fact the late night cars on our lines are not well patronized. Traffic on the street cars at a late hour is very light, and it is clear to anybody that the company could not afford to run its cars until 3 o'clock in the morning for the sake of accommodating belated passengers, or patrons of our cars who have been out later than usual, and who are not accustomed to travel after midnight.

"The company has been extending gradually the time of its car service until a later hour at night. We expect that when the general change is made in routes and time schedules, which will occur as soon as the Twenty-fourth avenue east line is completed, that the car service will be continued until a later hour at night than it is at the present time.

"The proposed time cards, to go into effect at that time, show that the last car to West Duluth will leave Third avenue west at 1:00 a. m. instead of 12:21 o'clock; the last car will leave West Duluth for down town points at 12:31 a. m. instead of 12:12 o'clock; the last car for Lakeside will leave at 12:32 a. m., instead of 12:11 o'clock; the last car will leave Lakeside at 1:10 a. m., instead of 12:48 o'clock; the last car will leave for Hunters Park and Woodland at 12:17 a. m., instead of 12:06 o'clock; the last car for Twenty-fourth avenue east, on Superior street, will leave Third avenue west at 1:02 a. m., instead of 12:41 o'clock.

"The schedules for the Interstate and for the Fourth street and West Third street lines have not been completed, but it is probable that a corresponding late service will be given on those lines.

"The company has not previously announced these new time cards for the reason that they are not yet complete in all their details. There is not likely to be any changes from the present plans as regards the lines mentioned.

"The new schedules will also provide for more liberal service on Saturday nights when a great many more people are riding than on other nights during the week. On one line, where it has been specially requested, an earlier Sunday morning trip will be provided, but to run the cars on all the lines as early Sunday mornings as on other days seems to be entirely unnecessary and would result in a hardship to the car men.

"As it is now, most of the men are kept out much later Saturday night than on other nights, on extra cars, and Sunday morning is the only morning in the week when they have a chance to get an extra hour of sleep.

"Travel on Sunday morning is very light up to church time. Few people are moving about the streets of Duluth early Sunday mornings and the present service, which is started an hour later Sunday morning, than on week days, is little more than a procession of empty cars up to 9:30 or 10 o'clock in the morning.

"We desire to be as accommodating as is consistent, but do not think it would be reasonable to ask conductors and motormen to start the cars at 5:30 o'clock Sunday mornings, after they have worked late Saturday night, and when there would be nobody to ride on such early cars."

STERN STEPS IN INDIA DEFENDED BY BRITISH.

London, May 14.—The secretary of state of India, Mr. Morley, in the house of commons yesterday, confirmed the press reports of the grave conditions in India and justified the arrest and deportation of agitators against whom there were not sufficient grounds to place them on trial before the courts. He added that he disliked to adopt such measures, but they must be judged from the standpoint of the emergency and the risk of life.

ELLEN TERRY'S FRIENDS REJOICE AT WEDDING.

London, May 14.—Ellen Terry, the eminent actress, returned yesterday from the United States and was met by a crowd of friends at the dock, congratulated on her marriage to James Carew, her leading man, and presented with a handsome bouquet of flowers. She was in the best of health and spirits and enthusiastic concerning the American tour, but she expressed the wish that her marriage be treated as a private affair.

SHOW LACK OF INTEREST

People Manifest Little Concern Over Naval Recruiters' Success.

Local Officials Point Out Many Inducements of Service.

In the opinion of the local recruiting officers the Duluth people and Northern Minnesotans in general are not showing enough interest in the success of the naval station established here last fall for the purpose of enlisting recruits, and are not showing the interest they should considering that the government is spending large sums every year to maintain a training ship at the Head of the Lakes and to keep up the naval militia company.

Plans are even now being matured which will make the Great Lakes one of the centers of the naval training work and at Lake Bluff, near Chicago, the government will probably locate the fourth naval training station in the United States.

On this account it is maintained by the government officials and recruiting agents that the people on the Great Lakes should take more interest in the naval enlistments and the young men of serviceable age should be better informed of the conditions of service on the high seas and of the advantages offered those who are qualified to enlist.

That the government needs young men and wants the best, is certain. Today skilled workmen are wanted—machinists, blacksmiths, electricians, carpenters, painters, plumbers and shipwrights—while the clerical side offers opportunities for bookkeepers, stenographers and the general office of the private clerk. One of the most attractive openings is that which exists for drug clerks and graduate physicians, for which many vacancies exist.

But while the skilled workers are needed the government is quite willing to train its own men, taking them callow and inexperienced and putting them through a four months' course in a naval training school, where besides the art of seamanship they are trained along the manual of scientific lines to which they seem individually fitted. Incidentally the beginner receives $16 a month while his education is in progress, his bed and board and an initial suit of sea clothes.

Under the old order of things, brawn counted for more than brains, but it is different now, and headwork is at a premium. Each man has to be a specialist, for the complicated machinery and electrical appliances of modern men-of-war require experts in their handling. In 1902 an artificers' school of the navy was established in Norfolk, Va., and a naval constructor, a chief carpenter and five practical civilian mechanics placed at its head. The blacksmiths, carpenters, shipwrights, electricians and many others are turned out and after their enlistment is over can go out into the world with a trade well learned.

The initial salary of the naval applicant varies from $16 to $65, the former being received by the novice and the latter going to the man who is already skilled. As a field for young men to enter and work up in, the liberal chances for promotion must be considered, and the fact that after a certain number of years' service the seaman is pensioned for life.

Married Women

Every woman covets a shapely, pretty figure, and many of them deplore the loss of their girlish forms after marriage. The bearing of children is often destructive to the mother's shapeliness. All of this can be avoided, however, by the use of Mother's Friend before the baby comes, as this great liniment always prepares the body for the strain upon it, and preserves the symmetry of her form. Mother's Friend overcomes all the danger of child-birth, and carries the expectant mother safely through this critical period without pain. It is women's greatest blessing. Thousands gratefully tell of the benefit and relief derived from the use of this wonderful remedy. Sold by all druggists at $1.00 per bottle. Government Seeks to Acquire Lot on West First Street.

St. Paul, May 14.—Within thirty days the federal government expects to be in possession of the land for the site for the new postoffice at Duluth. Paul E. Ewert, assistant United States attorney, yesterday made out the papers for condemnation proceedings for purchase by the government of lot 57, block 29, Duluth. This lot is owned by Charles S. Sergeant and is the only lot wanted by the government for the new federal building, on which a purchase price could not be agreed. The owner demanded $15,500. The government refused to stand for this figure, and on the ground that it is unreasonable, the condemnation proceedings are commenced. Sergeant is a resident of the Klondike and as a result it is probable that service can be had on him in the legal action only by right of publication. Mr. Ewert says negotiations are about to be closed by the government with the owners of lots 51, 58 and 59, which with lot 57, all in block 29, will make up the sight for the government building. There is $125,000 appropriated for the new building, this figure including the cost of the site.

'ASK THE MAN BEHIND THE CASE'

MYERS HAS KEPT DARK

Nothing Has Been Heard From Minneapolis Wrestler.

Bout With Milton Has Not Been Definitely Arranged.

What has become of Frank Myers? Over two weeks ago, while he was in Duluth, the little Minneapolis wrestler agreed to meet George Milton, the local midget, but since he returned to Minneapolis not a word has been heard from him and local followers of the wrestling game are wondering if he intends to sign articles or not.

It is believed by some that Myers is only awaiting overtures from the local promoters, when he will come to time. He has confidence in his ability to dispose of Milton and there is no doubt that he and the local man would put up a corking good match. If the fight is to be put on soon, it is time articles were signed and some definite arrangements made, so Mr. Myers will be asked to come to the mark very shortly.

Duluth sports would like to see the bantam headspinners get together. They are both fast and know the game, so they can be depended upon to give the spectators a speedy mix for their money. Since Myers agreed to meet him, Milton has been training and he is now in good shape. If the match comes off, he will go on the mat weighing about 117 pounds and Myers will scale about 121.

The promoters of the match are talking of arranging it for some night the week after next. Next week will be the final one of the series at the Metropolitan opera house and that playhouse is the most available place for the match. It would be advisable to have the match come off the week after the closing of the house, as the theater management would be in better shape to care for it before the dismantling of the house begins. Both Myers and Milton have expressed a willingness to go on for a percentage of the house, providing they do not go on the same night that there is a theatrical performance. They will undoubtedly have a good crowd, as wrestling has a strong hold in Duluth and the men are of high class.

The wrestling bill for the Met next Friday has not yet been arranged, but it is believed Charlie Jones and Dick Johnson will go on. The men are anxious to meet, and as the season of the Met is closing, an opportunity will probably be given them to decide superiority this week.

SAY CROWD INTERFERED

High School Boys Complain of Deal at Superior.

The supporters and members of the baseball team of the Central high school are complaining of the action of the crowd, which attended the game with Blaine last Saturday at Superior, when Duluth lost by a score of 5 to 4. They claim that they would have had a much better chance to win the game, had the spectators not crowded around the diamond and interfered with the catcher and the other players.

"I don't want to appear to display a spirit of peevishness over our defeat, but I contend that we did not get a sportsmanlike deal from the crowd which attended the Blaine game," said Captain Cole. "The crowd refused to keep back from the lines and anybody who has played a game under such conditions knows what a handicap it is too good a team from the home team. Dickson was hit hard with men on bases. The locals fielded poorly. Score:

TO CONDEMN SITE.

Government Seeks to Acquire Lot on West First Street.

St. Paul, May 14.—Within thirty days the federal government expects to be in possession of the land for the site for the new postoffice at Duluth. Paul E. Ewert, assistant United States attorney, yesterday made out the papers for condemnation proceedings for purchase by the government of lot 57, block 29, Duluth. This lot is owned by Charles S. Sergeant and is the only lot wanted by the government for the new federal building, on which a purchase price could not be agreed. The owner demanded $15,500. The government refused to stand for this figure, and on the ground that it is unreasonable, the condemnation proceedings are commenced. Sergeant is a resident of the Klondike and as a result it is probable that service can be had on him in the legal action only by right of publication. Mr. Ewert says negotiations are about to be closed by the government with the owners of lots 51, 58 and 59, which with lot 57, all in block 29, will make up the sight for the government building. There is $125,000 appropriated for the new building, this figure including the cost of the site.

AMONG THE AMATEURS.

Games Played by the Duluth Corner Lotters.

The Larson druggists defeated the Fedji Clothing company's team Sunday by a score of 22 to 3. The feature of the game was the pitching of McKinnin, who struck out fifteen men and allowed but three hits. The lineup follows:

Druggists.	Position.	Fedji
Peterson	Shortstop	O. Peterson
LaClaire	Center	Snellman
McKinnon	Pitcher	Anderson
Ralph	Second base	Nordstrom
Young	Right field	Olson
Konoski	Third base	McIntyre
LaSalle	First base	E. Peterson
Whittle	Center field	Wickstrom

The druggists would like to hear from any other baseball team in or out of the city.

The Red Sox defeated the West Duluth Stump Jumpers Sunday by a score of 7 to 6. The feature of the game was the heavy hitting of the Red Sox. Lindberg and Peterson formed the battery for the Red Sox and Johnson and Johnson for West Duluth.

The Columbia ball team opened the season by defeating the fast Duluth Reds Sunday by a score of 13 to 8. The feature of the game was the batting of the Columbias in the seventh inning, when they batted Freddie Hansen, the Reds' pitcher, out of the box.

CULLED FROM THE SCORE BOOK.

Helding, who played a good game in the field and behind the bat for Duluth last year, is catching for Knox college. He has signed with the Sox and will report about June 1.

The fans are fervently burning incense and sending up earnest supplications that the weather man will turn over a new leaf for Thursday. He has been on a protracted spree and it is time he were taking to the straight and narrow. If the present weather continues and forces a postponement of the opening game, the weather man will be about as popular in Duluth as Emma Goldman in a peace conference.

Ned Rogers, one of Kid Taylor's pitchers, had a contract with Green Bay this year. He reported to Hastings, remained one day, turned around and waked right out again. It is understood the Houghton management has arranged matters satisfactorily with the management of the Wisconsin league team and will be allowed to play Rogers.

The pitching staffs all along the line don't seem to be anything wonderful this year. Nothing else could be expected, for a full staff of classy pitchers, with good men to support them, can't be carried on a salary limit of $1,199. Each team is fortunate if it is able to count one good man in its staff and in that respect, Duluth appears to have a little the start of all of them. Ordinarily there's nothing suggestive of corner lots in the work of Cummings, Treadway, Krick or Haney.

Mike Wotell, who formed the left portion of Glass' invincible outfield last year, is making his mark in the Eastern league. He is fielding brilliantly and hitting like a fiend, and Eastern papers are booking him for the big leagues next year. Connie Mack has farmed Lelivelt to Hartford, in the Connecticut league, and Jesse Becker went from Ned Hanlon's Cincinnati Reds to Atlanta, in the Southern association.

Ed Kippert, who was with Houghton and Calumet last year, is said to have signed with Morrison for the Lethbridge team. Kippert isn't a brilliant fielder, and he has gone back in his hitting in recent years, but he is a consistent player, standing third among the outfielders of the league last year, with a percentage of .967, and hitting .246.

The Calumet Aristocrats have been winning their exhibition games regularly, but thus far a new man named Schroeder, and Roy Newcombe, are the only pitchers who have shown any form. Dun, the Manitoba recruit, whom Herr has on his staff, has been turned over to Mullane.

Myers, Houghton's left fielder, is said to be a wonder, and he is being touted for a place well in the charmed circle of .300 hitters.

It looks as though the opening of the league season in the Copper country, scheduled for Decoration day, will have to be postponed, as the G. A. R. and state military organizations have started a movement to prevent any forms of sports on May 29. They evidently have the people with them, and the Calumet and Houghton teams will probably be compelled to rest.

PANAMA SHOVEL MEN OUT.

Work on Large Part of Canal Stopped by Demand for More Pay.

Panama, May 14.—As the result of a strike of workers on the steam shovels on the canal, only two shovels were worked yesterday between Bas Obispo and Culebra. The shovel men demand $300 per month instead of their present salary of $210. It is not believed the strike will last long, as there seems to be a lack of sympathy with the movement.

NORTHWEST BASEBALL

National Game Will Flourish on Range This Year.

Bemidji Man Refuses to Allow Prairie League to Die.

Baseball is booming on the iron ranges, and this year promises to be one of the best in the history of the game in Northern Minnesota. Hibbing, Virginia, Eveleth, Cloquet, Chisholm and nearly every other town on the range has some sort of a team to represent it on the diamond. The promoters are putting up money to lay out grounds, erect fences and grandstand, and to thoroughly equip their teams, and the game will be conducted this year on a much more extensive scale than ever before.

As for several years past, Hibbing promises to cut some figure, not only on the range, but throughout Minnesota. Judge Brady and the men with him in the enterprise have in recent years made Hibbing known as one of the best baseball towns in the state, and by paying money for good players and gathering strong independent teams together, they have consistently won honors for the town. This year, they already have a long schedule of good games arranged, and Hibbing will see some good baseball. The Houghton Giants of the Northern-Copper Country league are now at the range town, but weather conditions are such that it is doubtful if the two exhibition games scheduled can be played. Next Sunday the Kelley Hardware team, which recently defeated the Duluth White Sox, will make the trip to Hibbing and will endeavor to take the scalps of Brady's nine.

At Cloquet, the Cloquet Baseball association has been organized among some of the leading business men of the town, and steps are now being taken to put a strong team in the field. Joseph O'Neill has been chosen manager and he is to be given a free hand in gathering the nine. A new ball park will be laid out on the grounds of the Northern Lumber company, the company agreeing to furnish the ground and lumber enough for the fence, providing the citizens will raise enough money to build a grandstand. Season tickets for the grounds are being sold at $10 a throw, and it is expected no trouble will be experienced in raising the requisite amount of money.

A dispatch from Bemidji says that despite the general impression prevailing that the proposed Prairie league would not go through, it is still believed in that town that the league will be a go. Judging from he interviews given out, W. J. Price, erstwhile president of the Northern-Copper Country league was thought to be the prime mover in the attempt to organize the Prairie league and when he announced that all negotiations were off it was taken for granted that the announcement was final. F. S. Lycan of Bemidji refuses to concede to Mr. Price the honor of being the father of the movement, and in a recent interview he said:

"Judging by the last letter given out by W. J. Price of Fargo, who has been very active in assisting the promoters of the league, that there was no interest being taken in the league at Grand Forks, I am rather inclined to the belief that the Forks will yet come into line. That city has always been to the front in baseball matters and is considered one of the fastest ball towns in the Northwest. Relative to the statement that Sunday ball would no be tolerated in East or West Grand Forks, I believe that the boys over on the Ruby will find a way around that also by playing outside the limits of either city.

"Bemidji is waiting for the final effort to place the matter before the Forks people in its true light before withdrawing from the organization. The league as proposed would be compact and easily handled and there is no reason why good ball could not be given the fans in all the cities of the league at comparatively small expense. We shall not give up the league proposition until the Grand Forks matter has been more thoroughly canvassed."

SHE WANTS TO BE REVENGED

Mrs. Howard Gould Will Bring a Suit for Separation.

New York, May 14.—Mrs. Howard Gould will begin this week suit for separation from her husband. It is not unlikely that there will be a public trial. Elements are involved that are absent from the majority of domestic agreements to disagree. Mrs. Gould seeks vindication. She feels that she has been greatly wronged by her husband's family; that they have cast aspersions upon her that only a trial in the open will clear away. Besides, there is revenge as a motive. Mrs. Gould, it is said, desires revenge not only upon them, but on her husband. By suing for a separation instead of divorce, she seeks to retain her rights as Howard Gould's wife and the interest which those rights give her in his immense estate. Such a cause will also keep Mr. Gould a married man.

Mr. Gould's attitude, as indicated by his personal attorney, Delafley Nicoll, last night, is to fight whatever action Mrs. Gould might bring. Mr. Nicoll declared that he knew nothing about the suit; that no papers had been served on him or his client.

"When anything happens," said Mr. Nicoll, "then we will fight. We will do our fighting in the courts and not in the newspapers. Not I have heard nothing about the nature of the charges that Mrs. Gould makes, and I don't know if Mr. Gould has."

Many allegations of misconduct will be made by Mrs. Gould, but names of corespondents will not be mentioned unless she is forced to bring them out. In her complaint they will be designated as "X, Y or Z," or by as many other letters as it is found necessary to employ.

A friend of Mrs. Gould said it had been the original purpose to begin the suit today, but several matters had developed that it would be necessary to embody in the complaint, and filing of the suit, had been postponed until Thursday.

HUNDRED CARS RUN IN FRISCO

Small Riots Frequent—Governor to Keep Watch All Summer.

San Francisco, May 14.—One hundred cars, manned by 350 strike-breakers, were operated yesterday from 8 a. m. until 4 and 7 p. m., on six of the twenty odd lines of the United Railroads. There were scores of acts of individual violence, but no riot beyond the ability of the police.

President Calhoun of the United Railroads said yesterday: "I shall not take back any striking motorman or conductor unless he first surrenders his union card and signs a contract to remain a non-union man so long as he remains in the company's employment. If any non-union men are attacked and their lives endangered, and police protection is not afforded, I shall exercise a constitutional right and arm them. I shall not stand by and see my crews beaten up."

Governor Gillette informed the newspaper men that he would maintain staff headquarters here all summer. "The state," said he, "will not withdraw its eye from San Francisco until this trouble is fully over. I go to Sacramento Thursday, but it is only a couple of hours ride, and I shall be at all times in close touch with Adjt.-Gen. Lauck, who will remain here in charge of staff headquarters."

COREY WEDS MISS GILMAN

Early Morning Ceremony to Avoid Ill Luck of Thirteenth.

Royal Suite of Hotel Gotham Lavishly Decorated for Service.

New York, May 14.—In order to escape the unlucky thirteenth of the month, William Ellis Corey, president of the United States Steel corporation, and Mabelle Gilman, the former actress, were married at 1:24 o'clock this morning in the royal suite at the Hotel Gotham, in the presence of a small party of friends of the contracting couple. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. L. Clark, pastor of the Bushwick Avenue Congregational church of Brooklyn.

Crowds of people gathered about and in the hotel in the vain hope of catching some fleeting glimpse of the wedding party, but detectives were on guard, and none pentrated to the royal suite, on the third floor.

The salon and dining rooms were decorated last night with hundreds of American beauty roses, that cost $5,000, and the banquet was one of the most sumptuous ever served in this city. The guests assembled in a small reception room in the suite and at 11 o'clock entered the dining room, where the wedding supper was served. The hall way was fringed on both sides with potted palms, dressed with sprays of dogwood and snowballs, while the reception room was adorned with great vases filled with American beauty roses and sprays of cherry blossoms and dogwood.

In the dining room was a great square table, in the center of which was a bank of pink roses, with sprays of lilies of the valley, woven around at the base, the whole edged around with broad bands of pink ribbon. Here and there, nestling among the flowers, were tiny China cupids and miniature China wedding bells. From the corners of the room were swung festoons of smilax, intermingled with pink roses.

After the supper was over, the party, led by Mr. Corey and his bride, passed down the hall to the double salon, which was decorated to represent a small church. Broad white ribbons, attached to small white posts, formed an aisle down the center of the room, on either side of which were the chairs for those invited to witness the ceremony. At the head of the aisle was a small white altar, before which was a prie dеu, covered with white silk, at which the couple knelt during the ceremony. On each side of the altar rose a white column, the two being joined by an arch, with hundreds of orchids. From the center of the arch hung a large wedding bell of lilies of the valley.

There was no music during the evening and there were no bridesmaids, Miss Gilman being attended only by Miss Frances Erskine Shaw of London. Mr. Corey was unattended.

Miss Gilman wore an empire gown of white crepe de chine, the skirt of which was trimmed with garlands of embroidered wild roses. The bodice was trimmed with point-a-d'aiguille lace caught up with trails of embroidered roses. The bridal veil was of hand made tulle, four yards square, edged with point-a-d'aiguille lace.

After the wedding, Mr. Corey and his bride took an automobile and were whirled away to Hoboken, where they boarded the steamer Kaiser Wilhelm II, which sailed at 7:30 o'clock this morning. They occupy the captain's suite, which had been specially fitted up for the trip. Mr. Corey was attended by a valet and Mrs. Corey by a maid. The pair will dine in their own rooms, and arrangements have been made that they will not be subjected to the observations of the ship's passengers unless they desire to mingle with them. They will proceed to Paris and will then go to the Chateau Genis, twenty-five miles from Paris, where the honeymoon will be passed. They expect to remain there until they return to America, about the middle of July.

Mr. Corey's only gift to his bride was the Chateau Genis.

The guests at the wedding were: Mrs. Jeanette Gilman, mother of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Thomas of McKeesport, Pa., brother-in-law and sister of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Peck of Gloversville, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Alfred A. Corey, father and mother of the groom, of Braddock, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Corey of Donore, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Stanley Riggs of New York, brother-in-law and sister of the groom; Judge and Mrs. Elbert H. Gary of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Alva Dinkey of Pittsburg; James Gaylor of New York; Alfred Carr of New York; Charles W. Baker of New York; W. S. McCormick of New York; George M. Woolsey of New York; D. G. Kerr of Pittsburg; Lieutenant Commander Cleland Davis, U. S. N.; Frank Mayer of Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. John Bennett Meehan of New York, and J. H. Slocum, Mr. Corey's secretary.

MAYOR OUTLINES HIS PLANS FOR PARK SYSTEM

Asks Council to Spend $50,000 in Purchasing Land.

The Lester River Proposition is Laid Before Aldermen.

In a communication to the council last evening, Mayor Cullum, after pointing out New York's necessity for parks and playgrounds, which recently compelled the city to pay $1,000,000 per acre for land for playgrounds within her boundaries, and referring in glowing terms to the era of prosperity which is about to come upon Duluth, earnestly recommend that the city council appropriate $50,000 in park bonds, as permitted under an act of the last legislature, and expend it at once for procuring and improving park lands in the city.

The purchase of the land belonging to the Lakeside Land company, abutting upon Lester Park, by one of Duluth's public-spirited citizens, was related in the communication, and his offer to the park board, by which he placed the land, or any portion of it, at the disposal of the city at a reasonable price, was also outlined. The mayor also reported the success of his efforts in securing the money towards the purchase of the Lake Shore park, $10,000 having been subscribed by men of means, according to the communication.

The Communication.

The communication, which was referred to the committees on harbors, parks and roads and finance by President Tessman, is as follows:

"It is a matter of general knowledge that American cities are awakening to the importance of initiating and developing some harmonious system of parks, boulevards, playgrounds and public buildings, for the purpose of beautifying their surroundings. Cities that have neglected this matter in the past are now paying fabulous sums of money to acquire the ground necessary for the carrying out of such schemes. As high as $1,000,000 of an acre has been paid in the city of New York to secure plots for children's playgrounds.

"Many of our people have been urging our park board to take advantage of present conditions to secure the necessary ground while it may be had at reasonable figures, not only to provide for the present, but for the future.

"Minneapolis and St. Paul have already spent millions upon their park systems. They have petitioned the legislature for a law permitting them to spend at least $500,000 more. Such a bill has been passed, permitting each city of over 50,000 inhabitants to issue bonds to the extent of $50,000 a year for the next six years, to be expended for this purpose.

"The city of Duluth, up to this date, has issued $312,000 worth of park bonds. It has acquired by purchase, aside from the boulevard, about 200 acres. About ninety acres have been donated. Upwards of a half million dollars has been expended in purchasing and maintaining these lands. The real value of our park holdings today is probably near the $2,000,000 mark.

System Not Complete.

"The system is not yet complete, however, and much of our park lands is in an unimproved condition. It is my opinion, and the opinion of many Duluthians, that money could be expended at the present time to great advantage along this line. We are on the threshold of great prosperity. Naturally the unoccupied territory will advance in price. Therefore additional park room, and especially playgrounds for the little people, should be purchased; playgrounds where children could be entertained, where gymnasiums may be established, or bathing pools could be provided. This, especially in the thickly settled portions, where the poorer people dwell, and have not the means of amusement or room for playgrounds that the more favored portions of the city have. This, I think, the most important part of the scheme to be considered.

Large Parks Needed.

"Several large parks, with a connecting boulevard, and a great number of smaller parks and playgrounds seems to be the desirable thing. Speaking of larger parks, the park board and citizens in general have been lamenting for years the fact that we could not obtain a larger park in the neighborhood of Lester river. After several years of negotiations with the Lakeside Land company and with the assistance of a public-spirited citizen who does not care to have his name used, we are now in a position to secure the necessary land for a beautiful park. The above mentioned citizen, having purchased outright practically all of the Lakeside Land company's unplatted land, has placed any portion of it at the disposal of the park board on the most reasonable terms. Citizens of means have contributed about $10,000 toward the purchase of the Lake Shore park. The title to this land will be secured in a very short time. Fairmount park in West Duluth, with the expenditure of a small amount of money, could be made for West Duluth what Lincoln and Lester parks are for the other portions of the city. And it is the declared intention of the park board, in case these bonds are issued, to spend for playgrounds and the improvements of parks already owned, west of the Point of Rocks, as much, if not more, than for east of that point.

"It is somewhat difficult to go into the details of a scheme of this nature without a thoughtful investigation as to the needs of the various localities. Nothing will be done in haste, but the welfare of all the various divisions of the city will be considered in the general scheme. I, therefore, have to recommend that your committee on parks meet with the park board, at your earliest convenience, and discuss the matter, which I hope will result in the passing of an ordinance authorizing the issuing of $50,000 worth of bonds to be expended for the purposes named above."

The mayor also submitted a communication announcing that he had appointed Daniel G. Cash, R. B. Knox and F. D. Adams to succeed themselves on the library board and that S. J. Nygren had been appointed to succeed M. M. Clark, resigned. This selection was approved by the council.

The Point of Rocks Again.

The proposition introduced by Alderman Shartel last evening in regard to taking some of the overhanging rock from the Point of Rocks at Thirteenth avenue west and placing it on the lake shore on lower St. Croix avenue and moving an appropriation for his purpose, stirred up a rather warm fight in the council with the result that at the next meeting the aldermen will receive a report from the finance committee as to the condition of the permanent improvement fund and will carefully go over and plan for the season's expenditures.

This move was recommended by Alderman Wilson who pointed out that if they spent their money indiscriminately for small things they would have no money left for the big things. He also said that the council should, if it found a dangerous condition of affairs at Thirteenth avenue west, put it up to the conference committee to make a bigger appropriation for this purpose, and thus shift the responsibility where it belongs. He said that he did not think it was right that the council should be crushed between two mill stones as it were, the need for improvement and the lack of funds as provided by the committee.

Alderman Shartel withdrew his motion for one week until the report from the committee should have been received, but both he and Aldermen Burgess and Kennedy strongly emphasized their belief that the danger at Thirteenth avenue west was an imminent one.

Deadlock Continues.

Noble Sampson is due to hold the office of sealer of weights and measures for three months longer at least, and it looks as if he would draw his salary in this position during the rest of the year without being elected. This was brought about by a motion of Alderman Foubister of the Republican forces to postpone the election ninety days. He pointed out that they were spending time every meeting uselessly in taking votes on the election and that the official printing was costing the city considerable amounts on this item. Aldermen Fillatrault and Tessman of the Longmuir forces voted with the Republicans to set it over and this swung the balance in favor of the Republican candidate nine to six.

Danger at Ore Docks.

The danger of the present practice of the street car company in stopping its cars beneath the ore docks on the West Duluth and East end line was pointed out by Alderman Getchell and he moved that they be requested not to stop cars under the docks nor within twenty-five feet of them. Alderman McEwen said that he thought the position would be equally dangerous for teams and recommended that the motion should also request the D. M. & N. railway to erect a suitable shield beneath its tracks at this point. It was so amended, and passed without opposition.

Alderman Getchell also introduced a motion requesting the city engineer to make the necessary surveys and to report a plat showing the most suitable line for a street car extension to Bay View Heights from the present terminus of the Fifty-seventh avenue line.

Paving Petition In.

The long delayed Oneota and Ramsey street paving petition was submitted to the council last evening, the West Duluth Land company, by O. H. Simonds, secretary, being the principal signers. The petition provides for the paving of Oneota street from Forty-sixth avenue west to its intersection with Ramsey street and for the paving of Ramsey street from that point to Central avenue. The petition was referred to the board of public works for examination and they will report on it next week.

The old question of a city electrician was brought up by Alderman McEwen last evening at the request of the board of public works who wanted instruction on the subject. The council requested the board to employ a man skilled in electricity as a clerk in its office with a list of duties which would be sufficient in keeping a man busy for a goodly portion of the day and night.

An ordinance extending the fire limits from Second alley to Second street between Third and Fifth avenues west was given its first reading last evening. The ordinance was introduced with a view to protecting the new courthouse building.

The board of public works was authorized to employ an architect for the purpose of making designs for the West end police station at a cost not to exceed 5 per cent of the total cost of the structure.

The action of the board of public works in awarding the contract for paving Jefferson street to P. McDonnell for $27,754 was approved.

SAYS SHE MADE SOUP FROM SWILL

Woman Makes the Foregoing Allegation in Divorce Complaint.

Oakland, Cal., May 14.—That he compelled her to make soup for herself and her two children out of the swill that he gathered for his pigs is one of the allegations of cruelty that Mrs. Rosa Jaeger makes against Rudolph Jaeger in a divorce action that she began today. Jaeger is a Berkeley farmer. Mrs. Jaeger also accuses him of making her get up at 4 o'clock in the morning and work. On April 11, she says, he tried to induce her to give him money to buy a ranch in Lake county, and when she refused, beat her until she was unconscious. Judge Waste granted her a restraining order prohibiting her husband from disposing of any of his property pending the trial of the divorce action.

MILLIONAIRE CUTS OFF SON.

Waring, Hat Manufacturer, Gives no Reason in Will for Act.

Mount Vernon, N. Y., May 14.—The will of Charles E. Waring, millionaire hat manufacturer of Yonkers, which was filed in the Westchester county surrogate's office at White Plains, cuts off Mr. Waring's son, Chester C. Waring, with only a monthly allowance of $75, while two other sons inherit the bulk of the estate after the death of their mother. Mr. Waring was a brother of John T. Waring, who died about two months ago in Yonkers, leaving an estate valued at about $6,000,000.

The value of the estate of the latest member of the Waring family to die is not given, but it is estimated that he left between $8,000,000 and $10,000,000. Why the testator cut off his son Chester with a small allowance is not given in Mr. Waring's will, which, after giving $1,000 to his niece, Aurella Newman, bequeaths the entire estate to his wife, Julia Waring.

MOYER'S NAME NOT LISTED.

Western Federation President First Employed in South Dakota in 1888.

St. Paul, May 14.—A Deadwood, S. D., special to the Pioneer Press says: "The records of the Castle Chief Mining company, for which Charles H. Moyer claims to have worked during 1886-87, during which time he is alleged to have been in the penitentiary at Joliet, have been located. Harry Gregg, former superintendent, says that his records are intact and Moyer's name first appears Sept. 18, 1888. There is nothing in the records to show that he was in the company's employ in either 1886 or 1887."

BANKERS TO ORGANIZE

Those of Eighth Congressional District Are Forming Association.

First Meeting Will Soon be Held in This City.

An organization of bankers of the Eighth congressional district of Minnesota is about to be inaugurated along the same lines as bankers of other congressional districts are already organized. It is expected that practically all of the bankers in the district will become members of the organization. There are sixty-five banks in the Eighth district and the officials who have already been invited to join are sending in favorable responses. At present the Eighth district is a part of the Ninth district and the annual meeting of the bankers will be held at Fergus Falls on May 24.

A meeting for the purpose of organizing the new Eighth district organization will probably be called in the near future. It will be held in Duluth.

IOWA MARRYING JUDGE

Demands Pledge Not to Seek Divorce When Tying Knots.

Des Moines, Iowa, May 14.—Judge Zell Roe has sprung a sensation with a divorce-proof ceremony which is proving very popular to those tender lovers who cannot see through the early wedded bliss to the clouds beyond. Judge Roe has added these sentences to his ceremony:

"You, Mary, solemnly agree that you will never bring an action for divorce against John except for a statutory offense?"

There has not yet been a single answer in the negative to this question either from the blushing bride or the backward bridegroom.

"It may help to hold them together," said the judge, discussing his new ceremony. Another thing I do, and that is to agree that if a divorce suit is brought while I am living I will return the fee given me for the marriage half to each principal. I will then get down on my knees and ask God to forgive me for ever tying the knot in the first place."

That Judge Roe has set people to thinking on the divorce question is shown by the fact that one man put up $100 cash with the court as a guarantee that he would never ask for a divorce as long as he lived on any charge. The money is to be returned in ten years if the couple are still married; if not, it is to be given by the court to worthy poor.

RAILROAD DEAL HOTLY SCORED

Purchase by Delaware & Hudson of Traction Line Called "Tainted."

New York, May 14.—An attack on the management of the Delaware & Hudson Railroad company because of its recent purchase of street railway property and of coal lands and increase in dividends was made at today's meeting of the stockholders, following a request by Former Judge Cowing of this city for details of the purchase of the Hudson Valley railway.

The chairman replied that the plans for the purchase of the railway were not consummated until after the close of the last fiscal year and consequently the details do not appear in the report for that year.

Judge Cowing asked who authorized and who profited by the purchase. He declared that the company had no business to go into tractions and that the whole deal was tainted with graft. The Hudson Valley property, which was purchased for $5,000,000, he characterized as "a bankrupt road not worth $2,000,000."

Chairman Leree replied that he was not familiar with the terms or details of the purchase of this property, as the deal was made before he became connected with the company.

WHOLESALE DELIVERY

Grant and McAuley Planned to Free All Prisoners.

McAuley the Most Wanted, is Still at Large.

Sheriff Berg arrived home this morning from Eau Claire, Wis., bringing N. Grant, one of the prisoners who escaped from the Douglas county jail last Thursday night. GGrant was captured by the Eau Claire police and held for the arrival of the sheriff. Grant, who is under sentence to the state reformatory for robbery, will be sent to that institution as soon as possible.

James McAuley, the other prisoner, who escaped with Grant, has not yet been captured. He was the most wanted of the two, as he was awaiting trial on a charge of assault and robbery. Grant states that he and McAuley made a hole through which they escaped in two hours, with the intention of having a wholesale delivery. The other prisoners lost their nerve and did not leave with the two. Grant says he doesn't know where McAuley is, as they separated as soon as they were free.

STORM PLAYED HAVOC.

Superior Was in Darkness After Midnight This Morning.

The storm which raged last night did considerable damage in Superior in the way of blowing down trees and causing confusion in the electric systems. HAD NARROW ESCAPE.

Freight Engine Missed Car by Slight Margin.

While a car containing ten lady school teachers, en route to Billings Park, was crossing the tracks of the Northern Pacific railroad yesterday, a freight engine almost collided with it. There are two tracks at that point, the South Shore and the Northern Pacific. The conductor leaves the car to see if the coast is clear, and signals the motorman whether to proceed or remain stationary. The South Shore tracks were crossed safely, and the car stopped before the Northern Pacific tracks. The conductor signaled not to move, but the motorman either misunderstood, or didn't see the signal, for he went ahead. A freight engine bore down on the car and missed the rear by the barest margin. A communication will be presented to the council, stating that the crossing is unsafe, and some means should be provided to safeguard the people.

WILL EXTEND LINE.

Street Railway Company Will Run Cars to Allouez.

The street railway company has submitted to the board of public works, in Superior, its plans for an extension to Allouez bay from the present terminus of its line to the Nemadji river; and there is excellent prospect that the work will be completed not later than next fall.

The company has asked the right to occupy a large portion of Cass avenue, where it proposes to make a loop. The board of public works deferred action in the matter until Thursday next.

The company proposes to extend its line across the Nemadji river bridge on East Fourth street, thence northeast on Cass avenue to the loop.

It is claimed that the bridge has been strengthened by new stringers and other material and put in shape for the laying of steel and it is believed that the work will be started as soon as the plans are agreed on by the company and the city.

A. H. Overman, who was formerly in partnership with Emil A. Tessman in the egg and produce business, has sued Mr. Tessman for $111.57 in an action brought for an accounting of the partnership. Mr. Overman claims that he paid to Mr. Tessman, at the latter's request, the sum of $244.57, which Mr. Tessman said was due him according to the books of account. Mr. Overman claims that he has made an examination of the books and finds there is no evidence of any money due Mr. Tessman, and that the latter owes him $200 for money loaned.

Starts Second Suit.

Albert Arseneau, a resident of West Duluth, has started a damage suit against the street railway company to recover for the alleged loss of services of his son, who was injured while catching on the front end of a moving car some time ago. As the boys' guardian, Arseneau started suit against the company to recover damages for the boy, but the jury held that the company was not liable. Under the laws of this state it seems that the action of the former jury does not bar the parent for starting a second damage action for loss of services.

ESTIMATES ON SIXTEENTH AVE.

Grade May be Too Great For Tar Macadam.

The city engineer this morning completed estimates as to the cost of paving Sixteenth avenue east from London Road to Sixth street and submitted them to the board of public works which arranged for advertisement for bids for the work at its meeting yesterday.

Three propositions are being considered. One is a plain tar macadam paving the whole length of the improvement and the engineers have estimated the cost of this to be about $18,950. The second is a plain sandstone paving of the same kind that has been laid on the avenues in the main part of the city. The cost of this is estimated at $24,000, and it is thought that the grade which is especially steep in portions of the avenue might necessitate a pavement affording a better foothold than the tar macadam.

The promoters of the third plan think they have a cheaper proposition than this however, and that is to lay a strip of sandstone up the middle of the driveway, eight feet in width. It is argued that this would afford a good foothold for up going teams while the tar macadam would be all right for teams going down hill. This will cost about $20,630, according to the estimate.

A plan to still further cheapen the cost of this feature of the improvement has also been advanced and is said to meeting with considerable approval among the city engineers. That is to confine the sandstone strip to two blocks of the steepest grade between Second and Fourth streets, as it is claimed that the grade on the other five blocks of the improvement is not steep enough to necessitate the extra footing for teams. No estimate has been made on the cost of this method.

NOTED LUTHERAN DIVINE PASSES TO REST IN IOWA

Waverly, Iowa, May 14.—The Right Rev. John Diendorfer, one of the founders and late president of the Evangelical Lutheran synod of Iowa and other states, died at his home here today, aged 79 years. Up to the time of his death he was editor of the Kirchenblatt, the official organ of the synod, published in this city.

THE OBLIVION OF FAME.

Outlook: The Spectator was not the only man in Baltimore that day who lay under the reproach of never having seen the Poe monument. Old Baltimoreans, Johns Hopkins, professors and policemen alike looked vaguely pained when appealed to for direction. "Oh! yes, certainly," they said. "He's buried somewhere about. The school teachers put up a monument." The Spectator could have told them so much himself. He began to fear that the great Poe might have wiped out the last visible trace of Poe. It was a young English woman, a student in John Hopkins' medical school, who finally furnished a clue. "I'm here," said she, "that you'll find it in the churchyard at Westminster church." "And Poe," the Spectator murmured with a shiver of repugnance. "Is he in there?" "In there? Yes; but luckily not in the cellarage. He is out in the sunshine behind the church." At this juncture the janitor appeared in response to the shakings at the gate. And sulky enough he looked when he recognized the Spectator. His answer was as short as before—the churchyard was not shown. "But," said the lady, firmly, "I have ancestors buried in that churchyard." The man hesitated. "What names?" said he. The lady mentioned two which fell meaningless upon the Spectator's Northern ear, but which bowed that janitor in the dust before her. Nowhere perhaps in all America is pride of birth stronger than in Maryland. Let those who, like the Spectator, aspire to drop a tear on the grave of Edgar Allen Poe see to it that they get planted conveyed by Baltimoreans of themselves conveyed by Baltimoreans of lineage. For everybody "as is anybody," seems to have at least one family tie with the old graveyard at Westminister church.

AS TO SPINACH.

New York Press: "Ze broom of ze stomach!" exclaims the Parisian. One of the most expert restaurateurs ever turned out by Charles Delmonico (and he turned out many) made a short culinary speech. The most abused of all American dishes is spinach. The French call it "epinards." The favorite breakfast of the Parisian epicure is "oeufs aux epinards"—eggs with spinach. It is the greatest restorer in the world after a night out. While it is not an absorbent like celery, and in no sense a nerve tonic, it is the "vade mecum" of Monsieur Crapaud.

"I see men day after day, when the finest American spinach is set before them, take up a cruet and shake a whole lot of vinegar over it. Now, the very thought of vinegar on spinach is enough to give a man the scurvy. Spinach, properly cooked, is not a salad. It is a sort of vegetable meal. Some epicures like it chopped very fine after boiling, with a few slices of hard-boiled egg on top as a garnishment. Others want it served exactly as it comes out of the pot—hot and natural, like turnip greens or dandelions—and season it with a little salt, pepper and butter. The only trouble with spinach is that it is so hard to clear of the grit the farmers sell with it. As is grows very close to the ground, every shower loads it with mud and sand, which are not good for the appendix verminformis."

Chicago Journal: All the world was sunk in gloom till gradually a rayonnant heralding halo, of a pallid and lustrous green, appeared above the deeply purple summits; in its midst, the yellow moon slowly revealed herself, and with a visible tremulousness rose solemnly into the ascendancy of the night." This is the way a lady novelist has of telling her readers that it is moonlight.

WHEAT MARKET HAS AN EASIER TONE IN AMERICA

Prices Go Off After Strenuous Session of Monday.

Opening Strong in Northwest—Flax Has Good Bulge.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 14.—After yesterday's strenuous bulge, wheat had an easier tone in the American markets toward the latter part of the session and at the close today. Heavy selling and lower cables induced the decline. A rally at the close, however, brought the closing prices almost up to yesterday's. July wheat was unchanged in Chicago, but closed lower elsewhere. The market was very firm at the opening in the Northwest, despite a weakness abroad. The strength here was due to reports of snow in North Dakota and other parts of the spring wheat belt. The foreign markets broke. Liverpool closed 1⅜d to 1½d lower, Paris ¾c to ¾c lower, Berlin 1¼c lower and Budapest ⅝c lower.

The May option closed unchanged in Duluth and St. Louis, ¼c higher in Chicago and Minneapolis, ¼c lower in New York and ⅝c lower in Winnipeg. The September option closed ½-⅝c lower in Kansas City. The July option closed ⅜c lower in Duluth, unchanged in Chicago, ¾c in Minneapolis, New York and St. Louis, ⅛-⅜c in Kansas City and 1½c lower in Winnipeg.

July corn closed ⅛-¼c lower in Chicago and was ½d lower in Liverpool. July oats closed ¼c lower in Chicago.

Car receipts at Duluth were 344 against 113 last year, and at Minneapolis 211 against 52 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 555 against 165 last year. Chicago received 72 against 39 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 625,000 bus, last year 234,000 bus. Shipments 502,000 bus, last year 208,000 bus. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 359,914 bus.

Bradstreet's reports a decrease of 989,000 bus in the world's visible supply of wheat.

Primary receipts of corn were 521,000 bus, last year 301,000 bus. Shipments 376,000 bus, last year 609,000 bus. Clearances of corn were 91,106 bus.

Wheat trading was active throughout the day in the Duluth market. The opening was very strong, on the unfavorable weather reports received from different points in the Northwest. Snow and freezing weather had a bullish effect on the market. However, upon heavy selling and declines abroad, the market became easier.

May wheat was inactive at the opening, sold as high as 99c, went off to 97⅛c and closed at 99c, unchanged from yesterday.

July wheat opened 2c higher at $1.02, declined to 99¼c by 9:43, reacted to 99¾ by 9:51, fell off to 99⅛ by 9:56, rallied to $1.00½ by 10, declined to 98c by 11:04, rallied to 98¾c by 11:09, declined to 98¼c by 11:14, rallied to 99c by 11:30, went off to 98⅛c by 11:46, rallied to 99¾c by 1:04 and closed at 99⅛c, a loss of ⅞c from yesterday.

September wheat opened ¼c higher at $1.00¼ bid, advanced to $1.00⅜, declined to 99½c, reacted to $1.00¼, declined to 97⅝c, rallied to 98¼c, went off to 98c, rallied to 98¾c, declined to 98c, rallied to 99¾c and closed at 99⅝c, a loss of ⅜ from yesterday.

Durum wheat closed ½c lower and cash spring wheat was selling at the July price for No. 1 northern.

Flax trading was active and the closing prices higer. May flax opened ½c higher at $1.26, declined to $1.25⅞, rallied to $1.26½, declined to $1.26, went to $1.26¼ and closed at that price, a gain of ¾c over yesterday. July flax opened unchanged at $1.27¼, advanced to $1.28, declined to $1.27½, rallied to $1.27¾ and closed at that price, a gain of ½c over yesterday. October flax opened ½c higher at $1.27½, advanced to $1.28, declined to $1.27¼, rallied to $1.27½ and closed at that price, a gain of ½c over yesterday.

The coarse grains were unchanged.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Opens Excited, Drops Quite a Bit and Then Recovers in Part.

Chicago, May 14.—The wheat market opened today amid intense excitement with options selling from ⅛c lower to 1⅛c higher than yesterday's close. Weather conditions in the United States and Canada, which caused the sensational advance of the last three days, were still unchangd, freezing temperatures being reported in the Canadian Northwest which will still further delay seeding operations. The Liverpool market, however, was off over a penny from yesterday's close. This decline brought out enormous realizing sales soon after the opening which carried prices down 1c to 3c from the opening quotations. The market then rallied about 1c on a strong buying movement. July opened 1⅛@⅛c to 1⅛@1⅜c higher at 96¼c to 97½c, sold off to 94⅝c and then advanced to 96¼c. September opened ⅛c lower to ⅝c higher at 97½c to 98c and declined to 96c and then rallied to 97c. December at the start was unchanged to ⅜c higher at 99⅛c to 99½c, sold off to 97¾c and then rose again to 98¼c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 627 cars against 591 cars last week and 204 cars a year ago.

Heavy realizing continued to depress prices, until within 30 minutes of the close, when the lowest prices of the day were reached with July at 93¾c, September at 95½@95⅝c and December at 97c. This movement having exhausted itself for the time being, the market reacted on renewed buying and July touched 96c, September 98c and December 98¾c. The close was active and nervous, July being unchanged from yesterday's close at 95⅝@95¾c, September ⅜@⅝c down at 97¼@97¼c and December ⅜@⅝c lower at 98⅜@98¾c.

The corn market opened somewhat firmer because of the initial strength of wheat, but trading was not of large volume. With the break in wheat, corn developed considerable weakness. July opened a shade to ¼@⅜c higher at 52½c to 52¾c and sold off to 52¼@52⅜c. Local receipts were 284 cars with 44 of contract grade.

Corn closed easy, July ¼@¼c down at 52¼c.

There was a good trade in the oats market with the principal business in the September and July options. The market opened firm in sympathy with wheat and later declined when wheat sold off. July opened ¼@⅜c higher at 45c and sold off to 44¾c. Local receipts were 353 cars.

Provisions were weak on selling by local packers who based their action on prospects of increased receipts of live hogs. July pork opened 5c lower at $16.90 and sold off to $16.80. Lard opened 5c to 10c lower at $8.40@8.45 and declined to $8.37½. Ribs sold off to $9.12½ after opening 5c to 7½c lower, at $9.17½ to $9.20.

Close: Wheat—May, 94¾c; July, 95¾@95⅞c. Corn—May, 52⅜@52¼c; July, 52¼c. Oats—May, 45¼c; July, 44¾@44½c. Pork—May, $16.45; July, $16.65. Lard—May, $9.20; July, $9.32½. Ribs—May, $8.98½; July, $9.02½. Rye—Cash, 79c. Barley—Cash, 78@85c. Cash wheat—No. 2 red, 93@94c; No. 3 red, 90@93c; No. 2 hard, 91@93¼c; No. 3 hard, 85@92¾c; No. 1 northern, 99@$1; No. 2 northern, 97@$1; No. 3 spring, 94@99c. Corn—No. 3, 51¼@52¼c.

Broomhall, Liverpool, on wheat: There was a steady tone to wheat at the opening, although values showed declines of ⅛c to ⅝c. Offerings were larger with some pressure to sell, prompted by the disposition displayed on the part of American holders to sell during the late trading yesterday. Following the opening there was a slight rally, prices gaining ¼c with the exception of May wheat, which was under pressure during the entire session. Shorts were anxious to cover to which fact was attributed this fractional advance. Toward noon, however, the market again became easy and values lost ¾c to ⅞c, due to the reports of favorable weather in America, and an abatement in the continental inquiry.

Corn—Corn was steady at the opening with values unchanged. Following the opening the market sold off ¾c in sympathy with the weakness in wheat and a poor demand for spot.

Logan & Bryan, Chicago, to Paine, Webber & Co.: The spirit of profit taking appeared to be abroad in the trade today. This applied to both local and outside holders. The volume of wheat thrown on the market during the morning hours was enormous. Continental markets were also lower. The people who are working for more of a break in the market sent rather better crop dispatches from the Southwest and there was the same disposition in the Northwest to make out that spring had arrived in Manitoba and that there is a chance yet for seeding in that country. Winnipeg authority wired that 75 per cent of the farmers of Manitoba have not started seeding yet and that country has 15 to 20 degrees of frost each night.

Northwest dispatches report snow all over the Red River valley, from three to twelve inches of snow in many parts of Minnesota and the Dakotas. Frost is predicted for tonight as far South as Kansas. Bugs are reported thick as far North as Kearney, Nebraska. The market had the appearance of important buying under cover, which caused the offerings to disappear, and in the end gave the market its quick rally. Regardless of such general profit-taking as noted today, there is but one side to the market, and that decidedly in favor of the buyer on all breaks from whatever cause.

THE BAKER'S DOZEN.

Exchange: The term is much older than the seventeenth century. It took its origin, doubtless in mediaeval London, when bakers sold their bread solely or largely through hucksters, or as we should say today, hawkers. It was the custom of the baker in dealing with the huckster to count thirteen loaves of bread to the dozen. The odd loaf was apparently the huckster's sole profit.

How ancient was this practice may be gathered from the "Liber Albus," or White Book of the City of London, that minute code for the regulation of commercial morality in mediaeval London. Here it is laid down: "That no baker of the town shall give unto regratresses the six-pence on Monday morning by way of hansel-money; but after the ancient manner, let him give thirteen articles of bread for twelve."

The practice of giving thirteen to the dozen has since invaded many other callings, such as the book and newspaper trade, but the ancient trade of the baker may justly claim to have coined a phrase which will live as long as the English language.

WISE YOUNG MAN.

Judge: The young man suddenly moves farther from her and remarks in a conversational tone:

"If a cannon ball were fired from the earth to Alpha Centuri, which is the nearest fixed star, the flash would be seen on that star four years after the gun was fired."

The girl looks at him in bewilderment, but he continues:

"The cannon ball would reach there in 2,000,000 years."

She begins to tremble, thinking his mind is wandering. He goes on:

"And the sound of the explosion would not be heard there for 2,000,000 years after the ball had struck. Isn't science wonderful?"

He moves closer to her, but she asks: "Have you been drinking, Alfred?"

"No, but a moment ago I thought I saw your father tiptoeing through the hall, and I wanted him to understand that I knew a few things about the velocity of sound, sight and projectiles."

The previous conversation is then resumed.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Towards the Close, Which Was Dull and Rather Easy.

Prices Dropped in Late Dealings to Lowest of Day.

New York, May 14.—A wide decline in Canadian Pacific was the feature of the opening dealings in stocks. That stock ran off 2⅝ and there were sharp declines in other speculative favorites. Reading lost 1 and Union Pacific, Northern Pacific and Amalgamated Copper ⅝ each. There were a few points of resistance to the declining tendency, American Smelting rising ¾ and then losing its gain. The market was dull and narrow.

The market commenced to rise almost immediately after the opening on an increasing volume of business. Losses were made up except for Canadian Pacific, and several of the specialties showed strength. Later urgent selling of Canadian Pacific which lowered it 4⅛ below last night weakened the list, the grangers and pacifics falling to the lowest. Great Northern preferred, Central Leather, International Paper preferred and People's Gas gave way a point.

Trading was stagnant for a time but prices weakened again when pressure was renewed on Canadian Pacific. The stock was forced down 5¼. Bonds were heavy.

Partial recoverings from the forenoon losses were made, but the rallies were mostly slight. Delaware & Hudson and Canadian Pacific regained 1⅜, the former after an extreme decline of 2⅝. Stocks ruled firm in the afternoon with some of the early weak features scoring considerable recoveries from the lowest.

The market closed dull and easy. Prices gave way in the late dealings to the lowest of the day. Union Pacific fell 1⅜ and St. Paul 1 . Lake Erie and Western preferred sold at a decline of 2½ and United States Pipe 2⅛.

Stock Gossip.

Walker Brothers to Paine, Webber & Co.: The break in wheat did not have much effect and in the afternoon the market became heavy and sold off. It looks as if we were in for a period of dullness, and there does not seem to be much inducement for the public to go in at all.

* * *

Logan & Bryan to Paine, Webber & Co.: Sentiment was bearish and the weakness in the grain market had no effect on stocks, like yesterday, ruling exactly the opposite from the course traders supposed it would take. Trade today would indicate that the professionals are again in possession of the market and that they are imbued with bearish sentiment. We believe, however, on marked weak spots, the market will do to purchase.

New York Money.

New York, May 14.—Money on call steady 2@3 per cent; ruling rate, 2½ per cent; closing bid 2, offered at 2. Time loans easier; sixty days 4 per cent bid; ninety days, 4@4¼ per cent; six months, 4¾@5 per cent. Prime mercantile paper 5½ per cent. Sterling exchange firm with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.86.20@4.86.25 for demand and at $4.83.30@4.83.35 for 60 day bills; posted rates $4.84 and $4.87; commercial bills, $4.83. Bar silver, 65½c; Mexican dollars, 50¾c. Government bonds steady; railroad bonds heavy.

The Cotton Market.

New York, May 14.—The cotton market opened firm at an advance of 6 to 15 points in response to higher cables and reports of less favorable weather. Trading was very active during the early session and the fluctuations in July were pretty erratic. The first sale of that option was at 10.87 and the third at 10.95, a new high record for the movement and about 14 points higher. Later months were also very nervous and, while the list settled back to a trading level about 6 to 9 points net higher after the first few minutes, shorts were evidently nervous and the undertone was feverish. Liverpool was 2 to 6 points higher at the hour of the local opening. The weather map showed only light precipitation in the western belt, but the early outlook was for future showers and lower temperatures.

Futures closed steady. Closing bids: May, 10.86; June, 10.86; July, 10.90; August, 10.72; September, 10.70; October, 10.88; November, 10.87; December, 10.90; January, 11.01; February, 11.06; March, 11.08. Spot steady. Closed ten points higher. Middling uplands, 12.05; middling gulf, 12.20. Sales none.

Treasury Balances.

Copper Gossip.

Boston to Gay & Sturgis: After a steady opening the market became strong and there was a good volume of trading at advanced prices. The moment the demand slackened, the market gave away very easily and on the decline it became very dull. It looks for the present as though we would have to be contented with a trader's market. Sell on strong spots and buy on weak spots.

Boston to Paine, Webber & Co.: There was no change in the market today. The traders tried to rally Copper Range and North Butte this morning, but no buying orders came in and they were left with the stock on hand tonight. There is a rumor that the next Mohawk dividend may be increased, but we do not believe and think the stock high compared to Quincy, Osceola and Copper Range.

THE PRODUCE MARKET.

The following prices, with the exception of those on hay, feed and meats, are the official quotations of the Duluth Produce exchange and shippers can rely upon them as being correct. The list is corrected daily by the secretary, and it shows accurately the market conditions up to 12 o'clock on the date of issue. The weekly market letter, published on Fridays, is not an official statement of the exchange, but the information is gathered personally from the different dealers:
